"The government desires to see the most ample and complete liberty of worship established in this country, as it considers that it would not be just to deprive a Brazilian who is not a Catholic of a place in the Parliament, and insure in that way the autonomy of the individual. * * * Upon the rules of the party which defends the divine right has been inscribed the standard of popular sovereignty, a political dogma which is to-day proclaimed and recognized in the whole civilized world. * * * The government has shown by various signs of assent its adhesion to the principle of the equality of the religious sects. It cannot have escaped your notice that in recent decrees and acts of the executive power in reference to the College of Dom Pedro II. as well as in relation to the other and primary schools, there have been occasions when favoring the non Catholics. * * * As to the idea itself, there is not the least difference of opinion. The only question being one of opportunity. * * * The Fifth Article of the Constitution declares that all and every form of religion may be freely practised within the limits of the Empire, with this single restriction, that the religious exercise shall not be performed in a building with the external form of a temple; but when this restriction is literally interpreted it is not so good as some imagine." And in regard to the question as to how far the government can go at present in developing these opinions, he adds: "It is better, therefore, to wait not after the proposed reform giving the people a direct vote in the election of their representatives shall make more evident what is the wish of the people, before taking a step which has not yet the support of public opinion, and is not of such urgent importance as to be referred in the middle of election."

As to civil marriage he declared that the government would support any project properly guarded. This will probably soon be disposed of as the Deputies are discussing a reform of the Constitution admitting civil marriage and the secularization of the cemeteries. The exclusive privileges of the Papists are likely, therefore, soon to be abolished and Protestants to be admitted to equal rights in Brazil, one foremost of the South American governments.

Our Young People.

BELINDA BLONDE.

Belinda Blonde was a beautiful doll,
With rosy-red cheeks and a flaxen poll;
Her lips were red, and her eyes were blue,
But to say she was happy would not be true.
For she pined for love of the great big Jack
Who lived in the box so grim and black.
She never had looked on the Jack in his face,
But she fancied him ablaze with beauty and grace;
And all the day long she would murmur and pout,
Because Jack-in-the-box would never come out.
"Oh, beautiful, beautiful Jack in the box!
Come your knits and undo your locks!"
The cupboard is shut, and there's no one about;
Oh, Jack in the box! jump out, jump out!"
But, alas! alas for Belinda Blonde!
And, alas! alas for her dreamings fond!
There was soon an end to all her doubt,
For Jack-in-the-box really did jump out;
Out with a crash and out with a spring,
Had black and half scarlet, a horrible thing;
Out with a yell and out with a shout,
His great goggle eyes glaring wildly about.
"Alas! alas!" cried Belinda Blonde;
"Is this the end of my dreamings fond?
Is this my love and is this my dear,
This hideous, glaring monster here?
Alas! alas!" cried Belinda fair,
She wrung her hands and she tore her hair,
Till at length, as the dolls who were witnesses say,
She fell on the ground and she fainted away.

MORAL.

Now all you dolls, both little and big,
With China crown and with curling wig,
Before you give way to affectionate fond,
Remember the fate of Belinda Blonde,
And unless you wish to get terrible knocks,
Don't set your heart on Jack-in-the-box.

A Curious Pet.

DEAR MR. EDITOR: If you will permit me, I would like to tell your Little Friends about my pet spider. I am always interested when I read anything about spiders, and thought they might be. Last summer, as I was in the grove near our home, I saw a large yellow and black spider in the center of a web, which was round, and about eighteen inches across. It had three departments, and these were all attached to the long web which it had spun between two trees, a Live Oak and Sweetgum, which were about twenty feet apart, then it was made fast to a bush between the trees. The round web was just above the bush. The web glistened in the sun like spun gold, and was so high a grown person could walk under it on either side of the bush. I thought I would try to pet the spider, so I caught flies and mud daubers and threw them into the round web. The spider would jerk the web as if to see if the fly was fast—then run to it and catch it, wind it up and hang it in one of the departments, then repeat this operation until all were hung up. It would then feed upon them, and hang up the remains as if to dry—I have some of these remains. I always found the spider in one department, which I presume was its "parlor," its young were in another and its food in the third. So you see my wise pet had a parlor, nursery and dining room, and all made of the finest golden threads, even King "Solomon, in all his glory," had no such palace as my pretty spider. And so I visited, watched and fed my spider day after day for a month or more. It seemed to know me. It would leave its parlor and run out to the edge of the web when I would tap on the bottom edge, and then take the fly off and run back for another until I had given it all. I no longer threw the flies in the web but gently placed them on the round web and it would come without jerking the web as it did before. It was the fun for me to see it do so many curious things, and I had quite a tender feeling for it. I called it Goldy, and used to take my little friends out to see it. One day in the fall I went as usual to give my pet its dinner but it was gone, the beautiful golden palace was a total ruin and hung in shreds from either tree. With a feeling of sadness I gathered up the broken web, brought it to the house and wound it on a spool. I worked some book-marks with it in memory of my pet spider. I send our good editor one and hope that God may bless him and his "Little Friends" of the ADVOCATE kindly.

ALICE GAY SADLER.

WEST PEARL RIVER, April 22, 1879.

Note by the Editor.—We are much obliged to Miss Alice for her entertaining letter and her book-mark.

PASS CHRISTIAN, Miss., April 27, 1879.

DEAR MR. EDITOR: Our dear Father in Heaven has been so good as to raise up all of our sick, and I am in haste to show my gratitude, by aiding the little I may in sending His gospel to the heathen. This donation brings me up even, and I hope to be able to keep up in future. Our hearts are made glad by the knowledge that "Jesus loves us," and I hope ere long the good news will have reached the uttermost ends of the earth, and the millennium, the time long prayed for by the saints, may be ushered in, even in my day. Oh! would it be nice to go to our best Saviour without dying? This has ever been sadly in my way. The thought that I must rest alone and lay (all alone) in the grave before I go to Him who first loved me.

I wish Mr. Lansmith would write to us through the ADVOCATE of his Chinese schools. It is almost useless to say this small amount is for him—I think you might propose through your good paper that all the Methodist children in Louisiana would give monthly what each one is able to—I know the heathen would have the gospel if each would give what he or she be able to.

Your small friend and well wisher,
PEARL.

Note by the Editor.—The money is received and will be forwarded through Dr. Wilson our Missionary Secretary. We heartily wish all our people old and young would think of the mercies of God, and lay their thank offerings upon the Missionary altar.

The Fox, the Goat and the Carrots.

TRANSLATED FROM THE FRENCH.

Once a fox and a goat were walking together along a high road. After they had gone some distance, they saw a sack lying against a hedge.

"What do you think is inside that sack?" said the goat.

"I will go and see," replied the fox; and putting his nose into a hole tied lightly by a cord, he shook about the bag so much that the rope at last gave way, and the finest carrots one could wish for fell through the hole.

"They are for me," said the fox, "for I opened the sack."

"Yes," said the goat, "but I gave you the idea, and if you touch them I will tear your sides with my horns."

The fox looked at the goat's great horns and showed his teeth.

The goat, on seeing the fox's teeth, thought within herself, "I don't much like that kind of weapon."

And the fox said to himself, "I will not expose my sides to those formidable horns."

After a minute's silence the fox answered, "Why do we stand here looking at each other? What is the use of that? Let us see who is the stronger. Look, down there are two heaps of stones. You shall take one and I the other. He who shall first throw it over his head shall eat the carrots."

"Very well," said the goat. So they went to their heaps of stones.

The goat put her legs firmly together, and struck with her horns so forcibly that the ground resounded, but the heap did not shake.

"Am I to do not hit hard enough," said the fox.

The goat went three steps back and ran at the heap with all her strength. But crack! her horns broke!

When the fox saw that he began to skip about. "Oh, my dear friend," said he, "the carrots belong to me now."

"Not yet," said the goat; "you have not succeeded in your task yet. If you touch the carrots I will pierce your side with the remainder of my horns."

The fox looked at the goat and said to himself. "She has one left still which is almost whole; she will tear my sides with it."

"Well," said he, "I will knock down my heap, then; it is nothing for me."

He began to dig with his forepaws till he had made a great hole in the ground. The stones tottered and fell; but, alas! they fell on the fox and broke his left paw.

Then the two companions looked at one another—the one with her broken horns, the other with his broken paw.

"Run after the carrots," said the goat, maliciously; "I will give them up to you."

"I cannot," answered the fox, "my paw hurts me too much. Take them yourself."

"That is just what I am going to do," said the goat, and she ran up to the sack; but neither bag nor carrots were to be seen. While they were disputing, a peasant had gone by and carried all away.

A Boy who Gave his Note.

A Boston lawyer was called on a short time ago by a boy, who inquired if he had any waste paper to sell. The lawyer had a crisp, keen way of asking questions, and is, moreover, a methodical man. So, pulling out a large drawer, he examined his stock of waste paper.

"Will you give me two shillings for that?"

The boy looked at the paper doubtingly a moment and offered fifteen pence.

"Done," said the lawyer; and the paper was quickly transferred to the bag of the boy, whose eyes sparkled as to raise the mighty dead.

Not till it was safely stowed away did he announce that he had no money.

"No money! How do you expect to buy paper without money?"

Not prepared to state exactly his plan of operations, the boy made no reply.

"Do you consider your note good?" asked the lawyer.

"Yes, sir."

"Very well; if you consider your note is good, I'll just as soon have it as the money; but if it isn't good I don't want it."

The boy affirmed that he considered it good; whereupon the lawyer wrote a note for fifteen pence, which the boy signed legibly, and, lifting the bag of papers, trudged off.

Some after dinner the little fellow returned, and, producing the money, announced that he had come to pay his note.

"Well," said the lawyer, "that is the first time that I ever knew a note to be taken up the day it was given. A boy that will do that is entitled to note and money too;" and, giving him both, sent him on his way with a smiling face and happy heart.

The boy's note represented his honor. A boy who thus keeps his honor bright, however poor he may be in worldly things, is an heir to an inheritance which no riches can buy—the choice promises of God.

The Christian Advocate.

ORGAN OF THE ALABAMA, MISSISSIPPI AND LOUISIANA CONFERENCES OF THE M. E. CHURCH, SOUTH.

THURSDAY, MAY 8, 1879.

REV. LINUS PARKER, D. D., Editor.

OFFICE,—112 CAMP ST., NEW ORLEANS.

Where Is Your Faith?

The example of the Master seems to have been lost upon the disciples. He committed all to the Father, and slept profoundly. On the deep, and exposed to sudden and violent storms, his repose and sense of security are perfect. Not so the disciples. They are restless, troubled, and panic-struck finally. Strange it seemed to them that He should sleep on while the wind blew with fury, the boisterous waves broke over them, and the boat was filling. David, in time of trouble, had said: "I will both lay me down in peace and sleep; for thou, Lord, only makest me dwell in safety." Great David's greater Son sleeps also in peace, and feels no fear. The frame and deportment of the Master and of the disciples are in wide contrast. Afterward He said to them: "Peace I leave with you; my peace I give unto you." But they had not yet reached this "hidden source of calm repose." The lesson of the sleeping Christ, now given, was to be learned afterward.

For the time their faith was gone. They woke up the slumbering Saviour, only to tell him: "We perish." Did they think that all were about to perish together? We should rather gather from the narrative that they were not expecting a miraculous interposition. The stilling of the storm filled them with fear and wonder. It gave them a conception of the power of Christ, which the multiplication of the loaves and fishes had not done. Evidently they had not thought that this deliverance was at hand. All the miracles heretofore wrought did not suffice to inspire trust now. This was a new and a very different emergency, and they doubtless felt that Master and disciples were about to be lost.

But, admitting that their awakening cry, "We perish," was an expression of faith in Christ, it was not the highest faith. Where was their faith in God? What about the Heavenly Father, of whom they had been taught to believe that his care for them was minute and personal? Jesus had taken pains to instruct them in this matter of providence: that the hairs of their head were all numbered, and that God, their Father, had ever a watchful eye to their welfare in things small and great. If there was a sort of faith in waking the Saviour, not to have awakened Him would have shown a stronger and better faith. They verily thought, however, that they were all about to perish, and such was their alarm that all these teachings concerning Providence, and the import of Christ's recent miracles, were utterly forgotten. There had been strong confessions of faith on their part long before this storm came, and, under other circumstances, they had probably said: "We will never more doubt or falter in our trust." But when the trial comes, they are mastered by their terrors, and in a frenzy of despair give themselves up for lost. The cry, "Master, Master, we perish," was a cry of despair rather than of faith. Their deliverance was accompanied with the rebuke, "Where is your faith?" and the wonder which that deliverance excited reveals how little faith they had.

And the story, in effect, is often repeated in the Christian annals. A storm comes down upon us, a sudden gust of misfortune, personal peril by land or water, great and sore troubles of one kind or another, and the trust we ought to have, and the faith we thought we had, are not in us. We forget all about the sweet and restful doctrines of Divine Providence, and the loving care and infinite power of the blessed Christ. In our extremity and fright it verily seems as though we were going down, while the Father is far from us, and the Saviour slumbers. The storm is permitted to reveal to us the great need of the soul, to unmask the evil heart of unbelief that lurks within. What we would not learn by other means, God seeks to teach us by this. And along with the chidings for our distrust comes the manifestation of condescending mercy and power. The calm and the quiet haven are after the storm.

The Colored Methodist Episcopal Church in America.

A correspondent wishes for information in regard to this organization. In compliance with his request, and for the information of others, we would state that our General Conference of 1866 directed that the Bishops should organize our colored membership into an independent ecclesiastical body, if the colored people desired it, and whenever the Bishops deemed it expedient. Under this authorization, the Bishops formed several Annual Conferences composed of colored preachers belonging to our communion. The General Conference of 1870 renewed the authority, upon the former terms, for a separate General Conference jurisdiction of the colored churches, and passed the following resolution: "That all trustees now holding church property for the use of our colored membership be instructed to make titles to said property to the properly constituted trustees of the Colored Methodist Episcopal Church, South, according to the discipline of said church, when organized."

Our Bishops called for them a General Conference, to meet in Jackson, Tenn., December 16, 1870. Eight Annual Conferences sent delegates, elected on the basis of our discipline. Two of our Bishops were present and presided, by whom, on the twenty-first of December, two superintendents, elected by the body, were ordained. A discipline was adopted, agreeing in creed and polity with our discipline, and but slightly changed in its statutory provisions. They chose for their name and title: "The Colored Methodist Episcopal Church in America."

The present statistics of the body are not within our reach. In May, 1874 as appears from the report of our Bishops to the General Conference, on the religious condition of the colored people, the Colored Methodist Episcopal Church in America had 4 Bishops, 15 Annual Conferences, 607 travelling preachers, 518 local preachers, 34 709 members, 535 Sunday-schools, 1 102 teachers, and 49 955 Sunday-school scholars. A communication from the church was received by our General Conference at Atlanta, May, 1878, but it does not appear in the printed journal, and hence we cannot give the statistics which that communication probably contained. The committee, however, to which the communication was referred, reported the following resolutions, which were adopted without dissent:

1. That the Colored Methodist Episcopal Church in America has still, as it has always heretofore had, our warmest sympathy and most cordial Christian affection.

2. That we direct all Boards of Trustees among us still holding title to property erected for the use of our colored members, to transfer the title to trustees duly appointed by the Colored Methodist Episcopal Church in America, whenever this can be done without violation of State laws or contravention of the vested rights of congregations.

3. That we earnestly recommend to our people everywhere to give substantial aid to the efforts made by our brethren of the Colored Methodist Episcopal Church to establish institutions for the improvement of their people, believing that no worthier object of Christian liberality appeals to them for assistance.

Our Bishops in their report to the General Conference of 1874 say: "Thus organized, and with our best advice and blessing, the Colored Methodist Episcopal Church in America was started upon its career. They have their mission; it is no important one, and in some sense peculiar. They have kept faithfully, so far as we are advised, to the rules adopted for their guidance, and to the work proposed to be done. We believe they are doing good. It is characteristic of this colored church that they guard against being subsidized by politicians. One rule of their Discipline is that their church-houses shall not be used for political speeches or assemblies. While exercising their right as citizens unrestrained, they are endeavoring to keep their religious assemblies from that complication with political parties and demagogues that has been so damaging to the spiritual interests of the colored people of the South."

The Colored Methodist Episcopal Church in America has special claims, and should be aided and fostered by our ministers and people. The properly accredited preachers of this church should be met cordially by our pastors, and, as far as possible, assisted in their work. The action of our General Conference shows that we have not been indifferent to the religious welfare of the colored people. We have done what we could for them, and are still extending to them our aid and sympathy. We would urge presiding elders, pastors, and all our people, to do everything in their power for the church which we have helped them to organize. Their religious welfare should be studied and promoted by all legitimate means. They need the counsel and help of our churches, and they should be liberally aided in the establishment of schools, and in the building of churches. We ought, also, to take special interest in furnishing them with religious literature.

Prayer and Missions.

BY DR. A. W. WILSON.

The missionary work of our church needs something more and better than money. No great religious movement has ever been successfully carried through by mere abundance of resources. The first requisite is prayer; and the contributions must be sanctified by prayer; and the final endeavor of the workman in the field can attain success only upon condition that it be accompanied with prayer. We need money for the outfit and maintenance of the laborers; but the Lord of the harvest must send them forth, and the Master has commanded us to pray that He would do it. The wisdom that is required to plan and direct the movement is given in answer to prayer. The liberality to which we must look for the means to carry on the work is a grace that will be imparted only in answer to prayer.

The earnestness and importunity of a man's prayers represent his real interest in the work, and this will express itself in his contributions. His gifts, then, will be, in turn, the exponents of his personal concern, and will have in them the gracious and acceptable element of sacrifice. It is small advantage to a church to have a full treasury that represents no prayerful, sacrificing spirit. Laodicean wealth may tell of Laodicean lukewarmness, and bring rejection and ruin. It is hard to choose between this and a populous and wealthy church that suffers the treasury of its Lord to be empty. In this latter there is surely lack of prayer, and that shows small concern for the Lord's work, and wholly inadequate appreciation of His presence in the church, and His personal claim upon it. In any view of it, the question resolves itself into a religious one. The missionary enterprise and success of the church depend upon the realization of the living relation between it and Christ.

First of all, then, we earnestly solicit the unceasing prayer of all the church that the Lord of the harvest would send forth laborers; that He may awaken in His people convictions of duty, and obligation that shall constrain them to make liberal and generous provision for His work; that He will open the way for His workmen, and multiply the fruit of their labors.

With this let every one that calls upon the name of the Lord seek to know His mind, what He would have His church do. It is not an exaggeration to say that one-half of our people have no distinct notion of the nature and claims of the mission work. They do not search the Scriptures, nor do they trouble themselves to find out the movements of the church. They willfully are ignorant of the relations between the church and the unsaved and unenlightened world, and of their personal obligations in the case. Let the preachers give them no excuse for want of knowledge.

When we know these things, and do them, happy are we.

Death of Rev. James E. Cobb.

A note from Rev. James L. Wright, Trenton, April 28, informs us that "Rev. J. E. Cobb died at the residence of Col. T. C. Standifer, in this place, to-day at ten minutes before twelve o'clock A. M. He has been delirious for several days, with intervals of rationality. Has been sick and confined to bed just forty-three days. He was constantly happy in God. Never complained." We had known for some time that Bro. Cobb was in a critical condition, but, along with some who were with him in his sickness, we cherished the hope that he would recover. It has been otherwise ordered, and we are called to mourn the loss of one of the purest and most devoted of our comrades in the ministry. Bro. Cobb had been thirty years an itinerant preacher, and had filled several very important positions in the service of the church. He was editor of the Memphis Christian Advocate for four years, president of a female college at Arkadelphia, Ark., for several years, and for four years president of Homer College, Louisiana. He conducted and edited a religious paper at Little Rock for some time, and he was the author of a work of decided merit on Faith. He was a preacher of consuming earnestness, and a clear and logical thinker. His career as presiding elder in the Louisiana Conference was eminently successful, and his footprints on the Opelousas district will not fade out for many years to come. He was a laborious student, a discriminating but industrious reader, and an able and zealous defender of Methodist doctrines. He was a man of intellect, of excellent attainments, and, above all, a man wholly consecrated to the work of Christ. He believed, preached, and experienced a full salvation.

Of a rather frail constitution, he probably shortened his life by intense and protracted ministerial labors. His zeal knew no abatement, and he seemed always to work fully up to, and often beyond, the measure of his strength. At the session of the Conference at New Orleans in January last, he appeared to be in tolerable health, but even then, we suppose, the vital powers were near exhaustion. We do not know Bro. Cobb's age, but suppose that he must have been, at the time of his death, about fifty-five years old. He had been a widower for years, and, we believe, but one child—a daughter—survives him. In 1866 he was a member of the General Conference, which met in New Orleans, from the Ouachita Conference, and the family with whom he stayed still remember and feel the godly influence of his piety upon them. He was also a member of the late General Conference at Atlanta, Ga., and was an active participant in the business of the session. Honored, respected and beloved by his brethren, and held in affectional esteem by the people whom he served, he has been called to the better land. The death of such a man could not have been otherwise than triumphant. We can well believe that "he was constantly happy in God." In life he was a man of prayer, living and laboring with a single eye, and he has finished his course in peace.

The following memoranda comprise the Conference and ministerial history of Bro. Cobb as far as we are able to trace it: Admitted on trial in the Arkansas Conference in the fall of 1848, and stationed at Camden; stationed at Arkadelphia in 1849; agent of the American Bible Society in 1850; ordained elder in 1851, and agent of American Bible Society; editor of the Memphis Christian Advocate in 1852-55; transferred to St. Louis Conference, and appointed to Lexington, November, 1856; in October, 1857, transferred to Ouachita Conference; in 1858 appointed to Columbus African mission; Arkadelphia station in 1859; president and agent of Arkadelphia Female College in 1860; Arkadelphia station, and president of Arkadelphia Female College, in 1861; agent of Arkadelphia Female College in 1862; Arkadelphia station in 1863; agent for Trans-Mississippi Army Tract Society in 1864; Little Rock station and colored charge, with W. P. Ratcliff, in 1865. The General Conference of 1866 changed the name of Ouachita to Little Rock Conference. Bro. Cobb remained in the Little Rock Conference until 1870. In January, 1870, he was transferred to the Louisiana Conference, and appointed president of Homer College, which position he filled for four consecutive years. He was presiding elder of the Opelousas District 1874, '75, '76, '77; New Iberia, with M. C. Manley, in 1878. His last appointment was presiding elder of the Delhi district, January, 1879.

Letter from Dr. McFerrin.

MR. EDITOR: As the time for our May meeting approaches, we feel much interest in the forthcoming reports:

1. How have the Bishops been supported? Will the reports show that the church has measured up to its duty in this particular? These faithful servants of the church should be amply sustained. They spend all their time in the service of the church; have no leisure hours to devote to worldly interests, and have many demands upon their liberality. Perhaps but few persons are aware of the many calls that are made upon ministers occupying prominent places in the church; and their generous nature, and the high sense of religious duty, will not allow them to decline. Moreover, they are to be examples of hospitality and Christian liberality. Pay your Bishops, and do it cheerfully. They are worthy.

2. The church at large is looking with solicitude to the missionary report. We hope for an advanced step in the direction of the world's conversion. Our Missionary Secretary has been working with a will, and has earnestly sought the zealous cooperation of the ministers and members of the church, men, women and children. He has had hard times in money matters with which to contend, and yet we hope the outcome will be encouraging. New demands are upon the church for sending the gospel to heathen and superstitious lands.

3. "Last, but not least," is the Publishing House. Ten months have elapsed since the General Conference adjourned, and now the question is asked: What has been done? What can be done? What will be done?

I trust our report will be satisfactory. We have strong hope that we will save the House. Our business is increasing, the eyes of the church seem to turn this way, and we hope for a hearty co-operation of the friends and members of the church in all portions of the connection. This is what we need. The House can prosper, will prosper, and make a grand success if we can properly manage the concern, and have the good will and generous patronage of those who ought to sustain it.

Our publications are going off well, especially the Christian Advocate and Sunday-school papers. Our song book, "New Life," is a success. It is selling rapidly. Round notes or patent notes, $30 per hundred; without notes, $10 per hundred. Our Quarterly Conference Record, Sunday-School Record and Church Registers are highly approved. The Discipline, Hymn Book and others are having a comfortable sale. We are creating no new debts. We pay as we go, and hope soon to be able to say that the $300 000 has been subscribed for the four per cent. bonds.

Ask your readers to look this way. He that subscribes for a bond, takes the Christian Advocate, buys our Sunday-school literature, or purchases one of our books, and pays his accounts, helps the House.

Let every man do his duty, and all things will move on smoothly, and we will witness a day of prosperity.

Yours,

J. B. McFERRIN.

NASHVILLE, April 24, 1879.

Here and There.

—The recent decision of the United States Supreme Court, concerning the jurors' test oath, is not exactly as to its constitutionality, but it is calculated to make the obnoxious law practically inoperative, and to strip it of much of its evil effects. The substance of the decision is reported as follows:

—The case of Burt against Poujaud, above referred to, one of the assignments of error in the court below brought up the question of jurors' disqualifications, on account of participation in the rebellion, and the constitutionality of the jurors' test oath act. This court holds, in opinion by Justice Miller, that the juror is no more obliged than the witness is to state on oath as to the condition of qualification, his guilt or innocence of the crime which would render him infamous, whether pardoned by general amnesty or not.

The crime of treason is one which the juror cannot be required to disclose in this manner. If he be guilty, his challenger must prove it by other competent testimony. In a separate concurring opinion Justice Field gave his views as follows: I agree with the court that the juror Holmes, in this case, could not be required to answer questions put to him, but I go further: I do not think that the act of Congress which, by requiring a test oath as to past conduct, which excludes a great majority of the citizens of half the country from the jury box, is valid.

In my judgment the act is not only oppressive and odious—repugnant to the spirit of our institutions—but is clearly unconstitutional and void. As a war measure, to be enforced in the insurgent States when dominated by national forces, the act could be sustained; but after the war was over, and the insurgent States were restored to their normal and constitutional relations to the Union, it was as much out of place, and as inoperative as would be a law quartering a soldier in every Southern man's house.

—We are glad to observe that our city authorities are moving in earnest to suppress the barbarous custom of carrying concealed weapons. The police have instructions to arrest all upon whom concealed weapons are found, and one man, brought up before Judge Whitaker last week, was fined $50. Let the law be enforced until this evil shall be abated.

—The Interior of April 24 says:

The Socialists made an armed demonstration in Chicago last Sabbath, parading armed military companies to the number of 400 men, who were followed by an unarmed procession. This demonstration has only one significance, and that is a menace against constituted authority and society as at present organized. So we drift, and so we shall drift, until those agrarian fanatics strike a blow. Their capacity for mischief should not be underestimated. The reaction which will follow may go so far as to reconstruct the laws regulating the elective franchise. It is to be noted that while the communists were parading the streets, uttering threats against society, Bob Ingersoll was in Haverly's Theater, deriding Christianity. Those two baleful stars are binary.

Communism and infidelity are, indeed, near kindred. Unqualified suffrage gives power to those misguided and evil-minded classes, and enables them to influence the political parties. But will our friends of the North and West ever go back on their boasted manhood suffrage? The cure of socialism will baffle and perplex the political and social doctors for a long time to come. The world can have peace only through the gospel.

—Rev. Sia Sek Ong preached at the Methodist Annual Conference in Foochow, China, last October, on the word "Go." The New York Christian Advocate reports his sermon as follows:

"Leave father, mother, friends, fields; preachers go thus; world-men don't like to go in that fashion. Where must we go? To the sea; go for the fish; they are not on the surface, they are in the depths. We may find shrimps in shallow water, but we must go to the deep water for the large fish. Go to the mountains to seek the lost sheep. There are lions and tigers and snakes in the mountains; but we must go, not to find sport, but to find the sheep. Go to the vineyard, to work, to watch, to plant, to water. Go to the field to sow seed. Study the soil, and sow accordingly. Field work is not play. Go to the market-place and bid guests to the Master's feast. Go into the army to fight, to wrestle with the devil, to put forth your strength, and to come home singing songs of victory.

"Ask the Master for Peter's hook to bring up the right fish; for David's crook to guide the sheep aright; for Gideon's torch to light up the dark places; for gospel seed without any tares in it; for Moses' guiding rod; for the brazen serpent, to cure the bites of the world's snakes; for David's sling, to prostrate your giant foe; for the armor inventoried by Paul in the last chapter of Ephesians; and, above all, for the wonderful Holy Spirit to help at all times. If we have all these, it is no matter where we go. We will come with rejoicing to Conference next year, with songs and shouts of victory."

A very fair sermon. We have heard worse from doctors of divinity. Indeed, for pith and point, we have seldom heard a better. These Chinese are a going people. Only get them converted, and the world will be filled with missionaries.

—Early last week the President vetoed the Army Appropriation Bill, which contained an amendment prohibiting the use of troops at the polls. This amendment has now been framed into a separate bill, and will pass both Houses in a few days. The Republican caucus has declared in favor of firm and unyielding opposition to the bill even in its present shape. The other amendments repealing election laws will also be embodied in bills separate from the legislative appropriation bills, and will be passed in that form. The appropriation bills, in the meantime, will be held back until the President either vetoes or approves the election bills. Should the latter be vetoed, then the question will be with the majority to decide whether the appropriations shall be granted or withheld.

—Quarantine is at this time an absorbing question. Bills are before Congress—one especially reported to the House, and recommitted. Nothing as yet, however, has been definitely decided. There is an indisposition to pass a national quarantine law that shall interfere with the quarantine laws of the several States. The port of New Orleans is at this time rigidly quarantined against vessels from yellow fever countries, and our Board of Health and Sanitary Association are actively engaged, in connection with the city authorities, in cleaning up things generally.

—The opposition in the North to holding camp meetings over Sunday is based, we suppose, upon the tendency to desecrate the day by traveling on railroad trains, and otherwise. Our camp meetings in the South are mostly rural and neighborhood affairs, off from the lines of travel, and not much open to these objections. Still it is well to be on our guard. The following item is suggestive:

The late New England Methodist Conference at Worcester voted 81 to 41 "that the Conference is opposed to holding camp meetings over Sunday."

A Young Men's Christian Association has recently been organized in Mobile, Ala. A correspondent of the Southwestern Presbyterian says:

On Monday, April 17, an election of officers resulted in the choice of the following gentlemen: Wm. J. Murrell, M. D., president; Mr. P. J. Bajorade, vice president; Mr. J. Howland, secretary; Mr. Geo. S. Moore, treasurer; Mr. Chas. W. Jackson, librarian. The constitution which has been adopted contains, besides the usual necessary provisions for the government of a society, the following articles and sections differing from or in addition to the laws that govern other associations:

ART. III, Sec. 1.—The qualifications for active membership shall be good and regular standing as members of evangelical churches. Sec. 3.—The pastors of evangelical churches of Mobile are entitled to active membership.

ART. IV, Sec. 3.—No fees or dues shall be demanded of any minister of the gospel who shall become a member of the association.

ART. VI.—Provides for an Executive Committee, to be composed of the officers of the association and one pastor of a church of each denomination represented in the association. This committee has general oversight of affairs, and shall consider and report upon new members before their admission by the association.

The same article provides for an Advisory Committee, to consist of the pastors of the churches represented in the association which have become members of it. They shall have access to all the records of the association, and have the right to introduce measures or report for or against any measure introduced to the consideration of any meeting. They shall appoint their own chairman, and meet as they may agree among themselves.

ART. VIII—No expense shall be incurred by this association unless means are previously provided to pay it.

ART. IX—Sec. 2.—No member of this association shall, in the name of the association, hold any religious service or engage in any religious enterprise which is disapproved by the Advisory Committee. Sec. 3—This association shall neither aid nor countenance persons who are not ministers of the gospel in conducting religious services or enterprises in such a manner as to encroach upon the privileges of ordained ministers.

New Subscribers

Are coming in rapidly, we are pleased to state, and the results of the canvass, on the part of a few that have gone actively to work, illustrates what can be done by all with a proper effort, and with a suitable degree of spirit infused in the work. That our subscription list can readily be doubled has been demonstrated practically by the active workers that have reported thus far. This week we have a live report from Bro. Martin Dominick, of Brush Creek, Ala., who sends us 22 new subscribers and 9 renewals, with $62, and there is ample field room for others to do as well, and even better. Alabama, so far, is the banner State, having sent 270; Mississippi has sent 160, and Louisiana 70 new subscribers since February 1, and this work has been done by a very limited number. We trust a spirit of emulation will spread among all our agents to do their best to circulate the ADVOCATE. There are a few laymen who are rendering valuable service. In other years the ladies have done much to extend our circulation. Will they not come to our help now, and work for the ADVOCATE? They are most efficient in Sunday-schools, in missions, and in raising money for the support of the churches. It is in their power to aid us most effectively in obtaining subscribers.

It is our purpose to adopt the cash system as soon as practicable, say from and after the beginning of a new volume, January 1, 1880.

A Good Enterprise.

We have received a circular from Dr. Haygood, president of Emory College, Oxford, Ga., announcing that "Emory Normal School" will begin on Wednesday, July 16, 1879, and will continue six weeks, ending August 27. The method of instruction is by lectures, by able and competent men. There will be twelve regular lectures in each of the following departments: English, Mathematics, Latin, Greek, Natural Science, Elementary Schools, Vocal Music, and six special lectures. Fifty dollars will cover all expenses, including board.

We call attention to this enterprise of Dr. Haygood, because it is a movement that has been long needed. Good teachers are in demand, and the facilities afforded for their instruction and training by good normal schools will contribute greatly to the educational interests of the country. We heartily wish that the Emory Normal School may be abundantly successful, and that it may be the forerunner of several schools of like character, to be established in connection with our Southern colleges. The Emory school is for teachers and other adults, and will be open to ladies as well as gentlemen. Announcements will be sent to any desiring them, on application to Dr. Atticus G. Haygood, Oxford, Ga.

The late Deacon Asa Otis, of New London, Conn., has left, says the New York Observer, nearly three-quarters of a million of dollars to different religious societies and colleges, the American Board of Commissioners being made residuary legatee. The following are the specific benevolent bequests:

Yale College Theological Seminary	$25,000
Amherst College	25,000
Hulkeley High School, New London	10,000
Bacon Academy, Colchester	10,000
First Ecclesiastical Society of New London	10,000
Am. Board of Com. for For. Miss	10,000
American Home Mission Society	5,000
American Bible Society	5,000
American Tract Society	5,000
Lewis Female Cent. Soc., New London	1,000

The amount which the American Board will receive, as residuary legatee, is estimated at half a million, the value of the estate, at the lowest estimate, being $750,000. The gift to Yale College is to be designated "The Abel McEwen Fund," in memory of Rev. Abel McEwen, D. D., formerly of New London, deceased, and for many years one of the corporators of the College. A New London paper says: "The executors nominated in the will are William C. Crump, Peter C. Turner and William H. Chapman, gentlemen to whom even these great trusts can be safely committed."

Among our Field Notes this week will be found a few lines from Rev. H. H. Montgomery, of the Mississippi Conference. We regret to learn that he is in declining health. Bro. Montgomery has rendered long and efficient service in the church, and, we trust, through the considerate kindness of friends, he will be enabled to obtain a few month's rest and recuperation in a more bracing climate. In a matter of so much delicacy, and of such evident justice, a word is sufficient. Our aged and invalid ministers, who have labored faithfully, are entitled to such generous courtesies as many of our liberal laymen know how to bestow.

A teacher, writing from Bolling, Ala., sends us the following note, with $2 enclosed. The example is a good one. That school will prosper yet:

DEAR EDITOR: We have been trying for two years to keep up a Sabbath-school at this place to supply in part the "lack of church privileges," but have dwindled to less than our original number. Those "little ones" who occasionally meet here (at the suggestion of a teacher) have contributed of their own earnings a small sum ($2) for foreign missions, which you will find enclosed, and will please acknowledge through your columns for their encouragement. Yours, etc.,

A TEACHER.

Dr. Warren Du Pre, president of Martha Washington College, Abingdon, Va., died April 25. A good and useful man has fallen. Prof. Hoss, writing to the Southern Christian Advocate, says:

With a great grief I announce the death of Dr. Warren Du Pre, president of Martha Washington College. He departed this life to-day, at four P. M., after a brief illness of one week. The whole community is smitten as if with a personal bereavement. The stricken family has the profoundest sympathy of a wide circle of friends.

We were glad to receive a call on Monday, of this week, from Rev. Dr. John, editor of the Texas Christian Advocate. He reports his paper as growing rapidly in circulation and in general favor. Methodism in Texas is in a prosperous condition, and spreading fruitfully all over those broad lands. Dr. John left New Orleans on Monday evening, May 5, for Nashville, to attend the meeting of the Board of Missions.

We are informed by a private letter, says the Nashville Christian Advocate, that Science Hill Female College, so ably conducted for more than fifty years by Mrs. Tevis, at Shelbyville, Ky., has been purchased by the Rev. W. T. Poynter, Kentucky Conference, and T. W. Jordan, Professor of Greek and Latin Languages in Emory and Henry College, Va.—formerly the popular Professor of Latin in the Kentucky Wesleyan College at Millersburg. The Institution will be opened under its new regime in the fall.

Rev. George M. Liverman, writing from Keachie, DeSoto parish, La., May 1, 1879, says: "Our new church at Keachie will be completed soon, and a gem it will be for this country—the nicest frame building I ever saw, 31 by 57 feet, 16½ feet high, 60 feet to top of steeple. Much obliged to Bro. Rayne for a weather vane."

The Baton Rouge Daily Advocate of April 30, referring to our church, says:

Workmen have finished work on the outside of the Methodist Church and now have up their scaffolding inside to repair and kalsomine the inside walls. When the work is done this will be the finest church-edifice outside of New Orleans.

Says the Nashville Christian Advocate: A note from the Rev. D. R. H. Rivers, Auburn, Ala., April 3, says: "Last night we held a meeting. Brother Mangum, our presiding elder preached us an excellent sermon. We had sixty at the altar for prayer, and six professed religion. We hope and expect great times. There were about fifty of those who asked our prayers the cadets of the A. and M. College."

The proposition, says the Central Christian Advocate, before the Missouri Legislature to submit to the vote of the people an amendment prohibiting the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquors, as a beverage, has passed the House by vote of eighty-three to seventeen. The vote will be closer in the Senate, but we are not without hopes it may carry the vote of the majority.

Mary Paul, a granddaughter of the famous privateer, John Paul Jones, lately died in Scotland at the age of seventy nine. Her ancestor's name was really John Paul—when he entered the privateering business he added the "Jones."

Books and Periodicals.

—The following books, published by the American Tract Society, have been received through the Presbyterian Book Depository, 94 Camp street, New Orleans, D. L. Mitchell, business agent:

JONAS KING. Missionary to Syria and Greece. By F. E. H. H. American Tract Society. New York. Dr. King died at Athens, Greece, May 22, 1868, after a missionary career of nearly fifty years. His biography is a history of Protestant missions in the East for the past half century; and embraces information of the most entertaining and valuable character. The volume is a 12mo of 372 pages.

FROLIC AT MAPLE GROVE. By Mrs. M. F. Butts. A story with illustrations. Price, seventy-five cents.

A THORNY PATH. By Hesba Stretton. An illustrated story. Price, eighty cents.

HELEN GRAY. What She Sought, and What She Found. Charlotte M. Packard. An illustrated story. Price, eighty cents.

JIM'S MAKE UP. By Miss Joanna H. Mathews and David Upton. Price, thirty cents, illustrated.

MABEL, OR TINY STORIES FOR TINY PEOPLE. By Elmer Lyunde. A story for the youngest readers. Price, forty cents.

All of the above are gotten up with the elegance and beauty which usually mark the works issued by the American Tract Society. The story books are religious, of course, and are as well written as books of the kind generally are.

HEROES OF BOHEMIA; Huss, Jerome and Zisca. By the Rev. John W. Meirs, D. D. Philadelphia: Presbyterian Board of Publication.

These were heroes indeed, and the world and the church need to read about them, and, under the inspiration of such examples to gird up the loins and to be strong for the truth. Dr. Meirs tells the story of these noted Bohemians in plain style, but with earnestness and clearness, and with no excess of words. The volume is a 12mo of 350 pages and contains a map and index.

HOME WORSHIP. A series of topical prayers for use in the family circle. By the late James W. Weir. Philadelphia: Presbyterian Board of Publication.

A handsome and attractive volume of 318 duodecimo pages. The prayers, we judge, are good, and may be edifying to read, and of some value for use, although we doubt of the general utility of such compositions.

—Thoughts for the Day, with Bible readings for a year. American Tract Society. This is a wall roll of 31 sheets, in large and ornamented type, containing selections of Scripture, verses of sacred poetry, and references suitable. The sheets are attached to a wooden roller, and there is a cord by which they may be suspended against a wall. For sale at the Presbyterian Depository, 74 Camp street.

—"Joy Bells" is the title of another book of songs and music for the Sunday-school. By W. A. Ogden. Toledo, O.: W. W. Whitney, publisher. It is a very good collection; considerably better than the average of works of the kind. Verily, the Sunday-schools are blessed with abundance of singing-books. If the children do not learn to sing it will not be for want of books. Price of Joy Bells, single copy, thirty five cents; $30 per one hundred copies.

—The Raleigh Christian Advocate has changed its form, and is now an eight page paper. We think the change an improvement in the way of appearance.

—The Sanitarian for May contains a number of able articles, and a rich store of information on matters of hygiene and medicine.

—The University of Virginia Catalogue, fifty-fifth session, 1878-9, has been received.

Publisher's Department.

While the columns of the ADVOCATE are freely open to the insertion of such advertisements from the business public as we believe will be of benefit to our readers, parties must judge for themselves as to the merits of the goods advertised. In ordering please mention the ADVOCATE.

CLUB RATES.

The NEW ORLEANS CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE and the Nashville Christian Advocate will be sent to same address for one year on receipt of $3 50.

The NEW ORLEANS CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE and the Texas Christian Advocate will be sent to same address for one year on receipt of $4.

The NEW ORLEANS CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE and Frank Leslie's Sunday Magazine will be sent to same address for one year on receipt of $4, or to ministers for $3 50. Each paper to be mailed from its own office.

SPECIMEN COPIES

of the ADVOCATE will be mailed when desired to facilitate agents in securing subscribers. Pastors will confer a favor by announcing this fact and forwarding names to the publisher.

THE air of perfection, cleanliness and home-like comfort which is so apparent at the American Home, Boston, is one of the characteristic features of that well-regulated establishment. To those disposed to economize this popular hotel offers an opportunity seldom found at so thoroughly a first class house, having reduced its rates to $3 and $3 50 per day.

CLEARANCE SALE.—Look at J. A. Braselman's advertisement, in this issue, if you want bargains. Drop in and see him.

W. C. SHEPARD & Co. Set fruit jars; Mason pints, $1; quarts, $1 25; two quarts $1 50; American China dinner sets, $15 $18. Equal in looks and usefulness as French China. 19

TRAVELER'S GUIDE. This guide is the best extant in this country, and is recognized by the National General Ticket Agent's Association as the organ of their association. For sale everywhere.

OPELOUSAS PACKET.—If you want to go as a passenger, or if you want to send your freight to Washington, Opelousas, Port Barre, and other landings on the coast, the Yazoo is your boat. The officers are all accommodating. Our friends on the coast should send their freight by this line to the city. Capt. Hite, 142 Gravier street, is the agent. One of our best citizens.

CURE FOR CHILLS.—For chills, fever, and all malarial diseases, there is no better preparation than Dr. Wilhoft's anti periodic. It is simply a preparation of Peruvian bark without quinine or other dangerous drugs. We have known the doctor for years, and it is a pleasure for us to recommend his preparation, feeling that it will do all that the advertisement sets forth.

EXCURSION ROUTE.—The elegant passenger steamers of the Anchor Line leave New Orleans on Wednesdays and Fridays, at five o'clock P. M. for St. Louis, connecting at that point with the principal railroads for all places North, East and West. The trip up the river at this season of the year is perfectly delightful, and our readers who propose spending the summer away will find this the most desirable route to take.

THE reasons why you should take the Great Jackson route are that it is the quickest to New York and Boston, the only line to Louisville and Cincinnati, eleven hours the quickest and the only route without change of cars to Chicago, six and a half hours ahead of St. Louis, with practically no change of cars, and only one night on the trip against two by any other line. It is a perfectly safe, smooth and comfortable road to travel; mainly steel track, and its rolling-houses are entirely new, and the best in the South.

ONE very significant reason why E. H. Adams & Bro., 594 Magazine street, enjoy the unqualified confidence of lovers of dry goods seekers is the palpable evidence of their desire to serve all visitors alike, evinced by marking on each article in the store the only price at which it can be purchased. Every intelligent person deems such a system more equitable than the "beating down" one—well knowing that sellers who tolerate the latter invariably name a higher price than they expect to get, and that purchasers are consequently under the impression that they are more skilled than themselves in managing could have obtained a greater reduction than it is said.

BALTIMORE AND OHIO RAILROAD. Passengers by this admirably managed road are profuse in praise of its accommodations. The sleeping cars are the finest of the many elegant cars that leave Cincinnati. The track and road bed being necessarily kept in such perfect order, no unpleasantness or disagreeable jolting can be felt. All the modern contrivances for the safety of passengers, that have any merit are in use on this line. Accidents are hardly known. In addition to speed and safety are all of the enjoyment of a view of mountain and valley scenery which in point of beauty and grandeur cannot be surpassed. Passing the far-famed Alleghanies, the romantic valley of the Potomac, and scenes rendered forever sacred by many of the most thrilling incidents connected with the early history of the country in its struggle for independence. Those that have never traveled this way should try it once, and you will take it in preference to all others.

BLOUNT SPRINGS, ALA.—There is no pleasanter place to spend the coming summer than at Blount Springs. We are much pleased to learn that S. D. Holt, Esq., has placed this favorite retreat, for the season, in his well-provided with all those comforts and luxuries of life. Thousands will endure great fatigue to reach Northern resorts, and after the exhaustion of a long trip, will find themselves far less comfortable than those who breathe the pure air of Blount Springs, Ala. The waters of the springs are excellent for all chronic diseases, especially for dispepsia, rheumatism, etc. See advertisement.

BUSINESS NOTICES.

POZZONI'S MEDICATED COMPLEXION POWDER is acknowledged by thousands of ladies, who use it daily, to be the only preparation that does not roughen the skin, chap, blister, or leave black spots in the pores. Mothers can apply it to infants who become chafed with a surety of immediate relief. Removes all eruptions. Price, 50 cents and $1 per box. Sold by druggists, and at depot, 607 North Sixth street, St. Louis (Lindell Hotel.)

WHAT IT WILL DO.

Maguire's Cubebranga not only removes derangement of the stomach, cures liver complaint, corrects flatulency, but also opens the bowels and promotes healthful circulation of the blood thereby preventing attacks of yellow and other fevers.

For Bronchial, Asthmatic and Pulmonary Complaints and Coughs and Colds, "Brown's Bronchial Troches" manifest remarkable curative properties.

WE congratulate Messrs. Wheelock, Finlay & Co., of New Orleans, La., upon their happy choice of agents to the public in introducing to the patients of Dr. F. Wilhoft's Anti Periodic or Fever and Ague Tonic, which of late has gained such well deserved popularity among the people. As all know this is the only proprietary remedy in existence of Chills and Fever the composition of which is not kept a secret. For sale by all druggists.

A GOOD ACCOUNT.—"To sum it up, six long years of bed ridden sickness and suffering, costing $200 per year, total, $1 200—all of which was stopped by three bottles of Hop Bitters taken by my wife, who has done her own housework for a year since without the loss of a day, and I want everybody to know it for their benefit."

JOHN WEEKS, Butler, N. Y.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

CO-PARTNERSHIP.

THE undersigned have formed a copartnership for the purpose of conducting the Book and Stationery Business, at 112 Camp st., under the firm name of LATHROP & WILKINS, succeeding to the business heretofore carried on by H. T. Lathrop.

The business will be conducted on the cash basis, and our friends may rely on being supplied with fresh stock at lowest prices. Our specialties will be School Books, Methodist Books, other Religious Publications and Stationery.

H. T. LATHROP,
A. H. WILKINS.

NEW ORLEANS, La., May 1, 1879.

Blount Springs, Alabama.

THE most accessible mountain summer resort in the South. Only eighteen hours ride from New Orleans. Pure, bracing air. The best mineral water on the Continent. All chronic diseases successfully treated; dyspepsia a specialty. Send to the Proprietor for circulars, etc., or call on T. E. Cranmer, corner Carondelet and Common streets, for information.

S. D. HOLT, Proprietor,
Blount Springs, Ala.

Washington Avenue Drug Store,

Cor. Magazine & Washington Sts.

NEW ORLEANS.

Constantly receiving fresh supplies of pure Drugs, Medicines, Chemicals, Patent Medicines, Combs of all kinds, Brushes, Soaps, Perfumery, Toilet and Fancy Articles, etc., sold at small margin. Coral Tooth Paste, recommended by all who use it as a very superior dentrifice. It beautifies the teeth to a fine pearl-like ornament and ravishing beauty. Glycerine Cold Cream for chapped lips, face, and hands. Roberts Pectoral Syrup, for catarrh, colds, bronchitis and pneumonia. Prescriptions put up night and day. R. J. MAINEGRA, M. D., Druggist, Pharmaceutical and Practical Chemist.

MISCELLANEOUS.

DO YOU WANT A FIRST-CLASS

PIANO OR ORGAN?

No doubt you need one, and you will consult your interests by calling at

LOUIS GRUNEWALD'S

14 to 22 Baronne Street, Grunewald Hall,

and see at what low figures and accommodating terms you can buy. The celebrated STEINWAY, KNABE, PLEYEL, FISCHER, PIANOS are the most renowned in the world, and you should buy no other.

THE BEST IS ALWAYS THE CHEAPEST.

SHEET MUSIC at half price.

Everything in the music line to suit everybody.

ADDRESS,

LOUIS GRUNEWALD,
Grunewald Hall, New Orleans.

SAVE FROM $2.00 TO $10.00

BY BUYING YOUR

RAILROAD TICKETS

AT

GUEDRY'S

TICKET OFFICE,

31 ST. CHARLES STREET, under St. Charles Hotel, N. O.

E. E. GUEDRY, Agent.

WHEELER & PIERSON,

Successors to Darcy & Wheeler and Pierson & Reeves

CLOTHING AND FURNISHING GOODS,

Nos. 13 and 15, CAMP STREET, New Orleans.

Black Cloth Suits, $20 to $40 | Business Suits, $12 to $25
6 Shirts for $9 | Collars $1.50 per Doz.

Liberal reduction to Clergymen.

Rules for self-measurement sent on application, and orders carefully filled. Plantation clothing for country stores at very low prices to suit.

WHOLESALE DEPARTMENT.

WHITE.

Fresh Nainsooks, Organdies, Swisses, Tarlatans, Spria and Dotted Swisses, Checked and Striped Muslins, Brilliants, India Textils, Linen Lawns and Cambrics, Victoria and Bishop Lawns, Piques, Welts, Ferrys, Damasks, Cotton and Pure Linens, Canvas, Cottons, Diapers, Towellings, Sheetings, Pillowings, Spreads, Curtains, Tidies, Splashers, Washrags, Towels, Napkins, Hose, Gloves, Embroideries, Laces, Ties, Bows, Cuffs, Collars, Ruchings, Handkerchiefs, Fans, Ribbons, etc., etc.

Fresh, First-class Goods, at Reduced Rates,

E. H. ADAMS & BROTHER,

SPECIAL.—Extraordinary inducements in CORSETS, this week. 75c. Corsets for 25c. $1 Corsets for 75c. $2 Corsets for $1.

594 Magazine Street, Fourth Store above St. Andrew.

REGULAR OPELOUSAS PACKET.

Leaves EVERY TUESDAY at 5 P. M.

For Washington, Opelousas, Port Barre, Simmesport, Churchville, and all landings on the Coast, Atchafalaya River and Bayou Courtableau. The very light draft passenger steamer

YAZOO,

WM. CRAWFORD, Master. T. B. SCHMIT, Clerk. Will leave positively as above. For freight or passage apply on board or to

FORD & McPEAKE, Agents, 46 Camp St.
GEO. D. HITE, Agent, 1 Orleans Place, St.

P. S. Connects closely with Boats for Bayou Des Glaize and Barges for Bayou Boeuf.

1879. 1879.

EXCURSION ROUTE!

NORTH, EAST AND WEST,

ST. LOUIS & NEW ORLEANS

ANCHOR LINE,

The fine passenger steamers of this line will leave New Orleans on MONDAYS, WEDNESDAYS and FRIDAYS, at 5 o'clock P. M., during the season, connecting at St. Louis with the principal railroads and Upper Mississippi river packets for all points North, East and West.

Passengers and baggage transferred from steamers to railroads FREE OF CHARGE.

Through and Excursion tickets for sale on board the boats and at the office of the company.

J. B. WOODS, General Agent.
No. 191 Common Street.

"The Washington City Route."

BALTIMORE AND OHIO R. R.

THE SHORTEST, QUICKEST AND ONLY DIRECT ROUTE TO

Washington & Baltimore,

With direct connections for Richmond, Lynchburg, Norfolk and the Southwest.

Philadelphia, New York, Boston

AND THE EAST.

PULLMAN PALACE CARS,
RUN THROUGH WITHOUT CHANGE,
Between the Principal
WESTERN AND EASTERN CITIES.

Get Through Tickets, Baggage Checked, Movements of Trains, Sleeping Car Arrangements, etc., apply at Ticket Offices at all Principal Points North, South, East or West.

E. R. HERSEY, Asst. Gen. Ticket Agt.
L. M. COLE, Gen. Ticket Agt.
THOS. P. DAIRY, Western Pass. Agent.
THOS. R. SEARS, Master of Transp'n.

DR. F. WILHOFT'S

ANTI-PERIODIC

OR

FEVER AND AGUE TONIC,

Is deservedly the most popular

CHILL AND FEVER TONIC,

Because it is simply a preparation of Peruvian bark without Quinine or any other dangerous drug, such as Arsenic, etc., and because during a great number of years it has proved itself to be a

SAFE AND PERFECT SPECIFIC

For the cure of

ALL MALARIAL DISEASES,

This remedy is guaranteed in every way by its proprietors.

WHEELOCK, FINLAY & CO.

RAOUL'S NOVELTY WOOD YARD,

Franklin St., cor. Erato.

Try it for satisfactory dealing. Oak and Ash wood, green and admaged, kept on hand, sawed and split ready for stove use, or will be cut and split to suit any size stove at short notice, and delivered in purchaser's wood-house, for $3.50 per half cord Ash, Oak $3.25. Guarantee no loss or waste in this wood.

CLEARANCE SALE!

My stock being unusually large, I have determined to sell off the bulk of it before the dull season sets in, and in order to do so have made a

Reduction in Prices of the Entire Stock

Attention is called to the following

Special Bargains,

Brilliante Black Silk Grenadine at 65c., worth $1.
Dublin Linen Lawns at 8c., reduced from 8c.
All-Linen Lawns at 12½c., reduced from 25c.
Printed Linen Grenadine at 15c., reduced from 25c.
Striped Gray Linens at 8c., reduced from 12½c.
Printed Piques at 10c., reduced from 15c.
A large Lot of

DRESS GOODS,

All at 10 cents a yard, reduced from 25 cents.
Check Nainsooks at 10c., reduced from 12½c.
Lace Striped Muslins at 12½, reduced from 15c.
Linen Mulls, suited for 12½, worth 25c.
Striped Piques at 8c.

Domestic & Housekeeping Goods.

14 pieces at 8c., reduced from 10c.
1 Case Island Brown Cotton at 5c., worth 7.
Bleached Cotton at 5c., worth 6c.
1 White Table Damask at 30c. a yard.
1 Linen Sheeting at 25c. a yard.

HOSIERY.

Ladies' Silk Embroidered Lisle Hose at $1.50 doz.
Gents' Full-Fashioned Socks, 25c. a pair.
Boys' Full-Fashioned White Socks, $1.25.

BARGAINS IN

Window Shades and Lace Curtains,
Bed Spreads and Bolting Duck,
Matting to begin a yard.

J. A. BRASELMAN,

586 Magazine Street

J. S. RIVERS,

STATIONER,

Steam Power Printer,

BLANK BOOK MANUFACTURER,

LITHOGRAPHER AND ENGRAVER,

74 CAMP STREET,

NEW ORLEANS.

WANTED EVERYBODY TO know that LAPLACE'S INDIAN TURNIP PECTORAL BALM is not a secret preparation, its efficacy being due to the Indian Turnip, known to physicians. It is highly efficacious for coughs, colds, asthma, and all diseases of the throat and lungs, and the relief of consumptive patients. Prepared and for sale by H. LAPLACE, Pharmacist, 23 and 25 Elysian Fields street. For sale also at the principal wholesale and retail drug stores.

Depot in Mobile at J. C. Draper & Co. Depot in St. Louis at ROBARDSON & CO.

The New Louisiana Remedy.

Greatest Cough Syrup of the age, or of any age. Product of our swamps. Splendid for children. NO poison. Thirteen pages of names of home references and increasing! Sold by druggists. Depot 106 Camp street, New Orleans.

PIANOS.

PIANOS TUNED AND REPAIRED in the best and most satisfactory manner, at

Mr. Burchardt's Manufactory,

MAGAZINE STREET

Between Jackson and Josephine Sts.

Farm, Garden and Household.

Pleuro-Pneumonia.—The symptoms of pleuro-pneumonia are briefly and well described in "Agriculture of Massachusetts, by C. L. Flint, 1856." "The symptoms of the disease are such as we meet in pleuro-pneumonia in general. Hair rough and staring, frequent shivering, cough, grunting and lower in fearful is of pain, quick pulse, sometimes drooling, and more or less dyspnœa according to the extent of the disease and the existence of effusion in the pleural cavities." In the report of the Cattle Commissioners in 1865 of a case in which the disease was communicated by contact with a diseased animal, we find the following: "The symptoms were, almost constant, coughing, a suppressed sore cough, eyes dull, head depressed, loss of appetite, great prostration, and we will add a quick pulse, sometimes reaching one hundred a minute.

Treatment.—The only safe treatment is the pole axe. Kill the whole herd, bury the sick, and sell the healthy meat for what it will bring in the market.—Massachusetts Plowman.

Cheesecake.—Beat the yolks of eight eggs very still, and eight ounces of sugar finely powdered and sifted, and eight ounces of sweet almonds, beaten fine or grated. Beat all together carefully a very while. Line small patty pans with thin paste. Immediately, before putting them into the oven melt a piece of butter the size of a walnut, and add to them. Fill the patty pans two-thirds full and bake immediately. If the oven is too hot they will fall when taken out.

Favorite Meat Pie.—Take cold roast beef, or roasted beef of any kind, slice it thin, cut it rather small, and lay it, well with gravy and sufficiently peppered and salted, in a meat pie dish. If liked, a small onion may be chopped fine and sprinkled over it. Over the meat pour a couple of a stewed tomatoes, a little more pepper, and a thick layer of mashed potatoes. Bake slowly in a moderate oven till the top is a light brown.

The truffle in eggs in this country is estimated by competent authorities to cost $180,000,000 a year. The barreled eggs received yearly at New York reach over 300,000 barrels, valued at $6,000,000, and this but one branch of the trade. Between 5,000,000 and 6,000,000 dozen are annually exported from the country. The millions of dozens consumed throughout the country without passing into dealers' hands, it is impossible to estimate.

Biscuits.—Put to one quart of flour two teaspoonfuls of baking powder, sift the two together. Rub to the flour one tablespoonful of butter or lard, and teaspoonful of salt. Stir all well together, thick and soft, first milk in water to wet it very soft dough. Bake immediately in a quick oven.

Brown Bread.—Take two cups of rye meal, two cups of Indian meal and one half a cup of flour. Salt, and a teaspoonful of saleratus should be added to this. Cream be mixed with water, but is nicer when sour milk is used. It must be made soft enough to run. Bake slow and long.—American Agriculturist.

Native black walnut is one of the best woods for bed and sitting room furniture. The grain of this wood is quite open, and will absorb a great deal of oil without receiving any polish. If a little gum copal is mixed with the oil, in a few days time the wood will become as smooth, hard and polished as a piece of bronze.

The beautiful color known as antimony blue—which really rivals ultramarine, and is capable of giving exquisite green shades when mixed with chrome yellow or with zinc chromate—is now prepared by adding a solution of ferrocyanide to one of antimony in aqua regia, as long as a precipitate forms. This precipitate contains no antimony, the salt simply facilitating the formation of the pigment; mercury salts will also give it. The blue substance is soluble in hydrochloric acid, which successively renders it green and yellow, on standing, the blue color is restored.

The tenacity of metals, or their power to resist a pull in the direction of their length, is found to exhibit the simple fact that every metal, when thus drawn out as wire, is much more capable of resisting this pull than in any other form; as by the drawing process the fibres of the metal are closely and tightly, so to speak, interwoven. In the form of wire then the metals stand in the following order, namely steel, iron, copper, platinum, silver, gold, zinc, tin, lead. Cast iron varies from coarse grained bars, which require only 20,400 pounds to pull one square inch asunder, to some German cast iron, which requires 68,220 pounds.

Tomato Sauce.—Bake tomatoes when quite ripe until quite tender, then rub them through a coarse sieve, weigh, and for every pound of pulp take a quart of fruit vinegar, one pound of garlic, one ounce of shallots, both well peeled and sliced, and a quarter of an ounce of salt. Boil the fruit vinegar, garlic, shallots and salt together until the ingredients are tender; then rub them through a sieve, and to each pound of all the ingredients mixed together add the juice of three lemons. Boil the whole again to the consistency of thick cream, bottle it when quite cold, and keep it in a cold, dry place. Half a pint of this sauce is to be added to the sauce when prepared for use.

Delmonico Pudding.—One quart of milk; three even tablespoonfuls of cornstarch, dissolved in cold milk. The yolks of five eggs; six tablespoonfuls of sugar. Boil three or four minutes, pour in a pudding dish and bake half an hour, or perhaps less time will do; the oven is to heat the whites of the eggs with six tablespoonfuls of sugar; put it over the pudding and return to the oven till it is a nice light brown. No sauce. Nice for strangers, as it can be made the day before.

Dog Bite.—An aged citizen of has published the following in a Lefferts journal: "I do not wish to carry to my grave my sure-proof cure for the bites of mad dogs, but will confide it to mankind as the last service which I can offer to the world. Wash the wound perfectly clean with white vinegar and tepid water; then dry it. Afterward pour into the wound a few drops of muriatic acid, for mineral acids destroy the poison of the dog's saliva.

Prof. De Candolle has made a remarkable discovery in regard to the preservative powers of boiled sea water. A branch of a coffee plant had been preserved in liquid, said to be salt water, for fifty three years. De Candolle had some of its seeds because all experiments with ordinary sea water failed, but recently the wax and pitch was removed, and the preserved plant and liquid examined chemically. It was found that sea water had been boiled before using. De Candolle believes that boiled sea water will displace alcohol for museum work.

Beautiful White Finish.—A beautiful finish may be given to panels, paneled work in harness, by means of the white oil varnish, damar varnish. This forms the ultra gloss of commerce.

Cure for Poison from Ivy.—Steep poke-root in hot water and bathe the parts affected with the resulting liquor.

Fremont Cake.—Two eggs, one cup sugar, one half cup butter, one half cup milk, one and one half cups flour, one teaspoon cream tartar, one half teaspoon soda, flavor.

MISCELLANEOUS.

SUNDAY-SCHOOL UNION DEPOSITORY.

With a full line of Question Books, Catechisms, Hymn Books, Class Books, Library Books, Rewards, and everything needed in the Sunday-school. Send for Catalogue.

Also Tucker & Bliss' Gospel Hymns and Sacred Songs, Teachers' Bibles, Concordances, Bible Dictionaries, Commentaries, etc., at the Depository, 112 Camp street.

G. T. LATHROP.

FANCY GOODS! FANCY GOODS!

SCHILLING'S

Millinery Emporium, Hair Work AND FANCY GOODS BAZAR,

159 ..... CANAL STREET 159

The assortment comprises the very latest styles in Millinery Materials, Hats and Bonnets, HAIR GOODS of every description, and the most recherche selections in Jewelry, Fans, Combs, Brushes, Dressing Cases, Suede Purses, Card Cases, Vienna Gilt Ornaments, Perfumes and Perfumery.

Your attention is particularly directed to my SPECIALTIES in fine Shell, Ivory and Pearl HAIR GOODS, MILLINERY ARTICLES AND HAIR WORK.

C. T. SCHILLING,
159 CANAL STREET.

Mechanics' and Traders' Ins. Co

NEW ORLEANS, LA.

No. 14 CARONDELET STREET,

Solicit Fire, River & Marine Risks

GEO. H. FROST, Act'g Secretary. LLOYD R. COLEMAN, President.

F. C. GREGORY, Asst. Sec. & Fire Clerk.
JNO. C. WOOD Marine and River Clerk.
F. AUZOUT, Inspector, etc.
J. Y. B. HASKELL, Collector.
Capt. S. B. FROST, Marine Inspector.

TRUSTEES.

Hugh Allison,	Robert L. Moore,
Jell. Allen,	B. J. Millan,
J. A. Braselman,	Ed Nalle,
Jno. D. Bell Sr.,	E. L. Randall,
Sam. Boyd,	Emile O'Brien,
Isaac Bloom,	Wm. A. Pope,
T. J. Carver,	J. M. Parham,
Geo. W. Cary,	H. L. Ruskell,
Jno. D. Cobb,	G. W. Sentell,
C. Lindley Coleman,	W. B. Thompson,
Wm. D. Cushing,	W. P. Vinet,
J. M. Eppes Kentish,	J. M. Walsh,
Rev. Gerson,	Meyer Weil,
P. G. Gilbert,	T. S. Waterman,
J. Davidson Hill,	Fred'k Wing,
M. Johnson,	C. W. Wood,

Lloyd R. Coleman.

New Music Books.

The Gospel of Joy. By Rev. Samuel Aiman and S. H. Speck. A book of great beauty, being in effect Theil spel in Song full of good tunes, with the best of new hymns and melodies made for them. In press and nearly ready. Wait for it. (35 cents.)

The Shining River, is one of the best, purest and sweetest of Sunday-school Song Books (35 cts.) Examine it!

Gems of English Song, is one of the books of the noble Home Musical Library, which contains nearly all the good songs that ever published. Full of the best songs. 240 paged. $1.50. $16.00 a doz.

Pinafore continues in great demand. $1.00 for vocal copy, complete. 75 cents for instrumental arrangement. The Songkeeper also complete, is equally good, at same price.

The Musical Record has a grand circulation, and is a capital Weekly Musical Paper, ($2.00) per year; 5 cents for single copy, containing 50 cents worth of music.

OLIVER DITSON & CO., Boston.

C. H. DITSON & CO.,

843 BROADWAY, N. Y.

WANTED, AGENTS FOR THE

ERRORS OF ROMANISM

The best book ever published. Being a complete exposition of this base system, which enslaves and corrupts and to its loathsome practices is trying lucrativity our glorious Republic-free Schools, and ever thing to at Priesthood can't control, edited by the most eminent Converted Bishops and other Divines. Profusely illustrated with portraits of contributors. Every person who values freedom should have this work. Address for circulars,

J. B. CHAMBERS, St. Louis, Mo.

J. D. CHASSONN.

BOOT AND SHOE STORE,

No. 26 FRENCHMEN ST., between Victory and Morgan, Third District, New Orleans.

A large assortment of Boots and Shoes always on hand, and made to order. Ladies', Children's and Gentlemen's Shoes manufactured to order.

$25 00 to $35.00

STEWART'S NEW IMPROVED

SINGER Sewing Machine

Great Reduction in Prices!

Down With Monopolies!

Hard Times demand Low Prices.

We warrant all our machines to be New Latest Improved and Perfect for

FIVE YEARS.

Our New Machine is supplied with a Loose BALANCE WHEEL, which is a great improvement over the old, as it enables the operator to wind the bobbin without running the machine or removing the work from the needle. This is the most important improvement ever put on the Sewing Machine.

Also dealer in all first class machines, such as the

WHEELER & WILSON,
DOMESTIC,
GROVER & BAKER,
WILSON,
WICKED, Etc.

Cotton, Silk, Flax, Oil and Needles for all kinds of Machines. Address,

M. A. PECK,
General Sewing Machine Agent,
131 CANAL STREET,
Next to Bullard's Dry Goods Store,
New Orleans.

GOODWYN'S ETHERA YEAST POWDER, a preparation of this city is now popular with the trade and the delight of all experienced housekeepers, and no wonder, for it is an acknowledged very highest order of merit. Send for circular and prices.

T. M. GOODWYN Manufacturer,
No. 57 Constance street, New Orleans, La.

WIRE RAILING AND Ornamental Wire Works.

DUPUY & CO., No. 26 N. Howard St., Baltimore, manufacture WIRE RAILING for Cemeteries, Balconies, etc., Stoves, Fenders, Cages, Sand and Coal Screens, Woven Wire, etc. Also Iron Bedsteads, Chairs, etc.

MISCELLANEOUS.

U. S. FOUR PER CENT. BONDS.

We continue to sell these bonds, coupon and registered, at par and accrued interest. All deliveries made here, free of expense to purchasers.

NEW ORLEANS NATIONAL BANK,
A. BALDWIN, President.

WASHBURN'S

PHOTOGRAPHIC ART GALLERY,

COR. CANAL ST. AND EXCHANGE PLACE.

☞ The handsomest place of the kind in the South.

A PERFECT LIKENESS TAKEN and finished in a manner unequaled by any other establishment in this country.

Copying and enlarging of old Pictures a specialty. Remember WASHBURN'S NEW GALLERY.

PROCTER & GAMBLE'S
Old Fashioned Full Weight
EXTRA OLIVE SOAP
FOR SALE BY
C. A. FRENCH,
111 Poydras Street, New Orleans.

F. FISCHER & SON,
PROPRIETORS
PLAYTUS SAW MILL,
FOOT OF CARROLLTON AVENUE,
Seventh District, New Orleans.

CYPRESS PINE AND SHINGLES.
P. O. Box, 17, Carrollton.
All Bills and Orders will receive prompt attention.

SAVE YOUR CARPETS

By having them cleaned by the

BOSTON PATENT STEAM

Carpet Beating and Renovating Co.

Office, 170 Camp Street,

Branch Office, 54 Royal Street,

Steam Carpet Beating and Renovating Works
10, 12, 14 and 16 Bayou Carrie St.,
Corner of Annunciation.

The undersigned is the sole proprietor of the Hodges Patent Reflexible Whip Carpet-Beating machine for cleaning Carpets and Matting for Dwellings, Churches, Public Buildings, Hotels, Steamboats, etc.

This, the Boston Patent Beater, has been in successful operation for the past fifteen years in all the principal cities in the United States, and has a world-renowned reputation as a carpet-cleaning machine.

Each machine consists of a bed of endless straps, over which the carpets pass, and are beaten by a number of endless reflexible whips, restoring the color and removing all dust, dirt, vermin and moths, without the slightest injury to the finest fabric.

RENOVATING.

By the renovating process all grease, ink, Coal Smoke, soot, and stains of every description, are extracted from the carpets, restoring their original brightness of color. The quality of the restorative is not injurious to the most delicate tint or fabric, and is an actual preventive against moth. Send a Brussels or velvet rug, which will be cleaned gratis as a sample.

Plush and Moquet Furniture, Plush and Damask Lambrequins, Lace Window Shades, Damask Curtains, Blankets, Druggets, Piano and Table Covers, renovated to look like new.

Carpets taken up and relaid by first class workmen. No charge for taking up, packing or storing of Carpets.

Our rooms being easy of access, all, and especially ladies are specially invited to call and see the machinery in operation and be convinced that this is the only way to have your Carpets thoroughly renovated from the dust, vermin and moths, for it cannot be done by hand beating. Every Carpet is cleaned under the personal supervision of the proprietors, and satisfaction in every respect guaranteed.

On receipt of orders we will send one of our covered wagons for and return your Carpets free of charge to any part of the city. All orders by mail or left at the office or works will be promptly attended to.

Beating Carpets, 5 cents per yard.
Renovating Carpets, 5 cents per yard
H. L. JONES, Jr., Proprietor.
ALBERT PAUL, Agent.
Office—70 CAMP STREET.

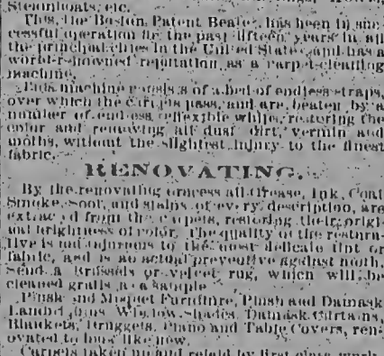
Carpets and Mattings.

ELKIN & CO.

166 ..... CANAL STREET 166

NEW PATTERNS

CANTON MATTIN, Best Quality.



WHITE AND CHECK

CANTON MATTING, 1s all Grades.

Oil Cloths all widths Linoleum and Linoleum Floor Cloths, Bastleghan Lace Curtains, new designs, Window Shades and Cornices.

CARPETS OF ALL KINDS
At Reduced Prices.

BUCK'S IMPROVED

BRILLIANT STOVE.

Is acknowledged to be the

BEST COOK-STOVE MADE.

SOLD BY

H. HALLER,

NEW ORLEANS.

DEALER IN ALL KINDS OF

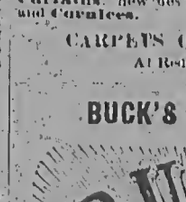
Plumbing and Heating Stoves of the most Improved makes, stamped, Parts and Japanned Tinware. Tinned and Enamelled Hollow-ware Pipe and Pipe Furnaces, Tinner's Stock, Granite Iron-ware, Lamp burner and Wick Tubes, Tinned Iron Spoons and Forks, Coffee Mills of all kinds, Platinized warp, Sad Irons, Fire Grates, Plating machines, etc.

H. HALLER,
No. 55 Camp St., New Orleans.

Price-lists mailed on application.

ICE! ICE! ICE!

WHOLESALE AND RETAIL.



FAMILIES SUPPLIED AT LIBERAL RATES.

ORDERS PROMPTLY ATTENDED TO.

WILLIAM MYERS,

NINTH STREET, between Magazine and Coliseum Sts., opposite the Market.

CONVERTIBLE FARM MILL

Vertical position.

THE simplest and most durable stone mill in the world. Any farmer can run and grind as fine meal as any four foot stone or as coarse feed as he chooses. Every Mill guaranteed. Send for Circular H with Price List.

C. H. OGLESBY & Co.,
59 Canal St., Chicago.

MISCELLANEOUS.

G. W. DUNBAR & SONS,

3 Tchoupitoulas St., New Orleans,

PRESERVERS AND PACKERS OF

SHRIMP, FRESH OKRA, ARTICHOKES,

ORANGE AND FIG PRESERVES IN TINS.

SILVER MEDAL AWARDED AT PARIS EXPOSITION, 1878, FOR QUALITY AND EXCELLENCE OF GOODS.

OUR GOODS ARE GUARANTEED AND DESIGNED EXPRESSLY FOR FAMILY USE

FOR SALE BY WHOLESALE AND RETAIL GROCERS.

NICHOLLS TEMPERANCE LUNCH HOUSE

AND

LADIES' RESTAURANT,

56 - - - CAMP STREET, - - - 58

The Ladies' Department of the NICHOLLS LUNCH HOUSE, having been recently fitted and furnished in handsome style, is now open for the accommodation of guests.

Particular attention having been paid to the

LADIES' DINING HALL, PARLOR AND TOILET ROOM,

All of which have been neatly and comfortably furnished with a view to the comfort of the ladies.

The proprietor has placed a PIANO in the Parlor for the benefit of the guests of the house.

All meals are cooked in HOME STYLE, at short notice and at

HALF THE RATES OF OTHER RESTAURANTS,

and are served by polite and attentive waiters.

MACHINERY, TIES, ETC.

NOTICE!

To Sugar Planters

AND OTHERS.

THE Knowle's Steam Pumping Machinery, celebrated for superior workmanship, efficiency, simplicity and certainty of action; Ashcroft's Improved Gauges and Instruments; the universally acknowledged standard for measuring and testing steam gasses and other electric fluids; also plantation machinery. All sold at manufacturers' prices, current rates, and under full guarantee, at No. 9 Union street, New Orleans, by

WM. ROGERS,

Consulting Engineer on General Mechanics, Steam and Hydronomics.

Broadway Foundry Co.

JOHN J. HOLLIDAY,

SUPERINTENDENT,

313 Carr Street, ST. LOUIS, MO.

Manufacturers of Stationary and Portable

Steam Engines and Boilers

MULAY AND CIRCULAR SAW MILLS,

Saw and Grist Mill Machinery, Rolling Mill and Blast Furnace Castings, Wrought Shafting and House Work. PARKER'S & JOHNSON'S WATER WHEELS. Tobacco and Lard Press Screws, Compound Tobacco Presses, Lard Kettles, Iron and Brass CASTINGS of every description; also Quartz Mills and Smelting Furnaces of most improved descriptions.

HAVE PURCHASED ALL THE WHEEL & PULLEY PATTERNS OF GATY, MCCUNE & CO.

J. B. DAVIES, late of Louisville, Mechanical Man't

SPORTSMEN'S DEPOT,

55 ..... ST. CHARLES STREET 55

NEW ORLEANS.

ARTICLES FOR FISHERMEN OF ALL KINDS.

Rods, Nets, Hooks, Lines, and every desirable article for the Angler, wholesale and retail. Guns imported to order. J. R. Cooper's Breech and Muzzle-Loading Guns always on hand. All kinds of Improved artificial baits. Address Postoffice Box 1599.

PINE ISLAND GUANO

FOR SUGAR CANE

—AND—

ALL QUICK-GROWING CROPS.

PINE ISLAND

Ammoniated Phosphate,

FOR COTTON

—AND—

ALL SUMMER AND FALL CROPS.

The Best Fertilizers in use, and prepared with great care for the Southern market.

THE KINNEY & MILLER (Minnesota)

Early Amber Sugar Cane Seed,

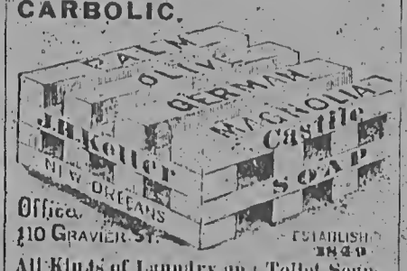
CROP 1878,

Fresh from Kenny & Miller Farms.

DISCOUNT TO THE TRADE.

FOR SALE BY

HUGH W. MONTGOMERY,



110 Common St., New Orleans.

Sole Agent for the Southwest.

J. H. KELLER,

MANUFACTURER OF

CARBOLIC,

Office, 110 GRAVIER ST. ESTABLISHED 1869

All Kinds of Laundry and Toilet Soaps.

MARBLE

—AND—

GRANITE

TOMBS, MONUMENTS AND GRAVE STONES,

Mantels, Grates, Hearths, Tiling, Flagging, etc.

GEO. STROUD.

164 St. Charles street, New Orleans, La.

J. A. LUM. N. ALBERT ROOT.

J. A. LUM & CO.,

MANUFACTURERS AND DEALERS IN

CARRIAGES, HARNESS, ETC.,

No. 85 Carondelet Street.

☞ A Specialty made of Children's Carriages.

$57.60 AGENTS PROFIT per week will prove it or forfeit $500. New articles, just published. Sample sent free to all. Address W. H. CHIDESTER, 317 Fulton street, New York.

MISCELLANEOUS.

WATERS' Orchestrion chimes ORGA

is the most beautiful in style and perfect in tone ever made. It has the celebrated Concertaton, which is a fine imitation of the Human Voice, and two and a half Octaves of bells tuned in perfect harmony with the reeds, & their effect charming & electrifying. WATERS' CLARIONA, ORCHESTRAL, CONCERTO, VESPER, CENTENNIAL CHIMES, CHAPEL, and COTTAGE ORGANS, in Unique French Cases are in every respect FIRST CLASS.

WATERS' PIANOS, GRAND, SQUARE AND UPRIGHT ARE THE BEST MADE: the Tone, Touch, Workmanship & Durability Unsurpassed. Warranted for SIX YEARS. PRICES EXTREMELY LOW for cash. Monthly Instalments received. A Liberal Discount to Teachers, Ministers, Churches, Schools, &c. AGENTS WANTED. Special inducements to the trade. Illustrated Catalogues Mailed. Second-hand Instruments at Great Bargains. HORACE WATERS & SONS, Manufacturers and Dealers, 40 EAST 14th STREET, UNION SQUARE, NEW YORK, Box, 3567.

ATTENTION! ATTENTION!

M. ANDRIEU,

159 - POYDRAS STREET - 159

Home-Made Shoes, hand-sewed, $4 00

Home-Made Shoes, Screwed, $2 50-3 50.

City-made Boots and Shoes of all kinds and styles, made of the very best material and workmanship, and at less prices than any other store in this city. Keeps all kinds for Gents', Boys', Ladies' and Children's wear. Employs from 75 to 100 workmen constantly.

THE DIEBOLD

SAFES.

A large and complete assortment of these Celebrated SAFES on hand and for sale at prices to suit the times. Parties desiring anything in our line are respectfully solicited to address the undersigned for estimates, etc., as he feels confident of being able to give them satisfaction, both as regards price and quality of work.

A. ROY, Agent,
DIEBOLD SAFE & LOCK CO.,
37 Canal St., New Orleans, La.

NO MORE RHEUMATISM OR GOUT ACUTE OR CHRONIC SALICYLICA SURE CURE.

Manufactured only under the above trade-mark by the European Salicylic Medicine Co.

OF PARIS AND LEIPZIG.

IMMEDIATE RELIEF WARRANTED. PERMANENT CURE GUARANTEED. Now exclusively used by all celebrated Physicians of Europe and America, becoming a simple, harmless, and Reliable Remedy for both continents. The highest medical Academy of Paris report 95 cures out of 100 cases within three days. So fast. The only discoverer of the poisonous Uric Acid which exists in the Blood of Rheumatic and Gouty Patients. $1 a Box; 6 Boxes for $5.00. Send to any address on receipt of price. Endorsed by Physicians. Sold by all Druggists. Address

WASHBURNE & CO.

Only Importers' Depot, 23 Chatham St., N. Y.

eow

FOUNDED JULY 1, 1808.

OLDEST SHOT TOWER IN AMERICA.

THOS. W. SPARKS,

Patent American Chilled Shot,

Standard Drop and Buck Shot

AND BAR LEAD MANUFACTURER,

121 WALNUT STREET,

PHILADELPHIA.

NORTON & MANNING, Agents,
NEW ORLEANS.

G. H. MILLER & CO., Agents,
GALVESTON.

The Most Refreshing Toilet Article.

CASSEBEER'S

QUININE HAIR TONIC.

(EAU DE QUININE.)

WILL preserve, cultivate, beautify, arrest the fall of and restore a silken softness to the Hair, and will not soil the most delicate fabric. Price, $1.

Cassebeer's Ammonia Lozenges.

For allaying coughs, colds, tickling in the throat, dry throat, etc., and facilitation expectoration. Price, 25 cents, sent by mail.

Both excellent preparations are for sale by all druggists, and by the proprietor, H. A. CASSEBEER, Apothecary, M. Fourth avenue and 33d, sixth avenue, New York.

STAMPING PATTERNS.—Stamped Samples of 200 Designs for 25c. The first number just out. A. BERNARD, 611 Canal St., N. Y.

AGENTS WANTED.

AGENTS WANTED FOR THE

PICTORIAL

History of the World.

It contains 672 fine historical engravings and 1200 large double column pages, and is the most complete History of the world ever published. It sells at sight. Send for specimen pages and extra terms to Agents, and see why it sells faster than any other book. Address

NATIONAL PUBLISHING CO., St. Louis, Mo.

$10 to $25 A DAY SURE MADE by Agents selling our Chromos, Crayons, Picture and Chromo Cards. 125 samples, worth $5, sent postpaid for 85 cents. Illustrated Catalogue free. J. H. BUFFORD'S SONS, Boston. Estab'd 1830.

HOW TO BE YOUR OWN LAWYER AGENTS Wanted. $50 to $125 a Month. An Encyclopedia of 1000 Forms. For Business Men, Mechanics, Farmers, Property Owners, Tenants, everybody; every business. Saves many times cost. Selling fast. Send for circular and terms. P. W. ZIEGLER & CO., 620 Olive St., St. Louis, Mo.

MISCELLANEOUS.

TRUTHS.

HOP BITTERS,

(A Medicine, and a Drink,)

CONTAINS

HOPS, BUCHU, MANDRAKE, DANDELION,

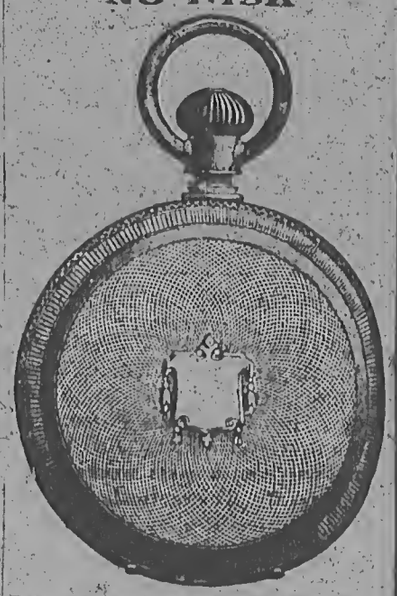
AND THE PUREST AND BEST MEDICAL QUALITIES OF ALL OTHER BITTERS.

THEY CURE

All Diseases of the Stomach, Bowels, Blood, Liver, Kidneys and Urinary Organs, Nervousness, Sleeplessness, Female Complaints and Drunkenness.

$1,000 IN GOLD

Will be paid for a case they will not cure or help, or for anything impure or injurious found in them.



Ask your druggist for Hop Bitters and free books, and try the Bitters before you sleep. Take no other.

The Hop Cough Cure and Pain Relief is the Cheapest, Surest and Best.

FOR SALE BY ALL DRUGGISTS.

FREE NEW and Superb collection of Novelties in Rose, Verbena, Phlox, Pansy, Pinks, Asters, Stocks, Balsams, Verbenas, Gloxinias, Cannas, Gladiolus, Tuberose, Cactus, Dahlias, Pæonies, Chrysanthemums, Hardy Plants, Bulbs, Vines, Greenhouse Plants, Seeds, Tools, Fountains, Vases, Rustic Work, Fine Chromo Cards, &c. Send for Catalogue free. Address Pond's Nursery, P. O. Box 1824, N. Y.

NO RISK

To buy our special Ten Dollar Watch, for we guarantee them to be solid Coin Silver, except cap over movement (inside), which is nickle. They are certainly the best Watches considering Time and Quality, that has ever been offered for the price. Can represents the exact size. Sent by mail. We send one of the above to any address C. O. D., or on receipt of money and twenty-five cents extra, for registration (at our risk). Fully warranted. W. H. HENDRICK & SON, 110 Fourth Avenue, Louisville, Ky. (Send Catalogue free on application. (Mention this paper.)

ESTABLISHED IN 1825

LEEDS' FOUNDRY

Cor. Detord and Fourcher Sts.

MASON & HAMLIN CABINET ORGANS

Demonstrated best by HIGHEST HONORS AT ALL WORLD'S EXPOSITIONS FOR TWELVE YEARS, viz.: at Paris, 1867; Vienna, 1873; Santiago, 1875; Philadelphia, 1876; Two Highest Medals at Paris, 1878, and GRAND SWEEPING GOLD MEDAL, 1878. Only American Organs ever awarded highest honors at any. Sold for cash or installments. ILLUSTRATED CATALOGUES with new styles and prices, free. MASON & HAMLIN ORGAN CO., BOSTON, NEW YORK, or CHICAGO.

ROSES

Geo. J. T. Phillips & Son, West Grove, Chester Co., Pa.

eow

BOOKS

J. W. McINTYRE, Agt. Box 1, Office 51 St. Louis, Mo.

eow

ELASTIC JOINT

IRON ROOFING

FIRE, WATER AND WIND PROOF.

Durable, Cheap, easily applied by any one. Prevents leakage from expansion and contraction. In practical use six years. Suited for any climate in any part of the country. Address for Circular, CALDWELL & CO., Cincinnati, O.

Incomparably the Best and Cheapest Windmill. Protected by two patents. Has only Eight first Premiums. Light, but strong and durable. Has more wind surface than is lighter, winds in more auto gale, and pumps more water than any other windmill ever before made. Requires no attendance, no running expenses. It has successfully withstood the hurricanes of the West, while other mills that stood near them have been shattered. Unequaled supporting tower. See cut in our Illustrated Catalogue.

Kewanee Manuf'g Co. Patentees.
Office 45 BROADWAY, New York.
N. B. Responsible State and County Agents wanted in all parts of the World.

$500 MADE IN 87 DAYS. CATALOGUE FREE. Blankeye Novelty Co., Cincinnati, O.

Scientific.

—Some of the English founders have adopted the use of plumbago, both in iron and brass establishments, and with a decided advantage in the sharpness and face of iron castings—that is, by plumbago for dusting the molds—plumbago, pure and simple, and the better the quality of the plumbago the better the result. In brass or yellow metal, and pot metal casting, neither the pure plumbago, nor mixtures of plumbago and meal dust, or plumbago and ball, or wood ash, has been found equally satisfactory to warrants its use in such a way; while for heavy gun metal casting pure plumbago gives a clean face and fine skin. The employment of plumbago for yellow or pot metals it is stated, has been found to be the best when the molds are first dusted with pea meal, and then only just a slight dust of plumbago. With this it is stated, superb castings are obtained, both as to sharpness and cleanliness, and admirably suited for steam valves to be fitted in the rough on their bodies.

MECHANICAL TELEPHONE.—A Bridgeport (Conn.) boy is said to have invented a telephone which possesses the manifest advantage of distributing sound at the delivering end. If this is true it solves one of the main objections to the magnetic telephones. The instrument is described as a square box, into each of whose sides is set a piece of sheet brass three or four inches in diameter. Wires fastened to the centers of these set in the middle of the box, and are there connected with the main wire, which leads to a similar box at a distance. A mouth-piece is fastened to a side of the box and words spoken through this are reproduced at other stations with such distinctness that they can be heard anywhere in an ordinary room. We do and vouch for the truth of this story, but it reads as though there might be something in it.

—Inquiries that filtered raw petroleum has lately been employed as a lubricant on some of the Austrian railways, the volatile parts having been first evaporated at the boiling point of water, and a small percentage of vegetables and animal oil added. The first experiments made in this line were not attended with very promising results, the oil being too thin and the journals heating too early. By degrees, however, these difficulties have been surmounted—that is, the oil was improved and special boxes made to meet its requirements, petroleum being thus rendered a reliable lubricant.

VANILLA.—Vanilla is gotten from a bean that grows in warm countries, the best mainly from Martinique, Brazil and Mexico. The plant which yields this aromatic bean will climb up any tree that gives it sufficient shade. It attains a height of about a foot, and thrives for thirty or forty years, producing some fifty pot each year after the second. The beans take eight or nine months to ma'ure, and are gathered between October and December. Vanilla is the most costly in proportion to weight, of all vegetable productions. Only a few hundredweights, says Nature, reach England annually.

THE DEAD SEA.—According to a French journal, the waters of the Dead Sea are about to be worked for potash, iodine and bromide. The projectors calculate on delivering potassium chloride in London at ninety francs per ton, thus underselling the Stassfurt manufacturers.

—A Meteorological Congress is to be held in Switzerland in the course of next April. The Swiss Federation will at the session be represented by Prof. Plantamour, of Geneva.

Ague Cure

is a purely vegetable, bitter and powerful tonic, and is warranted a speedy and certain cure for Fever and Ague, Chills and Fever, Intermittent or Chill Fever, Remittent Fever, Dumb Ague, Periodical or Bilious Fever, and all Malarial disorders. In miasmatic districts, the rapid pulse, coated tongue, thirst, lassitude, loss of appetite, pain in the back and loins, and coldness of the spine and extremities, are only premonitions of several symptoms which terminate in the ague paroxysm, succeeded by high fever and profuse perspiration.

It is a startling fact, that quinine, arsenic, and other poisonous minerals form the basis of most of the "Fever and Ague Preparations," "Specifics," "Syrups," and "Tonics," in the market. The preparations made from these mineral poisons, although they are palatable, and may break the chill, do not cure, but leave the malarial and their own drug poison in the system, producing opinism, dizziness, ringing in the ears, headache, vertigo, and other disorders more formidable than the disease they were intended to cure. AYER'S AGUE CURE thoroughly eradicates these noxious poisons from the system, and always cures the severest cases. It contains no quinine, mineral, or any thing that could injure the most delicate patient; and its crowning excellence, above its certainty to cure, is that it leaves the system as free from disease as before the attack.

For Liver Complaints, AYER'S AGUE CURE, by direct action on the liver and biliary apparatus, drives out the poisons which produce these complaints, and stimulates the system to a vigorous, healthy condition.

We warrant it when taken according to directions.

Prepared by Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Practical and Analytical Chemists, Lowell, Mass.

SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS EVERYWHERE.

EDUCATIONAL.

Centenary Institute,

AN institution of learning, located at Summerfield Alabama, was founded by the Alabama Conference and commenced operations in 1842, and has been in successful operation ever since. The Institute has two departments, male and female.

The buildings are of brick, large and elegant, sufficient to accommodate two hundred and fifty pupils. This is to notify all concerned that the Trustees intend, at their next annual meeting, June 23, to lease the building for five years to any person or persons competent to run the Institution in the interest of a thirteen school.

Persons desiring further information will correspond with me at Summerfield, Ala.

A. D. MITCHELL,
President Board of Trustees.

Summerfield, Ala., March 1, 1879.

Woodville Female Seminary.

A NON-SECTARIAN ACADEMY, UNDER the supervision of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South. Mississippi Conference. Hon. E. Mitchell, President of Board of Trustees. For Thoroughness of Instruction, healthfulness, cheapness, and many other advantages is not surpassed. We invite those interested to examine our credentials, and obtain circulars, by calling upon Mr. Philip Werlein, New Orleans, La., or address the Principal,

A. J. WRIGHT,
Woodville, Miss.

The Loquet-LeRoy Institute

AND KINDERGARDEN DAY AND BOARDING SCHOOL FOR YOUNG LADIES, 280 Camp Street.—The location has now reopened under the auspices of the Misses Moise (Cecilia W. Sallee, and Corinne, the latter relicts of the late R. C. Revell, daughters of Judge E. Warren Moise, deceased, successors to Mme Loquet-LeRoy, who secured will and right to conduct the School under the old name they have purchased. Except in so far as the proprietors may enter into active service there will be no change of teachers. No change whatever in the conduct and management of the school. They respectfully solicit a continuance of the patronage heretofore so liberally extended to the Institution, and that of their friends and the public generally, promising strict devotion to every interest of the public committed to their charge.

C. W. MOISE, Principal.

REFERRING TO THE ABOVE, MADAME LOQUET-LEROY announces to her friends and former patrons the entire confidence she has in her successors, being in every way suited to the high trust she reposed. She speaks for them a continuance of the patronage so liberally accorded her, and that she will still be actively connected with the Institution. For terms and particulars apply to the principal.

HIWASSEE COLLEGE,

(Postoffice thereafter)

MONROE COUNTY, EAST TENNESSEE.

PARENTS will bring to this a safe and healthy location for their sons during the sickly season would do well to patronize the above named institution under the patronage of the Holston Annual Conference Methodist Episcopal Church, South. The spring term closes May 22, and fall session begins

FIRST MONDAY IN AUGUST, 1879.

Students enrolling before the latter date will be on the roll of ephemeris, and will thus secure seats in advance of promotion. Board in College Hall at the low rate of $8 50 per month, washing included. Same in good private families at nine dollars. Tuition, College Course twenty dollars; English Course, fifteen dollars.

J. H. BRUNNER, D. D. President.
F. M. GRACE, A. M., Secretary.

PROFESSIONAL CARDS.

WM. E. THOMPSON,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
Office, Garza Building, corner Houston and Soledad Sts.
SAN ANTONIO, TEXAS.

JOHN MCENERY. MARTIN VOORHIES
McENERY & VOORHIES,
ATTORNEYS
AND COUNSELLORS AT LAW,
Office—13 ST. CHARLES STREET.

DR. E. P. DOREMUS,
DENTIST,
SUCCESSOR TO DR. DICKEY,
110 Canal street, over B. T. Walshe's,
NEW ORLEANS.
Special attention given to the preservation of the natural teeth.

DR. C. J. HICKHAM,
RESIDENCE AND OFFICE,
230 Jackson St., bet. Chestnut and College,
NEW ORLEANS.
Office Hours—Eight A. M. and three to four P. M.

DR. J. J. LYONS,
NO. 216 CARONDELET STREET,
Between Julia and St. Joseph,
New Orleans, La.

CARRIAGES, WAGONS, ETC.

RUFUS H. EDSON. ARTHUR L. EDSON.
EDSON & SON,
Manufacturers of
Carriages and Buggies
LIGHT AND HEAVY SPRING WAGONS.
715 North Eighth Street. ST LOUIS, MO.
Barouches, Phaetons, Buggies and all kinds of Spring Wagons constantly on hand and made to order.

FIRST PREMIUM AT ST. LOUIS FOR 1878.
JOHN KIMPEL,
Manufacturer of
CARRIAGES AND BUGGIES,
PLATFORM, WAGONS, TRUCKS,
LIGHT AND HEAVY SPRING WAGONS.
208, 210, 212 & 214 Spruce St. ST. LOUIS, MO.
Barouches, Buggies and all kinds of Spring Wagons.

J. THOMSON & BROS.,
IMPORTERS AND DEALERS
IN CARRIAGE, WAGON
AND
CART-MAKERS' MATERIAL,
And Manufacturers of Light Carriages and Spring Wagons,
All at Reasonable Prices,
68 AND 70 SOUTH RAMPART ST.
Between Common and Gravier,
NEW ORLEANS.

Globe Wagon Manufactory
D. T. SHEAHON & CO.,
PROPRIETORS,
Wagons, Carts and Drays
MADE TO ORDER.
Southern Orders Respectfully Solicited.
Cor. Collins and Carr Sts. ST LOUIS, MO.

WATCHES AND JEWELRY.
17 BARONNE STREET,
Bet. Common and Canal, NEW ORLEANS.
ALSO
LOAN OFFICE,
Private entrance to right of show window.
Unredeemed pledges of every description sold at very low prices and with full guarantee.
OTTO SCHWANER.
Watches and Jewelry carefully repaired. Jewelry at low cash prices.

BUSINESS CARDS.

WATCHES.

LADY'S GOLD WATCHES, $30 and upward.
GENT'S GOLD WATCHES, $45 and upward.
GENT'S SILVER WATCHES, $12 and upward.
BOYS' SILVER WATCHES, $12 and upward.
All guaranteed.

A. B. GRISWOLD & CO.,
Cor. Canal and Royal Sts.

W. C. SHEPARD & Co.,
49 CAMP STREET.
China Crockery Glass,
AND HOUSE FURNISHING EMPORIUM.
CHINA, SEMI-CHINA AND IRONSTONE DINNER SETS.
Viz: 12 Dinner, 12 Breakfast, 12 Tea, 12 Fruit, 12 Butter Plates, 12 Tea, 12 After-Dinner Cups and Saucers, 1 Soup Tureen, 1 Gravy Boat, 2 Dishes with Tops, 2 Without, 4 Moat Dishes, 1 Salad Dish, 2 Relish Shells.

Variety Novelties In House-Keeping.
TEA SETS all prices and quality.
GOBLETS, TUMBLERS, BOWLS, CAKE-STANDS, BERRY SETS, CASTORS, KNIVES, FORKS, SPOONS, LADLES, WAITERS.
CHAMBER SETS White, Band, Fancy—all prices.
TIN CHAMBER SETS, FOOT TUB, WATER BARREL and STOP VAR, REFRIGERATORS, ICE CHESTS, WATER COOLERS, CREAM FREEZERS, COAL OIL STOVES, LAMPS, LAMPS to contain 50 gallons of oil, BRUSHES, WOODENWARE, TINWARE, PLATED WARE, FANCY GOODS, MOTTO TEXTS, VASES, FLOWER GLASSES, CLOCKS, LOOKING GLASSES, CHANDELIERS.

RICE, BORN & CO.,
89 CAMP STREET 91
WAREHOUSE—133, 135 & 137 MAGAZINE ST.,
NEW ORLEANS,
IMPORTERS AND DEALERS IN FOREIGN AND DOMESTIC
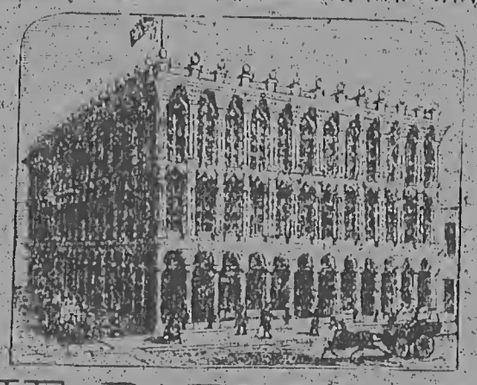
HARDWARE!
BUILDERS' HARDWARE,
GRATES, CUTLERY, STOVES,
HOUSE-FURNISHING GOODS, ETC.
SOLE AGENTS FOR THE
CHARTER OAK STOVE
HOWE SCALE and
BARBED FENCE WIRE.

H. DeVERGES & CO.,
HARDWARE,
17 and 19 Decatur Street,
Opposite Postoffice, New Orleans.
IMPORTERS AND DEALERS IN
IRON, NAILS, CUTLERY, GUNS, AGRICULTURAL IMPLEMENTS, PLOWS, OILS, PAINTS, CORDAGES, ETC. ETC.

HEATH, PIPPEY & LARA
IMPORTERS AND DEALERS IN
CARPETS, FLOOR OIL CLOTHS,
UPHOLSTERY GOODS, Wall Paper, Window Shades, Cornices, Lace and Nottingham Curtains, Mirrors, Moldings, Chromos, Engravings, etc.
Frames made to order—a specialty.
No. 99 Camp Street, New Orleans.

RAOUL'S NOVELTY
COAL AND WOOD YARD,
FRANKLIN ST., BARRETT'S.
Stove wood of any and all kinds prepared ready for use and packed or in bulk, delivered at most reasonable rates. In this way the evils and expense of loss of waste. No trouble or annoyance to the lady of the house as the wood will be placed in the wood-box without extra charge.
Satisfaction Guaranteed.
Kindling sent free. A trial order is now departure respectfully solicited. Orders by postal card or telephone promptly attended to. Address
Office 31 Franklin Street.
Or at J. P. H. Short's Coal office, corner Girod and Camp streets.

Established in St. Louis in 1858.
R. L. ROSEBROUGH SONS,
Marble Works,
No. 1431 BROADWAY,
Between O'Fallon and Cass Avenues,
ST. LOUIS, MO.
TRUNKS,
TRUNKS,
HAVING lately overstocked myself with this article from the best manufactories of Louisville and Chicago, from the finest Ladies' TRUNK Gents' Sole Leather Zinc and in fact every kind made; also Patent Tray (this you need not take the tray out to get at the bottom of the trunk); also, a fine lot of SATCHELS and VALISES; also, a fine assortment of Ladies', Childrens and Misses' HOODS of the best Philadelphia makers. Call and see for yourself at
S. BAUM'S, 551 Magazine St.,
Corner St. Mary, New Orleans.



AHOMATIC
SALICYLINE
TOOTH WASH
FOR THE
TEETH, GUMS & BREATH
Warranted Pure, Harmless and Intellible in imparting the most fragrant Perfume to the breath (Otar of Roses and Sweet Myrtle), gives a healthy tone to the gums, cures all sores in the mouth and by the action of its antiseptic curative qualities removes all uncleanliness of the breath, cleanses, beautifies and preserves the teeth; applied to decayed teeth it annihilates the pain almost immediately. Endorsed by the most Eminent Physicians and Dentists of Europe and America. It contains no injurious ingredients such as used in other preparations now in the market. Price $1 00 per box (containing a large bottle Hot Wash and box of Finest Powder). Sent to any address on receipt of price. Manufactured by European Salicylic Medicine Co., of Paris and London. Address Washburne & Co., Sole Agents. Daily importers' depot, 23 Cliff street, New York, U. S. A. For sale by Druggists, Perfumery and Fancy Goods Dealers.

POOLE & HUNT, BALTIMORE.
MANUFACTURERS OF
THE POOLE & HUNT LEFFEL TURBINE
WATER WHEELS,
MACHINE MOULDED
MILL GEARING,
SHAFTING, PULLEYS AND HANGERS,
STEAM ENGINES AND BOILERS,
MIXERS FOR FERTILIZERS AND CHEMICALS

MISCELLANEOUS.

FOR THE VERY BEST AND NEVER FADING
PHOTOGRAPHS
GO TO 121 CANAL ST.
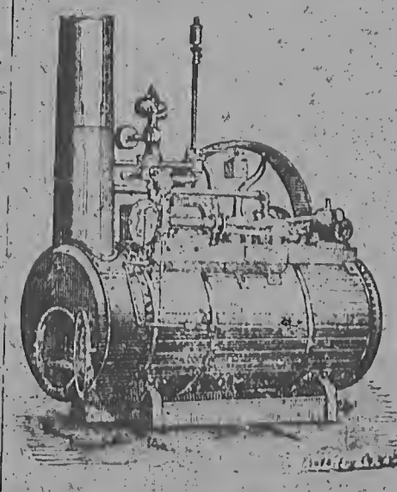
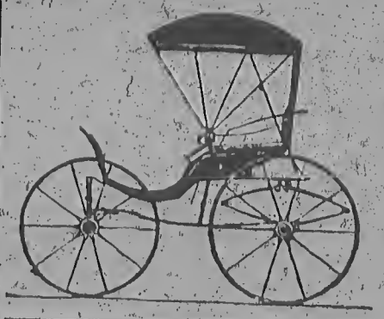
Touro Building.



D. H. HOLMES,
155 Canal Street, - - - 15 Bourbon Street.
Our Stock of Spring Goods is now complete, consisting of the latest novelties in
SILKS, LACES, DRESS GOODS IN WORSTED FABRICS
BLACK GRENADINES IN SILK AND WOOL,
LINEN LAWNS, ORGANDIES, AND PERCALES,
HOSIERY in all Styles and Colors,
A Complete Assortment of MATTINGS
SAMPLES sent free of charge.
D. H. HOLMES
155 CANAL STREET.



R. M. & E. J. MONTGOMERY.
FURNITURE EMPORIUM,
Corner Camp and Poydras Sts., New Orleans.
FEATHERS.

SPRING HAIR AND MOSS MATTRESSES.
FINE PARLOR SUITS
IN SILK, SATIN, COTOLENE REPS AND HAIR CLOTH.
FINE BED-ROOM SUITS IN WALNUT, MAHOGANY AND ROSEWOOD WITH FRENCH PLATE IN ARMOIRS and Dressing Cases.
Fine Dining Room, Hall and Library Suits, Fancy Cabinets, Stands, Desks, Tables and Chairs. A Medium and Common Furniture, suitable for the country trade. Goods delivered free of charge.

THE STANDARD.
THE GREAT UNABRIDGED.
Containing 1854 pages, more than 10,000 words and over 800 Illustrations strongly and handsomely bound in sheep, price $12 00. Worcester is now regarded as the standard authority and is recognized as such by the leading Authors and Printers of the most distinguished Schools, Colleges and Universities of the country. Send orders to
G. T. LATHROP,
112 Camp street, New Orleans.

THE GOLD MEDAL
PARIS EXPOSITION 1878
WAS AWARDED TO
JOSEPH GILLOTT & SONS
FOR EXCELLENCE IN
STEEL PENS
AND HIS OTHER STYLES SOLD BY ALL DEALERS THROUGHOUT THE WORLD

PAYNE'S
PORTABLE
STEAM ENGINES,
2 TO 8 HORSE POWER,
Strong, Simple and Durable,
BEST PLANTATION ENGINE MADE.
Send for Special Price List of this and other styles Engines, Boilers, etc.
B. J. WEST,
SOLE AGENT,
115 and 117 Magazine Street,
NEW ORLEANS.
Plantation Hardware, Agricultural Implements, Saw Mills, Gins, etc.

ANDERSON, HARRIS & CO.,
Wholesale Manufacturers of Buggies, Phaetons,
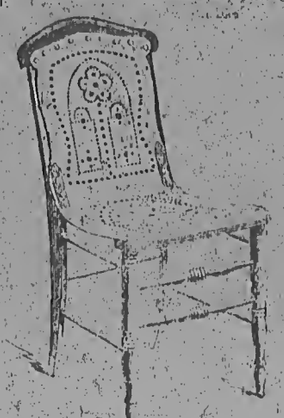
CARRIAGES AND VEHICLES
OF EVERY DESCRIPTION,
OFFICE AND FACTORY:
N. E. Cor. Baymiller and Liberty Sts.,
CINCINNATI.
14th Street (Green) Cars pass the door.



SPECTACLES.
R. & J. BECK,
Manufacturing Opticians,
921 Chestnut St., Philadelphia.
Would call special attention to their unequaled stock of Microscopes, Telescopes, Opera, Field and Marine Glasses, Spectacles and Eye Glasses, Thermometers, Barometers, Compasses, etc., the largest and most varied in the United States, at
GREATLY REDUCED PRICES.
Send three 3c stamps for our splendidly illustrated and priced catalogue of 16 pages.
Mention what Paper you saw this in.

BUCKEYE BELL FOUNDRY
Bells of Pure Copper and Tin for Churches, Schools, Fire Alarms, Farms, etc. FULLY WARRANTED. Catalogue sent Free.
VANDUZEN & TIFT, Cincinnati, O.

W. W. CARRE,
HORACE U. BEACH, Manager,
LUMBER YARD,
840 DELORD ST., NEW ORLEANS.
Cabins and Dressed Lumber a specialty.
Pontchartrain Cheap Store.
J. A. LACROIX,
CORNER FRENCHMEN AND VICTORY STS.
LADIES', GENTS', MISSES' AND CHILDRENS'
BOOTS AND SHOES
OF ALL DESCRIPTIONS.
Always on hand a full assortment of first-class goods, at prices which defy competition. Call and examine my stock before purchasing elsewhere.
MY MOTTO: "Quick Sales and Small Profits."
Jackson railroad cars pass in front of the store.

MISCELLANEOUS.

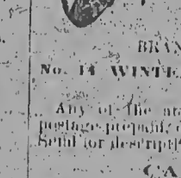
PERFORATED
VENEER SEATS AND CHAIRS.
For use in Churches, Halls and Lodges, are coming into general use on account of their Comfort, Durability, Cleanliness, and Ornament.

No. 115.
Churches desiring to buy Chairs or Settees will do well to correspond with
CARDNER & CO.,
Patentees and Manufacturers,
184 CANAL ST., NEW YORK.

COAL COAL COAL
B. D. WOOD & BRO.
Corner Camp and Common Streets.
Opposite the City Hotel.
Wholesale and Retail dealers in all kinds of COAL. Patronage and orders solicited by telephone or telegraph to the Yard, or shipped in cars or in bulk at lowest market rates. Dispatch guaranteed.

STOVES SUITABLE FOR ALL.
THE STEWART.
Plain No. 7 $30 0
With Reservoir and Shelf " 8 40 0
" " 9 50 0
THE CHAMPION.
Plain No. 6 $25 0 No. 7 $30 0 No. 8 $35 0
Reservoir and Shelf " 7 35 0 " 8 40 0 " 9 50 0
THE LAMBRIDGE.
Plain No. 7 $30 0 No. 8 $37
Reservoir and Shelf " 8 40 0 " 9 50 0
THE GREENBACK.
Plain No. 7 $30 0 No. 8 $34
THE EASTON
Plain No. 6 $16
THE DIAMOND.
Plain No. 6 $13
All the above Stoves without Drafts and Fixtures.
J. B. CAMPMAN,
132 Poydras St., New Orleans.

LADY AGENTS WANTED.
MADAME GRISWOLD'S



PATENT
SKIRT-SUPPORTING
CORSETS,

21 E. 16th St., New York.
BRANCH OFFICE
No. 14 WINTER ST., BOSTON, MASS.
Any of the above goods sent by mail, postage prepaid, on receipt of the list price. Send for descriptive circular.
CAUTION:
Before purchasing, look for Stamp and Trade Mark.

DR. S. GERAM,
MANUFACTURER OF THE
SURE CURE TRUSS,
N. W. cor. Fifth & Plum Sts., Cincinnati, O.
THE BEST TRUSS IN THE WORLD!
Those who have suffered untold agony for years, by wearing the Metallic Spring Trusses will find in the SURE CURE Truss all that is claimed—it is a retaining force, it holds with equal upon rupture. It is a RELIEF Truss, for it gives elastic support, and the latest and most valuable improvement. Can be worn at night.
Testimonials of cures can be seen at the office. No. 1 Plain Truss, the best manufactured, warranted at $3 for single, $4 for double. Extra patterns free.
Trusses sent free by mail on receipt of order and money. Send stamp for circular.

MARSDEN'S
PECTORAL BALM,
THE GREAT REMEDY FOR COUGHS, COLDS,
AND
CONSUMPTION.
G. R. FINLAY & CO.,
New Orleans, La., Sole Agts.
99 FOR SALE BY ALL DRUGGISTS.

DR. S. H. P. LEE'S
LITHONTRIPTIC

CURES STONE AND GRAVEL, GALL STONES, DIABETES, GOUT, ENLARGEMENT OF THE PROSTATE GLAND, and in the incipient stages BRIGHT'S DISEASE.
IT ALONE DISSOLVES
STONE AND GRAVEL
In the Kidneys, Liver and Bladder. It is now for the first time offered to the public to cure for the most distressing kidney affections. Send for pamphlet to depot of the S. H. P. LEE COMPANY, No. 40 Clinton Place, New York city. Sold by druggists.

COMPOUND OXYGEN.
A NEW TREATMENT for the cure of Chronic diseases by a new process of re-vitalization.
REMARKABLE CURES have been effected in all climates, and in the most aggravated forms of
LOSS OF VITALITY
IN SOUTHERN LATITUDES following
STRONGLY ENDORSED by Hons. GEO. H. PENDLETON, MONTGOMERY BLAIR, ex-Gov. HOREMAN of West Virginia, and others who have used the New Treatment.
FREE! A Treatise explaining Compound Oxygen, with many testimonials to most remarkable cures, sent free. Address
DRS. STARKEY & PALEN, 1109 Girard St., Philada.

PRICES CURRENT

IN

THE NEW ORLEANS MARKETS.

REVISED AND CORRECTED WEEKLY.

☞ Correspondents should bear in mind that our quotations represent prices for round lots, and in filling small orders higher rates must be paid.

GROCERIES.

Butter, ₱ lb.:
Western	13	14
New York, good to creamy	20	—
Coffee, ₱ lb.:
Rio, fair	13¾	13¾
Rio, good	14¼	14¾
Rio, prime	14¾	15
Candles, ₱ lb.:
Star, best brands	11¾	12
Corn Meal, ₱ bbl.:
Best, K. D.	2 25	— —
Cheese, ₱ lb.:
Factory	5½	6½
N. Y. cream and English dairy	6	6½
Fish:
Mackerel, extra No. 1, in bbls	— —	10 50
Mackerel, extra No. 1, in kits	— —	1 10
Sardines, quarter boxes	— —	— —
Flour, ₱ bbl.
Superfine	3 75	4 00
XX	4 62½	4 87½
XXX	5 00	5 25
Choice XXX	5 50	6 62½
Choice family	5 25	5 50
Fruits:
Dried apples, ₱ lb	2½	3½
Dried peaches, ₱ lb	2	4
Raisins, ₱ quarter box	50	55
Raisins, ₱ half box	— —	1 00
Raisins, ₱ whole box	1 80	1 85
Bananas, ₱ bunch	1 00	2 00
Crackers, ₱ lb.
Soda	8	8
Butter	6	7
Sugar	8	9
Gingernuts	9	12½
Oils:
Coal, in cases, best	23	25
Coal, in barrels, best	16	18
Paraffine, in cases	— —	40
Paraffine, in barrels	— —	35
Lard, in barrels, best	65	70
Molasses, in barrels.
Common	25
Fair	29	31
Prime to choice	32	35
Golden and Regret strips	— —	— —
Half bbls. 5c. and kegs 10c. more.
Rice, Louisiana, ₱ lb.:
No. 2	3¾	4
Ordinary	5½	5¾
Fair	5¾	6
Prime to choice	6	6½
Soap, in boxes, ₱ lb.:
XXX Palm	5¾	— —
Keller's magnolia	4½	— —
Keller's olive	5	— —
Starch, ₱ lb.		3
Salt, in sacks:
Fine	1 32½	1 35
Coarse	90	92½
Sugar.
Good fair	5¾	—
Prime	6⅞	—
Choice	— —	6½
Yellow clarified	6½	7¼
White clarified	— —	— —
Crushed	— —	— —
Powdered	— —	— —
Spices, ₱ lb.:
Allspice	15½	— —
Pepper	13½	14
Cloves	45	— —
Cinnamon	— —	— —
Tea, ₱ lb.
Black Oolong	27½	1 10
Green Imperial	80	90
Tobacco:
Low lugs	2½@	3
Medium	3½@	3½
Good to fine	3¾@	4½
Low leaf	4½@	5
Medium	5½@	6½
Good	7 @	7¾
Fine	7¾@	8
Selections	9 @	10

GRAIN AND FEED.

Corn, ₱ bushel:
Yellow	40	— —
White	56	— —
Mixed	46	— —
Oats, ₱ bushel:
St. Louis	34½	35½
Texas	— —	— —
Galena	— —	— —
Bran, choice, ₱ 100 lbs.	70	75
Hay, ₱ ton:
Prime	14 00	15 00
Ordinary	13 00	16 50
Cow Peas:
Whippoorwill	— —	— —
Mixed	90	1 10
Clay	1 15	1 20

PROVISIONS.

Bacon, ₱ lb.:
Breakfast	— —	— —
Shoulders	4	4¼
Sides, clear rib	5½	— —
Sides, clear	5¾	— —
Hams, sugar-cured	— —	— —
Meal Pork, ₱ bbl.	9 25	10 50
Dry Salted Meats:
Shoulders	3½	3¾
Lard, ₱ lb.:
Choice, in kegs and pails	— —	— —
Choice, in tierces and barrels	8¾	17

ESCULENTS.

Potatoes, ₱ bbl	1 50	4 75
Onions, ₱ bbl	3 50	3 75
Apples, ₱ bbl	— —	— —
Cabbages, ₱ box	3 50	3 75

WOOL.

Burry	9	10
Louisiana, clear	20	21
Lake, clear	23	23½

BALING STUFFS.

Bagging:
India	— —	— —
Jute	10¾	11
Ties, Arrow, best, per bundle, 80 lbs and buckles	— —	2 15
Twine, hemp	13½	14

POULTRY AND EGGS.

Poultry, ₱ dozen:
Old chickens	4 00	5 00
Young	2 50	3 50
Ducks	2 50	3 00
Geese	4 00	5 00
Turkeys	18 00	— —
Eggs, ₱ dozen
Western	10	12
Louisiana	11	12

REMEDY FOR HARD TIMES.—Stop spending so much on fine clothes, rich food and style. Buy good, healthy food, cheaper and better clothing; get more real and substantial things of life every way, and especially stop the foolish habit of running after expensive and quack doctors or using so much of the vile humbug medicine that does you only harm, and makes the proprietors rich, but put your trust in the greatest of all simple, pure remedies, Hop Bitters, that cures always at a trifling cost, and you will see better times and good health. Try it once. Read of it in another column.

What makes the Dead Sea dead? Because it is all the time receiving, never giving out anything. This is the case with too many men.

LAME BACK. WEAK BACK.

BENSON'S CAPCINE

POROUS PLASTER.

Overwhelming evidence of their superiority over all other plasters. It is everywhere recommended by physicians, druggists, and the press.

The manufacturers received a special award and the only medal given to porous plasters at the Centennial Exposition, 1876, at the Paris Exposition, 1878.

Their great merit lies in the fact that they are the only plasters which relieve pain at once.

Every one suffering from Rheumatism, Lame Back, or Weak Back, Cold on the Chest, Coughs, or any local pain or ache should use Benson's Capcine Porous Plaster and be relieved at once. Price 25 cts. Sold by all druggists.

COMMERCIAL.

ADVOCATE OFFICE,
NEW ORLEANS, Tuesday, May 6 1879.

COTTON.

The following report of the cotton market is taken from the Democrat:

Under the influence of favorable advices from abroad, the market here ruled strong, and a good demand prevailed, with sales of 5,340 bales.

The following is the official closing of the Cotton Exchange:

	To-Day.	Saturday
Low ordinary	10⅞	10⅝
Ordinary	10¾	10¾
Good ordinary	11⅛	11
Low middling	11⅜	11¼
Middling	11⅝	11⅝
Good middling	12⅛	11⅞
Middling fair	12⅝	12¼

Sales to-day, 5,340 bales. Market strong.

MOVEMENT AT PORTS.

The movement at ports, from twelve M. Friday, up to twelve M. to-day, is given below:

	Received since Friday.	Same time last week.	Same time last year.
New Orleans	3,411	1,429	2,170
Galveston	318	97	438
Mobile	70	888	585
Savannah	981	1,600	690
Charleston	177	185	623
Wilmington	61	6	109
Norfolk	940	915	1,080
Baltimore		144
New York		318	1,450
Boston	387	396	24
Philadelphia	11	130	78
Other ports
Total	7,074	6,858	7,196

FUTURES.

The position of the market at New York may be seen by the following:

Middling.	To-day.	Saturday.
January
February
March
April
May	12.29	12.02@12.03
June	12.4 @12.42	12.19
July	12.56@12.57	12.36@12.37
August	12.89@12.70	12.49@12.50
September	12.36@12.37	12.14@12.15
October	11.70@11.71	11.51@11.52
November	11.32@11.33	11.14@11.15
December		11.06@11.08

Tone of the market firm. Sales, 102,000 bales.

DOMESTICITY OF GERMAN LADIES.—A recent visitor to the rural retreat of Prince Bismarck made a morning call and expressed himself much surprised at being introduced to the wife of the great statesman, with a bunch of keys hanging from her girdle. But she was quite as proud of these while attending to her domestic duties as of her diamonds when receiving the diplomatists of the world, in her evening receptions while at the capital. And he who is privileged to see the empress herself during the morning hours would most likely find her engaged in arranging or dusting her private apartments; for this duty she is said to attend to regularly. It is no wonder, therefore, that any system of bringing up young girls which would render these good customs obsolete is received with disfavor. The general feeling of the Germans of the better class is decidedly adverse to the wife and mother having any duties outside of the house except those of general benevolence and of charity, in which woman's hands and presence are most effective. But while demanding this, they are by no means in favor of confining their mental or moral activity to narrow limits. The instructress and example for the children, and the guide of youth, has a task that is by no means compatible with any internal narrowness.

Those newspaper editors who are too proud or too obstinate to retract any unjust or improper language which they have admitted to their columns should profit by the example of an editor who gives notice, as follows: "If any subscriber finds a line in this paper that he does not like, and cannot agree with, if he will bring his paper to the office, and point out the offending line, the editor will take his scissors and cut it out for him."

The Baptist national anniversaries will be held in Saratoga May 19-26. The delegates will be quartered at the various hotels.

MISCELLANEOUS.

TUTT'S PILLS.

SYMPTOMS OF A TORPID LIVER.

Loss of Appetite, Bowels Costive, Pain in the Head with a dull sensation in the back part, Pain under the shoulder-blade, Fulness after eating with a disinclination to exertion of body or mind, Irritability of temper, Low Spirits, with a feeling of having neglected some duty, Weariness, Dizziness, Fluttering at the Heart, Dots before the Eyes, Yellow Skin, Headache generally over the right eye, Restlessness with fitful dreams, highly colored Urine.

IF THESE WARNINGS ARE UNHEEDED SERIOUS DISEASES WILL SOON BE DEVELOPED.

TUTT'S PILLS

are especially adapted to such cases, a single dose of this work a change of feeling as to astonish the sufferer.

A NOTED DIVINE SAYS:

DR. TUTT: Dear Sir: For ten years I have been a martyr to Dyspepsia, Constipation and Piles. Last spring your Pills were recommended to me; I used them (on with little faith). I am now a well man, have good appetite, digestion perfect, regular stools, piles gone and I have gained forty pounds solid flesh. They are worth their weight in gold.

REV. R. I. SIMPSON, Louisville, Ky.

The first effect of TUTT'S PILLS is to Increase the Appetite, and cause the body to Take on Flesh, thus the system is nourished, and by their Tonic Action on the Digestive Organs, Regular Stools are produced.

DR. J. F. HAYWOOD OF NEW YORK, SAYS:

"Few diseases exist that cannot be relieved by restoring the liver to its natural functions, and for this purpose no remedy has ever been invented, that has so happy an effect as TUTT'S PILLS."

Sold Everywhere, 25 Cents.

OFFICE, 35 MURRAY ST., NEW YORK.

TUTT'S HAIR DYE.

GRAY HAIR OR WHISKERS changed to a GLOSSY BLACK by a single application of this DYE. It imparts a Natural Color, acts instantaneously, and is, as harmless as spring water. Sold by Druggists, or sent by express on receipt of $1.

Office, 35 Murray Street, New York.

Appointments for Quarterly Meetings.

ALABAMA CONFERENCE.

SELMA DIST.—SECOND ROUND.

Summerfield	Apr. 12, 13
Orrville	19, 20
East Selma	26, 27
Uniontown	May 3, 4
Uniontown circuit	10, 11
Clifton	17, 18
Selma	24, 25
Perryville	29
Brush Creek	June 1
Lower Peach Tree	7, 8
Spring Hill	21, 22
Choctaw Corner	28, 29
Rembert Hills	July 5, 6
Marion	19, 20

The District Conference will be held in Marion, beginning at nine A. M., July 18

17 J. W. RUSH, P. E.

MOBILE DIST.—SECOND ROUND.

Mobile, at Franklin	April 6
Eastern shore, at Bay Mouette	12, 13
Tuscumbia, at Pleasant Valley	19, 20
St. Stephen's, at Bethel	26, 27
Mobile, at St. Paul's	May 4
Whistler	10, 11
Grand Bay, at St. Elmo	17, 18
Bladen Springs, at Zion	24, 25
Okatippa, at Keiser Hill	31, June 1
Mobile, at St. Francis	June 8, 9
Citronelle at Manvilla	14, 15
Suggsville, at Gosport	21, 22
Grove Hill, at Jackson	28, 29

District Conference at St. Paul's, Mobile, July 3-6 (15) E. WADSWORTH, P. E.

PENSACOLA DIST.—SECOND ROUND.

Milton station
Warrington station
Pensacola station	April 12, 13
Pawelton circuit	19, 20
Yellow River mission	26, 27
Gravilla mission	30
Georgiana circuit	May 3, 4
Stockton circuit	10, 11
Pollard circuit	17, 18
Perdido mission	24, 25
Evergreen circuit	31, June 1
Monterey circuit	June 7, 8
Montevillo circuit	14, 15
Sepulga circuit	21, 22

The camp meeting at Williams' Camp Ground will commence on Thursday night before the fifth Sunday in June. Arrangements will be made for a special train on the Pensacola railroad, of which due notice will be given.

15 J. M. BOLAND, P. E.

EUFAULA DIST.—SECOND ROUND.

Eufaula	Apr. 5, 6
Perote, at Aberfoil	12, 13
Bentuh, at Spring Hill	19, 20
Glenville	26, 27
Vilula, at Vilula	May 3, 4
Enon and Midway, at Midway	10, 11
Clayton and Louisville, at Louisville	17, 18
Pea River, at Mount Pleasant	24, 25
Ozark, at Spring Hill	31, June 1
Henry, at Clopton	June 7, 8
Newton, at Center	14, 15
Columbia, at Pleasant Grove	21, 22
White Pond, at Nebo	28, 29

15 R. B. CRAWFORD, P. E.

LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.

NEW ORLEANS DIS.—SECOND ROUND.

Algiers	March 30
Louisiana Avenue	April 6
Morgan Street	13
Felicity Street	20
Carondelet Street	May 4
Pinquemine and Grosse Tete, at Rosedale	17, 18
St. Charles Avenue	25
Baton Rouge	June 1
Lafourche	8

16 LINUS PARKER, P. E.

OPELOUSAS DIST.—SECOND ROUND.

Washington, at Waxia	Apr. 26, 27
Opelousas	May 3, 4
Vermillionville and Pinquemine Brulee at the Junction	10, 11
New Iberia	17, 18
Patterson ville and Morgan City, at Morgan City	24, 25
Franklin	31, June 1
Abbeville, at Prairie Grege	June 7, 8
Lake Charles	11
Sugartown	14, 15
Indian Bayou, at Coulee Croche	21, 22

The District Conference will meet at Vermillionville, June 28, at ten A. M.

16 J. D. HARPER.

SHREVEPORT DIST.—SECOND ROUND.

DeSoto, at Keachie	May 24, 25
Caddo, at Belle Flower	18
Mooringsport, at Mooringsport	30, June 1
Shreveport	June 4
South Bossier, at Filmore	7, 8
North Bossier, at Red River	10
Springville, at Coushatta Academy	19
East Point, at Lindsley chapel	22, 23
Pleasant Hill	29, 30
Many	July 1
Anacoco	3
Lone Oak	5, 6
Castle	9
Natchitoches	12, 13
Natchitoches circuit	15
Mansfield	19, 20
Logansport	30

The District Conference will convene on Wednesday, July 23. All persons responsible for reports will please come prepared to give them. Recording stewards will please bring the Quarterly Conference records.

ROBERT RANDLE, P. E.

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

SEASHORE DIST.—SECOND ROUND.

(COMPLETED.)

Whitfington, at White Plains	May 31, June 1
Ebenezer, at Ebenezer	June 4
Amite City, at Maegee's	7, 8
Covington, at Oak Grove	7, 12
Pearlington, at Logtown	14, 15
China Grove, at Rockwell	21, 22
Wolf River mission	21, 22
Mount Carmel, at Columbia	2
Westville, at Fairmount	28, 29

District Conference at Pearlington beginning on Friday, June 13 at nine A. M. Bishop Keener is requested to preside.

19 JOHN A. ELLIS, P. E.

BRANDON DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

Forest, at Grange House	May 31, June 1
Walnut Grove, at Hillsboro	June 14, 15
Rankin	28, 29
Pleasant, at Raleigh	July 5, 6
Pearson	12, 13
Brandon Station	19, 20
Leaf River	26, 27
Newkirk, at Pleasant Valley	Aug 2, 3
Carthage, at Liberty	9, 10
Prairie, at Holly Bush	16, 17
Tylertown, at Bunyan's Spring Camp Ground	23, 24

Inquiry will be made, during this round, as to the number of "CHRISTIAN ADVOCATES" and other church papers that are being taken in the several pastoral charges in the district. Pastors will please be ready to answer.

Question 11 will be asked this round.

29 C. WILLIS LEITH, P. E.

ALEXANDRIA DIS.—SECOND ROUND.

Harrisonburg and Trinity	May 3
Shelly Island	10
Spring Creek	17
Montgomery	24
Columbia	31
Bayou Beouff and Evergreen	June 1
Simsport, at Church ville	14
Pineville and Colfax	21
Alexandria	28
Rapides	July 5

17 CHRISTIAN KEENER, P. E.

MERIDIAN DIST.—SECOND ROUND.

Wayne circuit, at Shiloh	Apr. 12, 13
Waynesboro circuit, at State Line	18
Okolona Valley mission, at Henderson's	19, 20
Meridian	26, 27
Sinbona circuit, at Decatur	May 3, 4
Enterprise circuit, at Spring Chapel	10, 11
Enterprise station, at Quitman	17, 18
Shady Grove mission, at Oak Grove	24, 25
Philadelphia circuit, at Philadelphia	31, June 1
Marion circuit, at Marion	June 7, 8
DeKalb circuit, at DeKalb	14, 15
Pauline circuit, at Hopewell	21, 22
Spring Hill circuit, at Lauderdale	28, 29

The District Conference will meet at Lauderdale station, Friday morning, June 27.

16 R. J. JONES.

WOODVILLE DIST.—SECOND ROUND.

Jackson, at Pinkston's Island	Apr. 19, 20
East Baton Rouge, at Blackwater (Monday)	21
Livingston, at Live Oak (Wednesday)	23
St. Helena, at Darlington	26, 27
East Feliciana, at Mansfield	May 3, 4
Clinton (sunday night and Monday)	4, 5
Wilkinson, at Midway (Wednesday)	7
Wilkie, at Hopewell (Thursday)	8
Woodville	10, 11
Bayou Sara (Tuesday)	13
Williams and Olmeard, at Concord (Wednesday)	14
Amite, at Homochitto chapel	17, 18
Magnolia, at Muddy Springs	21, 25

15 JAMES A. GOODRICH, P. E.

Religious Notices.

THE Annual Camp-meeting at William's Camp Ground will commence on Thursday night before the fifth Sunday in June. This Camp Ground is situated on the Pensacola Railroad, thirty-four miles from Pensacola.

Ample arrangements are made for visitors, especially ministers. All are cordially invited.

The meeting will be conducted on the self-sustaining plan.

W. L. WILLIAMS, President.
W. W. RICHARDS, Secretary. 17

THE Delhi District Sunday-School Convention will be held at Delhi, on Wednesday after the second Sunday in May.

The members of the convention are the pastors of the various works in the district, together with the superintendents and teachers of each Sunday-school.

If any Sunday-school finds it cannot be represented by superintendent or others, it will please send full reports of its numbers and condition.

The District Conference will most immediately after the adjournment of the convention, at the same place.

Recording stewards will see that the Quarterly Conference records are brought up to the District Conference.

The District Steward's Meeting will be held on Saturday at four o'clock P. M.

J. E. CORR, P. E.

Study to Entertain.

Many people seem to think that the capacity to entertain people, and be entertained, comes naturally; that certain ones can make people happy, because they are gifted and have extraordinary endowments which make it possible for them to delight people. It never seems to occur to them that in order to entertain people one must give thought to it; that people are not made happy without effort—wisely directed effort.

Our observation leads us to think that half at least of the good companionship of the world comes from the good forethought of somebody. Somebody has planned it. The happy occurrence was not an accident; it was the result of premeditation. All the little and sweet social surprises of life, all the little domestic secrets between children and parents which, in their unfolding, brim the household with gladness, all the larger and more stately social festivities that keep the life of a neighborhood and village buoyant, are only the natural sequence of benevolent and good-natured thought on the part of some one.

Have you invited a little company to your house of an evening, friend? Well, then, how do you propose to entertain them? Do you think that sliced tongue and escalloped oysters will suffice? These do well for the stomach and the flesh. But how shall you feed the intellects and spirits of your guests? Music? Yes, if they can sing. But perhaps of the dozen you have invited not over one or two have voices sufficiently cultivated to sing in public. Games? Excellent. Few of us that don't like to play games, checkers, chess, whist, anything that's light, sprightly and entertaining. Have you any pictorial books in your library or about the house? If so, be sure to place them on the center table. We've known a single volume furnish delightful entertainment to a whole group for an hour. Have you a Chinese top? If not, purchase one. It may cost you twenty cents, and we'll warrant that the first evening after you get it, if you be rightly constructed morally, you will want no other entertainment than you will get out of spinning it yourself. Do you say: "Pshaw! tops are for boys?" All right; why not be a boy occasionally? Try it and see how you like it. We dare say you have been a man so long you have forgotten all about being a boy. How long is it since you slid down hill? Twenty years? We are ashamed of you! Get a sled and try it to-morrow night. What a time you will have! We wish we could be with you!—Golden Rule Magazine.

THE FASHIONS.—The following story will entertain the ladies:

"Whence come the fashions?" is a question often asked. Cancur knows where one fashion came from. Several years ago a leading New York house imported, through a blunder, a large amount of a certain very ugly material which would not sell, and lay dead upon their hands. Something had to be done. The proprietors of one or two fashion papers were interviewed. The next week their columns told thousands of eager readers that they had recently been shown a new and stylish fabric which promised to be very fashionable; and the statement was widely copied by the daily press. Retail dealers found their customers inquiring for it, and sought it of the jobbers. The jobbers in turn sought it of the importers, who quickly unloaded their whole stock at a handsome profit. The goods were voted "beautiful" and "stylish," and the fabric in question was "the rage" for a time. Just how much the fashion papers were paid was never divulged. All of which shows how one fashion was "set," and "what fools these mortals be."—Boston Transcript.

Mr Froude has been explaining how he became a historian. "I found myself obliged to settle to some definite occupation," he says. "I would have gladly gone to the bar, or studied medicine, or gone into business; but, as the law then stood, these roads were closed to me. I did not wish, I could not afford to be idle; and, though I knew that I had only the most moderate capacity for it, literature was the only alternative left open."

MISCELLANEOUS.

PRICE REDUCED TO 25 CENTS. The greatest discovery of the age is DR. TOBIAS' CELEBRATED VENETIAN LINIMENT. Thirty-two years before the public and warranted to cure Diarrhea, Dysentery, Colic and Spasms, taken internally; and Croup, Chronic Rheumatism, Sore Throat, Cuts, Bruises, Old Sores, and Pain in the Limbs, Back and Chest, externally. It has never failed. No family will ever be without it after once giving it a fair trial. Price 25 cts. DR. TOBIAS' VENETIAN HORSE LINIMENT, in Pint Bottles, at 50c., is warranted superior to any other, or NO PAY, for the cure of Colic, Cuts, Bruises, Old Sores, etc. Sold by all druggists. Depot 42 Murray street, New York.

MISCELLANEOUS.

THE PIANOS I KEEP.

Every Piano sold by me has stood the test of time—from ten to fifty years. A first-class house like mine cannot experiment at the expense of its patrons with untried or unreliable instruments. Being thoroughly familiar with the construction of a Piano, I am positive of their durability and reliability. I sell my Pianos with the understanding that if in ten or more years a defect in their construction under fair usage should show itself,

The Money Paid will be Cheerfully Refunded.

THE CHICKERING PIANOS,

Have been before the public for fifty-four years, and their reputation extends over the whole world. A six octave Piano of this make, forty-seven years old and perfect in every respect can be inspected in my store. Their superiority over all others is now universally acknowledged.

THE MATHUSHEK PIANOS,

Constructed on entirely new and patented principles which insure their retaining their original brilliancy of tone for a life time, and their standing longer in tune than any other Piano. Those excellent Pianos have been sold here during the last ten years and not the least defect has ever occurred. Their new Uprights are real models of perfection.

THE HALE PIANOS

Are good, reliable and well made Pianos, of excellent tone, and with elastic touch. There are over 1000 of them in this city, and not a defective or worn out one among them.

MY PRICES are well known to be the lowest, as I prefer to sell ten pianos at a small profit than one at a large. My terms are liberal—selling new Pianos on monthly payments of $10, and second hand ones at $5. Fifty second hand Pianos in perfect order from $50 to $175. New Pianos from $225 upwards.

MASON & HAMLIN AND ESTEY ORGANS,

The best instruments of the kind made, from $50 upwards. Direct importation of

MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS, STRINGS AND MUSIC.

The trade and profession supplied at lowest prices.

I request the patronage of the public. No trouble to answer your letters, and I will be pleased to hear from all.

PHILIP WERLEIN,
The Piano Dealer,
135 Canal st., New Orleans.

YALE & BOWLING,

IMPORTERS AND WHOLESALE DEALERS IN

DRY GOODS

NOTIONS AND MILLINERY,

17, 19 and 21 - Magazine Street, - 17, 19 and 21

NEW ORLEANS, LA.

Mme. DEMOREST'S
GRAND OPENING
OF THE
SPRING STYLES,
183 CANAL STREET,
NEW ORLEANS, LA.

These Patterns are in various sizes and put up in illustrated envelopes on which are printed full descriptions, for making, trimming, quantity of material required, etc., and are so accurately marked that the most inexperienced person can put them together.

New Basques, Polonaises, Princess Dresses, Walking Skirts, Trains, etc., for Ladies' and Children's Dresses, also Boy's Clothes, Gentlemen's Underwear, Infants' Patterns, etc., combining economy, practical utility, artistic accuracy and fashionable elegance.

Prices From 10c. to 30c.

Send for catalogue, with directions in English, French, German and Spanish, which is furnished free on application.

GRAND OPENING
SPRING STYLES,
OF
Mme. Demorest's Patterns.
Of the Latest Fashions.

NEW BASQUES, POLONAISES, PRINCESS DRESSES WALKING SKIRTS, FRAMES, ETC., FOR LADIES, MISSES' AND CHILDREN'S DRESS.

D. P. PERRY,
183 Canal Street.
8p

WM. G. LHOTE. A. RAMPLER.

LHOTE & CO,
OLD BASIN
SASH, BLIND,
DOOR FACTORY,
AND
Lumber Yard,
Offices, Cor. Toulouse & Franklin
and 32 Carondelet Sts.,
P. O. Box 936. NEW ORLEANS.
8p

DRY IN ROGERS' POWDER
CITRATE OF MAGNESIA

An Agreeable Aperient and Refrigerant.

This well-known preparation is highly recommended for DYSPEPSIA, HEADACHE, Sickness at the Stomach, Heartburn, and all complaints arising from Acidity, Bilious and Malarial Fevers. It cools the blood and regulates the bowels. It is a favorite medicine for children and its acidity and sweet taste makes it cooling and refreshing. Put up in 6-ounce bottles. Prepared by

A. ROGERS' SONS, Chemists, N. Y.

Superior to Mineral Waters, Seidlitz Powders, Etc.

For sale by all New Orleans druggists. 8p

THE ORIGINAL

Superintendent of the BOY and LEWIS COCKWOOD of New Orleans.

A. McDERMOTT,

has returned and established the business of manufacturing Dr. Bly's patent

ARTIFICIAL

Arms and Legs,

and has purchased the sole right for the Southern States. Perfect satisfaction guaranteed in all cases or no pay. Prices greatly reduced.

A. McDERMOTT,
203 Camp Street, N. O.

BUENA SALUD.

COCA

BITTERS.

THE GREAT

SOUTH AMERICAN

TONIC.

A SOVEREIGN REMEDY FOR

Dyspepsia & all Disorders of Digestion,

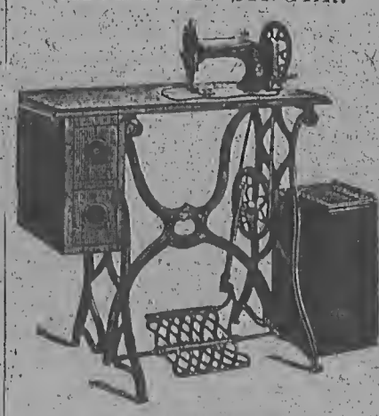
CHILLS AND FEVER,

Diseases of the Liver, Debility of the Nervous System and SICK HEADACHE.

This unequaled remedy is made from the celebrated Coca leaf (erythroxylon coca,) and is recommended by the highest authorities in the medical world. The use of this leaf is almost universal among the natives of Peru and Bolivia.

ASK YOUR DRUGGIST FOR IT.

QUICHUA COCA CO.,



No. 72 William St., New York.
6p

BEWARE OF

Imitation Machines

Offered by second-hand dealers as

IMPROVED SINGER.

THE GENUINE

SINGER MACHINE,

—MADE BY THE—

Singer Manufacturing Co.

HAS NO EQUAL.

2,500,000 Singers in Daily Use.

Two-thirds of all the machines sold in the United States are those made by

The Singer Company,

Send for Circular and Price List. Address

The Singer Manufacturing Co.,
85 CANAL STREET,
Agent's for Butterick's Patterns.

W. C. SHEPARD & Co.,
50 CAMP STREET.

China Crockery Glass,

AND HOUSE FURNISHING EMPORIUM.

CHINA, SEMI-CHINA AND IRONSTONE DINNER SETS.

Viz: 12 Dinner, 12 Breakfast, 12 Tea, 12 Fruit, 12 Bird or Plates; 12 Ice, 12 After-Dinner Cups and Saucers; 1 Soup Tureen, 4 Gravy Boat, 2 Dishes with Tops, 2 Without, 4 Meat Dishes, 1 Salad Dish, 2 Pickle Shells.

Variety Novelties in Housekeeping.

TEA SETS all prices and quality.

GOBLETS, TUMBLERS, BOWLS, CAKE-STANDS, BERRY SETS, CASTORS, KNIVES, FORKS, SPOONS, LADLES, WAITERS.

CHAMBER SETS White, Band, Fancy—all prices.

TIN CHAMBER SETS, FOOT TUB, WATER CARRIER and SLOP PAIL, REFRIGERATORS, ICE CHESTS, WATER COOLERS, CREAM FREEZERS, COAL OIL STOVES, LAMPS, CANS to contain 50 gallons of oil, BRUSHES, WOODWARE, TINWARE, PLATED WARE, FANCY VASES, MOTTO CUPS, MUGS, FLOWER GLASSES, CLOCKS, LOOKING GLASSES, CHANDELIERS.

MILLINERY
AND BERLIN ZEPHYR.

Mme. ROSA RENOIR,

No. 9 Chartres Street,

Having returned from the North begs to inform her patrons and the ladies in general that she is now prepared to furnish them with all the latest novelties in her line, carefully selected in New York and Baltimore, and received direct from leading Parisian houses, and that she will be receiving weekly all the new shapes in

French Chips
AND
English and American Straws, for ladies, misses and children.

Also an infinite variety of FLOWERS, FEATHERS, SILKS, ORNAMENTS, NECKWEARS, etc., of elegant design and material.

Her prices will be found lower than those of any other first-class house.

Berlin Zephyr, etc.,

Just received direct from the factories a full line of genuine BERLIN ZEPHYR, of all colors.

DISCOVERY BY which hair can be forced to grow on the smoothest heads. The papers all over the country contain notices of the remarkable virtues of Mrs. Lyall's Hair Restorer, and there are scores of living witnesses in St. Louis who take pleasure in testifying to the efficacy of the Restorer. Mrs. Lyall's principle is the most reasonable, because she proceeds on the well-based supposition that the hair germ never dies while the person exists in the person, and that it is only necessary to stimulate the germ to produce a satisfactory growth. Three bottles for $5; $1 to accompany the order and balance to be paid when medicine is delivered.

205 NORTH SIXTH ST., pp above, St. Louis, Mo

T. W. BOTHICK,

UNDERTAKER

OFFICE, 377 CAMP STREET.

STABLES, 978 MAGAZINE STREET.

Embalming and disinterring bodies. Bodies carefully shipped. Carriages for hire.

FUNERALS STRICT ATTENTION. 8p

The Christian Advocate.

PUBLISHED FOR THE ALABAMA, MISSISSIPPI AND LOUISIANA CONFERENCES, METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH SOUTH.

VOL. 25. NEW ORLEANS, THURSDAY, MAY 15, 1879 NO. 20

The Christian Advocate.

REV. LINUS PARKER, D. D., Editor.

G. T. LATHROP, Publisher.

OFFICE—112 CAMP ST., NEW ORLEANS.

Address all matters of business, G. T. LATHROP, 112 Camp street, New Orleans.

Address all communications designed for publication, Rev. LINUS PARKER, 112 Camp street, New Orleans.

AGENTS—All the members of the Patronizing Conference.

PUBLISHING COMMITTEES.

ALABAMA CONFERENCE.

REV. EDWARD WADSWORTH, D. D.
REV. FELIX R. HILL.
REV. H. D. MOORE.

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

REV. W. H. WATKINS, D. D.
REV. JAMES A. GODFREY.
REV. J. O. JONES.

LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.

REV. JOHN MATHEWS.
REV. LINUS PARKER, D. D.
REV. CHRISTIAN KEENER.

RATES OF SUBSCRIPTION.

The New Orleans Christian Advocate will be furnished to subscribers at the following rates including postage:

One Year	$2 00
Six Months	1 15
Three Months	75

To all Ministers of the Gospel and widows of deceased traveling preachers:

One Year	$1 00
Six Months	50
Three Months	25

TWO SERMONS.

BY AUSTIN DOBSON.

Between the rail of woven brass
That hides the "Strangers' Pew,"
I hear the gray-haired vicar pass
From Section One to Two.

And somewhere on my left I see—
Whene'er I chance to look—
A soft-eyed girl, St. Cecile,
Who notes them—his book.

Ah, worthy Gradman—found thyriftest
Shall I your wrath incur,
If I admit these thoughts of mine
Will sometimes stray to her?

I know your theme, and I revere;
I hear your precepts cried;
Must I confess I also hear
A sermon at my side?

Or now explain this need I feel,—
This impulse prompting me
Within my secret self to kneel
To Faith and Purity.—Scribner.

NEWS OF THE WEEK.

DOMESTIC.

MONTGOMERY, May 6.—The Democrats were successful in the city election to-day by 400 majority for Mayor and Clerk, and elected every Alderman.

The United States Court has confirmed the sale of the Montgomery and Eufaula Railroad to Mr. Wadley.

NASHVILLE, May 6.—The National Colored Conference met to-day; it was called to order by Gov. Pinchback and presided over by J. L. B. Lynch, of Mississippi. The business to-day not materially important.

ATLANTA, May 7.—The National Board of Health to-day discussed the question of railroad quarantine, and passed resolutions regulating the same.

Resolutions from the Mississippi Valley Sanitary Council were also fully discussed. They provide for a thorough inspection of all boats, barges and tugs at New Orleans, Vicksburg, Memphis and Cairo. The Sanitary Council proves of great value to the board in suggesting sanitary needs of the South.

ATLANTA, May 7.—The jury in the Cox case were out all night, and came in at noon to-day to be recharged in full. At a quarter to four P. M., they came in and announced that they had agreed upon a verdict. It was decided to correct an informality, and was read as follows: We, the jury, find the prisoner guilty, and recommend that he be punished by imprisonment for life. Cox received the verdict with calmness and stoicism, having evidently nerved himself for the worst. His wife, on hearing the words so fatal to her hopes, sat for a moment trembling, and then rushed for an open window near by for the purpose of throwing herself to the ground below. She was wild with grief. As she reached the window she was caught by Cox, who held her fast. She threw her arms around his neck and clung to him wildly, exclaiming "Oh, my God." "Oh, my poor darling."

Her shrieks were heartrending, and the occupants of the crowded room could not restrain their tears or pity. Cox used all his power to calm her, and finally soothed her grief until only her deep moans broke upon the solemn stillness. Judge Hillyer sentenced Cox to "be confined in the penitentiary, or such other place as the Governor may direct, at hard labor, for and during his natural life."

Gen. Castroll gave notice that the defense would make a motion for a new trial and praying a writ of supersedeas.

The execution of the sentence was thereupon stayed twenty days. This penalty is virtually the extreme of the law in this State, as a law passed, with Alston's aid, at the last session of the Legislature, giving juries the right to recommend the life imprisonment in all cases of murder, as they see fit, in effect abolishes the death penalty. Cox is the first man convicted of murder who receives the benefit of that law. The verdict is received with general approval.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 8.—The official returns of the vote cast in this city yesterday give a majority against the new constitution of 1,215. Returns from the interior confirm previous advices, and the instrument is adopted by a majority of from 6,000 to 10,000. The farmers seem to have voted solidly for it. The result has caused much bitterness of feeling in business circles, where it is looked upon, to a considerable extent, as an attack upon the city's interests by the interior.

WASHINGTON, May 9.—The Senate passed, with amendments, the House bill providing for the payment of money heretofore appropriated to James B. Eads and his associates for the construction of the jetties and other works at the South Pass, Mississippi River.

Consideration of the bill prohibiting military interference at elections was then resumed.

Mr. Edmunds spoke on the bill.

Before taking the vote considerable excitement was manifested.

Messrs. Blaine and Chandler both spoke. The latter made a bitter speech, saying, in the course of his remarks, that he and his party believed twelve Senators on the Democratic side held seats fraudently, and yet it was proposed to oust Kellogg, who was justly entitled to the Senatorship.

The bill was afterwards passed by a vote of thirty-three to twenty-three.

NEW YORK, May 10.—The Longshoremen's strike continues, and is causing serious delay in the sailing of European steamers.

Rear Admiral Parrett, United States navy, is dead.

ATLANTA, GA., May 10.—In the Southern Baptist Convention to-day, the report of the Committee on Co-operation with the Northern Baptists was discussed the entire day, and finally adopted unanimously, as follows:

Resolved, That five brethren be appointed by this convention to bear to the Baptist brethren of the Northern States, at their approaching anniversary, expression of our fraternal regard, and assurances that, while firmly holding to the wisdom and policy of preserving our separate organization, we are ready, as in the past to co-operate cordially with them in promoting the cause of Christianity in our own and foreign lands.

PORTSMOUTH, May 10.—The result of the Surgeon's investigation of the U. S. steamship Plymouth is that she is undoubtly infected with yellow fever germs, and will continue so until re-built.

RONDOUT, N. Y., May 12.—Immense fires have been raging on the Catskills for several days and are increasing. The burned district covers an area of about 7,000 acres. The air is filled with smoke. The weather is dry. The fires are seen from the river at night. No houses have been destroyed as yet.

AUSTIN, May 12.—The Governor to-day issued a proclamation convening the Legislature in extra session June 16.

WASHINGTON, May 12.—The President to-day returned to the House of Representatives the "act to prohibit military interference at elections," with its objections to its approval.

FOREIGN.

CITY OF MEXICO, April 30.—The Congressional committee reported a bill appropriating $500,000 toward the expenses of the exposition.

Peace prevails in the internal and Northern States, and has been re-established in the Western States. The troubles in Sonora have been entirely settled. Mariscal has gone to Mazatlan and Serna remains Governor of Sonora until the Legislature meets.

The Valley of Texmelucan, near the city of Mexico, has been the scene of an uprising of natives, of a Socialistic character. The disorder was speedily suppressed and the rioters dispersed.

LONDON, May 7.—The Journal de St. Petersburgh says: The news published abroad about the state of affairs at St. Petersburg is untrue; there has been no prohibition against the possession of arms, but persons possessing arms must inform the authorities. All traffic is entirely free and unimpeded. The statements that the theater could not be visited without official permit and that lights in the houses would not be allowed after ten o'clock, are ridiculous inventions. The city lives and works in the same manner as heretofore, without excitement, and undisturbed in its daily life and intercourse.

SIMLA, May 8.—The Ameer of Afghanistan arrived at Gundamuk to-day. He was met at the frontier by Major Covagonarl and a detachment of the tenth Hussars and goldes. British troops of all arms lined the route to the camp. Distance two and a half miles.

Gen. Browne and staff received the Ameer on his arrival at the end of the line, when a salute of twenty-one guns was fired.

The Ameer has announced his arrival to the Viceroy of India, and expressed a desire for the establishment of friendly relations between India and Afghanistan.

PARIS, May 9.—The Siecle states that Pere Hyacinthe has petitioned for the recognition of his sect by the state, equally with other denominations.

MADRID, May 10.—The Epoca says the news of King Alfonso's approaching marriage with an Austrian Princess is well received in Spain and by the powers.

LONDON, May 12.—A dispatch from Simmon's Bay, Cape of Good Hope, dated April 28, says: There has been no fresh fighting. Lord Chelmsford and Prince Louis Napoleon have gone to Kambula.

Noguevaeda, Cetewayo's youngest brother, has surrendered.

The death of Umbolini, one of the King's brothers, is continued.

The news from the Transvaal is encouraging. The Boers have broken up their camp and returned home.

A dispatch from Iquique, Peru, dated May 5 says: The blockade by the Chilian fleet continues.

PORT JARVIS, May 12.—The forest fires are still spreading and destroying a vast amount of timber in the northwestern part of Pike county, Pennsylvania. On last Saturday night the fire penetrated to the breeding park of the Blooming Grove Park Association, and before the flames could be fought back by a large force of laborers, over fifty acres were burned over and several deer perished in the flames. The weather continues dry, with very little prospect of rain.

ROME, May 12.—At the consistory held to-day the Pope appointed five cardinal priests and three cardinal deacons. Among the new cardinals is the Rev. John Henry Newman of England, and the Rev. Dr. Herzenroether. The Pope also made numerous appointments to bishoprics; among them those of Cardinal Hohenlohe to the bishopric of Albany; Rev. Dr. McCabe to that of Dublin, and Rev. Dr. Woodlock to that of Ardagh and Clonmacknois.

ST. PETERSBURG, May 12.—Intelligence has been received from Tiflis that a disease, with a terrible mortality, is raging in ten villages in the Caucasi. A solemn procession of holy pictures has been held in the District of Garri, and prayers offered for the preservation of the inhabitants.

The Alabama Conference Female College.

MR. EDITOR: This institution is presided over by John Massey, A. M., whose experience and success as a teacher render him every way worthy of the position. To speak of his scholarship, his manly Christian character, and his well balanced system of teaching and discipline, would be, to those who know him, a work of supererogation. He needs no commendation from this writer. He is the same solid John, revised, enlarged and improved.

The work done always shows the capacity and character of the workman. And this institution reflects most beautifully the highest and best order of teaching talent. The president and his corps of teachers, who are a unit in action, almost in idea, labor to make the development symmetrical—a development in unity, which is the true idea of education for both girls and boys.

The literary, musical and art departments are all well sustained. And while the young ladies are not overworked in any department they have enough to do to make a little recess a very pleasant episode in the history of a day. The results, as they may be seen at the approaching commencement, will be the best comment that can be made upon these features of school training.

But I wish to say something of the more important features of school and college life. It is the opinion of the writer that the most important factor in the training of the young, both at home and in school, is to make them cheerful and happy. The saddest of all sad things is a sad child, and a sad childhood fixes itself so indelibly in the character that it cannot be effaced by the hand of Time.

The old tyrannical idea of training the young is contrary to every impulse of an elevated humanity. And our more advanced thinkers and teachers are seeking, securing better and more practical forms. There is no virtue in the inevitable "Birch" per se. There is no virtue in any form of punishment only as it works reformation in the life and conduct. The will must be reached. The individual, old or young, must work from his own mental and moral centers. And in all forms of government, family, school, civil, religious, the governed must love and respect the government itself. To secure this end is to solve the problem in discipline.

The writer spent several hours in the above named institution, and was, as any thoughtful man would be, impressed with the perfect harmony, the faithfulness of every pupil, the uninterrupted system and order in every movement, from the president down to the smallest girl, while the merry laugh, the cheerful voice and beaming faces of all indicated the highest degree of happiness. I asked the president to give me the secret of this magic power. He replied: "I give them plenty to do, and treat them well." The more I think of this answer the more completely satisfied I am that it contains the secret of success in training the young. The temptation to enlarge at this point, is strong, but we forbear.

The religious feature is worthy of notice. In this institution there is no special stress laid upon a mere creed or spasmodic sensationalism. But, the teachers bring to bear upon the pupils the savor of consistent Christian life. We do not mean to be invidious or fulsome, but we will say that the purest Christian light is shed upon this institution every day and every hour in every day. And once a week there is a prayer meeting held by some of the teachers in a room of the building. In this unpretentious prayer-meeting from forty to sixty meet and sing and pray and talk of God, of Christ, of Heaven; and here, too, souls are converted to God. Mr. Editor, would you not like to witness one of those conversions—an unobserved observer? How pure, how holy, how sweet must be that place; how pure, how real must be those conversions. How they jut out beyond the lines of cold rationalism, and demonstrate the power and divinity of our holy religion.

It affords me pleasure to say that Tuskegee, the beautiful and healthy town in which this college is situated, is in a more flourishing condition than it has been for years.

To those who have an ear and eye for the beautiful, and a heart for the pure and lovely, a visit to this college will be a rich treat. May Heaven's blessing rest upon it.

AUBURN, ALA., May 2, 1879.

A circular, recently issued by the American Bible Society, makes the following announcement:

The managers avail themselves of this occasion to announce a change of policy by which, instead of relying upon Auxiliary Societies alone to effect a sale of their publications, they design to secure a wider circulation of the books through the channels of trade; and, to make it for the interest of dealers in books to accommodate their customers by keeping for sale the society's Bibles and Testaments, they offer to such dealers, and to them only, a discount of ten per cent. from the catalogue price.

The society does not seek profit, and, in offering its books for sale has regard only to receiving the return of the cost of production.

It is expected that the policy now adopted will be of great service to the public, who will be gratified to find at the usual places, where books are sold, Bibles and Testaments bearing the imprint of this great National Society, which is a guarantee of the accuracy of the text and of the excellency of the printing and binding.

A correspondent of the Hugo News mentions that in the city of Kioto there are to be seen many semi-foreign buildings which are the Shogakko, or elementary schools. Of these there are 61 in the city, and 115 to the whole fu. Kioto is divided into two large districts, called Kami and Shimo Kyo, which are subdivided respectively into 33 and 32 ku. Each ku is obliged to establish and maintain one of these schools, except in the case of poor ku, when two are allowed to unite and form one school district. Besides the usual Japanese course of studies, the pupils are taught the elements of foreign mathematics, history, geography and philosophy, and they are also trained in gymnastic exercises. Education is compulsory, only those who are of age being exempted who are necessary to the support of their parents.

Field Notes.

ELMORE CIRCUIT, ALABAMA CONFERENCE.

This circuit is east of the Coosa river, on the northern line of the Conference; had nine appointments—now ten—eight of which are served on Sabbath; the nearest is five miles apart; a membership of about 150, about 200 of whom are heads of families; there are many of them that do not have family prayers; there are five local preachers, two of whom are old, and cannot do much work; the other three are working men, and useful; the stewards are looking after the interests of the preachers; they think they will raise their assessment; the church is kind to the preacher and his family; we are raising means to buy a parsonage; the amount necessary will be reported at quarterly meeting; one young lady at a wedding raised $25; did not forget the cause of the Master on such an occasion; our presiding elder is faithful to his work—soul and mind; the pastor has made over one hundred pastoral visits; he thinks there is an improvement in the spiritual condition of the church; we are hoping and praying for the conversion of souls.

CHAS. H. WARD.

MAY 1, 1879.

WAYNESBORO, MISS., May 1, 1879.

MR. EDITOR: How full of life in old age to give up the activities of younger life. The habits of industry cling to us, and stimulate to exertion when age and infirmity have exhausted and superannuated nature. This ought to be and often is one of the habits of piety, and we often find aged persons under the stimulus of both. In a pastoral visit recently I found a beautiful illustration of this combination in the person of a Bro. Petty. Though sixty five years of age, he is active and industrious, and had been out splitting rails and preparing land for cultivation, though against the wishes of loved ones. But his Christian character shines with peculiar and beautiful luster and gives a charming sweetness to his life. He has a sound and rich experience, and delights in talking of God's goodness and love, the preciousness of the Bible, his hopes of the fruition of heaven, "by the sweet by-and-by," and singing those rich old hymns: "When all Thy mercies, O my God," etc., and "My God, the spring of all my joys," etc. How glorious the closing years of such a life, and its conditions! It is the finishing course, the ready offering, the improved talents, the trimmed and burning lamp for the Bridegroom! The outer verge of human life adorned with its richest jewels, and the suburbs of heaven with the title to "the inheritance of the saints in light."

W. H. HINES.

GREENVILLE, MISS., May 3, 1879.

DR. PARKER: Our second Quarterly Conference for this place is to be held to-day. The pastor, Rev. J. L. Futrell, is at his post, and greatly beloved by his people; has been engaged in a meeting at his church, for three weeks, with much to encourage him.

There is a Young Men's Christian Association at this place that has, since January, expended for the orphans and suffering about $1 200. The Sunday law also is being enforced, and grog shop loungers are spending dry times on the Lord's day. Come to our District Conference, May 16-18.

Yours truly,

S. T. JANE.

BROOKHAVEN DISTRICT MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

Among the many mediated into the church by Rev. Theophilus Moody, whose memoir appeared in last ADVOCATE, was the subscriber, in the year 1819, at a week-day appointment on the D. K. N. circuit; and also by him recommended, in 1850, at Auburn session, of the Alabama Conference. It is not natural to say he held the seat of honor in my esteem of men. And, though dead, yet he liveth in grateful recollection of many silent ones, in whose religious welfare he was the honored instrument, and will while this heart is warm with life. A peer among his cotemporaries, if not in depth of thought or grace of oratory, a leader in earnest work and lasting success. His jewels are many. His works do praise him.

W. E. M. LINDSLEY, P. E.

ARCOLA, MISS., May 5, 1879.

Methodism in this city has the ascendency. Our people love the church and take care of their preacher. No charge in the Conference exceeds us in a Sabbath-school; none has a better superintendent. Ours is a beautiful town, with refined society, good houses and broad streets. There are schools enough to accommodate all the children, and churches with capacity to seat the congregations. We are healthy, and have no fear of yellow fever. Truly,

S. H. SHARKEY.

CRYSTAL SPRINGS, MISS., May 6, 1879.

Remarkably healthy here; no death in my congregation, of about two hundred, since I came here fifteen months ago. Fruit and vegetables are extensively cultivated and shipped West; about three thousand quarts of strawberries already sent, average price received, was twenty-five cents. Peas and beans are coming into market, and selling well. Next month some peaches will be sent. The crop is medium this year. Apples abundant. Around here Copiah is believed to be the best fruit and vegetable section in Mississippi. The people generally are moral; no drinking-shop in town; four churches; four Sunday-schools; regular service in each; a well attended union prayer-meeting every Sunday evening; a good protracted meeting at the Methodist Episcopal Church lately; some conversions and accessions.

J. L. FORSYTH.

HAZLEHURST, MISS., May 8, 1879.

Our quarterly meeting for Lake Providence circuit is over. We had a very interesting meeting; five additions to the church, and three previously; no presiding elder; congregations very good; the people have made the preacher and family very comfortable; finances tolerably good; prospects in church affairs very favorable; planting interests very promising indeed; the negro exodus has affected this parish but little. I like "Field Notes" very much.

H. G. WHITE.

GREENSBORO, ALA., May 6, 1879.

MR. EDITOR: Last Friday night, May 2, we had a concert and supper for the benefit of the Methodist Church at this place which was truly an enjoyable affair. Mrs. Schuyler, an accomplished musician of Jackson, La., with a party of ladies and gentlemen, came over and helped us. The piece performed by them, well chosen and rendered in execution, will long linger in our memory. The audience, though large, was not orderly and appreciative. There was nothing to which the most fastidious Christian lady or gentleman could object. The net proceeds amounted to nearly $100. There was a balance due on our organ, the remainder will be applied to some improvements needed on our church, which we are anxious to accomplish before the District Conference, which meets here, I suppose, in July.

Mr. Editor, shall we not expect you? You have a warm place in some of our hearts here, and we promise to do our very best by you. Come. Your friend and sister,

MARY E. PARKER.

HAZLEHURST, MISS., May 6, 1879.

The seventh session of the Deer-ur District Conference, North Alabama Annual Conference, met at Town Creek, on the M. and C. railroad, May 2. Attendance, both clerical and lay, above the average. Reports, for the most part, encouraging; church sound and healthful; here and there improvements in progress; parsonages multiplying; took steps to secure one for the district; located at Moulton; doing better in matters of finance; Sunday schools thriving; education receiving increased attention; prayer meetings in every charge, and in most, class-meetings are being revived; sacraments are regularly administered, and church records properly kept; next session of this Conference to be held at Summerville; the presiding elder, Rev. W. R. Kirk, presided; Rev. G. R. Lynch, secretary; closed on Sunday, May 4.

W. H. ARMSTRONG.

BLACK HAWK, MISS., May 7, 1879.

The Rev. Dr. Wier will preach the commencement sermon of Yazoo District High School, Black Hawk, Miss., on June 8, and the Rev. H. F. Sprales of the Baptist Church, will deliver the annual address.

The above institution, under the efficient management of President Tarrant, is enjoying a good degree of prosperity.

JOSEPH S. GIKLEY.

CHICASAWHAY, LA., May 7, 1879.

BRO. PARKER: One of our most efficient sisters of the church, Sister Eliza J. Merrell, died on Saturday night, May 3—died in the triumphs of a living faith. Our work is prosperous; have had seventeen accessions to the church on the work; Sabbath-schools more promising than ever before; congregations large; health good; crops promising; expect to build a church in Chickahayha this year; District Conference meets here July 23; we are praying for a revival then. Brethren, pray for us.

Yours in Christ,

W. B. STAYTON.

HOMER, LA., May 7, 1879.

The Union Sunday School May-day picnic brought into the treasury $251 35, the result of balloting for May Queen, at five cents per vote. This has been a revival year in the Sunday School work. A Sunday School Convention is to be a part of our coming District Conference. This is an experiment, but we hope to infuse life more life into the Sunday School cause. I am glad of the proposed visit of Bro. Ivy to my charge on the eleventh instant.

Respectfully,

J. A. PARKER.

MONTGOMERY, ALA., May 9, 1879.

DEAR DOCTOR: Allow me to say, in answer to "T. D. W.," in the last ADVOCATE, that my appointment to Ocuppa, Miss., was made after the adjournment of the Board of Missions. Dr. M. S. Andrews, the president of the board, having corresponded with the different members, informs me that there will be an appropriation made. Dr. Andrews has had a interesting meeting now in progress in his church. I had the pleasure of preaching for him last night to a very attentive congregation. Oh, for clouds of heavenly mercy and showers of divine grace upon the dear people of Montgomery! I have been spending a couple of weeks with my family in this city, and leave to-morrow for my work. Success to you and our ADVOCATE.

A. J. BROOKS.

BROOKHAVEN, MISS., May 12, 1879.

Yesterday was the day for our communion service in Brookhaven. We held preparatory services, beginning Wednesday night, assisted by Bro. Forsyth, of Crystal Springs. Ten persons applied for church membership. Our communion service was edifying. Yesterday afternoon we had a mass meeting of Sunday School pupils and teachers, and Dr. Johnson gave us an interesting account of the State Sunday School Convention which has just been held at Kosciusko.

Our meeting closed last night with a deep interest in the congregation.

W. H. LEWIS.

The Christian Advocate.

THURSDAY, MAY 15, 1879.

THE SEA'S ANSWER.

The pale moon rushed along the stormy sky,
Now hid, now seen like some belated bark,
That drives among the breakers shiftlessly,
Their white crests gleaming silver through the dark.

Pale as the moon, beneath the light-house cowered,
The silent watcher on the great stone pier
She saw how black the gathering cloud-wrack lowered,
She heard the gale's hoarse warning muttering near.

She felt the kindred fire all in her breast,
With nature's angry mood was prompt to blend;
Yet the sea answered, stilling her unrest,
"The hardest hap comes ever to the end."

Though the great waves roll thundering to the shore,
And o'er the reef the cruel surf-clouds foam;
Though fierce and high the crashing breakers roar,
Between the weary fisherman and home;

Calm in its depths the tide will float at night,
The waves keep whispering back ward from the bar,
And as the cottage-hearth shows welcome light,
The lighted haven hails the harbor bar.

Ears that can hear, hearts that can understand,
Know Ocean tells us, like a staunch old friend,
God holds the future in His loving hand,
The hardest hap comes ever to the end."

The red-roofed houses piled beneath the head
To silent, separate lights began to shine,
The struggling moon-beams fearful radiance shed
On the grand beauty of the ruby shrine.

From the quay-side laugh, snatch of song, and call,
Came dimly to the pier upon the breeze,
And, regular as pulse's rise and fall,
Boomed the long echo of the breaking seas.

And still the watcher on the great stone pier
Lingered above the eternal waves to build,
Taking their answer home to hush and cheer,
"The hardest hap comes ever to the end."

—All the Year Round.

Letter from Great Britain.

The growth of Protestantism in Rome is disturbing the Pope very much. It is also stirring him up to encourage education—a new and strange thing for a Pope to do, for certainly such a policy is suicidal. To counteract the influence of Protestant schools he has appointed a commission of prelates and members of the Romish nobility to assume direction and watchfulness over all Catholic primary and elementary schools, and to increase their number and efficiency. His holiness will contribute himself to support Catholic education in Rome, and calls upon his children throughout the world to help him. He does all this because he has not the ability to adopt the measures which his predecessors could have used, and which would soon drive all Protestant ministers and agencies from Rome. There is something both ominous and plaintive in this lugubrious whim and wailing confession of impotence. Let it be read, for it demonstrates beyond question or challenge that this old persecuting, blood-thirsty and Bible-hating spirit of popery still remains.

"You know, Signor Cardinal, that this manner of instructing youth without the beneficient influence of the Church was introduced into the States of the Holy See little by little, as they were taken from the legitimate rule of the Pontiff; and, further, that without taking into the slightest account the very special conditions and character with which Rome is invested in the eyes of all as being the seat of the Vicar of Christ, and the center of Catholicism, here also the door of the most ample liberty was opened to error. Hence it has come about that within these august walls the Catholic catechism is scarcely tolerated for a few hours in the public schools, while in those opened and supported by Protestants the tender minds of boys and girls are imbued with wicked doctrines in conformity with the heterodox spirit of those who teach them. Our condition is such that we are even constrained to see error under the protection of the public laws, free to establish its cathedra without our being permitted to use efficacious means to silence it. How disgraceful it is that the city where the Vicar of Christ has his seat should with impunity be contaminated with heresy, and become, as in pagan times, the receptacle of errors, the asylum of the sects. Every argument proves that in the Holy City the religion of Christ ought to reign sovereign and mistress, and the universal teacher of the faith ought to have free power to close all access against impiety, and to maintain the purity of Catholic teaching."

It is mortifying and humiliating for the Pope to be defeated in his own Rome. No wonder he sighs for temporal power and sovereignty; for if he had these he would not be beaten in his own capital. He has not, however, carnal weapons, and those of ethereal temper the Pope never wielded, and does not know how to use, therefore the contest is unequal, and the man of sin must go to the wall.

The Wesleyan Thanksgiving Fund well deserves the studious attention of those who prefer free will offerings to any form of compulsory support in the maintenance of religious operations and services. The amount already promised is £111 000. To the honor of the ministry, be it recorded that they have led the whole connection in this matter. The very first contribution on the list, last issued runs thus: "An aged supernumerary, £24;" and this is but one of many handsome gifts from ministers, old and young, married and single, together with children of the former. In some instances, when perhaps the possession of private property made the difference, ministers and ministerial families have sent in princely gifts; but in general these sums, rising from tens to hundreds, and from hundreds to thousands, have naturally proceeded from laymen and lay families in the employment of ample fortunes, or of large profits from commerce or manufactures. Nor is it less than marvelous whether we speak of tens, hundreds or thousands, that so much liberality should have been shown in this time of stagnation and distress. In one case, for example, a gentleman who had already given £1,000 for general purposes added the munificent sum of £9 000 "for an orphanage;" while at the lower end of the scale there may be noticed such items as "Sergeant and Mrs. Kerrison, £2," and "Private William Davidson, 30th Regiment, 10s.," which may be regarded as a truly thankful and well-earned acknowledgment of the "army work" which the Conference instituted years ago, and which has been prosecuted with a degree of success that has drawn warm recognition not only from the commanders of regiments, but also from general officers of the highest rank. A signal result from an examination of the whole series is the productive power of those chords of connectional, personal and family sympathy which have been so distinctly struck and so universally responded to. And this is grandly characteristic of all those epochs in Methodism which required the financial relief and aid of its members.

The Protestants of Connemara are being savagely maltreated by the Romanists there. A regular crusade against the few Protestants of the place appears to have been organized, and the social condition of the whole district has assumed such a character that if the executive do not interfere with sufficient energy and power to vindicate the supremacy of the law, and suppress, with a strong hand, the system of terrorism which has recently set up, the worst results may be feared. At Belleek the mistress of the mission school has been abused, and her children ordered out of the school; at Omay the teachers have been assaulted, and the school house wrecked by a mob. The Protestant rector of Sellerna, an old and infirm man, and his daughter, have been severely wounded. In other places churches and school houses have been wrecked, and the police have had to fire on the mob. In all lands Popery would do the same if it had the power. It masquerades toleration and good behavior when it is in a numerical minority, but when position, numbers and power enable it, it would grant no liberty to those outside its pale.

The programme of the missionary anniversary of the Wesleyan body is published. Nearly all the names are new. Theodore Monod, of Paris, is the "stranger" this year. The speakers at the missionary meeting, except him, appear for the first time in that capacity on the platform in Exeter Hall. They are all able and eloquent men, and one is quite young, but he has demonstrated his claim to the distinction of an invitation to London. He is the Rev. John H. Scholl, of Leeds. Ireland will be represented by the Rev. William Gorman, one of the most original and able ministers of Irish Methodism. Paushon will speak at the Baptist Missionary Meeting and Newman Hall will address the Primitive Methodist Meeting. So will Mr Lobb, who acquired considerable celebrity by shaving "Uncle Tom" through England a year or two ago.

OBSERVER.

April 18, 1879.

The Iniquity of Lotteries.

THE ARGUMENT IN A NUTSHELL.

MR. EDITOR: The extract from the argument of T. J. Semmes, Esq., in the defense of the Louisiana Lottery Company, so justly criticised by you in a late number of the ADVOCATE shows very clearly not only the grounds of legal defense, but the real course of the life and practical support of lotteries, and all other schemes of chance whereby money is sought to be made. It is denied that they are wrong in themselves, and churches called Christian are said to have sanctioned and employed them. The attorney must do his best for his cause, even if, as in this case, it is a bad one. "Can any one," says he, "predicate of the fact, of the establishment of a lottery, that it is immoral or unlawful? Who will undertake to say it?" Yes, it may with truth be said of the establishment of a lottery that it is immoral and wrong, not only as an evil prohibited, but as an evil in itself. The establishment of a lottery is immoral and wrong, because the object of it is to enable some people to get the money of others without rendering an equivalent. The manner in which the thing is done cannot redeem the motive. The intention of all parties in the operation of these schemes is iniquitous. Sellers of tickets and buyers are alike actuated by a species of covetousness which only appears to be better than the motive which actuates a thief or a robber, because of the delusive forms of fairness under which the transaction is conducted. Each desires to obtain the property of the other without paying for it. This is the very essence of covetousness as prohibited in the tenth commandment. A very intelligent Roman Catholic Bishop once undertook to show, in a published discussion with myself on the morality of games of chance, that no more wrong is involved in lotteries, raffles, and the like, than in life insurance, merchandising, or other business in which there are risks to be taken by one or both parties. When reminded of the vast difference between the inevitable contingencies of trade, or a prudent endeavor to protect one's property or family against providential calamities, and the deliberate staking of money on a voluntarily precipitated chance, whereby each hopes to get the other's property for nothing; when it was insisted that principles of equity were intended to govern in the one case, while sheer covetousness ruled in the other, he could say nothing in reply, except that he failed to see the conclusiveness of our argument. We were not responsible for his failure. The fact that you gave your neighbor a chance at your property does not repay him for the loss of his, nor clear you of a selfish, base and covetous desire to get his property for nothing. "Thou shalt not covet."

A great popular delusion lies at the bottom of the success of all these schemes of chance. Most persons, no doubt, believe in the doctrine of the calculation of chances, and the consequent estimate of their values as taught in Hedge's Logic, and other similar works. It is said that there is one-sixth of a certainty of throwing an ace on a die at any particular throw. Hence the chance of obtaining any sum of money upon the throwing of an ace is worth one-sixth of that sum of money. Now, in the first place, there is not one-sixth of a certainty of throwing an ace, else there would be six sixths, or absolute certainty, at six throws, which is false; and in the next place, if an ace were thrown, its value would be not one sixth, but all the sum aimed at. Chances, from their very nature, cannot be calculated, hence their values cannot be estimated. Did the editor of the Nashville Christian Advocate speak too strongly when he said that the sellers of chances "invite fools to invest in fraud?"

Let us be done with such wicked delusions. Conceived in iniquity, and often conducted by fraud, these schemes of chance are the bane of sound morals. Let us hope that at least all calling themselves Christians will at an early day discontinue the use of such corrupt modes of procuring money, and that they will be put under the ban of Christendom.

W. L. G. BENNETT.

A Memorial of the Dead of Claiborne County.

BY ONE OF HER SONS.

MR. EDITOR: The communication of Bro. Adair, in memoriam of the dead in the vicinity of Rocky Springs by yellow fever, moved profoundly the sensibilities of the writer, and revived reminiscences of "my own, my native land." Near Rocky Springs I was born, and my father and mother. From thence they went to the promised land. My dear mother in a chariot of fire, being burned to death when I was a child four years of age; but some incidents of the dread catastrophe remain indelibly impressed upon my memory. It was in that vicinity my first school-boy days were spent, and my young manhood, when God laid His hand upon the trembling, hesitating class leader and exhorter, and thrust him out into the vineyard. It was there, under the ministry of the sympathetic and pathetic Green M. Rogers, there was a gracious revival of religion, and from a church numbering such men and women as the Owens, and Powers, and Randells, and Wrights, and Lums, and McClellans, and Throgmortons, and many others, as fine a church membership as could be found, the young preacher was sent out into the field, and has now closed his fortieth year in the ministry in Mississippi, Louisiana and Texas. It was from thence Uncle Tommie Owens, a remarkable man in native wit, and good sense, and useful talent, went up to heaven, seeing his way, to use his own language, as clear as a sunbeam. Many others have died in the faith, and some still linger on the shore, looking forward joyfully to the home of the blessed, where those who have loved shall meet at Jesus' feet, never to be severed. Blessed hope of immortality and eternal life! In looking over the death list of the past year, how many names familiar to me during life appear upon the sad record. The Parkers, Lums, Youngs, Judge Thasher, Mr. Martin and Bertron, and the children of many old friends that I have known from their childhood.

God bless the bereaved households of beloved friends who are left to wail over their kindred dead. What would this world be, and how could we bear Life's stormy doom, did not the light of the gospel of the blessed Son of God shed its gleam of glory upon the tomb where are buried our loved and lost, but not forever! The sad record of the dead since I left my native land, six years since, has been fearful, but no deaths have impressed me more sadly and painfully than the assassination of John Briscoe and young Foote, and Dr. Buck and young Lum. What a mysterious Providence that the Demon Page should slay the noblest and best men of my native county, and go unwhipped of Justice after the ruin wrought! The moral worth and usefulness to society of such men surpassing far that of all the negroes that ever were, or ever will be, in old Claiborne. The blood shed, and the treasure expended in turning loose suddenly the mass of a servile population, and investing them with the rights of citizenship and political power with all the demoralization consequent upon an alien and hostile political demagogue cry, is worth more than all negrodom ever was, or ever will be.

M. M. BOOTH.

From the Work.

BLADON SPRINGS CIRCUIT, MOBILE DISTRICT, ALABAMA CONFERENCE.

MR. EDITOR: Bladon Springs is a small town, with two large hotels to accommodate all who come to be benefited by the waters. Mr. Connor, the proprietor of Bladon Hotel, has done considerable repairing to the hotel and grounds. Messrs. J. C. and S. C. O'Hara, having purchased Cullum Springs, and refurnished the hotel, will be prepared to receive guests by the first of June.

The church on this circuit has gone to work in earnest. The trustees, with the assistance of the ladies, having paid off old debts, are at work repairing and putting the church edifices in order. The Board of Stewards have determined not to put off their work until the end of the year, and make a failure, but are at work in the discharge of their duty, and mean to be successful. Sunday-schools have been organized, and are using our Uniform Lesson Papers and the Amaranth. Having consecrated, active superintendents, supported by a devoted band of teachers, our schools are doing a fine work. The Lord is putting His seal of approval to His word preached, and souls are being gathered into His fold. Yours,

H.

ROMAN CATHOLICS AND COLORED PEOPLE.—The bishop of Richmond, so called, is making an earnest effort, says a correspondent of the Watchman to win over the colored people of Virginia. Several times of late he has appointed meetings for their benefit in the cathedral, in which he has explained at great length the peculiar doctrines of the Holy Mother Church. Even in the smaller towns and villages the priests are offering inducements, and trying to win over this people. Last Sabbath in this place, the young priest before officiating went out into the streets, and invited and urged colored men and women to attend the services. Many were induced to go. In Richmond, the Baptist pastors have met this move by a counter-movement, visiting the colored churches and preaching strong sermons on the questions at issue between the Protestants and Catholics. The ablest preachers in the city have filled on more than one occasion the pulpits of the colored pastors, and at the urgent request of these pastors. The success of the bishop is said to be not very encouraging.

The church paper is an educator. It brings news from all parts of the ecclesiastical commonwealth; it bears the fresh thought from the busy and successful workers in the household of faith; it emphasizes the distinct principles of the denomination; it makes young people intelligent, touching the aggressive agencies of the church. It is a bond of union, a pledge of fidelity, a seal of consecration in every household where its visits are received. In the primitive days no such potent influence for spreading the gospel was known; now the glad tidings of salvation are heralded by this wonderful messenger—the religious newspaper! If three souls were converted in a day in the Pentecostal one accord of faith, surely thousands upon thousands more, again and again, should witness to the Saviour to every one of these latter days; for the gifts and opportunities are proportionate to the marvelously multiplied masses of humanity.—Interior.

If you would be clear and forcible, don't use foreign words. Be natural. A man never stops to hunt up a foreign word when he is stung by a hornet.

Obituaries.

Correspondents, please write names and dates very distinctly. We follow copy on proper names.

Obituary notices should be forwarded promptly and immediately. Give only points of general interest, such as will help the living. Details of funeral services, and such phrases as "mourn their loss," etc., are not edifying. Verses, either original or select, not admissible in this department. Give the locality distinctly and in full. In the case of infants only a simple announcement of the death, with names and dates, will be published.

☞ All obituaries received are published as soon as convenient. If, after a reasonable time, any such communication fail to appear, let a duplicate be sent instead of a complaint.

REV. R. P. BROUTON, L. E., died April 8, 1879. He was born in Montgomery county, North Carolina, August 3, 1807; he was converted and joined the church when he was fifteen years old. He came to Union parish, Louisiana, in 1839, and was licensed to preach in 1870, when Union parish belonged to the Mississippi Conference and John Hamil was Presiding Elder of the Monroe District; he was ordained Deacon by Bishop Paine in 1848, and elder by Bishop Kavanaugh. Brother Brouton was seventy-two years old, and had been a member of the Methodist Church fifty seven years and a Local Preacher thirty-nine years and a citizen of Union parish, Louisiana, forty years. He left home on Saturday and preached on Sunday and Sunday night, when he had a regular appointment ten miles from home. On Monday morning he started home; had a congestive chill on the way, stopped at a friend's house and sent word to his family. But he was too far gone to be conscious or to know them. He died soon after they brought him home on Tuesday. He died in the path of duty, and his end was peace.

R. PARVIN.

FLORA E. HARDY, daughter of Henry B. Hardy, was born in Washington parish, La., June 13, 1856, was baptized in October of the same year, recognized as a member of the church in March, 1873, and died April 21, 1879.

Kindness, obedience and patience were leading characteristics in her life; a meek and quiet spirit was her cherished virtue. In this brief earthly career, ending the bright time of womanhood, there is much that is beautiful and lovely, but the crowning beauty appears in the closing scenes. Death had no terror for that sweet spirit; everything was in order; the purifying fires of affliction hastened the refining, sanctifying process, and in her last hours there was nothing for her to do but to deliver her last testimony in behalf of him who giveth the victory through our Lord Jesus Christ. The victory was complete. We say she died, she said she would soon be in the "golden city," and what a happy meeting there would be with loved ones. Friends had gone before, and she wanted others to follow her. If joy, peace, comfort, happiness, rejoicing, shouting are some of the enjoyments and employments of heaven, she was training for it when her voice ceased with "Glory to God."

J. W. SANDELL.

ROLFE RAE, son of William A. and Ellen McGuire, was born August 21, 1860, and died in Pearlington, Mississippi, April 10, 1879.

The life of this young man was short, but was singularly marked by intelligence, modesty, industry and morality, and consequently he gained the confidence, love and esteem of all who knew him. But up to his last sickness he had neglected the one thing needful, which neglect he very much regretted, and mourned over it with deep penitence. Two days before his death he gave his mind and name to his pastor as an applicant for church membership. He also requested his pastor to pray for him, and while prayer was being offered he joined himself in earnest, audible prayer for pardon. Then his tongue was made eloquent for the Master. He exhorted his kindred and friends to a better life, and begged them to meet him in heaven. He bid each member of his family an affectionate farewell, and claimed a promise of each one to live for the Lord and meet him in the "better land." And as he was passing away he tried to sing "In the sweet by and by," but his earthly voice failed, and then he heard the angels sing, and doubtless sang a new and sweeter song himself.

W.

WILLIAM P. FRAZIER was born in the State of Georgia, Monroe county, August 12, 1826; moved to Mississippi in 1854, and died near Edinburg, Leake county, Miss., February 26, 1879. He joined the Methodist Episcopal Church in 1867 and lived a consistent member until death. He was a Christian from principle, and in his death the church and virility has lost one of its best members. He was confined to his bed some five months, but bore it with Christian patience. The writer visited him a short time before his death, and found him quiet and peaceful, said Christ had been much comfort to him. He afterward told his wife that he was almost home, and would be happier there.

I have lost a friend indeed. May we meet on that beautiful shore.

L. P. MEADOR.

THRASLEY PERRELL was born in South Carolina, Chesterfield District, moved to Alabama about fifty years ago, died in Sumpter county, at the residence of his son-in-law, James Sullivan, the twentieth day of December, 1878, in the eighty-first year of his age. Brother Perrell had been a member of the Methodist Church more than fifty years. The writer's acquaintance commenced with him in the beginning of 1876, he was up to the day of his death, an acceptable member of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, at Wesley Chapel. He had two strokes of paralysis, and suffered from the last some time. He said to the writer that he was ready; after prayer and during a song he became happy, and spoke of meeting loved ones in heaven. His wife, though aged, still lingers, waiting at the river to cross over to join her companion on the other shore.

J. W. M'CANN.

BRO. ASA WHITTOCK died at his residence in Lauderdale county, Mississippi, April 12, 1879. Our deceased brother was born in Charleston, South Carolina, December 25, 1795; professed religion and joined the Methodist Episcopal Church in 1823; he was married to Miss Nancy Ann Daughdrill, June 2, 1826, his aged companion still survives him; he lived to the good old age of eighty-three years, three months and eighteen days.

Bro. Whitlock as a man was a good one, one of those rare jewels of humanity so seldom found in this age, a man true to his friends under all circumstances; as a citizen he loved and worked for the welfare of his country; as a church member he was a model for all to follow, converted to God when a young man, he remained true to his vows. He was always ready to attend upon the ordinances of the church and help to support its institutions. His house was always the home of the servants of God. Uncle Asa, as he was called by all, was looked upon as a Christian father in the full sense of the word. His last years were wholly consecrated to God. His delight was in the law, and in it he meditated day and night. And so passed away this aged father to his rest.

THOS. V. ARMSTRONG.

WE, the undersigned committee, offer the following resolutions in token of respect to the memory of Bro J. W. Scott, teacher in Ebenezer Sabbath School:

Whereas, By the inscrutable will of our Heavenly Father our beloved brother and teacher has been removed from our midst by the hand of death; therefore Resolved. His devotion, self-sacrifice and untiring zeal in the interest of our Sabbath School make his loss irreparable.

Resolved. His position as teacher, genial disposition, meek, Christian spirit, his consistent walk and able counsels make the bereavement one of peculiar sadness.

Resolved. That we turn away from our grief and rejoice in the assurance of his happiness now and of our joyous reunion if faithful.

Resolved. That we tender our warmest sympathy to his bereaved family, and implore the care of the Great Shepherd over them for time and eternity.

T. H. MADDOX, for Committee.

SARAH E. JACOB died at her residence, in Amite county, Mississippi, March 4, 1879, in the forty-ninth year of her age.

In the death of Sister Jacob the community in which she lived has sustained a great loss, while the doubly orphaned children have lost a kind and an affectionate mother, one who was always ready to make any sacrifice for their comfort. She joined the Methodist Church, South, years since, and lived an humble, Christian life until her death. Several years ago she was left a widow, with a family of children to care for, in which trying ordeal she succeeded fully. Her last illness was of such a nature that she was not permitted to leave any dying testimony that "all was well" with her; but her life has been such that proof that our loss is her gain.

W. C.

MRS. ALICE ROBERSON was a member of the Methodist Church in Trenton, Louisiana. She was well beloved of many. She was the fondest daughter of a fond mother. She was the true hearted wife of a loving husband. She was the gentle companion of the happy fireside. She died in the bloom of womanhood. As beautiful as her spirit, she was, at was said of bright and holy one of a more beautiful immortality. The darkness which often passes the tomb is dissipated by the light of the religion of Jesus. She left an infant, which is now following its mother to the land of heavenly rest. We sorrow, but not as those without hope.

JOHN FERNANDO DOSS died in Dallas county, Alabama, February 22, 1879. Brother Doss was born May 18, 1818; married Miss Julia C. Perkins October 21, 1845; was converted and joined the Cumberland Presbyterian Church in the fall of 1861. In sentiment Brother Doss was a Methodist, and identified himself with that church the latter years of his life, and with its Sabbath Schools of which he was superintendent. Brother Doss was a model husband, father and citizen, and as a Christian pious and consistent. Several days previous to his death he was happy to overflowing. His disease was consumption. He had the sympathy and attention of kind friends, especially his bereaved wife, step-mother and father. He never dishonored his profession.

J. A. SPENCE.

MRS. SUSAN ELIZA FLOURNOY, daughter of D. S. Wier, died in Webster Parish, Louisiana, January 10, 1879. She was twenty five years of age, the mother of three children, the youngest a girl only a few hours old at the death of its mother, who survived only five hours after she died also. The departed was a member of the Methodist Church, and while death came suddenly, we have reason to hope and believe it found her fully prepared for the great change. Blessed are those who die in the faith.

A FRIEND.

ANOTHER of our aged fathers in Israel here has been called hence to that "summer land" beyond the river.

Father Kendall was born June 30, 1791, in the State of Massachusetts; thence he moved to Ohio, and thence to Texas, and from Texas he came to Louisiana, and settled at this place, Minden, where he died March 25, 1879, in his eighty-eighth year. He leaves an aged widow and other dear ones and many precious friends to weep over his death. He was a member of the Methodist Episcopal Church at first, but when the division took place he remained with Southern Methodism. Not less than fifty years, perhaps more, of his life was spent in the vineyard of the Master. His religious life was beautiful, and his death was like his life. His rest, therefore, must be sweet.

JOS. E. BRADLEY.

The Christian Advocate.

THURSDAY, MAY 15, 1879.

"THE PENNY YE MEANT TO GIVE."

There's a funny tale of a stingy man,
Who was none too good, but might have been worse,
Who went to his church on Sunday night
And carried along his well-filled purse.

When the sexton came with his begging plate,
The church was but dim with the candle's light,
The stingy man fumbled all through his purse,
And chose a coin by touch and not sight.

'Tis an odd thing now that guineas should be
So like unto pennies in shape and size,
"I'll give a penny," the stingy man said,
"The poor must not gifts of penules despise."

The penny fell down with a clatter and ring!
And back in his seat leaned the stingy man,
The world was full of the poor," he thought,
"I can't help them all I give what I can."

Ha! ha! how the sexton smiled, to be sure,
To see the gold guinea fall into his plate!
Ha! ha! how the stingy man's heart was wrung,
Perceiving his blunder, but just too late!

"No matter," he said, "in the Lord's account
That guinea of gold is set down to me.
The Lend to Him who give to the poor
It will not so bad an investment be."

Na, na, mon," the chuckling sexton cried out;
"The Lord is no cheated: He kens thee well,
He knew it was only by accident
That out o' thy fingers the guinea fell!

He keeps an account, no doubt, for the poor;
But in that account He'll set down to thee
No single o' that golden guinea, my mon,
Than the one bare penny ye meant to gie."

An Evening With Electric Lights.

BY THE REV. S. C. DUFFIELD

It is not often that an Inland audience is more favored than one in the metropolis; but this has lately been the case at Altoona, Pa. The competition for the supremacy in electric lighting has made it nearly impossible for a private individual to bring before the public all the various lights in one evening. But what a private person cannot do the Pennsylvania Railroad's principal electrician, Mr. J. Chester Wilson, has been able, with its powerful backing, to effect.

It is no small task to put in place the steam-power, the shafting, the belts to run the dynamo-electric engines and those engines themselves, and then to add to these the various appliances used to produce the intense flame between the carbons in the differing styles of lamps. That Mr. Wilson has successfully performed this feat lifts the circumstance out of merely local importance, and elevates himself—hitherto a quiet and unknown worker—into decided notice. I venture, then, to tell the story of this unique evening's entertainment, for the benefit of whom it may concern; and this at present means the great majority of thinking people.

The Second Presbyterian Church, in which the lecture was given, is a large and complete building, seated in the amphitheater style, with three galleries and a capacity of from 1,200 to 1,400. By the side of the pastor's study, in the chapel at the rear, was first fixed a twelve horse-power engine. Shafting was run along a back entry, and the belts carried through a door into the audience-room, that the Brush and Wallace-Farmer dynamo electric machines might be in full sight. These are small and compact; but exceedingly heavy pieces of machinery, devised on the usual plan of rotating a wheel with armatures under the action of large electro-magnets. From one of these machines the power was supplied for various uses during the evening.

Mr. Wilson, in a way which was unusually clear and simple, first gave a sketch of electricity in its discovery and application, and then proceeded directly to his illustrations. The audience, of more than a thousand persons, had the benefit of light from the two large Brush lamps hung over either side gallery, and a fine oxyhydrogen stereopticon furnished the figures to which the speaker referred. The various patterns of lamps were shown, and the principal varieties were put in operation.

Of course, the great desideratum is the divisibility of the force, so it may be tapped and used as we tap a gas-pipe with a three-foot or six-foot or ten-foot burner. Mr. Edison's discovery, so lately heralded, turns on the use of iridium; but Mr. Wilson was permitted to say no more than this. Prof. Farmer also has divided the current, and has employed iridium and platinum.

The "Jablochkoff candle," as used in Paris, was shown to consist of two carbons, separated by plaster-of-Paris or some similar material. It gave a steady and vivid flame. Three of these are needed in order to burn through an ordinary night. One very interesting light was made by a carbon point rising against a convex disk. It is known as the Werdermann light, and, while it is not so exceedingly brilliant as some, it is apparently easier to handle for general use.

The Siemen's lamp has what might be known as a chattering motion of the lower carbon-point. It, too, was very vivid and successful. Simultaneously with its discovery abroad, Messrs. Houston and Thompson, of the Philadelphia High School, had produced nearly the same result.

The Sawyer-Mann lamp was only shown by diagram. It depends on the use of carbon in vacuo. The light is produced by the current flowing through this carbon and heating it to full incandescence as it passes from one copper conductor to the other. In the diagram a hand is represented as holding it, to symbolize probably the hope of the inventors, which, as yet, is not completely realized.

The Duboscy and other foreign lights, like the Rapieff, which is employed in the London Times offices, depend on clock-work and various devices to move the carbons into opposition as they consume. In fact, there appears to be no difficulty in producing the light, no difficulty in keeping the carbons incandescent with a steady and peculiarly white flame of many thousand candle-power; and yet the real difficulty remains unvanquished. It is in two parts. First, the current must be rendered divisible, like gas, so that at one point you can have a small and at another a large flame, and this without waste and loss. This Mr. Edison does not exactly claim to have accomplished; but he leaves to us the inference, beyond his secret compact with his present company, that he has practically solved the problem. This is a vastly more interesting fact than the mere divisibility of the light itself, a thing which the Brush Company and the Wallace-Farmer Company have both effected.

The second part of the problem depends on the first. It is the utilizing of this subtle agency for household purposes. If Mr. Edison be correct, and it is still much to be doubted if he is perfectly successful, the cost may overbalance the value of the light. In other words, as against the immense "plant" of gas-pipes, meters, reservoirs and works, there must be such immediate economy as shall justify the change. Large manufactories, and all places requiring a clear, steady and colorless light, in which the finest adjustments and the most delicate shades and gradations of color will be possible, have nearly what they consider perfection in the two great rival lamps of the Brush and Wallace-Farmer Companies. But for private homes and small apartments other methods must be employed.

As now constituted, the Brush lamp will burn seven hours untouched behind its porcelain shade. It is, under steady steam power to drive the engine generating it, a light divisible into as high as twenty burners of equal radiance. A single flame, so I have been privately told, under a patent of Mr. Westinghouse, of air-brake renown, can be used in the head-light reflector of an engine, and will show fine print legibly at a mile and a half.

The Wallace-Farmer lamp has carbons which are very large, and which are set perpendicularly against each other, like the edges of sliding-doors. This light requires no attention for a hundred hours, and is equally bright with the Brush lamp. Its main defect to the eye of the layman is that the arc of light is at the point of contact only; and this point travels—sometimes with a jump—from one end of the carbons to the other. A very trifling shadow is thus cast by it now and then.

To put all these great conflicting interests together in the presence of an audience, and do them full justice, has never but once, I think, been previously attempted in this country. This was when the Franklin Institute, of Philadelphia, conducted a special test in the desire to ascertain the exact value of every sort of electric light now before the public. As I am not writing an advertisement, I do not say what the result has been.

Prof. Barker, of the University of Pennsylvania, gave some very brilliant experiments and illustrations in Philadelphia a short time ago. There have been others given in London and Paris. Gentlemen who had been personally present at all these exhibitions were in the audience, and expressed themselves, at the close of Mr. Wilson's lecture, as having found in his illustrations a more complete set of practical contrasts and comparisons than they had before witnessed.

The conclusion of this demonstration (like the conclusion to which some of us had already come) is, apparently, that the "household electric light" is in the hands of Edison, or of nobody, and that it is very doubtful whether even he has tamed this lightning flash. It seems as if the desideratum is yet to be desired.

Some Testimonies to Mission Work in India.

Lord Lawrence, late Viceroy—"I believe, notwithstanding all that the English people have done to benefit that country (India,) the missionaries have done more than all the other agencies combined."

Sir Bartle Frere, late Governor of Bombay—"I assure you that, whatever you may be told to the contrary, the teaching of Christianity among 160,000,000 of civilized, industrious Hindoos and Mohammedans in India is affecting changes, moral, social and political, which, for extent and rapidity of effect, are far more extraordinary than anything you or your fathers have witnessed in modern Europe."

Sir Donald M'Leod, late Lieut. Governor of the Punjab—"In many places an impression prevails that our missions have not produced results adequate to the efforts which have been made, but those who hold such opinions know but little of the reality."

Report of the Secretary of State and Council of India upon "The Moral and Material Progress and Condition of India," printed for the House of Commons in 1873: "The government of India cannot but acknowledge the great obligation under which it is laid by the benevolent exertions made by these 600 missionaries, whose blameless example and self-denying labors are infusing new vigor into the stereotyped life of the great populations placed under English rule, and are preparing them to be in every way better men and better citizens of the great empire in which they dwell."

Report of the Government Census of the Presidency of Madras, taken in 1874: "The Protestant missions * * * have made rapid strides of recent years in the conversion of the inhabitants to Christianity. * * * An immense amount of good work has been done by the zealous and earnest agents of these missionary societies in the education of the people."

The Calcutta correspondent of the Pall-Mall Gazette: "No one who has studied the effects of a missionary station in any district of India can help feeling that it yields a good return for the money spent upon it."

Lord Northbrook, late Viceroy, on his return to England, wrote to the secretaries of the Church Missionary Society to put down his name as a subscriber for £100 a year. In a speech delivered at the society's anniversary in May, 1877, he said; "The work of the society in India is entirely worthy of your hearty support; and the workers, those who are carrying on the preaching of the gospel in India, are worthy of all support, encouragement and admiration. I have known many of them, having taken every opportunity which naturally came in my way to visit their institutions. I know of no single exception to the general esteem in which the Church Missionary Society's missionaries are held in India."

The celebrated Government Report of 1873, including Burmah and Ceylon, reckoned 600 missionaries and 318,000 Christians. The past six years have much increased the total. The Church Missionary Society alone has added 12,000 Christians to its list in the interval.

The Wife's Secret.

"I will tell you the secret of our happy married life," said a gentleman of threescore and ten. "We have been married for forty years; my bride was the belle of New York when I married her, and, though I loved her for herself, still a lovely flower is all the lovelier poised in an exquisite vase. My wife knew this, and, true to her genuine refinement, has never, in all these forty years, appeared at the table or allowed me to see her less carefully dressed than during the days of our honeymoon. Some might call this foolish vanity; I call it real womanliness. I presume I should not have ceased to love her had she followed the example of many others, and, considering the every-day life of home necessarily devoid of beauty, allowed herself to be careless of such small measures as dressing for her husband's eye; but love is increased when we are proud of the object loved, and to-day I am more proud of my beautiful wife, with her silver hair and gentle face, than of the bride whose loveliness was the theme of every tongue. Any young lady can win a lover; how few can keep them such after years of married life!"

In all the little courtesies of life, in all that makes one attractive and charming in thoughtfulness of others and forgetfulness of self, every house should be begun and continued. Men should be more careful to sympathize with and protect the wife than the bride—more willing to pick up her scissors, hand her the paper, or carry her packages, than if she were a young lady; and as no young woman would for a moment think of controlling the engagements and movements of a young gentleman, neither should she do so when he is her husband. If by making herself bright and attractive she fails to hold him, compulsion will only drive him further from her. I do not believe it possible to retain the friendship of any one by demanding it. I do not believe it possible to lose it by being lovable.—Alliance.

Religious Intelligence.

—The English Friends have during the past year opened two new schools in Syria and Palestine, making six in all that they now have there.

—The American and English Baptists are to have a theological school in Paris, France. The Rev. Dr. E. C. Mitchell will be president of the college, whose affairs will be looked after, among others, by Mr. Spurgeon.

—"At the close of my service," says a missionary at Hankow, "a man followed me into the vestry, and addressed me thus: 'I have just heard you say that Christ can save a man from his sins. Can He save me?' 'What sins have you?' I asked. 'Every sin you can think of,' was the reply. Then, reckoning on his fingers, he said, 'I am an opium-smoker, gambler, fornicator, and everything that is bad. Can Christ save me?' I said, 'Yes, Christ can save you.' 'When?' he asked again. 'Now,' was the emphatic reply, 'if you will trust Him for this salvation.' We both prayed; I leading and he following. He was converted there and then I believe, and at once became one of the most earnest Christians I have ever known."

THE RUSSIAN CHURCH.—The European Messenger, in an article on the Russian clergy, says that the total number of persons in Holy Orders in the Russian Empire is about 100,000. Assuming that each clergyman has a family of three persons, the total number of persons belonging to the clergy (exclusive of the members of monastic institutions, who are not allowed to marry) is 400,000. The writer expresses surprise that, although it appears from the report of the procurator-general of the holy synod that the receipts of the synod amounted on January first, 1878, to about 26,000,000 roubles yearly, nothing has been done to ameliorate the condition of the poor clergy in the rural districts. Of the above sum, 10,000,000 roubles is contributed by the State. There are now in Russia 420 cathedrals, 38,302 churches and 12,408 chapels; and the European Messenger suggests that it would be better to do something for the poorer clergy than to build 423 new churches a year, as had been hitherto the case. "In order that the immense revenues of the Russian Church might be more equitably distributed and applied in a rational manner, it would be necessary to separate the church from the State, and to give the former entire independence, from an administrative point of view * * Under the present organization one can hardly expect any improvement in the condition of the clergy, any extension of their moral influence on society, or any strengthening of their authority over the people." Passing to the other portions of the report, the writer says that it shows the translation of the Bible into Russian was only begun in 1856, and that it was not completed until the beginning of the year 1877. The first edition, of 21,000 copies, has been exhausted, and a second is now being published. The total number of persons who entered the Orthodox Russian Church in 1877 was 11,299, including 653 Protestants and 1,339 Roman Catholics. The national schools attached to churches and monasteries in 1877 were 6,321 in number, and there were 532 monasteries and convents; while the number of universities, gymnasia and scientific schools in Russia is only 363 in all. In the monastic institutions there are 10,500 monks and 16,000 nuns.

—Some of the missionaries of the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel are meeting with great success in British Guiana. The Hindu Coolies are beginning to come, in much the same way as in India. On the Island of Leguan, in the Essequibo River, there are about 700 Coolies, among whom a catechist has been working, the missionary in charge, the Rev. Mr. Hore, visiting them only occasionally. When Mr. Hore first visited the island, in 1877, he was favorably received; and invited to come again and send teachers. Last September the Coolies of their own accord held a public meeting to discuss the question as to which was the true religion. Mr. Hore was present, by invitation. The result of the discussion was that the Assembly voted, with only one dissentient voice, to accept the Christian religion. On the following day Mr. Hore met the leading priests of the Hindu and Mohammedan religions, who were found to be in hearty accord with the views of the assembly. A week later Mr. Hore met the priests again, and gave them further instruction in Christianity. A month later the Coolies sent to the missionary to urge that a teacher be given them; and one was accordingly provided. The Coolies say they will build a church and support it themselves. There are, it is estimated, no less than 70,000 East Indians in British Guiana, and more are constantly arriving. Last year there were 9,101 from India, some 500 or 600 returning. Mr. Hore calls earnestly for help, believing that the hearts of these people are now open to the reception of the Gospel. There is also a similar movement among the 20,000 Hindus in Trinidad. In the last three years 260 Hindus have been baptized. In the last week in December, 1878, sixty six Hindus and Chinese were baptized and the number of candidates is increasing.—Independent.

ROMAN CATHOLIC COLONIZATION. The "Catholic World" is always interesting by reason of its vigorous treatment of topics of instant interest from the Roman Catholic standpoint. Its current number, for April, is especially so, with pungent essays on "Our Diplomatists," "The Proposed Expulsion of the Teaching Orders from the Public Schools of Paris," "Private Charities and Public Lands," and "Catholic Colonization as actually Established." The last-named paper is specially worthy of Protestants' attention, throwing lights upon the method by which the Roman Catholic Church is quietly pushing ahead in its effort for the ecclesiastical possession of the country through the interior and the great West. We do not think the effort will be a successful one, but in the bravery, intelligence and fervor of it there is much to admire and imitate. The work in Minnesota may be taken as happily exemplifying the system and its operation. There is in that State a "Catholic Colonization Bureau," which is under the auspices of the Coadjutor-Bishop of St. Paul's. It is the object of this bureau to encourage, direct and nourish the planting of Roman Catholic colonies in the State, upon lands either bought of the railroad companies or taken up under the Homestead Law. Four such colonies have been successful since 1876. One, that of Swift County, occupies a strip of territory lying for thirty-six miles along the St. Paul and Pacific Railroad, one hundred and twenty miles west of St. Paul City. This colony is organized in two parishes, each with its pastor, church and schools. The farms range from eighty to five hundred acres each. Grain elevators, stores, mills, tradeshops, immigrant depots, and no saloons, dot the landscape; and such township names as St. Michael's, St. Joseph's, St. Francis', attest the ecclesiastical atmosphere which pervades the same. Beyond Swift County lies the colony of Graceville, where in three months last year one hundred and seventy-five families were located. The first building up was the church. Around this is now grouped a pretty village, and at least a hundred and fifty settlers' cabins have arisen within a radius of half a dozen miles. In Southwestern Minnesota is a third colony, of St. Adrian, where the bureau controls seventy thousand acres, of which twenty-two thousand have been already sold to settlers. Here the parish priest was on the ground when only three houses had been built; and there is now a school-house, a church, a pastor's house; while a population of one hundred and sixty Catholic families is expected by the coming spring. The fourth and newest of these Minnesota colonies is that of Avoca, just north of St. Adrian, comprising fifty-two thousand acres. The rule in the founding of all these colonies has been that the resident priest and the church should go in with the first settlers, whether they be few or many. The Roman Catholic idea is not our idea, but who shall say that it is failing of its effect? Is not the Church of Rome in the United States laying deep and broad foundations for the future? After all, its policy is only that which was followed in a different form by our Pilgrim Fathers at Massachusetts Bay, and it is by no means certain but that the Pilgrims' sons need to revive it in their times.—Christian Union.

Our Young People.

LITTLE MARY'S WISH.

I have seen the first rabbit of spring, mother dear!
And have heard the brown darling sing;
You said, "hear it, and wish, and it will surely come true."
So I've wished such a beautiful thing.

So I thought I would like to say something for you,
But I couldn't think what there could be
That you'd want, while you had all these beautiful things,
Beside, you have papa and me.

So I wished for a ladder, so long that 'twould stand
One end by our own cottage door,
And the other go up the moon and the stars,
And lean against heaven's white floor.

Then I'd get you to put on my pretty white dress,
And my sash and my darling new shoes,
And I'd find some white roses to take up to you,
The most beautiful ones I could choose.

Then I'd go up the ladder, far out of your sight,
Till I came to the door in the sky;—
I would make it so sorry to leave you alone,
For I know you and papa would cry!

I wonder if God keeps the door fastened tight,
If not one little crack I could see,
I would whisper, "please God, let this little girl in,
She's not tired as she can be."

And then, when the angels had opened the door,
God would say: "Bring the little child here
To speak to so softly. Oh not be afraid,—
And smile just like you, mother dear."

He would put His kind arms round your dear lit—
the girl,
And I'd ask Him to send down for you,
And papa an cousin and all that I love—
Oh, dear! Am I too wish 'twould come true?

The next spring time, when the robins came home,
They sang over grass and flowers,
That grew where the foot of the ladder stood,
Whose top reached the heavenly towers.

The parents had dressed the pale, still child,
For her flight to the heavenly land,
In a fair white robe, with one snow white rose
Folded tight in her pulseless hand.

And now at the foot of the ladder they all,
Looking upward with tearful eyes,
Till the beckoning hand, and the fluttering robe,
Of the child at the top appears.

Little by Little.

"Uncle," said Tom one day, "it seems to me your things don't look as well as they might." They were in the garden, and "the things" the boy had his eyes on were the currant bushes.

"I don't expect they do," replied his uncle; "I'm no great hand at a garden. Well, sir, what can you improve?"

"I can try on the currants," said Tom. "They want to be trimmed out and the wood cut off and the right suckers trained. Don't you never dig around them, and put ashes on the roots?"

His uncle had never done these things; did not know that they ought to be done. He thought, he said, "currants took care of themselves."

"But they can be cared for," said Tom, "and do all the better."

"Suppose you try, boy," said his uncle.

His uncle did not believe much would come of it, but he had reason to change his mind. Much did come of it. All at once, it seemed to him, for time goes fast for an old man, his bushes were loaded with fruit, fine large currants, such as his garden had not seen for many a day, if ever before. People when they walked into the garden, exclaimed, "What splendid currants you have!"

"That boy knows how to take care of his gold-dust," said his uncle to himself, and sometimes aloud.

Tom went to college, and every account they heard of him he was going ahead, laying a solid foundation for the future.

"Certainly," said his uncle, "certainly. That boy I tell you, knows how to take care of his gold dust."

"Gold-dust!" Where did he get gold-dust? He was a poor boy. He had not been to California. He never was a miner. Where did he get gold dust? Ah! he has seconds and minutes, and these are the gold-dust of time—specks and particles of time, which boys and girls and grown-up people are apt to waste and throw away. Tom knew their value. His father, or minister, had taught him that every speck and particle of time was worth its weight in gold-dust; and his son took care of them as if they were. He never spent them foolishly, but only in good bargains; "for value received" were stamped on all he passed away. Take care of your gold-dust.

"By little and little," is the true secret of gaining knowledge.

A very busy man who had very little time for reading or study, was asked by a friend how it happened that he knew so much more than other people. "O," said he, "I never had time to lay in a regular stock of learning, so I save all the bits that come in my way, and they count up in the course of a year.

One sometimes observes an intelligent boy, who is always on the look-out to learn what he can. While waiting in a newspaper office for a package, he will notice how a mailing machine is made to do its work, and if he is sent to the florist's he will be able to tell you many things which he noticed there. In these and a hundred other ways, such lads are educating themselves.

The same rule of "little by little" is equally true in the accumulation of a fortune. Rome was built of single bricks, piled up one by one. The little coral insect seems too small and weak to accomplish much, and yet it labors on, and at last rears those great reefs, which serve as break-waters against the mighty ocean.

Not only are all good things secured to us "little by little," but people accomplish their ruin in the same way. It is by small concessions to evil, and slight indulgences, that the final destruction of life is accomplished. The child who steals lumps of sugar and apples, will go on to steal bigger things.

In one of Gulliver's tales of his fabulous travels he tells us of being pinned down to the earth by pigmies no bigger than his thumb. But they came upon him by thousands. They bound him finger by finger with tiny ropes no thicker than a hair. Each one in could have broken in an instant, but altogether they bound him so fast as if he had been tied with cables, and fettered with iron.

In a Carolina forest of a thousand acres you can scarcely find a tree that is not dead and crumbling to decay. No fire has swept over it, no lightning scathed those naked, bleaching pines. This ruin was wrought by a little insect's larvæ, no larger than grains of rice. What a hundred axe-men could not accomplish by years of hard labor, this seemingly insignificant insect sent its feeble off-spring to perform. One alone could have little power, it is true. But millions were marshalled and all the skill of man could not stay their course.

Such is the power of little sins. By performing the same act over, for even two or three times in succession, the habit is formed, from the dominion of which it is hard to deliver one's self again.

Little by little," an ant said,
As it slowly sank in its cozy bed,
I am improving every day,
All I can deep in the earth away.
Little by little it slipped the dew,
Little by little each day it grew,
Downward it sent out a thread-like root;
Up in the air sprang a tiny shoot.
Day after day and year after year,
Little by little the leaves appear
And the slender branches spread far and wide,
Till the mighty oak is the forest's pride.

Little by little," said a thoughtful boy,
Moment by moment, I'll well employ,
Learning a little every day,
And not spending all my time in play.
And still this rule in my mind shall dwell—
What's for Duty I'll do it well.
Little by little, I'll learn to know
The treasured wisdom of long ago
And one of these days perhaps we'll see
That the world will be the better for me
And do you not think that this simple plan
Made me a wise and useful man?

—The King's Ferry Boat.

A Girl's School in India.

(MISS BLUNT.)

Were you to walk into a heathen girl's school in Futtehgurh (the station bears this name; while the city is called Furrukhabad, you would feel greatly amused, I am sure. In fancy come with me, and you shall visit Bindapur on a Monday morning. The scholars are making a tremendous chatter repeating their tasks. Entering, you are asked to be seated, and the girls make many noisy salutations and stop studying. The youngest ones are called up one by one to repeat their tasks in order. No clean faces or hands are to be seen, and clothes barely presentable; but if they have a warning of your coming, they put on their gay holiday dress, and show some jewelry, and tidy, plaited hair. There are of course some bright scholars, and examining these gives real pleasure. Their faces show off best when singing is called for. The teacher sits by silent during your visit, not teaching, but rousing himself to quiet those who are talking too loud. They do not seem to understand the law of kindness at all; a word or a blow, or a touch up with a whip or a shake, are the methods they employ to enliven or encourage dull or shy children. Seven or eight months ago none of these children knew a letter of the Hindi alphabet, and now they can read very well.

LEARNING BY HEART.—Daniel Webster once told a good story in a speech, and was asked where he got it. "I had it laid up in my head for fourteen years, and never had a chance to use it until to-day," said he.

My little friend wants to know what good it will do to learn the "rule of three," or to commit a verse of the Bible. The answer is this, "Some time you will need that very thing. Perhaps it may be twenty years before you can make it fit in just the right place; but it will be just in place some time. Then if you don't have it, you will be like the hunter who had no ball in his rifle when the bear met him."

"Twenty-five years ago my teacher made me study surveying," said a man who had lately lost his property, "and now I am glad of it. It is just in place. I can get a good situation and high salary." The Bible is better than that. It will be in place as long as we live.—Morning Star.

PAY THE BOYS.—We have waited for somebody to say something for farmers' boys. The girls have taken all the attention, and the boys are left in the cold. I think if fathers would pay their own boys for something they would get along better, and boys would stay on the farm and not go to the overcrowded city. Now I hear some father say, "What! pay my own boy?" Yes; pay boys that are big enough to work; not to spend foolishly, oh, no, but to buy their own clothes and such things as they really need. Boys are like men, and prefer a little independence. A little money will do more good than ever so much scolding.—Exchange.

A five-year-old son of a family the other day stood watching his baby brother, who was making a great noise over having his face washed. The little fellow at length lost his patience, and stamping his tiny foot, said: "You think you have lots of trouble, but you don't know anything about it. Wait till you're big enough to get a lickin', and then you'll see—won't he, mamma?"

The natives of India so well know the sanitary properties of salt, that they have applied the want of it to express the greatest evil that can befall their fellow-creatures. "May you get no salt," is the form of an Indian's curse.

The world proposes rest by the removal of a burden. The Redeemer gives rest by giving us the spirit and power to bear the burden.

The Christian Advocate.

ORGAN OF THE ALABAMA MISSISSIPPI AND LOUISIANA CONFERENCES OF THE M. E. CHURCH, SOUTH.

THURSDAY, MAY 15, 1879.

REV. LINUS PARKER, D. D., Editor.

OFFICE.—112 CAMP ST., NEW ORLEANS.

Touching the Hem

The Israelites were commanded to "make them fringes in the borders of their garments throughout their generations, and that they put upon the fringe of the borders a ribband of blue." These fringes were to be emblematical of the divine commandments, and of Israel's calling as a separate and holy people. They were to look upon the fringe, "and remember all the commandments of the Lord, and do them." The design was: "That ye may remember, and do all my commandments, and be holy unto your God." The Scribes and Pharisees in the Saviour's day are represented as enlarging "the borders of their garments." It appears that Christ wore these fringes in the borders of his garments in accordance with the law of Moses and the usages of his people. As worn, they were emblems of sacred things, and possibly, by some, they became objects of superstitious regard. It was these fringes that the sick woman touched, and that multitudes on other occasions touched. These were the hem of his garments, and the faith displayed in touching them was honored by extraordinary miracles of healing.

None had ever worn those fringes so worthily as Christ. Certainly no other had ever in character and life realized the perfect obedience and holiness which they symbolized. They were worn ostentatiously by religious formalists, by hypercritical Scribes and Pharisees, and, as a matter of custom, by the people generally. But it is likely that their original purpose and significance had been overlaid and obscured by self-righteousness on the one hand, and by profound ignorance and indifference on the other. Nothing was more natural than that the miserable victims of disease, when once persuaded of the power of Christ to heal, should seek to touch this sacred appendage of his garments. It was an act of reverent homage to His holiness, and perhaps, also, to His authority as the Law Giver. As obedience and holiness were emblematically expressed by the fringes, so they called to mind the commandments violated and the holiness neglected. Besides faith, the act indicated a contrite and penitent spirit—the deep sense of utter unworthiness and the need of mercy.

The convictions that actuated the afflicted woman, and of others, were probably of this sort. All the moral elements of a true coming to Christ were exhibited in this method of their approach. If to have touched the Saviour's person, or his garments at all, would have expressed faith, to touch the hem was the expression of a faith peculiarly luminous and comprehensive. And it does not appear that there was any desire to touch aught but the hem. As readily, and perhaps more easily, they might have touched some other part, but it is always and only the hem. They "besought Him," that they might only touch the hem of His garment." The trembling and shrinking woman, jostled and almost smothered by the crowd, warily and persistently directs her touch to the hem. "She said within herself, If I may but touch His garment, I shall be whole." It was the border or hem that she touched. To her the sacred fringes were the whole, and the point of healing contact. There was that in the hem that comprehended Christ as the divine healer, and the touch of it was, in reality, the most powerful and complete grasp of Him. To touch the hem was, in effect, to embrace Him in the arms of a complete faith.

Healing influence had never flowed through those fringes as worn by prophets and priests for centuries. Only as worn by Him were they thus signalized and distinguished. It may have been a popular superstition to impute some mystical virtue to them as generally worn, or they may have come to be regarded as mere amulets or charms. So far from countenancing these degrading perversions, they are rebuked, and the shams are exposed. The virtue was not in the fringes, but in the truths they represented, and in Him through whom alone grace and truth have come into the world. And the touch of the hem was nothing only as it was the expression of faith in Christ as able to save to the uttermost. These memorials of the commandments and of the duty of holiness are made to possess a new significance in connection with the Saviour's miracles of healing and blessing. The very emblems that charge us with sin, that convict and condemn the guilty, are made the connecting link between the human wreck and the merciful Saviour. The cherubim and the glory, and the sprinkled blood, are over the tables of testimony. The healing and helping hand is extended to us as we lie prostrated and crushed amidst the emblems of our confusion and condemnation.

To touch the hem is not the same as touching Christ anywhere. Or, we may say, that we never really touch Christ at all until we touch the hem. It is not any kind of faith, but a right faith in Him—the faith that sprouts up out of the soil of conviction, and penitence, and self-despair, and blooms into trust. It is such faith as the sinner has when the Spirit illumines, and when God shines in his heart "to give the light of the knowledge of the glory of God in the face of Jesus Christ." Nor, to exercise this faith, do we have to interpret the meaning of the fringe and the ribband of blue. But the faith that touched them, and a stronger and clearer grasp of Christ, may be ours. To touch the hem with us is to seize upon all that is most central and vital in the person of Christ. It is to touch the fringe of blood, and, by appropriating faith, to bring all the riches of redemption to our hearts. It is the touch of faith, no matter where or when we stretch out the hand or extend the finger. If it be of faith, and if it but touch the hem, the power and love of the Healer will be felt.

There is something very delicate and discriminating in this touch of faith, and, at the same time, it is a touch of wonderful power. Christ is full of saving virtue for all miserable and sin sick souls. Multitudes are along the crowded way, and thronging the shore. There are sighs for relief and groans of anguish that swell above the tumult of weariness and sorrow. Only a few are healed; all might be if they would only touch the hem of the garment.

Opposition to Missions

I did not know how much latent opposition there is to missions until I undertook to organize a Woman's Missionary Society in the town of V., in the North Mississippi Conference. This kindled the slumbering volcano, and caused an eruption. Somehow, I do not know how, every other man and woman had found out that of every ten dollars raised for missions it took nine of them to get the tenth dollar to the place where it was needed. Of course this statement is maliciously and wickedly false, but, if it were true, it is worth nothing against missions. We should be for sending the gospel to the heathen, if it cost ten times as much to send it, as enemies say it does. The merchants buy coal at the mines and ship it to the town of V., even when it costs four dollars to get one dollar's worth of coal laid down at the depot. Wherever coal is an article of prime necessity, it must be had at any and every cost, and it matters little whether the cost is at the mines or in the freights—coal must be had, cost or no cost. The missionary affairs of the church should be judiciously managed—as we doubt not they are—and the machinery essential to carrying on these operations as inexpensive as possible. Yet we cannot get along without some machinery and some expense. No business—and this is the Lord's business—can get along without incidental expense of some sort. No business is so important as that of sending or carrying the gospel to the nations that sit in darkness. The gospel is an article of prime necessity for this world and also for the world to come. In a matter so important as this—involving the salvation of immortal souls—it will not do to sit down and whine about an item of incidental expense that bears no proportion to the magnitude of the business as such, or to the grand and immortal results to be achieved by it. This were to be worse than "penny wise and pound foolish." Without having the facts and figures before us, we boldly say that the missionary operations of the Methodist Church, South, are run at as little cost for necessary and incidental expense as any other business involving the same amount of money. It is true that ours is a small business—shamefully small—when we remember that we have seven hundred thousand members in the firm able to invest, annually, seven hundred thousand dollars for the salvation of the world, and yet actually investing only about ten cents per member.

Those who put in nothing make the most fuss about the expense of oil to run the machinery. It would at least be modest to say but little about that which cost them nothing. Little as such persons may think of it, there is, deep down in their hearts, a latent opposition to the gospel, which manifests itself just as soon as the aggressive force of the gospel is brought to bear upon them. As long as the religion of Christ acts on the defensive, such persons pat it most patronizingly on the head and say: "Well done." But the moment it steps boldly to the front, and begins an attack upon its enemies, these pretended friends ally themselves with the enemy, and help to make war upon it, or else they skulk around and fell timber across the line of march, or hem up the trains in the rear. "He that is not with Me is against Me, and he that gathereth not with Me scattereth abroad." Are you for Christ, or are you against Him? Do you gather with Him, or do you scatter abroad?

R. G. PORTER.

A New Temperance Movement

A temperance organization has recently been formed in the city of New York, under the leadership of such men as Dr. Howard Crosby, Hon. Thurlow Weed, Peter Cooper, and others, called "The Business Men's Society for the Encouragement of Moderation." The first meeting, held in Cickering Hall, was largely attended, and gave evidence of having wide and enthusiastic sympathy. They have four pledges, distinguished as the red, white, blue and tri-colored.

1. The red pledge binds the signer, upon his sacred honor, to total abstinence from all intoxicating beverages for one year.

2. The white pledge is an obligation not to drink during business hours.

3. The blue pledge engages the signer not to "treat" any one for one year.

4. The tri colored—red, white and blue—pledge is a sacred promise not to drink anything stronger than wine or beer, and these only at meals and in moderation.

Thus furnished, this society enters upon its mission of reform. Though at variance somewhat with the methods of other temperance organizations, it is inspired by like worthy aims and ends, and should achieve success. No doubt some blind zealots of total abstinence and prohibition will declaim against it as at once impolitic, and a sacrifice of principle. This, they will tell us, is a cowardly surrender of the fort, and a traitorous lowering of the flag which has waved so gloriously, amid derision and opposition, over the heroic legions of our Lord. They tell us loudly and truly we cannot afford either truce or compromise with the enemy. With impracticables and extremists we should have little sympathy. We may admire and commend their motives and zeal, but deplore their lack of practical wisdom. It has been the proud privilege of this writer to bear some humble part, within his limited sphere, in the great temperance reform. He has been an advocate of total abstinence and prohibition, and to-day does not retract one syllable uttered or one opinion advanced. Total abstinence is the only sure protection from the monster evil of intemperance. From the ranks of moderation are recruited the sixty thousand bloated, ruined, homeless, shameless carricatures of humanity, who annually tipple into drunkards' graves and a drunkard's hell. From the homes of moderation come the victims of excess, who fill the cells of our prisons, the wards of our asylums, and the cots of our hospitals, and who make the criminal's scaffold and the hangman's rope. But, while this is true, sadly true, this moderation society deserves sympathy and support. If men will not become teetotalers, let us prevent excess. If they will not take the "red" pledge, for the sake of humanity—widowhood and orphanage—let them sign the "white," "blue" or "tri-colored." The blue pledge, especially, commends itself to practical temperance reformers. There is no evil comparable to the habit of "treating." The Rev. Mr. Frothingham in his address before the society said, truly: "There is no solitary drinking worth mentioning." More than everything else, "treating" is debauching the youth and young manhood of our country. The first drink has been taken at the solicitation of some friend who tipped his first glass to some other friend. Thus guileless youth has been ensnared by the prevalence of a vicious habit, which has become the badge of manly generosity. Dr. Howard Crosby has stated the fact in words as forcible as plain: "I think the fruitful parent of drunkenness is this business of treating everybody—for when you have treated a man you are bound to drink with him before you leave the bar, and probably with his friend, and the end is that you are drunk before you get away."

The taking of the "blue" pledge may be the first step to total abstinence. It should, therefore, find advocacy and encouragement. When we consider the enormity of this evil, more terrible than war, famine and pestilence combined, we should eagerly grasp anything that promises amelioration or reformation. Practical results are to be achieved. If our theories or measures are not sufficiently successful, let us invoke the aid of other plans and agencies. If the Moderation Society shall rescue one victim, or comfort one heart, or save one home from the sheriff's hammer, let it have the sympathy and prayers of all prohibitionists and advocates of total abstinence.

C. B. G.

Hopeless Condition of China

Man will worship. In all ages and in every clime the same, his natural instincts prompt him to feel after God. Impelled from within and pressed from without, ignorant, uncertain, miserable, he seeks a religion to enlighten, console, regenerate and save him. But, left to himself, the vine torn from its support, and prostrate along the ground, not more blindly puts forth its tendrils, nor more vainly strives to rise, than man cast off from God.

A planet broken away from its allegiance to the sun, a vineyard smitten by a typhoon, prostrating every vine, are fit illustrations of the helpless condition of China. But that is not all. Left to herself, it is worse than helpless—it is hopeless.

As well expect a fallen planet, unaided, to regain its lost position, or the trailing vines to raise themselves. The utmost they can do is to increase the difficulty. Such has been the history and experience of China through all the ages.

Striving to rise to God, the ancients ordained the worship of nature. Sages and philosophers attempting to regulate the people have themselves become their gods; Buddhism and Taulsm assuming to bring relief have filled the wrecked vineyard with broken reeds; Confucius, the greatest of all, has striven to make each individual vine stand alone, but, despairing of success, entailed on posterity ancestral worship, thus making the dead stock of the old the only support of the new vine; the government looking on from above still prescribes for itself the worship of nature, while it aggravates and mocks the helplessness of its subjects by ever and anon augmenting the number of their gods. Vain toil, effort vain, and hopeless all! The planet has entered the outer darkness, and with it drags a host of satellites. The vineyard is a wilderness of tangled vines, numerous but prostrate, luxuriant but unfruitful.

Darkness covers the land, and gross darkness the people. China is sitting in the region of death, yea, in the midst of the valley of the shadow of death. Destruction encompasseth her on every hand, and there is none—no, not one in all her borders, to whom she can look for salvation.

The Sun alone, the central source of all physical attraction, could arrest a wandering planet, and compel its return to the place from which it fell; and only the concentrated love of God, uplifted on the cross of Christ, can save China from the wreck of her idolatry, and bring her back again to God.

Shall China be saved? Christians, I appeal to you, shall China be saved? Shall the cross of Him who said: And I, if I be lifted up from the earth, will draw all men unto me, be planted in the midst of China?

"As the summer's sun-cracked earth yearns for rain," so the gasping soul of China cries out for the consolations of religion.

Children, young men and maidens, I appeal to you; to fathers and mothers, teachers and preachers, pastors and Bishops, one and all, I appeal to you in behalf of helpless, hopeless China.

Speed, oh! speed the angel having the everlasting gospel to preach unto them that dwell on the earth, and to every nation, and kindred, and tongue, and people, that China may learn to fear God, and give glory unto Him; and worship Him (only) that made heaven and earth, and the sea, and the fountains of waters.

And let every one who can join in the confession and testimony of St. Paul: For I am not ashamed of the gospel of Christ; for it is the power of God unto salvation to every one that believeth, say: Amen! Come Lord Jesus, come quickly!

YOUNG J. ALLEN.

SHANGHAI, CHINA, Feb. 15, 1879.

Here and There

—It seems that we have the Mormons among us. Mr. Daniel Dennett, writing in the New Orleans Picayune, says:

Two or three Mormon missionaries, some say they are from Florida last have been at work in southern Mississippi more than a year, principally in Jackson county, preaching Mormonism and making proselytes. They have planted a Mormon Church at "Three Rivers" and one at Bluff Creek, and one somewhere near Dog river. At Bluff Creek they baptized and received into the church thirteen in one day. Their converts are, as a matter of course, among the most illiterate and benighted in these pineland regions in the rear of the coast. The Rev. Smith claims to be a relative of the celebrated Jo Smith, the distinguished Mormon leader and prophet. These missionaries who are laboring in Mississippi do not call themselves Mormons, but "Latter-Day-Saints." They stir up a deep interest among their new converts in regard to the terrible events shortly to come to pass. We learn that they are mum on the question of polygamy, and that none of them bring with them a pair or more of wives. Our information comes from strictly reliable sources.

—That order of the Mayor of New Orleans to close up noisy colored churches after ten o'clock at night has very much exercised one of our cotemporaries. The Mayor explains that the Chief of Police misunderstood the matter, and that the order was intended to apply to all churches disturbing the neighbors. Well, it is hard for saints or sinners to sleep anywhere in the vicinity of some of these stalwart assemblies. We once lived within four squares of one of Bro. Hartzell's houses of worship, and the songs, prayers and shouts often rung out upon the midnight air. Being a Methodist, we could stand it very well, and we were not disposed to complain. Indeed, we rather enjoyed it, notwithstanding the loss of rest and sleep. But something is due to our friends who are not accustomed to Methodist thunder, and to worldlings who cannot appreciate such lusty worship. Surely even sinners have some rights which we Methodists are bound to respect, and among them are the privilege of repose and quiet after reasonable hours. These fault-finders are, no doubt, some of them gain-sayers and children of the wicked, but we are, nevertheless, exhorted to find "quiet" as well as peaceable lives. And then there are sometimes sick and nervous people domiciled in the vicinage of these zealous churches. The Mayor's order, we verily believe, did not grow out of any enmity to the gospel, nor was it inspired by antipathy to the Methodists, white or black, North or South, but it was issued in deference to the innocent infirmities of people who could not comprehend the reasonableness and utility of such uproar kept up long after bedtime.

—The chief marvel of the negro emigration is the excitement into which it has thrown the radical religious press. Nearly every one of the Northern Methodist papers teems with editorial matter on this subject, and the movement with them has but one interpretation. It is all owing to the cruel treatment which the negroes are receiving at the hands of the Southern white people. Dr. Fowler blossoms out most fragrantly under the heading "Let My People Go." The wickedness of Pharaoh was nothing in comparison with the heart hardening and oppression of these Southern planters. We are prepared to believe that in some cases the condition of the negroes was not free from hardship, but we know that much of this was owing to their own improvidence. The pressure of the times has been felt by their employers more than by themselves, and yet their condition is better than that of the same class of laborers in the Northern States. It is not a spontaneous movement originating with the industrious negroes, but it is easily due to outside influences. The negro is naturally impressible, and is easily excited and led astray. Emissaries have been among them to stir up a spirit of discontent, and to awaken fanaticism and to delude them. The exodus, as it is called, is a small matter so far. Here there seems to be but little interest taken in it. From all we can gather, less than a thousand able bodied and capable laborers have left Louisiana and Mississippi. It may, however, only be the beginning of the end. In some respects it would be a good thing to distribute this people over the North and West. There are many who regard it as a measure of relief to the South. At any rate, there is no occasion for our people to be greatly troubled about it. It is now used by the radicals, in Church and State, as the means embittering sectional feeling, and of making political capital.

—Well, the President has vetoed the Army Bill after it was passed by itself, and disconnected from the army appropriations. The same fate awaits the other bills repealing the obnoxious election laws. Able speeches were made this week in the Senate by Mr. Coke, of Texas, and Mr. Hill, of Georgia. Senator Hill probably struck the heart of the whole controversy when he declared it to be the purpose of the Republicans to destroy the power of the States as an element in our system of constitutional government.

—Our State Convention has done little more than the preliminary work toward forming a new constitution. The only new thing, we believe, is the offering of a petition for the enfranchisement of women. We judge that this movement has, as yet, but a small following in Louisiana, and the impression prevails that the Convention will let the question rest.

—There must have been rather an irreverent and ill-behaved crowd in attendance on the Talmage trial. We are sorry that the Presbyterians of Brooklyn have made such a bad record for themselves. If such scenes had happened in Louisiana or Texas they would have been set down by our Northern friends to the account of the lawless and slave driving spirit of the South. The trustees of the church in which the trial took place complain in this wise:

Whereas, We permitted the Presbytery to use our church lecture-room, and made no objection when the main church room was occupied, still, because our church property has been abused and damaged by riotous crowds, who have broken some of the pews, have torn out some of the book racks, have broken two of the pedals of the organ, have taken away some of our keys, have written numerous scurrilous and indecent things in hymn books and on the backs of seats, and have been heard to threaten the destruction of an oil painting hanging in the church parlor, we do hereby consider it to be our duty, as trustees of the church property, to present our objections and protest against any further abuse and destruction of our property while used by the Presbytery, and do request the Presbytery, if the riotous crowds continue, to have sufficient officers to protect our property, or we shall be compelled to hold the Presbytery responsible for the damages we sustain.

Georgia Correspondence

The unprecedented rains of the last month has greatly alarmed our planters. Much of the cotton have been planted, and the rains were so heavy as to wash much of the crop away, especially that planted on rolling ground. The fertilizers were also damaged to an alarming extent, and the earth crusted over so thickly that the seed could not force its way through it. Great damage was entailed upon the farming community in various sections of the State, if not by the rain, they were injured by the frost which followed the rain-fall.

It is a singular fact, but nevertheless a fact, that all such misfortunes are felt first by our church enterprises. Economy always begins with a man's religious duties. The consequence is many people will diminish the quarterage contributions, and will stop their church papers, because of this fearful rain storm. The wail has gone up already that we are to have a short crop this year, and necessity demands that we have not less dress and home luxuries, but less benevolent contributions. The "wail" is without foundation, in fact, and there is not even reasonable grounds for such a prophecy, although there is just cause for its realization. A people who have no more trust in God's goodness than to imagine such a misfortune, and charge God's providence of bringing it about, upon every principle of equity, ought to realize their own evil imaginings.

In many of our churches the spirit of revival has been manifest. In Gallatin the most extended work has been carried on. In Augusta, Madison, and other prominent points of the North Georgia Conference, gracious meetings have been held, scores have been converted, and hundreds have connected themselves with our church. In the South Georgia Conference, while the meetings have not been attended with so much power and such large accessions, yet protracted efforts are being made in every direction with more or less success. In this city Rev. Walker Lewis, pastor of the First Street Church, has been holding a meeting, which is now in its third week. A very deep seriousness pervades the congregations, and many are moved to seek salvation. There have been about forty accessions up to date.

Our District Conference season has opened up, but, on account of the intense rain storm, but a small attendance was had at Quitman at the session of the Thomasville District Conference. The meeting was good and profitable, nevertheless. I have not heard in years so much earnest talk and interest manifested in personal consecration and family religion as was exhibited by the brethren at the Quitman Conference. It was the burden of conversation and the theme of the pulpit. If all District Conferences could be confined to the discussion of such subjects, their influence for good would be more widespread and more profitable to the church. But when they assume to settle controverted points in theology, or church polity, they prove to be of no practical benefit.

Next month will be taken up with our educational interests, commencing with the Wesleyan Female College of this city, on the third Sunday, and closing with Emory College, at Oxford, during the first week in July. We have a number of female colleges under our fostering care in Georgia, but only one male institution. So far as I have been informed, they are all doing well. Emory, under the direction of our mutual friend, Dr A. G. Haygood, has taken on a new lease of life. There is but one other male college in the State that has a greater number of pupils, and that is the State Agricultural and Military College at Dahlonega. The Wesleyan of this city, under the excellent management of Dr. W. C. Bass, has never been more prosperous since the war than now. And the Andrew Female College of Cuthbert, under the leadership of the indefatigable Dr. A. L. Hamilton, has come up to the front in first-class order, and is more prosperous than for many years.

Our genial and warm-hearted friend, Dr. F. M. Kennedy, is still in Charleston, S. C., under medical treatment. His gradual improvement is gladdening the hearts of his numerous friends here, and will be a matter of profound gratification to his friends scattered everywhere. You rarely meet with a truer friend or nobler specimen of humanity than Dr. Kennedy.

Last week I made a pilgrimage to Sparta, to spend a few hours with Bishop Pierce and his venerable father. I found the Bishop hard at work upon his contribution to Dr. Clark's "Wesley Memorial Volume," but looking frail. He still insists that hard work is all that he needs to render him robust again. It is evident from this disposition that great men are not free from delusions. He expectorates almost constantly, but claimed that he had just taken fresh cold; but a friend suggested that it was the result of a very unwise act of delivering a memorial address on the twenty-sixth ultimo. His general health is better than it was during the winter, but he is far from being a well man yet. He was to leave for Nashville on the fifth instant, and I suppose he is there. I hope the brethren will have compassion on him, and enforce silence and quiet.

As to the father, I found the grand old man in a paroxysm of pain when I entered his room. He was suffering greatly. A few words of recognition was all that he could bestow. Two hours later I returned to his bedside and found him quiet, and resting comparatively well. His mental faculties retain their vigor still, and he conversed fluently and coherently on various topics, and fervently on the interests of the church, which lie so close to his heart. Physically, the decline is not so rapid as I anticipated, but its fearful work is sure. He has been vibrating between life and death for many weeks, and the end certainly cannot be far distant. The devotion of the Bishop and his family to this departing saint is lovely and beautiful—filial affection was never more grandly demonstrated. With throbbing heart and trembling hand I stood by his bedside and received his benediction and blessing, and while his emaciated hand lay in mine I could feel the chilliness of death's coming, as he exclaimed: "Good by! God bless you!" and I turned and walked silently out of the room. It will be on the other shore when we meet again, I feel confident.

Bishop McTyeire will be with us and preach the commencement sermon of the Wesleyan Female College next month. He will attend one or two District Conferences before the commencement at Oxford, whither he goes to preach the sermon also, the first Sunday in July.

MACON, GA., May 7, 1879. S. S. SWEET.

Last Hours of Rev. James E. Cobb.

Rev. J. E. Cobb, presiding elder of Delhi district, Louisiana Conference, died at the residence of Col. T. C. Standifer, in Trenton, La., on Monday, April 28, at ten minutes to twelve o'clock A. M.

Bro. Cobb was taken down sick on Tuesday night, March 18. I say taken down sick, because he had been very unwell for several weeks previously, but refused to take his bed until actually compelled to do so, or from inability to travel and preach any longer. On Sunday, the sixteenth, he preached a characteristic sermon from Luke ix, 31, 32. He was scarcely able to stand in the pulpit, sometimes holding to it to prevent falling, and when through with the sermon, and the sacramental service, in which he had to be assisted by the pastor, he retired to the parsonage very much exhausted, and suffering great pain. Late in the evening he returned to his room at Bro. Standifer's. Monday and Tuesday he came into town for a little while, looking after some business of importance. On Wednesday I was sent for to "hasten to him, as he was dying." On reaching his room I found him suffering immensely from frequent nervous attacks or spasms. Almost the first remark he made to me was: "O, Bro. Wright, the Saviour is so precious to me!" He told us in the love-feast, on Sunday afternoon, that he enjoyed a shoreless peace; and frequently during his sickness he would speak of boundless peace, shoreless peace, etc.

He requested me nearly every day to read him a short Psalm; would usually comment on the Psalm or Scripture read, and remark on the preciousness of God's truth. He daily spoke of his faith or trust in God as being full. Said he: "I believe the Bible, every word of it." He requested that Bros. J. M. Brown, J. Moore, and myself, should meet in his room, and pray for his recovery, framing our petitions after the instructions contained in the fifth chapter, thirteenth, fourteenth and fifteenth verses of the general Epistle of James, which we did, heartily responding.

On the fourth of April Bro. R. T. Parish visited and prayed with him. He was very happy during prayer, heartily responding, and rejoiced greatly in the Saviour's love. On this day (April 4) he seemed to get some better; fifth and sixth continued to improve; seventh, we felt somewhat encouraged; eighth, his condition not so hopeful; ninth, through the day and night condition growing worse, with severe hemorrhages from liver; tenth, very feeble. Having to go to an appointment in the country, I did not see him again until Monday. On Tuesday he repeated the hymn commencing with: "There is a fountain filled with blood." Was very happy, saying, at the close of it: "Praise the Lord, O my soul," etc. From this time until the twentieth he seemed to be improving—read the Advocates; on the twenty-first his mind seemed to be wandering; on the twenty-second, twenty-third, twenty-fourth and twenty-fifth quite unconscious, talking incoherently, and very weak; on the twenty-sixth suffering very much, indeed, and for the most part rational. Yet, when rational, talked of the goodness of God, often repeating the first three verses of the one hundred and third Psalm. He has not been otherwise than happy, religiously, since his sickness commenced. Here I left him again for my country appointment, but returned on Sunday evening, and found him rapidly sinking, unconscious, not able to see or speak. He continued to suffer terribly until an hour or two before his death, when he became comparatively easy, and breathed softly, and died, beyond a doubt, triumphantly. His sanctified spirit went joyfully up to meet the God who gave it. He died just ten minutes before twelve o'clock A. M., surrounded by the stewards of the Trenton Church, his son in-law (Bro. Edgar White,) and myself.

His friends, loved ones, and the members of the Louisiana Conference, are due many thanks to Bro. and Sister T. C. Standifer for the kind attention shown Bro. Cobb through his protracted illness (forty-two days). They could have done no more than they did for him, if he had been their own dear father. Also to the kind citizens of Trenton, members of the church and others, for their constant nursing of him night after night, and also to his physicians, Drs. R. D. Wuyte and F. M. McCormick. Say to those bereaved by the death of beloved Bro. Cobb, no man ever had better attention and deeper sympathy in his sickness at the hands of a kind people, and from competent physicians, than were tendered to him throughout his sickness.

J. L. WRIGHT.

The labor convention recently held at Vicksburg, Miss., gave the following as the chief causes of the emigration of negroes from some sections of the South. We quote from the report of a committee which was adopted by the convention.

1. The low price of cotton and the partial failure of the crop of the past year.

2. The irrational system of planting adopted in some sections, whereby labor is deprived of intelligence to direct it and the presence of economy to make it profitable.

3. The vicious system of credit, fostered by laws, permitting laborers and tenants to mortgage their crops before they were grown or even planted.

4. Apprehension on the part of many colored people, promoted by insidious reports circulated among them, that their civil and political rights are endangered or are likely to be.

5. Hurtful and false rumors, diligently disseminated, that by emigrating to Kansas, colored people would obtain lands, mules and money from the government, without cost to themselves and become independent forever.

Many retail country storekeepers are engaging in the business of selling whisky to laborers and tenants, whereby their morals have been corrupted, their labor rendered inefficient, and the pleasant relations between them and their landlords and employers destroyed. It is a matter of astonishment to our committee that the colored people could be induced to credit the idle stories circulated of a promised land where their wants could be supplied and their independence secured without exertion on their part. It was going to the extent of ignorance and credulity to credit them, and yet evidence of an unquestioned character was furnished your committee as to this matter. It is one of the factors in the movement.

There are, in the State of Mississippi alone, five millions, five hundred thousand acres of land belonging to the United States now subject to homestead entries. Any thrifty colored man in the South can pre-empt one hundred and sixty acres of this land, at moderate cost, about eighteen dollars. Lands in Kansas cannot be acquired for less.

In no part of the civilized world can unskilled labor secure larger return by honest toil than among us, but idleness, accompanied by extravagance, produces suffering and want, here as elsewhere. The committee believe that the legislation of our States should be shaped so as to foster habits of industry among the colored people, elevate the standard of social morals and improve and preserve our common school system.

THE WATCH PROPOSITION.—On the proposition of Rev. J. T. Daves, to be one of thirty to give $5 each to buy a watch for Rev. W. M. Patterson, superintendent of our Mexican mission, we have thus far the following responses:

Rev. J. T. Daves $5; ADVOCATE, $5; Mrs. M. Childers, Pleasant Hill, La., $5; Miss E. Childers, Pleasant Hill, $5.

It will be remembered that Bro. Patterson was robbed of his watch while traveling in Mexico. Bro. Daves' proposition was to replace the loss, and to make to Bro. Patterson this expression of interest in him and his noble, self-denying and somewhat perilous work. The amount ought to be made up at once.

The Marvin Monument.

The following announcement will be read with pleasure by the whole church:

The Executive Committee of the Marvin Memorial Association take pleasure in announcing to the Methodist public, and the friends of the late Bishop Marvin, that the twofold purpose of the Association has been successfully accomplished: A pleasant and comfortable home for the Bishop's family is in process of erection, on Chestnut street, in this city, and will be completed by June 1. A monument of gray granite, of classic and appropriate design, has been obtained to mark his resting-place in Bellefontaine Cemetery. This monument will be dedicated with appropriate religious services at the grave May 21, at three P. M. Bishop D. S. Doggett, D. D., will deliver the oration.

We make this announcement in the confidence of seeing upon this very interesting occasion a large attendance of Bishop Marvin's friends from all parts of the country, and especially from Missouri, his native State.

J. W. LEWIS, President.
E. GODFREY, Secretary.

Thomas L. Mellen, Esq., writing from Natchez, Miss., May 3 says:

Last Sunday Bro. Woodward received eight persons into the church—nine quite young; six being from the Sabbath-school. We took for others sum.

Our church is poor, but we are solving financial problems, and will bring Natchez station to the front this year, as we have done for several years.

The Macedonian Call is the title of a neat little sheet issued quarterly at Carrollton, Miss., Rev. E. R. Hendrix, D. D., editor. It is devoted to the interests of missions, and is calculated to do much good in informing the people, and in stirring them up to do their duty. No. 3 is the only copy that has reached us.

A brief note from Rev. Juan S. Valencia, written at Vera Cruz, Mexico, informs us that he reached that city April 29. He speaks of meeting a good many friends, and says: "I see the skies brighter than I used to, and hope to have great success."

—We are now having settled warm weather, seasonable showers, and the health of city and country highly satisfactory. Reports from all sections of the sugar and cotton regions represent the crops as doing well.

Rev. C. D. Donaldson, agent of the Widow's and Orphan's Home, Louisville, Ky., died in Nashville, April 29.

Mr. Spurgeon has been present in his London tabernacle but one Sunday for four months, and yet his people are regular in attendance upon the services, strangers only being missed from the congregation.

MARRIED.

DAVIS—BALLANCE.—At the residence of Mr. D. H. Ballance, in Natchez, Miss., April 17, 1879, by Rev. H. S. Woodward, Mr. Henry H. Davis to Miss Lizzie Ballance.

POWELL—MCHENRY.—February 27, 1879, near Columbia, La., by Rev. R. S. Isbell, Mr. Joseph A. Powell to Miss Mollie L. McHenry, all of Caldwell parish, La.

PRATT—TEW.—At the residence of the bride's mother, Mrs. I. A. Tew, in Choctaw county, Ala., March 27, 1879, by Rev. A. Hood, Mr. Owen Pratt to Miss M. A. Tew.

Plan of Episcopal Visitations for 1879.

FIRST DISTRICT—BISHOP DOGGETT.

Conference	Date	Place
Western Virginia	Sept. 3	Clarksburg.
Kentucky	" 17	Richmond.
Louisville	Oct. 1	Madisonville.
North Georgia	Nov 26	Augusta.
South Georgia	Dec. 10	Perry.
Florida	" 17	Tallahassee.

SECOND DISTRICT—BISHOP WORTHAM.

Illinois	Sept. 3	Kingsville.
Missouri	" 10	Louisiana.
Southwest Missouri	" 24	Kansas City.
Virginia	Nov. 19	Norfolk.
North Carolina	Dec. 3	Wilson.
South Carolina	" 17	Chas'ston.

THIRD DISTRICT—BISHOP KAVANAUGH.

Indiana	Sept. 24	Cosport.
Memphis	Nov. 19	Mayfield.
N. Mississippi	Dec. 3	Water Valley.
Mississippi	" 17	Meridian.

FOURTH DISTRICT—BISHOP MCTYEIRE.

W. Texas	Oct. 15	Hempstead.
German Mission	Oct. 22	Houston.
N. W. Texas	Oct. 29	Fort Worth.
North Texas	Nov. 5	Sherman.
East Texas	Dec. 4	Palestine.
Texas	Dec. 10	Austin.

FIFTH DISTRICT—BISHOP PEIRCE.

Indian Mission	Sept. 10	Double Springs.
St. Louis	Sept. 24	Fredericktown.
Holston	Oct. 22	Abingdon.
Arkansas	Nov. 12	Ozark.
White River	Nov. 26	Forest City.
Little Rock	Dec. 10	Camden.

SIXTH DISTRICT—BISHOP PAINE.

Tennessee	Oct. 8	Murfreesboro.
North Alabama	Nov. 6	Talladega.
Alabama	Dec. 3	Tuskegee.

SEVENTH DISTRICT—BISHOP KEENER.

Western	Aug. 20	Council Grove.
Denver	Aug. 27	Denver.
Montana	Sept. 10	Willow Creek.
Columbia	Sept. 17	Albany.
Pacific	Oct. 8	Sacramento.
Los Angeles	Oct. 22	Los Angeles.
Louisiana	Dec. 10	Baton Rouge.
Bolivia	Mch. 5	Iquique, Royal.

Bishop McTyeire has charge of the Mission to China.

Bishop Keener has charge of the Missions in Brazil and Mexico.

Publisher's Department.

While we continue to do our best to exclude fraudulent advertisements from the ADVOCATE, parties must judge for themselves as to the real value of the goods advertised. In ordering please mention the ADVOCATE.

SPECIMEN COPIES of the ADVOCATE will be mailed when desired to facilitate agents in securing subscribers. Pastors will confer a favor by announcing this fact and forwarding names to the publisher.

THE air of perfection, cleanliness and home-like comfort which is so apparent at the American House, Boston, is one of the characteristic features of that well-regulated establishment. To those disposed to patronize a popular hotel offers a opportunity seldom found of so thoroughly a first-class house, having reduced its rates to $3 and $3 50 per day.

W. C. SHEPARD & CO.—Set fruit in Mason plants—2 quarts, $1 25; two quarts, $1 50; American China slipper sets, $15 $16. Equal in looks and usefulness as French China. 19

THE reasons why you should take the Great Jefferson Route are that it is the quickest to New York and Boston, the only line to Louisville and Cincinnati, eleven hours the quickest and the only one without change of cars to Chicago, six and a half hours ahead of St. Louis, with practically no change of cars, and only one night on the trip, against two by any other line. It is a perfectly safe, smooth and comfortable road to travel; mainly steel track, and its equipments are entirely new, and the best in the South. 19

DO NOT pay exorbitant prices for photographs when you can get the very best, more reasonable at Lilienthal's, who guarantees all his pictures to be of first-class finish or no charge.

FRESH FISH.—If you want pompanos, Spanish mackerel and red snappers go to Bartholomew, Tallon & Co. They keep the best fish in the market. Send in your orders. They guarantee every fish sold.

CHURCH ORGANS TUNED.—Mr. Vetter is considered to be one of the best church organ tuners in the South, as his many testimonials attest. He has tuned a great number of the church organs in the city, giving entire satisfaction. See advertisement.

SUGAR CANE, PINE ISLAND GRASS.—Mr. Caleb W. Montgomery, 150 Common street, is the agent for the Pine Island Grass. Col. Jones of Derwood plantation purchased some time ago ten tons (one hundred bags) of this attractive fodder, and was pleased with the results all round.

TRUNK MANUFACTORY.—Before leaving for the summer call and get your trunk at S. Baum's, 51 Magazine street. Every enterprise looking to home production should be encouraged. Mr. Baum can make to order or repair ladies' and gentlemen's traveling trunks, etc. Give him a call. See advertisement.

G. W. DUNBAR'S SONS.—This old and reliable concern is the largest preservers and packers of shrimps, artichokes, okra and of orange and fig preserves. The quality of their goods are recognized not only in this country, but also in Europe. At the Paris Exposition they carried off the medal over all competitors. They also manufacture the Standard fruit syrups. See advertisement.

THE marble works of George Stroud, from 58 to 66 St. Charles street, are well known to the public. We take pleasure in saying that they have given, so far as we have had opportunity of seeing or hearing, universal satisfaction. No one who is a judge of first-work in marble can fail to appreciate the elegant specimens of his work. Mr. Stroud will be found to be an accommodating and clever gentleman to deal with.

JUST OUT.—Prof. A. Corbett has just published a new book, explaining the process of hatching eggs and raising poultry, for which several premiums have been awarded. For sale by Messrs. Lathrop & Wilkins, at the low price of fifty cents. See advertisement. This house has a large assortment of agricultural and farming implements, at very low prices.

STEWART STOVES.—These well-known stoves are spoken of very highly by those who have got them, and persons who have never tried this stove should call and see that estimable gentleman, Mr. John Campaign, who is the agent at this point for them. He is well and favorably known to the people of this section, and we guarantee that he will please you, not only as regards the stove, but the low prices at which they can be bought.

TRIED AND NOT FOUND WANTING.—Few medicines have been warranted for over thirty one years, like Dr. Tobias' Venetian Liniment, and never has a call been made for to have the money refunded. As pain reliever, it ranks first of all others offered to the public as an internal remedy. It is perfectly innocent, and has for years been recommended by many of our most eminent physicians. All druggists sell it. Price reduced to twenty-five and fifty cents.

MISCELLANEOUS.

DO YOU WANT A FIRST-CLASS

PIANO OR ORGAN?

No doubt you need one, and you will consult your interests by calling at

LOUIS GRUNEWALD'S

14 to 22 Baronne Street, Grunewald Hall,

and see at what low figures and accommodating terms you can buy. The celebrated STEINWAY, KNABE, PLEYEL, FISCHER, PIANOS are the most renowned in the world, and you should buy neither.

THE BEST IS ALWAYS THE CHEAPEST.

SHEET MUSIC at half price.

Everything in the musical line to suit everybody.

ADDRESS,

LOUIS GRUNEWALD,

Grunewald Hall, New Orleans.

SAVE FROM $2.00 TO $10.00

BY BUYING YOUR

RAILROAD TICKETS

AT

GUEDRY'S

TICKET OFFICE,

31 ST. CHARLES STREET, under St. Charles Hotel, N. O.

F. E. GUEDRY, Agent.

WHEELER & PIERSON,

Successors to Darcy, Wheeler and Pierson & Hewes,

CLOTHING AND FURNISHING GOODS,

Nos. 13 and 15 CAMP STREET, New Orleans.

Black Cloth Suits, $20 to $40. Business Suits, $12 to $25.
6 Shirts for $9. Colors $1 50 per Doz.

Liberal reduction to Clergymen.

Rules for self-measurement sent on application, and orders carefully filled. Plantation clothing for country stores at very low prices to suit.

WHOLESALE DEPARTMENT.

WHITE.

Fresh Nainsooks, Organdies, Swiss, Tarlatans, Victoria Lawns, Checked and Striped Muslins, Brilliants, Dotted Jaconets, Linen Lawns and Cambrics, Victoria and Bishop Lawns, Piques, Welsh Flannels, Hamburgs, Cambrics and Pure Linens, from Pettit's Diapers, Towelings, Quilts, Pillowings, Sheetings, Cottonades, Tillings, Sateens, Waterproofs, Shawls, Nainsook Hose, Gloves, Embroideries, Laces, Ties, Bows, Collars, Cuffs, Scarfs, Hamburgs, Edgings, Insertings, Flouncings, etc., etc.

Fresh, First-class Goods, at Reduced Rates,

E. H. ADAMS & BROTHER,

SPECIAL—Extraordinary Inducements on Corsets—Corsets for 25c., 41c., Corsets for $2, Corsets for $1.

594 Magazine Street, Fourth Store above St. Andrew.

C. W. DUNBAR'S SONS,

3 Tchoupitoulas St., New Orleans,

PRESERVERS AND PACKERS OF

SHRIMP, FRESH OKRA, ARTICHOKES,

MANUFACTURERS OF

STANDARD FRUIT SIRUPS.

FOR SALE BY WHOLESALE AND RETAIL GROCERS.

BUSINESS NOTICES.

POZZONI'S MEDICATED COMPLEXION POWDER is acknowledged by thousands of ladies, who use it daily, to be the only preparation that does not roughen the skin, cause blister or leave black spots in the pores. Mothers apply it to infants who become chafed with it, and it is a sure cure. It removes all eruptions. Price 75 cents and $1 per box. Sold by druggists, and at depot 167 North Sixth street, St. Louis (Lindell Hotel).

DOCTORS GAVE HIM UP.

Is it possible that Mr. Godfrey is up and at work, and cured by so simple a remedy?

It is so, and it is a fact that this city can endorse as having as many as half the doctors gave him up and said he was going to die.

Well, why don't you go and tell your friends and get some of them to do so? I know it is a good.

Subscribed in the Jeff Barracks, Mo., June 29, 1878.

Messrs. J. & C. Magruder, Wholesale Druggists, St. Louis, Mo.

GENTLEMEN: Having had the agency of your Magruder's Specific Pomade for the last three years, and having sold a great deal of it, I have given it a fair trial as a remedy for Chronic Rheumatism, and have found it a good remedy for that disease, and have no doubt saved many valuable lives by its use.

WILLIAM BRADLEY,
Chaplain and Supt. Soldiers' Home.

WHAT other preparations fail to do, Hall's Hair Renewer surely accomplishes. It restores hair and especially restores its color when gray and faded. As a dressing it is unsurpassed, making the hair moist, soft and glossy. The most economical preparation ever offered, its effects remain a long time, and those who have once used a trial bottle will never use any other.—Advertiser and Union, Fredonia, N. Y.

For an Irritated Throat, Cough or Cold, "Brandt's Bronchial Troches" are offered with the fullest confidence in their efficacy. They maintain the good reputation they have justly acquired. Twenty-five cents a box.

SAFETY, efficiency and reliability are the three cardinal virtues of a remedy, whether in the hands of a physician or in those of the people at large. For the cure of all malarial or intermittent diseases, such as Chills and Fever, or Intermittent Fever, Dumb Chills and Chronic Enlargement of the Spleen, we have such a remedy in Dr. F. Wilmot's Anti Poison or Fever and Ague Tonic, the composition of which has been published by its proprietors, Whitelock, Finley & Co., of New Orleans, and is approved by the medical profession, and for sale by all druggists.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

SOUTHERN

CHURCH ORGAN

MANUFACTORY,

No. 103 Baronne Street,

Under the National Theater,

NEW ORLEANS, LA.

PETER VETTER, Proprietor.

Church Organs tuned and repaired all over the South.

FRESH FISH—FRESH FISH.

POMPANO, SPANISH MACKEREL AND RED SNAPPER,

can be bought at moderate prices by calling on

Batholomew, Tallon & Co.,
At French Market.

NEW RICH BLOOD!

PASTEUR'S RESTORATIVE TEA OR NEW RICH BLOOD acts by purifying and enriching the blood. It is a sure cure for all diseases arising from impure blood, and will restore to health, if anything in this world can, the most wretched victim of scrofula in its worst stages. Sold everywhere, or sent to any address on receipt of stamps.

L. S. JOHNSON & CO., Bangor, Me.

J. S. RIVERS,

STATIONER,

Steam Power Printer,

BLANK BOOK MANUFACTURER,

LITHOGRAPHER AND ENGRAVER,

71 CAMP STREET,

NEW ORLEANS.

PIANOS.

PIANOS TUNED AND REPAIRED in the best and most satisfactory manner, at

Mr. Burchardt's Manufactory,

933..... MAGAZINE STREET 933

Between Jackson and Josephine Sts.

WANTED EVERYBODY TO know that LAPLACE'S INDIAN PULMONARY PECTORAL BALM is not a secret preparation, its efficacy being due to the Indian Panacea, which is a well-known specific in three complaints. Any person who uses one bottle of this Balm upon the first appearance of consumption, will be restored to sound health. It is highly efficacious for coughs, colds, asthma, and all diseases of the throat and lungs, and the relief of consumptive patients. Prepared and for sale only by H. LAPLACE, Pharmaceutical Chemist, 25 and 27 Elysian Fields street. For sale also at the principal wholesale and retail druggists.

Depot in Mobile at J. C. Dumas & Co. Depot in St. Louis at Richardson & Co. 5p

The New Louisiana Remedy.

Greatest Cough Syrup of the age, of any age. Product of our swamps. Splendid for children. No poison. Thirteen pages of names of home references and increasing! Sold by druggists. Depot 106 Camp street, New Orleans.

Washington Avenue Drug Store,

Cor. Magazine & Washington Sts.,

NEW ORLEANS.

Constantly receiving fresh supplies of pure Drugs, Medicines, Chemicals, Patent Medicines, Combs of all kinds, Brushes, Soaps, Perfumery, Paints and Paint Articles, etc., sold at small margin. Coral Tooth Paste, recommended by all who use it as a very superior dentifrice. It beautifies the teeth, a fine pearl like ornament and invisible lac mic. Also the Improved Powder, for beautifying the teeth, and preserving the skin, the best thing for prickly heat and all summer complaints. Customers can rely and confide in the purity of the articles sold at this establishment, as only the best and most reliable articles will be found. Physicians' prescriptions carefully compounded at moderate rates. Prescriptions put up day and night. H. J. MAYNORA, M. D., Druggist, Pharmaceutist and Practical Chemist.

PIANOS.

PIANOS TUNED AND REPAIRED in the best and most satisfactory manner, at

Mr. Burchardt's Manufactory,

933..... MAGAZINE STREET 933

Between Jackson and Josephine Sts.

Farm, Garden and Household.

The Exhaustion of Soils by Plant Growth.—Plants are constantly drawing water from the soil through their roots, and throwing it off through their leaves, and this water in the soil is carrying away from the minerals in the soil such constituents which are constantly being moved through the oxygen of the air, and this process, if left to itself, of nature's use of our abandoned pastures and forests, will add fertility to the soil each year, so that plants would not die for want of food to make the seed for every year that has ever been. But when man comes, and reaps and carries off the plants, the store of fertility decreases. Plants may grow in manure that is thrown back upon the ground, but the soil is fed in the best way it can be done by natural forces.

We have no where in the United States that cannot be made infertile by constant cropping without returning anything to it. The growing of crops is an artificial process, but harvesting them is a reproducing one. Even the great barren deserts are full of plant food, and in a soluble condition too. The seeds of Utah, under the influence of water, have been made to blossom like the rose, and what is true of Colorado, it will do in a certain sense in Massachusetts and New England.

I assert that Massachusetts soils are no longer suitable for growing wheat. That crop was grown till the yield ran down to five bushels per acre. Such rye was grown on the same land with yields of twelve bushels per acre. Why could the rye produce double the amount of grain to the acre, requiring the same material to grow with? Simply because the rye had the greatest power to gather its food. After land becomes incapable of producing fifty crops of rye, it still may be made to grow a good crop of corn, partly because the corn has a longer period in which its roots can seek food from the soil, but chiefly because of its greater root power.

Some plants are as unlike others in their ability to live from a soil, as are mules unlike short horn steers in their ability to live upon the vegetation that grows from the soil. The corn plant, with its multitude of roots, has a great power to pump water through the soil, carrying away at the same time the dissolved mineral elements set free by the action of the air and water on the more fine portions of the earth.—New England Farmer.

Making English Mutton.—Dr. Stuart, a Scotch gentleman, the other day really thought he was eating English mutton while dining with us. When I told him the boarding mutton was "to the manor born" he would scarcely believe it, so the flavor was so excellent. The mutton was essentially English, as it was cooked on shrubs. It was carefully butchered, so that there should be no woolly hair to it, which is always the case when the wool touches the flesh, or when the butcher handles the meat without washing his hands after launching the fleet. We tried the expertise of this writer of fattening a new sheep for curing for family use, and we are very much gratified at our success. English mutton, etc., that is going to the top shelf on the start. Our pen of sheep were old ewes, all but three a yearling wether. We began with about four quarts each of turnips sliced in the machine, and in a week increased this quantity to as many as they would eat, which was about a peck each. A quart of buckwheat bran for the first few weeks was given with the turnips each day, and they had besides all the clover hay they wanted. They got no water. They were small sheep, a cross of Merinos and Southdowns. They began to gain rapidly from the start, and never missed a feed, showing they were in perfect health all of the time, for when a sheep is sick it will not eat. Larger sheep would have eaten more turnips and would have done equally as well. The rule should be, after the first week, to give them all of the turnips they will eat. There is no danger of sheep eating too many turnips in winter if the stable is warm. F. D. Curtis.

Keeping Ice in the Sick Room.—For those who have an abundant supply of ice this may not be a matter of much moment; but for poor people, who may rarely use ice except in sickness, and to whom the expense is not insignificant, the following hints from an English source may be useful: "Cut a piece of flannel, about nine inches square, and secure it by a ligature round the mouth of an ordinary tumbler, so as to leave a cup shaped depression of flannel within the tumbler to about half its depth. In the flannel cup so constructed pieces of ice may be preserved many hours; all the longer if a piece of flannel from four to five inches square be used as a loose cover to the ice-cup. Cheap flannel, with comparatively open meshes, is preferable, as the water easily drains through it, and the ice is thus kept quite dry. When good flannel with close texture is employed, a small hole must be made in the bottom of the flannel cup; otherwise it holds the water and facilitates the melting of the ice, which is, nevertheless, preserved much longer than in the naked cup or tumbler. In a tumbler containing a flannel cup made as above described, of cheap, open flannel, at 10d. 20 cents a yard, a lump of ice weighing one pound took ten hours and ten minutes to dissolve two ounces of ice, whereas in a naked cup, under the same conditions, all the ice was gone in less than three hours."

Rose Culture.—One of the first secrets of success with the rose in guarding against its several persistent insect enemies, such as the rose-bug, green fly, rose-sting, etc., is to keep the plant healthy and in vigorous growth. To insure this, a rich soil is indispensable. Let it be composed of old decomposed sods or thoroughly rotted manure. This earth should never be permitted to bake, but should be kept friable by frequent stirring. The aphis, or green-fly, first attacks the young, tender shoots, feeding upon their juices. The pests may be killed by placing a barrel over the infested plant and burning tobacco in a flower-pot or other vessel underneath. The rose-sting, that green bodied, jelly-like pest that feeds upon the surface of the leaves, leaving only the veins and ribs, may be kept in severe check, if not destroyed, by dusting the plant with fine coal ashes. The rose-bugs may be brushed off into a pail of water, or picked off separately by hand and destroyed. As much as has been written about the culture of the rose and about its insect enemies and their destruction, the above, in our experience, embodies the whole story.—Rural New Yorker.

Stripping Leaves from Plants.—The injury or check to the growth of plants by stripping off the leaves in summer is generally well understood, but corroborative cases are often interesting. An instance is reported in the Farmers' Gazette as quoted in the Virginia Agricultural report, where the leaves were all pulled off a row of corn, and the weight of the crop was 161 pounds, while on a stripped row it was only 88 pounds. In some other cases the difference was less, but in all distinct and striking. The same principle applies to pruning fruit trees in summer, which should be omitted or sparingly performed except where the trees are still sufficiently vigorous to bear some check.

How to Check Curculio.—Dr. Brewin Sequard, in his late Boston lectures, says that there are many facts which show that morbid phenomena of respiration can always be stopped by the influence of arrest. Coughing, for instance, can be stopped by pressing on the nerves of the lip in the neighborhood of the nose. A pressure there may prevent a cough when it is beginning. Sneezing may be stopped by the same mechanism. Pressing in the neighborhood of the ear, right in front of the ear, may stop coughing. It is also preventive of hiccough; but much less so than of sneezing or coughing. Pressing very hard on the top of the mouth inside is also a means of stopping coughing. And, he adds, that the wife has immense power there. There was a French nurse who used to say, "The first patient who coughs here will be deprived of his food to-day." It was exceedingly rare that a patient coughed then.

Red Brown Soup.—Take six pounds of lean fresh beef cut from the bone, stick it over with four dozen cloves, and season it with a tea-spoonful of salt, one of pepper, one of mace, and one of ground nutmeg; slice six onions and fry in butter; spread them over the meat after you have put it into the soup pot; pour in five quarts of water and boil very slowly for six hours, skimming it well when the meat is all boiled to shreds strain it, and return the soup to the pot; simmer slowly, and when reduced to three quarts it is done, and may be set to the fire.

To Fry Salt Pork.—Cut into very thin slices and freshen by letting lie for an hour or more in cold milk or water. Roll in flour and fry until crisp. Drain from the fat and place the slices where they will keep warm. Pour off most of the fat from the frying pan and stir in, while hot, a tea-spoonful of flour, a little more may be added if the gravy be not thick. Add half a pint of new milk. Season with pepper and salt if not salt enough. Boil up and serve with the crisp pork.

Chicken Soup.—Take the fat from the top of the dripping in which your chicken was boiled yesterday, and put in the soup to heat. Meanwhile, boil half a dozen of the potatoes in a pint of salted milk, and when the potatoes are done, stir in a tea-spoonful of butter worked in flour to prevent curdling. When the soup boils up clear, skim and add the rice and milk, with two tablespoonfuls of minced parsley. Pepper and salt to taste; simmer two minutes; drop off three hard-boiled eggs, one at a time, into the tureen, and pour the soup upon them.

A writer in the Country Gentleman says: "A great waste in New England farming is weed-growing. We have too many small fields which it is impossible to cultivate as they ought to be. There are too many fence corners in which brush and weeds are allowed to grow, as they cannot be got at to advantage unless the fences are moved. It is much cheaper to remove the inside fences than to keep the farm divided into small fields.

Potato Starch.—Pare, cut in long, even strips; lay in cold water for one hour; dry by spreading them upon a towel and pressing another upon them. Fry to a light brown in salted lard. Shake off the fat in a hot colander. Line a deep dish with a napkin and put in the strips. They should not be crowded in frying, but each should be distinct and free from the rest.

Coffee Custard.—Boil one pint of milk with six dessert-spoons of sugar; add a cup of very strong coffee, and three beaten eggs. Save the whites of two. Add a tablespoonful of cornstarch mixed in a little cold milk. Stir constantly until smooth. Pour into glasses, and ornament with beaten whites of two eggs just before serving.

To Remove Tar or Pitch from the Skin.—Mix together pulverized extract of liquorice, and oil of anise to the consistency of thick cream; rub it on the part thoroughly with the hand; wash well off with soap and warm soft water.

Mush Waffles.—One quart of flour, one pint of cornmeal mush, two eggs, a tablespoonful of butter and a little salt. Make a thin batter with sweet milk. Separate the eggs as for rice waffles; it makes them lighter.

45 Years Before the Public.

THE GENUINE

DR. C. McLANE'S

CELEBRATED

LIVER PILLS

FOR THE CURE OF

Hepatitis, or Liver Complaint,

DYSPEPSIA AND ITS CONSEQUENCES, HEADACHE

Symptoms of a Diseased Liver.

PAIN in the right side, under the edge of the ribs, increases on pressure; sometimes the pain is in the left side; the patient is rarely able to lie on the left side; sometimes the pain is felt under the shoulder blade, and is frequently extends to the top of the shoulder, and is sometimes mistaken for rheumatism in the arm. The stomach is affected with loss of appetite and sickness, the bowels in general are costive, sometimes alternative with laxity, the head is troubled with pain, accompanied with a dull, heavy sensation in the back part. There is generally a considerable loss of memory, accompanied with a painful sensation of having left undone something which ought to have been done. A slight, dry cough is sometimes an attendant. The patient complains of weariness and debility; he is easily startled, his feet are cold or burning, and he complains of a prickly sensation of the skin; his spirits are low; and although he is satisfied that exercise would be beneficial to him, yet he can scarcely summon up fortitude enough to try it. In fact, he distrusts every remedy. Several of the above symptoms attend the disease, but cases have occurred where few of them existed, yet examination of the body, after death, has shown the LIVER to have been extensively deranged.

AGUE AND FEVER.

DR. C. McLANE'S LIVER PILLS, IN CASES OF AGUE AND FEVER, when taken with Quinine, are productive of the most happy results. No better cathartic can be used preparatory to, or after taking Quinine. We would advise all who are afflicted with this disease to give them a FAIR TRIAL.

For all bilious derangements, and as a simple purgative, they are unequaled.

BEWARE OF IMITATIONS.

The genuine are never sugar coated.

Every box has a red wax seal on the lid, with the impression DR. McLANE'S LIVER PILLS.

The genuine McLANE'S LIVER PILLS bear the signatures of C. McLANE and FLEMING BROS. on the wrappers.

Insist upon having the genuine DR. C. McLANE'S LIVER PILLS, prepared by Fleming Bros., of Pittsburgh, Pa., the market being full of imitations of the name McLane, spelled differently but same pronunciation.

MISCELLANEOUS.

CO-PARTNERSHIP.

THE undersigned have formed a copartnership for the purpose of conducting the Book and Stationery Business, at 112 Camp st., under the firm-name of LATHROP & WILKINS, succeeding to the business heretofore carried on by G. T. LATHROP.

The business will be conducted on the cash basis, and our friends may rely on being supplied with fresh stock at lowest prices. Our specialties will be School Books, Methodist Books, other Religious Publications and Stationery.

G. T. LATHROP,
A. H. WILKINS.

NEW ORLEANS, La., May 1, 1879.

Blount Springs, Alabama.

THE most accessible mountain Summer resort in the South. Only eighteen hours ride from New Orleans. Pure, bracing air. The best mineral waters on the Continent. All chronic diseases successfully treated; dyspepsia a specialty. Send to the Proprietor for circulars, etc., or call on T. E. Cranmer, corner Camp and Common streets, for information.

S. D. HOLT Proprietor,
Blount Springs, Ala.

"The Washington City Route."

BALTIMORE AND OHIO R. R.

THE SHORTEST, QUICKEST AND ONLY DIRECT ROUTE TO

Washington & Baltimore,

With direct connections for
Richmond, Lynchburg, Norfolk and the Southeast.

Philadelphia, New York, Boston

AND THE EAST.

PULLMAN PALACE CARS,
RUN THROUGH WITHOUT CHANGE
Between the Principal
WESTERN AND EASTERN CITIES.

For Through Tickets, Baggage Checks, Movement of Trains, Sleeping Car Accommodations, etc., apply at Ticket Offices at all Principal Points, North, South, East or West.

E. R. DORSEY, Asst. Gen. Ticket Agt.
J. M. COLE, Gen. Ticket Agt.
THOS. P. BARRY, Western Pass. Agent.
THOS. K. SMITH, Master of Transpn.

U. S. FOUR PER CENT. BONDS.

WE continue to sell these bonds, coupon and registered, at par and accrued interest. All deliveries made here, free of expense to purchasers.

NEW ORLEANS NATIONAL BANK,
A. BALDWIN, President.

PROCTER & GAMBLE'S
Old-Fashioned Full Weight
EXTRA OLIVE SOAP
FOR SALE BY
C. A. FRENCH,
49 Poydras Street, New Orleans.

F. FISCHER & SON,
PROPRIETORS
PIPAYUNE SAW MILL,
FOOT OF CARROLLTON AVENUE,
Seventh District, New Orleans.

CYPRESS PINE AND SHINGLES,
P. O. Box 17, Carrollton.
All Bills and Orders will receive prompt attention.

FANCY GOODS! FANCY GOODS!
SCHILLING'S
Millinery Emporium, Hair Work
AND
FANCY GOODS BAZAR,
159.....CANAL STREET.....159

The assortment comprises the very latest styles in Millinery Materials, Hats and Bonnets, HAIR GOODS of every description, and the most recherche selections in Jewelry, Fans, Combs, Brushes, Dressing Cases, Suede Purses, Card Cases, Vienna Gilt Ornaments, Porte Monnaies and Perfumery.

Your attention is particularly directed to my SPECIALTIES in fine Shell, Ivory and Pearl JET GOODS, MILLINERY ARTICLES AND HAIR WORK.

G. T. SCHILLING,
159 CANAL STREET.

Mechanics' and Traders' Ins. Co

NEW ORLEANS, LA.
No. 14 CARONDELET STREET,
Solicits Fire, River & Marine Risks

GEO. H. FROST, Act'g Secretary. LLOYD R. COLEMAN, President.
F. C. GREGORY, Ass't Sec. & Fire Clerk.
JNO. C. WOOD, Marine and River Clerk.
E. AUZOUY, Inspector, etc.
J. Y. B. HASKELL, Collector.
Capt. S. H. FROST, Marine Inspector.

TRUSTEES.

Hugh Allison,	Robert L. Moore,
J. H. Allen,	H. J. Mollan,
J. A. Brasselman,	Ed. Nalle,
Jno. D. Britton,	F. J. Odendahl,
Sam. Boyd,	Emile J. O'Brien,
Isaac Bloom,	Wm. A. Peake,
F. J. Carver,	J. M. Patterson,
Geo. W. Cary,	D. L. Raulett,
Jno. D. Cobb,	G. W. Sentell,
H. Dudley Coleman,	W. H. Thompson,
Wm. L. Cushing,	W. P. Vinet,
J. M. Frankenbush,	J. M. Walsh,
Hon. Geraud,	Meyer Well,
P. G. Gilbert,	T. S. Waterman,
J. Davidson Hill,	Fred'k Wing,
M. Johnson,	C. W. Wood,

Lloyd R. Coleman.

WANTED, AGENTS FOR THE
ERRORS OF ROMANISM

The best book ever published, being a complete exposition of this base system, which enslaves, degrades and corrupts and by its dastardly influences is trying to destroy our glorious Republic. Free Schools, and everything that Protestantism cannot control, edited by the most eminent Protestant Bishops and other Divines. Profusely illustrated, with portraits of contributors. Every person who values freedom should have this work. Address for circulars,

J. H. CHAMBERS, St. Louis, Mo.

J. D. CRASSONS,
BOOT AND SHOE STORE,
NO. 26 FRENCHMEN ST., between Victory and Moreau, Third District, New Orleans.

A large assortment of Boots and Shoes always on hand, and made to order. Ladies', Children's and Gentlemen's Shoes manufactured to order.

GOODWYN'S HERMA YEAST POWDER, a production of this city, is both popular with the frail and the delight of all experienced housekeepers; and no wonder, for it is an article of the very highest order of merit. Send for circular and prices.

P. M. GOODWYN, Manufacturer,
No. 29 Constance Street, New Orleans, La.

SPORTSMEN'S DEPOT,
55.....ST. CHARLES STREET.....55
NEW ORLEANS.

ARTICLES FOR FISHERMEN
OF ALL KINDS.

Rods, Nets, Hooks, Lines, and every desirable article for the Angler, wholesale and retail. Guns imported to order. J. R. Cooper's Breech and Muzzle Loading Guns always on hand. All kinds of improved artificial baits. Address Postoffice Box 1033.

MISCELLANEOUS.

C. W. DUNBAR & SONS,
3 Tchoupitoulas St., New Orleans,
PRESERVERS AND PACKERS OF
SHRIMP, FRESH OKRA, ARTICHOKES,
ORANGE AND FIG PRESERVES IN TINS.
SILVER MEDAL AWARDED AT PARIS EXPOSITION, 1878, FOR QUALITY AND EXCELLENCE OF GOODS.
OUR GOODS ARE GUARANTEED AND DESIGNED EXPRESSLY FOR FAMILY USE
FOR SALE BY WHOLESALE AND RETAIL GROCERS.

NICHOLLS TEMPERANCE LUNCH HOUSE
AND
LADIES' RESTAURANT,
56 - - - CAMP STREET, - - - 58

The Ladies' Department of the NICHOLLS LUNCH HOUSE, having been recently fitted and furnished in handsome style, is now open for the accommodation of guests. Particular attention having been paid to the

LADIES' DINING HALL, PARLOR AND TOILET ROOM,

All of which have been neatly and comfortably furnished with a view to the comfort of the ladies.

The Proprietor has placed a PIANO in the Parlor for the benefit of the guests of the house. All meals are cooked in HOME STYLE, at short notice and at

HALF THE RATES OF OTHER RESTAURANTS,

and are served by polite and attentive waiters.

AGENTS WANTED.

AGENTS WANTED FOR THE PICTORIAL
History of the World.

It contains 672 fine historical engravings and 128 large double column pages, and is the most complete History of the world ever published. It sells at sight. Send for specimen pages and extra terms to Agents, and see why it sells faster than any other book. Address

NATIONAL PUBLISHING CO., St. Louis, Mo.

$10 to $25 A DAY SURE MADE by Agents selling our Chromos, Crayons, Picture and Chromo Cards. 125 samples, worth $5, sent postpaid for 95 cents. Illustrated Catalogue free. J. H. BUFFORD'S SONS, Boston. Estab'd 183-

HOW TO BE YOUR OWN LAWYER. AGENTS Wanted. $500 to $125 a Month. An Encyclopedia of Law and Forms. For Business Men, Mechanics, Farmers, Property Owners, Tenants, everybody, every business. Saves many times cost. Selling fast. Send for circular and terms. P. W. ZIEGLER & CO., 62 Olive St., St. Louis, Mo.

ICE! ICE! ICE!
WHOLESALE AND RETAIL.

FAMILIES SUPPLIED AT LIBERAL RATES
ORDERS PROMPTLY ATTENDED TO.
WILLIAM MYERS,
NINTH STREET, between Magazine and Constance Sts., opposite the Market.

BUCK'S IMPROVED

BRILLIANT STOVE.
Is acknowledged to be the
BEST COOK-STOVE MADE.
SOLD BY
H. HALLER,
NEW ORLEANS.
DEALER IN ALL KINDS OF

Cooking and Heating Stoves of the most Improved makes, Stamped, Plain and Japanned Tin-ware, Tinned and Enameled Hollow-ware, Iron and Clay Furnaces, Planer's Stock, Granite Iron-ware, Lamp-burner and Wick to suit, Tinned Iron Spoons and Forks, Coffee Mills of all kinds, Plantation ware, Sad Irons, Fire-Grates, Fitting machines, etc. H. HALLER,
No. 55 Camp St., New Orleans.
Price-lists mailed on application.

Carpets and Mattings.
ELKIN & CO.
100.....CANAL STREET.....100
NEW PATTERNS
CANTON MATTING, in all Grades.
Oil Cloths, all widths, Linoleum and Linoleum Floor Cloths, Nottingham Lace Curtains, new designs, Window Shades and Cornices.
CARPETS OF ALL KINDS
At Reduced Prices.

$25.00 to $35.00
STEWART'S NEW IMPROVED
SINGER
Sewing Machine

Great Reduction in Prices!
Down with Monopolies!
Hard Times demand Low Prices.

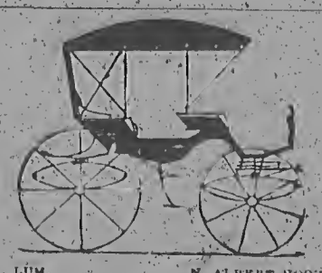
We warrant all our machines to be NEW, LATEST-IMPROVED and PERFECT for
FIVE YEARS.

Our NEW MACHINE is supplied with a LOOSE BALANCE-WHEEL, which is a great improvement over the old SINGER, as it enables the operator to wind the bobbin without running the machine, or removing the work from the needle. This is the most important improvement ever put on the Sewing Machine.

Also dealer in all first-class machines, such as the

WHEELER & WILSON,
GROVER & BAKER,
DOMESTIC,
WILSON,
WEED, Etc.

Cotton, Silk, Flax, Oil and Needles for all kinds of Machines. Address,



M. A. PECK,
General Sewing Machine Agent,
153 CANAL STREET,
Next to Holmes' Dry Goods Store.
New Orleans.

MISCELLANEOUS.

ATTENTION! ATTENTION!
M. ANDRIEU,
159 - POYDRAS STREET - 159

Home-Made Shoes, hand-sewed, $4 00
Home-Made Shoes, Screwed, $2 50-3 50

City-made Boots and Shoes of all kinds and styles, made of the very best material and workmanship, and at less prices than any other store in this city. Keeps all kinds for Gent's, Boys', Ladies' and Children's wear. Employs from 75 to 100 workmen constantly.

J. A. LUM. N. ALBERT BROOKS.
J. A. LUM & CO.,
MANUFACTURERS AND DEALERS IN
CARRIAGES, HARNESS, ETC.,
No. 85 Carondelet Street.
A Specialty made of Children's Carriages.

SAVE YOUR CARPETS
By having them cleaned by the
BOSTON PATENT STEAM
Carpet Beating and Renovating Co.
Office, 170 Camp Street,
Branch Office, 5A Royal Street,
Steam Carpet Beating and Renovating Works
10, 12, 14 and 16 Royal-ste St.,
Corner of Annunciation.

The undersigned is the sole proprietor of the Holmes' Patent Reflexible Whip Carpet-Beating machine for cleaning Carpets and Matting for Dwellings, Churches, Public Buildings, Hotels, Steamboats, etc.

This, the Boston Patent Beater, has been in successful operation for the past fifteen years in all the principal cities in the United States, and has a world-renowned reputation as a carpet-cleaning machine.

This machine consists of a belt of endless straps, over which the carpets pass, and are beaten by a number of endless reflexible whips, restoring the color, and removing all dust, dirt, vermin and moths, without the slightest injury to the finest fabric.

RENOVATING.

By the renovating process all Grease, Ink, Coal Smoke, Soot, and stains of every description, are extracted from the carpets, restoring their original brightness of color. The quality of the restorative is not injurious to the most delicate tint or fabric, and is an actual preventive against moth. Send a Brussels or velvet rug, which will be cleaned gratis as a sample.

Plush and Mohair Furniture, Plush and Damask Lambrequins, Window Shades, Damask Curtains, Blankets, Druggets, Piano and Table Covers, renovated to look like new.

Carpets taken up and relaid by first-class workmen. No charge for taking up, packing or shaking of Carpets.

Our rooms being easy of access, all, and especially ladies, are respectfully invited to call and see the machinery in operation and be convinced that this is the only way to have your Carpets thoroughly renovated from the dust, vermin and moths, for it cannot be done by hand beating. Every Carpet is cleaned under the personal supervision of the proprietors, and satisfaction in every respect guaranteed.

On receipt of orders we will send one of our covered wagons for and return your Carpets free of charge to any part of the City. All orders by mail or left at the office or works will be promptly attended to.

Beating Carpets, 5 cents per yard
Renovating Carpets, 5 cents per yard
H. L. JONES, Jr., Proprietor.
ALBERT PAUL, Agent.
Office—170 CAMP STREET.

ESTABLISHED IN 1825.
LEEDS' FOUNDRY,
Cor. Delord and Foucher Sts.

NO MORE
RHEUMATISM
OR GOUT
ACUTE OR CHRONIC
SALICYLICA
SURE CURE.

Manufactured only under the above trade-mark by the European Salicylic Medicine Co.
OF PARIS AND LEIPZIG.

IMMEDIATE RELIEF WARRANTED, PERMANENT CURE GUARANTEED. Now exclusively used by all celebrated Physicians of Europe and America, becoming a Staple, Harmless, and Reliable Remedy on both Continents. The highest Medical Academy of Paris report 95 cures out of 100 cases within three days. Secret—The only Analyzer of the poisonous Uric Acid which exists in the Blood of Rheumatic and Gouty Patients. $1.00 a Box; 6 Boxes for $5.00. Sent to any address on receipt of price. Established by Physicians. Sold by all Druggists. Address

WASHBURNE & CO.
Only Importers' Depot, 33 Cliff st., N. Y.
NOW
The Most Refreshing Toilet Article.
CASSEBEER'S
QUININE HAIR TONIC.
(EAU DE QUININE.)

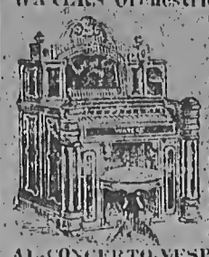
WILL preserve, cultivate, beautify, arrest the fall of and confer a silken softness to the hair, and will not soil the most delicate fabric. Price, $1.

Cassebeer's Ammonia Lozenges.

For mitigating coughs, colds, tickling in the throat, dry thrust, etc., and facilitating expectoration. Price, 25 cents, sent by mail.

Both excellent preparations are for sale by all druggists, and by the proprietor, H. A. CASSEBEER, Apothecary, 57 Fourth avenue and 337 Sixth avenue, New York.

STAMPING PATTERNS.—Stamped Samples of 200 Designs for 25c. The first number just out. A. BERNARD, 401 Canal St., N. Y.



MISCELLANEOUS.

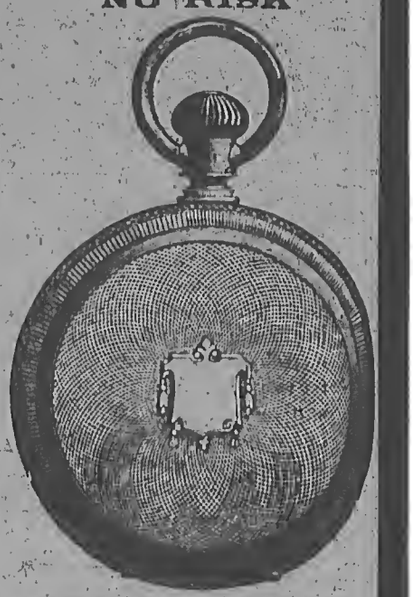
MASON & HAMLIN CABINET ORGANS

Demonstrated best by HIGHEST HONORS AT ALL WORLD'S EXPOSITIONS FOR TWELVE YEARS; viz: at PARIS, 1867; VIENNA, 1873; SANTIAGO, 1875; PHILADELPHIA, 1876; TWO HIGHEST MEDALS at PARIS, 1878; and GRAND SWEDISH GOLD MEDAL, 1878. Only American Organs ever awarded highest honors at any. Sold for cash or installments. ILLUSTRATED CATALOGUES, with new styles and prices, free. MASON & HAMLIN ORGAN CO., BOSTON, NEW YORK, or CHICAGO.

WATERS' Orchestrion chimes ORGAN

is the most beautiful style and perfect tone ever made. It has the celebrated Concertsion, which is the imitation of the Human Voice, and two and a half Octaves of bells tuned to perfect harmony with the reeds, & their effect is magical & electrifying. WATERS' CLARIONA, ORCHESTRAL, CONCERTO, VESPER, CENTENNIAL CHIMES, CHAPEL, and COTTAGE ORGANS, in Unique French Cases are Models of FIRST CLASS.

WATERS' PIANOS, GRAND, SQUARE, and Upright, ARE THE BEST MADE. The Tone, Touch, Workmanship, & Durability Unsurpassed. Warranted for SIX YEARS.



PRICES EXTREMELY LOW for cash. Monthly Installments received. A Liberal Discount to Teachers, Ministers, Churches, Schools, etc. AGENTS WANTED. Special inducements to the trade. Illustrated Catalogues Mailed. Second-hand Instruments at Great Bargains. HORACE WATERS & SONS, Manufacturers and Dealers, 40 EAST 14th STREET, UNION SQUARE, NEW YORK, Box, 3567.

THE DIEBOLD
SAFES.

A large and complete assortment of these Celebrated SAFES on hand and for sale at prices to suit the times. Parties desiring anything in our line are respectfully solicited to address the undersigned, for estimates, etc., as he feels confident of being able to give them satisfaction, both as regards price and quality of work.

A. ROY, Agent.
DIEBOLD SAFE & LOCK CO.,
27 Canal St., New Orleans, La.

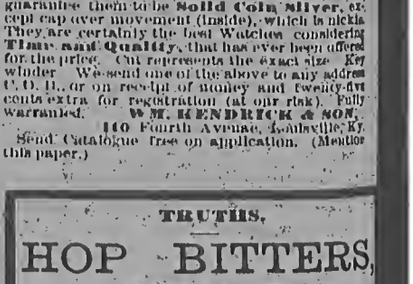
NO RISK

To buy our specie, Ten Dollar Watch, for we guarantee them to be Solid Coin Silver, except cap over movement (inside), which is nickle. They are certainly the best Watches considering Time and Quality, that has ever been offered for the price. Cut represents the exact size. Key winder. We send one of the above to any address C. O. D., or on receipt of money and twenty-five cents extra for registration (at our risk). Fully warranted. WM. KENDRICK & SON,
140 Fourth Avenue, Louisville, Ky.
Send Catalogue free on application. (Mention this paper.)

TRUTHS.

HOP BITTERS,
(A Medicine, not a Drink,)
CONTAINS
HOPS, BUCHU, MANDRAKE, DANDELION,
And the Purest and Best Medical Qualities of all other Bitters.

THEY CURE
All Diseases of the Stomach, Bowels, Blood, Liver, Kidneys, and Urinary Organs, Nervousness, Sleeplessness, Female Complaints and Drunkeness.



$1000 IN GOLD
Will be paid for a case they will not cure or help, or for anything impure or injurious found in them.

Ask your druggist for Hop Bitters and free books, and try the Bitters before you sleep. Take no other.

The Hop Cough Cure and Pain Relief is the Cheapest, Surest and Best.

FOR SALE BY ALL DRUGGISTS.

ELASTIC JOINT
IRON ROOFING
FIRE, WATER AND WIND PROOF.
Durable, Cheap, easily applied by any one. Provides for expansion and contraction. In practical use sixteen years. Boxed for shipment to any part of the country. Address for Circular, CALDWELL & CO., Cincinnati.

Incomparably the Best and Cheapest Windmill. Protected by two patents Twenty-Eight Feet Premium. Light, but strong and durable. Has more wind surface, runs in lighter winds, is more automatic, and pumps more water than any other windmill ever before made. Requires no attention, no continual oiling, running expenses. It has successfully withstood the tornadoes of the West, while other mills that stood near them have been destroyed. It is rapidly superseding others there. See certificates and testimonials in our illustrated Catalogue.

Kewanee Manufg Co. Factories.
Office, 35 Broadway, New York.

N. B.—Responsible State and County Agents wanted in all parts of the World.

$500. MADE IN 87 DAYS. Outfit 10 cents. LOGUE & CO., Cincinnati, O.

Scientific.

THE LIGHTNING ROD.—The St. Louis Academy of Sciences has been throwing light upon the lightning rod, concerning which, said Prof. Nipher, there are many popular delusions. One is: that if one of two rods containing an equal amount of metal be hollowed out, thus giving it greater expanse, its conductive power would be greater than that of the other. The truth is that they would be equally as good conductors. Another erroneous impression which he professed to dispel was that a current of electricity runs along the surface of a wire. In reality it extends through the entire wire when the circuit is made, Mr. Nipher said, but when the circuit is closed it accumulates upon the surface of the conductor. A strong point made was that lightning rods do not attract lightning. They are splendid conductors, much better than wood or air, and lightning strikes them because they offer the least resistance in the passage of the electric current. It makes no difference whether a point be on a lightning rod or not, so far as the protection of buildings is concerned. The positive electricity in the earth will flow along the wire, and accumulate at the point, if there be one, making the tension and thus conducting power greater, and enhancing the probability of lightning striking that rod in preference to another which has no point, but has the positive current disseminated through it equally.—Exchange

LIFE SAVING APPARATUS.—A new American invention for saving life at shipwrecks was tested the other day at Shoeburyness, England. It consisted of an ingenious projectile for carrying a line to the distressed vessel. In the experiment two small and light guns were used, the charge of powder varying from 3½ ounces to 4½ ounces. The projectile weighed, when fitted with line ready for firing, 12½ pounds. It is placed in the gun, the wrong or shot end first, and on leaving the muzzle at once turns over, the front end becoming the rear; wings, either fixed or on hinges, giving steadiness of flight, on the principle of the arrow. In shape it is an elongated shell, 21½ inches long and 3½ inches in diameter, carrying a line tightly coiled within, which it pays out without the smallest risk of breaking as it flies through the air. The distances reached at 22 degrees elevation were 389 448 and 507 yards, the deviation of the shot and line from the target being 4 2-5ths, 9 and 8 yards respectively. Three shots fired at 30 degrees and 35 degrees elevation, traversing a line of flight some 400 feet in the air, ranged 478, 489 and 386 yards, with deviations of shot and line from the target of 2, 6 and 6 yards respectively. The wind was light, blowing directly toward the line of fire. The cost of each projectile is very moderate.—New York Tribune.

—The use of gun cotton rockets for fog signals, instead of cannons, has been recommended by Prof. Tyndall. He has a high opinion of the value of guns for signaling in fogs, but to rock light houses it might often be inconvenient to mount them. Here he would employ the rockets we speak of, in which the explosive agent is from four to twelve ounces of gunpowder. They ascend to a height of a thousand feet before exploding, and the report has been heard a distance of twenty-five miles. Prof. Tyndall proposes to call the kind of rocket the Collinson Rocket, after its inventor, Sir R. Collinson.

—There are 3 800 species of grasses, only about a dozen or fifteen of which are ranked among the cultivated, or more highly nutritious kinds.

This has been in constant use by the public for over Twenty years, and is the best preparation ever invented for RESTORING GRAY HAIR TO ITS YOUTHFUL COLOR AND LIFE.

It supplies the nutrient food and color to the hair glands without staining the skin. It will increase and thicken the growth of the hair, prevent its thinning and falling off, and thus AVERT BALDNESS.

It cures Itching, Eruptions and Dandruff. As a HAIR DRESSING it is very desirable, giving the hair a silken softness which all admire. It keeps the head clean, sweet and healthy.

Analyzed and Chemist of Mass. and leading Physicians endorse and recommend it as a great triumph in medicine.

BUCKINGHAM'S DYE FOR THE WHISKERS

will change the beard to a BROWN or BLACK at discretion. Being in one preparation it is easily applied, and produces a permanent color that will not wash off.

PREPARED BY
R. P. HALL & CO., NASHUA, N. H.
Sold by all Dealers in Medicine.

EDUCATIONAL.

Centenary Institute,

AN institution of learning, located at Summerfield, Alabama, was founded by the Alabama Conference and commenced operations in 1842, and has been in successful operating ever since. The Institute has two departments, male and female.

The buildings are of brick, large and elegant, sufficient to accommodate two hundred and fifty pupils. This is to notify all concerned that the Trustees intend, at their next annual meeting, June 23, to lease the building for five years to any person or persons competent to run the Institution in the interest of a church school.

Persons desiring further information will correspond with me at Summerfield, Ala.

A. H. MITCHELL,
President Board of Trustees.
Summerfield, Ala., March 14, 1879.

Woodville Female Seminary.

A NON-SECTARIAN ACADEMY, UNDER the supervision of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, Mississippi Conference; Hon. E. McGehee, President of Board of Trustees. For Thoroughness of Instruction, healthfulness, cheapness, and many other advantages, is not surpassed. We invite those interested to examine our credentials, and to obtain circulars, by calling upon Mr. Philip Werlein, New Orleans, La., or address the Principal, A. J. WRIGHT,
Woodville, Miss.

The Loquet-LeRoy Institute

AND KINDERGARTEN DAY AND BOARDING SCHOOL FOR YOUNG LADIES, 280 Camp Street.—This institution has now reopened under the auspices of the Misses MOISE. Cecelia W. Sallie L., and Corinne, the latter relicte of the late R. H. Raoul, daughters of Judge E. Warren Moise, deceased, successors of Mme Loquet LeRoy, whose good will and right to conduct the School under the old name they have purchased. Except in so far as the proprietors may enter into active service, there will be no change of teachers. No change whatever in the general and management of the School. They respectfully solicit a continuance of the patronage heretofore so liberally extended to the institution, and that of their friends, and the public generally, promising strict devotion to every interest of the pupils committed to their charge. C. W. MOISE, Principal.

REFERRING TO THE ABOVE MADAME LOQUET-LEROY announces to her friends and former patrons the entire confidence she has in her successors, being in every way suited to the high trust they have assumed. She bespeaks for them a continuance of the patronage so liberally accorded her, and that she will still be actively connected with the institution. For terms and particulars apply to the principal.

HIWASSEE COLLEGE,

(Postoffice the same)
MONROE COUNTY, EAST TENNESSEE.

PARENTS desiring to find a safe and healthy location for their sons during the summer season would do well to patronize the above-named institution under the patronage of the Holston Annual Conference, Methodist Episcopal Church, South. The spring term closes May 22, and Fall session begins

FIRST MONDAY IN AUGUST, 1879.

Students arriving before the latter date will be beyond the reach of epidemics, and will thus secure some months of profitable study before Colleges usually open in less favored localities.

Excellent board in College Boarding House by D. A. McKenzie, the well known former steward, at ten dollars per month, washing included. Same in good private families at nine dollars. Tuition, College Course, twenty dollars; English Course, fifteen dollars.

J. H. BRUNNER, D. D., President.
F. M. GRACE, A. M., Secretary.

MARBLE —AND— GRANITE

TOMBS, MONUMENTS AND GRAVE STONES.

Mantels, Grates, Hearths, Tiling, Flagging, etc.

GEO. STROUD.

164 St. Charles street, New Orleans, La.

Broadway Foundry Co.

JOHN J. HOLLIDAY,
SUPERINTENDENT,
313 Carr Street, ST. LOUIS, MO.
Manufacturers of Stationary and Portable

Steam Engines and Boilers

MULAY AND CIRCULAR SAW MILLS,

Saw and Grist Mill Machinery, Rolling Mill and Blast Furnace Castings, Wrought Shafting and House Work, PARKER'S & JOHNSON'S WATER WHEELS, Tobacco and Lard Press Screws, Compound Tobacco Presses, Lard Kettles, Ironand Brass CASTINGS of every description; also Quartz Mills and Smelting Furnaces of most improved descriptions.

HAY PURCHASED AGT. THE WHEEL & PETTLEY PATTERNS OF OAKS, MUCKE & CO

J. B. DAVIES, late of Louisville, Mechanical Man'r

FOUNDED JULY 4, 1808

OLDEST SHOT TOWER IN AMERICA

THOS. W. SPARKS,

Patent American Chilled Shot,

Standard Drop and Buck Shot
AND BAR LEAD MANUFACTURER,
121 WALNUT STREET,
PHILADELPHIA

NORTON & MANNING, Agents,
NEW ORLEANS.

G. H. MILLER & CO., Agents,
GALVESTON.

CONVERTIBLE FARM MILL

THE simplest and most durable stone mill in the world. Any farmer can run and grind as fine meal as any four foot stone, or as coarse feed as he chooses. Every Mill guaranteed. Send for Circular B with Price List.

Vertical position.

C. H. OGLESBY & Co.,
59 Canal St., Chicago.

PINE ISLAND GUANO

FOR SUGAR CANE
—AND—
ALL QUICK-GROWING CROPS.

PINE ISLAND
Ammoniated Phosphate,
FOR COTTON
—AND—
ALL SUMMER AND FALL CROPS.

The Best Fertilizers in use, and prepared with great care for the Southern market.

THE KINNEY & MILLER (Minnesota)
Early Amber Sugar Cane Seed,
CROP 1878,
Fresh from Kenny & Miller Farms.
DISCOUNT TO THE TRADE.
FOR SALE BY
HUGH W. MONTGOMERY,
160 Common St., New Orleans.
Sole Agent for the Southwest.

PROFESSIONAL CARDS.

WM. L. THOMPSON,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
Office, Garan Building, corner Houston and Soledad Sts.
SAN ANTONIO, TEXAS.

JOHN McENERY. MARTIN VOORHIES
McENERY & VOORHIES,
ATTORNEYS
AND COUNSELLORS AT LAW,
Office—13 ST. CHARLES STREET.

DR. E. P. DOREMUS,
DENTIST,
SUCCESSOR TO DR. DI KEY,
110 Canal street, over B. T. Walshe's,
NEW ORLEANS.
Special attention given to the preservation of the natural teeth.

DR. C. J. HICKHAM,
RESIDENCE AND OFFICE,
230 Jackson St., Bet. Chestnut and Coliseum,
NEW ORLEANS.
Office Hours—Eight A. M. and three to ten P. M.

DR. J. J. LYONS,
NO. 219 CARONDELET STREET,
Between Julia and St. Joseph,
New Orleans, La.

CARRIAGES, WAGONS, ETC.

RUFUS H. EDSON. ARTHUR L. EDSON.
EDSON & SON,
Manufacturers of
Carriages and Buggies
LIGHT AND HEAVY SPRING WAGONS.
715 North Eighth Street. ST. LOUIS, MO.
Barouches, Phaetons, Buggies and all kinds of Spring Wagons constantly on hand and made to order.

FIRST PREMIUM AT ST. LOUIS FOR 1878.
JOHN KIMPEL,
Manufacturer of
CARRIAGES AND BUGGIES,
PLATFORM WAGONS, TRUCKS,
LIGHT AND HEAVY SPRING WAGONS.
208, 210, 212 & 214 Spruce St. ST. LOUIS, MO.
Barouches, Buggies and all kinds of Spring Wagons.

J. THOMSON & BROS.,
IMPORTERS AND DEALERS
IN CARRIAGE, WAGON
AND
CART-MAKERS' MATERIAL,
And Manufacturers of Light Carriages and Spring Wagons,
All at Reasonable Prices.
65 AND 70 SOUTH RAMPART ST.,
Between Common and Gravier,
NEW ORLEANS.

Globe Wagon Manufactory
D. T. SHEAHON & CO.,
PROPRIETORS,
Wagons, Carts AND Drays
MADE TO ORDER.
Southern Orders Respectfully Solicited.
Cor. Collins and Carr Sts. ST. LOUIS, MO.

BUSINESS CARDS.

WATCHES.

LADY'S GOLD WATCHES, $30 and upward.
GENT'S GOLD WATCHES, $15 and upward.
GENT'S SILVER WATCHES, $12 and upward.
BOYS' SILVER WATCHES, $12 and upward.
All Guaranteed
A. B. GRISWOLD & CO.,
Cor. Camp and Royal Sts.

RICE, BORN & CO.,
83 CAMP STREET 83
WAREHOUSE 13, 15 & 17 MAGAZINE ST.,
NEW ORLEANS,
IMPORTERS AND DEALERS IN FOREIGN AND DOMESTIC
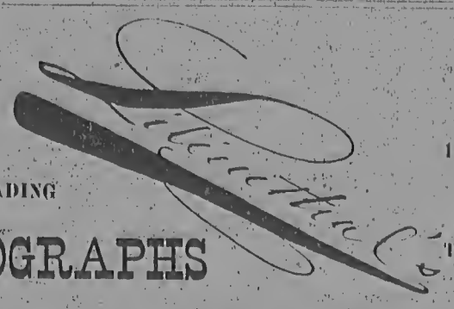
HARDWARE!
BUILDERS' HARDWARE
GRATES, CUTLERY STOVES,
TOOLS & FURNISHING GOODS, ETC.
SOLE AGENTS FOR THE
CHARTER OAK STOVE
HOWE SCALES and
BARBED FENCE WIRE.

H. DEVERGES & CO.,
HARDWARE,
17 and 19 Decatur Street,
Opposite Postoffice, New Orleans.
IMPORTERS AND DEALERS IN
IRON, NAILS, CUTLERY, FINE AGRICULTURAL IMPLEMENTS, PLOWS, OILS, PAINTS, CORDAGES, ETC., ETC.



HEATH PIPPEY & LARA
IMPORTERS AND DEALERS IN
CARPETS, FLOOR OIL CLOTHS.
UPHOLSTERY GOODS, Wall Paper, Window Shades, Curtains, Lace and Nottingham Curtains, Mirrors, Mouldings, Chromos, Engravings, etc.
Frames made to order a specialty
No. 90 Camp Street, New Orleans

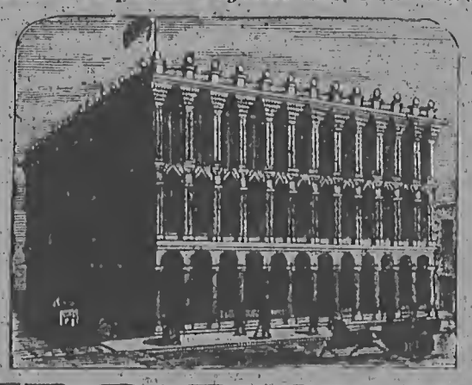
WATCHES AND JEWELRY,
17 BARONNE STREET,
Bet. Common and Canal, NEW ORLEANS.
ALSO
LOAN OFFICE,
Private entrance to right of show window.
Unredeemed pledges of every description sold at very low prices and with full guarantee
OTTO SCHWANEBECK.
Watches and Jewelry carefully repaired.
Jewelry at low cash prices

BUCKEYE BELL FOUNDRY
Bells of Pure Copper and Tin for Churches, Schools, Fire Alarms, Farms, etc. FULLY WARRANTED. Catalogue sent Free.
VANDUZEN & TIFT, Cincinnati, O

MISCELLANEOUS.

FOR THE VERY BEST AND NEVER FADING

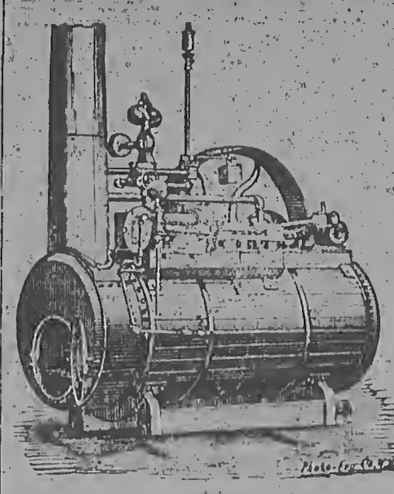
GO TO 121 CANAL ST. Tenro Building.



PHOTOGRAPHS

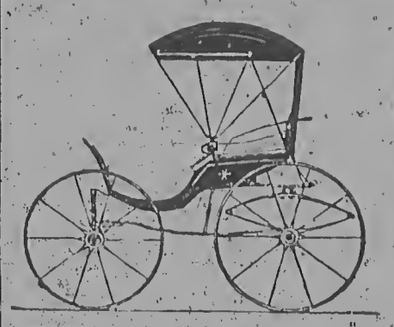
D. H. HOLMES,
155 Canal Street, - - - 15 Bourbon Street.

Our Stock of Spring Goods is now complete, consisting of the latest novelties in
SILKS, LACES, DRESS GOODS IN WORSTED FABRICS
BLACK GRENADINES IN SILK AND WOOL,
LINEN LAWNS, ORGANDIES, AND PERCALES,
HOSIERY in all Styles and Colors,
A Complete Assortment of MATTINGS
SAMPLES sent free of charge.
D. H. HOLMES
155 CANAL STREET.



R. M. & B. J. MONTGOMERY,
FURNITURE EMPORIUM,
Corner Camp and Poydras Sts., New Orleans.

FEATHERS.



SPRING HAIR AND MOSS MATTRESSES.

FINE PARLOR SUITS,
IN SILK, SATIN, COTOLINE REPS AND HAIR CLOTH.
FINE BED-ROOM SUITS IN WALNUT, MAHOGANY AND ROSEWOOD, WITH FRENCH PLATE IN ARMOIRS and Dressing Cases.
Fine Dining-Room, Hall and Library Suits, Fancy Cabinets, Stands, Desks, Tables and Chairs. A large assortment of FRENCH PLATE MIRRORS. A full line of Office Furniture. A large stock of Medium and Common Furniture, suitable for the country trade. Goods delivered free of charge

PAYNE'S
PORTABLE
STEAM ENGINES,
5 To 15 HORSE POWER.
Strong, Simple and Durable,
BEST PLANTATION ENGINE MADE.
Send for Special Price List of this and other sizes Engines, Boilers, etc.

B. J. WEST,
SOLE AGENT,
115 and 117 Magazine Street,
NEW ORLEANS.
Plantation Hardware, Agricultural Implements, Saw Mills, Gin Gearing.

ANDERSON, HARRIS & CO.,
Wholesale Manufacturers of
Buggies, Phætons,
CARRIAGES AND VEHICLES
OF EVERY DESCRIPTION.
OFFICE AND FACTORY:
A. E. Cor. Baronne and Liberty Sts.,
CINCINNATI.
Old Stand Greene Cor. pass the mint.

SPECTACLES.
R. & J. BECK,
Manufacturing Optician
137 Chestnut St., Philadelphia.
Would call special attention to their complete stock of Microscopes, Telescopes, Opera Field and Marine Glasses, Spectacles and Eye Glasses. Photometers, Barometers, Compasses, etc. The largest and most varied in Royal Mfrs States, etc.
GREATLY REDUCED PRICES.
Send three 3 cents for our splendidly illustrated and priced catalogue of 116 pages
Mention what Paper you saw this in

TRUNKS,
TRUNKS,
HAVING lately purchased my stock with this article from the best manufacturers of Boston, Chicago and Cincinnati, from the most Leather TRUNK Down Side Leather Zinc and in fact every kind made, also Patent Tray (this you need not take the tray out to get at the bottom of the trunk); also, a fine lot of SATCHELS and VALISES; also, a fine assortment of Ladies' Children's and Misses' STOCKS BUCKLES, Philadelphia Gaiters, Cat and Leather Collars, etc.
BATES, 56 Magazine St.,
Corner St. Mary, New Orleans.

Established in St. Louis in 1858

R. L. ROSEBROUGH SONS,
Marble Works,
No. 1431 BROADWAY,
Between D'Eslina and Cass Avenues,
ST. LOUIS, MO.

NOTICE!
To Sugar Planters
AND OTHERS.
THE Knowles Steam Pumping Machinery, celebrated for superior workmanship, efficiency, simplicity and certainty of action; Ashcroft's Improved Gauges and Instruments, the universally acknowledged standard for measuring and testing steam gauges and other electric fluids; also plantation machinery. All sold at manufacturers' prices, correspondence, and order will guarantee, at No. 9 Union street New Orleans, by
WM. ROGERS,
Consulting Engineer on General Mechanics, Steam and Hydronomics.

Pontchartrain Cheap Store.
J. A. LACROIX,
CORNER ERPENBECK AND VICTORY STS.
LADIES, MENS, MISSES AND CHILDRENS
BOOTS AND SHOES
OF ALL DESCRIPTIONS
Always on hand a large assortment of first class goods, at prices which defy competition. Call and examine my Stock before purchasing elsewhere.
MY MOTTO: Quick Sales and Small Profits.
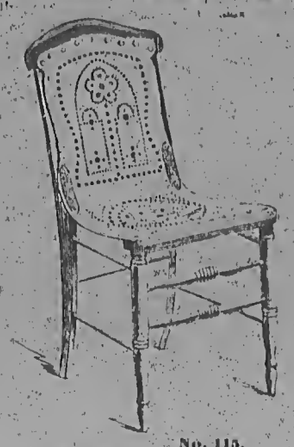
Jackson railroad cars pass in front of the store.

POOLE & HUNT, BALTIMORE.
MANUFACTURERS OF
THE POOLE & HUNT LEFFEL TURBINE
WATER WHEELS,
MACHINE MOULDED
MILL GEARING,
SHAFTING, PULLEYS AND HANGERS.
STEAM ENGINES AND BOILERS.
MIXERS FOR FERTILIZERS AND CHEMICALS

J. H. KELLER,
MANUFACTURER OF
CARBOLIC



Office, 110 GRAVIER ST. ESTABLISHED 1843
All Kinds of Laundry and Toilet Soaps.

WIRE RAILING
AND
Ornamental Wire Works
DUFUR & CO., No. 36 N. Howard St., Baltimore, manufacture WIRE RAILING for Pointeries, Balconies, etc.; Sieves, Fenders, Cages, Ham and Coal Screens, Woven Wire, etc. Also Iron Bedsteads, Chairs, etc.

MISCELLANEOUS.

PERFORATED
VENEER SEATS AND CHAIRS
For use in Churches, Halls and Lodges, are coming into general use on account of their Comfort, Durability, Cleanliness, and Ornament.

No. 115.

Churches intending to buy Chairs or Settees will do well to correspond with
CARDNER & CO.,
Patentees and Manufacturers,
183 CANAL ST., NEW YORK.

COAL..... COAL..... COAL
B. D. WOOD & BROS.,
Corner Camp and Common Streets,
Opposite the City Hotel,
Wholesale and Retail Dealers in all kinds of COAL, Pittsburg Coal delivered by boat-load or less on the coast, and shipped in casks or in bulk, at lowest market rates. City trade supplied.

STOVES SUITABLE FOR ALL.
THE STEWART.
Plain No. 7, ... $30
With Reservoir and Closet ..... No. 7, $20 00; No. 8, $35 00; No. 9, $40
THE CHAMPION.
Plain ..... No. 6, $15 00; No. 7, $23 00; No. 8, $28 00
Reservoir and Closet ..... No. 7, $35 00; No. 8, $40 00
THE CAMBRIDGE.
Plain ..... No. 6, $18 00; No. 7, $22 00; No. 8, $27
Reservoir and Closet ..... No. 7, $32 00; No. 8, $36
THE GREENBACK.
Plain ..... No. 6, $15 00; No. 7, $19 00; No. 8, $24
THE FASHION.
Plain ..... No. 6, $16
THE DIAMOND.
Plain ..... No. 6, $13
All the above prices include pipes and fixtures.
J. H. CAMPMAN,
133 Poydras Street, New Orleans.

LADY AGENTS WANTED FOR
MADAME GRISWOLD'S

PATENT SKIRT-SUPPORTING CORSETS,
21 E. 16th St. New York.
BRANCH OFFICE
No. 11 WINTER ST., BOSTON, MASS.

Any of the above goods sent by mail, postage prepaid, on receipt of the list price. Send for descriptive circular.

CAUTION:
Before purchasing look for Stamp and Trade Mark.

DR. S. H. DERHAM,
MANUFACTURER OF THE
SURE CURE TRUSS,
N.W. cor. Fifth & Plum sts. Cincinnati, O.
THE BEST TRUSS IN THE WORLD!
Those who have suffered untold agony for years, by wearing the Metallic Spring Trusses will find in the SURE CURE TRUSS all that its name implies—giving relief from the first application. Also Best Elastic Stockings, Suspensories, Shoulder Braces, Abdominal Supporters, etc. Best Trusses for sporting, strong, elastic in back, adjustable rubber pads that never blister, never slip, can wear at night.
Testimonials of cures can be seen at the office.
Not Liable Trusses—the best manufactured, sent by mail, at following prices: $4 for double. Examinations free.
Trusses sent free by mail on receipt of order and measure—a stamp for circular.

MARSDEN'S
PECTORAL BALM,
THE GREAT REMEDY FOR COUGHS, COLDS,
AND
CONSUMPTION.
G. R. PINLAY & CO.,
New Orleans, La., Sole Agts.
FOR SALE BY ALL DRUGGISTS.

DR. S. H. P. LEE'S
LITHONTRIPTIC

CURES STONE AND GRAVEL, GALL STONES, DIABETES, GOUT, ENLARGEMENT OF THE PROSTATE GLAND, and in its incipient stages, BRIGHT'S DISEASE.
TRADE MARK. DISSOLVES
STONE AND GRAVEL
in the Kidneys, Liver and Bladder. It is now for the first time given to the public as a cure for the most distressing kidney affections. Send for pamphlet to depot of the S. H. P. LEE COMPANY, No. 40 Clinton Place, New York city. Sold by druggists.

COMPOUND OXYGEN.
A NEW TREATMENT for the cure of chronic diseases by a new process of re-vitalization.
REMARKABLE CURES in Consumption, Asthma, Bronchitis, Dyspepsia, Headache, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, and the large class of ailments which come from nervous depression, or debilitated conditions of constitution, the enervating effects of climate, and especially to the slow reaction which attends convalescence, and which dooms so many to permanent invalidism.
LOSS OF VITALITY
IN SOUTHERN LATITUDES
STRONGLY ENDORSED by the Hon. SIDNEY KELLEY, T. S. ARTHUR, Hon. MONTGOMERY BLAIR, Ex-Gov. BOREMAN of West Virginia, and others who have used the New Treatment.
FREE! A Treatise (168 pages) on COMPOUND OXYGEN, with many testimonials to most remarkable cures, sent free. Address
DRS. STARKEY & PALEN, 1109 Girard St., Philada.

PRICES CURRENT

IN

THE NEW ORLEANS MARKETS.

REVISED AND CORRECTED WEEKLY.

☞ Correspondents should bear in mind that our quotations represent prices for round lots, and in filling small orders higher rates must be paid.

GROCERIES.

Butter, ₱ lb.
Western	13	14
New York, good to creamy	20	—
Coffee, ₱ lb.
Rio, fair	13½	13½
Rio, good	14½	14½
Rio, prime	14½	15
Candles, ₱ lb.
Star, best brands	11½	12
Corn Meal, ₱ bbl.
Best, K D	2 25	— —
Cheese, ₱ lb.
Factory	5½	6½
N. Y. cream and English dairy	6	6½
Fish:
Mackerel, extra No. 1, in kits	— —	10 50
Mackerel, extra No. 1, in kits	— —	1 10
Sardines, quarter boxes	— —	— —
Flour, ₱ bbl.
Superfine	4 00	4 25
XX	4 87½	5 12½
XXX	5 75	6 00
Choice XXX	6 50	7 00
Choice family	6 75	7 50
Fruits:
Dried apples, ₱ lb	2½	3½
Dried peaches, ₱ lb	2	4
Raisins, ₱ quarter box	85	95
Raisins, ₱ half box	—	1 80
Raisins, ₱ whole box	1 80	3 50
Bananas, ₱ bunch	1 00	2 00
Grits, ₱ lb.
Soda	5	6½
Butter	6	7
Sugar	7	8
Gingersnaps	12½	15
Oils:
Coal, in casks, net	22	25
Coal, in barrels, net	16	18
Linseed, in casks	— —	45
Linseed, in barrels	— —	50
Lard, in barrels, best	65	70
Molasses, in barrels:
Common	25	30
Fair	30	31
Prime to choice	32	35
Golden and Roquet syrups	— —	— —
Half bbls, 5c. and kegs 10c. more.
Rice, Louisiana, ₱ lb.
No. 2	3½	4
Ordinary	5½	5¾
Fair	5¾	6
Prime to choice	6¼	6¾
Soap, in boxes, ₱ lb.
XXX Palm	6½	—
Keller's magnolia	5½	—
Keller's olive	5	—
Starch, ₱ lb.		8
Salt, in sacks:
Fine	1 32½	1 35
Coarse	90	92½
Sugar.
Good fair	7	—
Prime	7½	—
Choice	— —	6¾
Yellow clarified	6½	7¼
White clarified	— —	— —
Crushed	— —	— —
Powdered	— —	— —
Spices, ₱ lb.
Allspice	15½
Pepper	13½@	14
Cloves	45	— —
Cinnamon	— —	— —
Teas, ₱ lb.:
Black Oolong	27½	1 10
Green Imperial	80	90
Tobacco:
Low lugs	2½@	8
Medium	8½@	32
Good to fine	33½@	45
Low leaf	4½@	5
Medium	5½@	6½
Good	7 @	7½
Fine	7½@	8
Selections	9 @	1

GRAIN AND FEED.

Corn, ₱ bushel:
Yellow	49	— —
White	53	— —
Mixed	46	— —
Oats, ₱ bushel:
St. Louis	36	37
Texas	— —	— —
Galena	— —	— —
Bran, choice, ₱ 100 lbs	70	75
Hay, ₱ ton:
Prime	14 00	15 00
Ordinary	— —	— —
Cow Peas:
Whippoorwill	— —	— —
Mixed	90	1 10
Clay	1 15	1 20

PROVISIONS.

Bacon, ₱ lb.:
Breakfast	— —	— —
Shoulders	4	4½
Sides, clear rib	5½	— —
Sides, clear	5¾	— —
Hams, sugar-cured	— —	— —
Mess Pork, ₱ bbl	10 62½	10 75
Dry Salted Meat:
Shoulders	3¾	3¾
Lard, ₱ lb.:
Choice, in kegs and pails	— —	— —
Choice, in tierces and barrels	7	7½

ESCULENTS.

Potatoes, ₱ bbl	3 75	4 00
Onions, ₱ bbl	3 00	3 25
Apples, ₱ bbl	— —	— —
Cabbages, ₱ box	3 50	3 75

WOOL.

Burry	8	10
Louisiana, clear	20	21
Lake, clear	22	23½

BALING STUFFS.

Bagging:
India	— —	— —
Jute	10½	11
Ties, Arrow best, per bundle, 80 ties and buckles		2 15
Twine, hemp	13½	14

POULTRY AND EGGS.

Poultry, ₱ dozen:
Old chickens	4 00	5 00
Young	2 50	3 50
Ducks	2 50	3 00
Geese	4 00	5 00
Turkeys	18 00	— —
Eggs, ₱ dozen:
Western	10	12
Louisiana	11	12

THE GREATEST BLESSING.—A simple pure, harmless remedy, that cures every time, and prevents disease by keeping the blood pure, stomach regular kidneys and liver active, is the greatest blessing ever conferred upon man. Hop Bitters is that remedy, and its proprietors are being blessed by thousands who have been saved and cured by it. Will you try it? See other column.

Solovieff, the would-be assassin of the Czar is the son of a groom, in the household of the Grand Duchess Catharine. After leaving St. Petersburg University he became a teacher. He first fell under notice of the authorities in the course of inquiries into socialistic intrigues. He disappeared and was not heard from until he made the attempt on the Czar's life.

LAME BACK, WEAK BACK.

BENSON'S CAPCINE POROUS PLASTER.

Overwhelming evidence of their superiority over all other plasters. It is everywhere recommended by physicians, Druggists and the Press.

The manufacturers received a special award and the only medal given for porous plasters at the Centennial Exposition, 1876, at the Paris Exposition, 1878.

Their great merit lies in the fact that they are the only plasters which relieve pain at once.

Every one suffering from

Rheumatism, Lame Back, or Weak Back Cold on the Chest, Coughs, or any local pain or ache should use Benson's Capcine Porous Plaster and be relieved at once. Price 25 cts. Sold by all druggists.

COMMERCIAL.

ADVOCATE OFFICE,
NEW ORLEANS, Tuesday, May 13, 1879.

COTTON.

The following report of the cotton market is taken from the Democrat:

The movement in this article was confined to 1 900 bales. The market opened easy, under the influence of unfavorable telegraphic news; later, however, reports were more encouraging, and a steadier feeling prevailed.

The following is the official closing of the Cotton Exchange:

	To-Day	Saturday
Low ordinary	10	10
Ordinary	11	11
Good ordinary	11½	11½
Low middling	11⅝	11⅝
Middling	12	12
Good middling	12⅜	12⅜
Middling fair	12⅝	12⅝

Sales to-day, 1,900 bales, including 150 last evening. Market opened easy and closed steady.

MOVEMENT AT PORTS.

The movement at ports, from twelve M. Friday up to twelve M. to-day, is given below:

	Received this Friday.	Same time last week.	Same time last year.
New Orleans	1512	3,411	1,927
Galveston	556	3	503
Mobile	311	70	179
Savannah	1,215	1	753
Charleston	195	175	330
Wilmington	10	—	173
Norfolk	618	900	583
Baltimore	2	215	1
New York	621	—	5
Boston	132	57	119
Philadelphia	257	311	76
Other ports	—	—	—
Total	5,913	7,893	7,219

FUTURES.

The position of the market at New York may be seen by the following:

Months	To-day.	Saturday.
January	—	—
February	—	—
March	—	—
April	—	—
May	12.44@12.45	12.37@12.38
June	12.58	12.50@12.54
July	12.74@12.75	12.70
August	12.88@12.89	12.83@12.84
September	12.53 @12.67	12.53@12.54
October	11.79@11.80	11.75@11.76
November	11.40@11.41	11.35@11.36
December	11.25@11.30	11.25@11.26

Tone of the market firm. Sales, 87,000 bales.

FICTITIOUS CREATIONS.—In the first editions of Thackeray's "Vanity Fair," which contain the author's own illustrations, there is a picture of Becky Sharp hiding behind a curtain, a weapon in her hand, watching the helpless Joe Sedley. There is no explanation of this scene in the text. Some curious interviewer once attacked the great satirist about it. "Did Becky murder Joe, or not?" he asked. Thackeray pondered gravely for a moment. "I don't know," he said, earnestly; "I don't know; but I always suspected her." Becky was an actual woman to him. To every author or artist of vivid imagination, their own creations are more real, probably, than are the live people about them; and, in proportion to that reality to themselves, they are able to impress others. Mrs. Hawthorne was wont to speak with a shudder of the period of mental prostration in her husband, which followed the production of the "Scarlet Letter." The tragedy was an actual occurrence in his life. For a week after he laid down the pen, Hester and Pearl followed him as in the flesh. He could not banish them.

By boring a hole through a silver dollar, and tying it to a tag, a Connecticut man sent it through the mail for a cent; whereas, if he had put it in an envelope, it would have cost him three cents. No one but a New Englander would have thought of such a device, and it is this prompt grappling with the situation that gives New England its mighty influence upon the world.—Danbury News.

The King of the Zulus, Cetywayo, has an Englishman named John Dunn for chief adviser. He is reported to be the heaviest trader in the Zulu country, and has a large number of personal adherents, subject to no authority except his own. He has taken fifteen or sixteen native wives, and has a family of patriarchal dimensions.

MISCELLANEOUS.

TUTT'S PILLS.

SYMPTOMS OF A TORPID LIVER.

Loss of Appetite, Bowels Costive, Pain in the Head with a dull sensation in the back part, Pain under the shoulder-blade, fulness after eating with a disinclination to exertion of body or mind, Irritability of temper, Low spirits, with a feeling of having neglected some duty, Weariness, Dizziness, Fluttering at the Heart, Dots before the Eyes, Yellow Skin, Headache generally over the right eye, Restlessness with disturbed dreams, highly colored Urine.

IF THESE WARNINGS ARE UNHEEDED SERIOUS DISEASES WILL SOON BE DEVELOPED.

TUTT'S PILLS

are especially adapted to such cases, a single dose effects such a change of feeling as to astonish the sufferer.

A NOTED DIVINE SAYS:

DR. TUTT: Dear Sir: For ten years I have been a martyr to Dyspepsia, Constipation and Piles. Last spring your Pills were recommended to me; I used them (but with little faith). I am now a well man, have good appetite, digestion perfect, regular stools, piles gone, and I have gained forty pounds solid flesh. They are worth their weight in gold.

REV. E. A. SIMPSON, Louisville, Ky.

The first effect of TUTT'S PILLS is to Increase the Appetite, and cause the body to Take on Flesh, thus the system is nourished; and by their Tonic Action on the Digestive Organs, Regular Stools are produced.

DR. J. F. HAYWOOD OF NEW YORK, SAYS:

"Few diseases exist that cannot be relieved by restoring the liver to its normal functions and for this purpose no remedy has ever been invented that has as happy an effect as TUTT'S PILLS."

Sold Everywhere, 25 Cents.

OFFICE, 35 MURRAY ST., NEW YORK.

TUTT'S HAIR DYE.

GRAY HAIR OR WHISKERS changed to a GLOSSY BLACK by a single application of this DYE. It imparts a Natural Color, acts Instantaneously, and is as Harmless as spring water. Sold by Druggists, or sent by express on receipt of $1.

Office, 35 Murray Street, New York.

Religious Notices.

TO THE PREACHERS OF THE WOODVILLE DISTRICT.—My Dear Brethren: Please send me a correct list of all your local preachers, and lay delegates to the District Conference, to be held at this place some time in July.

J. S. PARKER.

GREENSBURG, La., May 5, 1879. 20

THE District Conference for Homer District, Louisiana Conference, will be held at Arcadia, May 26-30.

J. H. STONE, P. E.

THE Annual Camp-meeting at William's Camp Ground will commence on Thursday night before the fifth Sunday in June. This Camp Ground is situated on the Pensacola Railroad, thirty-four miles from Pensacola.

Ample arrangements are made for visitors, especially ministers. All are cordially invited.

The meeting will be conducted on the self-sustaining plan.

W. L. WILLIAMS, President.
W. W. RICHARDS, Secretary. 17

Appointments for Quarterly Meetings.

ALABAMA CONFERENCE.

SELMA DIST.—SECOND ROUND.

Summerfield	Apr. 12, 13
Orrville	19, 20
East Selma	26, 27
Uniontown	May 3, 4
Uniontown circuit	10, 11
Cahaba	17, 18
Selma	24, 25
Perryville	26, —
Brush Creek	June 1
Lower Peach Tree	7, 8
Shelby Iron Works	21, 22
Choctaw Corner	28, 29
Newport Hills	July 5, 6
Marion	19, 20

The District Conference will be held in Marion, beginning at nine A. M., July 18.

17 J. W. RUSH, P. E.

LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.

NEW ORLEANS DIS.—SECOND ROUND.

Algiers	March 31
Louisiana Avenue	April 6
Morgan Street	13
Felicity Street	20
Carondelet Street	May 4
Paquemine and Grosse Tete, at Rosedale	17, 18
St. Charles Avenue	25
Baton Rouge	June 1
Lafourche	8

16 LINUS PARKER, P. E.

OPELOUSAS DIST.—SECOND ROUND.

Washington, at Waxia	Apr. 26, 27
Opelousas	May 3, 4
Vermillionville and Plaquemine Brulee at the Junction	10, 11
New Iberia	17, 18
Patterson ville and Morgan City, at Morgan City	24, 25
Franklin	31, June 1
Abbeville, at Prairie Gregg	June 7, 8
Lake Charles	11
Sugartown	14, 15
Indian Bayou, at Coubig Creole	21, 22

The District Conference will meet at Vermillionville, June 26, at ten A. M.

16 J. D. HARPER.

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

SEASHORE DIST.—SECOND ROUND.

(COMPLETED.)

Whittington, at White Plain	May 31, June 1
Ebenezer, at Ebenezer	June 4
Amite City, at Magee's	7, 8
Livingston, at Oak Grove	12
Pearlington, at Logtown	14, 15
Cahin Grove, at Hopewell	21, 22
Wolf River mission	21, 22
Mount Carmel, at Columbia	2 - 22
Westville, at Fairmount	28, 29

District Conference at Penrlington, beginning on Friday, June 13, at nine A. M. Bishop Kavanaugh is requested to preside.

19 JOHN A. ELLIS, P. E.

BRANDON DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

Forest, at Grange House	May 31, June 1
Walnut Grove, at Hillsboro	June 14, 15
Rankin	28, —
Trenton, at Raleigh	July 5, 6
Pamplin	1, 13
Brandon station	19, 20
Leaf River	26, 27
Newton, at Pleasant Valley	Aug 2, 3
Carthage, at Liberty	9, 10
Prairie, at Holly Bush	16, 17
Pulon, at Hunter's Spring Camp Ground	23 24

Inquiry will be made, during this round, as to the number of "CHRISTIAN ADVOCATES" and other church papers that are being taken in the several pastoral charges in the district. Pastors will please be ready to answer.

Question 14 will be asked this round.

19 WILL B. LEITH, P. E.

MERIDIAN DIST.—SECOND ROUND.

Wahalak circuit, at Salem	Apr. 12, 13
Waynesboro circuit, at State Line	18
Chickasaw mission, at Henderson's	19 20
Meridian	26, 27
Starkville circuit at Deson	May 3, 4
Enterprise circuit, at Spring Chapel	10, 11
Enterprise station, at Quitman	17, 18
Shady Grove mission, at Oak Grove	24, 25
Philadelphia circuit, at Philadelphia	31 June 1
Marion circuit, at Marion	June 7, 8
DeKalb circuit at DeKalb	14, 15
Paulding circuit at Hopewell	21, 22
Spring Hill circuit, at Lauderdale	28, 29

The District Conference will meet at Lauderdale station, Friday morning, June 27.

16 R. J. JONES.

SUNDAY-SCHOOL UNION DEPOSITORY.

With a full line of Question Books, Catechisms, Hymn Books, Class Books, Library Books, Rewards, and everything needed in the Sunday-school. Send for Catalogue.

Also Sankey & Bliss' Gospel Hymns and Sacred Songs, Teachers' Bibles, Concordances, Bible Dictionaries, Commentaries, etc., at the Depository, 112 Camp street.

LATHROP & WILKINS.

THE GOSPEL OF JOY!

THE GOSPEL OF JOY is a new Singing Book of unusual beauty for Gospel Meetings, Camp Meetings, Devotional Meetings and Sunday Schools.

By Rev. SAMUEL CLIMAN and S. H. SPECK. It contains a large number of new and very superior Hymns and Tunes. The general style is very cheering and brilliant, with a collection that has so much to say and sing about.

"Glad Tidings of Great Joy."

Both words and music are of an elevated character, commending themselves to persons of refined taste, and the "ha ding measure" so prevalent in many recent compositions has been carefully avoided.

Price 35 cents, for which specimen copies will be mailed to any address.

See Decoration Day Music in MUSICAL RECORD, 6 cents.

GOOD NEWS! (35 cts.) the genial Sunday School Song Book, has thousands of friends. Do not fail to examine and try it. There are 250 Songs, in the compilation or selection of which great taste and ability has been displayed. Examine also "Rolling River" and "The River of Life," two standard books of great merit.

OLIVER DITSON & CO., Boston.

C. H. DITSON & CO.,

843 BROADWAY, N. Y.

$57.60 AGENTS' PROFIT per week. Will prove it or forfeit $500. New articles just patented. Samples sent free to all. Address W. H. CHESTER, 317 Fulton street, New York.

Her Majesty's War Department, says the London Watchman, is on the point of at length adopting war balloons in the land and sea services. Movable apparatus for inflating and manipulating military balloons into the field has just been completed in the Royal Arsenal, Woolwich, and was tried on Friday with two new balloons, specially constructed for military purposes. The appliances consist of a portable tank, weighing 400 pounds, containing iron shavings (thin curls of iron turned off in the course of the manufacture of ordnance in the gun factories) together with a portable boiler and furnace. These appliances can be moved about with troops on the field or on vessels at sea. Hydrogen is generated by passing steam through the iron turnings, the buoyant power of this gas being found infinitely greater than that manufactured at gas works. As soon as the necessary arrangements can be made it is in contemplation to send a few war balloons out to Zululand.

MISCELLANEOUS.

PRICE REDUCED TO 25 CENTS. The Greatest discovery of the age is DR. TOBIAS' CELEBRATED VENETIAN LINIMENT. Thirty-two years before the public and warranted to cure Diarrhœa, Dysentery, Colic and Spasms, taken internally; and Croup, Chronic Rheumatism, Sore Throat, Cuts, Bruises, Old Sores and Pains in the Limbs, Back and Chest externally. It has never failed. No family will ever be without it after once giving it a fair trial. Price 25 cts. DR. TOBIAS' VENETIAN HORSE LINIMENT, the Pain Killer, at 50c. and $1 warranted superior to any other or NO PAY, for the cure of Colic, Cuts, Bruises, Old Sores, etc. Sold by all druggists. Depot 42 Murray street, New York.

The Stewart Stove

WITH LATEST IMPROVEMENT.

Is now the

LEADING STOVE OF THE AGE

There can be no failure in its perfect operation. Will cook and consume less fuel than any other Stove made.

Can be had for coke, coal or wood.

Hot water attachments for bathing, etc., can be attached with but little extra cost.

Pieces to repair old Stewart Stoves constantly on hand.

J. H. CAMPMAN,
133 Poydras Street.

REGULAR OPELOUSAS PACKET.

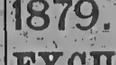
Leaves EVERY TUESDAY, at 5 P. M.

For Washington Opelousas, Port Barre, Simmsport, Churchville, and all landings on the Const, Atchafalaya River and Bayou Courtableau. The very light draft passenger steamer

YAZOO,

WM. CRAWFORD, Master. J. H. SCHMIT, Clerk. Will leave positively as above. For freight or passage apply on board or to

LORD & McPHAKE, Agents, 46 Camp St.
GEO. D. HITE, Agent, 4 Tchoupitoulas St.



P. S. Connects closely with Boats for Bayou Des Glaize and Barges for Bayou Boeuf.

1879. 1879.

EXCURSION ROUTE!

NORTH, EAST AND WEST,

ST. LOUIS & NEW ORLEANS ANCHOR LINE,

The fine passenger steamers of this line will leave New Orleans on TUESDAYS, THURSDAYS and SATURDAYS, at 5 o'clock P. M., during the season, connecting at St. Louis with the principal railroads and Upper Mississippi river packets for all points North, East and West.

Passengers and baggage transferred from steamers to railroads FREE OF CHARGE.

Through and Excursion tickets for sale on board the boats and at the office of the company.

J. B. WOODS, General Agent.
No. 104 Common Street.

RAOUL'S NOVELTY WOOD YARD,

Franklin St., cor. Erato.

Try it for satisfactory dealing. Oak and Ash wood, green and seasoned, kept on hand. Sawed and split ready for stove use, or will be cut and split to suit any size stove at short notice, and delivered in purchaser's wood house, for $4 50 per half cord. Oak, $4 25. Guarantee no loss or waste in this wood.

Mme. DEMOREST'S

GRAND OPENING

OF THE

SPRING STYLES,

183, CANAL STREET,

NEW ORLEANS, LA.

These Patterns are in various sizes and put up in illustrated envelopes on which are printed full descriptions for making, trimming, quantity of material required, etc., and are so accurately marked that the most inexperienced person can put them together.

New Basques, Polonaises, Princess Dresses, Walking Skirts, Trains, etc., for Ladies' and Children's dresses, also Boy's Clothes, Gentlemen's Underwear, Infant's Patterns, etc., combining economy, practical utility, artistic accuracy and fashionable elegance.

Prices From 10c. to 30c.

Send for catalogue, with directions in English, French, German and Spanish, which is furnished free on application.

GRAND OPENING

SPRING STYLES,

OF

Mme. Demorest's Patterns.

Of the Latest Fashions.

NEW BASQUES, POLONAISES, PRINCESS DRESSES, WALKING SKIRTS, FRAMES, ETC., FOR LADIES, MISSES AND CHILDREN'S DRESS.

A. P. PERRY,
183 Canal Street.

DR. F. WILHOFT'S

ANTI-PERIODIC

OR

FEVER AND AGUE TONIC,

Is deservedly the most popular

CHILL AND FEVER TONIC,

Because it is simply a preparation of Peruvian Bark without Quinine or any other dangerous drug, such as Arsenic, etc., and because during a great number of years it has proved itself to be a

SAFE AND PERFECT SPECIFIC

For the cure of

ALL MALARIAL DISEASES,

This remedy is guaranteed in every way by its proprietors.

WHEELOCK FINLAY & CO.

T. W. ROTHICK,

UNDERTAKER,

OFFICE, 871 CAMP STREET,

STACKS, 872 MAGAZINE STREET.

Embalming and disinfecting bodies. Bodies carefully shipped. Carriages for hire.

FUNERALS STRICT ATTENTION. 8p

MISCELLANEOUS.

THE PIANOS I KEEP.

Every Piano sold by me has stood the test of time—from ten to fifty years. A first-class house like mine cannot experiment at the expense of its patrons with untried or unreliable instruments. Being thoroughly familiar with the construction of a Piano, I am positive of their durability and reliability. I sell my Pianos with the understanding that if in ten or more years a defect in their construction under fair usage should show itself,

The Money Paid will be Cheerfully Refunded.

THE CHICKERING PIANOS,

Have been before the public for fifty-four years, and their reputation extends over the whole world. A six-octave Piano of this make, forty-seven years old and perfect in every respect can be inspected in my store. Their superiority over all others is now universally acknowledged.

THE MATHUSHEK PIANOS,

Constructed on entirely new and patented principles which insure their retaining their original brilliancy of tone for a life time, and their standing longer in tune than any other Piano. Those excellent Pianos have been sold here during the last ten years and not the least defect has ever occurred. Their new Uprights are real models of perfection.

THE HALE PIANOS

Are good, reliable and well made Pianos, of excellent tone and with elastic touch. There are over 1000 of them in this city and not a defective or worn out one among them.

MY PRICES are well known to be the lowest, as I prefer to sell ten pianos at a small profit than one at a large. My terms are liberal, selling new Pianos on monthly payments of $10, and second hand ones at $5. Fifty second hand Pianos in perfect order from $50 to $175. New Pianos from $225 upwards.

MASON & HAMLIN AND ESTEY ORGANS,

The best instruments of the kind made, from $50 upwards. I keep an importation of

MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS, STRINGS AND MUSIC.

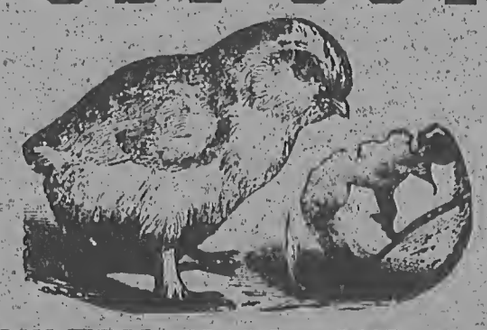
The trade and profession supplied at lowest prices.

I request the patronage of the public. No trouble to answer your letters, and I will be pleased to hear from all.

PHILIP WERLEIN,
The Piano Dealer,
105 Canal St., New Orleans.

YALE & BOWLING,

IMPORTERS AND WHOLESALE DEALERS IN



DRY GOODS

NOTIONS AND MILLINERY,

17, 19 and 21 - Magazine Street, - 17, 19 and 21

NEW ORLEANS, LA.

JUST OUT!

THE POULTRY YARD AND MARKET!

A NEW BOOK BY PROF. A. CORBETT,

EXPLAINING THE PROCESS OF

Hatching Eggs and Raising Poultry,

IN HORSE MANURE.

For which several Gold Medals and twelve Diplomas have been awarded by the Centennial Exhibition, the American Institute Fair, New York State and County Fairs.

Price, 50 cents; Elegantly Bound in Cloth and Gilt, 75 cents.

Sent postpaid on receipt of price.

Agricultural and Farm Books of all kinds supplied at publishers' prices.

LATHROP & WILKINS, New Orleans.

WM. G. LHOTE. A. SAMUELS.

LHOTE & CO,

OLD BASIN

SASH, BLIND, DOOR FACTORY,

AND

Lumber Yard,

Offices, Cor. Toulouse & Franklin and 32 Carondelet Sts,

P. O. Box 936. NEW ORLEANS.

8p

DRY IN ROGERS' POWDER CITRATE OF MAGNESIA

An Agreeable Aperient and Refrigerant

This well-known preparation is highly recommended for DYSPEPSIA, HEADACHE, Sickness of the Stomach, Heartburn, and all complaints arising from Acidity, Bilious and Malarial Fevers. It cools the blood and regulates the bowels. It is a favorite medicine for children and its acidity and sweet taste makes it cooling and refreshing. Put up in 6-ounce bottles. Prepared by

A. ROGERS' SONS, Chemists, N. Y.

Superior to Mineral Waters, Seidlitz Powders, Etc.

For sale by all New Orleans druggists. 8p

THE ORIGINAL Superintendent of Dr. Hyatt and Lewis Lockwood of New Orleans.

A. McDERMOTT,

Has returned and established the business of manufacturing Dr. Hyatt's patent

ARTIFICIAL

Arms and Legs,

and has purchased the sole right for the Southern States. Perfect satisfaction guaranteed in all cases or no pay. Prices greatly reduced.

A. McDERMOTT,
203 Camp Street, N. O.

BUENA SALUD.

COCA BITTERS.

THE GREAT

SOUTH AMERICAN TONIC.

A SOVEREIGN REMEDY FOR

Dyspepsia & all Disorders of Digestion,

CHILLS AND FEVER,

Diseases of the Liver, Debility of the Nervous System and SICK HEADACHE.

This unequaled remedy is made from the celebrated Cocaleaf, (erythroxylon coca,) and is recommended by the highest authorities in the medical world. The use of this leaf is almost universal among the natives of Peru and Bolivia.

ASK YOUR DRUGGIST FOR IT.

QUICHUA COCA CO.,

No. 72 William St., New York.

BEWARE OF

Imitation Machines

Offered by second-hand dealers as

IMPROVED SINGER.

THE GENUINE

SINGER MACHINE,

—MADE BY THE—

Singer Manufacturing Co.

HAS NO EQUAL.

2,500,000 Singers in Daily Use.

Two-thirds of all the machines sold in the United States are those made by

The Singer Company,

Send for Circular and Price List. Address

The Singer Manufacturing Co.,

85 CANAL STREET,

Agents for Butterick's Patterns.

W. C. SHEPARD & Co.,

19 CAMP STREET.

China Crockery Glass,

AND HOUSE FURNISHING EMPORIUM.

CHINA, SEMI-CHINA AND IRONSTONE DINNER SETS.

Viz: 12 Dinner, 12 Breakfast, 12 Tea, 12 Fruit, 12 Butter Plates, 12 Tea, 2 After-Dinner Cups and Saucers, 1 Soup Tureen, 1 Gravy Boat, 2 Dishes with Tops, 2 Vegetable, 4 Meat Dishes, 1 Salad Dish, 2 Pickle Shells.

Variety Novelties in Tea Sets Keeping.

TEA SETS all prices and quality.

GOBLETS, TUMBLERS BOWLS, CAKE STANDS, BERRY SETS, CASTORS, KNIVES, FORKS, SPOONS, LADLES, WAITERS.

CHAMBER SETS White, Band, Fancy—all prices.

TIN CHAMBER SETS FOOT TUB, WATER CARRIER and SLOP JAR, REFRIGERATORS, ICE CHESTS, WATER COOLERS, CREAM FREEZERS, COAL OIL STOVES, LAMPS, CANS to contain 50 gallons of oil, BRUSHES, WOODWARE, TINWARE, PLATED WARE, FANCY VASES, MOTTO COPS, MUGS, FLOWER GLASSES, CLOCKS, LOOKING GLASSES, CHANDELIERS.

DISCOVERY BY which hair can be forced to grow on the smoothest heads. The papers all over the country contain notices of the remarkable virtues of Mrs. Hyatt's Hair Restorer, and there are scores of living witnesses in St. Louis who take pleasure in testifying to the efficacy of the Restorer. Mrs. Hyatt's principle is the most reasonable, because she proceeds in the well-based supposition that the hair germ never dies while life exists in the person, and that it is only necessary to stimulate the germ to produce a satisfactory growth. Three bottles for $5; $1 to accompany the order and balance to be paid when medicine is delivered.

900 NORTH SIXTH ST., in plain, St. Louis, Mo.

The Christian Advocate.

PUBLISHED FOR THE ALABAMA, MISSISSIPPI AND LOUISIANA CONFERENCES, METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH SOUTH.

VOL. 25. NEW ORLEANS, THURSDAY, MAY 22, 1879. NO. 21.

The Christian Advocate.

REV. LINUS PARKER, D. D., Editor.

G. T. LATHROP, Publisher.

OFFICE—112 CAMP ST., NEW ORLEANS.

Address all matters of business, G. T. LATHROP, 112 Camp street, New Orleans.

Address all communications designed for publication. REV. LINUS PARKER, 112 Camp street, New Orleans.

AGENTS—All the members of the Patronizing Conferences.

PUBLISHING COMMITTEES.

ALABAMA CONFERENCE.

REV. EDWARD WADSWORTH, D. D.
REV. FELIX R HILL.
REV. H. D. MOORE.

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

REV. W. H WATKINS, D. D.
REV. JAMES A GODFREY.
REV. J. G. JONES.

LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.

REV. JOHN MATHEWS.
REV. LINUS PARKER, D. D.
REV. CHRISTIAN KEENER.

RATES OF SUBSCRIPTION.

The New Orleans Christian Advocate will be furnished to subscribers at the following rates including postage:

One Year	$2 00
Six Months	1 15
Three Months	75

To all Ministers of the Gospel and widows of deceased traveling preachers:

One Year	$1 00
Six Months	50
Three Months	25

SPRING SONG.

O hope of the world that rises again
New-born from the clod,
O life that brightens on meadow and fen
With the breath of God,
O daffodils brave whose banners fly
At the snow's retreat,
O sweet warm winds of the South that sigh
O'er the sprouting wheat,
O birds that tell in the branches bare
Of the summer days—
Read me your lesson; teach me your prayer;
Fill my soul with your praise.

—So day Afternoon.

NEWS OF THE WEEK.

DOMESTIC.

ST. LOUIS, May 14—Officers of the steamboat companies having headquarters in this city and officers of steamers plying between here and New Orleans deny having refused transportation to colored refugees whenever the latter had money to pay their passage. They also deny that there has been any generally expressed disposition on the part of merchants and planters to withdraw patronage from boats which carry immigrants. This has been done in a few instances, but the desire to prevent the negroes from leaving the South is changing, and now planters do not seem to care whether they leave or not. Officers of the latest arrived boats say they were not hailed on the way by negroes, and say they do not believe there are any such numbers of refugees on river banks as has been stated. They further say the excitement is dying out, and will close altogether in a short time.

NEW YORK, May 14.—A Memphis special says: Henry Ward Beecher was greeted by an audience of four thousand people at his lecture in the Exposition Building, last night He was presented to the meeting by Mr Keating, of the Appeal, and his lecture was frequently interrupted by applause. At its close Mr. Beecher presented Mr. Keating with a check for $250, to be by him distributed between the orphan asylums of Memphis. His Chattanooga and Atlanta engagements have been canceled, and Mr. Beecher will return to Brooklyn, on account of physical inability to fulfill them. While in Memphis Mr. Beecher was treated with the utmost respect, and his coming was the occasion of excursion trains being put on all roads leading into Memphis, and all were crowded with people from West Tennessee North Mississippi, North Alabama and Arkansas.

RICHMOND May 14.—In the United States Circuit Court to-day, a writ of habeas corpus in the miscegenation case of the negro Edmund Kenney, and the white woman Mary Hall, now confined in the Penitentiary for violation of the statute prohibiting the intermarrying of races, was refused by Judge Hughes on the ground that the United States courts have no jurisdiction over questions of marriage. The opinion holds that the laws of marriage are at the sovereign control and will of each State, unaffected by any provision or any article of the constitution of the United States. That absolute and entire power over these laws is necessarily left all over the world, and in this Union of States, to the government of local society. That the law under which the parties were convicted was within the unrestrained power of Virginia to enact it, and that it is not prohibited by any provision of the national constitution.

SELMA, May 14.—The Episcopal Diocesan Convention of Alabama convened at Greensboro to-day, Bishop Wilmer presiding. The attendance, both clerical and lay, was unusually large. The session will last four days.

LOUISVILLE, May 15.—The General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church South began its annual convention in this city to-day. One hundred and twenty-five regular commissioners are in the session.

The only business to-day was a sermon from the retiring Moderator, Dr. T. E. Peck, of Virginia, and the election of his successor; Dr. Porter, of Atlanta, nominated Rev. Jos Wilson of Wilmington, N. C.; Dr James Miller, of St. Louis, nominated Rev. John S. Grasty, of Missouri. The result of the first ballot was: Wilson 121, Grasty 4 Mr. Wilson was declared elected. He has been the stated clerk of the Assembly for thirty years. Rev. R. T. Burling was unanimously elected temporary clerk.

FARMERVILLE, LA., May 15—A large fire began here at twelve o'clock last night and destroyed all the business houses except D. Stein & Co's. The cause is supposed to be the work of an incendiary. The following are the losses: Farmerville Gazette, $500; H. C. Glason, saloon and livery stable, $1 000; Julius Arent, saloon and job printing office, $1,000; J Marx, merchant $15 000; H Brown, merchant, $25 000; W. P Smith, merchant $40 000; Dr. Manning, drug store $1 000; Post & Dozier, druggists, $800; Atkinson & Phillips, tinners $500; John Deees, livery stable, $2,500 The aggregate amount of loss is supposed to be about $100 000; partially insured.

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 16—A resolution was reported from the committee on rules, by Mr. Frye, for the appointment of a standing committee of nine, to which shall be referred all bills, resolutions, petitions, etc., affecting the traffic in alcoholic liquors.

Argument in opposition was made by Fernando Wood, of New York, on the ground that under the proposed authority this committee might arrogate to itself powers which did not belong either to it or to Congress, and might under the plea of morality undertake to interfere with the revenue of the government derived from the tax on spirits

He had no objection to having the whole subject referred to a committee. The resolution was advocated by Messrs. Frye and Stepheos, and was further opposed by Mr Reagan, of Texas, on the ground of unconstitutionality. The bill is still under discussion.

ST. LOUIS, May 16—R. W. Boisseller and brother, D. Boisseller, of German parentage, born in this city, who, however, spent most of their boyhood and were educated in Germany, sent a letter to Secretary of State Evarts to-day, stating that for the past two years they have been greatly annoyed by Prussian officials claiming they are under obligations to serve in the Prussian Army; also that their father, Carl G. Boisseller, who is now residing in the village of Borbye, near Eckernfoerde in the province of Schleswig, and who is a naturalized citizen of the United States, has been threatened with confiscation and attachment of a portion or all of the money or property he may see fit to bequeath, if they fail to appear in court, at the city of Schleswig, on the second day of July next. They ask Secretary Evarts to take such action as will stop these demands of the Prussian government, and protect them in their rights of American citizenship. The Boisseller brothers have lived here since 1873, and are registered voters.

WASHINGTON, May 17—The house committee on foreign affairs authorized Mr Wilson, of West Virginia, to report to the house, with favorable recommendation, the joint resolution providing for further treaty negotiations with the government of Mexico. The resolution provides for perfecting postal arrangements between the two countries, and authorizes the president to appoint commissioners, as he may deem necessary to carry out the requirements of the measure; the salary of such officers not to exceed $5,000.

BALTIMORE, MD., May 17—The ninth annual conference of the general secretaries of the Young Men's Christian Associations of the United States convened here and will continue its sessions till Tuesday. About one hundred were present, including representatives from many of the principal cities of the country; also, gentlemen from Canada, Switzerland, Germany and Australia. These conferences are held for discussion of questions important to the associations. The present meeting of the secretaries is preliminary to the assembling of the biennial international convention of the Young Men's Christian Association, on Wednesday next.

MEMPHIS, May 17—The graves of the Confederate dead in Elmwood cemetery, were decorated to-day. The ceremonies were of a most imposing nature. Col. Luke W. Finlay delivered an address.

SARATOGA, May 19—After the Presbyterian general assembly had opened, the moderator presented the following telegraphic message to be sent to the general assemblies at Louisville and Memphis, in accordance with the resolution of Rev. Dr. Priver, adopted on Friday.: "The general assembly of the Presbyterian Church, now in session at Saratoga Springs, presents its cordial salutations to the general assembly in session at Louisville and Memphis, praying for them grace, mercy and peace."

At the meeting of the Presbyterian assembly to-day, a communication was received from a committee of the Southern general assembly, suggesting co-operation in their efforts to prevent desecration of the Sabbath. Referred to the committee on bills and overtures.

RICHMOND, May 19—The colored convention here to-day considered the improvement of races. They were addressed by ex Congressman Rainey, urging the co operation of the colored people for the amelioration of their condition. W. C Roane, colored lawyer of Richmond, was appointed president of the convention. The speakers generally deplored the condition of their race, and intimated that they must look to the courts to redress various grievances sustained.

He favored western emigration, if rights were not guaranteed, but would hold on a while longer. The negroes must obtain material interest in the community if they would be respected.

A committee of fifteen on State organization was appointed.

The resolutions recite that since the colored man cannot get rights here and the laws give no protection

Resolved, That we advise western emigration, unless the States take action to better our condition.

FOREIGN.

CITY OF MEXICO, May 6—The anniversary of the victory of the Mexicans over the French in 1862 was celebrated yesterday.

The court-martial acquitted Gen. Loaeza, who will resume command in Sinaloa.

The regular steamer line from Vera Cruz to New Orleans has suspended running until the fever season has passed.

LONDON, May 15—In the house of commons to-day, Mr. Bourke, under-secretary of the State for foreign affairs said, he believed it to be correct that Germany had concluded a treaty with Samoa, he was unaware whether the treaty had been ratified.

LONDON, May 18—The Turkistan Gazette announces that the Russian authorities have demanded immediate satisfaction for the exclusion of Russian traders from the frontier town of Shikho.

LONDON, May 18—The Marquis of Salisbury, replying to a deputation, stated that he had instructed the British representative in Chili to remonstrate against the proceedings of the Chilian navy, and endeavor to obtain an assurance that if the guano loading works are reconstructed, they will not be molested.

SIMLA, May 19—A vice regal council has been specially summoned for to day, to consider the draft of the Afghan treaty. The ameer has agreed to such terms as will secure chief objects of British policy.

The news from Cashmere is very bad, the increase of urgent distress and famine, joined to the incompetency, corruption and want of organization on the part of the officials, is producing a most serious state of affairs

Cholera in Peshawur is threatening to raise an obstacle to the prompt withdrawal of troops from Afghanistan. The disease has appeared in most of the cities of Punjaub. Robbery by armed gangs is assuming alarming proportions in Deoan, especially in the Poona district. For some time past bands of Dacoites have been scouring the country, committing daring attacks on houses and villages.

VERSAILLES May 19—In the chamber of deputies to-day, M Lockroy, referring to the conduct of the archbishop of Aix, demanded that payment of the salaries of rebellious ecclesiastics be withheld and advocated the separation of church and state. M. Lepere, minister of the interior replied that the members of the cabinet were in complete accord on Minister Ferry's educational bill. They were determined to oppose clerical encroachments. Should the reports of the speeches of the archbishop of Aix and of his subsequent pastoral prove correct, he (the archbishop) would be prosecuted.

Mississippi Conference

MR. EDITOR: Last year the collections for the Conference Fund, reported to the Mississippi Conference, aggregated only $1 481 85 The interest—$50—from the Van Houten Trust Fund, was added to the amount collected, and made the total distributed among the claimants. It also helped to make the amount credited to the Jackson district.

Now, these $1 531 85 were divided between twenty six adults and eighteen children! Just think of it! An average of only $28 30 for each claimant. Three aged men received $75 10 each; two families, each consisting of a widow and three children, were allowed only $112 65 for each family. So says the report of the Joint Board of Finance, on pages 16 and 17 of the published minutes of 1878.

These same minutes show a membership of 21,505, besides 102 local preachers; total, 21 607 members, whose contributions to this noble object averaged less than seven cents per member! The largest contribution was from Natchez station, whose 198 members were assessed $55, but gave $75 to the Conference Fund, an average of nearly thirty-eight cents per member. The smallest contributions were from East Baton Rouge circuit, whose 518 members gave $5; Walnut Grove circuit, whose 440 members gave $4; Rankin circuit, whose 411 members gave $4; Homewood mission, whose 140 members gave $1 35; and Ellisville mission, whose 139 members gave $1 the average being less than one cent for each member! Other appointments gave an average of one cent, some two, some three cents and so on, none averaging fifty cents. But averaging is an unsatisfactory way of presenting or considering these matters. It always divides the responsibility too much. Let us be more particular. Of the 518 members in East Baton Rouge circuit, how many contributed to make up the $5 reported by the preacher? How many were able singly to give $5 to this grand object? How many did the preacher in charge personally ask to give? How many did he explain the matter to? These same questions will apply to the circuits whose names have been given as well as those that are unnamed. It will not do to offer the prevalence of yellow fever as an excuse, for it did not appear till August, and in some localities not before September or October. What were the preachers doing the previous portion of the year? Why put off collections till Conference is about to convene, and then try to rush things through? That plan has been tried from year to year for many years, and has always proved defective, uncertain, and never successful. Brethren, is it not time to try another plan? the plan that has been tried by those who have been most successful in collecting money: begin at the beginning of the year; take no thought for your own salaries, but give your attention to your duties; raise the collections, and then you will not be bothering the people while the stewards are most busy trying to gather up the balance due you. Do not delay. Do not wait for the yellow fever to come again. Neither content yourselves with raising the exact amount of your assessments. Double the amount of the assessment if you can, but do not fall below it. There are stingy people in the church; there are very poor ones, too; but none are either so poor or so stingy as to refuse to give a nickel, while many will cheerfully contribute a dollar, five dollars, or even ten dollars or more, when once they know how deserving and how needy are the beneficiaries. Let the preachers of the Mississippi Conference try, and they will raise not only the small sum of $2 100 asked for by the Joint Board of Finance, but they will collect more than double that sum. The failure hitherto can be attributed almost wholly to the lack of proper efforts. Recollect brethren, you or your families may soon be claimants on the Conference Fund, and you or they will then keenly feel the neglect that is now felt by men as good as you, and families as gently reared as yours have been, unless you now bestir yourselves and aid in educating the people up to a higher standard of systematic and liberal benevolence.

TOM. L. MELLEN.

NATCHEZ, May 3, 1879.

To the Members of the Mississippi Conference.

BRETHREN: The appeal of Rev. H. H. Montgomery, published in the ADVOCATE of the eighth instant, must not be passed unnoticed and unheeded. Bro. Montgomery has gone in and out before the church for nearly half a century, and now, in his age and affliction, appeals to his brethren for assistance. This appeal should arouse our sympathies and touch our hearts It is a privilege to contribute to the relief of this aged and afflicted brother. His physicians assure him that a change of latitude is essential to the preservation of his life, and recommend him to go to Minnesota.

He needs money. There is not a circuit or station in our Conference in which the pastor cannot raise at least $5 for Bro. Montgomery if he will try to do it I propose that each one of us immediately proceed to raise at least $5 for Bro. Montgomery, and forward the same to Rev. R D. Norsworthy, Canton, Miss. The reason why I say send it to Bro. Norsworthy is: Canton is a money order office and an express office; and only eight miles from Sharon. Let us all, as a band of brothers, join heart and hand in this labor of love, and each one do his duty, praying the Lord to bless us in this laudable work, and to spare the life of our aged and afflicted brother.

Yours in love,

J. J. SMYLIE.

FOREST, Miss., May 12, 1879.

Field Notes.

MERIDIANVILLE ALA., May 7, 1879.

MR. EDITOR: On last Sunday Dr. Ross, of Huntsville, Ala., accepted an invitation to occupy my pulpit at this place. He delivered his lecture sermon on the "Biography of the Devil." The audience was large and attentive. He preached one hour and twenty-three minutes, and did not seem exhausted, though he is eighty-three years old. His history of the devil is truly interesting, and calculated to do much good. He showed to perfection how the devil moved in all stages of society in disguise, and how ingenious he was in getting men to believe what he knew was false. The doctor, notwithstanding he is a Presbyterian, says it was the devil that put the doctrine of election into John Calvin's head. He is an Arminian to the core on that subject.

Truly your brother,

S. M. ROSMER.

P. C. Madison circuit, North Alabama Conference.

JONES' VALLEY, ALA., May 10, 1879.

We have just closed a gracious revival at the Oak Grove Church. The district school is located here; nearly all the students converted. Our presiding elder, J. G. Gurley, was at the parsonage recently; reports everything prosperous on the district. The Methodists in Birmingham are soon to erect an $8 000 church in their city, one of the most important charges in our Conference.

Our prospects for good crops were never better than now, though it is still very cold for the season.

Your brother,

W. C. MCCOY, P. C.

Jones' Valley circuit, North Alabama Conference.

HOMER, LA., May 14, 1879.

I arrived here yesterday evening, and find it a stirring, improving town, surrounded with a prosperous country; crop prospects flattering It has three neat and imposing church edifices. Judging from the demonstrations of the Sunday school and eleven o'clock service, the Methodist Church is in a very healthy condition. Presented claims of Bible Society; contributed $34 45, and made their appreciated pastor a life member.

J. A. IVES.

FREEPORT, FLA., May 12, 1879.

Our church here is doing well; congregations very fine; we pray for a big revival soon; the timber business is gone down, which makes money wanting; timber and lumber are the only source of living here, save hunting and fishing and boating. Our Sabbath-school is very fine; the largest ever at this place; sixty-seven have joined this year, making a school of eighty-seven pupils; the scholars are joining the church; the day will soon dawn in Freeport.

J. B. ANDERSON.

COLUMBIANA, ALA., May 12, 1879.

The second quarterly meeting for Harperaville circuit, North Alabama Conference was held at this place, May 10 and 11. Anson West, P. E.; a full delegation of the official members were present; the outlook for this circuit is good; the Sunday-school interests were never better; our quarterly meeting was a precious occasion; the sermons by Bro West, both days, were of a high order; he speaks as becometh the oracles of God; he is a live man; our love-feast was truly refreshing; a full attendance with the Sunday-shool partaking.

T. P. ROBERTS.

BROOKHAVEN, Miss., May 12, 1879.

A panic is spreading and deepening in intensity over mad brutes, whose bite conveys the poison of hydrophobia, from which an estimable young man, Mr. Lackie, near Crystal Springs, died after suffering the tortures of apprehension for six months, and the pains of convulsion only a few days. Others bitten await the issue in horrible suspense. What a benefaction a prompt remedy would be to them! Who knows it? The crop prospect is below an average; cotton hurt by cold nights; fruit variable; work in church steady throughout the district.

W. E. MCLENDON, P. E.

COLUMBIANA, ALA., May 12, 1879.

MR. EDITOR: There is a protracted meeting in progress at this place; the meeting is being continued from the quarterly meeting; the communion on Sabbath was large, embracing all Christians, except that church which divides the body of the Lord Jesus Christ. This is a most excellent community; harmony and good will prevail. Our Sunday-school, presided over by that genial Christian gentleman, Rev Bruce Harris, is very promising; he manages to have them at love feast

T. P. ROBERTS.

WALNUT GROVE, Miss., May 13, 1879

DR. PARKER: The Walnut Grove circuit lies partly in Leake, Scott and Neshoba counties, and has eight churches or appointments. The religious prospect is tolerably good. The financial welfare of the church depends on the growing crop, and the love of the people to God. Nothing has been done for the usual collections, as there is no money in this country now. We hope to bring up a good report in finances this winter. We have one class-meeting.

J. W. ELLISON.

GREENWOOD, Miss., May 13, 1879.

Greenwood circuit is composed of three churches, at wide distances. I came here in January, and have attended faithfully to my duties. We have one preaching place twenty-five miles up the Tallahatchie. There is much religious destitution in this swamp—a field for home missions. On Greenwood we have a Sunday-school, prayer-meeting, fifty eight members; have received nine this year. Our prospects are flattering. Church literature well circulated.

J. SIDNEY CARLTON.

VICKSBURG, Miss., May 14, 1879.

BRETHREN: Send on the money for chapels in China. Marvin chapel will seat 100 or 120. Bro. Lambuth writes me: "We have no need for larger buildings in the interior. If we should build a large church, with its spire reaching far above all the Chinese buildings around, we would never have an end to trouble. It would, in the minds of Chinese, interfere with the 'Fung Shue,' 'wind and water,' or, in other words, all nature, and every sudden death in the neighborhood would be laid to our charge, and all want of prosperity in business would be because our church spire interfered with the waves of prosperity." Let those who have subscribed, or others, send us the money, and we will send it to Bro. Lambuth.

W. L. G. BENNICOTT.

DECATUR, ALA., May 15, 1879.

The seventh session of the Decatur District Conference was held May 2 d Charges, 12; churches, 66; parsonages, 3; money raised for repairing churches and parsonages, $614; books sold, $183; CHRISTIAN ADVOCATES, $130; Sunday schools, 32; Sunday-school scholars, 905; money raised for Sunday-school purposes, $129; on preachers' salaries, on an average, about 30 per cent.; allowances small; some interest in prayer-meetings, but little in class-meetings; comparatively few home altars; ordinances attended to with some interest; no missionary fire and zeal; a little interest in parsonages; "east down, but not in despair." Fraternally,

W. H. KIRK, P. E.

GOODMAN, Miss., May 16, 1879.

We have in this (Richland) circuit seven churches, two hundred and four members, four prosperous Sunday-schools, with an increasing interest in this work, one weekly prayer-meeting, conducted by myself at this place. Attendance on church service generally good; preacher's salary one-third paid; Bishops' fund about raised, and $22 for missions; health of country good; but few deaths so far this year; farming interest progressing satisfactorily. We are expecting a year of prosperity, both in temporal and spiritual matters

G. W. HACKMAN, P. C.

BROOKHAVEN, Miss., May 16, 1879.

Following up the interest with which our communion service, the second Sunday in May, was crowned (of which I gave some account in your last issue,) we had twelve more applications for membership, making twenty two in all. Of this number ten reside in this place, and twelve are young ladies boarding in the college. Four of the twelve are daughters of ministers. Parents cannot place their daughters in a safer, healthier and purer moral atmosphere than in Whitworth College.

W. B. LEWIS.

VICKSBURG, Miss., May 17, 1879.

Excitement about the negro exodus has abated; few or none leaving; some returning, wiser if not richer. Vicksburg has a Sabbath for the first time in a decade. The law is being well enforced, though against strong opposition. In church matters we are having a measure of prosperity. We have a fine Sunday-school, a model Sunday School Missionary Society, a Woman's Foreign Missionary Society, and, since Conference, have had twenty accessions to the church.

C. H. O.

CATEVILLE, Miss., May 17, 1879.

MR. EDITOR: Bateeville is in North Mississippi Conference, situated on the M and T. railroad, sixty miles from Memphis, also on the Tallahatchie river, which was navigable to this point in "ante bellum" times, but the efforts of the Confederates to obstruct the gun-boats have caused the river to be impassable ever since. The land is as fine as any where; the cultivation as good as negro labor will make it. The crop is backward for the season—at least two weeks later than last year. Gardens almost destroyed by cut worms—have been worse than I have ever seen before. The church interest is hopeful in my work; finances well up. Truly "the lines have fallen to me in pleasant places." We have a nice little brick church that has been waiting for seats about two years rather than go in debt. The order has been put in the mechanics' hands, and we soon will worship there. The Baptists have just closed a meeting of eighteen days—results meager. I hope lasting good was done.

JOHN RITCHEY.

The Christian Advocate.

THURSDAY, MAY 22, 1879.

THE SLEEPING CHRIST.

The tempest bursts o'er Galilee,
And swift the swelling waves increase;
The laboring boat is filling fast,
And death seems shrieking in the blast,
But Jesus sleeps in perfect peace.

The storm comes forth from Gadara;
'Tis hell bestirred its prey to keep,
Satanic powers in fury rave
To wreck the King who goes to save,
And Jesus meets them with a sleep.

The sleepless consciousness within
Sees God upon the raging sea,
In calm, invincible, defense,
And shadowed by Omnipotence,
He sleeps in sweet tranquility.

His comrades have no peace serene;
They cry aloud to dread despair;
They cannot see what Christ can see,
The interposing Deity,
And marvel He can slumber there.

More wondrous than the muzzled storm,
He tells how mortal sight may gaze
On guardian love forever near,
How shrinking souls may lose their fear,
And rest secure in stormy days.

Dear Lord, the eye of faith undimmed,
Be mine, while tossed on life's rough sea,
So shall the perfect peace be mine,
Which filled that dauntless heart of Thine
When Thou didst sleep on Galilee.

—London Methodist Recorder.

From the Work.

PENSACOLA DISTRICT CONFERENCE.

MR. EDITOR: The new district of Pensacola held its first Conference in the charming town of Milton, thirty miles from this city, beginning March 28, and continuing its session two days. Rev. J. M. Boland, our beloved presiding elder, in the chair, to the pleasure and satisfaction of every one. The district, as it now stands, embraces fourteen charges, distributed as follows: Three missions, eight circuits and three stations. No unsupplied place in the district—the whole field under cultivation. Attendance of delegates at Conference very good, larger than at any former occasion of the kind in this section, and full of interest and profit to preachers and people. Special prominence was given to religious services, which was blessed of the Master to the edification of the church, and the awakening and conversion of sinners. The love-feast on Sunday morning will never be forgotten by those present. Showers from on high fell upon the assembly, and all hearts felt the movings of the Holy Ghost. Many rejoiced with that joy which is beyond words, and full of glory. A Sunday-school mass meeting at mid-eve was addressed by Bros. Scott and Anderson. The congregation listened with attention and profit to these brethren.

The reports of the preachers, taken as a whole, afford a hopeful outlook, showing the district to be capable of independent existence, and on the way of prosperity and establishment. With an exception or two, all the circuits give proof of capacity and progression toward first-class works. Two of the three missions, in the near future, will be made circuits. Perdido mission, supplied by Bro. L. A. Jones, presents a cheering prospective, houses of worship here and there are being erected, and revival influences prevailing. Gravilla mission, under care of Bro. M. M. Graham, is the least hopeful point in all this section. Bro. Graham is earnest and faithful in his work, but has immense odds against him in the way of creeds of all kinds—Mormons, Hard-Shell Baptists, Northern and Independent Methodists, and other sorts hugely numerous, every one against the other, and all against Bro. Graham and his money gospel. Notwithstanding, our worthy brother smiles, and goes forward looking, by faith, for a better day.

Liberal assessments, in general, have been made for the support of the preachers, and we are having no fear about starving—such a thing is wholly off the list of fears and expectations. The Sabbath-school interest in many parts of the district is considerably on the advance, while in other portions it is doing little or nothing. The church collections are receiving due attention, and will come up all right at Conference. The circulation of our church papers is not what it should be, by far, in any part of the district. This, we trust, will be remedied ere long. It must be, if we expect solid and healthy growth as a church. We have in this district a first class campground, located on the Pensacola railroad, leading to Montgomery. Our camp meeting will come off on the last of next month, as given in the ADVOCATE. We are all praying for the outpouring of the Spirit. We would be glad to see you, Mr. Editor, at our meeting.

Bro. Powers, agent of the Southern University, located at Greensboro, Ala., was with us, working heart and soul for the University. He gives encouraging statements of the increasing prosperity of the college. Surely the Alabama Conference, with her nearly thirty thousand Methodists, can meet every need of this noble institution. Here pivots, it seems to me, our self respect and respectability as a Conference. Not to build up firmly the Southern University will be most justly an everlasting disgrace to the Methodists of the Alabama Conference. Let us all give Dr. Smith and his able co-workers our money first, and then our prayers and sympathies. God speed them in their noble and heroic work. Bro. Scott, our Sunday-school and sub book agent, was present at our Conference, and quite active in the discharge of his duties. He is certainly doing a good work, and wherever he may go it will be to the advantage of Sunday-schools and churches to avail themselves of his good offices. By special arrangement Bro. Scott can sell our publications on the same terms as at Nashville. His post office is Greenville, Ala. We feel safe in saying Pensacola district will send good tidings to the ADVOCATE before the year is gone. Our Bro. Boland is, indeed, a live presiding elder, here and there and everywhere, and abundant in labors.

C. B. DUBOSE, Sec.

MAY 1, 1879.

COLUMBIA CIRCUIT, LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.

MR. EDITOR: We are thankful to report that the Lord's cause is prospering in our hands. We arrived here during the first week in February, and found that our brethren, with much forethought, had provided for our comfort. On our arrival we were met at the landing by brethren who immediately escorted us to the parsonage, "a hired house," large and well arranged for our purposes. We found at hand much to encourage us.

Some of our good sisters here, fit companions for the beloved Dorcas, had anticipated our wants, and had provided for them. The first thing we looked upon, on entering the parsonage hall, was the beautiful motto, "Welcome Home," placed there by the hand of a dear sister for our especial encouragement.

On entering the dining-room our curiosity was at once aroused, and we made haste to lift a neatly spread tablecloth, disproportionately elevated here and there, when we found good things to eat, upon which our eyes feasted, and quite sufficient to last us until we could take all our bearings. Our friends here, both in and out of the church, seem to vie with each other in acts of kindness, for which we are thankful. Our brethren and friends will take care of us.

Our congregations are uniformly large and attentive, and the spirituality of the church good. As a result, we have had conversions and several accessions to the church. There is an unwonted religious interest manifested by our young men. Prayer and class meetings organized, and regularly held and attended. So far as we can discern, perfect harmony and united action prevail.

We attended the District Conference held at Alexandria on the eighteenth, nineteenth and twentieth ultimo, accompanied by a part of the Columbia delegation. Bishop Keener presided to the entire satisfaction of the Conference, and with his usual scrutiny into all the interests of the church. Prominence was given to religious exercises, which proved a blessing to us all. The Conference sessions were held in our new and beautiful church, built under difficulties, almost insuperable, by Bro. Christian Keener, and, if I am correctly informed, mostly with his own hands. I am confident this church was built under circumstances that would have discouraged most others. When this Conference convened there was a debt of five hundred and odd dollars hanging over this church, and for which Bro. Keener was personally responsible. On the Sunday following this entire debt was lifted by the liberality of brethren and friends, and a few hours afterward the church was dedicated by Bishop Keener, in the presence of a large audience. We think the way is now open for a blessed work in Alexandria. May God bless the pastor, and crown his labors with abundant success.

We preached in Alexandria, also in Pineville for Bro. Sheppard, who is doing a good work. He seems to be much encouraged. May his zeal and piety be abundantly rewarded. After a week's absence our party returned home, thankful to God for what we had heard, seen and experienced.

We have taken in a new field of labor, which promises good results. We worship in a building built for a grange hall, but well adapted to religious worship. God has blessed our labors here, a church has been organized, and we look hopefully to the future.

The ADVOCATE has not been forgotten. We wish to see the ADVOCATE in the house of every family, particularly of every Methodist family. There are some who at present are not able to take it, and a few others whose prejudice, on account of certain advertisements, runs ahead of their judgment, and, consequently, are disqualified to appreciate its merits. These brethren seem to forget that when the ADVOCATE is supported as it should be, and is made self-sustaining, its columns will be devoted chiefly to other matter. We will endeavor to collect what is due, and to obtain new subscribers.

As suggested above, we are now living in "a hired house." Everything considered, we have never seen a more generous people than the people of Columbia, and we are at a loss to know why, up to this time, we have had no parsonage. Some of our brethren have suggested a plan for obtaining a home for the preacher and his family. We begin to see daylight, and hope soon to report progress. Oh! that every preacher, on beginning his labors at a new appointment, would see to it that next to the house of God, if not along with it, a parsonage be obtained.

ROBERT S. ISBELL.

COLUMBIA, May 9, 1879.

MONTGOMERY, ALABAMA.

MR. EDITOR: The reports at the second quarterly meeting in Montgomery were, I think, worthy of notice. Hence I give them approximately.

The answer to the third question showed an increase in the number in attendance, and some additional interest in the practical working of the Sunday school. The money was raised to supply the school with the necessary literature for the entire year. And the school is now engaged in raising missionary money—a noble work.

The answer to the fourth question showed an increase of twenty-four in the membership. A large attendance upon the social meetings of the church, indicating a lively interest in her spiritual welfare.

The Ladies' "Bible Class" meeting, organized recently, is worthy of note and commendation. This is, in all essential respects, a class meeting of the best order. Bible truth, the interests of the church, and personal experience, are the leading topics of discussion. The meeting is conducted in a free and easy manner, and is calculated to do much good.

The ladies of this place have kept up a meeting of this character for several years, which has been, is still, an element of power, and an efficient means of success.

While the writer is somewhat Pauline in opinion in certain directions, it is, in his humble opinion, one of the best signs of the times, that the ladies of the church, generally, are becoming more active.

There can be no vigorous Christian life without Christian activity, and to employ actively all the membership of the church, male and female, young and old, is the only way to succeed. And certainly there is no purer or more influential element in the church than the ladies of the church. Why should they "stand idle?" But I am disregarding your request, to "give facts, not comments," hence must desist.

The financial condition of the church was reported healthy. An old debt of five years' standing, for repairs on the church, has been paid. The parsonage is refitted, and the preacher cared for. And the well-worn soles of the preacher give evidence that he is caring for the souls of his people.

By the way, this is a good rule by which to judge of a preacher's pastoral industry: Examine his soles, for if he stirs much they will be worn. Yours truly,

T. E. MASON.

Hilliard J. Hunter.

In a recent number of the ADVOCATE I noticed the death of the Rev. H. J. Hunter, late of the Alabama Conference.

I know but little of the early life of "Uncle Hunter," as he was familiarly called; neither the day of his birth, nor the day of his death, I only know he died somewhere in Georgia, some time last January. Do, doctor, insist upon the brothers giving us the day of his death, and especially what he did say. It is no news to his thousands of friends to be told that he died triumphantly—a foregone conclusion—but it would be consoling to us all to know what he did say as he passed through the valley.

I first became acquainted with Bro. Hunter in 1858, from which time, until I left for Texas, in 1872, our intimacy was close, and our friendship reciprocal. He was, take him all in all, one of the most pious and best men I ever knew. Perpetual cheerfulness was a most delightful trait of his character. How many families will remember his quiet, cheerful fireside chats, his anecdotes, his pleasant laugh, and his loving jokes and raillery upon "Aunt Martha," his dear old wife! Are they not all treasured up in our memories, never to be forgotten? His religion was free from all austerity. He tried to enjoy it on earth as he expected to enjoy it in heaven.

Childless himself, he was, for all that, a great lover of children, and loved to be among them. What confabs and what fun they would have! Children are quick to love as well as to fear, and they loved "Uncle Hunter." Yes, the old gray-headed man was a great pet with the children. His impromptu fireside Bible class among the children of larger growth, what an amount of good they did? I have often thought his fireside sermons or "talks" did as much good as his pulpit discourses; in fact, his great strength lay in being a true pastor, and more especially in watching over his lambs. A child that could speak always learned something from "Uncle Hunter;" and wherever he went he left them some golden precept, to remind them he had been there.

Bro Hunter was not a great preacher, neither was he a profound biblical scholar, but I will venture to say that few preachers in the Alabama Conference have done more good in the way of leading souls to God than Hilliard J. Hunter. His piety and zeal was conspicuous, and in these two great levers his strength lay; not in splendor of language or rhetorical display so much as in the unlimited confidence the people had in the man. His fervent piety arrested the attention of the most careless, while his zealous labor for their good, and his earnest wrestling with them to come to the cross, and obtain salvation, verily had its reward.

Bro. Hunter, in the eyes of some, had some odd ways. He was an odd Methodist—a Methodist of the old school. He was a great stickler for love-feasts, class and prayer meetings. The new order of things did not wear well; he could not get used to them, and was continually making digressions into the old ways; but in a prayer meeting, at a love-feast, in the class or experience meeting, "Uncle Hunter" was in his glory, and it was good to be there.

Friday was always fast day with him, while much of his leisure was spent upon his knees, and I have no doubt that his perpetual cheerfulness was one of the effects of this constant communion with his Maker. He was a great believer in the special providences of God, and in the efficacy of prayer. There was no Huxleyism in his faith; in fact, he knew nothing about him, or cared to. His faith and his philosophy were built upon the truths of the New Testament, that the foolishness and ridicule of scientists could not shake.

"Everything works for good," "and has He not given His angels in charge over me," were two quotations that frequently fell from his lips; and he had an unfaltering faith in these promises.

Many anecdotes of his early ministry, trials and struggles he used to relate, to verify their truth, I could give, but it is not necessary, and I have already encroached too much upon your columns, especially since I hope some one else more competent shall give us a sketch of the good man's life.

Bro. Hunter was not only remarkable for his cheerfulness, but his childlike simplicity, his humility and disinterestedness, were endearing beauties of his every-day life. Like Nathaniel of old, if I may be allowed to say so, he was without a guile; totally devoted to his great calling, in every condition of life in which he was placed he was going about and trying to do good.

He had his enemies; and who has not. But he thanked God that that could not keep him from praying for them. If they did him wrong, he could but do as Dr. Madden wrote of Bishop Boulter:

"Some write their wrongs in marble: he more just
Stooped down, scrote and wrote them in the dust;
Trod under foot, the sport of every wind,
Swept from the earth, and blotted from his mind.
There secret in the grave he bade them lie.
And grieved they could not 'scape the Almighty's eye.

JOHN R. CISHING.

OMEGA, Denton Co., TEX., April 15, 1879.

Since the Turkish authorities removed, ten years ago, the restrictions which limited the Jewish population in Jerusalem, the Jews have bought up all the land they could in the ancient city, and have built outside the walls in some cases entire streets of houses. Synagogues and Jewish hospitals have multiplied, and the German Jews have no fewer than sixteen charity associations and twenty-eight "congregations religieuses." Two newspapers have been started. In the Rothschild and other hospitals, 6,000 patients are cared for annually. Baron Rothschild holds a mortgage on the whole of Palestine as security for his loan of 200 000 000 francs to the Turkish Government. It is said that the value of the land at the gates of the city has increased more than tenfold, while building and construction work of all kinds is carried on night and day. It is further reported that the immigrants, who to a large extent are from Russia, "are animated by a religious enthusiasm of a very pronounced type."

Obituaries.

Correspondents, please write names and dates very distinctly. We follow copy on proper names.

Obituary notices should be forwarded promptly and immediately. Give only points of general interest, such as will help the living. Details of funeral services, and such phrases as 'mourn their loss," etc., are not edifying. Verses, either original or select, not admissible in this department. Give the locality distinctly and in full. In the case of infants only a simple announcement of the death, with names and dates, will be published.

☞ All obituaries received are published as soon as convenient. If, after a reasonable time, any such communication fail to appear, let a duplicate be sent instead of a complaint.

MAJOR W. P. HOLLINGSWORTH died in Gadsden, Ala., on the morning of April 24. Brother Hollingsworth was a native of Alabama, born in St. Clair county, August 22, 1828, being at his death in his fifty-first year. From St. Clair county his father moved to Pickens county, Alabama, where a portion of his boyhood was spent; came to this place when quite a youth and engaged in business, as clerk in the store of his brother, Thomas Hollingsworth, and subsequently became a partner with his brother, and after a few years, this partnership, being dissolved, went into business alone, and continued therein until the war.

During this period he was happily married to Miss Josephine Lewis, who with six children and four grand-children survive him, and left to contend with the cares, anxieties and responsibilities of life without his aid and affectionate counsels. He embraced religion several years ago at a meeting conducted here by that distinguished Evangelist of the Presbyterian Church, Dr. Nall, and united with the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, in the communion of which he lived and died an acceptable member.

At the commencement of the war he enlisted and went into it as Captain of a company in the Nineteenth Alabama Regiment, and was subsequently promoted to the position of Major in that Regiment, and served his country as a gallant Confederate soldier during the war. At the close of which he returned home to this place, and engaged in the mercantile business, which he successfully followed through life.

Having by strict, close and energetic attention to business not only made a good living, and provided a model home, and business house for his family, but has left them a handsome estate, besides, providing liberally for the education and comfort of his children, and not sparing his means, labor and counsel in building up the interest and enterprises of the town and community. He was indeed a model man in a great many respects: of sound and keen perception and judgment; sterling integrity; indomitable energy; honest and upright in all his transactions with men; and upon these noble and commendable virtues that adorned his character, a suspicion of their absence has never been indulged. Indeed in all the relations that he sustained to society, to his family, to the poor, to the church, to the moral, social and religious elements that make up and constitute good society and communities, his hand and heart were open to contribute thereto. A member of the Masonic fraternity and Knights of Honor, he was buried with the honors of the latter order.

Brother Hollingsworth's religious life was not marked with those outbursts of noise and show, and those spasmodic exhibitions which characterize the religious experience of many, yet looking at those traits which make up and constitute a solid, intelligent and reasonable Christian experience and character, growing out of a firm conviction and belief in the doctrines of revelation and a corresponding demonstration in acts and good works, their development is seen in the life of this worthy man.

The disease which terminated his existence was long and protracted, but did not confine him to his bed entirely until about a month before his death; and during this period I visited him almost daily for the last two weeks of his life, and had with him the following interesting interview in regard to his prospects in the future. When asked if he had thought much on this subject he remarked: "Yes a great deal," and repeated "a great deal." "I may be mistaken, but if I am I am woefully mistaken; while I see and regret my many shortcomings; how far I have failed in doing my whole duty, and my many indiscretions, yet I have tried to do, in my weak way, the best I could." He said that he believed in growth in grace and that a person professing religion ought to get stronger and stronger; "yet I have not advanced as I should have done; I never doubted my conversion," and he pointed to the time and place where it occurred, and remarked: "Although I have not been to church in six months, yet the reason is the nature of my disease forbade it," and said: "I have, during that time, kept up family prayers in my family, and in my weak way, until a few nights ago, I was not able to attend to it." Since then Sister Hollingsworth has told me that frequently, before he had to abandon it, he had to be lifted from his knees into his chair. He also said in that interview, while he felt that he would like to get well yet he was resigned to the will of God. This is in substance the conversation I had with him when his mind was perfectly clear, calm and composed, and in this state of mind he left us, without murmuring or repining at the Providence of God. "We sorrow not as those without hope." "We have hope in his death." The church here will miss him, the community will feel the loss, but, ah! his dear family will feel it more keenly and sensibly than all. May the good Lord incline the hearts of all to imitate his virtues; and may his protecting care continue to surround and overshadow his afflicted family.

A. C. RAMSEY.

SAMUEL SCARLETT died April 1, 1879, near Havana, Hale county, Alabama, in the eighty-third year of his age. He was born in Canada, January 16, 1797, and when but two years old his parents removed to Hillsboro, Orange county, N. C., from which place they had gone to Canada a few years before. Here he lived until he was about thirty five years old, when he removed to Alabama, and in 1836 he settled in the place where he continued to reside until his death. He was raised in the Episcopal Church, but he has told the writer that neither he nor any other member of the family knew anything about experimental religion until they were awakened and converted by a Methodist itinerant preacher. The whole family then joined the Methodist Church, and for many years they enjoyed the training that comes from a regular attendance upon class meetings, and a strict observance of the rules of the church. His conversion took place in early manhood, and he remained a faithful member of our church for more than sixty years. He acted as a Steward for a long period, and he made it a rule to collect the preacher's salary before the Conference at which he was to be appointed to his work, so that he might not be troubled about his support. His seat in church was never vacant until he was so enfeebled by age as to render it impracticable to be present. His experience as a Christian was very clear and satisfactory, and he delighted to talk of the goodness of God to him all through his life. Next to his bible he delighted in Wesley's sermons, which he regarded as the best expressions of a Christian spirit outside of the Scriptures.

Brother Scarlett was a man of remarkable honesty and independence of spirit. During the last few years of his life he became somewhat straightened in his means of living, and when some of his friends offered to assist him he refused to receive anything as a gift, but he insisted on giving his note for whatever was furnished him. He made it a principle, all through life, never to receive anything from a fellow man without paying for it. He exhibited the same spirit toward the ministry. He felt that he owed a debt to those who served him in holy things, and he was always among the most prompt and liberal in his contribution for the support of the church; and when he became unable to bear his portion of the expenses of the church, it seemed to give him real distress of mind. His industry was as remarkable as his honesty. He continued to labor on his farm up to the time of his death, and sometimes, overcome by heat, he would stop his plow in the field and sit down behind it a few minutes to rest, and then renew his work. His last illness was brought on by over taxing his strength when he was too unwell to work.

He left no dying testimony in words because the power of speech was gone, but by look and gesture he gave evidence that he died full of hope. Brother Scarlett was no stranger to suffering, but affliction seemed but to refine his spirit and drive him to God. The whole community felt sad at his death, and his brethren gave evidence of their sympathy with his family in acts of kindness shown them.

PASTOR.

MRS. REBECCA ANN PEARSON died, in Wesson, Miss., of neuralgia of the heart, at seven o'clock on Tuesday morning, April 29, 1879. Mrs. Pearson was born in Marion county, Miss., January 19, 1837. Her maiden name was Connally. She was married to Mr. John Pearson, in Pike county, Miss., September 22, 1858. Several years ago, being left with a family of small children on her hands, she removed to Wesson, Miss., where she could better provide for their support. By her uprightness of character and amiability of disposition she won the confidence and esteem of all who knew her: She was energetic and frugal and hopeful. A child of affliction, she bore her troubles with fortitude and patience, and overcame the difficulties in the way of her success. She was a woman of decided and strong character, bearing, with a cheerful spirit, burdens that would have crushed an ordinary woman. Mrs. Pearson joined the Methodist Church when about eighteen years of age; and, though always consistent with her Christian vows, she never openly professed to enjoy the witness of the Spirit till late in life. Her death was sudden, and entirely unexpected. She was cut off without being permitted to say anything to any one about her prospects for the future. But we needed not her dying testimony to assure us of her future happiness. Her life was sufficient. She leaves to her four children the heritage of a good name, and of a pure Christian example. May they follow her as she followed the Lord.

W. H. LEWIS.

At a regular meeting of the Female Financial Association of Fayette circuit, Mississippi Conference, the undersigned committee was appointed to draft resolutions upon the death of two of their faithful members, viz: Sisters ELIZA EOLES and NELLIE M. ADAIR; therefore

Resolved, That although we mourn their departing from us, knowing that we shall miss their wise counsel and faithful labors, yet we mourn not, because we know the Judge of all the earth will do right.

Resolved, That from our knowledge of their uncommon piety and their dying testimony, we now believe they are happy in heaven.

Resolved, That we tender to their relatives our heartfelt sympathies, and will forward copies of these resolutions to the families of the deceased, and a copy to the NEW ORLEANS CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE for publication.

E. E. H. ARMSTRONG,
M. S. COFFEY,
GEO. C. ARMSTRONG,
Committee.

METTA MARVIN, daughter of Levin and Matilda Gaskins, of Lincoln county, Mississippi, died April 19, 1879, aged one year, eight months and seven days.

H. R. CALDWELL.

But there beamed a smile so fixed, so holy, from that cherub brow, Death gazed and left it there. He dared not steal the signet-ring from Heaven.—Mrs. Sigourney.

The Christian Advocate.

THURSDAY, MAY 22, 1879.

THE GOLD OF HOPE.

Bright shines the sun, but brighter after rain;
The clouds that darken make the sky more clear;
So rest is sweeter when it follows pain,
And the sad parting makes our friends more dear.

'Tis well it should be thus; our Father knows
The things that work together for our good;
We draw a sweetness from our bitter woes—
We would not have all sunshine if we could.

The days, with all their beauty and their light,
Come from the dark and into dark return;
Day speaks of earth, but heaven shines through the night,
Where in the blue a thousand star-fires burn.

So runs the law, the law of recompense,
That binds our life on earth and heaven in one;
Faith cannot live when all is sight and sense,
But faith can live and sing when these are gone.

We grieve and murmur, for we can but see
The single thread that flies in silence by;
When if we only saw the things to be,
Our lips would breathe a song and not a sigh.

Wait then, my soul, and edge the darkening cloud
With the bright gold that Hope can always lend;
And if to-day thou art with sorrow bowed,
Wait till to-morrow, and thy grief shall end!

And when we reach the limit of our days,
Beyond the reach of shadows and of night,
Then shall our every look and voice be praise
To Him who shines, our everlasting light.

—Sunday Magazine.

Canon Farrar on England's National Vice.

The devotion to liquor, as every one knows who knows anything about his country, is the besetting sin of the nation; and, so far from trying to check this besetting sin, we encourage, we render attractive, we protect, we indefinitely multiply, we thrust at every step before those whom it is most likely to destroy, innumerable temptations to it; and this we do and continue to do, though we know that so difficult is it for the poor, even when they wish to keep aloof from it; so subtle, rapid, fatal, enslaving, is the horrible fascination of it, that a man often becomes a drunkard almost before he sees the awfulness of his peril; and when once he is a drunkard, most often he is hurried all downhill with fatal rapidity into incurable ruin of body, mind and soul. Can we then wonder that, more and more, by common confession (a confession, alas! now humiliating, of a fact how notorious) the national vice of Great Britain is drunkenness? Not one day passes without our witnessing its terrible ravages. To the ruin it engenders, all alike bear witness. From the army, from the navy, from great cities, from country villages, from the police, from guardians of the poor, from manufacturers, from merchants, from all large employers of labor, from physicians, from judges, from the clergy of every denomination, and most often and most bitterly from the working men themselves, come pouring in the accumulated testimonies—emphatic, heart-rending, unmistakable, reiterated—to the prevalence, to the increase, to the deadliness of this degrading sin. Do you, who are rich and respectable, you who, shut up in your stately houses or quiet homes, know nothing of this, and, therefore, nursing in some delicious stillness your dainty loves and slothful sympathies, hear it with indifference or impatience? If you would know what drunkenness is; if you would learn what cause there is to lift up the voice respecting it, leave your ease; do not be afraid for once to sicken your sensibilities; do not be afraid to soil your robes. See women, or what had once been those gracious beings, shrieking, fighting, blaspheming, pawning the very shawls off their backs, and the very bed on which their children lie. Watch the poor, rugged, emaciated drunkard—lost to health, lost to respectability, lost to home—reeling from the counter where he has over and over again shamefully squandered what might have kept himself and his family in comfort and independence. Follow him, at least in imagination, to the chronic and squalid misery of that bare, foul room, which might have been a home. See his children fly from him terror stricken, and huddled away out of sight in the corner, in the street, anywhere. See his wife—but the picture, though infinitely less than the reality, is too horrible; and you may see this almost anywhere; you may see it almost any day; and when you have seen it you will know at last why the hearts of thousands sink within them as they contemplate this slanderous shame, this clinging curse, this eating canker of our prosperity and of our life. These are its infamous results—parent of evil. Who will venture to deny one of these awful indictments with which I here arraign it? Unnecessary as it is, except possibly in rarest cases of illness, being neither a food nor a source of strength, it wastes our resources; it saps our national strength; it empties our churches; it frustrates our schools; it fills our prisons; it crowds the wards of our hospitals; it peoples the cells of our asylums; it swells the tables of our mortality; it degrades many of our rich; it brutalizes multitudes of our poor. Now, all this being so, what will you do? Oh, I do believe that there are thousands of good men and good women who, if they knew about this subject all they might know, would at least not do certain things. They would not look on coldly and indifferently while others struggle. They would not think the drunkard a fit subject for a smile or a jest. They would not oppose any legislative endeavor to diminish for the working man his worst and fatalest seduction. They would not meet the arguments of temperance by those feeble superstitions and exploded fashions of Scriptural reasoning which have been used ere now to kindle the fagot of the inquisitor, and rivet the fetters of the slave. They would not supply to the cause of intemperance the shallow sophism or the ensnaring epigram. But what they would do would be to join hand-in-hand in a holy crusade against this curse of nations; this worst stumbling-block on the path of moral, intellectual and religious progress. And if they did not see their way to do, as a simple and much-needed protest, what thousands, thank God, of our clergy have done (and have done not only without injury to health, but with positive advantage to it—not only without diminution of strength, but with decided increase of it)—namely, abstain from all intoxicating drinks for their brethren's sake, if not for their own; if they did not make this cheap and beneficial sacrifice, yet at least, in order that the next generation may be partially delivered from that which is the bitter curse of this, they would train up their children, when any fermented liquor is set before them, to say with the children of Jonadab, the son of Rechab: "We drink it not, for our father commanded us, saying, 'Drink it not.'" Oh, what a generation would that be, how healthy, how wealthy, how clear of intellect, how strong of arm, how fertile in resources, how rich in hope, to which drink would be unknown! The blessing to Jonadab, the son of Rechab, was that he should not want a man to stand before God forever; and if, as a nation, we continue in this sin unchecked, if the more we earn the more we see the people saturating soul and body with this destructive liquid fire, what shall, what must be the curse to us? Shall it not, must it not be that on the walls of the banquet houses of our luxury shall come forth the fingers of a man's hand and write: "Mene, Mene, Tekel, Upharsin," "Numbered, numbered, weighed, and they shall divide?" Must it not be that for us, as for the drunkards of Ephraim, our glorious beauty shall be a fading flower; that our pleasant vices shall be made an instrument to punish us; that the scepter of our imperial domain shall drop out of the nerveless grasp which our selfishness has relaxed; that the crown shall fall from our heads, for we have sinned? Which fate, the fate—because of their sins—of so many sinful nations before us, on our repentance, may God avert! But if we repent not then, as Assyria fell for her pride, and Babylon for her cruelty, and Persia for her effeminacy, and Athens for her lust, and Spain for her avarice, so, in her turn, must England fall for her drunkenness; and the ax is in the air, and the fiat shall go forth: "A good tree bringeth not forth evil fruit, neither can a corrupt tree bring forth good fruit." "Every tree that bringeth not forth good fruit is hewn down and cast into the fire."—Sermon on "The Vow of the Rechabites."

American "Communities."

Scattered through thirteen States, branches of eight main bodies, are seventy-two communities, whose central idea is that of holding all things in common. They number some 5 000 persons, owning perhaps 180,000 acres of land and $12 000,000 of property. The Icarians are French; the Shakers and Perfectionists are Americans, although the former were organized by an English woman; the renbinder are German. The Eben-Ezers (Aurora) call themselves "Inspirationists," their present leader—a woman—claiming to speak by Divine inspiration, and this claim runs back over a century with them in Germany, before they became communal. The Separatists came from Wurtemburg, under stress of persecution on account of their religious views. The Shakers, who are the oldest and most numerous of all these groups, were organized by an English woman named Ann Lee, who, while in prison for her religious manifestations in 1770, claimed to have had a special revelation from God, and was directed to come to America. The Shakers and the Rappists or Harmonists are celibates. The Perfectionists at Oneida, New York, and Wallingford, Connecticut, applying their doctrine of communism, go beyond the Mormons. The Communists make provision for the wants of this life, with peculiar religious notions, which might be called fanatical, but they are entirely free from a spirit of intolerance. Some are spiritualists in the ordinary sense of that word; some look very soon for the second coming of Christ, and the end of all things, while others believe the second coming already past; they believe in a special nearness of God to themselves; they have their own hymns, literature and observances, and seem to be moved by a desire to separate themselves from the world. The Oneida people are manufacturers mainly, agriculturists incidentally; the rest are agriculturists mainly. All have shown an extraordinary aptitude for invention and for economizing labor. The Shakers, who are particularly well known by reason of their numbers and their many colonies, have a large variety of trades, and the work of all communistic societies has an established reputation for both uniform excellence of quality and honesty of quantity. None of the communes are rich in the ordinary sense of the word, and they do not try to be. They take work easily, being content with a little more than subsistence. Mr. Nordhoff expresses his surprise to find, in the societies in Oregon, people satisfied with so little. There is an utter lack of what are called the amenities of life. They have few books, and care nothing for the news. The celibate societies—the Shakers and Rappists—have long been decreasing in numbers, and the neighbors of the latter are wondering what will become of their large property when the old people pass away, but they profess to expect a sign from the Lord. The Shakers take children to bring up, but do not succeed in keeping many of them after maturity. Of the other societies only the Eben-Ezers and Perfectionists are increasing in numbers. The latter are exceptional in assiduously seeking to make their life attractive by systematic amusements. An institution which after so many years numbers only 5,000 persons in all must be viewed as a social phenomenon rather than as a leaven likely to spread.—New York Times.

"Dr. Dobbs" on Majorities.

In the course of my travels in Antipode I was greatly impressed with the wisdom which seemed to characterize the decisions of all their public bodies. I noticed, too, the absence of all effort, on the part of speakers, to secure applause, or to court the popular favor. All the appeals were addressed to the reason and the conscience, rather than to selfishness or to prejudice. All this seemed to me strange and unfamiliar. I asked an explanation of a wise and elderly citizen. He replied: "Wait till you see the vote taken." So, the next public meeting at which I was present, I noticed that the great body of the audience voted "aye;" about half a dozen voted "no." The chairman at once said: "The noes have it, and the motion is lost." To my surprise, no one arose to dispute the count. Presently another vote was put. Here only two or three voted "aye," and all the rest "no." The chairman said: "The ayes have it; the motion is adopted." I saw the same thing take place several times.

Much perplexed, I repaired again to my friend, and asked once more for an explanation. He showed me the constitution of the country, in which I found the following provision: "All questions shall be decided by a vote of the minority." My looks asked for enlightenment. My friend said: "Do not the foolish and the selfish form a majority in every community?" I assented. "And are not the wise and good a minority in every country and city?" "Undoubtedly." "Was not Columbus in a minority of one when he set sail for the New World?" "No doubt." "Was not Galileo in a minority? Was not the majority against Copernicus and Jenner, and against every good and great man that the world has seen?" "Unquestionably." "Well," said he, "you have the whole matter in a nutshell. The fundamental law of our State, and of every society, literary, scientific, religious, is that the minority shall bear rule. We hold that mankind are apt to go like sheep, blindly, following some leader, who probably is no wiser than themselves. The very fact of their going in a mass we regard as proof that they have not reasoned it out. But when we see a handful willing to stand up by themselves against a vote next to unanimous we regard this as proof that they have thought over the matter for themselves, and that they have convictions. If there is but one in the minority, we feel absolutely certain that he has a mind of his own, and we reckon that a minority of one is the strongest vote that can be. Only one thing could be stronger, that is a minority of none. But the difficulty of ascertaining exactly in what direction the minority of none voted has led us to regard the one minority as the strongest that is at present practicable."

To the adoption of this simple principle," he said, "we owe all our harmony, our wisdom and our prosperity. You notice that the speakers address themselves to the few that have heads; not to the many who have none. Any speaker who should appeal to passion, or to short-sighted selfishness, would be pretty sure to find himself carrying a majority, and would infallibly be defeated."

"Sir," said I, "I am lost in admiration at the ingenuity, the simplicity and the effectiveness of your plan. I can but regret that it was not revealed to the men who formed the constitution of my own land. But I will spare no time or labor to secure the speedy adoption of this novel but grand feature."—National Baptist.

Religious Intelligence.

—The London City Mission has a corps of 152 agents, and spent on its work over $250,000 last year.

—The Queen of England is very greatly interested in the religion of the population along the English canals.

—It is reported that the old Kirk, and also the Free Church, of Scotland have opened missions on the Island of Cyprus.

—A Baptist council in Minnesota has declined to ordain a minister who denies the right of women to speak in meeting.

—Near the site of Jacob's Well, in the city of Samaria, Palestine, there is a Baptist Church with a congregation numbering a hundred.

—If so much has been done in the Sandwich Islands, in Madagascar, in Tahaiti, in Tonga, in Fiji, the work of God can be done anywhere.

—The death is announced of Professor Goering, of Leipsic. He was engaged in the completion of the third volume of his "Kritische Philosophie."

—The Catholic Archbishop Lavigerie has sent out a third party of ion missionaries for Central Africa. They will be escorted by a company of Papal Zouaves.

—The "Bethel" at Honolulu (in charge of the Rev. Mr. Damon) has become an important center of religious effort among the Chinese. Four thousand Chinese laborers found their way last year to the Islands. The Chinese Sunday service has become regular and well attended.

—The Rev. S. J. Whitmore of the London Missionary Society says that every missionary sent to the Pacific Islands creates before many years a trade worth $50,000 a year. This may be too high an estimate, but it certainly indicates an important fact.

—During the month of March, Messrs. R. L. and A. Stuart made a donation of $5,000 to the Presbyterian Board of Relief for disabled ministers and the widows and orphans of deceased ministers.

—The Western Branch of the W. F. M. S., reported at its last meeting 244 auxiliaries; 5 627 members; 66 life members; 2 honorary managers; 1,703 subscribers for the Heathen Woman's Friend.

—The Christian Advocate makes an earnest editorial appeal for Garrett Biblical Institute, which must be closed unless the church comes promptly to the rescue. The yearly expenses exceed the income from the endowment.

—A chapel has been opened in the village of Eversley, near London, so well known in connection with the life and labors of Charles Kingsley. Within the last twelve years twenty-five places have been opened for Methodist worship within a radius of as many miles from Aldershot.

—The accessions to the missions of the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel in the Madras district have risen to 24 379. Converts still continue to offer themselves, though not in such large numbers as at first. The bishop says he is doing all he can to continue and extend the movement.

—Thirty-five years ago not a single Protestant missionary was living within the bounds of the Chinese empire. Since then nine provinces have been occupied and at the twelve treaty ports by forty missionaries, and at the other nine provinces have been traversed by missionaries, while, of forty thousand nominal Chinese Christians, thirteen thousand are communicants.

—The Papuans of Southeast Cape, New Guinea, have poisoned six native Christian teachers of the London Missionary Society, by placing some noxious tree in their drinking water. Out of twenty men, women and children, landed in December by the missionary ship John Williams, three-fourths have already died by the act of the natives or from fever.

—Dr. Laws and party have returned in safety to Livingstonia from their tour on the west coast of Lake Nyassa. It is said that the number of natives settling at Livingstonia is constantly increasing, escaped slaves regarding it as a place of refuge. The results of Dr. Law's observations will probably be given in the next number of the Free Church Record.

—The Christian at Work says: "Results tell—they are the test, after all, as illustrated in the case of Rev. Dr. John Geddie, who had an epitaph which, in a few words, told the whole story of a long and laborious life. When he died on the Island of Aneityum, the people erected a tablet to his memory with this inscription:—

When he came here
THERE WERE NO CHRISTIANS
When he went away
THERE WERE NO HEATHEN.

Volumes could not speak more."

—The civil authorities of Prague, Austria, where missionaries of the American Board have maintained public services for more than a year, have, for some reason not assigned, directed that no more such meetings be held, under penalty of $50 fine or 20 days, imprisonment. The persons attending these meetings are only permitted to attend services of the churches recognized by the state. A Stupitz suit was brought against leading members of the congregation for holding conventicles. An appeal from an adverse decision was taken to the State Court in Prague, which has not yet been decided. There is very little that is encouraging in mission work in Austria. As in many other cases, the missionaries have to work on amidst obstacles and discouragements and feed on hope.

—The eighth report of the Free Church of Italy, of which Father Gavazzi is a prominent member, states that body has now 12 ordained ministers, 13 evangelists, 37 elders, 65 deacons, 14 deaconesses, 1 635 communicants, 183 catechumens, 588 Sabbath-school children, 1 205 pupils in day and night schools, 21 teachers in day-schools, 1,465 regular hearers of the gospel, 1,694 additional occasional hearers, 33 churches, large and small, and 30 out-stations more or less frequently visited. The contributions of the churches last year for evangelization amounted to 1,207 francs, while for all objects the sum collected was 8 735 francs. In the college at Rome there are 14 students—7 in the theological and 7 in the preparatory department. The students are taught English among their studies. The schools in Rome contain about 250 students. Father Gavazzi's church, on Saint Angelo Square, has an average congregation of about 200 and received 22 converts last year. The government recognized the church last year as a corporate body and gives 300 francs yearly to its schools in Rome.

—The annual report of the Madura Mission of the American Board, which lies in the district in which about 60,000 Hindoos renounced heathenism last year, states that, although the mission has not shared largely in this movement, yet the year has been one of prosperity. There are now in connection with it 109 congregations, an increase of 28. They consist of about 3,000 families and eleven thousand souls. Four hundred and thirty-three were received on profession. A number of the members of the congregations are described as non-heathen, who know little of Christianity and require patient instruction. The opinion is expressed that "the plan adopted by the mission in 1843 of enrolling such as have outwardly renounced heathenism or Romanism, and are willing to place themselves under Christian instruction, as members of regularly organized congregations, is the wisest." The system corresponds to the practice in all Christian countries; and it is true here, as there, that accessions to the church are almost wholly from the class which regularly enjoys religious instruction." The itinerancy, which is valued more and more, reached the inhabitants of about 100 villages.—Independent.

Our Young People.

SHOWER AND FLOWER.

Down the little drops patter,
Making a musical chatter,
Out of the clouds they throng
Freshness of heaven they scatter
Little dark mothers among.
Coming to visit you, Posies!
Open your hearts to us, Rosies!
That is the Raindrops' song.

Up the little seed rises,
Parts of all colors and sizes
Clamber up out of the ground.
Gently the blue sky surprises
The earth with that soft-rushing sound.
"Welcome!"—the brown bees are humming
"Come!" for we wait for your coming"—
Whisper the wild flowers around.

"Shower, it is pleasant to hear you"
"Flower, it is sweet to be near you"
This is the song everywhere.
Listen! the music will cheer you
Raindrop and blossom so fair
Gladly are meeting together
Out in the beautiful weather
Oh the sweet song in the air

—St. Nicholas.

Paper.

Do you keep a journal? Anyway, you write compositions, and how fine and white the paper is! Have you heard of papyrus? That was the very first kind of paper ever made. It is the name of a reed that used to grow in Egypt long, long ago.

The paper was made by peeling thin slices from the reeds. A number of these peelings were placed side by side on a board, and other strips were laid across them. Then they were wet with gum water, and hammered, smoothed and whitened in the sun. Sometimes they were made into rolls a hundred feet long. All the Egyptian books were written on this paper with the point of a reed dipped in ink.

Discoverers have found many rolls of papyrus covered with writing in the buried cities of Pompeii and Herculaneum.

Then came parchment. It is made of the dried skins of rabbits, calves or sheep. Often the skins have been soaked in water, the wool or hair is scraped off, the surfaces smoothed with a sharp knife, and the skins are stretched on frames, and dried. Papyrus was first used about two thousand years B. C., and parchment about fifteen hundred years later. During the first century the Chinese made paper from silk and a little later from cotton. In the seventh century Spain made good headway in the art by discovering that linen and cotton rags were better than the new or raw materials, as the former could be reduced to pulp much more readily than the latter. The first paper mill in England was built at Hereford at the end of the fifteenth century.

Before the erection of machinery for the purpose, the rags were made into pulp by softening them in water in a kind of mortar. Then the stamp mills were introduced, which pounded the rags with a heavy iron weight. But it was not until the invention of the paper machine by Louis Robert, of France, in 1799, that the manufacture of and demand for paper became very great. Improvements have been made, of course, but the main principles of this machine have not been changed. Let us see how paper is made now a-days.

In the first place, the rags are carefully sorted by women, on tables with sieve bottoms to allow the dust to fall through. The rags for the paper are cut into very small pieces by hand on a sharp knife fastened to the table. For common paper the rag-cutting machine is used. This machine has two revolving blades which just touch another blade called the bed knife. The cut rags are carried by bands to a large wire-covered cylinder, called the duster. Here they are shaken and tossed about till all the dust falls through the netting. Then comes the boiling process. Three thousand or four thousand pounds of rags are placed in a huge boiler and kept there about fifteen hours. They are then soft and ready for washing. The engine, as it is called, wherein the washing is done, is an oblong vat holding three hundred or four hundred pounds of rags. In the center of the engine and running the long way of it is a partition. As this does not go the entire length you can see that there is an endless passage way for the pulp half the width and the length of the machine. Water is put into the engine with the rags and around they go for three or four hours, sweeping under revolving knives every time they pass a certain point in the tank. The rags are constantly washing in pure water, as the dirty water passes through a wire cloth and is taken up and discharged by scoops. At this stage the rags are known as "half stuff." The "half stuff" is now bleached by adding a solution of chloride of lime. By raising a valve at the bottom of the engine the rags are emptied into a large "steep chest" in the room below. Here they remain for two or three days to give the lime a chance to act upon the whole of them, and then they are taken to the beating engine, which is a machine similar to the washing engine only in the former the knives are not so sharp. Here the chloride water is washed out and the fibers thoroughly separated.

This process takes five or ten hours, and in the case of bank note paper fifty or even seventy-five hours are often required. More water is now added to the "half stuff" until the whole mass is in a semi-liquid state. At this point it is ready for the paper machine. Before Robert's invention they made this pulp into sheets of paper by hand.—Christian Union.

Mexican Water-Carriers.

A Mexican water-carrier is always an oddly-dressed fellow. He looks something like the man some one met "one misty, moisty morning," who was all clothed in leather. He has a leather cap, jacket and trousers, the last reaching only to his knees, and held aside with bright buttons of silver, so as to show the white cotton drawers beneath. Down the front of his jacket, too, and around the rim of his cap, are bright buttons. Fastened at his side is a leather wallet holding his money. On his feet are leather sandals. Over his head are two stout leather straps, holding two jugs of earthenware, one resting on his back and the other hanging in front.

He begins work early in the morning. If you go into any of the public squares in the city of Mexico, you will then see a great many of them all seated around the stone basin and busy preparing for the day's work. They reach far over the edge and, dipping up the water, fill their large jug. Throwing that on their backs they reach down once more and fill the smaller one, and then trot off and visit the different houses of the city, and sell the families what water they want.

You would say, perhaps, it was a heavy load to carry by the head and neck, but the carrier does not seem to mind it, for he is very strong, and the jugs just balance each other. It is said an Englishman was once told of this balance and, to see if it were so, he waited until a carrier came along and then, with his cane, broke one of the jugs. Alas! down came the man, jugs and all; his balance surely was gone.

Water has to be brought about in this manner because none runs into the houses by lead pipes, as with us. It all comes from near the old castle of Chapultepec, three or four miles from the city.

It runs over great stone aqueducts, built by Cortes, and when it reaches the public squares, falls into the stone basins of the city. So, you see, it makes these carriers almost like our milkmen, only they do not come with a fine horse and carriage, and do not make nearly as much money. They only get a few cents each day. How hard they work, too! Busy from morn till eve, always earnest, hardly ever smiling, always on a little Indian trot, they go about from house to house, and then, when the day's work is over, what a life they lead!

They have no home to go to, either; they live in the streets, sleep in the gutter or on the cathedral stone steps, and often, I fear, get so befogged on "pulque" the national drink, that they care not whether they have a home and good bed or not.

Think what a miserable existence, not knowing how to read, dressing as those before them did three hundred years ago, and doing nothing but carrying water about the city. Every day they will go into the great cathedral and say their prayers. They put their jugs down beside them, clasp their hands, raise their eyes to the image of their patron saint, and mumble their requests or their thanks, and then, taking a last look at the gold candlesticks and rich ornaments, will hurry away and continue their hard, uninteresting daily labors.—Wide Awake.

Correct Speech in Children.

Nothing bespeaks a true lady and gentleman or well bred child more than the use of correct language, pure, clean speech. Cultivate, my young friends, good English in every-day conversation. Unclean speech is in keeping with a smutty face, begrimed hands and soiled clothes. Strange how easily and almost unconsciously some slides into a careless, slipshod way of talking, even when the rules of grammar are quite familiar. It is not uncommon to find people learned in all the rules of syntax who apply them to the art of writing, yet habitually talk incorrectly.

Early culture and association with refined persons are quite essential to give purity to speech; but if one has unfortunately been deprived of these he should continually watch his words till he gets to the habit of using decent English, for nothing so unmistakably marks one with vulgarity, no matter how elegant is the outside covering, as shabby, low-born speech.

Not long since the young folks belonging to several families in a certain neighborhood who had frequent intercourse with each other, entered into an agreement to pay a small forfeit every time either of them made use of certain vulgarisms in speech that had become a habit with them. Old and young, large and small, soon became interested and entered into the compact. All had fallen into the habit, for false syntax is contagious, and spreads through whole communities when it once breaks out, and one of its worst phases is that people are affected by it without knowing it.

For a time the treasury, the contents of which, by the way, was given to charitable purposes, was pretty full. Each one was a self-appointed monitor. The plan caused considerable fun, but, what is better, completely cured the bad habit. I doubt if in that circle the horrid word "a'n't" or "wont," or "have got" are ever heard, or "done" for did." And their conversation is seldom embellished with "you know," "now a" "I tell you what," "of course," and the like, or with high-sounding superlatives where only the moderate positives have any meaning.

As much as I dislike slang, even what is termed the better sort of it, which, by the way, should be used very sparingly if at all, apt as it sometimes seems, I dislike these specimens of false syntax, these vulgarisms, more, and they should be carefully watched lest they creep in and spoil fair speech.

I would recommend to my young friends who have frequent intercourse with each other the formation of such a club as I have been describing for mutual benefit. My word for it, it is a marvelous corrector of false syntax, and the rules might extend to other bad habits, and so be constituted a reform club.

Tom: "My father's so tall he can look over the garden wall." Jack: "So can my father, with his hat on."

The Christian Advocate.

ORGAN OF THE ALABAMA, MISSISSIPPI AND LOUISIANA CONFERENCES OF THE M. E. CHURCH, SOUTH.

THURSDAY, MAY 22, 1879.

REV. LINUS PARKER, D. D., Editor.

OFFICE.—112 CAMP ST., NEW ORLEANS.

Speaking the Truth in Love.

Controversy, even among religious people, is nearly always attended with more or less of bitterness. In it the contestants are not sufficiently careful to speak the truth, or what they believe to be the truth. Bad passions are aroused by opposition, and anger, wrath and malice are too frequently engendered. John Fletcher, in his polemical disputations, always maintained a Christian temper, but we cannot say as much for Toplady. Both were equally sincere, but, however it might have been in regard to the doctrines discussed, the victory of temper was with Fletcher. Luther was often harsh and coarse, Melancthon was keen, and also sweet and kind. We may admire the strength and honesty of Calvin, but his stern and sometimes cruel severity repel us. It is clear that men may be sincere, tremendously in earnest, and be without love. With strong and honest convictions they speak, but the law of kindness is not on their lips. Truth may be the theme, and yet it may be presented in a manner that robs it of all its attractions. "The sweetness of the lips increaseth learning." In dealing with doctrine, and in condemning sin, fearful truths must be stated and enforced, but can we do these things in a tender and loving spirit? Much depends on the motive. Is it to benefit and save, or is there not sometimes a spirit of impatience, and a feeling that the perverse are scarcely worthy of our pity and compassion?

Evidently it is not enough that we say the truth, and that we say it from the depths of honest conviction. The spirit in which we speak is scarcely less important than the truth itself. The truth that wins is that which is spoken in love. This is the element of power in the gospel. It is a revelation of truth, embracing divine law, the condemnation of sin, and threatenings and wrath against sinners, but it would be powerless to influence men if it were not for the love that is manifest in the cross. As God speaks to us, He speaks the truth in love. This is the magnet that draws sinners to Christ, and it is the force that moves and reforms the world. The convincing effect of an argument depends greatly upon the spirit in which it is delivered. Truth without love, so far from sanctifying and saving, will often arouse obstinate prejudice and persistent rejection. Its convincing and persuasive power depends upon the spirit of love in which it is proclaimed. Parental authority must not be relaxed, instruction and counsel must be diligently given, and yet, if love does not irradiate them, the child will go astray, and the shadows of an irreparable calamity will rest upon the home. Lack of love in family government is a greater defect than lack of firmness and neglect of instruction. How to be faithful and loving at the same time should be the study of parents who would bring up their children in "the nurture and admonition of the Lord."

Truth is mighty, but its might grows out of the love in which it is attired. It will prevail, because it is the expression of love, and because the fountain of all truth is also love. Truth may be uttered, and often is, in a spirit of hate and envy, and bitter enmity. Communities, churches and societies are arrayed in animosity against each other, and the opposing parties are alike zealous for the truth. Sectional, partisan and sectarian feelings are in the ascendant. It is hard for either side to make a deliverance free from prejudice and passion. No good can ever come of such disputes. With love eliminated men can never be convinced or reconciled. The truth may be on our side, but it will be little better than a lie for the purpose of bringing about harmony and peace. Northern men may write about the South, and Southern men may write about the North, but as long as their pens are dipped in gall there will be nothing but increased alienation. Zeal for the truth is of little value in itself when charity does not guide and control. There is a wide difference between the Spirit of Christ and that of Jehu.

Love would not put an end to differences of opinion, but, if the truth were always spoken in love, there would be an end to acrimony, and to nearly all the evils growing out of these differences. Love, however, is a clarifier of the mental vision, and its prevalence in speech would greatly limit the grounds of conflict. It would rule out everything of a personal, selfish and sectional character; it would put away angry and harsh tempers, and rash and prejudiced judgments, and the pure light of truth would have a better chance to reach the understanding. Men do not often quarrel about truth that is held and uttered in love. As men are constituted, we do not see how they can ever be perfectly agreed in opinion here, but love will greatly help to this result, and take the sting and venom out of all human controversy.

Besides, we must speak the truth in love if we would be sure of possessing the truth. As an element of character, it is apt to slip away from those who advocate it in a wrong spirit. Love is the preserver of the truth in us. Speaking the truth in uncharitableness opens the way to perversion of the truth, to duplicity, and finally to falsehood. Hence it is that partisan and religious bigotry, in its advocacy of opinions, always overlooks or distorts facts, takes a one-sided view of every question that comes up, and makes its dupes utterly unreliable. A conscience for truth is lost whenever misrepresentation, calumny and exaggeration are permitted. In politics, in religion, and in other regions of controversy, this moral degredation is common. From a wrong spirit men pass to false expedients, and to low and mean considerations, until at length the truth is not in them. They do not tell the truth in love, and they do not tell the truth at all.

There is no richer possession of the human soul than the truth in love, no jewel of brighter luster that burns and flushes in the beams of the divine approval. To speak the truth in love is the crowning glory of the lips, and an eloquence which angel-tongues can rival, but never excel.

Our Domestic Missions.

It is doubtless right that foreign missions should hold the chief place in the esteem of the church, but at the same time the claims of domestic missions should not be disparaged. Under our present plan each Conference must take care of its own destitute fields. In the Methodist Episcopal Church, and in nearly all other churches, domestic missions are placed on the same footing as foreign, in that they are subject to a connectional control, and are supported by appropriations from a general fund. As matters are with us, the strong Conferences do not aid the weak. The poorer and feebler Conferences often have more missionary ground than the others, but they are cut off from all connectional aid and sympathy. This is a defect that we hope may be remedied some day. We have no connectional tie in our domestic mission work, no church extension society, no church sustentation fund.

In weak Conferences, with large mission fields in their bounds, the work is sadly neglected, and our progress as a church is greatly retarded. In many of these Conferences there are extensive regions densely populated, in which the gospel is not heard. This is the case especially in Louisiana, and in some parts of the Alabama Conference. There is need that we duly estimate the value of this work, and that the collections for domestic missions be not neglected. If double the amount raised last year were to be collected, we should still be short of anything like an adequate support for missions organized, and for those that ought to be formed. In the Louisiana Conference we raise about eight hundred dollars for domestic missions, and it would take as many thousands to meet the demands.

Our people in this and in other Conferences are not doing their duty in the support of domestic missions. There are scattered sheep all over these States without shepherds, and neighborhoods and communities as destitute and ignorant as some of the provinces of China. To save them from lawless barbarism, and to save them from death, these people must have the gospel.

Our domestic missions where wisely organized, and vigorously and liberally prosecuted, become self-supporting in a few years, and strengthen the whole church.

It is a matter of urgency that we press the claims of our domestic missions, and, as each Conference is made responsible for the work within its territory, the basis of an effective appeal is not wanting. Let us, however, guard against any semblance of unfavorable comparison or competition with the interests of foreign missions. There is no conflict and no friction between them. One is not to be advocated at the expense, nor to the disparagement of the other. Both lines must be effectively manned, and the battle be pushed with equal vigor at home and abroad. The same principle underlies the whole work of Christ. The constraining love of Christ, and a complete consecration, are the only need of the church. We have the money, if we only believed it.

We make this appeal now for domestic missions, because many of our missionaries in the field are needy—they are suffering for the necessaries of life, and they are entitled to relief. And because as a church, for lack of means, we are not advancing and occupying the ground within our own borders. There are parishes and counties within easy reach, where the people are left to perish for lack of knowledge. Men are plenty. Nearly every Conference has a surplus—a thing that could not be in our Southern and Western Conferences if we had the means of occupying the waste places. Perhaps none of us are as much troubled about this as we ought to be. The facts call for prayer, fasting and self searching. It may be that neither Bishops nor preachers are fully awake to the lamentable destitution in the home-work, but we believe that next to the baptism of the Holy Spirit, and a super-abounding love, the great need is a reasonable liberality in giving.

Midway.

"Half threescore years and ten!
Good-by now fond Illusion
Thou comrade of young years."

Most people recognize the fact of middle age with a start of surprise and decided disapprobation. It is as though the thing had been thrust upon them all unawares, and a disagreeable and unwelcome verity it remains. With something of indignation we see ourselves set aside as old folks, when we feel we have but lately passed the charmed spot

"Where the brook and river meet."

Thirty-five certainly seems younger than it ever did before, and farther removed from seventy. To be sure, we cannot laugh as easily as we once did, and things which were full of zest seem somewhat stale.

Be that as it may, the fact is reluctantly received, and no wonder the glamour of morn and the reposeful, star-sown stillness of evening are alike more spiritual than this noon-day. If there is any spot on the journey more thoroughly steeped in the essence of common-place than another, this is it. "Sea is sea, and sky is sky"—illusions are departed forever; utility is the summum bonum; per cent. the most thrilling poetry. The drear penalty of experience, anxious forelooking and foreboding is the inevitable ingathering of "half threescore years and ten."

Up through the glory-land of youth, all glowing and expectant and inspired, we have hurried. Oh! what raptures and what divinities awaited us just before! Life but a sum of moon-crowned nights and radiant days, all dreams and gold; each voice from out their charmed hours a syren or a song, lulling or enrapturing. The journey thus far has been all too swift. Back among the vanishings lies all the charm. Now, naked from every vestige of that misty enveloping, we come forth, and down into hot, busy noon-day, glaring with steady and disenchanting stare upon us—cruel iconoclast!

O thou all-recompensing Law of Compensation! We need thy vaunted aid, that we may forget that fair land we have left, with its serene and starry radiance, its divine infinitus of joy, its grand and grandly-trusted promises.

Fulfill them unto us, we beseech! "There are gains for all our losses." Therefore we look about to see is there anything whereof to be glad still.

Unmistakable crows' feet (among the least of our grievances) gather where the dimples were. A blase sensation of weariness; a very literal and unadorned rendering of affairs; a mild contempt for the "gushing" of sweet sixteen and there about; a supreme indifference to moonlight or sunshine, save for utilitarian purposes; these we may hastily count up among our questionable gains. But for the compensation.

Yes, down among the flowery memories, embalmed in richest perfumes, is a young love, so tender, so fair, but all untried—the sweetest thing in life; with its thrillings and its throbbings, its mysterious responsiveness and exquisite rapture. How it has grown and changed while the days were going by! How deep, and calm, and serene are the eyes, and how steady the strong beat of the heart! A look, too, as of that which has passed through deep waters; and the firm clasp of hand with hand in stemming the current has made the sinews iron. Made perfect through suffering, "tried and true," is the mark upon its forehead.

Ah! fair dawn. Love, we would not change with you. Give us the tested gold, the safe old love of noon-day.

Wandering on in warmest light, gathering joys like flowers, and binding them in gay garlands to our brows, suddenly over the land came a blackness of darkness, and from out the heart is snatched its most tender nursling, while all the life chords hang torn and bleeding. We would it were unto death, but it is not. The dearth left is for all time—there is no recompense for that—yet in the aching void has grown up a something worthy the soil watered by such tears.

Could we spare these bitterest lessons of life? How they soften and open the heart, while the shadow becomes a halo, like the aureole of a saint, around those holy sorrows from whence the thorn is taken! Thus in the store-houses of experience, what rich treasures there must be! All the years have brought their added wealth, leading by ways we knew not, out of desolation into consolation; from blossoms only, into fruitage more precious than the golden apples of the Hesperides.

Our gains, carefully counted, we find are somewhat.

"But when youth, the dream, departs,
It takes something from our hearts,
And it never comes again!"

It is well so, since this is not our rest. Did not these earth-born pleasures pall on the taste, where could grow the hungering after those better and more enduring? Wisely and tenderly the Father's hand takes away our joy in one thing after another, until there is left but one—

"To depart, which is far better"— when the light fades softly out of the evening sky, and the weary rest

E.

Watchman, What of the Night?

The helpless, hopeless condition of China as depicted in my last letter is a reality, and to my mind constitutes the strongest possible appeal to Christian nations for that sympathy and effectual assistance which they alone can give. Not only so; the very fact that her condition is an extreme one, after long and exhaustive experience of many false systems, is the surest evidence that the fullness of the time in her case has come, and that the church by promptly using the opportunity can make the present the accepted time, the set time, the day of salvation.

Everything points unmistakably in that direction. From north to south, from east to west, in the interior and throughout its whole extent, the country is practically open to missionary enterprise. Buddhism and Taoism no longer satisfy the popular craving for religion. Their temples, for the most part, are in ruins, and their priests scattered in every direction as mendicants. Insurrection, war and famine have to a great degree broken the power of idolatry, and the people shepherdless, and, as it were, lost, seem to be wandering in search of hope and succor. Confucianism alone, as expressed in ancestral worship, and in its ethico-political code, still maintains anything like a hold on the heart of the nation. It has the intellect, the thought and the literature of the country, and is still animated by a belief in its own superiority. But even this, in the presence of Western civilization, and a religion with higher sanctions, and a purer morality, and, moreover, adapted to prince and peasant, is beginning to feel its grasp relaxed by the very necessities which require the government to readjust its whole machinery to meet the demands of its newly-accepted foreign relations. And not only so, a conviction is abroad that China cannot longer maintain her position as a great power in the East unless she speedily divest herself of every weight and hinderance that detains her in the race upon which she is now forced to start. Already we see her giving up, though reluctantly, many of her most cherished ideas and conceits. The world is moving, she finds, and she, too, must move, or, like India and Turkey, be crushed under the wheels of a progress she cannot stop nor longer delay. This conviction portends revolution, the signs of which are even now patent, as the shadows of coming events usually are, and the government is already wisely preparing to break its violence by setting itself in motion, not against or contrary, but with and in favor of the oncoming tide of progress. Hence it has selected and sent abroad for instruction the future rulers of the country; hence at home it has established institutions of learning for the acquisition of foreign sciences and languages; hence, too, it is encouraging the translation and publication of numerous works on history and geography, and, latterly, has begun to avail largely of the periodical press as a means of diffusing knowledge among the officials and people, thus preparing them for the inevitable events of the near future. These things are wholly incompatible with the policy commonly ascribed to China, and tend directly to hasten the changes which they foretell, and are intended to anticipate. Indeed, now is the beginning of the time referred to by Wunsiang, the Chinese prime minister, when addressing Sir Rutherford Alcock, British Minister at Peking, he said: "You now complain of our slow progress, but the time will soon come when you will be heard to say: 'Hold! not so fast.'"

From whichever standpoint, therefore, the religious or the political, we view the aspects of the situation in China, we shall see nothing but opportunity, opportunity inscribed everywhere.

Opportunity as wide as the field, and as various as the needs of its helpless millions. Opportunity to preach in city and country; to establish schools of all grades and kinds; to circulate books and tracts; to reach the seclusion of the family; to scale the pride of the literati, and gain access to the very citadel of the nation. In a word, opportunity to satisfy to the utmost the Chinese craving for religion by bringing them back to God through the gospel of Christ; establishing peace and harmony by substituting for a disintegrating selfishness the love of God and humanity; and bringing again the prosperity of the country by expelling from its borders the tyranny and delusions of ignorance, and restoring to man his rightful supremacy of nature.

These are the "signs of promise," and they are real and true, not the projections of a too ordeal enthusiasm, or the wild report of an over-zealous watchman. To the Christian Church an opportunity to do good implies a corresponding obligation, and where the opportunity is so vast, as in this case, there must be an obligation equally comprehensive.

Behold, then, the magnitude of the field, the greatness of the harvest, and the disparity of labor. Truly the harvest is great, but the laborers are few. Pray ye, therefore, the Lord of the harvest to send forth more laborers.

YOUNG J. ALLEN.

SHANGHAI, CHINA, Feb 19, 1879.

An English Temperance Talk.

The cause of temperance is steadily growing in England. Our Wesleyan brethren are forming temperance societies in connection with their circuit work. Cannon Farrar's sermon, recently published, on the vow of the Rechabites, is a strong appeal to the reason and consciences of British Christians and philanthropists. The total abstinence question is as yet treated very conservatively and the principles of it are held by advanced temperance men in a spirit of fairness and of tolerance. We clip from the London Watchman the following address—one of several—delivered at a meeting of a temperance society connected with York, Wesleyan, Circuit:

The Rev. Benjamin Heller, of Headingley College, who spoke in effect as follows: What do we concede to the non-abstainers? I concede that they can be very good Christians and very good Methodists without being teetotallers. When I tell you that my teetotalism is only about three and a half years old, you will not expect that I shall pronounce a censure which would condemn as very foolish or very wicked the greater part of my own life. Not only so; some of the very best and holiest men I have ever known have been non-abstainers. I concede all that to you. What are you disposed to concede to us? Well, I think at all events you must concede this, that it is quite lawful for us to be total abstainers. I do not think it is quite safe to rely upon the case of the Nazarites, because they were teetotallers for a limited time; but they were teetotallers by Divine direction. You have the example of Samson, who was a life-long teetotaller by Divine direction. He was not a very wise man at all times, but you must all agree that he was a very strong man. Many of the inferior creatures—such as elephants, horses, &c., are strong, and they are all strong without intoxicating drink. You may say that there is a great difference between horses and men. Very true. But the point we are talking about is that of physical strength; and if animals can be strong without alcohol, why should it be necessary for human creatures? We have also the example of John the Baptist, of whom the Master said, "Among them that are born of women there hath not arisen a greater" than he. Perhaps some of you will say, "What of the greatest example of all? What have you to say about the Lord Jesus Christ? Was He a teetotaller?" That is a fair question to ask, and I will meet it fairly. I don't believe He was. Some of my teetotal friends may not be pleased with me for saying that; but that is my conviction, and I will never be so foolish or so dishonest as to support what I believe to be a good cause by an unsound argument. (Hear, hear.) I know what use may be made of that. It may be said, "If I am as good as my Master in that respect, I am content." That argument had force with me for many years. Now, if we could persuade everybody to be like the Master in all respects, nothing could be better. But I have this conviction, that there are some men who have no chance of being like the Master at all, unless they become total abstainers. (Hear, hear.) Twenty-five years ago I held in my arms a sweet innocent child, whom I baptized. I never heard anything touching the subsequent history of that child until yesterday, when I happened to meet with his father. On asking him how his boy was getting on, that father said, "You see me prematurely aged because of the trouble that my son has brought upon me. More than once he has nearly drunk himself into the grave. I have watched him, nursed him, seen him brought back to life again, only to go again to his evil way. Some months ago, by a miracle of grace, he was converted—saved, and he began to seek the salvation of others, and not in vain. But a short time ago he began to taste the drink again, and you know that for him that means drunkenness. For my son there is no middle path between total abstinence and drunkenness." You will not be surprised when I tell you that that father is a total abstainer, and that he never allows wine or spirits to be in his house. The great question with us must be, Does the Master approve? If those of you who are non-abstainers can satisfy your conscience that the Master approves your holding your present position rather than another, all right. But if I am satisfied that the Master approves the course which I take in this case better, then I have no option. And I am sure He does; because the value of every course in the sight of the Master is judged by the motive that prompts it. And this motive will be approved, not only by the Master, but by all sound-thinking men who are not total abstainers. Mr. Heller illustrated this by a reference to the circumstance under which the late Dr. Guthrie became a teetotaller, and to the testimony which that great and good man bore to the effects of total abstinence after an experience of many years—viz., "I am clearer in my head; I am lighter in my heels; and I am heavier in my pocket." Some might say, "I should like to follow Dr. Guthrie's example, but if I were to become a teetotaller I should injure my health." "Well, now," continued the speaker, "I don't want to say extravagant things, but I fully believe that in ninety-nine cases out of a hundred even a moderate drinker would be no worse in health, but a great better, if he gave up alcohol altogether. (Hear, hear.) This idea that a glass of spirits or wine or beer is necessary to health is in many cases simply a baseless superstition. I used to think that a glass of brandy and water would keep the cold out. But it has been proved that the effect of taking alcohol is actually to lower the temperature of the body. Dr. Canes conducted an Arctic expedition on teetotal principles, and he brought back every one of his men alive and in good health. The teetotallers live the longest is proved by the statistics of insurance societies." After giving evidence of this, Mr. Heller went on to speak of England as compared with other countries with respect to the sin of temperance in the use of intoxicating drinks and closed with a powerful appeal in favor of the society which that meeting was intended to inaugurate.

Fred. Douglass has a tolerably level head on the negro migration. In a lecture, recently delivered at Baltimore, he says:

I have been asked if I am in favor of my people leaving the South and going North. I do not believe in the wisdom of the movement. We have been more unsettled by schemes of colonization and emigration than from any other cause. First Hayti, then Jamaica, were our Canaan. Next came Nicaragua, and that would have been a "Niggeragua," while Liberia has been a standing land of Canaan. I am against this going. The moral and social power, though invisible, is being to the manner born. The men who made Rome worth going to see were the men who staid there. If we could stay in the South in slavery, we can stay now. We have advantages there which we could have nowhere else. Our people in the South have a monopoly of the labor market. They are the arm, the muscle and the hand, with the vantage ground of the constitution behind them, men sympathizing with them in every State, and the power to say: "Give us fair wages, or your fields will go untilled." In the North and West they will have no such advantage. They will be confronted by Irishmen, Germans and Chinese, who can do all kinds of labor, even to handling the wood-saw and whitewash brush. If the negro has not wit and wisdom enough to combine for higher wages in the South, where will his sagacity be when he goes North? Capital is not divested of its central attribute there—that of getting labor as cheaply as it can. If you go North you will have to take yourself with you—your qualities, your efficiencies and deficiencies. Sympathy may be yourself for a time, but it will soon change into contempt, scorn and detestation, unless you become self-supporting and self-sustaining.

I dread the influence that will come by emptying thousands of uninstructed people, covered with rags, in a Northern community, thus making our enemies say these are the men whom Radical rule would place over the Southern white men. The South knows us. It does not shrink from our rags, because it used to keep us in them. There is not much fear, however, that the movement will continue, and I do not wish to see among us the creation of that detestable class from whom we are now so free—tramps.

We will never change our relations to the white people until we become more economical, stick to our employment, and live within our means. If you do, people will respect you. Other races, notably the Jews and the Quakers, worse situated than you are, have fought their way up. The question is, will the colored man be as good a servant to himself as he was to his master? We must be truthful and non-eat. We are religious, and want to shun the wrath to come, but what we need is absolute truthfulness of character. A lie is only intended to deceive, and when it ceases to fulfill its purpose it is of no value to the liar. Slavery taught us to steal, but we know it was wrong, and destroys the motive of those around to acquire anything. The pulpit must not keep us on the highway of Apocalyptic vision, but on the rock of practical righteousness. I want, when I lay down my life, to say that I have seen my people once ignorant, now intelligent; once degraded, now elevated; once despised, now honored. I see the elements at work for us, and in every bar of iron, every ship and locomotive, the electric wire and the telephone, here are certain signs of the ultimate success of our race in this mighty nations.

Our veteran cotemporary, the editor of the St. Louis Christian Advocate, in the issue of May 14 commenting on the negro emigration, says:

But what will these grave prognosticators say when they learn—should it ever come to their ears—that already these negroes are returning to the South in detachments as large as went to Kansas. Last week a number—some say 78 others say 140—passed down on one boat, and, as they passed, they gave Kansas a twofold worse name than they had ever given to the South, declaring their prospects for oppression and suffering there were greater than ever before, and that the mass of those who had gone would return just as soon as they could. What will these ove-joyed writers say to that? These negroes are their witnesses, and we say nothing as to their credibility. But what sensible man supposes that it 100 or 500 000 of them were to leave the South permanently their places would no soon be supplied by other laborers? Is not labor, like other exchangeable things, regulated by the supply and demand? Besides, two or three fifths of those who have lately gone to Kansas, because of their youth or extreme age, are unable to support themselves, and must be supported by others; and we are entirely willing our Northern friends should assist.

Some of these papers have sneered at an intimation, early given in this paper, that political intrigue had much to do with this exodus; but, if put to the test, we will undertake to prove that men have been hired and paid to go into the South and labor to induce the negroes to leave. We do not write at random, or without knowing what we write about.

There is but little cause for any great joy or great grief over these matters. In the very necessities of the case they will sooner or later adjust themselves, or be adjusted by the necessities that press us. The negro is not a white man; the white man is not a negro, and in the end it will be ascertained that it is more difficult to regulate the labor question among the whites than among the colored. It avails nothing for people to take leave of their common sense, and talk and write as many are doing.

The Plan of Episcopal Visitations for 1879 were published last week. It will be seen that Bishop Pierce has a large and laborious district, from which we infer that his health is decidedly better. Bishops Palne and Kavanaugh have small districts—the former three, the latter four Conferences. Owing to advancing years, it is due them that their burdens should be lightened. As usual, our patronizing Conferences are thrown together—Alabama and Mississippi at the same date, and Louisiana one week in advance of them. This we greatly regret, but perhaps it could not be helped. We have thought it would be advisable to hold some of the Conferences in the spring, instead of crowding them all into four months. They might, with advantage, be distributed through eight months of the year, and thus avoid hurry, over work of the Bishops, and give the representatives of the various church interests a chance. By such a distribution our episcopacy would not need strengthening for several quadrennial periods. There would be some inconveniences attending this plan for awhile, but things would soon adjust themselves. As to the finances, it makes little difference when the Conference is held, provided it be uniformly at the same season of the year. Where the vicious custom of leaving the collections and the raising of the preachers' salary till the end of the year prevails, it does make a difference. But with more systematic and uniform methods, the whole year being embraced, there would be little trouble.

For the past three months the congregation of the Carondelet Street Church, of this city, have been worshiping in the basement, while the upper part of the house has been undergoing repairs. The auditorium has been freshly frescoed, the walls being painted in oil, the organ has been removed from the gallery and placed in the recess back of the pulpit, and the pulpit has been remodeled and brought out several feet in front. The appearance is very beautiful, and everything is in excellent taste. The outside of the house has also been cleaned and painted, and put in perfect order. Some changes have also been made in the lighting of the house, and in a number of minor details. Last Sunday services were conducted up stairs, and all seemed delighted with the work of renovation and improvement. The pastor, Rev. Dr. Walker, informs us that the work has cost about $2,500.

Rev. J. M. Beard, pastor of our church in Algiers, Fifth District of New Orleans, informs us that the church edifice has been painted, outside and in, that new fences have been built, and that everything is now bright and clean, from the foundations to the spire.

Rev. James A. Ivy, agent of the Southwestern Bible Society, returned on Monday last from a trip through the northern part of Louisiana. He reports the District Conference at Delhi as a pleasant and profitable meeting. Rev. C. W. Carter presided. The country appears to be prosperous. Considerable interest was manifested in the Bible cause. Rev. B. F. Alexander has been appointed presiding elder of the Delhi district by Bishop McTyeire, in the place of Bro. Cobb, deceased.

The trial of Dr. Talmage by the Brooklyn Presbytery has come to an end, and the charges against him were not sustained. And here the matter ends, although it will be long before the scenes and disclosures of the trial will be forgotten.

The second open-air reunion of the New Orleans Sunday-School Association will be held at the United States Barracks on Saturday, May 24. The exercises promise to be very entertaining and instructive.

See notice on the eighth page of the commencement exercises of East Mississippi Female College. But for our quarterly meetings we should try to be there. It will be an occasion of rare interest.

We take this summary of Publishing House business, says the Nashville Christian Advocate, from the Nashville Daily American of May 11:

From June 1, 1878, to May 1, 1879, the aggregate amount of business done was $100 000; cash receipts, $107 977. The interest on the bonded debt has been paid regularly, as well as all the running expenses. There are abundant evidences that the house will be amply able to pay the interest on the $300 000 of four per cent. bonds, and provide a sinking fund. Under the present management the business has steadily increased.

Of the $79 000 of the $300,000 of Indebtedness unprovided for, and to be provided for, $40,000 is in bonds, the remaining $39 000 being a debt for which the creditor has no security.

The circulation of all the publications has increased to a gratifying extent. The circulation of the Christian Advocate has increased from 7 000 to 12,348; the Sunday-School Magazine to 13,500; Little People to 75,000; the Visitor to 30,000; Lesson Quarterly to 111 000.

An edition of 45 000 of the new song book—"New Life"—was sold in April, and another edition is being rapidly disposed of. It is the work of Prof McIntosh. The management of the house have adopted the sensible policy of paying as they go, and making no new debts. There ought not to be any trouble about counting the subscriptions to the $79 000 in bonds required to close the transaction of converting the $300 000 of indebtedness into that amount of four per cent bonds, and it ought to be done by the friends of the house within the next two months, so that it will not be forced to ask further indulgence of its creditors.

Several of our leading business men have already made subscriptions to the loan.

Periodicals.

—The Theological and Homiletic Monthly for May has a fine table of contents. This publication, under the conduct and editorship of Dr. Sledd, is steadily improving, and should be largely patronized by our preachers and people. It is an enterprise that reflects honor and credit upon our church. Table of contents: 1 Dogmatic Theology, by Bishop David S. Doggett, D. D. 2 The Election of Grace. 3. Responsibility. 4. God a Postulate of Reason, by Prof J. P. Lacroix. 5 The Demands of the Pulpit and Press, by Rev. J. E. Edwards, D. D. 6. The Three Poorest Sermons, by Rev. C. F. Deems, D. D. 7. The Death of Joseph, by Rev. Paul Whitehead. 8. A Study in Isaiah, chapter 53, by Rev. E. E. Hoss. 9. Immediate Effect of the Word, a sermon by Rev. Lee Rosser, D. D. 10 Exposition of Matthew, chapter 28; 18-20, by Rev. J. H. Brunner, D. D. 11 Saul—Who is Called Paul—Acts, chapter 13, verse 9, by Dr. Lange. 12. Editorial Miscellany.

—Vanderbilt Austral is the title of a neat monthly, published in the interests of the students of Vanderbilt University, Nashville, Tenn. Like all college folk, the Austral enjoys an annual vacation, and is only published from September to June inclusive. We wish it a brilliant and useful career.

—The Southern Cultivator for May has been received.

—Frank Leslie's Sunday Magazine for June opens with The Story of a Tenement House, and then follow articles in such numbers that we cannot give the titles. This number closes the fifth volume, and contains an index and title page, so that subscribers can have the volume bound. It will make a valuable and entertaining book.

—The Magazine of Art for May abounds in choice illustrations of scenery, and some of the most celebrated works of art. The articles on art subjects are well written and very instructive. The Magazine of Art is published by Cassell, Petter & Galpin, London, Paris and New York. Price, $2 75 per annum.

—The Southern Musical Journal for May has been received. This publication is one of the best in its line, always filled with music of the choicest kind, and with musical literature. Published by Ludden & Bates, Savannah, Ga.

MARRIED.

SHELBY—STONE.—At the residence of the bride's mother near Port Gibson, Miss., April 23, 1879, by Rev John A. B. Jones, Mr. Wm. L. Shelby, and Miss Mollie C. Stone.

COLLINS—GATES.—At the residence of the bride's father, Mr. J. H. Gates, May 13, 1879, by Rev. J. M. Wrems, Mr. J. W. Collins to Miss C. M. Gates, all of Clarke county, Miss.

Publisher's Department.

While we continue to do our best to exclude fraudulent advertisements from the ADVOCATE, parties must judge for themselves as to the real value of the goods advertised. In ordering please mention the ADVOCATE.

SPECIMEN COPIES

of the ADVOCATE will be mailed when desired, to facilitate agents in securing subscribers. Pastors will confer a favor by announcing this fact and forwarding names to the publisher.

THE air of perfection, cleanliness and home-like comfort which is so apparent at the American House, Boston, is one of the characteristic features of that well-regulated establishment. To those disposed to economize this popular hotel offers an opportunity seldom found at so thoroughly a first class house, having reduced its rates to $3 and $3 50 per day.

W. C. SHEPARD & CO.—Fruit jars Mason pints, $1; quarts, $1 25; two quarts, $1 50 per dozen; American China dinner sets $15 $18. Equal in looks and usefulness as French China. 19

CRESCENT INSURANCE COMPANY. The statement of this reliable old company will be seen on this page. It is one of the best in the South; well managed, and its officers are gentlemen of high standing in the community.

LEATHER AND SHOE FINDINGS.—Do you want leather and shoe findings, or do you wish boot, gaiter and shoe uppers? If so do your business with Messrs. Winteler & Ricks, gentlemen we have known for years. You can trade with no better firm, and their prices are in keeping with the times. In another notice we will speak more at length about these gentlemanly gentlemen; in the meantime give them a trial order. See advertisement.

HARDWARE.—We call attention to the advertisement of Rice, Horn & Co., 89 and 91 Camp street. This house is so well known that it is unnecessary for us to do more than refer our readers to their advertisement. We have for a long time purchased goods of them, and can assure our readers, who may deal with them, that they will do what is right.

CITRATE OF MAGNESIA.—The attention of our readers is directed to the advertisement of the Effervescing Magnesia, manufactured by A. Rogers' Sons, at 193 Spring street, New York, the use of which is doubtless familiar to most of them. For sale by all druggists.

SCHILLINGER ARTIFICIAL STONE PAVEMENT. This pavement is considered the best now in use. Our readers wanting anything in this line should drop in and see F. Jahncke, 208 and 210 Delord street. See advertisement.

DRY GOODS.—To those wanting anything in the dry goods line, look in at E. H. Adams & Bro., 592 Magazine street. This is the best house in that part on of the city to do business with. See advertisement.

SCHROEDER'S GARDEN, CARROLLTON. This delightful resort is situated upon the bank of the Mississippi river, below the terminus of the Carrollton road. The place has long enjoyed the reputation for its elegant breakfasts and dinners at prices extremely liberal. Call up and get a delicious meal from that estimable lady, Madame Schroeder. The place has been greatly improved since last year.

We call the attention of our readers to the new advertisement of Messrs. Montgomery, to this issue. Read it and learn the way to the largest and cheapest furniture establishment in the country. Examine and price their goods. Buy your goods from a house that has been long established and expects to stay. These gentlemen do not consider it any trouble to wait on visitors whether they wish to purchase or not. Those who wish to purchase will find it to their interest to examine their stock before purchasing elsewhere.

COMPLETE CARRIAGE FACTORY.—Messrs. Anderson, Harris & Co., northwest corner of Hamilton and Liberty streets, Cincinnati, O., are now commencing one of the most extensive and complete carriage manufactories in the West. The establishment is supplied with every facility for turning out the very best grades of what is known in the trade as "cheap work," but which is cheap only in point of price. Many of the vehicles made by the firm being superior in style, finish and durability to those made in some factories that pretentiously claim to do "fine" work only. Their line comprises buggies, phaetons, carriages, and in fact, vehicles of every description, and they keep a large stock on hand from which the purchaser may be supplied at once, or, if he prefers, they manufacture promptly to order. Send and get their revised price-list.

PARTIES interested are referred to the advertisement of Henry Otis, 74 Magazine street. We have been informed by the proprietor that the recent fire will cause no interruption in the business. This establishment was the largest of its kind in the South, giving employment to 12 people. Mr. Otis succeeded in a short space of time in establishing an extensive business, furnishing all the sugar and cigar boxes used in the tropical countries. It is his intention to rebuild by the fall a factory which will be the most perfect in the South.

THE following endorsement, from Edwin R. Heath, respecting the Quichua Coca of Peru, will be read with interest:

AN ENDORSEMENT.
The Following Certificate Speaks for Itself.

NEW YORK, Nov. 18, 1878.

I, Edwin R. Heath, Ex-Secretary of Legation near Santiago, Chili; J. P. Root minister, have spent eight years in Chili, Peru and Bolivia, and have had excellent opportunity of testing Coca and seeing its effects on the human system. Our miners (native Peruvians) haul but two meals in twenty-four hours, and from ten to fifteen minutes rest to chew Coca, every three hours, they work ing for twenty-four consecutive hours. Their health was perfect, entire freedom from all injuria that proved so fatal to foreigners and others not using the Coca, and with no deleterious effects to themselves.

I have tested the bitters of the Quichua Co a Co., and find the Coca well represented, and recommend it as a tonic of the highest medicinal value. For six years I had charge of the medical department of the Pacasmayo C. & M. R. R. S. latitude in Peru, and speak of malaria knowingly.

(Signed) EDWIN R. HEATH,
Medical Supt. of the F. C. de P. C. & M.
Pacasmayo, Peru.

TOURISTS, ATTENTION!—The tide of summer excursion travel that for two or three years past has set toward the resorts of the Northwest, with its grand scenery of mountain, lake and river, its numerous charming retreats and cozy nooks will this season reach its flood, owing to the increased facilities extended to tourists by the wide awake and enterprising management of our popular Great Jackson Route. The time has been reduced one day, and with no change of cars to Chicago, and but one change to points beyond, a trip to the great Northwest is now made with as much ease, and in as short a time as formerly, to Hadon Springs or the lake shore villages. Already considerable fathers are securing accommodations, at desirable points of rest, for wearied mammas and charming daughters (worn down by their efforts in the cause of charity during the past, more than usually exciting season,) and besiege the ticket offices for choice sections in the sleeping cars. In another week the travel will have fairly started and we predict for the Great Jackson Route a business it will ill fit its best efforts to accommodate. Sale of excursion tickets will begin on May 20. They will be good to return until November 1, thus giving ample time to enjoy the summer and fall seasons. Full information, with descriptive circulars and guide books profusely illustrated, in the highest style of the printer's art, may be had on application to A. D. Sheldon, tic et agent, 22 Camp street, corner of Common.

MANUFACTURE OF SHOT.—On the fourth of July, 1808, Philadelphia inaugurated an enterprise, to the founders of which the Quaker city owes a deep gratitude, and to which may be indirectly attributed the existence of a large portion of the prosperity which that city at present so eminently possesses, as being the center of manufacturing industry of the United States. That enterprise was the building of a large shot-tower, which was the first erected in America, towering 165 feet. Here the workmanship and materials are of the very highest order. The foundation extends twenty-five feet under ground, and the supporting walls are thirty-two inches thick, while the entire structure is in formly, compactly and substantially built. In the year 18 5 the original Mr. Spurrs died, and left the works under the control of his nephew who bore the same name, and had for nearly twenty years been connected with the business. By him it was conducted until very recently, when he, too was pulled away from his scene of labor, and the charge devolved upon his son, the present proprietor. With regard to the Philadelphia shot, the opinion seems to be almost unanimous that for accuracy it is unsurpassed. The reason of this is the attention which is given to every stage of the manufacture, from the inception of the process to the packing of the article, the shot receives the closest scrutiny, and the utmost precision is observed in order that perfect uniformity may prevail. The establishment is capable of making twenty tons per day. The manufacture of bullets is carried on in a separate building, where they are moulded in brass matrices, the machinery used in their production is adapted to mould balls as accurately as the shot is made in the tower. We could write a column on this excellent concern, but, as the space is limited, we have got to make the article equally so. With pleasure we refer our readers to their advertisement, and in conclusion we would say, give them the preference in buying, for we are convinced you can do business with a more honorable house, and their prices are as low as any concern in the country. Messrs. Norton & Manning are the agents at this point. gentlemen well and extensively known throughout the South as reputable and straightforward merchants. Send them your orders.

OFFICE OF THE
Crescent Mutual Insurance Co.
New Orleans, May 17, 1879.

THIRTIETH ANNUAL STATEMENT.

The trustees, in conformity to the amended charter, submit the following statement of the affairs of the company on the thirtieth of April, 1879:

Fire Premiums	$165,168 05
Marine Premiums	21,051 22
River Premiums	69 326 25
		$255,543 52
Net earned premiums	$224,143 52
Less reinsurance	413,716 40
Less return premiums	5 626 57
	19,342 97
		204,800 55
LOSSES.
Fire losses	$36 038 94
Marine losses	9,537 36
River losses	28 576 05
	$73,952 35
Taxes, expenses, discount, profit and loss, less interest, rents, salvage, savings, &c.	36,442 66
		110,395 01
Net profits		$94,405 54
The company have the following assets:
Bills receivable	$31,481 83
Loans on bond and mortgage	30,175 00
		$61,656 83
Loans on call	$92,552 44
Cash on hand	48,521 02
		141 073 66
Real estate		100 08 18
City bonds, bank and other stock		94,662 58
Premiums in course of collection		25 097 82
Suspense account and stock fractions		14 158 62
		$496,257 59

The foregoing statement is a true and correct transcript from the books of the Company.

THOS. A. ADAMS, President.
HENRY V. OGDEN, Secretary.

Sworn to and subscribed before me, this seventeenth day of May, A. D 1879.

ALFRED INGRAHAM,
Notary Public.

The Board of Trustees this day resolved after paying ten per cent, in cash to the stockholders, and carrying to profit and loss $15,746, on account of the Mechanics' and Traders' Bank stock held by this Company, and also a further sum for shrinkage in values, to declare a dividend of twenty per cent. in cash on the net participating premiums, payable on Monday, the sixteenth of June next.

TRUSTEES.

Thos. A. Adams,	Sam'l H. Newman,
Sam'l H. Kennedy,	John Phelps,
Adam Thomson,	Henry Abraham,
Victor Moyer,	Joseph Bowling,
Edw'd J. Gay,	Simon Hernsheim,
Simon Fox cholmer,	Joseph B. Walz,
R. H. Post,	Edward Chainey,
John E. King,	Fred'k Camerden,
Joseph W. Stone,	George Martin,
Alf. st Moulton,	D. C. Torrey,
Edward Nalle,	George W Seuzell,
Paul E. Mortimer,	John V. Moore,
W. H. Conger,	Henry M. Preston,
Reuben G. Rush,	John M. Parker.

MISCELLANEOUS.

DO YOU WANT A FIRST-CLASS
PIANO OR ORGAN?
No doubt you need one, and you will consult your interests by calling at
LOUIS GRUNEWALD'S
14 to 22 Baronne Street, Grunewald Hall,
and see at what low figures and accommodating terms you can buy. The celebrated STEINWAY, KNABE PLEYEL, FISCHER, PIANOS are the most renowned in the world, and you should buy no other.
THE BEST is ALWAYS THE CHEAPEST.
SHEET MUSIC at half price.
Everything in the music line to suit everybody.
ADDRESS,
LOUIS GRUNEWALD,
Grunewald Hall, New Orleans.

SAVE FROM $2.00 TO $10.00
BY BUYING YOUR
RAILROAD TICKETS
AT GUEDRY'S
TICKET OFFICE,
31 ST. CHARLES STREET, under St. Charles Hotel, N. O.
F. E. GUEDRY, Agent.

WHEELER & PIERSON,
(Successors to Darcy & Wheeler and Pierson & Hewes)
CLOTHING AND FURNISHING GOODS,
Nos. 13 and 15 CAMP STREET, New Orleans.
Black Cloth Suits, $20 to $40 | Business Suits, $12 to $25
6 Shirts for $9 | Collars $1,50 per Doz.
Liberal reduction to Clergymen.
Rules for self-measurement sent on application, and orders carefully filled. Plantation clothing for country stores at very low prices in our WHOLESALE DEPARTMENT.

WHITE.
Fresh Nainsooks, Organdies, Swisses, Jaconets, Satin and Dotted Swisses, Checked and Striped Muslins, Brilliants, Indian Twills, Linen Lawns and Cambrics, Victoria and Bishop Lawns, Piques, Wm S. Terry's Damasks, Union and Pure Linens, Cloakings, Cottons, Diapernings, Towelings, Sheetings, Pillowings, Spreads, Curtains, Tidies, Splashers, Washrags, Towels, Napkins, Hosiery, Gloves, Embroideries, Laces, Ties, Bows, Cuffs, Collars, Handkerchiefs, Fans, Ribbons, etc, etc.
Fresh, First-class Goods, at Reduced Rates,
E. H. ADAMS & BROTHER,
SPECIAL.—Extraordinary inducements in CORSETS: to-day, 75c. Corsets for 25c., $1 50 Corsets for 75c., $2 Corsets for $1.
594 Magazine Street, Fourth Store above St. Andrew.

BUSINESS NOTICES.

POZZONI'S MEDICATED COMPLEXION POWDER is acknowledged by thousands of ladies, who use it daily, to be the only preparation that does not roughen the skin, chap blister or leave black spots in the pores. Mothers can apply it to infants who become chafed with a surety of immediate relief. Removes all eruptions. Price, 50 cents and $1 per box. Sold by druggists, and at depot, 607 North Sixth street, St. Louis (Lindell Hotel).

DOCTORS GAVE HIM UP.

"Is it possible that Mr Godfrey is up and at work, and cured by so simple a remedy?"

"I assure you it is true that he is entirely cured, and with nothing but Hop Bitters and two days ago his doctors gave him up and said he must die!"

Well, to-day if that is so, I will go this minute and get some for my poor George. I know hops are good.

Since the composition of one of the most popular proprietary medicines we speak of Dr. F. Wilhoft's Anti Periodic or Fever and Ague Tonic has been published and accompanies every bottle, the sale of this greatest specific for the cure of Chills and Fever, Dumb Chills and Hypertrophied Spleen have doubled, and the leading physicians pronounce it in their practice when the usual remedies fail. All Druggists sell it.

An Article of True Merit.—"Brown's Bronchial Troches" are the most popular article in this country or Europe for Throat Diseases and Coughs, and this popularity is based upon real merit. 25c. a box.

Fecal Matter Generates Disease.
Which can be averted by purging the bowels, cleansing the stomach, purifying the blood and regulating the liver with Magnire's Cundurango. During the prevalence of Yellow and other fevers, this is a very necessary precaution.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

NOW OPEN.
Schroeder's Family Garden,
Corner Short and Tulane Sts.,
CARROLLTON.
Where all the delicacies of the season can be had at the most moderate rates. Comfortable and delightfully cool Dining Rooms. CORE CREAM. SPRING CHICKENS, etc, a Specialty.
MRS. F. SCHROEDER,
Proprietress.

NOTICE.
Yesterday's fire will cause no interruption in my business. All orders for Cigar Boxes and Packing Cases will be executed as usual, and delivered direct from my saw mill until the Box Factory is rebuilt.
HENRY OTIS,
Office, 74 Magazine street.

FRITZ JAHNCKE,
PAT. FOR LOUISIANA
SCHILLINGER
Artificial Stone Pavement,
Artificial Stone Tiles in various Colors.
Dealer in North River and German Flags, Curb Stone and Portland Cement.
208 & 210 DELORD STREET,
Bet. Baronne & Carondelet Sts.
NEW ORLEANS.
Box 143 Mechanics' and Dealers' Exchange.

A STARTLING BOOK!
JUST READY. Price $1 50.
BY HENRY KIDDLE, A. M.,
Superintendent of Schools, New York City.
Spiritual Communications
MESSAGES FROM THE ETERNAL WORLD.
Particularly A. T. Stewart, Wm C. Bryant, Archbishop Hughes, Wm. M. Tweed, Dr. Mühlenberg, James Fiske, Jr., Bishop Ives, Henry J. Raymond, Theodore Parker, Edward A. Poe, Abraham Lincoln, Pio Nono, and many other
SPIRITS OF THE DEPARTED,
TO REVEAL THE AWFUL MYSTERIES OF HEAVEN AND HELL.
Mailed, post-paid, on receipt of price.
Address
CRESCENT BOOK ROOM,
149 Canal street.

WINTELER & RICKS,
Leather and Shoe
FINDINGS,
TOOLS, OILS, ETC.,
MANUFACTURERS OF
Boot Gaiter and Shoe Uppers.
108 POYDRAS STREET.
NEW ORLEANS.

RAOUL'S NOVELTY WOOD YARD,
F. and B's st., cor. Erato.
Try it for satisfactory dealing. Oak and Ash wood green and seasoned, kept on hand, sawed and split ready for stove use, or will be cut and split to suit any size stove at short notice, and delivered in parcels or wood house, for $4 50 per half cord. Ash, Oak $4 25. Guarantee no loss or stoke in this wood.
Yard, 371 Franklin Street.

J. S. RIVERS,
STATIONER,
Steam Power Printer,
BLANK BOOK MANUFACTURER,
LITHOGRAPHER AND ENGRAVER,
74 CAMP STREET,
NEW ORLEANS.

WANTED EVERYBODY TO know that LAPLACE'S INDIAN TURNIP PECTORAL BALM is not a secret preparation, its efficacy being due to the Indian Turnip, or arisæma triphyllum. It is highly efficacious in coughs, colds, asthma, and all diseases of the throat and lungs, and the relief of consumptive patients. Prepared and for sale by B. LAPLACE, Pharmacist 23 and 25 Elysian Fields street. For sale also at the principal wholesale and retail druggists.
Depot in Mobile at J. C. Runcie & Co. Depot in St. Louis at Richardson & Co. 8p

The New Louisiana Remedy.
Greatest Cough Sirup of the age, or of any age. Product of our swamps. Splendid for children. No poison. Thirteen pages of names of home references and increasing! Sold by druggists. Depot 106 Camp street, New Orleans.

Washington Avenue Drug Store,
Cor. Magazine & Washington Sts,
NEW ORLEANS.
Constantly receiving fresh supplies of pure Drugs, Medicines, Chemicals, Patent Medicines, Combs of all kinds, Brushes, Soaps, Perfumery, Toilet and Fancy Articles, etc., sold at small margin. Coral Tooth Paste, recommended by all who use it as a very superior dentrifice. It beautifies the teeth in a fine pearl like ornament and everlasting beauty. Also the Pompeii Powder, for beautifying, softening and preserving the skin, the best thing for prickly heat and all summer eruptions. Customers city and country, will find our stock complete, comprising many articles impossible to enumerate here, and sold at moderate prices. Prescriptions put up day and night. R. J. MAINGUY, M. D., Druggist, Pharmaceutical and Practical Chemist.

PIANOS.
PIANOS TUNED AND REPAIRED in the best and most satisfactory manner, at
Mr. Burchardt's Manufactory,
638 MAGAZINE STREET 638
Between Jackson and Josephine Sts.

Farm, Garden and Household.

Thoughts for the Month.

FIRST WORKING OF COTTON.

If rains have impacted the soil, it is well to give a light working by the time the cotton is half up. A light V shaped harrow with the front tooth out, run directly over the drill, does very nice work in such case—kills young grass, breaks the crust and gives the plants an opportunity to come through and promotes their health and growth by giving the air access to their roots. If "sliding" is preferred and the land is in good order, a similar harrow with all the teeth in may be run on each side of the drill. It may be run very close to the cotton without injury to the latter and the "chopping out" is greatly facilitated by the loose condition of the soil around the plants and by the fact that no dirt has to be pulled away by the hoe, as is the case when the cotton has been sided by a shovel or looser. It, however, from any cause the land is hard, a deeper tilling implement had better be used for siding; a subsoil plow for instance, or long narrow looter, or even a narrow shovel. Siding with a turn plow or bar next to cotton answers very well in some soils, but unless very great care is exercised in chopping out the plants are very apt to fall down in loose sandy soils. A half-sweep, that is with one instead of two wings, may be advantageously used in some cases. It can be run about as near the cotton as a rooter, and the wing will cut and cover up the grass in the middles.

If the stand of cotton is thick, the hoes should follow the plows pretty closely and thin out as much as is safe, bearing in mind that cotton will always "die out" to some extent more so, however, when crowded than when not. If it is decided that the hills shall be the width of a hoe apart, chop with a wide hoe, so as to leave good room between plants for subsequent hoeings, that sore shins may be escaped. Let the hoes run very shallow, simply scraping off the crust.

Second working of corn will be next in order. It will be large enough now to bear some "dirting" and a shovel is very good for the work. If manure is to be applied—run close with a turn plow throwing dirt away from corn, drop manure on each side of hill and with next furrow reverse the plow and "dirt" to corn at the same time. This is an excellent plan of manuring, if the corn is not over knee high. The middles may be broken out with shovel or sweep, according to hardness and fineness of soil—save time if you can, but never let weeds or grass get a strong foot-hold. Peas should be planted in corn at this working. If the rows are six or more feet apart they may be dropped in the last but one furrow in breaking out the middles. If the drills are five or less feet apart and the hills of corn three or more feet in the drill, the seed may be put between the hills of corn.

SWEET POTATOES.

Slips of the old fashioned yam and Spanish should be set out whenever they are ready, and circumstances favor. Of the slow maturing varieties, the early plantings are much the most reliable for a crop. Don't wait for rain, dip the roots in a mush of clay and cow manure, press the dirt firmly to the lower parts of the roots, and finish off with loose earth on top; do this late in afternoon and very few plants will fail to grow—make hills eighteen inches or two feet apart if you wish large potatoes. From the early settings vines may be cut, in latter part of June, which planted out make the very best seed potatoes and in low latitudes, the best for table uses in late winter and spring.

CITRAS.

Give light workings with sweep and hoe, sufficient to keep down grass and weeds, and if there are missing hills fill out with plants taken from other hills; they are quite easily transplanted.

GROUNDPEAS.

should be kept clean and dirt thrown up under the ends of advancing branches. Loose soil for the young fruit stems to penetrate, is the point to be secured; dirt on the stems is objectionable, though it is desirable for the latter to be near the ground that the fruit stems may penetrate it.

GERMAN MILLET

may now be sown to advantage. The land must be rich and should have been plowed and re-plowed, harrowed and re-harrowed until in the finest possible tilth. May be sown in drills or broadcast—the first preferable, that it may be cultivated. A half bushel seed will plant an acre broadcast—a peck will answer for drilling. Successive sowings every three or four weeks should be made of this extremely valuable forage crop.

SUGAR CANE, RICE, &c.

Keep clean and well cultivated, but avoid all dirting until it has "tillered" sufficiently after that it may be "dirted" freely.

PEANUTS, &c.

must be well cultivated. It is very much of a grass, and being naturally a warm plant, will not bear a hard dry soil. It must have good filth.

APPLICATION OF ASHES. Ashes are so valuable a fertilizer for most all soils, especially for light, dry and sandy soils that they can hardly be applied amiss, put on at almost any season and in almost any manner. They are highly valuable as a top dressing for grass land, for small fruits, for instance, if applied alone, and likewise form a most effective ingredient in the compost heap. Twenty bushels of leached and ten of unleached ashes, form a good dressing for grass lands. Experiments at the Maine State College farm show that ashes were more lasting in their effect on grass, than any other fertilizer applied. The soil was a strong clay loam. We have been general rather than definite in speaking of the quantity of ashes to be used per acre. Before having been leached, wood ashes contain about eight and one half per cent. of potash, but the leaching takes out nearly all the potash, possibly one or one and a half per cent. may be left, and some other soluble matters. It is true that a few soils may be so changed with potash that crops growing on them will not be markedly increased by an application of ashes of a quantity above specified, but as also stated most soils will be grateful for their presence. Planter and Grange.

TO GET RID OF RATS WITHOUT POISON.

A German paper gives the following method of doing this: "Having first for some days placed pieces of cheese in a part of the premises, so as to induce the rats to come in great numbers to their wanted feeding-place, a piece of cheese is fixed on a hook about a foot above the floor. One rat leaps at this, and of course remains suspended. Hereat all the other rats take sudden fright, and at once spill their house-keeping. Perhaps Yankee rats are not so easily frightened.

CRAB-APPLE JELLY. Cut Siberian crab-apples to pieces, but do not pare or remove the seeds. The latter impart a peculiar pleasant flavor to the fruit. Put into a stone jar, set in a pot of hot water, and let it boil eight or nine hours. Leave in the pot all night, covered closely. Next morning squeeze out the juice, allow a pound for pint, and manage as you do currant jelly. Should the apples be very dry, add a cup of water for every six pounds of fruit. There is no finer jelly than this in appearance and in taste.

GREEN TOMATO PRESERVES. Eight pounds small green tomatoes. Pierce them with a fork; seven pounds sugar; four lemons the juice only; one ounce ginger and mace mixed. Heat all together slowly, and boil until the fruit is clear. Take all from the kettle in a perforated skimmer, and spread upon dishes to cool. Boil the syrup thick. Put the fruit into jars and cover with hot syrup.

SEED WAFERS.—One half pound of sugar; one-quarter pound of butter, creamed with the sugar; four eggs, beaten very light; enough flour for soft dough; one ounce caraway seeds, mixed with the dry flour. Mix well; roll into a very thin paste. Cut into round cakes, brush each over with the white of an egg, sift powdered sugar upon it, and bake in a brisk oven about ten minutes, or until crisp. Do not take them from the baking-tins until nearly cold, as they are apt to break while hot.

RAISIN CAKE. Take one and one-quarter pound of light dough; a teacup of sugar; one of butter; three eggs; a teaspoon of carbonate of soda; one pound of raisins; nutmeg or cinnamon to the taste; bake one hour. Let it rise before being baked.

RED CAMELLIAS. We are indebted to the Rev. George Henshaw, for the inspection of some camellias with a much more marked bluish tinge than we remember to have seen before. At first we were inclined to think the color due to bruising of the petals, but the inspection of a young uninjured bud in which the blue color was deepest negatived this notion. Another suggestion was that the change in the color might be due to the presence of oil in the soil, as in the case of the hydrangea, but it is always disproved by the fact that scarlet and blue flowers occurred on the same stalk. The tint is slaty blue, most apparent over the veins of the petals, but in some cases becoming diffused over the distal half of the petal. Flowers of a similar tint occur amongst those recently brought over from America by Mr. Hovey.—Gardener's Chronicle.

TO PREVENT CHURNS OVERFLOWING.—Take the body of the churn and cut a groove around the inside of the mouth, about three inches from the top and three eighths of an inch deep, and then remove half the thickness of the wood, making a shoulder all around; then take the cover and cut it to fit nicely inside, and you have now done away with the necessity of cloths, tubs, pans, etc., heretofore required to save the cream flowing over.

MACARONI WITH EGGS.—Break half a pound of macaroni into short bits; cook tender in boiling, salted water. Drain well; put into a deep dish and pour over it a cupful of drawn butter in which have been stirred two beaten eggs and two teaspoonfuls of grated cheese, with salt and pepper. Open the macaroni to allow the sauce to penetrate the mass. Pass more grated cheese with it.

BALSAM OINTMENT.—Two ounces of balsam fir, two ounces of mutton tallow; two ounces of beeswax and two ounces of scrapings of turpentine must be simmered together and well stirred then strained through a bit of coarse muslin, into a tin box or white-mouthed bottle that can be kept close from the air. This is one of the best ointments that can be procured for burns, cracked hands, fall-outs on the fingers, and is equally good for wounds upon horses and cattle.

JELLY CAKE FRITTERS.—Cut a stale sponge or very plain cake into rounds with a cake-cutter. Fry to a nice brown in sweet lard. Dip each round in boiling milk, to soften it and get rid of the grease. Lay upon a hot dish and spread with sweet jelly or jam. Pile neatly one upon another, send around hot, sweetened cream to pour over them.

LEMON CAKE.—Three eggs, and one and one-half cups sugar, one half cup butter, one-half cup milk, two and one-half cups flour, one-half teaspoon soda, grated rind and juice of one lemon.

THE GENUINE
DR. C. McLANE'S
Celebrated American
WORM SPECIFIC
OR VERMIFUGE.

SYMPTOMS OF WORMS.

THE countenance is pale and leaden colored, with occasional flushes, or a circumscribed spot on one or both cheeks; the eyes become dull; the pupils dilate; an azure semicircle runs along the lower eyelid; the nose is irritated, swells, and sometimes bleeds; a swelling of the upper lip; occasional headache, with humming or throbbing at the ears; an unusual secretion of saliva; slimy or furred tongue; breath very foul, particularly in the morning; appetite variable, sometimes voracious, with a gnawing sensation of the stomach at others entirely gone; fleeting pains in the stomach; occasional nausea and vomiting; violent pains throughout the abdomen; bowels irregular, at times costive; stools slimy, not unfrequently tinged with blood; belly swollen and hard; urine turbid; respiration occasionally difficult, and accompanied by hiccough; cough sometimes dry and convulsive; uneasy and disturbed sleep; with grinding of the teeth; temper variable, but generally irritable, &c.

Whenever the above symptoms are found to exist,
DR. C. McLANE'S VERMIFUGE
will certainly effect a cure.

IT DOES NOT CONTAIN MERCURY in any form; it is an innocent preparation, not capable of doing the slightest injury to the most tender infant.

The genuine DR. McLANE'S VERMIFUGE bears the signatures of C. McLANE and FLEMING BROS. on the wrapper. —o—

DR. C. McLANE'S
LIVER PILLS

are not recommended as a remedy for all the ills that flesh is heir to, but in affections of the liver, and in all bilious complaints, Dyspepsia and Sick Headache, or diseases of that character, they stand without a rival.

AGUE AND FEVER.

No better cathartic can be used preparatory to or after taking Quinine. As a simple purgative they are unequaled.

BEWARE OF IMITATIONS.

All genuine are never sugar coated. Each box has a red wax seal on the wrapper with the impression DR. McLANE'S LIVER PILLS. Each bottle of Vermifuge bears the signatures of C. McLANE and FLEMING BROS. Do not purchase having the genuine Dr. McLane's Liver Pills, prepared by Fleming Bros., of Pittsburgh, Pa., the market being full of imitations of the name McLane, spelled differently but same pronunciation.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Blount Springs, Alabama.

THE most accessible mountain Summer resort in the South. Only eighteen hours ride from New Orleans. Pure, bracing air. The best mineral water on the Continent. All chronic diseases successfully treated; dyspepsia a specialty. Send to the Proprietor for circulars, etc., or call on T. E. Crawford, corner Camp and Common streets, for information.

S. D. HOLT, Proprietor,
Blount Springs, Ala.

SOUTHERN
CHURCH ORGAN
MANUFACTORY,
No. 103 Baronne Street,
Under the National Theater,
NEW ORLEANS, LA.
PETER VETTER, Proprietor.

Church Organs insured and repaired all over the South.

FRESH FISH—FRESH FISH.

POMPANO, SPANISH MACKEREL AND RED SNAPPER,

can be bought at moderate prices by calling on Batholomew, Tallon & Co.,
At French Market.

THE GOSPEL OF JOY!

THE GOSPEL OF JOY is a new Singing Book of unusual beauty for Gospel Meetings, Camp Meetings, Devotional Meetings and Sunday Schools.

By Rev. SAMUEL ADAMS HIBBARD. It contains a large number of new and very superior Hymns and Tunes. The general style is very cheerful and brilliant—as befits a collection that has so much to say and sing about

"Glad Tidings of Great Joy."

Both words and music are of an elevated character, commending themselves to persons of refined taste, and the "dancing measure" so prevalent in many recent compositions has been carefully avoided.

Price 35 cents, for which specimen copies will be mailed to any address.

See Decoration Day Music in MUSICAL RECORD, 6 cents.

GOOD NEWS! 35 cts. the Gen'l Sunday School Song Book, has thousands of friends. Do not fail to examine and try it. There are 270 Songs, in the compilation of which great taste and ability has been displayed. Examine also "Shining River" and "The River of Life," two standard books of great beauty.

OLIVER DITSON & CO., Boston.
C. H. DITSON & CO.,
843 BROADWAY, N. Y.

U. S. FOUR PER CENT. BONDS.

WE continue to sell these bonds, coupon and registered, at par and accrued interest. All deliveries made here, free of expense to purchasers.

NEW ORLEANS NATIONAL BANK,
A. BALDWIN, President.

PROCTER & GAMBLE'S
Old Fashioned Full Weight
EXTRA OLIVE SOAP
FOR SALE BY
C. A. FRENCH,
49 Poydras Street, New Orleans.

F. FISCHER & SON,
PROPRIETORS
PICAYUNE SAW MILL,
FOOT OF CARROLLTON AVENUE
Seventh District, New Orleans

CYPRESS PINE AND SHINGLES.
P. O. Box 17, Carrollton.
All Bills and Orders will receive prompt attention.

FANCY GOODS! FANCY GOODS!
SCHILLING'S
Millinery Emporium, Hair Work
AND
FANCY GOODS BAZAR,
15 ..... CANAL STREET 159
The assortment comprises the very latest styles in
Millinery Materials, Hats and Bonnets,
HAIR GOODS of every description, and the most recherche selections in Jewelry, Fans, Combs, Brushes, Dressing Cases, Specie Purses, Card Cases, Vienna Bill Ornaments, Porte Monnaies and Perfumery.
Your attention is particularly directed to my
SPECIALTIES
in the Shell, Ivory and Pearl JET GOODS, MILLINERY ARTICLES AND HAIR WORK.
G. T. SCHILLING,
159 CANAL STREET.

Mechanics' and Traders' Ins. Co
NEW ORLEANS, LA.
No. 44 CARONDELET STREET,
Solicits Fire, River & Marine Risks

GEO. H. FROST, Act'g Secretary. LLOYD R. COLEMAN, President.
F. C. GREGORY, Asst. Sec. & Fire Clerk.
JNO. C. WOOD, Marine and River Clerk.
F. AUZOLT, Inspector, etc.
J. Y. BASKELL, Collector.
Capt. S. B. FROST, Marine Inspector.

TRUSTEES.

Hugh Allison,	Robert L. Moore,
J. H. Allen,	H. J. Millan,
J. A. Brasselman,	Ed. Nalle,
Jno. D. Bolton,	F. J. Odendahl,
Sam. Boyd,	Emile J. O'Brien,
Isaac Bloom,	Wm. A. Peale,
T. J. Carver,	J. M. Putnam,
Geo. W. Cary,	D. L. Ryckert,
Jno. D. Cobb,	G. W. Schiell,
B. Dudley Coleman,	W. B. Thompson,
Wm. L. Cushing,	W. P. Vidal,
J. M. Frankenbush,	J. M. Walsh,
Ben. Gerson,	Meyer Well,
P. G. Gilbert,	T. S. Waterman,
J. Davidson Hill,	Fred'k Wing,
M. Johnson	C. W. Wood,

Lloyd R. Coleman.

WANTED, AGENTS FOR THE
ERRORS OF ROMANISM
The best book ever published, being a complete exposition of this base system, which enslaves, degrades and curses, and by its insidious influences is trying to destroy our glorious Republic, Free Schools, and everything that Priesthood cannot control, edited by the most eminent Protestant Bishops and other Divines. Profusely illustrated with portraits of contributors. "Every person who values freedom should have this work. Address for circulars,
J. H. CHAMBERS, St. Louis, Mo.

J. D. CHASSONN,
BOOT AND SHOE STORE,
NO. 20 FRENCHMEN ST., between Victory and Morean, Third District, New Orleans.
A large assortment of Boots and Shoes always on hand, and made to order. Ladies', Children's and Gentlemen's Shoes manufactured to order.

GOODWYN'S EUREKA YEAST POWDER, a product that of this city, is both popular with the trade and the delight of all experienced housekeepers, and no wonder, for it is an article of the very highest order of merit. Send for circulars and prices.
P. M. GOODWYN, Manufacturer,
No. 29 Constance Street, New Orleans, La.

MISCELLANEOUS.

C. W. DUNBAR'S SONS,
3 Tchoupitoulas St., New Orleans,
PRESERVERS AND PACKERS OF
SHRIMP, FRESH OKRA, ARTICHOKES,
MANUFACTURERS OF
STANDARD FRUIT SIRUPS.
FOR SALE BY WHOLESALE AND RETAIL GROCERS.

NICHOLLS TEMPERANCE LUNCH HOUSE
AND
LADIES' RESTAURANT,
56 - - - CAMP STREET, - - - 58
The Ladies' Department of the NICHOLLS LUNCH HOUSE, having been recently fitted and furnished in handsome style, is now open for the accommodation of guests.
Particular attention having been paid to the
LADIES' DINING HALL, PARLOR AND TOILET ROOM,
all of which have been neatly and comfortably furnished with a view to the comfort of the ladies.
The proprietor has placed a PIANO in the Parlor for the benefit of the guests of the house.
All meals are cooked in HOME STYLE, at short notice and at
HALF THE RATES OF OTHER RESTAURANTS,
and are served by polite and attentive waiters.

THE GOLD MEDAL
PARIS EXPOSITION 1878
WAS AWARDED TO
JOSEPH GILLOTT & SONS
FOR EXCELLENCE IN
STEEL PENS
THE FAVORITE NUMBERS 303, 332 404, 170 & 351.
AND HIS OTHER STYLES—SOLD BY ALL DEALERS
THROUGHOUT THE WORLD

AGENTS WANTED.

AGENTS WANTED FOR THE PICTORIAL
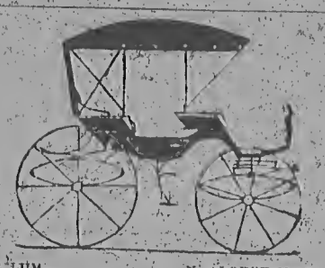
History of the World.
It contains 672 fine historical engravings and 128 large double column pages, and it is the most complete History of the world ever published. It sells at sight. Send for specimen pages and extra terms to Agents, and see why it sells faster than any other book. Address,
NATIONAL PUBLISHING CO., St. Louis, Mo.

$10 to $25 A DAY SURE MADE by Agents selling our Chromos, Crayons, Picture and Chromo Cards. 125 samples, worth $5, sent postpaid for 85 cents. Illustrated Catalogue free. J. H. BUFFORD'S SONS, Boston. Estab'd 1830.

HOW TO BE YOUR OWN LAWYER AGENTS Wanted. $50 to $125 a Month. An Encyclopedia of Law and Forms. For Business Men, Mechanics, Farmers, Property Owners, Tenants, everybody, every business. Saves many times cost. Selling fast. Send for circular and terms. P. W. ZIEGLER & CO., 629 Olive St., St. Louis, Mo.

BUCK'S IMPROVED
BUCK'S
BRILLIANT
STOVES
BRILLIANT STOVE.
Is acknowledged to be the
BEST COOK-STOVE MADE
SOLD BY
H. HALLER,
NEW ORLEANS.
DEALER IN ALL KINDS OF
Cooking and Heating Stoves of the most improved makes, tinsmiths', Plain and Japanned Tin ware, Tinned and Galvanized Hollow-ware, Iron and Clay Furnaces, Miners' Stock, Graphite Iron-ware, Lamp burner and Wick to suit, Tinned Iron Spoons and Forks, Coffee Mills of all kinds, Planished ware, Sad Irons, Fire-Grates, Fitting machines, etc. H. HALLER,
No. 55 Camp St., New Orleans
Price-lists mailed on application.



Carpets and Mattings.
ELKIN & CO.
100 ..... CANAL STREET 100
NEW PATTERNS
CANTON MATTINGS, Best Quality.
WHITE AND CHECK
CANTON MATTING, In all Grades.
Oil Cloths, all widths, Lignum and Linoleum Floor Cloths, Nottingham Lace Curtains, new designs, Window Shades and Cornices.
CARPETS OF ALL KINDS
At Reduced Prices.

$25.00 to $35.00
STEWART'S NEW IMPROVED
SINGER
Sewing Machine
Great Reduction in Prices!
Down with Monopolies!
Hard Times demand Low Prices.
We warrant all our machines to be NEW, LATEST IMPROVED and PERFECT for
FIVE YEARS.
Our NEW MACHINE is supplied with a LOOSE BALANCE WHEEL, which is a great improvement over the old SINGER, as it enables the operator to wind the bobbin without running the machine, or removing the work from the needle. This is the most important improvement ever put on the Sewing Machine.
Also dealer in all first-class machines, such as the
WHEELER & WILSON,
GROVER & BAKER,
DOMESTIC,
WILSON,
WEED, Etc.
Cotton, Silk, Flax, Oil and Needles for all kinds of Machines. Address,
M. A. PECK,
General Sewing Machine Agent.
153 CANAL STREET,
Next to Holmes' Dry Goods Store.
New Orleans.

MISCELLANEOUS.

ICE! ICE! ICE!
WHOLESALE AND RETAIL.
FAMILIES SUPPLIED AT LIBERAL RATES
ORDERS PROMPTLY ATTENDED TO.
WILLIAM MYERS,
NINTH STREET, between Magazine and Constance Sts., opposite the Market.

ATTENTION! ATTENTION!
M. ANDRIEU,
159 - - POYDRAS STREET - - 159
Home-Made Shoes, hand-sewed, $4 00
Home-Made Shoes, Screwed, $2 50-3 50
City-made Boots and Shoes of all kinds and styles, made of the very best material and workmanship, and at less prices than any other store in this city. Keeps all kinds for Gents', Boys', Ladies' and Children's wear. Employs from 75 to 100 workmen constantly.

J. A. LUM. N. ALBERT HOOK, Jr.
J. A. LUM & CO.,
MANUFACTURERS AND DEALERS IN
CARRIAGES, HARNESS, ETC.,
No. 33 Carondelet Street.
☞ A Specialty made of Children's Carriages.

SAVE YOUR CARPETS
By having them cleaned by the
BOSTON PATENT STEAM
Carpet Beating and Renovating Co.
Office, 170 Camp Street,
Branch Office, 51 Royal Street,
Steam Carpet Beating and Renovating Works,
10, 12, 14 and 16 Poydras St.,
Corner of Annunciation.

The undersigned is the sole proprietor of the Harrison Patent Reversible Whirl Carpet-Beating machine for cleaning Carpets and Matting for Dwellings, Churches, Public Buildings, Hotels, Steamboats, etc.

This, the Boston Patent Beater, has been successfully operating for the past fifteen years in all the principal cities in the United States, and has a world-renowned reputation as a carpet cleaning machine.

This machine consists of a belt of endless traps, over which the carpets pass, and are beaten by a number of endless reflexible whips, restoring the color and removing all dust, dirt, vermin and moths, without the slightest injury to the finest fabric.

RENOVATING.

By the renovating process all Grease, Ink Spots, Smoke, Soot, and stains of every description, are extracted from the carpets, restoring their original brightness of color. The quality of the renovative is not injurious to the most delicate tint or fabric, and is an actual preventive against moth. Send a Brussels or velvet rug, which will be cleaned gratis as a sample.

Plush and Moquet Furniture, Plush and Damask Lambrequins, Window Shades, Damask Curtains, Blankets, Druggets, Piano and Table Covers, renovated to look like new.

Carpets taken up and relaid by first-class workmen. No charge for taking up, packing or storing of Carpets.

Our rooms being easy of access, all, and especially ladies, are respectfully invited to call and see the machinery in operation and be convinced that this is the only way to have your Carpets thoroughly renovated from the dust, vermin and moths, for it cannot be done by hand beating. Every Carpet is cleaned under the personal supervision of the proprietors, and satisfaction by every respect guaranteed.

On receipt of orders we will send one of our covered wagons for and return your Carpets free of charge to any part of the city. All orders by mail or left at the office or works will be promptly attended to.

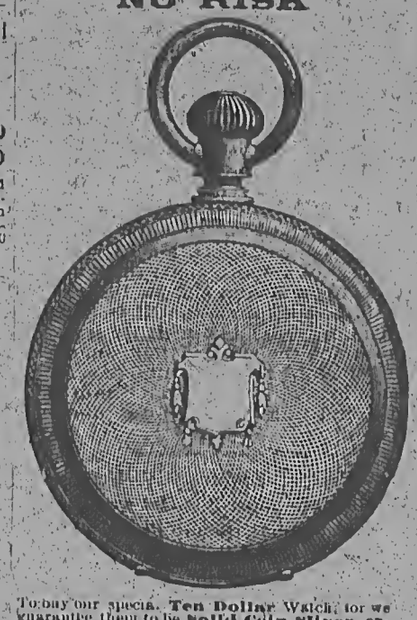
Beating Carpets, 5 cents per yard.
Renovating Carpets, 5 cents per yard.
H. L. JONES, Jr., Proprietor.
ALBERT FABEL, Agent.
Office—70 CAMP STREET.

ESTABLISHED IN 1835.
LEEDS' FOUNDRY,
Cor. Delord and Foucher Sts.

The Most Refreshing Toilet Article.
CASSEBEER'S
QUININE HAIR TONIC.
(EAU DE QUININE)
WILL preserve, cultivate, beautify, arrest the fall of and confer a silken softness to the Hair, and will not soil the most delicate fabric. Price, $1.

Cassebeer's Ammonia Lozenges.
For mitigating coughs, colds, tickling in the throat, dry throat, etc., and facilitating expectoration. Price, 25 cents, sent by mail.
Both excellent preparations are for sale by all druggists, and by the proprietor, H. A. CASSEBEER, Apothecary, 57 Fourth avenue and 337 Sixth avenue, New York.

MISCELLANEOUS.



MASON & HAMLIN CABINET ORGANS
Demonstrated best by HIGHEST HONORS AT ALL WORLD'S EXPOSITIONS FOR TWELVE YEARS; viz: at PARIS, 1867; VIENNA, 1873; SANTIAGO, 1875; PHILADELPHIA, 1876; TWO HIGHEST MEDALS at PARIS, 1878; and GRAND SWEDISH GOLD MEDAL, 1878. Only American Organs ever awarded highest honors at any. Sold for cash or installments. ILLUSTRATED CATALOGUES, with new styles and prices, free. MASON & HAMLIN ORGAN CO., BOSTON, NEW YORK, or CHICAGO.

WATERS' Orchestrion chimes ORGA

is the most beautiful in style and perfect in tune ever made. It has the celebrated Concerto stop, which is a fine imitation of the Human Voice, and two and a half Octaves of bells toned in perfect harmony with the reeds, & their effect is magnificent & electrifying. WATERS' CLARIONA, ORCHESTRAL, CONCERTO, VESPER, CENTENNIAL CHIMES, CHAPEL, and COTTAGE ORGANS, in Unique French Cases are in every respect FIRST CLASS.
WATERS' PIANOS, GRAND, SQUARE, and Uprights ARE THE BEST MADE; the Tone, Touch, Workmanship, & Durability Unsurpassed. Warranted for SIX YEARS. PRICES EXTREMELY LOW for cash, Monthly Installments received. A Liberal Discount to Teachers, Ministers, Churches, Schools, etc. AGENTS WANTED. Special inducements to the trade. Illustrated Catalogues Mailed. Second-hand Instruments at Great Bargains. HORACE WATERS & SONS, Manufacturers and Dealers,
40 EAST 14th STREET, UNION SQUARE, NEW YORK, Box, 3567.

THE DIEBOLD
SAFES.
A large and complete assortment of these Celebrated SAFES on hand and for sale at prices to suit the times. Parties desiring anything in our line are respectfully solicited to address the undersigned for estimates, etc., as he feels confident of being able to give them satisfaction, both as regards price and quality of work.
A. ROY, Agent,
DIEBOLD SAFE & LOCK CO.,
37 Canal St., New Orleans, La.

NO RISK

To buy our special Ten Dollar Watch, for we guarantee them to be Solid Coin Silver, except cap over movement (inside), which is nickle. They are certainly the best Watches, considering Time and Quality, that has ever been offered for the price. Cut represents the exact size. Key winder. We send one of the above to any address C. O. D., or on receipt of money and twenty-five cents extra for registration (at our risk). Fully warranted. W. M. KENDRICK & SON,
310 Fourth Avenue, Louisville, Ky.
Send Catalogue free on application. (Mention this paper.)

TRUTHS.
HOP BITTERS,
(A Medicine, not a Drink,)
CONTAINS
HOPS, BUCHU, MANDRAKE, DANDELION,
And the Purest and Best Medical Qualities of all other Roots.
THEY CURE
All Diseases of the Stomach, Bowels, Blood, Liver, Kidneys and Urinary Organs, Nervousness, Sleeplessness, Female Complaints and Drunkenness.
$1000 IN GOLD
Will be paid for a case they will not cure or help, or for anything impure or injurious found in them.
Ask your druggist for Hop Bitters and free books, and try the Bitters before you sleep. Take no other.
The Hop Cough Cure and Pain Relief is the Cheapest, Surest and Best.
FOR SALE BY ALL DRUGGISTS.

ELASTIC JOINT
IRON ROOFING.
FIRE, WATER AND WIND PROOF.
Durable, Cheap, easily applied by any one.
Provides for expansion and contraction.
In practical use sixteen years.
Boxed for shipment to any part of the country.
Address for Circular, CALDWELL & CO., Cincinnati, O.

Incomparably the best and cheapest Windmill! Protected by two patents Twenty-Eight First Premiums. Light, but strong and durable. Has more wind surface, runs in lighter winds, is more automatic, and pumps more water than any other windmill ever before made. Requires no attention, no combustible, no running expenses. It has successfully withstood the tornadoes of the West, while other mills that stood near them have been destroyed. It is rapidly superseding others there. See certificates and testimonials in our illustrated Catalogue.
Kewanee Manuf'g Co. Patentees.
Office 315 BROADWAY, NEW YORK.
N. B.—Responsible State and County Agents wanted in all parts of the World.

$500. MADE IN 87 DAYS. CATALOGUE FREE. Buckeye Novelty Co., Cincinnati, O.

Scientific.

—Mr. Edison's American electric light patents are just announced. They are essentially the same as those published in the English and French papers some few weeks ago, and relate to the lamp where the electricity is converted into light. By means of a new alloy of some of the refractory metals, and a very delicate arrangement called a thermo-static regulator, Mr. Edison claims to obtain a light which is steady, pure, economical and reliable. Of its steadiness and purity there can be no doubt. The economy and reliability, however, remain to be tested. All of the previous incandescent lamps have used so much electricity as to be very expensive, and great difficulty has been experienced in regulating the quantity of electricity that should go into them. If the new alloy will give a great deal of light with little expenditure of force, and if the thermo-static regulator is sufficiently delicate to govern the lamp, and not too delicate for the unscientific to manage, then the Invention is a success, and Mr. Edison will have added a very bright leaf to his laurel crown.

—Noiseless ware is a novelty in china, introduced by Mr. Vernon, of Scotland. It consists in providing at the base of the article a groove, in which is riveted a strip of India-rubber. This strip is so formed that it projects beyond the groove, and effectually prevents the article from scratching any smooth substance on which it may be placed, insures the greatest quiet when the article is being moved about, and renders it less liable to that slipping from trays that now and then causes much grief at meal-time. At the Royal Hotel, Glasgow, Mr. Vernon has placed on exhibition quite an elaborate selection of wares; and of particular interest is a display of shipping ware placed on a rolling table, the surface of which is partly plate-glass, partly finely-polished wood, and partly cloth. The table is set a-rocking, to indicate the conditions of a cabin table in a storm at sea, but the ware persistently refuses to budge. The value of this simple invention for ship crockery will be apparent.

—Oppolzer, of Vienna, in a recent number of the Astronomische Nachrichten, publishes a new discussion of the observations supposed by Leverrier to indicate the existence of an intra mercurial planet, adding to them a few others. His results in the main confirm those of Leverrier, giving him a period of 15 8 days, and a distance from the sun of a little more than eleven millions of miles, with an inclination of about 7°. He concludes that neither of the objects seen by Watson or Swift can be this Vulcan; and finally points out that, if the elements are correct, the planet must cross the sun's disc on March 19, between 6 and 11 A. M., Berlin time. As nothing has been heard of such a body having been seen, it is perhaps safe to conclude that it did not come to time.

—India is said to possess a convenient tree, called the "kapas," which is used as a telegraph post. When cut down, its branches partially removed and stuck in the ground, it rapidly takes root, thus checking the ravages of the white ants, and becoming a living telegraph post.

—The School of Art Needlework is an institution in which a large and influential class of Philadelphians take a deep interest. It is one of the many outgrowths of the Centennial Exhibition, and it is destined to have a beneficial effect upon social art development.

—Iridescent glass, now so much in fashion, is obtained by exposing it when strongly heated to the fumes of chloride of tin; if very deep colors are required, some nitrates of baryta and strontia are added to the tin.

Ayer's
Hair Vigor,

FOR RESTORING GRAY HAIR TO ITS NATURAL VITALITY AND COLOR.

It is a most agreeable dressing, which is at once harmless and effectual, for preserving the hair. It restores, with the gloss and freshness of youth, faded or gray, light, and red hair, to a rich brown, or deep black, as may be desired. By its use thin hair is thickened, and baldness often though not always secured. It checks falling of the hair immediately, and causes a new growth in all cases where the glands are not decayed; while to brashy, weak, or otherwise diseased hair, it imparts vitality and strength, and renders it pliable.

The Vigor cleanses the scalp, cures and prevents the formation of dandruff; and, by its cooling, stimulating, and soothing properties, it heals most if not all of the humors and diseases peculiar to the scalp, keeping it cool, clean, and soft, under which conditions diseases of the scalp and hair are impossible.

As a Dressing for Ladies' Hair, The Vigor is incomparable. It is colorless; contains neither oil nor dye, and will not soil white cambric. It imparts an agreeable and lasting perfume, and as an article for the toilet it is economical and unsurpassed in its excellence.

PREPARED BY
Dr. J. C. AYER & CO., Lowell, Mass.,
Practical and Analytical Chemists.
SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS EVERYWHERE.

EDUCATIONAL.

Centenary Institute,

AN institution of learning, located at Summerfield, Alabama; was founded by the Alabama Conference and commenced operations in 1842, and has been in successful operation ever since. The Institute has two departments, male and female.

The buildings are of brick, large and elegant, sufficient to accommodate two hundred and fifty pupils. This is to notify all concerned that the Trustees intend, at their next annual meeting, June 23, to lease the building for five years to any person or persons competent to run the institution in the interest of a church school.

Persons desiring further information will correspond with me at Summerfield, Ala.

A. H. MITCHELL,
President Board of Trustees.
Summerfield, Ala., March 12, 1879.

Woodville Female Seminary.

A NON-SECTARIAN ACADEMY, UNDER the supervision of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, Mississippi Conference; Hon. E. McGehee, President of Board of Trustees. For Thoroughness of instruction, healthfulness, cheapness, and many other advantages, is not surpassed. We invite those interested to examine our credentials, and to obtain circulars, by calling upon Mr. Philip Werlein, New Orleans, La., or address the Principal,

A. J. WRIGHT,
Woodville, Miss.

The Loquet-LeRoy Institute

AND KINDERGARDEN DAY AND BOARDING SCHOOL FOR YOUNG LADIES, 280 Camp Street.—This institution has now reopened under the auspices of the Misses MOISE, Cecelia W., Sallie L., and Corinne, the latter relicte of the late R. G. Raoul, daughters of Judge E. Warren Moise, deceased, successors of Mme Loquet LeRoy, whose good will and right to conduct the School under the old name they have purchased. Except in so far as the proprietors may enter into active service, there will be no change of teachers. No change whatever in the conduct and management of the School. They respectfully solicit a continuance of the patronage heretofore so liberally extended to the institution, and that of their friends, and the public generally, promising strict devotion to every interest of the pupils committed to their charge. C. W. MOISE, Principal.

REFERRING TO THE ABOVE MADAME LOQUET-LEROY announces to her friends and former patrons the entire confidence she has in her successors, being in every way suited to the high trust they have assumed. She bespeaks for them a continuance of the patronage so liberally accorded her, and that she will still be actively connected with the institution. For terms and particulars apply to the principal.

HIWASSEE COLLEGE,

(Postoffice the same.)
MONROE COUNTY, EAST TENNESSEE.

PARENTS desiring to find a safe and healthy location for their sons during the summer season would do well to patronize the above-named institution under the patronage of the Hulston Annual Conference, Methodist Episcopal Church, South. The spring term closes May 22, and Fall session begins

FIRST MONDAY IN AUGUST, 1879.

Students arriving before the latter date will be beyond the reach of epidemics, and will thus secure some months of profitable study before Colleges usually open in less favored localities.

Excellent board in College Boarding House by D. A. McKenzie, the well known farmer-steward, at ten dollars per month, washing included. Same in good private families at nine dollars. Tuition, College Course, twenty dollars; English Course, fifteen dollars.

J. H. BRUNNER, D. D., President.
F. M. GRACE, A. M., Secretary.

MARBLE
—AND—
GRANITE

TOMBS, MONUMENTS AND GRAVE STONES.

Mantels, Grates Hearths, Tiling, Flagging, etc.

GEO. STROUD.

164 St. Charles street, New Orleans, La.

Broadway Foundry Co.

JOHN J. HOLLIDAY,
SUPERINTENDENT,
313 Carr Street, ST. LOUIS, MO.

Manufacturers of Stationary and Portable
Steam Engines and Boilers

MULAY AND CIRCULAR SAW MILLS,

Saw and Grist Mill Machinery, Rolling Mill and Blast Furnace Castings, Wrought Shafting and House Work. PARKER'S & JOHNSON'S WATER WHEELS. Tobacco and Lard-Press Screws, Compound Tobacco Presses, Lard Kettles Iron and Brass CASTINGS of every description; also Quartz Mills and Smelting Furnaces of most improved descriptions.

HAVE PURCHASED ALL THE WHEEL & PULLEY PATTERNS OF GATY, M'CUNE & CO

J. B. DAVIES, late of Louisville, Mechanical Man'r

FOUNDED JULY 4, 1808.

OLDEST SHOT TOWER IN AMERICA.

THOS. W. SPARKS,
Patent American Chilled Shot,

Standard Drop and Buck Shot
AND BAR LEAD MANUFACTURER,
121 WALNUT STREET,
PHILADELPHIA.

NORTON & MANNING, Agents,
NEW ORLEANS.

G. B. MILLER & CO., Agents,
GALVESTON.

CONVERTIBLE FARM MILL

Vertical position.

THE simplest and most durable stone mill in the world. Any farmer can run and grind as fine meal as any four foot stone or as coarse feed as he chooses. Every Mill guaranteed. Send for Circular B, with Price List.

C. B. OGLESBY & Co.,
59 Canal St., Chicago.

PINE ISLAND GUANO

FOR SUGAR CANE
—AND—
ALL QUICK-GROWING CROPS.

PINE ISLAND
Ammoniated Phosphate,
FOR COTTON
—AND—
ALL SUMMER AND FALL CROPS.

The Best Fertilizers in use, and prepared with great care for the Southern market.

THE KINNEY & MILLER (Minnesota)
Early Amber Sugar Cane Seed,
CROP 1878,

Fresh from Kenny & Miller Farms.

DISCOUNT TO THE TRADE.

FOR SALE BY
HUGH W. MONTGOMERY,
160 Common St., New Orleans.

Sole Agent for the Southwest.

PROFESSIONAL CARDS.

WM. L. THOMPSON,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
Office, Garza Building, corner Houston and Soledad Sts.
SAN ANTONIO, TEXAS.

DR. E. P. DOREMUS,
DENTIST,
SUCCESSOR TO DR. DICKEY.
110 Canal street, over B. T. Walshe's,
NEW ORLEANS.
Special attention given to the preservation of the natural teeth.

DR. C. J. BICKHAM,
RESIDENCE AND OFFICE,
230 Jackson St., Bet. Chestnut and Coliseum,
NEW ORLEANS.
Office Hours—Eight A. M. and three to four P. M.

DR. J. J. LYONS,
NO. 219 CARONDELET STREET
Between Julia and St. Joseph,
New Orleans, La.

CARRIAGES, WAGONS, ETC.

FIRST PREMIUM AT ST. LOUIS FOR 1878.
JOHN KIMPEL,
Manufacturer of
CARRIAGES AND BUGGIES,
PLATFORM WAGONS, TRUCKS,
LIGHT AND HEAVY SPRING WAGONS.
208, 210, 212 & 214 Spruce St. ST. LOUIS, MO.
Barouches, Buggies and all kinds of Spring Wagons.

J. THOMSON & BROS.,
IMPORTERS AND DEALERS
IN CARRIAGE, WAGON
AND
CART-MAKERS' MATERIAL,
And Manufacturers of Light Carriages and Spring Wagons,
All at Reasonable Prices.
68 AND 70 SOUTH RAMPART ST.,
Between Common and Gravier,
NEW ORLEANS.

Globe Wagon Manufactory
D. T. SHEAHON & CO.,
PROPRIETORS,
Wagons, Carts and Drays
MADE TO ORDER.
Southern Orders Respectfully Solicited.
Cor. Collins and Carr Sts. ST. LOUIS, MO.

BUSINESS CARDS.

WATCHES.

LADY'S GOLD WATCHES, $20 and upward.
GENT'S GOLD WATCHES, $45 and upward.
GENT'S SILVER WATCHES, $12 and upward.
BOYS SILVER WATCHES, $12 and upward.
All guaranteed.

A. B. GRISWOLD & CO.,
Cor. Canal and Royal Sts.

RICE, BORN & CO.,

89.....CAMP STREET.....91
WAREHOUSE—143, 145 & 147 MAGAZINE ST.
NEW ORLEANS,
IMPORTERS AND DEALERS IN FOREIGN AND DOMESTIC
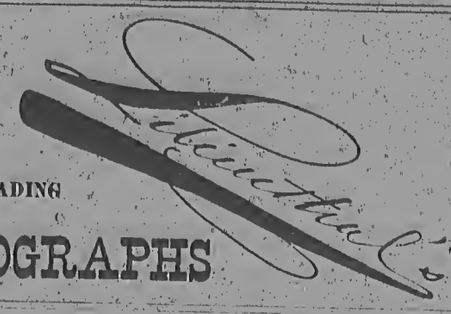
HARDWARE!
BUILDERS' HARDWARE,
GRATES, CUTLERY, STOVES,
HOUSE-FURNISHING GOODS, ETC.
SOLE AGENTS FOR THE
CHARTER OAK STOVE
HOWE SCALE and
BARBED FENCE WIRE.

H. DeVERGES & CO.,
HARDWARE,
17 and 19 Decatur Street,
Opposite Postoffice, New Orleans.

IMPORTERS AND DEALERS IN
IRON, NAILS, CUTLERY, GUNS, AGRICULTURAL IMPLEMENTS, PLOWS, OILS, PAINTS, CORDAGES, ETC., ETC.

HEATH, PIPPEY & LARA,
IMPORTERS AND DEALERS IN
CARPETS, FLOOR OIL CLOTHS,
UPHOLSTERY GOODS, Wall Paper, Window Shades, Cornices, Lace and Nottingham Curtains, Mirrors, Moldings Chromos, Engravings, etc.
Frames made to order—a specialty.
No. 99 Camp Street, New Orleans.



WATCHES AND JEWELRY,
17 BARONNE STREET,
Bet. Common and Canal, NEW ORLEANS.
ALSO
LOAN OFFICE,
Private entrance to right of show window.
Unredeemed pledges of every description sold at very low prices and with full guarantee.
OTTO SCHWANEB.
Watches and Jewelry carefully repaired. Jewelry at low cash prices.

AROMATIC
SALICYLINE
TOOTH WASH
FOR THE
TEETH, GUMS & BREATH

Warranted Pure, Harmless and Infallible, imparting the most fragrant Perfume to the breath (Otar of Roses and Sweet Myrrh), gives a healthy tone to the gums, cures all sores in the mouth, and by the action of its antiseptic curative qualities, removes all offensiveness of the breath, cleanses, beautifies and preserves the teeth; applied to decayed teeth it annihilates the pain almost immediately. Endorsed by the most Eminent Physicians and Dentists of Europe and America. It contains no injurious ingredients, such as used in other preparations now in the market. Price $1.00 per box (containing a large bottle Rest Wash, and box of finest Powder) Sent to any address on receipt of price. Manufactured by European Salicylic Medicine Co. of Paris and Leipsic. Address Washburne & Co., Sole Agents. Only Importers' Depot, 23 Cliff Street, New York. U. S. A. For sale by Druggists, Perfumery and Fancy Goods Dealers. eow

MISCELLANEOUS.

FOR THE VERY BEST AND NEVER FADING

GO TO 121 CANAL ST.

PHOTOGRAPHS Touro Building.

D. H. HOLMES,

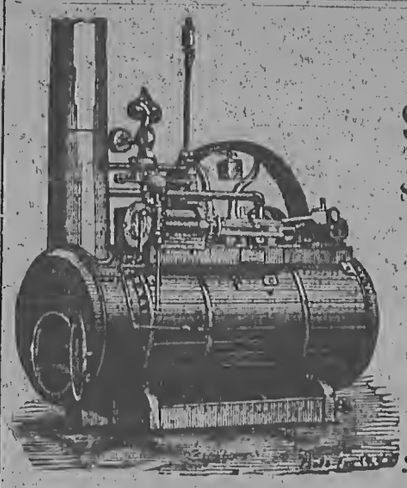
155 Canal Street, - - - 15 Bourbon Street.

Our Stock of Spring Goods is now complete, consisting of the latest novelties in
SILKS, LACES, DRESS GOODS IN WORSTED FABRICS
BLACK GRENADINES IN SILK AND WOOL,
LINEN LAWNS, ORGANDIES, AND PERCALES,
HOSIERY in all Styles and Colors,
A Complete Assortment of MATTINGS

SAMPLES sent free of charge.

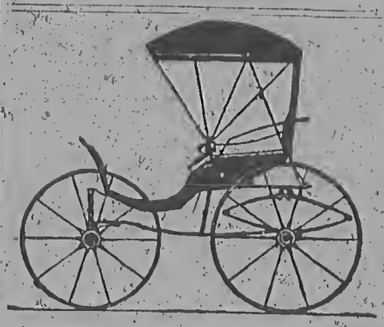
D. H. HOLMES
155 CANAL STREET.

JUST OUT!



THE POULTRY YARD AND MARKET!
A NEW BOOK BY PROF. A. CORBETT,
EXPLAINING THE PROCESS OF
Hatching Eggs and Raising Poultry,
IN HORSE MANURE.

For which several Gold Medals and twelve Diplomas have been awarded by the Centennial Exhibition, the American Institute Fair, New York State and County Fairs.



Price, 50 cents; Elegantly bound in Cloth and Gilt, 75 cents.

Sent post paid on receipt of price.
Agricultural and Farm Books of all kinds supplied at publishers' prices.
LATHROP & WILKINS, New Orleans.

PAYNE'S
PORTABLE
STEAM ENGINES,
5 TO 15 HORSE POWER,
Strong, Simple and Durable,
BEST PLANTATION ENGINE MADE.
Send for Special Price List of this and other styles Engines, Boilers, etc.

B. J. WEST,
SOLE AGENT,
115 and 117 Magazine Street,
NEW ORLEANS.
Plantation Hardware, Agricultural Implements, Saw Mills, Gins, etc.

ANDERSON, HARRIS & CO.,
Wholesale Manufacturers of
Buggies, Phætons,
CARRIAGES AND VEHICLES
OF EVERY DESCRIPTION,
OFFICE AND FACTORY:
N. E. Cor. Baymiller and Liberty Sts.,
CINCINNATTI.
Sixth Street (Green) Cars pass the door

SPECTACLES.
R. & J. BECK,
Manufacturing Optician.
921 Chestnut St., Philadelphia.

Would call special attention to their unequaled stock of Microscopes, Telescopes, Opera, Field and Marine Glasses, Spectacles and Eye Glasses, Thermometers, Barometers, Compasses, etc., the largest and most varied in the United States, at
GREATLY REDUCED PRICES.
Send three stamps for our splendidly illustrated and priced catalogue of 100 pages.
Mention what Paper you saw this in.

TRUNKS,
TRUNKS,

HAVING lately overstocked myself with this article from the best manufactories of Cincinnati and Chicago, from the finest Ladies' TRUNK, Gents' Sole Leather, Zinc, and in fact every kind made; also Patent Tray (this you need not take the tray out to get at the bottom of the trunk); also, a fine lot of SATCHELS and VALISES; also, a fine assortment of Ladies' Childrens' and Misses' SHOES, of the best Philadelphia makers. Call and see for yourself at
S. BAUM'S, 551 Magazine St.,
Corner St. Mary, New Orleans

Established in St. Louis in 1858.

R. L. ROSEBROUGH SONS,
Marble Works,
No. 1431 BROADWAY,
Between O'Fallon and Cass Avenues,
ST. LOUIS, MO.

NOTICE!
To Sugar Planters
AND OTHERS.

THE Knowle's Steam Pumping Machinery, celebrated for superior workmanship, efficiency, simplicity and certainty of action; Ashcroft's Improved Gauges and Instruments, the universally acknowledged standard for measuring and testing steam gauges and other electric fluids; also plantation machinery. All sold at manufacturers' prices, current rates, and under full guarantee, at No. 9 Union street, New Orleans, by
WM. ROGERS,
Consulting Engineer on General Mechanics, Steam and Hydronomics.

Pontchartrain Cheap Store.
J. A. LACROIX,
CORNER FRENCHMEN AND VICTORY STS.
LADIES', GENT'S, MISSES' AND CHILDREN'S
BOOTS AND SHOES
OF ALL DESCRIPTIONS.
Always on hand a full assortment of first-class goods, at prices which defy competition. Call and examine my stock before purchasing elsewhere.
MY MOTTO—"Quick Sales and Small Profits."
Jackson railroad cars pass in front of the store.

POOLE & HUNT, BALTIMORE.
MANUFACTURERS OF
THE POOLE & HUNT LEFFEL TURBINE
WATER WHEELS,
MACHINE MOULDED
MILL GEARING,
SHAFTING, PULLEYS AND HANGERS,
STEAM ENGINES AND BOILERS,
MIXERS FOR FERTILIZERS AND CHEMICALS.

J. H. KELLER,
MANUFACTURER OF
CARBOLIC,

Office 110 GRAVIER ST. ESTABLISHED 1869.
All Kinds of Laundry and Toilet Soaps.

NEW RICH BLOOD!

PARSON'S PURGATIVE PILLS make New Rich Blood, and will completely change the blood in the entire system in three months. Any person who will take one each night from one to twelve weeks may be restored to sound health, if such a thing is possible. Sold everywhere or sent by mail for eight letter stamps.
I. S. JOHNSON & CO., Bangor, Me.

MISCELLANEOUS.

PERFORATED
VENEER SEATS AND CHAIRS

For use in Churches, Halls and Lodges, are coming into general use on account of their Comfort, Durability, Cleanliness, and Ornament.

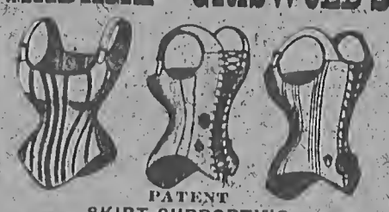
No. 115.

Churches intending to buy Chairs or Settees will do well to correspond with
CARDNER & CO.,
Patentees and Manufacturers,
183 CANAL ST., NEW YORK.

COAL.....COAL.....COAL
B. D. WOOD & BROS.,
Corner Camp and Common Streets,
Opposite the City Hotel.
Wholesale and Retail dealers in all kinds of COAL. Pittsburg Coal delivered by boat-load or less on the coast, and shipped in casks or in bulk, at lowest market rates. City trade supplied.

The Stewart Stove
WITH LATEST IMPROVEMENT,
Is now the
LEADING STOVE OF THE AGE.

There can be no failure in its perfect operation. Will outlast and consume less fuel than any other Stove made.
Can be had for coke, coal or wood.
Hot water attachments for bathing, etc., can be attached with but little extra cost.
Pieces to repair old Stewart Stoves constantly on hand.
J. H. CAMPMAN,
133 Poydras Street.



ROSES (Size 8 1, 14 for $2, postpaid. Budding & Grow-ing Roses, Plants, by mail. Catalogue free. J. T. Phillips & Son, West Grove, Chester Co., Pa. eow

BOOKS ESTABLISHED 20 YEARS
New Books furnished; Eastern prices; Stationery etc.; Special attention to mail inquiries and orders. Oldest Theological Sunday School and tract Depot west of the Mississippi.
J. W. McINTYRE Agt., 719 Olive St., St. Louis, Mo. eow

WIRE RAILING
AND
Ornamental Wire Works.
DUFUR & CO., No. 26 N. Howard St., Baltimore, manufacture WIRE RAILING for Cemeteries, Balconies, etc.; Sleeves, Fenders, Cages, Sand and Coal Screens, Woven Wire, etc. Also Iron Bedsteads, Chairs, etc.

LADY AGENTS WANTED FOR MADAME GRISWOLD'S

PATENT
SKIRT-SUPPORTING CORSETS,

BRANCH OFFICE:
No. 44 WINTER ST., BOSTON, MASS.

Any of the above goods sent by mail, postage prepaid, on receipt of the list price. Send for descriptive circular.

CAUTION:
Before purchasing look for Stamp and Trade Mark.

DR. S. C. KRAM,
MANUFACTURER OF THE
SURE CURE TRUSS,
N. W. cor. Fifth & Elm sts., Cincinnati, O.
THE BEST TRUSS IN THE WORLD!

Those who have suffered untold agony for years, by wearing the Metallic Spring Trusses will find in the SURE CURE Truss all that its name implies—a sure cure for all the ills attendant upon rupture. It is a light Truss, no springs, strong elastic in back, vulcanite rubber pads that never blister, never slip. Can be worn at night.

Testimonials of cures can be seen at the office. No. 1 Plastic Trusses, the best manufactured, warranted, at $4 for single, $4 for double. Examinations free.

Trusses sent free by mail on receipt of order and money. Send stamp for circular.

MARSDEN'S
PECTORAL BALM,
THE GREAT REMEDY FOR COUGHS, COLDS,
AND
CONSUMPTION.
G. R. FINLAY & CO.,
New Orleans, La., Sole Agts.
FOR SALE BY ALL DRUGGISTS.

DR. S. H. P. LEE'S
LITHONTRIPTIC

CURES STONE AND GRAVEL, GALL STONES, DIABETES, GOUT, ENLARGEMENT OF THE PROSTATE GLAND, and in its incipient stages, BRIGHT'S DISEASE.

[TRADE MARK.] DISSOLVES
STONE AND GRAVEL
In the Kidneys, Liver and Bladder. It is now for the first time given to the public as a cure for the most distressing kidney affections. Send for pamphlet to depot of the S. H. P. LEE COMPANY, No. 40 Clinton Place, New York city. Sold by druggists.

PRICES CURRENT

IN

THE NEW ORLEANS MARKETS.

REVISED AND CORRECTED WEEKLY.

☞ Correspondents should bear in mind that our quotations represent prices for round lots, and in filling small orders higher rates must be paid.

GROCERIES.

Butter, ₩ lb.:
Western	22	23
New York, good to creamy	30	—
Coffee, ₩ lb.:
Rio, fair	13¾	13½
Rio, good	14½	14¾
Rio, prime	14¾	15
Candles, ₩ lb.:
Star, best brands	11	11½
Corn Meal, ₩ bbl:
Best, K, D	2 25	— —
Cheese, ₩ lb.:
Factory	7	7½
N. Y. cream and English dairy	10	11
Fish:
Mackerel, extra No. 1, in bbls	— —	16 00
Mackerel, extra No. 1, in kits	— —	2 00
Sardines, quarter boxes	— —	— —
Flour, ₩ bbl.:
Superfine	3 50	— —
XX	4 00	4 25
XXX	5 37½	5 62½
Choice XXX	5 87½	6 00
Choice family	5 70	5 80
Fruits:
Dried apples, ₩ lb	3	3½
Dried peaches, ₩ lb	5½	— —
Raisins, ₩ quarter box	80	85
Raisins, ₩ half box	— —	1 00
Raisins, ₩ whole box	1 80	1 85
Bananas, ₩ bunch	1 00	1 5
Crackers, ₩ lb.:
Soda	5	6
Butter	6	7
Sugar	6	9
Gingernuts	9	12½
Oil:
Coal, in cases, best	23	25
Coal, in barrels, best	16	18
Insurance, in cases	— —	40
Insurance, in barrels	— —	35
Lard, in barrels, best	65	70
Molasses, in barrels.
Common	25	— —
Fair	28	— —
Prime to choice	32	35
Golden and Receet strups	— —	— —
Half bbls 50, and kegs 10c. more.
Rice, Louisiana, ₩ lb.:
No. 2	4½	4¾
Ordinary	6¼	6¾
Fair	6¾	6¾
Prime to choice	7	7¾
Soap, in boxes, ₩ lb.:
XXX Palm	6	—
Keller's magnolia	3½	— —
Keller's olive	4½	— —
Starch, ₩ lb.		8
Salt, in sacks:
Fine	1 4	1 45
Coarse	90	95
Sugar.
Good fair	5½	— —
Prime	5¾	— —
Choice	— —	6¾
Yellow clarified	6½	7¾
White clarified	— —	— —
Crushed	— —	— —
Powdered	— —	— —
Spices, ₩ lb.:
Allspice	15½	— —
Pepper	12½	14
Cloves	45	— —
Cinnamon	— —	— —
Tea, ₩ lb.:
Black Oolong	27½	1 10
Green Imperial	80	90
Tobacco:
Low lugs	2½@ 3
Medium	3½@ 3½
Good to fine	3½@ 4½
Low leaf	4½@ 5
Medium	5½@ 6½
Good	7 @ 8
Fine	7 @ 8
Selections	9 @10

GRAIN AND FEED.

Corn, ₩ bushel:
Yellow	49	— —
White	53	— —
Mixed	46	— —
Oats, ₩ bushel:
St. Louis	36	37
Texas	— —	— —
Galena	— —	— —
Bran, choice, ₩ 100 lbs	— —	80
Hay, ₩ ton:
Prime	— —	17 00
Ordinary	— —	— —
Corn Feed:
Whippoorwill	1 80	— —
Mixed	1 70	— —
Clay	1 60	— —

PROVISIONS.

Bacon, ₩ lb.:
Breakfast	— —	— —
Shoulders	4¾	— —
Sides, clear rib	5¾	— —
Sides, clear	5¾	— —
Hams, sugar-cured	9½	9¾
Mess Pork, ₩ bbl	10 62½	10 75
Dry Salted Meat:
Shoulders	3½	3¾
Lard, ₩ lb.:
Choice, in kegs and pails	7½	7¾
Choice, in tierces and barrels	— —	7½

ESCULENTS.

Potatoes, ₩ bbl	2 00	2 50
Onions, ₩ bbl	2 00	2 25
Apples, ₩ bbl	— —	— —
Cabbages, ₩ box	3 55	3 75

WOOL.

Burry	8½	12½
Louisiana, clear	18	21
Lake, clear	21	22

BAGGING STUFFS.

Bagging:
India
Jute	10½	11
Ties, Arrow, best, per bundle, 20 lbs and buckles		2 15
Twine, hemp	13½	14

POULTRY AND EGGS.

Poultry, ₩ dozen:
Old chickens	4 50	5 00
Young	2 50	3 50
Ducks	2 50	3 50
Geese	4 00	5 00
Turkeys	16 00	18 00
Eggs, ₩ dozen:
Western	9	10
Louisiana	9	10

THE GREATEST BLESSING.—A simple pure, harmless remedy, that cures every time, and prevents disease by keeping the blood pure, stomach regular kidneys and liver active, is the greatest blessing ever conferred upon man. Hop Bitters is that remedy, and its proprietors are being blessed by thousands who have been saved and cured by it. Will you try it? See other column.

An international industrial exhibition is to be opened at Arnheim, in Holland, on June 15 and will continue to October 1. It will comprise brick-making machinery; building materials of artificial stone; water power engines of two and three horse power; incombustible safes; machines for working iron and wood; hempen cables; carriages; silver ware, water meters; sewing machines and apparatus for the electric light.

LAME BACK.
WEAK BACK.

BENSON'S CAPCINE
POROUS PLASTER.

Overwhelming evidence of their superiority over all other plasters. It is everywhere recommended by physicians, Druggists and the Press.

The manufacturers received a special award and the only medal given for porous plasters at the Centennial Exposition, 1876, at the Paris Exposition, 1878.

Their great merit lies in the fact that they are the only plasters which relieve pain at once.

Every one suffering from Rheumatism, Lame Back, or Weak Chest, should use the Capcine. Cramps, or any local pain or ache should use the Capcine. Put on Plaster and be relieved at once. Price 25 cts. Sold by all druggists.

COMMERCIAL.

ADVOCATE OFFICE,
NEW ORLEANS, MONDAY, May 20, 1879.

COTTON.

The rather exciting New York telegrams had a corresponding influence on our market, and factors are claiming a further improvement of ⅛@⅛c., which has restricted the sales thus far to 1,000 bales, partly at an advance of ⅛c., which appears to represent the prevailing view. Middling can hardly be bought under 13c, and we hear of 12⅛c. offered for low middling.

The following is the official closing of the Cotton Exchange:

	To-Day.	Saturday
Low ordinary	11⅝	11⅝
Ordinary	11⅞	11⅞
Good ordinary	12⅛	12
Low middling	12⅛	12⅛
Middling	12⅞	12⅝
Good middling	13⅛	13
Middling fair	13⅜	13⅛

Sales to-day, 900 bales. Market strong.

MOVEMENT AT PORTS.

Receipts at United States ports, week ending Friday, May 16, 1879

	Saturday,	Sunday and Monday,	This week last year.
New Orleans	239	1,189	3,096
Galveston	601	767	1,372
Mobile	725	571	1,675
Savannah	461	417	2,[illegible]
Charleston	44	180	1,734
Wilmington	5	24	559
Norfolk	689	491	2,282
Baltimore	16	.....	105
New York	46	.....	2,689
Boston	329	279	1,284
Philadelphia	.....	143	278
Other ports	.....	.....	900
Total	1,053	.....	19,405

FUTURES.

The position of the market at New York may be seen by the following:

Middling.	To-day.	Saturday.
January	11.35@11.67	11.50@11.51
February	.....	.....
March	.....	.....
April	.....	.....
May	13.37@13.39	13
June	13.38@13.40	13.05@13.06
July	13.54@13.57	13.24@13.25
August	13.68@13.69	13.35@ 3.36
September	13.41@13.42	13.04@13.05
October	13.24@13.25	12.99@12.1[illegible]
November	11.72@11.73	11.59@11.60
December	11.5[illegible]@1..65	11.48@11.49

Tone of the market steadier. Sales, 174,300 bales.

TEACHING CHILDREN TO PICK THINGS UP.—We know a man who is quite particular about keeping everything in its proper place. We heard him say that he acquired this habit through the training of his mother. When a boy, even as far back as he could remember, his mother always made him pick up and put away his playthings after he had got through with them. He was often allowed to get out all the materials he wanted for a good time In bad weather the kitchen was often at the disposal of himself and brother, but they always understood that everything was to be cleared up at the close of the play. No doubt there is a difference in children, for we have known boys of the same family, of nearly the same age, brought up in all respects as nearly alike as possible, yet one of them was always careless, and became a careless easy man, while the other was extremely particular in all the de ails of his dress, sports and work Still granting this diff rence, which many would call a natural difference, we believe a persistent training in early childhood would make an orderly man out of the most careless child.

MISCELLANEOUS.

TUTT'S PILLS,

SYMPTOMS OF A
TORPID LIVER.

Loss of Appetite, Bowels Costive, Pain in the Head with a dull sensation in the back part, Pain under the shoulder-blade, Fulness after eating with a disinclination to exertion of body or mind, Irritability of temper, Low spirits, with a feeling of having neglected some duty, Weariness, Dizziness, Fluttering at the Heart, Dots before the Eyes, Yellow Skin, Headache generally over the right eye, Restlessness with fitful dreams, Highly colored Urine.

IF THESE WARNINGS ARE UNHEEDED SERIOUS DISEASES WILL SOON BE DEVELOPED.

TUTT'S PILLS

are especially adapted to such cases, a single dose of which effects such a change of feeling as to astonish the sufferer.

A NOTED DIVINE SAYS:

DR. TUTT:—Dear Sir: For ten years I have been a martyr to Dyspepsia, Constipation and Piles. Last spring your Pills were recommended to me; I used them (but with little faith). I am now a well man, have good appetite digestion perfect, regular stools, piles gone, and I have gained forty pounds solid flesh. They are worth their weight in gold.

REV. R. L. SIMPSON, Louisville, Ky.

The first effect of TUTT'S PILLS is to increase the Appetite, and cause the body to Take on Flesh; thus the system is nourished, and by their Tonic Action on the Digestive Organs, Regular Stools are produced.

DR. J. F HAYWOOD OF NEW YORK, SAYS:

"Few diseases exist that cannot be relieved by restoring the liver to its normal functions and for this purpose no remedy has ever been invented that has as happy an effect as TUTT'S PILLS."

Sold Everywhere. 25 Cents.

OFFICE, 35 MURRAY ST., NEW YORK.

TUTT'S HAIR DYE.

GRAY HAIR OR WHISKERS changed to a GLOSSY BLACK by a single application of this DYE. It imparts a Natural Color, acts Instantaneously, and is as Harmless as spring water. Sold by Druggists, or sent by express on receipt of $1.

Office, 35 Murray Street, New York.

COMPOUND OXYGEN.

A NEW TREATMENT for the cure of chronic diseases by a true process of re-vitalization.

REMARKABLE CURES have been made in Consumption, Asthma, Catarrh, Bronchitis, Dyspepsia, Headache, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, and the large class of ailments which come from nervous depression,

LOSS OF VITALITY feebleness of constitution, the enervating effects of climate, and especially

IN SOUTHERN LATITUDES to the low vitality and nervous prostration which attends convalescence, and which dooms so many to permanent invalidism.

STRONGLY ENDORSED by the Hon. JEREMIAH BLACK, the Hon. T. S. ARTHUR, Hon. MONTGOMERY BLAIR, Ex-Gov. BOREMAN of West Virginia, and others who have used the New Treatment.

FREE! A Treatise [illegible] pages] on COMPOUND OXYGEN, with many testimonials to most remarkable cures, sent free. Address DRS. STARKEY & PALEN, 1[illegible] Girard St., Philada.

$57.60 AGENTS' PROFIT per week. We will prove it or forfeit $500. New articles just patented. Samples sent free to all. Address W. M. CHESTERMAN, 317 Fulton street, New York.

Religious Notices.

EAST MISSISSIPPI FEMALE COLLEGE COMMENCEMENT.

WEDNESDAY, June 4.—Anniversary of the Castalian Literary Society.

THURSDAY, June 5.—Musical Concert.

FRIDAY, June 6.—Calisthenic Review.

SUNDAY, June 8.—Commencement of Religious Services.

MONDAY, June 9.—Alumnæ Anniversary.

TUESDAY, June 10.—Commencement Day, and Annual Meeting of Board of Trustees.

Examinations and especial addresses throughout.

REV. J. T. HEARD,
REV. J. M. WEEMS,
REV. B. CARRADINE,
Conference Committee.

MAY 20, 1879. J. W. ADKISSON, Prest.

TO THE PREACHERS OF THE WOODVILLE DISTRICT.—My Dear Brethren: Please send me a correct list of all your local preachers and lay delegates to the District Conference, to be held at this place some time in July.

J. S. PARKER.

GREENSBURG, La., May 5, 1879. 20

THE District Conference for Homer District, Louisiana Conference, will be held at Arizona, May 26 30.

20 J. H. STONE, P. E.

THE Annual Camp meeting at William's Camp Ground will commence on Thursday night before the fifth Sunday in June. This Camp Ground is situated on the Pensacola Railroad, thirty-four miles from Pensacola.

Ample arrangements are made for visitors, especially ministers. All are cordially invited.

The meeting will be conducted on the self-sustaining plan.

W. L. WILLIAMS, President.

W. W. RICHARDS, Secretary. 17

Appointments for Quarterly Meetings.

ALABAMA CONFERENCE.

SELMA DIST.—SECOND ROUND.

Summerfield	Apr. 12, 13
Orrville	19, 20
East Selma	26, 27
Uniontown	May 3, 4
Uniontown circuit	10, 11
Clifton	17, 18
Selma	24, 25
Perryville	29
Brush Creek	June 1
Lower Peach Tree	7, 8
Spring Hill	21, 22
Choctaw Corner	28, 29
Rembert Hills	July 5, 6
Marion	19, 20

The District Conference will be held in Marion, beginning at nine A. M., July 18

17 J. W. RUSH, P. E.

LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.

NEW ORLEANS DIS.—SECOND ROUND.

Algiers	March 30
Louisiana Avenue	April 6
Moreau Street	13
Felicity Street	20
Carondelet Street	May 4
Plaquemine and Grosse Tete, at Rosedale	17, 18
St Charles Avenue	25
Baton Rouge	June 1
Lafourche	8

16 LINUS PARKER, P. E.

OPELOUSAS DIST.—SECOND ROUND.

Washington, at Waxia	Apr. 26, 27
Opelousas	May 3, 4
Vermillionville and Plaquemine Brulee, at the Junction	10, 11
New Iberia	17, 18
Pattersonville and Morgan City, at Morgan City	24, 25
Franklin	31, June 1
Abbeville, at Prairie Grego	June 7, 8
Lake Charles	11
Sugartown	14, 15
Indian Bayou, at Conlee's-to-cho	21, 22

The District Conference will meet at Vermillionville, June 26, at ten A. M.

16 J. D. HARPER.

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

SEASHORE DIST.—SECOND ROUND.

(COMPLETED.)

Whittington, at White Plain	May 31, June 1
Ebenezer, at Ebenezer	June 1 4
Amite City, at Magee's	7, 8
Covington, at Oak Grove	12
Pearlington, at Logtown	14, 15
China Grove, at Hopewell	21, 22
Wolf River mission	21, 22
Mount Carmel, at Columbia	2 21
Westville, at Fairmount	28, 29

District Conference at Pearlington, beginning on Friday, June 13, at nine A. M. Bishop Keener is requested to preside.

19 JOHN A. ELLIS, P. E.

BRANDON DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

Forest, at Grange House	May 31, June 1
Walnut Grove, at Hillsboro	June 14, 15
Rankin	23, [illegible]
Trenton at Raleigh	July 5, 6
Fannin	1, 13
Brandon station	19 20
Leaf River	26, 27
Newton at Pleasant Valley	Aug. 2, 3
Carthage, at Liberty	9, 0
Prairie at Holly Bush	16, 17
Union at Buntyn's Spring Cam. Ground	23 24

Inquiry will be made, during this round, as to the number of "CHRISTIAN ADVOCATES" and other church papers that are being taken in the several pastoral charges in the district. Pastors will please be ready to answer.

Question 14 will be asked this round.

19 WILLIS LEITH, P. E.

MERIDIAN DIST.—SECOND ROUND.

Wayne circuit, at Salem	Apr. 12, 13
Waynesboro circuit, at State Line	16
Chickasahay mission, at Henderson's	19 20
Meridian	26, 27
Shubuta circuit, at Decatur	May 3, 4
Enterprise circuit, at Spring Chapel	10, 11
Enterprise station, at Quitman	17, 18
Shady Grove mission, at Oak Grove	24, 25
Philadelphia circuit, at Philadelphia	31 June 1
Marion circuit, at Marion	June 7, 8
DeKalb circuit, at DeKalb	14, 15
Paulding circuit, at Hopewell	21, 22
Spring Hill circuit, at Lauderdale	28, 29

The District Conference will meet at Lauderdale station, Friday morning, June 27.

16 R. J. JOHNS.

—The Rev. Dr. Bushnell, Presbyterian, who has been doing mission work in Africa during thirty-five years, in the course of an interesting address last week, said that the Moody and Sankey hymns were sung at all the mission-houses and schools by native choirs.

SUNDAY-SCHOOL UNION DEPOSITORY.

With a full line of Question Books, Catechisms, Hymn Books, Class Books, Library Books, Rewards, and everything needed in the Sunday-school. Send for Catalogue.

Also sankey & Bliss' Gospel Hymns and Sacred Songs, Teachers' Bibles, Concordances, Bible Dictionaries, Commentaries, etc., at the Depository, 112 Camp street.

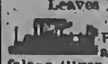
LATHROP & WILKINS.

T. W. BOTHICK,
UNDERTAKER,
OFFICE, 673 CAMP STREET
STABLES, 672 MAGAZINE STREET.

Embalming and disinterring bodies. Bodies carefully shipped. Carriages for hire.

FUNERALS STRICT ATTENTION. 8p

NEAR-SIGHTEDNESS.—It is a peculiar fact that myopism, or near-sightedness is exclusively an attendant of civilization, never being found among savages, and rarely among the peasantry of any country. Investigation shows that the region of the macula lutea, or "yellow spot," opposite the pupil of the eye, has the greatest precipient power, but is peculiarly liable to disease, and that in myopic persons this part of the eye may become congested, resulting, perhaps, in partial or even total blindness. Statistics show that the liability to this disease is greatest in colleges; that is, in village schools less than one per cent. of the pupils are myopic, in city schools about twenty-one per cent. and in colleges as many as forty per cent. The disease increases with age, and an hereditary tendency towards it is often found in children.—Boston Transcript.



A fine statue of Captain Cook, the celebrated navigator, has been unveiled at Port Jackson, Australia, in the presence of a crowd of people estimated at from sixty to seventy thousand. It was commenced in 1868, and cost $28 885.

MISCELLANEOUS.

PRICE REDUCED TO 25 CENTS.—The Greatest discovery of the age is DR. TOBIAS' CELEBRATED VENETIAN LINIMENT. Thirty-two years before the public, and warranted to cure Diarrhœa, Dysentery, Colic and Spasms, taken internally; and Croup, Chronic Rheumatism, Sore Throat, Cuts, Bruises, Old Sores, and Pains in the Limbs, Back and Chest externally. It has never failed. No family will ever be without it after once giving it a fair trial. Price 25 cts. DR. TOBIAS' VENETIAN HORSE LINIMENT, in Pint Bottles, at 50c., is warranted superior to any other, or NO PAY, for the cure of Colic, Cuts, Bruises, Old Sores, etc. Sold by all druggists. Depot 42 Murray street, New York.

REGULAR OPELOUSAS PACKET.

Leaves EVERY TUESDAY at 5 P. M.

For Washington Opelousas, Port Barre Simmsport, Churchville, and all landings on the Coast, Atchafalaya River and Bayou Courtableau. The very light draft passenger steamer

YAZOO,

WM. CRAWFORD, Master. J. B. SCHMIT, Clerk. Will leave positively as above. For freight or passage apply on board or to

LORD & MOREAKE, Agents, 46 Camp St.
GEO. D. HITE, Agent, 4 Tchoupitoulas St.

P. S.—Connects closely with Boats for Bayou Des Glaize and Barges for Bayou Boeuf.

1879. 1879.

EXCURSION ROUTE!

NORTH, EAST AND WEST,

ST. LOUIS & NEW ORLEANS ANCHOR LINE,

The fine passenger steamers of this line will leave New Orleans on TUESDAYS, THURSDAYS and SATURDAYS, at 5 o'clock P. M., during the season, connecting at St. Louis with the principal railroads and Upper Mississippi river packets for all points North, East and West.

Passengers and baggage transferred from steamers to railroads FREE OF CHARGE.

Through and Excursion tickets for sale on board the boats and at the office of the company.

J. B. WOODS, General Agent.
No. 148 Common Street.

"The Washington City Route."

BALTIMORE AND OHIO R. R.

THE SHORTEST, QUICKEST AND ONLY DIRECT ROUTE TO

Washington & Baltimore,

With direct connections for

Richmond, Lynchburg, Norfolk and the Southeast.

Philadelphia, New York, Boston AND THE EAST.

PULLMAN PALACE CARS,
RUN THROUGH WITHOUT CHANGE
Between the Principal
WESTERN AND EASTERN CITIES.

For Through Tickets, Baggage Checks, Movement of Trains, Sleeping Car Accommodations, etc., apply at Ticket Offices at all Principal Points North, South, East or West.

E. R. DORSEY, Asst. Gen. Ticket Agt.
L. M. COLE, Gen. Ticket Agt.
THOS. P. BARRY, Western Pass. Agent.
THOS. R. SHARP, Master of Transp'n

Mme. DEMOREST'S

GRAND OPENING

OF THE

SPRING STYLES,

183 CANAL STREET,

NEW ORLEANS, LA.

These Patterns are in various sizes, and put up in illustrated envelopes on which are printed full descriptions for making, trimming, quantity of material required, etc., and so accurately marked that the most inexperienced person can put them together.

New Basques, Polonaises, Princess Dresses, Walking Skirts Trains, etc., for Ladies' and Children's Dresses, also Boys' Clothes, Gentlemen's Underwear, Infant's Patterns, etc., furnishing economy, practical utility, artistic accuracy and fashionable elegance.

Prices From 10c. to 30c.

Send for catalogue, with directions in English, French, German and Spanish, which is furnished free on application.

GRAND OPENING

SPRING STYLES,

OF

Mme. Demorest's Patterns.

Of the Latest Fashions.

NEW BASQUES, POLONAISES, PRINCESS DRESSES, WALKING SKIRTS, FRAMES, ETC., FOR LADIES', MISSES' AND CHILDREN'S DRESS.

D. F. PERRY,
183 Canal Street.

DR. F. WILHOFT'S

ANTI-PERIODIC

OR

FEVER AND AGUE TONIC,

Is deservedly the most popular

CHILL AND FEVER TONIC,

Because it is simply a preparation of Peruvian Bark without Quinine or any other dangerous drug, such as Arsenic etc., and because during a great number of years it has proved itself to be a

SAFE AND PERFECT SPECIFIC

For the cure of

ALL MALARIAL DISEASES,

This remedy is guaranteed in every way by its proprietors.

WHEELOCK, FINLAY & CO.

MISCELLANEOUS.

THE PIANOS I KEEP.

Every Piano sold by me has stood the test of time—from ten to fifty years. A first-class house like mine cannot experiment at the expense of its patrons with untried or unreliable instruments. Being thoroughly familiar with the construction of a Piano, I am positive of their durability and reliability. I sell my Pianos with the understanding that if in ten or more years a defect in their construction under fair usage should show itself,

The Money Paid will be Cheerfully Refunded.

THE CHICKERING PIANOS,

Have been before the public for fifty-four years, and their reputation extends over the whole world. A six octave Piano of this make, forty-seven years old and perfect in every respect can be inspected in my store. Their superiority over all others is now universally acknowledged.

THE MATHUSHEK PIANOS,

Constructed on entirely new and patented principles which insure their retaining their original brilliancy of tone for a life time, and their standing longer in tune than any other Piano. Those excellent Pianos have been sold here during the last ten years and not the least defect has ever occurred. Their new Uprights are real models of perfection.

THE HALE PIANOS

Are good, reliable and well made Pianos, of excellent tone, and with elastic touch. There are over 1000 of them in this city, and not a defective or worn out one among them.

MY PRICES are well known to be the lowest, as I prefer to sell ten pianos at a small profit than one at a large. My terms are liberal, selling new Pianos on monthly payments of $10, and second hand ones at $5. Fifty second hand Pianos in perfect order from $50 to $175. New Pianos from $[illegible] upwards.

MASON & HAMLIN AND ESTEY ORGANS,

The best instruments of the kind made, from $50 upwards. Direct importation of

MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS, STRINGS AND MUSIC.

The trade and profession supplied at lowest prices.

I request the patronage of the public. No trouble to answer your letters, and I will be pleased to hear from all.

PHILIP WERLEIN,
The Piano Dealer,
108 Canal St., New Orleans.

YALE & BOWLING,

IMPORTERS AND WHOLESALE DEALERS IN

DRY GOODS

NOTIONS AND MILLINERY,

17, 19 and 21 - Magazine Street, - 17, 19 and 21

NEW ORLEANS, LA.

R. M. & B. J. MOTNGOMERY,

FURNITURE EMPORIUM,

MORESQUE BUILDING,

Corner Camp and Poydras Streets,

Owing to the lateness of the season, and not wishing to carry them over the summer months, we have made great reductions in the price of all our fine

BEDROOM AND PARLOR SUITS,

FRENCH PLATE MIRRORS,

FANCY AND ORNAMENTAL FURNITURE.

We also have a complete stock of Medium and Common Furniture; Office, Hall and Library Furniture; Bent Wood Lawn Chairs, Rockers and Benches; Lawn Benches, with Awning Attachments; Invalid Rocking and Wheel Chairs; Spring Beds; Spiral, Woven Wire, Spring, Hair, and Moss Mattress s; Feather Pillows and Bolsters; the Patent Elliptic Spring Pillow, the best ever invented for a warm climate; Rattan and Perforated Seat Chairs, Rockers and Settees; the "Victor" Folding and Lock Desk, the best school desk extant.

Our stock of FURNITURE and MIRRORS is one of the largest in the country and we can successfully compete with any house North or South. Commission merchants' and country orders solicited. All goods delivered free of charge. Give us a trial before purchasing.

N. B.—We are prepared to re-upholster Parlor suits and Chairs in any goods parties may select.

WM. O. LHOTE. A. SAMUELS.

LHOTE & CO,

OLD BASIN

SASH, BLIND,

DOOR FACTORY,

AND

Lumber Yard,

Offices, Cor. Toulouse & Franklin and 32 Carondelet Sts.,

P. O. Box 936. NEW ORLEANS.
8p

ROGERS' POWDER
CITRATE OF MAGNESIA

An Agreeable Aperient and Refrigerant.

This well-known preparation is highly recommended for DYSPEPSIA, HEADACHE, Sickness of the Stomach, Heartburn, and all complaints arising from Acidity, Bilious and Malarial Fevers. It cools the blood and regulates the bowels. It is a favorite medicine for children and its acidity and sweet taste makes it cooling and refreshing. Put up in 6-ounce bottles. Prepared by

A. ROGERS' SONS, Chemists, N. Y.

Superior to Mineral Waters, Seidlitz Powders, Etc.

For sale by all New Orleans druggists. 8p

"And the leaves of the tree were for the healing of the nations."—Rev. xxii, 2.

COCA BITTERS,

The Great South American Tonic.

The New Remedy made from the Leaves of the South American Coca Plant.

An excellent cordial prepared expressly for popular use, and presenting in an elegant form all the wonderful health giving properties of Erythroxylon Coca.

It is a Sovereign Remedy for Disorders of Digestion, Chills and Fever, Nervous Weakness, Sick Headache, Neuralgia, and all other Nervous or Muscular Fatigue.

Convalescents from Fevers should use COCA BITTERS, as it gives IMMEDIATE STRENGTH and HASTENS RECOVERY.

For Sale by all Druggists.

SEND FOR CIRCULAR.

QUICHUA COCA COMPANY,

Manufacturing Chemists,

72 William St., New York.
6m

THE ORIGINAL Superintendent of DR. BLY and LEWIS LOCKWOOD of New Orleans.

A. McDERMOTT,

has returned and established the business of manufacturing Dr. Bly's patent

ARTIFICIAL

Arms and Legs,

and has purchased the sole right for the Southern States. Perfect satisfaction guaranteed in all cases or no pay. Prices greatly reduced.

A. McDERMOTT,
848 Camp Street, N. O.

BUCKEYE BELL FOUNDRY

Bells of Pure Copper and Tin for Churches, Schools, Fire Alarms, Farms, etc. FULLY WARRANTED. Catalogue sent Free. VANDUZEN & TIFT, Cincinnati, O

BEWARE OF

Imitation Machines

Offered by second-hand dealers as

IMPROVED SINGER.

THE GENUINE

SINGER MACHINE,

—MADE BY THE—

Singer Manufacturing Co.

HAS NO EQUAL.

2,000,000 Singers in Daily Use.

Two-thirds of all the machines sold in the United States are those made by

The Singer Company,

Send for Circular and Price List. Address

The Singer Manufacturing Co.,

85 CANAL STREET,

Agent's for Butterick's Patterns.

W. C. SHEPARD & Co.,

49 CAMP STREET.

China, Crockery, Glass,

AND HOUSE FURNISHING EMPORIUM.

CHINA, SEMI-CHINA AND IRONSTONE DINNER SETS.

Viz: 12 Dinner, 12 Breakfast, 12 Tea, 12 Fruit, 12 Butter Plates, 12 Tea, 2 After-Dinner Cups and Saucers, 1 Soup Tureen, 1 Gravy Boat, 2 Dishes with Tops, 2 Without, 4 Meat Dishes, 1 Salad Dish, 2 Pickle Shells.

Variety, Novelties in House-Keeping.

TEA SETS all prices and quality.

GOBLETS, TUMBLERS, BOWLS, CAKE STANDS, BERRY SETS, CASTORS, KNIVES, FORKS, SPOONS, LADLES, WAITERS.

CHAMBER SETS White, Band, Fancy—all prices.

TIN CHAMBER SETS, FOOT TUB, WATER CARRIER and SLOP JAR, REFRIGERATORS, ICE CREAM WATER COOLERS, CREAM FREEZERS, COAL OIL STOVES, LAMPS, CANS to contain 5 gallons of oil, BRUSHES, WOODWARE, TINWARE, PLATED WARE, FANCY VASES, MOTTO CUPS, MUGS, FLOWER GLASSES, CLOCKS, LOOKING GLASSES, CHANDELIERS.

DISCOVERY BY which hair can be forced to grow on the smoothest heads. The papers all over the country contain notices of the remarkable virtues of Mrs Hyatt's Hair Restorer, and there are scores of living witnesses in St Louis who take pleasure in testifying to the efficacy of the Restorer. Mrs. Hyatt's principle is the most reasonable, because she proceeds on the well-based supposition that the Hair germ never dies while life exists in the person, and that it is only necessary to stimulate the germ to produce a satisfactory growth. Three bottles for $5 to accompany the order and balance to be paid when machine is delivered.

[illegible] Olive St., St Louis, Mo

The Christian Advocate.

PUBLISHED FOR THE ALABAMA, MISSISSIPPI AND LOUISIANA CONFERENCES, METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH SOUTH.

VOL. 25. NEW ORLEANS, THURSDAY, MAY 29, 1879. NO. 22.

The Christian Advocate.

REV. LINUS PARKER, D. D., Editor.

G. T. LATHROP, Publisher.

OFFICE—112 CAMP ST., NEW ORLEANS.

Address all matters of business, G. T. LATHROP 112 Camp street, New Orleans.

Address all communications designed for publication REV. LINUS PARKER, 112 Camp street, New Orleans.

AGENTS—All the members of the Patronizing Conferences.

PUBLISHING COMMITTEES.

ALABAMA CONFERENCE.

REV. EDWARD WADSWORTH, D. D.
REV. FELIX R. HILL.
REV. H. D. MOORE.

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

REV. W. H. WATKINS, D. D.
REV. JAMES A. GODFREY.
REV. J. G. JONES.

LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.

REV. JOHN MATHEWS.
REV. LINUS PARKER, D. D.
REV. CHRISTIAN KEENER.

RATES OF SUBSCRIPTION.

The New Orleans Christian Advocate will be furnished to subscribers at the following rates, including postage:

One Year	$2 00
Six Months	1 15
Three Months	75

Will be sent from date to January 1, 1880, for $1.

To all Ministers of the Gospel and widows of deceased traveling preachers:

One Year	$1 00
Six Months	50
Three Months	25

BROKEN STRINGS.

There is no minstrel ripe in years,
But, as his song he sings
Feels musingly across his harp
To find some broken strings.
The early songs that from his lyre
His youthful fingers flung,
Have lost their first Promethean fire
Since love and life were young.

The world may listen to the strains
Which from each harp-string floats,
But still unto his ear remains
A discord in the notes.
And still his heart, unsatisfied,
Seeks yearningly in vain,
To find the music which has died,
And mend the broken strain.

O world! that listens, when too late,
Unto the voice which sings,
And loves the music, when the years
Have shattered many strings,
But little owes the bard to you
For praises from your tongue,
Who heard not when the harp was new,
And love and life were young.

—Scribner.

NEWS OF THE WEEK.

DOMESTIC.

BALTIMORE, May 21.—The twenty-third biennial convention of the Christian Associations of the United States and British Provinces assembled this morning. The convention was called to order by the First Vice President, Thos. J. Walker, of Toronto. Speeches were made by distinguished divines from different parts of the world.

Reports to the convention state that the Christian Associations in the South are in better condition than ever before. Arrangements are being made for State Conventions in Georgia and Alabama.

SELMA, May 22.—The cotton caterpillar has appeared in two different points in Dallas county, the earliest ever known.

WASHINGTON, May 23.—After quite a long debate on the yellow fever bill, in which Messrs Conkling and Edmunds were the chief opponents, and Messrs. Lamar, Harris and Blaine took the lead in supporting it, the Senate passed the measure by a vote of thirty-four to twelve. This very clearly foreshadows the passage of the bill by the House of Representatives at this session.

The bill is not much changed by amendments from what it was when reported by Senator Harris, of Tennessee, some weeks ago. The penalty on a vessel for violating a State quarantine law is reduced from $5,000 to $1 000, and the time of operation of the bill is limited to four years. The terms of the bill as passed are quite broad.

The National Board of Health are empowered to make sanitary regulations for States which have none and at ports and places where the State quarantine regulations are deemed insufficient by the National Board of Health. They may make regulations which, when approved by the president, shall be binding. Blaine spoke and voted for the bill. He urged that the disease of yellow fever was not peculiar to the South, and that no part of the country was safe. Edmunds, in order to fight the bill, fell back on the strongest States rights views, and spoke of the State as a "sovereignty."

WASHINGTON, May 23.—The May returns to the Department of Agriculture show that the average wages of labor, without board, in yearly employments, have declined from $21 29 per month to $20 26 or 4 8-100 per cent. during the past year. The general tone of correspondence is hopeful of a revival of industry, and the surplus of unemployed labor is growing less. Good labor can generally find employment at fair prices. Many are idle because they will not accept the reduced wages offered.

BALTIMORE, May 23.—The International Christian Convention has adopted a report of the Executive Committee recommending the second Sunday in November next be made a day of special prayer for invoking God's blessing on the association; and also recommending the holding of parlor conferences and the raising of $22 000 for use in the West and South among colored young men, railroad men, Germans, commercial travelers and colleges, and for work at the central office. Subscription to the fund called for were made by States with very encouraging results.

LOUISVILLE, May 24.—The General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church South convened to-day at nine A. M. A number of reports were read from standing committees, and the action of the Assembly thereon was almost unanimous. There was no discussion of special interest. The afternoon and night sessions were taken up in the same way. About half past nine nothing remained upon the Moderator's docket, and he, in a solemn manner, dissolved the Assembly.

WASHINGTON, May 24.—In the House the post route bill was passed, and the Warner silver bill taken up and passed by a vote of 114 to 97. The following is a summary of its provisions: It fixes the weight of the standard silver dollar at 412½ grains; authorizes owners of silver bullion to deposit the same at any mint, to be formed into bars or standard dollars; makes the charges for coining such bullion the difference between its market value in New York and the legal tender value of the coin; makes subsidiary silver coin exchangeable at the Treasury for legal tender money to the amount of $20; makes the standard silver dollars legal tender in all payments at their nominal value; requires the Treasury to pay out silver coin without discrimination, the same as gold coin, in liquidation of all kinds of coin obligations against the government. Authorizes the issue of certificates to depositors of gold and silver coin or bullion; also authorizes the issue of certificates representing coin in the Treasury in payment of interest on the public debt, both classes of certificates to be receivable in payment of duties on imports.

The certificates for bullion deposited are to be for its average market value in coin, of like metal, during the preceding week, in New York and San Francisco. Gold and silver bullion deposited is to be coined to full capacity of the mints, in connection with other coinage, and if the bullion deposited for coinage does not amount to twenty millions of dollars per month the Treasury is to purchase sufficient silver bullion to coin that amount. The act is not to be construed as authorizing the coinage of silver, except into standard dollars.

BALTIMORE, May 24.—At to day's session of the international convention of the Y. M. C. A., an address was made by S. P. Roland, of Detroit, upon the condition of State and provincial organizations. A permanent auditing committee was appointed and a report adopted, providing for a special committee in each association to facilitate Christian work among railroad employees, decided to call a meeting of the latter in Altoona, Pennsylvania, at suitable time, for conference.

The business of the session was closed by the selection of Cleveland, Ohio, as the next biennial meeting of the convention; the time to be fixed by the executive committee.

NEW YORK, May 24.—William Lloyd Garrison died at eleven o'clock, to night.

FORT GRIFFIN, May 26.—Indians are raiding the vicinity of Blanco Canon, running off stock, and making toward Pecos River. Stockmen are pursuing, but owing to inferiority of strength dare not attack.

FOREIGN.

HONG KONG, April 9.—The news of the veto of the anti-Chinese bill by President Hayes elicits various and conflicting comments. The Americans throughout China express satisfaction at the rejection of so summary a plan for disposing of the questions at issue. The European residents merely evince surprise, having in most cases anticipated different action. The Chinese take contrary views, even among themselves.

In the immediate neighborhood of Hong Kong, which is the port of emigration and where the friends and relatives of the Chinese now in America reside, much gratification is shown. An idea appears to prevail that future persecutions are impossible, but there are no indications of an increase in the number of departures. Around Shanghai the populace is apparently indifferent, and the officials are reticent. Private advices from Pekin warrant the supposition that the veto will not be received with unmixed pleasure. It is reported on good authority that the government had prepared for the contrary result, and intended to take advantage of the bill as a precedent for strong measures here.

CITY OF MEXICO, May 15.—The country is quiet, but politicians are very active. It is feared Cabinet intrigues and dissensions will interfere with the success of the proposed international exhibition.

SIMLA, May 21.—Among the stipulations of the treaty between the government of India and Afghanistan, is the cession of Ali Kheyl (Peiwar Pass,) Lundi Khotal (Khyber Pass,) and the Pisheen Valley beyond Quettah. The British will restore Candahar, Jelalabad and ultimately Dakka.

PARIS, May 22.—The Committee on Technical Questions, appointed by the Darien Canal Congress, has abandoned all projects except that for a canal via Nicaragua, with lock, and that for a canal to connect Lemon Bay with the port of Panama. In its report, to be presented on Friday, the committee will ask Congress to decide finally between these two routes.

The Tariff Committee has adopted a report urging an average increase of fifty per cent. on duties on cotton threads.

HAVANA, May 23.—The political condition of Hayti is reported precarious. The government is importing muskets and powder. Business is very much depressed. Several failures have occurred at Port-au-Prince.

A passenger on the French mail steamer from Vera Cruz says that a severe earthquake occurred at that port on the morning of the sixteenth instant.

LONDON, May 24.—The Times, in its leading editorial, states, that according to the treaty with Yakoob Khan, the British will retain the Kuram, Sibi and Pishin Valley as assigned, not annexed territory, and will hand the surplus revenue over to Yakoob Khan, who will also be guaranteed a subsidy of £120,000 yearly.

LONDON, May 26.—A dispatch to the Daily News, from Madrid, announces that Premier Campos intends to introduce a bill for the abolition of slavery in Cuba, and to provide for free Chinese labor.

LONDON, May 26.—Lord Cranbrooke, Secretary of State for India, announced in the House of Lords this afternoon that he had received a telegram from Major Cavagnari, stating that he had that day signed a treaty with the Ameer of Afghanistan.

Appropriations Made by the Board of Missions,

M. E. CHURCH, SOUTH, MAY, 1879.

China Mission	$15,606

DISTRIBUTED AS FOLLOWS:

Salary of Rev. J. W. Lambuth, Superintendent	$1,500
Salary of Rev. Y. J. Allen, D. D., employed and paid by the Chinese government for literary and educational work done with the approval of the board.
Salary of Rev. W. R. Lambuth, M. D.	1 200
Salary of Rev. A. P. Parker	1.200
Salary of Rev. C. F. Reid	1,200
Salary of Rev. W. W. Royall	1,200
Salary of Rev. Dean (C. K. Marshall)	300
Salary of nine native preachers	828
Salary of five personal teachers	408
To buying land and building boarding school in Soochow	1,500
One boys' boarding school at Soochow twenty pupils	800
Two day schools at Shanghai	150
One day school and house at Kat ng	85
Two day-schools at Nan siang	150
One day-school at Soochow	75
One chapel at Wangdo	25
Three chapels at Kading	60
Three chapels at Nantsiang	30
Two chapels at Tsingpu	45
Three chapels at Soochow	75
Two chapels at Kwunsan	50
Rent of one dwelling at Soochow	125
Repairs on mission property	400
For building two residences in Soochow	2 000
Dr. Allen's Magazine	500
For the purchase of wood-cuts for Magazine	50
To defray expenses of Rev. J. W. Lambuth to United States and return	1,000
Contingencies	800
	$15,606

City of Mexico Mission.

City of Mexico	$5 285
Leon	1. 20
Cernavaca	1,551
Cuantla	1,380
Tejuca	1,616
Orizava	1 411
Oaxaca	1,650
Additional	500
To purchase wood-cuts for Evangelista Mexicano	50?
Total expenses of City of Mexico Mission	$ 4 985
Mexican Border Mission	$12,000
Expense of teacher to mission-school at Laredo, under charge of Rev. J. Norwood	150
Expenses of mission-school at Laredo	600
Total expenses of Mexican Border Mission	$ 2,750
Brazil Mission	$5,800
Indian Mission (on grounds)	9.000
To assist in building church at Eufaula, I. T.	300
Echota Mission (Indian,) Holston Conference	325
German Mission Conference	4,000
Florida Conference	4,000
Western Conference	1.5.0
Denver Conference	2.0.0
Montana Conference	1,000
Colombia Conference	1,500
Los Angeles Conference	1 700
Yuba City Church	300
Salary of secretary	2 500
Printing, traveling and office expenses	2,500
Treasurer's expenses	200
Total of appropriations	$ 9,9 6.

MISSIONARY APPORTIONMENTS.

The amounts apportioned to the Annual Conferences for foreign missions, for the year 1879–80, are as follows:

Baltimore Conference	$4,750
Virginia Conference	7 464
Western Virginia Conference	1,248
North Carolina Conference	6,993
South Carolina Conference	8 492
North Georgia Conference	6,744
South Georgia Conference	4, 92
Florida Conference	936
Alabama Conference	5,8.6
North Alabama Conference	4.500
Louisiana Conference	3,990
Mississippi Conference	4,248
North Mississippi Conference	4 2.0
Memphis Conference	6 000
Holston Conference	3,48)
Tennessee Conference	3,22.
Kentucky Conference	4,992
Louisville Conference	6 000
Denver Conference	250
St. Louis Conference	2,736
Southwest Missouri Conference	2,730
Missouri Conference	6 244
Western Conference	500
Little Rock Conference	3,000
Arkansas Conference	1,500
White River Conference	1,500
Indian Mission Conference	125
Texas Conference	2,160
North Texas Conference	2,214
East Texas Conference	1,752
Northwest Texas Conference	2,076
West Texas Conference	1,248
Columbia Conference	250
Los Angeles Conference	125
Pacific Conference	750
Illinois Conference	1,258
German Mission Conference	504
Montana Conference	100
Indiana Conference	100
Total apportionments	$ 20,252

Notice Please Read.

Please read. In the present condition of the missionary treasury it is essential that all available funds be put into the hands of the treasurer as soon as possible. Outstanding drafts fall due during the summer months, and will not, cannot, wait until the returns are made from the Annual Conferences. Brethren who have made collections will relieve the strain upon the treasurer by remitting to him at once all funds in their hands. Those who have been accustomed to make their returns at the sessions of the Conferences will find the receipt of the treasurer as good as the cash for that purpose.

Will not those who have made collections consider the growth of the mission work, the increased demands and the enlargement at home, and urge their people to greater liberality, not submitting to the restraints of the assessment?

If all will make their collections in a generous spirit, moved by the love of the Lord Jesus Christ, and report without delay to the treasurer, J. W. Manier, Nashville, Tenn., we may be able to meet all claims upon us.

The presiding elders can aid very materially in the matter by bringing the attention of the people, as well as the official members, to the question of missions at each of their quarterly meetings.

There ought to be many in our church provoked to good works by the examples of the South Carolina preacher who donated $1 000 last winter to the cause of missions, and of the Georgia brother who lately gave $2 500 to build a church in China. Surely these are not the only two in all our vast numbers who are blessed with the ability to give. Are they the only two who have the heart, the grace of liberality after that sort? I believe not. There are others who, if they understood the matter, would contribute largely to relieve our cause of its pressure. May the Lord incline all the people to give freely!

A. W. WILSON,
Missionary Secretary.

A Tract Society for China.

We have been kindly supplied with the following minutes of a meeting of the Board of Trustees of the Chinese Tract Society, held on November 29, at the Deanery, Shanghai, the following being present: the Right Rev. Bishop Russell, the Right Rev. Bishop Scherer-schewsky, the Very Rev. Dean Butcher, Dr. E. C. Lord, Dr. J. Edkins, Dr. Suvoong, Rev. W. Muirhead, Rev. J. W. Davis, Rev. J. M. W. Farnham, Rev. J. W. Lambuth, Rev. Woo Hoong-biok, Rev. Bau Tsih-dzu, Rev. Two Sing-z, and Rev. Wong Jung-ya.

The Rev. J. M. W. Farnham, chairman of the Provisional Committee, took the chair, and invited the Right Rev. Bishop Russell to offer prayer.

Copies of a constitution, prepared after careful examination of the constitutions of the British and American Tract Societies, were handed round, which the Provisional Committee submitted to the Board of Trustees, to be by them discussed, amended and adopted as the constitution of the Chinese Tract Society.

At the request of the chairman, Dr. Suvoong read a succinct account of the steps that had been taken, with a view to the organization of this society, which, it is hoped, will in course of time be a great national institution, like the Tract Societies in Great Britain and America.

The chairman read a letter, from the Rev. Dr. Stevenson, secretary of the American Tract Society, in which the writer gave warm and hearty sympathy to those who proposed to organize a Tract Society for China, and made several valuable suggestions relating to the nature of the constitution needed by such an association.

It was then moved, and carried—that we do now proceed to the formal organization of the Chinese Tract Society, in accordance with the prospectus issued by the Provisional Committee.

The following officers were elected: President, Right Rev. Bishop Russell; first vice president, Right Rev. Bishop Scherer-schewsky; second vice president, Rev. J. W. Lambuth; corresponding secretaries, Rev. J. M. W. Farnham and Dr. Suvoong; recording secretaries, Rev. J. W. Davis and Rev. Bau Tsih-dzu; and treasurer, Rev. W. R. Lambuth, M. D.

It was resolved that the Publishing Committee shall consist of four foreigners and four natives, representing the following constituencies: 1. Presbyterians and Congregationalists. 2. English and American Episcopalians. 3. Baptists. 4. Methodists.

The following were elected in the order named: Rev. J. Edkins, D. D., Right Rev. Bishop Scherer-schewsky, D. D., Rev. E. C. Lord, D. D., Rev. F. L. Baldwin, D. D., Rev. Pien Sing-z, Rev. Yen Yung-kiung, Rev. Kau Jin-kwie and Rev. C. K. Marshall.

Dr. V. P. Suvoong and Rev. Wong Jung-ya were elected to act in connection with the president, treasurer and secretaries, as the Executive Committee.

The constitution already submitted to the board was referred to the Executive Committee, to report upon at the next meeting, and the meeting was adjourned to the following Monday, closing with prayer by the Rev. W. Muirhead.

The board met, as arranged, at the Deanery on Monday, December 2, and, after a full discussion of the proposed constitution, it was amended and adopted.

An art critic, who has an unfortunate habit of occasionally indulging in more wine than his health demands, recently determined, one day after luncheon, to pay a professional visit to a private art collection. Arrived in the first room, he found himself opposite a large mirror. Mechanically he drew out his pocket-book and therein wrote, "No. 1.—Study of the head; an old tope. Fuddled condition excellently rendered; most likely a portrait. Seem to be acquainted with the original."

Field Notes.

MOUNT STERLING, ALA., MAY 15, 1879.

MR EDITOR: The Butler circuit has ten churches, most of them inferior buildings; about five hundred names on our registers; one half of these are nominal members of the church; sadly deficient in family religion; not more than one dozen family altars in the charge; five Sunday schools, using our own literature; an excellent day-school at Mount Sterling, and one at Butler; no parsonage; the pastor rents a house; the circulation of the ADVOCATE is increasing.

Yours truly,

W. H. WILD.

IOLA GRIMES COUNTY, TEXAS,
May 16, 1879.

Glad to see, in your excellent paper, "Notes from the Field." Though we live out in this land of the far West, we love to hear from "across the river." We want to know what is going on among the old folks at home, and we hope this column will have many contributors—on post's—living news from the churches wherever the ADVOCATE circulates. These notes from the field, as the revival season sets in, will grow more interesting still, and we hope soon to read "good news from home."

Already the revival season has begun with us. The church is being revived, many sinners are under conviction, and all are trying to lead a new life. This is not the result of protracted services, but of the preaching of our pastor at his regular appointments. The prayer-meetings are better attended, the class meetings are growing in interest, and many of the church members have gone to work in earnest for a revival.

Crops are backward and inferior, owing first to protracted drought, and second to two immense floods of rain, April 23 and May 5.

J. W. BILLINGTON.

MORRIS, ALA., May 19, 1879.

DEAR BROTHER: We held our second Quarterly Conference, for New Castle circuit, May 10 and 11. It was a meeting of great success. Our presiding elder, Bro. Ghrie preached with great acceptability. We have a parsonage on foot for this work; we located the place. Bro. Self, one of my local preachers, gave us two acres of land, a beautiful location, for the parsonage. We appointed a building committee to go ahead with the work; so we are going to have a parsonage. This is my first year here. We have a very pleasant little work; a good corps of local preachers (seven;); my people are a people that care for the preacher.

Yours fraternally,

JOHN T. WILKINS, P. C.

MANSFIELD, LA., May 19, 1879.

MR. EDITOR: Our first quarterly meeting was held at Patrico chapel on last Saturday and Sunday. Preachers present: Randel, Armstrong and the pastor. The pastor reported thirteen accessions, four baptisms, and the work in an improving condition. Parcels of ground here has been donated at three different places, four acres in a place to build churches on. The mission was more fully organized by the appointment of Boards of Stewards and Trustees. There was one baptism and two accessions to the church. Attendance good; preaching good; and dinners good.

JOHN PUER.

Loganasport mission.

MANSFIELD, LA., May 19, 1879.

Received three more Sunday-school-scholars into the church yesterday. This makes nine accessions in all this year. No special meeting has been held, but the church is greatly revived. All the social meetings are well attended; $131 raised to pay off a debt on the parsonage. Quarterage collections above the average. God has greatly blessed us.

J. L. BOWDEN, P. C.

FRANKFORT, ALA., May 20, 1879.

DEAR BROTHER: I received your paper, and like it very much, and will do all I can for it. We are having a revival of the old class-meetings. The Sunday-school interest is looking up—from one to four schools. Our District Conference meets May 23, at Cherokee, Ala. Rev. D. N. Patterson, a local preacher of this circuit, died May 17. We take on this circuit twelve Nashville, one St. Louis and three NEW ORLEANS CHRISTIAN ADVOCATES.

Your brother,

C. O'NEAL, P. C.

FARMERVILLE, LA., May 20, 1879.

MR EDITOR: All the business part of Farmerville was burned on the thirteenth instant; but one store left; health good; farmers have good crops; darkies at their post; don't know anything about going off; we are trying to preach a full salvation through the merits of Christ; we have carried the Bible to one thousand families; have appointed three camp-meetings; have charge of two circuits, and prospect of doing much good. We are laboring, and expecting and praying the Lord to help us.

C. B. PARVIN.

WOODVILLE, MISS., May 20, 1879.

The Methodist and Presbyterian congregations united heartily in a Sabbath afternoon prayer-meeting. Laymen who never did so before led the services, and are deeply interested. Attendance is becoming larger, and people somewhat serious. We are praying for gracious results. A Woman's Missionary Society of twenty-five members is at work. The Advocate of Missions, taken by seven families, furnishes stirring reading; a fine paper.

J. P. DRAKE, P. C.

WATER VALLEY, MISS., May 22, 1879.

Since my last I have been partially round the district; find preachers working diligently, and hopeful of revivals; several camp meetings contemplated, and good results anticipated. Money is scarce, and finances, in some parts, are far behind, while in some charges they are as good as usual. Crops of every kind are promising—a little too much rain in some sections. Political excitement rising; parties getting ready for the approaching campaign.

THOMAS Y. RAMSEY.

GAYLESVILLE, ALA., May 22, 1879.

I have been at home with a sick family for three weeks; but the Lord has been good to us in sparing our dear little boy. He had a severe attack of pneumonia, and for almost two weeks was at the point of death. There has been much sickness among the preachers and their families within the Guntersville District, North Alabama Conference, the present year; more than for the past two years. Our God will do right.

W. E. CLIFTON.

TALLASSEE, ALA., May 23, 1879.

We have on the Tallassee mission two churches—Tallassee and Tabitha chapel—with a membership of about 275. Up to date forty-one have united with the church since Conference, in December. Some join almost at every service. We have here (Tallassee) a young men's prayer-meeting, at which some of the recent converts lead in prayer. Mr. W. E. Sistrunk has presented the church with a new carpet, and has since joined the church himself. We are going to repaint and put a new roof on our church at Tallassee this summer.

JOHN R. PEAVY.

WATER VALLEY, MISS., May 23, 1879.

ADVOCATE received this morning. It is like the visit of an old friend. I indorse heartily your editorial on "Our Domestic Missions." I have long been satisfied that the present plan is not the best. Better fall back on the old plan. Make both foreign and domestic connectional. We have charges in the North Mississippi Conference, as self-supporting circuits, that ought to be missions; good preachers on them, starving. The presiding Bishop says we must not make appropriations to them or we shall injure the foreign work, sustain the one, but not at the expense of the other.

THOMAS Y. RAMSEY.

BROOKSVILLE, MISS., May 23, 1879.

The outlook on the Brooksville circuit is rather encouraging; congregations large; Sunday-schools beyond our most sanguine expectations; growth in Quarterly Conference; quarterage pretty well up; the parsonage repaired; repairing and making our church building comfortable; health of the country good; the farming interest moderately good; rather too much rain; some croakers; others hopeful; the town is improving; hopeful class of young people in the church.

J. F. EVANS.

MARION, MISS., May 26, 1879.

MR. EDITOR: As we read the cheering words from various fields, old Marion circuit would ask a small space for the pleasure of those who would like to hear of her prosperity. We are now tolerably well organized; nine appointments; nine Sunday-schools, all our own; bought a parsonage, partly furnished it. Two weekly prayer-meetings and four monthly. ADVOCATE highly esteemed and gaining ground. Some improvement on church edifice. Health and crop prospect good.

Yours as ever,

G. M. GILMORE.

The Christian Advocate.

THURSDAY, MAY 29, 1879.

For the New Orleans Christian Advocate.

THE TWO HOMES.

TRANSIENT.

Fair was our home—no harm could venture there,
The sacred boundary of a father's care;
And there no smile or sigh or penal fear,
But from a mother's love drew sweetness dear.
Hope gave us pledge of every joy and mirth,
And wove us buds too fair to bloom on earth;
From rose and myrtle bower, from sylvan shaft,
The beauteous fairies danced, the elfins laughed;
Grand, in our simple thought, each pleasant thing,
A snow-flake winter, and a floweret spring;
And men were perfect all, and bliss was nigh,
For guileless were our hearts, our fancy high,
And life was long, long joyance—death was rest—
Eternity was Heaven, forever blest.
O Memory, guard our Home! Unchanged abide
That sanctuary where our hearts may hide,
When wrong or woe have driven from all beside!

Fairer that Home where Hope with eager eyes
And folded plume waits by the eternal skies!
She only knows that poet's magic dream,
Or prophet's glimpse may ne'er so fair beseem.
Yet muses she: "That Heavenly Home, how grand,
Unspoiled, unsullied, from the All-perfect hand!
How beauteous from the stair of life to rise,
As gems from dust, or stars from clouded skies!
All vanished thought restored, all wavering fast—
O bliss! to be our perfect selves at last!
To feel each sweet affection warm again;
Without one throb of wrong, one thrill of pain!
In saint and angel natures to be hid!
The good and great in endless phase unfold—
And God in all, to actuate and inspire,
And raise our rapturous love to holier fire!
To fear no change, no tempter fiends to roam,
And bear the spirit from that blissful Home!"

From the Work.

ROCKY MOUNT, ALABAMA.

MR. EDITOR: The second Quarterly Conference of Rocky Mount circuit, Union Springs district, met at Athens, Montgomery county, Ala., on the tenth instant, O. R. Blue, presiding, J. L. Skipper, preacher in charge. The Conference was, indeed, a very pleasant and agreeable one, well represented by men who manifested every evidence that they were in full sympathy with the grand and noble cause of the religion of Jesus Christ. Under the head of Miscellaneous Business the parsonage subject was introduced and agitated, and after a hearty appeal from the preacher in charge a subscription, amounting to $275, was raised in the Conference for this noble enterprise—a home for our preacher. Is it not enough to touch the sympathy and move to action every man, woman and child in the universe. The man of God appreciated and well cared for—a demonstration of life—a home for our preacher. The preacher in charge has that genuine mixing up sort of spirit that was so characteristic of old fashioned Methodism, and, when thorough and genuine, never fails nowadays to speed the blessed gospel and build up the church, fully alive to his pastoral duties. Bro. Skipper has the confidence of his entire membership, and may God abundantly bless his labors this year. Mr. Editor, the outlook is certainly promising.

J. A. GIDDENS.

RAMER, ALA., May 13, 1879.

LIVINGSTON MISSION, MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

MR. EDITOR: I came on the Livingston mission in January, and I have been able to fill my appointment up to this time, and I must say that I have been agreeably disappointed in the work. Notwithstanding, I found the work very much disorganized, and the church in a cold, backslidden state, which I think was caused by their not having a preacher among them for some time. I find the people very kind and hospitable, and very much pleased to have a preacher sent them. I think the church is improving, and I look for a good time. I have twelve appointments, with a membership of about two hundred and sixty persons. My congregations are good and increasing, which gives me encouragement, and by the "grace of God" I feel hopeful of success. There are two flourishing Sabbath schools in the work.

J. C. WILLIAMS.

PORT VINCENT, LA., April 30, 1879.

Anti-Social Drinking Pledge.

The evil of intemperance, from the alarming proportions it has assumed, and the potent and ruinous influence it now exerts, numbering, as it does, among its promoters some of the first men of the land, has become one of the important social and political questions of the day. Every department of society has suffered from its blighting effects. This is, however, but a necessary result; an evil touching one must run, like an electric shock, through the whole.

Much has been said against intemperance; in truth, so much that little is left to say; and the man who enters the lecture field must go over an idle harangue of words, which have little more effect than beating the air. A ceaseless warfare has been waged against it in almost every conceivable manner, and from almost every possible point. But the goal is still in the distance; the victory so much longed for, and for which so many have assiduously labored, is still to be won. Much good, we will not deny, has been accomplished by temperance movements. Having been a laborer in the lecture field and the council room, we know whereof we speak when this assertion is made. I have in my mind's eye a hoary-headed man of fourscore years tottering down to a drunkard's grave, snatched from so terrible a fate, and, I hope, shown the way to peace and life by the humble efforts of the Friends of Temperance.

The rich rewards which seemed so near when these movements were inaugurated have, when approached, melted into air. Prohibition has, in many instances, been resorted to, but the otherwise potent arm of the law has failed to eradicate this evil, has failed to reform the inebriate, or stop the pernicious traffic. This has been a source of surprise to some; it cannot be to those who reflect. Man is not a machine, whose moral nature is furnished with a crank to be turned at the will of a human agency. It is the prerogative of God's grace to reform the drunkard; and that only can reform him effectually. It may be that those animated by a desire to do good, have become enthusiasts in their zeal. The law may reform manners alone; it wants the assistance of Christianity to reform morals.

While we would not be understood as discouraging efforts in the cause of temperance, on the contrary it is the object of this paper to promote it, as will be seen in the sequel, still we say the church is the best temperance organization the world has ever seen. Indeed, it is the only one which can effect the ultimate end of all these efforts—the salvation of the drunkard. The cause of temperance is no new issue. It is as old as revelation. The Bible is pre eminently a temperance book. How vain and idle, then, are the bickerings of those who say it is neutral on this great question, when we turn its sacred pages and read its fearful warning: "Wine is a mocker;" and hear, added its denunciation of the man who puts the bottle to his neighbor's mouth. Never, since the anathemas of an angered God were hurled at a guilty race, has the cause of temperance been without an existence, and never, while God's word stands, will it be without an advocate.

The trouble, as we have endeavored to show, with all side issues has been that they aim too high, and attempt to reach their point by a visionary policy. It is thus that what is a partial and really a compensating success is regarded as an absolute failure. Neutralization is the only correct and feasible policy for a social organization; we can hope to accomplish no more than the means in our hands will compass.

A healthy state of society is a necessary condition to the elevation of any people. Without it laws are migatory, and Christianity grows in influence according as its status rises from a lower to a higher standard. Remove evil influences from society, and Christianity will finish its work of reforming individual character. Social drinking has strewn the strand of social life with the wreck of many a noble nature; it is the greatest source of drunkenness; it is the foster mother of intemperance.

These facts, together with advanced ideas and efforts already made in several cities, suggested to a few friends and myself the practicability of an "Anti-Social Drinking" movement. This we began by having printed a card pledge, to be signed and retained by the signer, as in the Murphy pledge. The card (one of which I inclose) reads as follows:

"ANTI-SOCIAL DRINKING PLEDGE."

"Convinced of the great evil of the social drinking of intoxicating beverages, I do hereby solemnly pledge myself neither to drink such beverages at the invitation of others, nor invite, or otherwise induce another so to do."

This is not a temperance society, but merely an association of persons who pledge themselves that, although they may drink themselves, they will not lead others into the habit, by inviting or accepting their invitation to drink.

The movement is attended with little trouble or expense, and will, we hope, do good. Although but a short time has elapsed since we began our work, we have already seen its fruits, and few to whom we have offered this pledge refuse to sign it.

H. MELAND DUBOSE.

BRUNSWICK, MISS.

Passing Away.

MR. EDITOR: I have been watching with no little solicitude the remaining elements of the original Alabama Conference. There was Charles McLeod, Asbury Shanks, Theophilus Moody, A. C. Ramsey, A. S. Dickinson, and myself. McLeod and Shanks were the very picture of health and physical soundness—large and manly in appearance, and every indication bid fair for a long life. Moody was tall and slender, and, although physically stout, yet he possessed that sallow complexion frequently found among those reared up in the pine country near the coast, and to the casual observer indicated feeble health. Ramsey was rather under medium size, slender and delicate, and indicated physical inability for the rough and hard labor then demanded. Dickinson and myself were built rather on the pony order, and might endure a good deal of hardship and toil. Not one of us had possessed early educational advantages; we were fresh from the rural walks of life, and, as I believe, soundly converted, and I have no doubt called of God to the work of the ministry. We had everything to learn, and we were ready and willing to learn. It was not said that bonds and imprisonments awaited us, but it was said that large circuits, bad roads, swollen streams and rough lodgings, with very small pecuniary compensation, awaited us, and so it was. Yet none of these things moved us. Under the leadership of such men as R. L. Kennon, E. V. Levert, Ebenezer Hearn, James H. Millard and others, we moved ahead, and perhaps accomplished as much with our original capital in getting people converted, and laying the foundation for the future growth of the church and Methodism, as any class of young men that ever Alabama produced. (Of course I except myself.) Oh! how I loved those young preachers. And what a feast of marrow and fat things we enjoyed when we met at camp meetings and Conferences, and recounted our labors and triumphs! I never heard, or heard of, a single complaint against one of those brethren in an Annual Conference for dereliction of duty or imprudence in conduct. Charles McLeod was the first to go from labor to reward. Some years after he was followed by Asbury Shanks, and now comes the intelligence that Theophilus Moody is no more. And yet that once delicate A. C. Ramsey lives to note his death, and with A. S. Dickinson and myself to meditate on the past, and, I trust, sweetly anticipate the future. An incident in Bro. Moody's ministry prompted this communication. In 1833 the writer had charge of Pickens circuit, Alabama Conference. In the fall we had a camp meeting near Fayette Courthouse, at which several of those young preachers were present, and among them Bro. Moody. He preferred to preach at night, and in this he was gratified, and labored very successfully. Our meeting increased in interest every day. On Sunday night Bro. Moody had read his text, and was making his way into his sermon; very suddenly it seemed that every dog upon the ground, and they were numerous, got into a commotion, the preacher had to stop for quiet; about this time it was announced that a lady had fainted in a tent near by. About the time quiet was again restored a child took a spasm in the altar near the pulpit, which drew the preacher to a halt again—the sequel! At the close of that sermon there were a dozen or more souls converted in ten minutes. But Moody is gone safe home.

J. MATTHEWS.

CHAPPELL HILL, April 25, 1879.

Conscience

MR. EDITOR: It appears to me that the subject of "the conscience" is often mystified instead of elucidated by speakers and writers. If my understanding of its nature and office be correct, it is plain and easy of comprehension.

In our intercourse with each other here in this mundane mode of existence we have been placed under the necessity of resorting to physical means to communicate our ideas and exchange our views, and influence each other to this or that course of action. Although we are immortal spirits, the All-wise Creator has deemed it best for us to inhabit awhile mortal bodies, and use physical means to act our several parts as long as we remain in this present state of being. To convince a person of a truth, or induce him to an act, we are compelled to employ physical means—we have to make some signs or speak some language. Our spirits can reason with each other only through means of the physical senses. The spirit of our human being cannot communicate with, act upon, or influence the spirit of another, except through some of the fine physical senses. But it is very different with the Spirit of God. The Holy Spirit does not need physical means to communicate with our spirits—it does not have to address us audibly through the sense of hearing, nor visibly through the optic nerves. The Spirit of God acts upon, influences, moves our spirits directly, immediately, silently and unawares, without any physical medium whatever to prompt us to certain courses of action, and restrain us from certain others. And that is what I understand to be "the conscience."

D. W. FOSTER.

NEAR VILLA PLATTE, LA., May 4, 1879.

Obituaries.

Correspondents, please write names and dates very distinctly. We follow copy on proper names.

Obituary notices should be forwarded promptly and immediately. Give only points of general interest, such as will help the living. Details of funeral services, and such phrases as 'mourn their loss," etc., are not edifying. Verses, either original or select, not admissible in this department. Give the locality distinctly and in full. In the case of infants only a simple announcement of the death, with names and dates, will be published.

☞ All obituaries received are published as soon as convenient. If, after a reasonable time, any such communication fail to appear, let a duplicate be sent instead of a complaint.

PITTMAN SAUNDERS was born in Franklin county, Kentucky, November 28, 1813; was married to Miss Mary P. Sedberry at Wetumpka, Alabama, March 7, 1844, and died of yellow fever at Lake, Mississippi, September 27, 1878. He joined the church in early life, presenting himself a living sacrifice to God, and the gift that was then placed upon the altar was not subsequently withdrawn, but was guarded there through the remaining years of his life, until the fire came down and consumed it. He was a man of many beautiful traits of character, prominent among which was his exceptional unselfishness. This was apparent to all who came within the circle of his influence. Kind, gentle, modest; he was an agreeable companion for both young and old. The religion of Christ was the comfort of his life, and the solace of his dying hours. On his death bed his bible was his constant companion, lighting up his passage through the "valley and shadow of death."

MRS. MARY P. SAUNDERS, was born at Fayetteville, North Carolina, August 19, 1827, and died of yellow fever at Lake, Mississippi, September 27, 1878. She gave her heart to God and her life to the church while she was young, and her love for God and zeal for His cause increased as she advanced in years. She loved the church, and her love manifested itself in her constant attendance upon its ordinances, in her cheerful obedience to its laws, in her liberal support of its institutions and in her bountiful hospitality to its ministers and friends. She was to her husband a help-meet indeed, and to her children all that maternal solicitude could suggest.

MISS FANNIE M., daughter of Pittman and Mrs. Mary P. Saunders, was born in Wetumpka, Alabama, March 7, 1845, and died of yellow fever at Lake, Mississippi, September 28, 1878. Her character and life were most singularly beautiful and complete. A devoted, self-sacrificing daughter and sister, a faithful child of God, a zealous Sunday-school teacher. She will be sadly missed both in the broken home circle and in the church, which she joined in early life. She knew not that father and mother had passed over the river until she met them on the eternal shore. What a meeting!

HUGH G. MCFARLAND was born in Newton county, Mississippi, March 20, 1841; was married to Miss Bessie, daughter of Pittman and Mrs. Mary P. Saunders, at Hillsboro, Mississippi, October 29, 1874, and died of yellow fever at Lake, Mississippi, September 10, 1878. Although comparatively young he had made for himself an enviable reputation as a business man of integrity and real worth. He was affectionate and kind in his family, warm and constant in his attachment to his friends, enterprising and useful as a citizen and an honored member of the Presbyterian Church. He had filled the office of Deacon in his church for several years, and about one year before his death he was advanced to the office of Ruling Elder.

MRS. BESSIE MCFARLAND was born at Wetumpka, Alabama, October 29, 1849, and died of yellow fever at Lake, Mississippi, September 27, 1878, crossing over just in advance of her parents. She was a Christian lady, and a highly honored and useful member of society, as well as of the Presbyterian Church, having wisely transferred her membership from the church of her parents to that of her husband.

MARY S., daughter of H. G. and Mrs. Bessie McFarland, was born September 29, 1875, and died of yellow fever at Lake, Mississippi, September 25, 1878.

CHARLES H., son of H. G. and Mrs. Bessie McFarland, was born August 15, 1877, and died of yellow fever at Lake, Mississippi, September 25, 1878.

The Churches at Lake had no more highly honored and useful members to transfer to the church above than the ones whose names appear in the above lines.

It may be safely said of those of them who had reached adult age: "These all died in the faith;" and of the dear little ones the Master says: "Of such is the kingdom of God."

WILL H. LEITH.

AT THE first Quarterly Conference of Hogtuchitto mission, Mississippi Conference, on the twenty-ninth of February, J. Nicholson, Dr. Herrin and Rev. R. Haven were appointed a committee to write an obituary notice for the NEW ORLEANS CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE of our beloved brother, Rev. JOHN SAMPLE, M. D., long an efficient local elder and member of that body. Bro. Sample was born in Cecil county, Md., August 5, 1806, and died in Summit, Miss., of heart disease, on the twenty-fourth of December, 1878. The committee have no means of ascertaining the time of his conversion in Louisiana, when quite a young man, nor the date of his becoming a minister in that State, but that he was a zealous preacher, a good physician, a useful citizen, an affectionate husband and father, a great lover of the itinerant as well as of the local preachers, with whom he delighted to co-operate, and who always found a warm reception to the hospitalities of his interesting, pious family, ever ready to aid and cheer him in arduous labors. But he has gone from us, and we miss his service and counsel. Our loss is his eternal gain. Although of a robust constitution, he had an affection of the heart, very troublesome of recent years, and he anticipated sudden death, and for several years was more devoted to the one thing needful; while he mourned over some delinquencies, he seemed to pray more, and passed a more meek and quiet spirit, and scarcely ever read else than the Holy Scriptures, watching for the coming of the Master; hence when death came it found him with the harness on. The circumstances of his death were as follows: He had attended the session of the Mississippi Conference as a lay delegate, in whose proceedings he took a deep interest. After adjournment, on the twenty-fourth of December, started homeward, where he was expected on the twenty-fifth; stopped at Summit to enjoy the company of his son, Dr. Sample and family, for the night, and after highly enjoying their society he retired to his room quite well, but in a few minutes was attacked with a paroxysm of his heart affection, and before a neighboring doctor arrived for consultation he breathed his last, and was conveyed a corpse to his family on Christmas day, about twenty miles in the country. O! how sad a meeting to the mourning loved ones. May God sustain them in their bereavement. In behalf of committee.

J. NICHOLSON, Pastor.

MRS NANCY RHODDY departed this life on the twenty-second day of April, 1879. She was born in Washington parish, La., January 26, 1811. Was married the first time, in the year 1827, to Mr. Harvey Day, and was married the second time, in the year 1847, to Thomas H. Rhoddy.

She was converted and joined the Methodist Episcopal Church in 1841. From that time until her death she was an humble, devoted and consecrated Christian. In the death of our dear sister we have lost one of our best members.

Her entire life was one of consistent piety and of earnest devotion to the work of the blessed Master. Her efficiency as a worker in the church was perfectly wonderful. As long as she was able to go to the house of God she was a grand worker in the class and prayer meetings. She was a widow for many years before her death, but in every relation of life in which she was placed by the providence of God she was faithful and loving. She was confined to her house the twelve last years of her life, and was one of the greatest sufferers I ever knew; but in all her afflictions she murmured not. She always thought that God was making her pure, and holy, through suffering, for His eternal kingdom.

I saw her several times in her sickness, and always found her happy and cheerful. Her death was, indeed, a triumphant one. About one week before her departure I was with her, and as I read from the blessed word of God about the inheritance which is "incorruptible," "undefiled," and that "fadeth not away," her purified soul rejoiced in the love of God shed abroad in her heart. And, as we sang the "Home of the Soul," she exclaimed: "Thank God! I have been working for a long time for that glorious place, and I will soon be there. Bro. Parker, I am only waiting for Jesus to come and take me home."

She said the day of her death: "I am praying for a calm and peaceful moment in which to die." And God answered that last prayer of his long and faithful servant, for just about one hour before she passed away she called all her children and grandchildren to her bedside, and said: "Come and let me kiss you all good-by, for I feel like I am going to sleep, to wake up in glory." She then sweetly fell asleep in Jesus, and breathed her life away.

J. S. PARKER, P. C.

MRS. SARAH C. STEWART—On the morning of the twenty-ninth of March, 1879, in Dallas, Texas, as the sun was rising, the subject of this notice suddenly and sweetly breathed her last, in the fifty-ninth year of her age. Her mother, Mrs. Sarah L. Cecil, was long a resident of Natchez, Miss., and known and honored for her zeal and the odor of her pure life. At the tender age of ten years Sarah joined the Methodist Church, and adorned her profession as long as she lived. On April 12, 1848, she was united in marriage with Bro. Samuel M. Stewart, with whom she lived happily. She was the mother of four children, two of whom died in infancy; a grown son and a married daughter survive their mother. Her only brother, Rev. C. D. Cecil, is a member of the Mississippi Conference. Sister Stewart was a consistent Christian. Her piety was not fitful, but steady as the bright shining of a star. The main characteristics of her beautiful life were faith, truth, charity. These were the jewels that adorned her. Her faith in Christ was perfect. She was not afraid to trust Him for the present nor for the future. It held her as an anchor amidst many wild tumults and losses of an earthly character.

Her love of truth was so great that she never jested, nor did she relish any simulation or attempts to deceive, even in sport. Whatever she promised or affirmed might be relied upon, and, if deceived by one, it was a painful shock, from which she could with difficulty recover. But the crown jewel was charity, such as is portrayed in First Corinthians xiii.

For some months past she has been in declining health, but was considered convalescent the day before she died. No one thought her end was near. The evening before her death she sat with the family upon the open porch, until near bed time, engaged in conversation. The night was passed in sleep, and suddenly she was awakened by a hemorrhage from an artery in the throat, and within five minutes the silver chord was loosed, the golden bowl broken at the fountain. She uttered no farewell word, but she rests from labor, and her works do follow her.

H. A. MORELAND.

WHEN a good man dies the world is made poorer by his death, and although we know he has passed to the heavenly home, and is forever with our Lord, yet we cannot help feeling sorrowful that he has gone from earth forever. If the departed be one who has endeared himself to our hearts by the purity and beauty of his life, although we look up to heaven assured that he is there, we look up through our tears.

It is thus with many of us to-day, for we have just consigned to the grave the body of our beloved friend and Christian brother, WILLIAM R. BROWN, who died in peace at his residence in this District, March 3, 1879.

Brother Brown was a native of Mississippi, was born August 11, 1825. He became religious in early life, and was always a useful member of the church—for his life was pure and peaceful. He was one of the eight persons present who united with the Methodist Church at its organization in this Province eight years ago—was one of our best official members. He was a wise and safe counsellor, and we have none to supply his place. Our Quarterly Conference, at its late session passed resolutions testifying to his great worth, as one whose holy and useful life shall long be remembered by the surviving members of this Church.

During the late civil war Brother Brown was in the Army of Northern Virginia, was wounded in one of its battles, and that wound caused his death at last.

His funeral was attended by the largest congregation of Americans I have ever seen in this Province. He was buried with Masonic honors. Thus, in four short months, he has gone to join his beloved friend, Col. H. Strong, to whom he was united in bonds of friendship such as rarely ever exist among men who are not of kindred blood. They are together now in that "Blessed fold, no foe can enter,

And no friend departeth thence."

J. K. NEWMAN.

SANTA BARBARA, Prov. Sao Paulo, March 21, 1879.

MY dear friend MRS. WILLIE BOYNTON was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. and E. A. Creagh. She was born near Suggsville, Clarke county, Alabama, on the sixteenth of July, 1845, and died in Wilcox county, Alabama, on the fifteenth of March, 1878, of Chronic Bronchitis. She joined the Baptist Church while a school girl and ever lived a Christian. On the nineteenth of April, 1877, she was happily married to Mr. M. A. Boynton, but lived only a short time to enjoy the love of a devoted husband. Her health was gradually failing several years before her death, and with what patience she seemed to bear the many physical afflictions she had to endure. Only a few of her most intimate friends knew the noble traits of her character, and very few were capable of appreciating her great wealth of mind; she was indeed a woman of talent. She left a little babe five weeks old, who survived its mother only two months. Little Willie Abigail sleeps sweetly with her mamma.

N. M.

MRS SARAH E HESTER daughter of Moses and Nancy Cain, was born in Wilcox county, Ala., July 22, 1852; moved to Louisiana in 1873; was married to Mr. James Hester October 25, 1877; and died at her home in Union parish, La., January 17, 1879, in full assurance of a blissful immortality. She professed religion in the fall of 1873, and connected herself with the Methodist Church. Her conversion was bright, joyous, and she shouted aloud the praises of God. From that hour to that of her death she remained true to the vows of the church. Her end was triumphant. When asked in regard to her future prospects, she calmly said: "I am willing, yes, more than willing, to die, if it be God's will." Then, calling her relatives and friends present to each she spoke a few parting words, and enjoined upon them to meet her in heaven. She then requested that they would sing: "Jesus, my all in heaven is gone," with the old chorus: "We'll cross the river of Jordan." Although fast passing away, yet with wonderful strength she raised the hymn, and joined in the singing, ceasing only to shout aloud the praises of God, and exclaiming: "I'm going to my blessed Jesus." When all had ceased singing, she inquired for the writer, and being informed that he was at Conference, she asked if any one present could pray. A Christian brother and friend promptly responded in prayer. He read two chapters of the word of God, then offered up prayer in her behalf. As a last request, she asked all to kneel in silent prayer in behalf of her little first-born (just twenty days old), that it might be raised up in the nurture and admonition of the Lord. She was rational to the last, frequently exclaiming: "I'm not gone."

Thus passed away our beloved sister, victorious over sin and death. "Thanks be to God, which giveth us the victory, through our Lord Jesus Christ."

J. F. PATTERSON.

REV. R. M. STEWART, died at his home near Redland, Louisiana, April 12, 1879, of typhoid pneumonia, aged thirty-nine years.

Brother Stewart was a native of Kentucky. He went from his native State when young to Iowa, with his father and mother, Rev. William and Mary Jane Stewart, from Iowa to Missouri just before the war between the States. At the commencement of hostilities he entered the Southern army and remained until the close of the war, serving in Gen. Parson's brigade, Missouri troops. A year or so before the war he was married to Miss Angeline Jamison, daughter of Rev. Mr. Jamison, a Baptist minister. During the war his wife and only child died, and at the close he settled in this parish (Bossier), in 1867 was again married, being united to Miss Mary E. Walker, of this parish, with whom he lived happily until his death.

The writer knew Rev. R. M. Stewart intimately for eleven years, and knew him to be a kind husband, indulgent father, true friend and pious Christian. He was ever ready to help the suffering and needy.

Brother Stewart was a local preacher, was licensed to preach under the ministry of Rev. H. O. White in 1871, I believe. He was not what the world calls a successful minister, but he had a strong influence for good those around him for good. He leaves many friends and relatives to mourn his death.

A FRIEND.

Rev. W. Oliver Booth, a minister widely known and respected for more than fifty years in the Wesleyan ministry, died at his residence, Oakfield-road, Hackney Downs, London, recently, and was followed to the grave by his wife, who died suddenly two days after.

The Christian Advocate.

THURSDAY, MAY 29, 1879.

SAFE-FOLDED.

BY CAROLINE LESLIE.

Oh, it is hard when o'er the face,
We scarce can see for weeping,
The little, loving baby face
That last, still shade comes creeping;
Full hard to close the tender eyes,
And fold the hands for sleeping.

Yet, when the world our own would claim,
It doth not greatly grieve us;
We calmly see, as days go by,
Our little children leave us,—
And, smiling, heed not how the swift,
Soft-footed years be cave us.

Oh, mother-hearts! I count you rich
Beyond mere earth-possessing,
Whose little babies never grow
Away from your carressing—
Safe-folded in His tender arms,
Who gives again, with blessing.

—Sunday Afternoon.

Mexican Border Missions.

BY A. H. SUTHERLAND, SUPERINTENDENT.

Seeing Bro. Graves' letter of the eighth ultimo, and being acquainted with the cordial response to his request for books, and not remembering of having seen, for nearly a year and a half, any other notice of, or communication from, the missions in the "Nashville," and, knowing that they are also a part of the work of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, of which said Advocate professes to be the special organ, I have thought it worth while to also speak a few words.

Silence in the columns of the Advocate has not implied inactivity along the border. We have hardly had time to talk or write, so great has been the growth of the work on our hands. Souls are being converted, and preachers are being raised up all over the country.

In correcting a small mistake or two, made by Bro. Graves, I am led to give a few incidents. He states that the Rev. Crecencio A. Rodriguez, of San Antonio City, was the neighbor and convert of Tafolla; whereas, it is the Rev. Jose Policarpio Rodriguez, of Bandera Mexican Mission. Bro. Polly Rodriguez (the last named so known altogether) is a very interesting character, and of much more than ordinary abilities and energy for a Mexican. He owns one of the loveliest places and farms in west Texas. For many years before the civil war he was a guide to the United States troops on this frontier, and many and thrilling are the incidents of frontier life and Indian warfare he can relate. But God has converted him soundly and thoroughly to Himself and service; and now, the daring guide and Indian fighter may be seen threading the same mountain-paths and passes, an humble Methodist circuit-rider, carrying the gospel to his own countrymen. Now he tunes his voice to another chorus, leads another band, which takes up the march to another and a better country, no more to danger and to death. He has an old mountain pony, gray with age, but still strong and active, on which he has chased many a band of Indians; but now he submits to jog quietly along with his master to his preaching-places. Is not that pony also converted? Many have been the trials and triumphs of this truly zealous man. His home, once equally the place of the mass and the dance, was converted immediately into a house of prayer. He being at home, I suppose no morning or evening has passed since his conversion without a chapter from the Bible, a hymn of praise, and a prayer to God through the one Mediator.

Much opposition did he receive from his own family, who pronounced him crazy. Some community interest, a day or two afterward, called all the neighborhood together, when, as usual, he was unanimously elected president of the meeting; but his heart was so full of the "one thing needful" that he asked permission, before proceeding to business, to make a general confession to them of his past conduct. He stated to them that he had been accustomed to consider himself better than they, and had been dictatorial; but as God had forgiven him, he hoped they would also, as he now considered himself no better than they—that he had been a great sinner, but hoped that they would come to the same willing and waiting Saviour. Like young converts frequently, he was surprised to find that everybody did not see the matter as he did; and that, instead of manifesting gratification, they voluntarily retired, leaving him alone, saying that he had turned Protestant, and was crazy. But his was not a fire that could be quenched; and his course has been straightforward, many having answered his call to repentance and a better life. The word that the Spirit used to fully bring him out from Rome, and to Christ, was spoken by a young Mexican preacher, Bro. Armendariz, and is St. John xiv, 6. What a weapon with which to war the saintism of Rome! Many scores have been saved by that verse.

Crecencio A. Rodriguez, of San Antonio, is perhaps the most astute Mexican preacher we have. He is truly an intellectual and eloquent man, and has done great good for the cause among his countrymen. Six months before we had a missionary in San Antonio, or vicinity, I spent several days on the San Antonio river and the Calmuas creek, which are thickly populated by that people. At that time (June and July, 1875,) I could speak but little Spanish, but could read it, and sing several hymns. As I went from house to house, in my carriage, selling and distributing Bibles, books and tracts, I remember well going up to a house that was being erected, and where there were many Mexicans congregated. The dueno (owner) came out, to whom I sold a Bible, donated a copy of "Noches con los Romanistas." (Evenings with the Romanists,) and for whom I sang a hymn or two, sitting in my carriage. God touched his heart. I explained my mission, and told him that before long we would have a preacher of their own nation to come and preach the gospel to them in their own language. A short time ago he told me that as I said these words he offered up to God a silent prayer that he might be the preacher! His prayer was answered. From that moment, as few men have ever done, he dedicated his attention and all his energies to the study of those two books. For a Romanist, what two books could be more useful? The Bible the guide to God, and "Noches" the guide from Rome to the Bible. He devoured and digested the arguments and doctrines of both, saying nothing to his family, friends or priests, until he was fully convinced of the truths of Protestantism, and that Rome was a gross apostasy and idolatry. He then carefully prepared a list of questions for the priest, and propounded them to him at his next visit. These questions he could not answer—no priest could have answered them. Being pushed to the wall, he became enraged, and left the house with his bitterest anathemas upon it, never to return. From strength to strength Bro. Crecenclo has gone on, and will yet doubtless make his mark as an able defender and propagator of the faith among his people.

Let us take a glance at the growth of Protestantism among that people since. At that time, and for a year after, there was no member of the church among the Mexicans of either city or vicinity; but since June, 1876, over three hundred souls have been brought into the church, and among and from them God has raised up eight preachers, of whom seven are in the itineracy, and the other is a faithful local preacher. Behold, what hath God wrought! For thirty years these people had been surrounded by Protestantism, and yet were almost entirely ignorant of its existence and doctrines. But now, when they "hear in their own tongue" the "wonderful works," and love of God, they are found in many instances willing to accept the word.

Bro. Polly Rodriguez (the first mentioned) is the only other Mexican preacher among us who understands the English language, and Bro. Tafolla has provided him with copies of "Watson's Dictionary" and "Institutes," as he received two copies of each.

Now, as Bro. Graves succeeded so well in securing donations of books to a good cause, we are going to venture in the same direction. We would not object at all to having sent us any good works on Romanism, either by Protestant or Romish authors—the latter especially desirable—for, as we know the Protestant arguments, we now want the Roman Catholic teachings. We want to sustain our charges by their own witnesses. We have collected a good many of their works in Spanish, and find many "variations," but if any one has any of their standards to give away, in a good cause, we would be most happy to be the recipient. This is not exactly begging, but giving an opportunity to do good in a quiet way. We are sent to war against the mightiest of all false systems, and the church has never provided us literally any arms. We have done the best we could with the weapons that our short means could command. So send along any books on Romanism, pro or con, that you may be able to spare. But along with them, and even without them, send us your prayers, that our work may accomplish that whereunto it is sent—that the thousands who lie buried in the ruins of Rome may be rescued.

Address me always, San Antonio, Texas. Any such works sent to the Rev. Joseph Norwood, Laredo, Texas, would be just as gratefully received.

—Nashville Christian Advocate.

Something Like Stewardship.

Nothing is made more clear in the Bible than that Christians are stewards; all they have is committed to them to be used to the best advantage for the Lord; and yet, perhaps, no doctrine of Scripture is less regarded. Many Christian men and women, some of them in official positions in churches, seem to think it no wrong to spend money for things that are of no service either to the Lord or themselves; nay, upon things that are hurtful, and consequently condemned by Scripture. Of such expenditures are all those for intoxicating drinks, tobacco, unnecessary finery and evil or doubtful amusements.

Other Christians, though they may make no unnecessary expenditure for their own gratification, yet hoard the wealth which they do not need and never expect to need, and perhaps add annually to it.

Neither of these classes think they are doing any wrong or breaking any commandment, because they leave out of view altogether the fact that they are only stewards of what God in his bounty has entrusted to their care. Neither class is called to an account by or suffers in the estimation of the world, but both will unquestionably be called to a strict account at the last day. Jesus will reckon with all His stewards, and they who waste their talents, and they who bury them, will doubtless be judged together in the way set before us in the parables of Scripture. The Lord may say that thousands of heathen were perishing day by day who might have been reached by His gospel if His stewards had been faithful. And what answer will they make?

We do not believe that any one should give the money needed to feed, clothe and educate his family, provided that is done with a due regard to economy; but we cannot see that any one who spends money on unnecessary and, it may be, hurtful things, can vindicate his stewardship.

In like manner a man is not required to give to missions the capital necessary for carrying on his business, but a due proportion of his profits should go to the Lord's cause, and if capital becomes superfluous let the superfluity go.

There are many demands on the Christian to whom the Lord entrusts wealth, all of which should be met in the measure of their importance, but the three-fourths of the human race who are perishing in ignorance of the gospel of Christ have, it appears to us, a master claim, which has been laid upon His followers by the Lord Himself.

Wherever this claim is met in any adequate measure by wealthy men, the joy of Christians generally is great, and it is with the utmost pleasure that we state the following cases.

The last number of the American Missionary, the organ of the association of that name, which is chiefly occupied with the evangelization of the freedmen of the South and the Chinese of the Pacific coast, announces that a heavy debt which hung over the association has been paid, or provided for, and that it has received, in addition to its ordinary contributions last month, a check for $10,000 from Moses P. Page, of New Hampshire, not for its ordinary expenditures, but to be used in future work, the desire of the donor being to extend and increase the society's usefulness. Some generous friends of the African race also have combined to erect an institution in Austin, Texas, to educate colored youths. Already an eligible site of eight acres has been secured, and $10,000 toward the erection of buildings.

Another and still larger sum has been offered to this society by an English Christian, to induce it to begin a mission in equatorial Africa, being part of a magnificent scheme planned by the donor for the evangelization of the regions discovered by Livingstone, Baker, Stanley and others.

As this scheme is something unique in the history of missions we shall briefly describe it.

Robert Arthington, of Leeds, England, has laid out in his own mind, with the aid of the best obtainable information, a zone of about twenty degrees in width, with the equator in the middle, extending across Africa. This he has divided into fields for the different missionary societies, giving each ample verge. Some of these fields are already occupied by English and Scotch societies, and in order to induce other societies to occupy the remaining fields of this zone he offers large help to them.

We have already mentioned his offer of $5,000 to the American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions to induce them to occupy a portion of this zone, and now he offers $15,000 to the American Missionary Association for a like purpose. He has already given $25,000 to the English Church Missionary Society, and a like sum to the London Missionary Society, for missions commenced in the regions discovered by Livingstone, and he gave the English Baptist Missionary Society $5,000 to help begin a mission on the River Congo. Let us recapitulate these gifts for Africa of Mr. Arthington.

SUBSCRIPTIONS PAID.

Church Missionary Society	$25,000
London Missionary Society (Congregational)	25,000
Baptist Missionary Society	5,000
SUBSCRIPTIONS OFFERED.
American Board	5,000
American Missionary Association	15,000
Total	$75,000

We have little doubt that any of these last-named societies accepting his money and going vigorously to work would get still further help from him.

This is what we call something like stewardship.

Who will second Mr. Arthington? Daily Witness.

Religious Intelligence.

—The Presbyterians contributed for various purposes last year an average of $14 60 per member; the Congregationalists, $8 80.

—Upward of $35,000 has been raised toward a memorial of Mrs. Tait, wife of the Archbishop of Canterbury.

—The new French Protestant daily paper is to be started in Paris April 16, with Mr. Leon Pilatte, of Nice, as editor. Its title is to be Le Reformateur, Anti-Clerical et Republicain.

—In China there are four hundred Christian workers from abroad, three hundred churches, and thirty thousand communicants. In the Pacific Islands there are seventy thousand church members.

—The London Missionary Society is about to send out two more missionaries to join its Tanganyika (Africa Mission.) and the Secretary, Dr. Mullens, will go himself to Zanzibar for the purpose of organizing and guiding the mission.

—It is stated that no translation of the whole of the Bible exists in the Zulu language. The Book of Genesis was translated by the Bishop of Natal into Zulu in 1861, portions of the psalms in 1850, and the New Testament in 1866.

—The Biennial Conference of the Evangelical Alliance of the United States will be held in St. Louis, beginning October 28, 1879. There will be addresses on topics under Christian doctrines, Christian life and Christian work.

—There has been an extensive revival among the Baptist Churches of South Wales, chiefly as the result of Miss Sheppard's preaching. The converts were so numerous in some instances as to require a whole day to baptize them.

—The American Board announces the receipt of $52,797 toward the liquidation of last year's debt, an unexpectedly large amount. Among the donations was one of $1,000.

—The Society of Friends has only 14,000 members in Great Britain, and has a very small annual increase. Last year only 160 new members were added. The Society is nevertheless very active.

—In the last twenty years, the American Bible Society has sent 40,000 volumes of Scripture to Mexico and aided in distributing many more which were sent from London. The British Society has wrought on a still larger scale.

—The Most Rev. Bishop Medley, of Fredericton, was elected Metropolitan of Canada, at the House of Bishops, held in the Synod Office at Montreal. There were present the Bishops of Fredericton, Nova Scotia, Ontario, Quebec, Algoma, Niagara and Montreal.

—There are now in France about 26 Baptist Churches with several associated village preaching stations. Of these, five are aided by the Baptist Missionary Society, and seven are connected with the American Baptist Union. The total membership is nearly 800, and there are nearly 500 Sunday scholars.

—More work for the world by missionaries. The king of the Belgians, lately being in England, took the pains to express to a deputation of the Church Missionary Society, his thanks for the valuable assistance rendered by Dr. Baxter of that society to Belgian explorers in Central Africa.

—Three centuries after the advent of Christ there were about 5,000,000 Christians, and at the end of the sixth century there were about double that number. The gain in the United States alone during the last twenty-five years is estimated to have equalled the result of all these centuries.

—A bronze colossal statue of Dr. Livingston has been set up in Glasgow. It represents the heroic missionary explorer as in the act of addressing an audience, with the Bible in hand, and is a "remarkably faithful" likeness. On the panels of the granite pedestal of the statue are alto-relievos, illustrative of the life and work of Livingston.

—The whole population of a village in Southern Africa have abandoned caste and abjured their idols, which they have removed from the temples. They profess Christianity as they have themselves learnt it, without any human instruction, from the study of a single gospel and a few tracts which were left among them by an itinerating merchant.

—A Student's Missionary Society has been formed in connection with the Theological College of the Presbyterian Church of England, for the purpose of promoting among the students an interest in missions and of raising funds for mission work. Monthly meetings will be held, with papers and addresses.

—The London Society has sent out two young men to re-enforce the Tanganyika mission. Dr. Mullens, the secretary, is to go to Zanzibar to assist the new missionaries on their way and further to organize the mission. The Rev. Arthur Dodgshun, with the caravan, has almost reached the lake, after encountering numerous difficulties.

—At a recent missionary meeting in Philadelphia, an Episcopal clergyman said that "in India there were 188,000,000 persons and only 900 missionaries; in China 430,000,000 and 300 missionaries; and in Africa 205,000,000 persons to 400 missionaries. During the great walking match in New York $51,000 was taken, while the whole amount given by the Diocese of Pennsylvania in twelve months for missionary purposes was only $55,000."

—Says the Advocate of Missions: "The recent contribution of a thousand dollars, by the King of Siam, to establish a female school in Bangkok, really marks an era in the history of missions. Everything, indeed, indicates the ripeness of the heathen world for change. Yet this change must come gradually, must come slowly. We must not grow impatient, or precipitate measures. The steady, faithful preaching of the gospel by the missionaries is bearing fruit. Let the church pray for a revival of the missionary spirit."

—In New Zealand there are 496 ministers, distributed among the denominations as follows: Church of England 186; Presbyterian Church of New Zealand, 57; Roman Catholic, 62; Presbyterian Church of Otago, 48; Wesleyan Methodist, 74; Congregational, 13; Baptist, 14; Primitive Methodist, 16; United Methodist, 12; Lutheran, 8; Hebrew, 5; Church of Christ, 1. These are the government figures for 1879. It will be seen that Anglicanism leads with 186; Presbyterianism next with 105; and then Methodism with 102. Leaving out the Hebrews, Protestantism towers over Roman Catholicism by the proportion of 429 to 62.

—The Rev. Dr. Shedd writes from Hamadan, Persia, a very interesting letter about a movement among the Jews of that place. One of the oldest colonies of Jews in the world is found at Hamadan. Their ancestors were carried captive by the Assyrian king twenty-five centuries ago. For months past the colony has been agitated by the question: "Is not Jesus the Messiah?" Four of the chief men, the heads of one thousand houses (about five thousand people,) have, after long trial been publicly baptized, and many others are asking to confess Christ. As in the days of the Apostles, all the city is moved, and one Nestorian helper is day and night beset with Jews seeking instruction in the New Testament.

—The annual reports from Ceylon show that the number of native Christians is now 6,370, and the communicants 1,512. The baptisms last year were—adults, 194; children, 217. There are 373 native agents, 222 schools and 9,500 scholars; also 140 Sunday-schools, with 2,600 scholars. The native Christians contributed to religious purposes last year Rs. 13,321, and from European friends there was received Rs. 45,081, making some £2,500 raised in the Island. One-half of the adult baptisms were in the Kandy Singhalese Mission, and 89 of these in connection with the itineracy, respecting which the Rev. S. Coles writes to the Church Missionary Society: "I doubt if ever there was before such a promising mission, whose progress and development was retarded from lack of men."

The Additional Home Bishoprics Fund has given £5,000 for the new see of Southwell.

Our Young People.

THE WISHING-CAP.

Dolly, here's a wishing-cap!
I'll tell you all about it;
I've only just to wear it, and
Be careful not to doubt it.

Tom my read aloud, last night,
About a little fellow
Who had one that was just like this,
Black velvet, trimmed with yellow.

Won't papa be surprised when I
Tell him his cap for smoking
Will give him anything he wants!
He'll think, I'm only joking.

Now dear, what shall we wish for, first?
I'd like a little pony,
So you and I could ride about,
Our own two selves, dooney.

Why don't it come? You naughty doll,
I wish I hadn't spoken!
You've doubted the dear wishing-cap,
And now the charm is broken!

—C. L. H., in Wide Awake.

To-Morrow.

"I will do it to-morrow."

"It should be done to-day. No one knows what to-morrow will bring."

"But, Uncle Granville, Aunt Jane wants this weeding finished. The weeds grow so fast this warm, damp weather they need to be pulled up root and branch."

"Your Aunt Jane wanted the weeds pulled yesterday."

"Yes, sir; but I was cleaning the cellar yesterday."

"The cellar ought to have been cleaned the day before. You are a day behind in all your work, and you have been so ever since you came here."

"Why, uncle! I try to work fast."

"You do work fast, but you are never ready to begin on time. You can finish the weeding to-day and set the plants to-morrow, but you must expect some inconvenience from counting to-morrow as better than to-day."

This remark troubled Enston Davis. He feared he should be deprived of some pleasure by his procrastination; but after his uncle left him, he became so much interested in his work that he quite forgot the warning, and lay down to sleep that night without a misgiving as to the morrow. The next morning he awoke early, and looking from the window congratulated himself upon the weather as being favorable for transplanting. In a week's time no one would know whether it was done to-day or the day previous.

He, however, had reason to remember the delay. He was busy at work when he saw the family preparing for a drive, and was told that they were going to the lake for a day's fishing.

"I am sorry you are not ready to go with us, but those plants must be set," said his Aunt Jane, with a real sympathy for the boy, whose sad good bye and tearful face made her half repent leaving him at home.

"It is a great inconvenience to be a day behind, but we can't wait for you to catch up," remarked his uncle as they drove away, while Enston looked after them regretfully.

Such a long day as followed! There was time to accomplish far more than the prescribed task. Some good resolutions were formed, and many anticipations of better times indulged. When the party returned in the evening, and Mr. Davis requested his nephew to assist in dressing the fish which had been caught, the latter put aside the book he was reading, and in which he was greatly interested, without a word in regard to waiting.

"Enston, I have seen a man to-day known by the name of 'Old To-morrow,'" said the uncle as they worked together. "People say he never was known to do anything until the day after time. He had a good farm given him by his father, but he was always behind with his work. He never got his seed into the ground in season; so, of course, he lost the best part of the time for the growing of his crops. He was behind with haying and harvesting, and his apples often froze on the trees. If there was a break in the fence, he let it go till his own or his neighbors' cattle trespassed on his fields; and in the fall, when his sheep needed folding he left them out till some of them died from exposure or were buried under the snow. He was always going to do all these things to-morrow. What kind of a farmer should you call such a man?"

"A poor one, of course, uncle. A farmer needs to keep everything right up to the mark."

"Yes, he does; but no more than others. If you lose a day, you may run after it all the year, but you will never overtake it. Old To-morrow was on his way to the poor-house this morning. He mortgaged his farm and saw it sold at auction, all because he put off till to-morrow what should be done to-day. People all say he was a kind-hearted man, but that didn't save him from the natural consequences of his shiftless habits. He bought too late to take advantage of the market, and sold too late because he waited for the day which never comes."

"What day was that?" asked Enston.

"To-morrow," was replied.

"But to-morrow does come, uncle."

"Never, my boy. What we talk of as 'to-morrow' will be to-day when it comes. We live only in the present, and a day lost is lost forever. Many a general of a great army has sacrificed thousands of lives because he delayed to move his troops until to-morrow; and there are thousands of men in our country wretchedly poor because, when they were boys, they acquired the same habit which kept you at home while we wanted you at the lake. Present opportunities are real and golden; future opportunities are unreliable and shadowy."

"Then I take the golden and leave the shadowy," exclaimed Enston. "When I am a man, nobody shall call me 'Old To-morrow.' But I know lots of boys who put off things just as much as I have, and need to make up for lost time just as much as I did. I can tell you, though, there'll be one less after this. I'll look out for every to-day, and then I shall make sure of every to-morrow."—Mary Dwinnell Chellis, in Well Spring.

Patches and Heroes.

"Three! four! five! How funny!" cried the girls. "Hurrah!" shouted the boys. What were they counting? Yes; the patches on poor little Constance's dress. She heard every word, and the boys' loud laugh. Poor little heart! At first she looked down, then the tears came with a great rush, and she tried to run home.

"Cry-baby!" said the boys.

"Don't want her to sit next to me," said Ella Gray.

"What right has she to come to our school?" whispered proud Lily Gross.

"There! don't mind a word they say!" exclaimed Douglas Stewart, leaving the group of rude boys and trying to comfort Constance. "Let me carry your books," he continued. "Cheer up!" It is only a little way to your home, isn't it?"

Constance looked up through her tears to see the bravest boy in the school by her side.

"I live in the little house under the hill," said Constance. "It isn't like your grand house."

"No matter for that; it has pretty vines and climbing roses, and it's a very nice house to live in," said Douglas. "I dare say you are happy there."

"Yes; I don't want to come to this school again," said Constance, softly.

"Oh, things will be all right in a day or two," said the boy, kindly. "Never mind them just now."

They had been talking of heroes a little while before; they had been wishing to be like Alexander, Cesar and Napoleon. There was not a hero among them except this same Douglas Stewart, who dared to stand out before all his schoolmates and befriend this poor, forlorn little girl.—S. S. Visitor.

PRAYING AND DOING.—"Bless the poor children who haven't got any beds to night," prayed a little boy just before he lay down on his nice warm cot on a cold, windy night.

As he rose from his knees, his mother said: "You have just asked God to bless the poor children; what will you do to bless them?"

The boy thought a moment. "Why, if I had a hundred cakes, enough for all the family, I would give them some."

"But you have no cakes; what then are you willing to do?"

"When I get money enough to buy all the things I want, and have some over, I'll give them some."

"But you haven't enough money to buy all you want, and perhaps never will have; what will you do to bless the poor now?"

"I'll give them some bread."

"You have no bread—the bread is mine."

"Then I could earn money and buy a loaf myself."

"Take things as they now are—you know what you have that is your own; what are you willing to help the poor?"

The boy thought again. "I'll give them half my money; I have seven peonies. I'll give them four. Wouldn't that be right?"

A LESSON OF TRUST.—Some time ago a boy was discovered in the street, evidently bright and intelligent, but sick. A man who had feelings of kindness strongly developed, went to ask him what he was doing there.

"Waiting for God to come for me," he said.

"What do you mean?" said the gentleman, touched by the pathetic tone of the answer, and the condition of the boy, in whose bright eye and flushed face he saw the evidence of fever. "God sent for father, and mother, and little brother," said he, "and took them away up to his home in the sky, and mother told me when she was sick that God would take care of me. I have nobody to give me anything and so I came out here, and have been looking so long in the sky for God to come and take care of me, as mother said he would. He will come—won't He? Mother never told me a lie."

"Yes my lad," said the gentleman, overcome with emotion. "He has sent me to take care of you."

You should have seen his eye flash and the smile of triumph break over his face as he said: "Mother never told me a lie, sir; but you have been so long on the way."

What a lesson of trust; and how this incident shows the effect of never deceiving children with idle tales.

THE DOLLS OF JAPAN.—The dolls of Japan are quite an institution, and are the funniest things imaginable. They look so like real babies and children that I have often been deceived when I have seen them in the arms, carried about the streets. Besides playing with dolls at New Year's time, and any other when they choose, there are two days set apart in April for what is called a "Doll's Festival," and all the girls, and even big women, make a great time of it. They take them out to walk and visit and get new dresses for them, and treat them just as tenderly as if they were live children. You may think it funny for women to do this, but the poor Japanese women have a very aimless life, and I think playing with dolls is about as harmless a way for them to get pleasure as they could find.—Mrs. Pruyn, in the Companion.

Scene in a debating society: President—We will take the ayes and noes on the previous question. Member—A word or two, Mr. President: Friends, Romans, Countrymen! lend me your ears. President—Order, sir! We will take the eyes and nose first.

The Christian Advocate.

ORGAN OF THE ALABAMA, MISSISSIPPI AND LOUISIANA CONFERENCES OF THE M. E. CHURCH, SOUTH.

THURSDAY, MAY 29, 1879.

REV. LINUS PARKER, D. D., Editor.

OFFICE.—112 CAMP ST., NEW ORLEANS.

Foreign Missions.

The true foreign missionary is the highest type of Christian manhood. The sacrifices demanded are peculiar and greater than those of ministers in the regular pastorate or on domestic missions. These are generally among people of their own race, and are surrounded by a Christian civilization. They are under the protection of just and equitable laws, and they are citizens of the country in which they live. They do not have to contend with idolatry, with long established and cruel superstitions. They everywhere find some sympathy and support from those among whom they labor, and, however meager, they are always near the base of their supplies. The foreign missionary is an exile from his country, home and kindred, a stranger in a strange land, and frequently subjected to peril, and nearly always to persecution in some form. He does not go as a mere tourist to see strange countries, to gratify curiosity, or to seek for adventure. He goes to grapple with the power of darkness as it is enthroned in heathen ignorance, and with the fanaticisms of religious error. He must acquire foreign languages and dialects, and toil on patiently and bravely amidst all manner of dangers and discouragements. However well supported by strong missionary boards, and however exempt from physical want, still the sacrifices of the missionary and his family are very great.

It takes a certain order of capacity, and a certain greatness of character, as well as varied and manifold attainments, to make a good foreign missionary. It may not be necessary that he be in every respect equal to a Coke, or a Judson, or a Carey, but he must be a Christian man of great force of character, of abundant resources in himself, well trained and cultured in learning and science, and, above all, a man wholly devoted to the work of Christ. It must be such a man as has sacrificed to make, and who cheerfully makes them. As the Conferences and home work become crowded, and as the support and facilities of going abroad improve, the offering of men for the foreign work will become more abundant. Those who have the matter in hand must pick their men, and women, also, with care. This is necessary, not only that we may have effective workers in the field, but that the church at home may be rallied to their support. This depends greatly upon the interest felt in the missionary, and the people must be convinced that he is worth supporting.

Our greatest, strongest and best men are needed for this work—men who are known and honored by the whole church, and who can draw the thought; conscience and sympathies of the whole church after them in their distant missions. For the devoted men already sent abroad we have only words of commendation and praise. We do not reflect upon them when we say that men suitable for foreign missions are not particularly plentiful, and that they should be sought among the best men we have.

As the foreign missionary is the embodiment of all that is noblest in Christian character, so the cause itself is the queen of all the enterprises that appeal to our Christian liberality. It seems to lie farther from us than other religious interests, and yet it is the one to engage our deepest attention. It is the highest exhibition of Christian duty and benevolence. The command is plain to go into all the world, and, as the light of the world and the salt of the earth, Christians must cover the earth with gospel truth. It is not material to this question of duty whether missions have accomplished much or little, or whether the knowledge of the glory of the Lord will ever cover the earth. It must be drilled into the conscience that Christ requires this of us: that we give the gospel to all men. Not much can be done until this conviction of duty is fastened in the mind of the church. And this conviction is as yet very feeble, and far from universal among us. It is not likely to be found except in the most enlightened of consciences, and the most spiritual of souls.

There is a higher and perhaps more powerful principle than the mere sense of duty. If we could look upon these distant people as Christ looks upon them, with the pity and love which He feels for them, our maximum of endeavor would be put forth at once. But, in fact, this deep agonizing for people in other parts of the world is exceedingly rare. The measure of our missionary spirit is the measure of the Spirit of Christ that is in us. To bring even Christian souls up to this broad and strong love would seem to be the most difficult of the achievements of grace. Our giving expresses the measure of our love for the lost—perhaps even more. If we had love enough, nothing could restrain our prayers and our giving. To be denied the privilege would be accounted a great sorrow. As things are with us, there is but little worthy the name of missionary zeal. Many barely suffer the appeals, and, under protest, respond languidly. Put the average church member on his defense, and he will say that other interests require all he is able to give, or that his money will do more good in other channels of benevolence. He needs a conscience awakened and instructed by the Spirit of Christ, and a love broader than the neighborhood in which he lives. What we ought to give for missions is so much over and above what we are giving for other objects, and the amount that we are giving should greatly exceed what it is.

Selfishness and covetousness are about equally in the way of all religious objects, but foreign missions have this in addition: that they are regarded as last and lowest in the scale of importance. We shall become a missionary church when all this is reversed, and when conscience and love are brought up to the loftier plane of the cross of Christ. Our leaders and instructors should aim at this. The need of the people is more light in regard to their duty, and a glowing love kindled from contact with the heart of Christ.

The Progress of Islam.

It is well to open our eyes to the fact, and let the zeal of the disciples of Mohammed shame and incite us to greater activity in spreading the gospel. We are hopeful that this Islam movement will prove only a means of transition from grosser forms of error to the purity and blessings of the Christian faith. The Christian Union says:

From the statistics recently published in the Christian Union, it will have been observed that nearly one-fifth of the whole of the dwellers on earth are disciples of Mohammed. As the Empress of India, Queen Victoria sways her scepter over nearly 50,000,000 of these, the Sublime Porte only exercising sovereignty over some 21,000,000, and that including those in Asiatic Turkey, Egypt, and the tributary States of Northern Africa. The followers of Islam have always been noted as propagandists. The tendency is not less strong to-day than it was in the times of the Prophet, except that the methods are changed. While the decadence of the Porte, Mohammedanism has lost much of its power as a system, and is now being propagated as an individual creed. The fire and sword of the Prophet, the galleys and impaling post, have gone the way of the rack, the "Virgin" and the Smithfield stake; and converts to the Moslem faith are being won by personal endeavor on the part of the faithful, aided by modern facilities for travel.

A paper on this subject recently issued by Herr Dr. Dollinger, the well-known ecclesiastic of the Old Catholic Church, conveys some startling information. From this we learn that in Africa whole tribes formerly given to fetichism and Obeah worship now will the shout Allah! il Allah! Mohammed rasoul Allah! At Sierra Leone there exists a Moslem university in which are being trained a thousand pupils, whose lives will undoubtedly influence the future of the Guinea Coast. In China the adherents of the creed are becoming so numerous that but lately they attempted a revolution. Fifty thousand are reckoned to reside in Tonquin alone. It is, however, amongst the Malays and the islanders of the Eastern Archipelago, of whom not less than 18,000,000 have been converted to Mohammedanism within a very few years, that the work of proselytism flourishes. Every one converted becomes an apostle in his turn, and by persistent individual effort upon the circle around him wins new disciples to the faith.

To quote Dollinger, "Islamism knows not the Roman distinction betwixt laymen and clergy, whence it results that each follower of Mohammed feels bound to work for the conversion of infidels in person." He does it successfully, too; while in the same countries the Christian missions make relatively but little headway. Islamism is constantly preached by the unanimity of its followers. Christianity too often is scandalized by sectarian controversy and retarded for lack of concerted effort.

Rare, indeed, are the conversions of the Moslem to Christianity. Except where, as in Spain, ground has been gained by force, there has been little change of a national character. Yet there has been a change in the character of the Mussulman mind. Its fanaticism is being modified, and a noteworthy fact, as we learn from the same paper, is the undertaking of a complete translation of the Bible by said Achmet Kuan, a Mussulman judge at Ghazipoor, upon the Ganges, which he believes ought to be a rule of faith and of life for his fellow-believers. "Politically," says Dr. Dollinger, "the extension of the Mussulman belief is a grave matter for the British Empire. Religiously, it behooves us all to search thoroughly and completely for the reasons that the teachings of the Evangelists do not more obviously assert their superiority to those of the Koran."

The fault, however, is not in the teachings. Does it lie in those who teach?

One of the most shocking manifestations of fanaticism known recently occurred near Cape Cod, Mass. Bishop Haven will doubtless continue to pour out his venom against the South and against Texas, but there have been crimes in a more northern latitude within the past twelve months that cannot be equaled in their monstrous atrocity by any other section. Second Adventism is scarcely to be held accountable for this horrible child murder. The fact that it happened in New England does not necessarily inculpate the people of that region. The New York Times gives the history as follows:

Charles F. Freeman became a leader among the Second Adventists. As time passed, he came to regard it as his duty to make some great sacrifice, which should result in a miracle, and fix the attention of mankind upon the new faith. Some time ago he announced this belief to several of his fellow-worshipers. Two weeks ago, as he says, the long expected revelation of the necessary sacrifice came to him in the night. It was then indicated to him that a member of his family must die by his hand. He talked the matter over with his wife, and persuaded her not to stand in "the Lord's way," as they both considered it. They had two daughters—Bessie, seven years old, and Edith, five years old. The latter was a sunny-haired child, the pet and idol of the household. The father prayed long to know who was appointed as the victim. He says he prayed that it might be himself, but it was not so to be. After patient waiting the second revelation came, late in the night of the murder. The pet, Edith, was pointed out as the sacrifice. The father was taken aback, but dared not resist the command of God. He awoke his wife, and told her what was demanded. Then the mother's heart refused to acquiesce in the unnatural deed. She begged hard for her darling's life, but the husband was inexorable. Working upon his poor wife's fear of displeasing God, he at last gained her consent. The scene that followed is horrible beyond precedent. After Freeman had knelt and prayed that he might be spared the test of his faith, he nerved himself for murder. He felt that he was another Abraham, and that God would either stay his hand or else raise his daughter from the dead, as a reward for his obedience. Then he and his wife went into the bed-room, where their two children lay sleeping, side by side. The mother carried the eldest to her own room. Freeman turned down the bed clothes from the form of little Edith, raised the knife which he had provided for the occasion, and waited to see if God would not interpose. After a vain watch he bent forward over the child, and with great care plunged the blade into Edith's heart. There was an exclamation, and all was over. The insane father clasped his pet in his arms, and held her till he was certain life was extinct. Then he laid down and slept by her side, satisfied that he had done the will of God.

When the news of the murder was told to his fellow-believers, although staggered by such a proof of faith, they joined Freeman in holding that God would restore the child to life. There was some protest, but so infatuated was this entire following, comprising more than a score of respectable people in Pocasset and its vicinity, that they did not look upon the action as a crime, and believed, with the perpetrator, that it was done by God's command.

Such instances as are mentioned in the following extract from the Christian Intelligencer show that there are rich men who feel the obligations of their stewardship. As the money and the property of the country fall more and more into the hands of the few, it is evident that the support of religious, educational and benevolent enterprises must also largely rest upon them. Neither churches nor colleges are built now by penny or shilling contributions. The main dependence is on large subscriptions and legacies from the wealthy. So far from these large contributions from the rich restraining the giving of the poor, they rather stimulate and encourage it. A penurious rich man in any church is a financial stumbling block. Those in moderate circumstances, and the poor, look to the example of the rich, and feel that the demands upon all should be in proportion to ability. The Intelligencer says:

Last week's exchanges bring a record of Christian liberality calculated to fill the hearts of believers with thankfulness. The May number of the Record (Presbyterian) announces that Messrs. R. L. and A. Stuart, of this city, gave about a month ago $25,000 to the Home Mission Board; $25,000 to the Foreign Missionary Board; $25,000 to the Board of Church Erection, and $5,000 to the Board of Ministerial Relief, all of the Presbyterian Church. The Examiner and Chronicle (Baptist) states that within a short time eight individuals have given $142,000 to promote the permanent interests of the Rochester Seminary. Of this Mr. John D. Rockefeller, of Cleveland, Ohio, gives $38,000 for a building suitable for library, chapel and lecture-room; Mr. William Rockefeller, of New York, gives $25,000 for books, to be expended as fast as the money can be spent discreetly; Mr. Charles Pratt, of Brooklyn, $25,000 for the establishment and endowment of a Professorship of Elocution; Mr. J. B. Trevor, of Yonkers, $25,000 to endow the Corresponding Secretaryship; Mr. J. B. Hoyt, of Stamford, Ct., $25,000 to endow the Professorship of Hebrew. Besides these, Dr. Nathan Bishop gives $2,000; Mr. S. S. Constant $1,000, and Mr. Wolverton $1,000—the last three of New York. Mr. John D. Rockefeller's offer for the building led the way to the other contributions. It is a great pleasure to find rich men giving according to their means, as they are bound to do as much as other men. Very frequently, in fact commonly, it has been said that if the wealthy give largely from their abundance, men of moderate incomes will diminish and withhold their contributions, and that large gifts are an injury to an undertaking resting upon the benevolence of men. Such an argument has been often upon the lips of rich men. We have never believed it to be supported by facts, and do not now. The legacy to the American Board of nearly a million will, we believe, give a fresh and vigorous impulse to the liberality of its constituents. We are convinced that the failure of the rich to give according to their ability is one of the chief reasons why those who are not rich allow themselves to be illiberal.

The Brinkley Affair.

Our Northern Methodist exchanges have given very exaggerated reports about the matter. It is difficult to get at the exact truth sometimes, and where "Southern outrages" are concerned some of our Northern brethren do not seem to care for the truth. Those who interfere with men, and murder or wrong them in any way on account of their religious or political opinions, deserve universal condemnation and the severest punishment. Good men cannot but wish that all violators of the law may be punished swiftly, but the spirit manifested by many Northern religious editors is tenfold worse than the evils they pretend to expose. We know Rev. Dr. Winfield to be well posted and altogether truthful, and this is what he says in the Western Methodist:

The Rev. Mr. Pollard is presiding elder of the district, and the Rev. Mr. Todd was sent to take charge of the colored population in and around Brinkley. Both of them commenced operations at Brinkley, Ark. They both testified that they were well treated till the evening of their arrest by white and colored. It seems that they made their home chiefly with the colored people; and their strange conduct attracted the attention of the town marshal, who had received notice from the secret Society of Detectives to look for two men claiming to be preachers, who had been guilty of some crime, I think, in Missouri. He told several parties in Brinkley of his suspicions, and his determination to arrest these parties, which he accordingly did, telling them at the time why they were arrested. As they were going to the marshal's office to be examined Mr. Todd ran, and was several times halted by the officer, but refused to stop, and the officer fired on him, wounding him in the leg. After a brief race the officer gave up the chase. Soon Mr. Todd returned and surrendered, and a doctor was called in to dress his wound. When the parties got ready to return to Little Rock Mr. Todd again took flight and ran off, and was several days in the swamp. Exposure, with the pistol wound, caused his death. It was purely his own fault, in running from an officer of the law. Neither his political nor his religious opinions had anything to do with his being shot, or causing his death. There is not a State in the Union freer from religious or political intolerance than the State of Arkansas, I know whereof I affirm. There is not a county in the State where any man, white or colored, cannot hold and preach any doctrine he pleases, from the vaguest superstition to the most complete orthodoxy. There is not a more peaceful community in the South, or in any other portion of the Union, than we find in and around Brinkley. It was one of those unfortunate affairs to be regretted by all, and yet liable to happen anywhere.

This whole matter was fully investigated by a coroner's jury, and the coroner and jury are well known to me as men of the finest character and reputation.

A Trip to Nashville.

THE MAY MEETINGS.

The annual May meeting of the Board of Missions summoned me to Nashville—my first visit to the "City of Rocks." Leaving Vicksburg at four P. M. on Monday, the fifth instant, I arrived in Nashville on Wednesday at four A. M. My route was by way of Meridian and Chattanooga—not very direct, 'tis true, describing the two sides of a triangle—but was very pleasant, and made doubly advantageous, because of special accommodations extended by my honored Presbyterian friend, Col. George D. Lawrence, so well known to railroad fame. Nearing Chattanooga, the scenery is quite charming, especially to one who had not seen it before. On one side we look out the car-window at Lookout mountains rising in grandeur toward the skies; on the other we see the broad, beautiful Tennessee river, and the green, luxuriant valleys stretching far beyond. Chattanooga has grown rapidly but solidly, and is fast becoming in factories and foundries the Pittsburg of Tennessee. From this city to Nashville I had the pleasant company of Drs. Haygood and Potter, of Georgia—the one a member of the Book Committee, the other of the Board of Missions.

The Bishops were all present on Wednesday morning, and attended during the week not only their own meetings, but the sessions of the Book Committee and Board of Missions. Bishops Paine and Pierce looked worn and enfeebled, exciting the fear that the church cannot long enjoy their presence, wise counsels and active ministry. All the others are robust, and capable of the great toil and endurance characteristic of their office and history.

The meeting of the Book Committee, as Dr. Young remarked, "now means work." They act in every sense as a bank directory. Every item of business, all receipts and expenditures, pass under critical, business like review. They are no longer simply an advisory board, with no advice to give, but are constituent members of the commercial household, and responsible for its management. They have labored with commendable zeal and watchful fidelity. While the indefatigable agent, Dr. McFerrin, and the faithful business manager, Mr. L. D. Palmer, deserve all praise, this Book Committee will command the lasting obligations of the church. We can now rejoice in the safety of the house. The net profits from the business during eleven months, I learned, amounted to about $14,000. Nearly $230,000 of four per cent. bonds have been sold, almost assuring entire success.

The Board of Missions met on Thursday morning, and, though holding two sessions a day, did not adjourn until Monday afternoon. Reports from the foreign fields were all greatly encouraging, and increased appropriations were made to extend the work. Two young men, one from Virginia and another from Kentucky, will sail for the China mission in a few months. The missionary tone of the church is steadily improving, and the board looks for largely increased contributions during the present year. Mrs. Hays, of Baltimore, president of the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society, and other ladies in Nashville, en route to the Louisville Convention, were introduced to the board, and gave cheering reports of their work. In some Conferences auxiliary societies are being formed very rapidly. South Carolina has thirty; North Georgia, the banner, has a few more. Mrs. Hays gave pleasing testimony to the gracious reflex spiritual results to all engaged in this blessed enterprise.

Nashville is quite a Methodist city. Two churches in the city—McKendree and Elm Street—have an aggregate membership of sixteen hundred. The new McKendree is a magnificent structure, well worthy the leading congregation of Southern Methodism. The audience room, with a sitting capacity of nearly one thousand, in acoustic properties, choir, pulpit, altar and pew arrangements, is a model of accuracy and taste.

A grand Sunday school mass meeting at McKendree on Sunday afternoon was a special feature of the day. Its success was mostly due to the enterprising superintendent of McKendree Sunday-school, Prof. Lupton, of Vanderbilt University. The spacious audience was crowded to overflowing. Bishop Paine presided. Bishop Pierce read the Scripture lesson, and prayer was offered by Dr. Cunnyngham. Many beautiful songs from our latest book, "New Life," were sung, and addresses delivered by Rev. S. A. Steel, Dr. Fitzgerald, and the correspondent. This was followed by the "Old Ship of Zion," sung by a thousand voices, and the exercises concluded with the benediction by Bishop Wightman. It was one of the most enthusiastic, inspiring Sunday-school gatherings it has ever been my pleasure to attend.

At night I worshiped again at McKendree, and heard an excellent sermon from Rev. S. A. Steel, of Columbus, Miss. I noticed a little peculiarity in the order of worship which has been introduced by the enterprising, successful pastor, Dr. Kelley. This is the order, as nearly as can be recalled: 1. The Doxology—congregation standing. 2. Reading the Scriptures. 3. Prayer—congregation kneeling. 4. Singing—congregation sitting. 5. Preaching. 6. Singing—congregation standing. 7. Prayer—congregation kneeling, concluded with benediction.

Of the Vanderbilt, of pleasant associations formed, and many things seen and heard, I proposed to write, but this letter has already grown beyond editorial prescription.

C. B. G.

William Lloyd Garrison is dead. He was born in 1806, and for more than forty years has been known to the American people as an abolitionist and philanthropist.——A treaty has at last been concluded with the Ameer of Afghanistan, and there will be peace between him and the English.——The Zulu war continues, but there has been no very recent fighting. The end is probably near at hand.——The Russian government is pursuing the Nihilists vigorously. Death or Siberia are the penalties, and these are being inflicted upon men and women, and upon persons of every class.——Congress has passed the Legislative Appropriation Bill. Its veto by the President is expected. The Silver Bill, for account of which see our news columns, passed the House a few days ago, and is now in the Senate. After the coming veto shall be received Congress will consider what is to be done. The usual appropriations will probably be made, and then the members will go home. The country must decide between them and the President.

Tuesday, May 27, was something of a red-letter day in the way of weddings among the New Orleans Methodists. At one o'clock P. M., at the Carondelet Street Church, Bishop Keener united his son, Rev. John O. Keener, and Miss Phala Mathews, daughter of Rev. John Mathews, in the bonds of holy matrimony. The floral devices and decorations about the pulpit and altar were profuse and beautiful. A large company gathered to witness the impressive ceremony, and to congratulate the happy couple. They are to leave for the parsonage in Gleenville, Ala., in a few days. We doubt not a most hearty reception awaits them there. Miss Phala's many friends here, and especially the Carondelet Street congregation, to whom she has ministered as organist for the past two years, will give her up with reluctance. She will be also greatly missed by the Sunday-school, in which she has been a teacher for some time. May Heaven's richest blessings rest upon her and upon him to whom she has given heart and hand.

In the evening of the same day, in the same place, at eight o'clock, Rev. Dr. W. H. Watkins, of Jackson, Mississippi, officiated at the marriage of his son, Dr. J. M. Watkins, and Miss Ella McMillion. On this occasion there was also a large attendance of kindred and friends, and the rites were solemnized in the most beautiful and appropriate manner. Dr. Watkins is established in a successful medical practice in this city, and he and his bride are to remain permanently among us. We congratulate them on their auspicious and happy union, and pray that their wedded life may be long and prosperous.

Rev. J. E. Newman, writing from Limeira, Provincia de Sao Paulo, Brazil, March 24, 1879, says: "I enclose you the obituary of one of my official members, William R. Brown. He was religious from his boyhood, and has many friends living in Mississippi. He was one of the best men I have ever known in my life—one whose pure and useful life has left a deep impression for good on the hearts of all who knew him. We shall miss him very much from our American Society, but especially in our church. It is hard to give up such a man, though we know he has gone to that blessed home where we all hope to meet at last.

"The ADVOCATE for December and January has come to hand; as yet the February numbers have not been received. You can have little idea of how much we rejoiced to see the ADVOCATE once more. It was like meeting an old and dear friend. Long may you live to perpetuate its good work in the church of God. A religious paper is useful in any part of the world, but they are doubly so to those who are situated as we are in this country. They are expensive to us, costing $4 per year, yet we cannot do without them. I would write short articles for your paper, but that there is so little certainty about your getting them.

"Bro. Ransom is doing finely in Rio; a great field is opening before him. The church at home must sustain him in his work, as it grows on his hands."

Delhi District, Louisiana Conference.

Rev. James L. Wright, writing from Trenton, La., May 21, 1879, says: I herewith forward the resolutions passed, and ordered to be published.

Resolved, That we indorse and heartily recommend the literature edited by Dr. Cunningham for the use of Sunday-schools, and recommend its use in all our schools.

Resolved, That we are pleased with the conduct of the NEW ORLEANS CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE, and will continue our efforts to promote its circulation, and when requested and authorized will try to collect its dues.

There will be a copy of the memoir, reported by the committee, sent to you for publication.

Our Sunday-School Convention did nothing, except arrange for another to be held at Delhi, on the first Wednesday, I believe, in May next.

Our District Conference was a most pleasant and profitable season.

Delegates elected to the Annual Conference: Dr. A. S. Helmick, A. W. Wailes, A. M. Morris, and C. T. Monholland, local preacher. Alternates—Joseph Gorton, T. C. Sandifer and J. Moore.

I suppose you have learned that Bishop McTyeire has appointed Rev. B. F. Alexander to the presiding eldership of our district. This pleases us exactly.

My work is somewhat promising. We think we will have good times, and a good work this year. Crop prospect very good; money scarce.

The New York Observer has an account of some very generous givings. When will people count it a privilege—the great and peculiar privilege of the rich—to give, and to give munificently? The Observer says:

The recent gift of $136 000 to the Rochester Theological Seminary has been increased by means of several donations from persons in this city to $150 000. The late Dr. Buckland, of the Seminary, left a library of about 2 000 volumes, including a valuable collection of books on church history. John H. Dean, of New York, has purchased this library, and presented it to the trustees of the University of which the Seminary is a part.

The gift of $5 000 from the Stone estate in Malden, to Fisk University at Nashville, has already been followed by a donation of $20 000 from the estate of the late R. R. Graves, of New York. The Tennessee Legislature lately attended the public rhetorical exercises at Fisk in a body, and afterward by a joint resolution warmly commended the institution.

Bishop Ames, at the time of his death, was reported to have been quite wealthy, being worth about a quarter of a million. In his will he makes provision for his family; his widow to receive a certain amount annually from the estate less the amount that she may receive from the church. Nothing was left to charitable or religious objects. We suppose the Bishop had given in his lifetime what he thought was right, or that he believed his heirs would act wisely and generously without any instruction from himself. We confess to a feeling of surprise on reading his will that there was no mention of any devisings for religious or benevolent objects. We suggest the above explanation, not that it is altogether satisfactory, but it may tend to relieve the minds of those who have been perplexed about the matter.

Rev. W. H. Morris, writing from Greenville, Ala., May 22, 1879, with enclosure for subscriptions, says: We are having a good time on Georgiana circuit this year. Some one is reclaimed or some joins the church at almost every meeting. Our congregations increase every round. Many who have not been to church for years are regular attendants. We hope to have such a time as we had here fifteen and sixteen years ago, when we received 781 members in the church. Bro. Motley is having a glorious meeting at Greenville. Bro. Boland is assisting him, and doing some powerful preaching. May the Lord speed on the good work. Yours truly,

W. H. MORRIS.

It is, of course, not necessary for us to press the subject of relief that has been proposed for our afflicted brother, Rev. H. H. Montgomery. We are advised that the three months' trip to Minnesota will cost not less than $200 and that he ought to start by the tenth of June. It is not the wish of Bro. Montgomery that the matter should be obtruded unduly upon the attention of his brethren, and we only add these lines that his friends may have more definite information as to the amount and the time. The contributions should be forwarded at once, either to Rev. R. D. Norsworthy, Canton Miss., or directly to Rev. H. H. Montgomery, Sharon, Miss.

Bro. Chamberlain's old friends of the Mississippi Conference will regret to learn of his afflictions, and we are sure he will have their prayers. The Pacific Methodist, in its account of the Santa Rosa District Conference, California, says:

On Sunday Bro. Chamberlain preached a sermon, which, for depth and clearness, is rarely excelled. This dear brother is passing under the rod. For two months of this year he was closely confined in a dark room by an affection of his eyes, which has resulted in the almost entire loss of sight in his right eye. He is also in the hands of the demon—dyspepsia. If any man in the church needs the prayers and sympathy of his brethren it is the pastor of the church at Santa Rosa.

We are indebted to J. W. Burke & Co. for a copy of their fine lithograph of "Bishop Pierce and his father." As likenesses they do not quite satisfy us, but they are likenesses. On the margin at the bottom we have the following succinct histories, the names being autographic: Lovick Pierce, born March 24, 1785 Licensed to preach December, 1804. George F. Pierce, born February 3, 1811. Licensed to preach March, 1830. Elected Bishop May, 1854. The picture, exclusive of margin, we should judge to be 12x16 inches. It will be prized by all Southern Methodism, and it will adorn thousands of homes.

The programme of commencement exercises of Whitworth Female College will be found in its appropriate place on our eighth page. The exercises will take place June 19-24 Rev. Beverly Carradine, Hon. L. Q. C. Lamar and Rev. Dr. W. H. Watkins deliver the several addresses Rev. W. H. Leith preaches the commencement sermon. There will be a good time at Whitworth—"the feast of reason and the flow of soul."

For commencement exercises of Wesleyan Female Institute, Staunton, Va., see eighth page. The time is June 15-18. Rev. R. A. Young, D. D., preaches the commencement sermon, and Bishop Wightman delivers the baccalaureate address.

Rev. W. H. Watkins, D. D., of Jackson, Miss., and Rev. James A. Godfrey, presiding elder of the Woodville District, Mississippi Conference, gave us a pleasant call this week. Church affairs in their respective works are moving on hopefully.

The ADVOCATE will be sent to new subscribers for the balance of the year to January 1, 1880, for one dollar.

Compound Oxygen Treatment.

MR. EDITOR: I see you advertise the above treatment in the NEW ORLEANS CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE. Please allow me a few words of commendation. At my instance Drs. Starkey and Palen sent a box containing two months' home treatment to a young lady friend of mine in Madison co., Miss., without charge, who has been an invalid for years. The two doctors attending warned her against its use. It was then sent to me by this lady friend. My wife being in feeble health, and having been for many years, I persuaded her to use it, which she did. She began very soon to improve in strength, and continued to improve, and passed through the unusually hot summer of 1878 and the fall, cooking and attending to all her domestic duties with more strength and less fatigue than she had done for ten years preceding. Then during the winter nursed the sick, day and night, with more than usual loss of sleep, and exposure, and effort, and all without breaking down, which she could not have done at any period during ten years past up to that time. In order to have some experimental knowledge of the effect of this treatment, I used it several times myself. In all my life I never used anything that produced so soon such a pleasant, healthful, natural ness of condition. Gave a glow of youthful buoyancy by increasing the vital forces of mind and body. It gave a compass and power to my voice that it never had before.

I believe it is one of the most important and valuable discoveries that has been made in many years, of remedial agents, for the increase of vital force and healthful condition to invalids of all classes. Now, Mr. Editor, I am no agent for these gentlemen nor their remedy—never bought it, never sold it. I want to be useful, and therefore give this voluntary testimony to a good remedy for the benefit of invalids, and its publication will be useful.

WILLIAM H. HINES

WAYNESBORO, Miss., May 5, 1879.

Periodicals.

—Wide Awake for June abounds in beautiful and spirited illustrations. Among the articles are: The Wonderful Cookie; The Poor Children's Excursion; Our American Artists; The Buckwoods Boys; Royal Lowrie's Last Year at St. Olaves; Queen Loulan and the Children; The Story of English Literature for Young People; A Remarkable Journey; Don Quixote, Jr., chapter 6.

LITTELL'S LIVING AGE.—The numbers of the Living Age for the weeks ending May 10 and 17, respectively, contain the following articles: Memoirs and Charters of the Lennox, Edinburgh Review; Cobbett, Cornhill; Biography, Travel and Sport, Blackwood; Residual Phenomena, Fraser; Count Leo Tolstoy's Novels, Nineteenth Century; Burma, Fortnightly; The Umbrella Bird, Hatter's Gazette; Science and Faith, Sir A. Panizzi; Henry James, Jr.'s Ideal of American Character and Earthborn Meteorites, Spectator; Uphill Work, and Historical Casuistry, Saturday Review; with further chapters of Jean Ingelow's "Sarah de Berenger;" Jerome Bongrand's Heresy, a tale about priests; and, among other poetry, Tennyson's "Defence of Lucknow."

For fifty-two such numbers of sixty four large pages each (or more than 3 000 pages a year,) the subscription price ($8) is low; while for $10 50 the publishers offer to send any one of the American $4 monthlies or weeklies with the Living Age for a year, both postpaid. Littell & Co., publishers.

—Scribner's Monthly for June has: The Fine Arts at the Paris Exposition, illustrated; Haworths, illustrated; Brazil, 2; The Mediterranean of America, illustrated; Hope; The University of Berlin, illustrated; Mennon; With Stonewall Jackson, illustrated; Her Reproof to a Rose; A Narrow Street, part 1; Was it Love or Hatred? Lawn Planting for City and Country, illustrated; Mr. Nechus Peelers' Conditions, illustrated; Summer and Winter; Piercing the American Isthmus, with maps; Invocation; Some Aspects of Matthew Arnolds' Poetry; Madame Bonaparte's Letters from Europe, first paper; Edison and His Inventions, illustrated; Topics of the Time; Home and Society; Culture and Progress; The World's Work; Bric-a-Brac.

MARRIED.

TUCKER—WESTBROOK—At the residence of the bride's mother, in Franklin county, Miss., May 11, 1879, by Rev J Nicholson, Mr J N Tucker and Miss Perdue J W e brook.

HORN—GLIDER—At the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, Pushmataha, Choctaw nation, Ala., May 1, 1879, by the Rev Alex Hood, Mr W N Horn to Miss May P Glider.

ODOM—HUGGINS—On the twenty second of May, 1879, at the residence of Dr. Huggins, in Wayne boro, Miss., by Rev W B Hiles, Mr John W Odom to Miss Ella Huggins, all of Waynesboro, Miss.

KENNADY—JACKSON—At the residence of the bride's mother, by Rev G W Hartsfield May 14, 1879, Dr. Robert W Kennady and Miss Carrie E. Jackson, both of Sabine parish, La.

BEARD—ROBBINS—March 18, 1879, by the Rev J W Shores, Mr Walter M Beard to Miss Mary Sue Robbins, all of Barnes county, Ala.

Publisher's Department.

While we continue to shut our best columns against fraudulent advertisements from the ADVOCATE parties must judge for themselves as to the real value of the goods advertised. In ordering please mention the ADVOCATE.

SPECIMEN COPIES of the ADVOCATE will be mailed when desired, to facilitate agents in securing subscribers. Pastors will confer a favor by announcing this fact and forwarding names to the publisher.

THE air of perfection, cleanliness and homelike comfort which is so apparent at the American House, Boston, is one of the characteristic features of that well-regulated establishment. To those disposed to economize this popular hotel offers an opportunity seldom found at so thoroughly a first class house, having reduced its rates to $3 and $3.50 per day.

W. C. SHEPARD & Co.—Fruit jars Mason pints, $1; quarts, $1 25; two quarts, $1.50 per dozen; American China dinner sets $15 $18. Equal to looks and usefulness as French China. 19

BELLS—When ordering a bell for your church, see that it comes from Meneely's Foundry, located at West Troy, New York. Catalogues free.

COOPERAGE.—If you want to do business with a thoroughly reliable cooper, one who has been engaged in coopering here for many years, call on or write to Philip Hirsch, 50 to 60 North Peters street. It will pay to perhaps his card on this page.

SAVE FROM $2 TO $10.—Travelers, call at Guedry's and get your railroad tickets for the North, East and West. This is no charlatan concern; He will do just as he says. Save your money by buying your tickets from him. See advertisement.

VALUABLE WORK.—We are in receipt of the "Right Hand Record and Ready Reference" from the publisher, H. P. Husband, New Haven, Conn. This book will be valuable for those who are advertising largely, as it gives a full and inaccurate list of all legitimate newspapers, dailies, weeklies, etc., with their circulation.

ORNAMENTAL WIRE WORKS.—Dufur & Co., 36 North Howard street, Baltimore, are probably the largest manufacturers of wire railing and ornamental wire works in the South. Their advertisement elsewhere will give you an idea of what they manufacture. These gentlemen we have known for years as reputable and straightforward merchants.

COTTON GIN.—The attention of planters is specially directed to the advertisement of "Pratt's Improved Revolving Head Cotton Gin." The many advantages in using this gin are obvious and well known in communities where they have been tried. We heartily commend Messrs. Wolfe & Co., the genial agents, to those who may have occasion to transact business with them, as clever and reliable gentlemen.

MILLINERY EMPORIUM, HAIR WORK, ETC.—Do any of our lady readers want a becoming bonnet, at prices that will astonish you for cheapness? If you do not, run your eye over G. T. Schilling's advertisement on the sixth page, and probably you may find something that you may require. If so go right straight there, and buy what you want. He is clever, and bright as a new schilling.

"TELL me how to woo thee." "Oh! I don't like to; but if I must, why, the first step is to buy a fine fan of E. H. Adams & Bro., No. 791 Magazine street. The second is like it only it's one of their unrivaled parasols. I send you there because they keep only first-class goods and never take advantage of the inexperienced."

LITHOGRAPHER AND ENGRAVER.—J. S. Rivers, whose card appears on the fifth page, is so well and favorably known here that we hardly deem it necessary to allude otherwise than in a cursory manner to his facilities for doing anything in the lithographing and engraving line. He is recognized as one of the foremost and most substantial in his line here, and enjoys a very large and steadily increasing patronage through his close attention to the wants of his patrons, and the superexcellence of his goods. Patronize this reliable gentleman.

BEE CULTURE.—For the successful cultivation of bees, both for profit and pleasure, there is a book written by A. J. Cook, and for sale by Lathrop & Wilkins, 112 Camp street, New Orleans, which is worth its weight in silver. It is now in its third edition, has been enlarged revised, and is beautifully illustrated. It treats of all the phases of bee culture upon the most modern principles. No bee raiser can afford to do without it, for with its valuable directions it will enable him or her to almost double their past results. It is elegantly printed and bound, and costs only $1 25 postage paid. For sale as above. Messrs. Lathrop & Wilkins will receive subscriptions for the American Bee Journal, postage paid, $1 50 per year.

A LADY'S ENTERPRISE.—The readers of our paper have become familiar with the name of Madame Griswold, whose attractive corset advertisement has been in our paper for some years and many of our lady readers doubtless know the excellence of her manufacture. This lady, by her energy, skill and good judgment, has built up within a few years a large business, and an enviable reputation for the quality of her goods. If you want to make a nice income correspond with this estimable little lady. Lady agents wanted.

TOURISTS, ATTENTION!—The tide of summer excursion travel that for two or three years past has set toward the resorts of the North west, with its grand scenery of mountain, lake and river, its numerous charming retreats and cozy nooks, which this season reach its flood, owing to the increased facilities extended to tourists by the wide awake and enterprising management of our popular great Jackson route. The time has been reduced one day and with no change of cars to Chicago, and but one change to points beyond, a trip to the great North west is now made with as much ease, and in as short a time as formerly, to Beadon Springs or the lake shore villages. All ready considerate fathers are securing accommodations, at desirable points of rest, for wearied mammas and charming daughters (worn down by their efforts in the cause of charity during the past more than usually exciting season,) and besiege the ticket office for choice sections in the sleeping cars. In another week the travel will have fairly started and we predict for the Great Jackson Route a business it will tax its best efforts to accommodate. Sale of excursion tickets will begin on May 25. They will be good to return until November 1, thus giving ample time to enjoy the summer and fall seasons. Full information, with descriptive circulars and guide books profusely illustrated, in the highest style of the printer's art, may be had on application in A. D. Sheldon, 116 d agent, 22 Camp street, corner of Common.

EVERY TWENTY MINUTES TO THE LAKE.—The Spanish Fort and Lake Railroad inaugurates to-day a change of schedule, which will be very convenient to the public. Capt. F. S. Williams, who will be remembered by a great many of our readers as the former efficient superintendent of the Jackson Railroad, which position he occupied for many years, and discharged with entire satisfaction, is now the superintendent of this favorite road. He intends doing all in his power to make the Spanish Fort the place of resort for the ladies and children of this city. The pavilion is set apart for the use of the patrons of the line, and is well provided with seats and swings for their accommodations. Spanish Fort is the most delightful portion of the whole lake. The fare is only 5 cents for the round trip. See advertisement.

GENUINE SINGER SEWING MACHINES.—In another column of our paper will be found the advertisement of the Singer Sewing Machine Company warning the public against purchasing spurious machines sold as the Singer. It seems the great popularity of the Singer machine has caused many manufacturers to imitate it, but imitation machines can very easily be detected by the bungling and inferior work upon them. As an evidence of the great popularity of this machine they sold, in 1878, 356 412 machines, which is very, heavy advance on previous years' sales, and is surely an indication of the future of this great manufacturing company, of which Mr. S. E. Rundle is the popular and highly-respected agent of this State.

THE following notice will be read with interest, respecting the Gardner Seat, manufactured by Messrs. Gardner & Co., 183 Canal street, New York:

IMPORTANT NOTICE.

The decision of the Judge, May 9, as to the "Gardner Seat" is not final, having been given on an application for a temporary injunction. Under the rule of the court we were not prepared at that time to meet the defences of the defendants. We are, however, amply prepared to prove that ours was the first practical seat; those seats which preceded it being imperfect inventions, and, although patented, were at once abandoned as impracticable before we gave the public the combination known as the "Gardner Seat." We are satisfied that we can maintain our patent at the trial of the case, and, therefore, notify the trade not to be misled by the circulars of our adversaries, representing as final a step of the case when they had only at a temporary disadvantage only. We shall look to all purchasers of the defendants or other manufacturers than ourselves of "Perforated Veneer Seats" as infringers, and shall hold them damages.

Although the court has seen proper not to grant us an immediate injunction, it has sustained us in one of the most valuable claims in our patent, namely: the staple claim, relating to "Concave" of seat; and which alone makes the seat desirable and preferable to all others. In fact, without which the seat is of little value, as a flat board seat is hard and ridged, and would be discarded.

BUSINESS NOTICES.

POZZONI'S MEDICATED COMPLEXION POWDER is acknowledged by thousands of ladies, who use it daily, to be the only preparation that does not roughen the skin, chap, blister, or leave black spots in the pores. Mothers can apply it to infants, the tenderest chafed with a surety of immediate relief. Removes all eruptions. Price, 50 cents and $1 per box. Sold by druggists, and at depot, 607 North Sixth street, St. Louis (Lindell Hotel).

FEELS YOUNG AGAIN.

"My mother was afflicted a long time with Neuralgia and a dull, heavy inactive condition of the whole system; a shade, nervous prostration, and was almost helpless. No physicians or medicines did her any good. Three months ago she began to use Hop Bitters, with such good effect that she seems and feels young again, although over seventy years old. We think there is no other medicine fit to use in the family." A lady, in Providence, R. I.

"Brown's Bronchial Troches," when allowed to dissolve in the mouth, have a direct influence on the inflamed parts, allaying Pulmonary Irritation, and giving relief in Coughs, Colds and the various Throat Troubles to which Singers and Public Speakers are liable. Twenty-five cents a box.

THE cordial reception that Dr. F. Wilhuft's Anti-Periodic or Fever and Ague Tonic has received at the hands of the medical profession in Louisiana certainly proves that it is an excellent remedy, and that the composition of it, as published by its proprietors, Wheelock Finley & Co., of New Orleans is indorsed by them. Against Chills and Fever, Bilious Chills and enlarged spleen there is no better remedy in the world. For sale by all Druggists.

MAGNER'S Cundurango contains no alcohol, is the vegetable substitute for Calomel acts as specifically in regulating the liver, removing biliousness, cleansing the blood, etc., and is sure to remove any derangement of the biliary secretions, and thereby prevent disease.

MISCELLANEOUS.

DO YOU WANT A FIRST-CLASS

PIANO OR ORGAN?

No doubt you need one, and you will consult your interests by calling at

LOUIS GRUNEWALD'S

14 to 22 Baronne Street, Grunewald Hall,

and see at what low figures and accommodating terms you can buy. The celebrated STEINWAY, KNABE, PLEYEL, FISCHER, PIANOS are the most renowned in the world, and you should buy no other.

THE BEST IS ALWAYS THE CHEAPEST.

SHEET MUSIC at half price.

Everything in the music line to suit everybody.

ADDRESS,

LOUIS GRUNEWALD,

Grunewald Hall, New Orleans.

SAVE FROM $2.00 TO $10.00

BY BUYING YOUR

RAILROAD TICKETS

AT

GUEDRY'S

TICKET OFFICE,

31 ST. CHARLES STREET, under St. Charles Hotel, N. O.

F. E. GUEDRY, Agent.

WHEELER & PIERSON,

(Successors to Darcy & Wheeler and Pierson & Hewes)

CLOTHING AND FURNISHING GOODS,

Nos. 13 and 15 CAMP STREET, New Orleans.

Black Cloth Suits, $20 to $40 | Business Suits $12 to $25

6 Shirts for $9 | Collars $1.50 per Doz.

Liberal reduction to Clergymen.

Rules for self-measurement sent on application, and orders carefully filled. Plantation clothing for country stores at very low prices to suit.

WHOLESALE DEPARTMENT.

F. F. F. F.

FIVE FANS FOR FIVE CENTS,

E. H. ADAMS & BROTHER,

HAVE NOW IN STORE

The most attractive stock of Imported Fans in the City. Attractive in all aspects—Style, Freshness, Cheapness, etc.

Prices Range from 1c. to $10 each.

Ivory Handle Japanese Fans	10 cents.
Imitation Ivory Handle, Japanese Fans	35 cents.
Large Polished Folding Fans	5 cents.
Small Polished Folding Fans	3 cents.
Large Open Fans	1 cents.
Palm Leaf Fans	1 cents.

Full Stock of Fresh First-class Dry Goods, Notions, etc., in all Departments, at Reduced Rates.

594 Magazine Street, Fourth Store above St. Andrew.

BEE CULTURE.

MANUAL OF THE APIARY

BY A. J. COOK,

Prof. of Entomology in the Michigan State Agricultural College.

THIRD EDITION.

Revised, largely and neatly re-written, and beautifully illustrated. Being now up with the times on every current topic of interest to the apiarist.

It is not only instructive, but intensely interesting.

This work is a masterly production, and the thorough bee-keeper however limited his means, can afford to do without it. It is printed in the best style on fine book paper. Price, bound in cloth, $1 25, postpaid. Address

LATHROP & WILKINS,

112 Camp st., New Orleans.

Subscriptions taken for The American Bee Journal.

MENEELY'S BELLS,

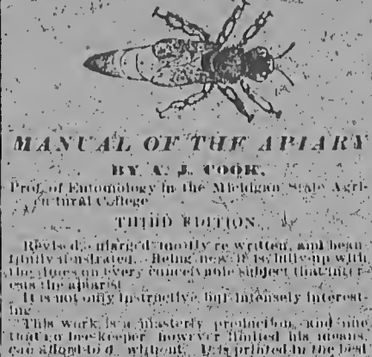
For Churches, etc., known of the public since 1826, are made only at "THE MENEELY BELL FOUNDERY," West Troy, N. Y. Catalogues free.

COOPERAGE.—PHILIP HIRSCH, Cooper, 50 to 60 North Peters street, New Orleans, has for sale empty casks of every kind and size, and solicits orders for new casks and repairing. Also, for sale, Sugar Hogsheads and Barrels, Molasses Barrels, Half Barrels and Kegs, all sizes, also, choice hogshead and barrel Hoop Poles. Contracts for future delivery solicited. Prices moderate. Satisfaction guaranteed.

JOS. B. WOLFE & CO.,

Cotton Factors,

59 Carondelet St., New Orleans.



Are General Agents for

DANIEL PRATT'S IMPROVED

"Revolving Head" Cotton Gin,

PATENTED JULY 4, 1871.

Price Reduced to $4 per Saw

THIS GIN has been in use for the past six seasons, and several recent improvements have been added. It obviates all friction at the end of the cotton box, prevents the roll from breaking, and gives a larger yield of lint from the same amount of seed than any other Gin in use. The Revolving Head Gin on the draft and ease of running is far ahead of less driving power, doing a great deal more work with the same time while consuming steam or animal power, than any other Gin. The seed being ginned very close the length of the staple is increased, producing cotton of this ground of a greater market value. This improved value given by length of staple, with extra production of lint, added to increased amount of wire done, more than covers the cost of the Gin in every 100 bales ginned. Testimonials sent by mail on application.

FEEDERS and CONDENSERS with latest improvements also made by the Daniel Pratt Gin Co. to work with these Gins. Send for descriptive circulars. JOS. B. WOLFE & CO.,

New Orleans, La.

For Portland Cement, German Flags, &c.,

SHILLINGER PATENT PAVEMENT.

ADDRESS

FRITZ JAHNCKE,

Box 143 Mechanics' Exchange; 308 Dolhonde st., between Baronne and Carondelet.

"CHANGE OF SCHEDULE."

NEW ORLEANS, SPANISH FORT AND LAKE RAILROAD.

MAY 24, 1879.

Until further notice the trains will leave the corner of Canal and Basin Streets as follows:

Sunday at 6, 7:30, 9, 10, 10:30, 11, 11:30, 12, 12:30, 1, 1:30, and every twenty minutes after. Last train from City 6:30, from the Lake at 6:30.

During the week at 6:30, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 1, 2, 3 and every half hour after. Last train from the city at 8; from the Lake, 9:30.

T. H. WILLIAMS,

Superintendent.

J. S. RIVERS,

STATIONER,

Steam Power Printer,

BLANK BOOK MANUFACTURER,

LITHOGRAPHER AND ENGRAVER,

74 CAMP STREET,

NEW ORLEANS.

The New Louisiana Remedy.

Greatest Cough Syrup of the age, or of any age. Product of our swamps. Splendid for children. No poison. Thirteen pages of names of home references and increasing! Sold by druggists. Depot 106 Camp street, New Orleans.

Washington Avenue Drug Store,

Cor. Magazine & Washington Sts.

NEW ORLEANS.

Constantly receiving fresh supplies of pure Drugs, Medicines, Chemicals, Patent Medicines, Combs of all kinds, Brushes, Soaps, Perfumery, Toilet and Fancy Articles, etc., sold at small margin. Coral Tooth Paste, recommended by all who use it as a very superior dentrifice. It beautifies the teeth to a fine pearl like ornament and ravishing beauty. Also Incompact Powder, an beautifying, softening and preserving the skin, the best thing for prickly heat and all summer eruptions. Customers city and country, will find our stock complete, comprising many articles impossible to enumerate here, and sold at moderate prices. Prescriptions put up day and night. E. J. MAINHURA, M. D., druggist, Pharmaceutist and Practical Chemist.

PIANOS.

PIANOS TUNED AND REPAIRED in the best and most satisfactory manner, at

Mr. Burchardt's Manufactory,

MAGAZINE STREET, ...

Between Jackson and Josephine Sts.

WANTED EVERYBODY TO know that LAPLACE'S INDIAN CURNIP PECTORAL BALM is not a secret preparation, its efficacy being due to the Indian Turnip, arum triphyllum. It is highly efficacious for coughs, colds, asthma, and all diseases of the throat and lungs, and the relief of consumptive patients. Prepared and for sale by H. LAPLACE, Pharmacist 23 and 25 Elysian Fields street. For sale also at the principal wholesale and retail druggists.

Depot in Mobile at J. G. Duncan & Co. Depot in St. Louis at Richardson & Co.

Farm, Garden and Household.

TREE-TRAINING. The cutting or sawing of large branches from trees is an injury that none ever recover from, although some endure it better than others. Our fruit trees have quite enough to contend against from the violent climatic changes to which they are exposed in nearly all the country east of the Rocky mountains, without their owner and so-called "cultivator" amputating their limbs in an inquiring fruitful proposes to do—"to make them thrive and bear." A tree should be pruned as a child is trained. It must be treated when young with steady attention, and corrected before ill tendencies have hardened into the actual maturity of unyielded wood. It does not harm a child to cut its nails, or even to slap or pinch it a little if the willing legs chicks in taking further steps into some bad habit.

So with trees and vines. We can stop redundant growth that threatens to rob or choke bearing shoots, by a pinch or nip of the end on any summer day; but if we go to cutting or removing leaves, we do as much harm as if we injured a child's vitals. The tree or plant is the more delicate of the two in one respect; its vital organs are not encased, but are open, external and unprotected. This will explain why the orchardist should be very cautious in cases where total neglect for years has caused invertebrate misgrowth. Any dead branches should of course be removed; and it is best, in that case, to endeavor to remove all wood that shows signs of decay, applying to the wound as soon as the surface is dry some water-proof coating to prevent a stoppage of sap circulation by drying rom within or chemical decomposition from admission of air, and not, as usually explained, to prevent the entrance of moisture from without. Beyond this all that can be done, with due respect to the permanence of the tree, is a thinning of the shoots, and this is the best done with pruning-shears.

When the shoots are crowded, and many of them are mere wood shoots without spurs, these should be removed first, excepting all such as are growing in open air and light, where they can be developed early, till treated fruit-spurs. When, on the contrary, there are but very few wood-shoots of last year, but nearly all are old and set with fruit-spurs, they should be shortened in or, if crowded, thinned by nipping off such smaller branchlets as are too near together for their leaves to have full light. When a tree or branch shows no young wood but an excess of fruit-spurs, it indicates an obstructed circulation. Either the stem has been girdled, as through a wound or the roots have been ruptured by frost, or clogged in consequence of over-bearing. In such a case, amputation and the training of new, healthy growth from below is the only remedy, because decay has set in, or, to use a chirurgical term, mortification has taken place. It such a case a violent remedy is demanded by the presence of lethal disease.—New York Tribune.

DEPTH AT WHICH TO SOW SEEDS. The rule that seeds should be covered with their own thickness of soil is not one that should always be adhered to where early vegetation is desired. For example, peas covered in that manner will take longer to vegetate than they would have done if they had been covered two or three inches in dry weather, at least; because, we suppose, a shallow covering does not supply sufficient moisture. This is particularly noticeable in the case of seeds with hard outer husks. At one time we used to cover the seeds in only about one inch deep; but on one occasion, when part of the seed was covered in considerably deeper than the rest, a much greater proportion vegetated, and it also came up very much sooner. And since then we have always sowed deeper.

The difference appears to be due entirely to moisture. Of course, if we sow too deep, the sun's heat is less felt and vegetation is retarded; but it is just as bad to sow so near the surface, where the seeds are not kept uniformly moist. After the seed does vegetate, and the radicle penetrates the ground, there is not much, if any, difference in the progress of the plants; but an early "braid" is often an important matter. It is well to know as exactly as possible the proper depth at which to sow. With seeds that are raised artificially in boxes or pots, where they can be attended to and watered, the case is rather different. Still in their case the depth of the covering makes difference. It is not advisable, for example, to sow small seeds like primulas or cinerarias, celery and such like deeply; in fact, the practice is to barely cover them out of sight.

But we have observed that those seeds which were fairly covered always vegetate first and most vigorously. Such seeds often get washed bare by the watering-pot; hence the old plan of covering the surface of the soil with a thin layer of moss, to break the force of water, and which is a good plan with fine seeds. All small seeds should be sown on a perfectly even and level surface and covered with two or three times their own thickness of the soil; and they should be watered carefully with the finest rose. Almost all flowering annuals will bear covering a quarter of an inch deep; and some those of the size of cabbage or mustard seed and larger, may be covered a little deeper, unless the soil is heavy and tenacious. Of kitchen-garden crops, beans should be sown about four inches deep, peas not less than three inches; sea-kale two inches, asparagus one inch, cabbage, cauliflowers and turnip about half an inch, carrots and onions half an inch, spinach, beets and parsnips one inch, kidney beans two inches, and all small seeds like lettuce about a quarter of an inch deep.—London Field.

CAYENNE PEPPER FOR FOWLS.—A writer in the Country Gentleman says: "This species of pepper is found to be very beneficial for fowls, if given in moderate quantities, and, on account of its purity, is to be preferred to that kept by dealers. It is not only a preventive of disease, but promotes growth and egg production. Acting as a tonic on the system, it keeps the birds in a healthy condition, without which there cannot reasonably be expected large proceeds. The proper way to administer the condiment is in a liquid form, and this is done through the drink. Pepper is highly beneficial in the months of September and October, or during moulting season, as it not only increases the growth of feathers, but gives warmth and tone to the blood, and, too with good, nutritious food, assists in keeping up the strength of the bird. This is highly necessary at this period, for it is the most delicate one in the existence of the fowl. All medicines, however, should be given in reasonable quantities, as overdosing amounts to the same thing as undosing. Take about three pods of the finest cayenne pepper, bruise them slightly, and pour on nearly a pint of boiling water. This quantity will season a gallon of drink, which may be refilled daily, or as the fowls consume it, and will contain sufficient strength for a week for a moderate sized flock, say twenty or twenty-five birds of the small breeds. Fowls consume a large quantity of drink, and, after being once accustomed to it, rather relish the pungent flavor.

HOW TO MANAGE RUNNING BEANS.—I think I have greatly improved the old, lazy way of sticking my running beans, instead of going to the woods to get poles to stick with, and then the beans fall down at d-rot, causing the wife or daughter to scold and fret, and say that the beans were not half stuck, and speaking sharp words. Now, here is my new way of proceeding. Take an eighth inch wire, say 50 or 100 feet in length; now set a solid post in the ground and brace it firmly; insert in the top end, six inches from the ground, a two inch pin. Then insert the end of the wire into the center of this pin and set another post at the opposite end of the row. Attach the wire six feet from the ground, make it fast, and then put a wrench on the two inch pin and tighten. Plant two rows of beans four feet apart and parallel with the wire, one vine every foot along each row. Take some hard wood and make pins, eight or ten inches long, with small hole in top; take hemp twine, tie one end to pin, sticking pin fast into the ground close by the vine. Pass the twine around the wire and down to the opposite vine. Now cut the twine and tie to another pin. And so on until the two rows are finished. You have now the best stuck beans you ever saw; and your wife and daughter will bless and praise you.

THE DUCK QUESTION.—Again must we call the attention of breeders to the profit in ducks, when they are properly cared for and when there are facilities at hand for breeding them properly. Many a farmer has realized far more from breeding ducks than he would obtain from his chickens; for they are very hardy and fly remarkably well during some parts of the season. As soon as they commence to lay, the eggs should be carefully gathered and put away. As soon as a hen or a duck wants to sit, set her with duck's eggs, and let her hatch and care for the brood till they are able to take care of themselves. A hen will care for a brood of ducklings far better, ordinarily, than will an old duck. If the ducks think they have laid enough eggs and show unmistakable signs of wanting to sit, put them into a convenient coop, put one of your most vigorous young drakes with them, and they will soon be willing to sit on eggs again, which should be set under hens as fast as convenient, so as to bring as many out at a time as possible, thereby lessening the cost of attending them. A shallow tub, kept well filled with water, will afford plenty of bathing room for the ducklings until they are two or three months old, and perhaps longer.—Poultry World.

MILK ROLLS.—These rolls can be served hot or cold. They are made with one pound of flour, one ounce of butter, one ounce of sugar, a teaspoonful of baking-powder, about a pint of milk and a pinch of salt. To the flour add the salt, sugar and butter, and mix well by working with the fingers. Then introduce the baking-powder and milk and knead quickly. Cut the lump of dough into six or eight pieces; form into rolls, cut each roll slightly over the top twice, and place on a lightly floured pan, and bake for fifteen minutes in a very hot oven. When done, brush the top with the white of egg or milk, sprinkle with fine sugar, and place in the oven for one minute.

CANNED PLUMS.—Pick with a needle to prevent bursting; prepare a syrup allowing a gill of pure water and a quarter of a pound of sugar to every three quarts of fruit. When the sugar is dissolved and the water blood warm, put in the plums. Heat slowly to a boil. Let them boil five minutes not fast or they will break badly. Fill up the jars with plums, pour in the scalding syrup until it runs down the sides, and seal. Greengages are very fine put up in this way; also damsons for pies.

NURSERY POWDER.—Take one ounce of pulverized hemlock bark, one ounce of magnesia and one ounce of laundry starch; pulverize finely by laying upon a platter and grinding with a knife. Sift through a hair sieve and put into a tight box, and you have the same article, which costs you, if prepared by chemists, a dollar and a quarter per box. Any one can make a puff of swan's down or scraped linen lint, if they think it better than a pinch sifted from between the thumb and finger.

SPRING CHICKENS.—If you wish your early chicks to make fine, strong birds they must be fed often, say four times a day, giving as near as possible just what they will eat up clean at a meal. If oatmeal, very slightly wetted, is fed until they are a week or ten days old, and after that broken rice for a few weeks, they are not nearly as liable to gapes as fed on Indian meal; at least such has been the writer's experience. But the oatmeal and rice may be had very cheaply by buying an inferior quality.

45 Years Before the Public.

THE GENUINE

DR. C. McLANE'S

CELEBRATED

LIVER PILLS

FOR THE CURE OF

Hepatitis, or Liver Complaint,

DYSPEPSIA AND SICK HEADACHE.

Symptoms of a Diseased Liver.

PAIN in the right side, under the edge of the ribs, increases on pressure; sometimes the pain is in the left side; the patient is rarely able to lie on the left side; sometimes the pain is felt under the shoulder blade, and it frequently extends to the top of the shoulder, and is sometimes mistaken for rheumatism in the arm. The stomach is affected with loss of appetite and sickness; the bowels in general are costive, sometimes alternative with lax; the head is troubled with pain, accompanied with a dull, heavy sensation in the back part. There is generally a considerable loss of memory, accompanied with a painful sensation of having left undone something which ought to have been done. A slight, dry cough is sometimes an attendant. The patient complains of weariness and debility; he is easily startled, his feet are cold or burning, and he complains of a prickly sensation of the skin; his spirits are low; and although he is satisfied that exercise would be beneficial to him, yet he can scarcely summon up fortitude enough to try it. In fact, he distrusts every remedy. Several of the above symptoms attend the disease, but cases have occurred where few of them existed, yet examination of the body, after death, has shown the LIVER to have been extensively deranged.

AGUE AND FEVER.

DR. C. MCLANE'S LIVER PILLS, IN CASES OF AGUE AND FEVER, when taken with Quinine, are productive of the most happy results. No better cathartic can be used, preparatory to, or after taking Quinine. We would advise all who are afflicted with this disease to give them a FAIR TRIAL.

For all bilious derangements, and as a simple purgative, they are unequaled.

BEWARE OF IMITATIONS.

The genuine are never sugar coated.

Every box has a red wax seal on the lid, with the impression DR. MCLANE'S LIVER PILLS.

The genuine MCLANE'S LIVER PILLS bear the signatures of C. MCLANE and FLEMING BROS. on the wrappers.

Insist upon having the genuine DR. C. MCLANE'S LIVER PILLS, prepared by Fleming Bros., of Pittsburgh, Pa., the market being full of imitations of the name McLane, spelled differently but same pronunciation.

OFFICE OF THE

Crescent Mutual Insurance Co.

New Orleans, May 17, 1879.

THIRTIETH ANNUAL STATEMENT.

The trustees, in conformity to the amended charter, submit the following statement of the affairs of the company on the thirtieth of April, 1879:

Fire Premiums		$155,168 05
Marine Premiums		24,051 22
River Premiums		69 321 25
		$258,543 52
Net earned premiums	$224,143 52
Less reinsurance	$13,716 40
Less return premiums	5,626 57
	19,342 97
		201,300 55

LOSSES:

Fire losses	$36,038 94
Marine losses	9,337 56
River losses	28,576 05
	$73,952 35
Taxes, expenses, discount, profit and loss, less interest, reots, salvage, savings, etc	36,442 66
	110,395 01
Net profits	$91,105 54

The company have the following assets:

Bills receivable	$31,461 83
Loans on bond and mortgage	3,175 00
	$34,636 83
Loans on call	$ 2,552 64
Cash on hand	48,321 62
	1 10,873 66
Real estate	109 08 08
City bonds, bank and other stock	94,832 58
Premiums in course of collection	25,697 82
Suspense account and stock fractions	14,158 62
	$ 98,207 59

The foregoing statement is a true and correct transcript from the books of the Company.

THOS. A. ADAMS, President.

HENRY V. OGDEN, Secretary.

Sworn to and subscribed before me, this seventeenth day of May, A. D. 1879

ALFRED INGRAHAM,
Notary Public.

The Board of Trustees this day resolved, after paying ten per cent. in cash to the stockholders, and carrying to profit and loss $15,700, on account of the Mechanics' and Traders' Bank stock held by this Company, and also a further sum for shrinkage in values, to declare a dividend of twenty per cent. in cash on the net participating premiums, payable on Monday, the sixteenth of June next.

TRUSTEES.

Thos. A. Adams,	Sam'l H. Newman,
Sam'l H. Kennedy,	Jo'n Phelps,
Adam Thomson,	Henry Abrahani,
Victor Meyer,	Joseph Bowling,
Edw'd J. Gay,	Simon Hernsheim,
Simon Fuechelmer,	Joseph B Wolfe,
R. B. Post,	Edward Pilsbury,
John F. King,	Fred'k Camerden,
Joseph W. Stone,	George Garlin,
Alfred Moulton,	B. C. Jarey,
Edward Neale,	George W. Scatell,
Paul E. Mortimer,	John V. Moore,
W. B. Conger,	Henry M. Preston,
Reuben O. Bush,	John M. Parker.

Mechanics' and Traders' Ins. Co

NEW ORLEANS, LA.

No. 14 CARONDELET STREET,

Solicits Fire, River & Marine Risks

GEO. H. FROST, Act'g Secretary. LLOYD R. COLEMAN, President.

F. C. GREGORY, Ass't sec. & Fire Clerk.
JNO C. WOOD, Marine and River Clerk.
F. AUZOUY, Inspector, etc.
J. Y. H. HASKELL, Collector.
Capt. S. H. FROST, Marine Inspector.

TRUSTEES.

Hugh Allison,	Robert L. Moore,
J. H. Allen,	H. J. Millan,
J. A. Brasselman,	Ed. Nalle,
Jas. D. Britton,	F. J. Ofendahl,
Sam. Boyd,	Emile J. O'Brien,
Isaac Bloom,	Wm. A. Peale,
T. J. Carver,	J. M. Putnam,
Geo. W. Cary,	D. L. Raoliett,
Jno. D. Cobb,	G. W. Scatell,
H. Dudley Coleman,	W. B Thompson,
Wm. L. Cushing,	W. P. Vinet,
J. M. Frankenbush,	J. M. Walsh,
Hen. Gerson,	Meyer Well,
P. G. Gilbert,	T. S. Waterman,
J. Davidson Hill,	Fred'k Wing,
M. Johnson	C. W. Wood,

Lloyd R. Coleman.

NOTICE.

Yesterday's fire will cause no interruption in my business. All orders for Cigar Boxes and Packing cases will be executed as usual, and delivered direct from my saw mill until the Box Factory is rebuilt.

HENRY OTIS,
Office, 74 Magazine street.

SOUTHERN

CHURCH ORGAN

MANUFACTORY,

No. 103 Baronne Street,

Under the National Theater,

NEW ORLEANS, LA.

PETER YETTER, Proprietor.

Church Organs tuned and repaired all over the South.

FRESH FISH—FRESH FISH.

POMPANO, SPANISH MACKEREL AND RED SNAPPER.

can be bought at moderate prices by calling on

Batholomew, Talton & Co.,

At French Market.

THE GOSPEL OF JOY!

THE GOSPEL OF JOY is a new Singing Book of unusual beauty for Gospel Meetings, Camp Meetings, Devotional Meetings and Sunday Schools.

By Rev. SAMUEL ALMAN and S. H. SPECK. It contains a large number of new and very superior Hymns and Tunes. The general style is very cheerful and bright, as befits a collection that has so much to say and sing about

"Glad Tidings of Great Joy."

Both words and music are of an elevated character, commending themselves to persons of refined taste, and the "dazzling measure" so prevalent in many recent compositions has been carefully avoided.

Price 35 cents, for which specimen copies will be mailed to any address.

See Decoration Day Music in MUSICAL RECORD, 6 cents.

GOOD NEWS! (35 cts.) the genial Sunday School Song Book, has thousands of friends. DO NOT fail to examine and try it. There are 270 Songs, in the composition or selection of which great taste and ability has been displayed. Examine also "Shining River" and "The River of Life," two standard books of great beauty.

OLIVER DITSON & CO., Boston.

C. H. DITSON & CO.,

843 BROADWAY, N. Y.

U. S. FOUR PER CENT. BONDS.

WE continue to sell these bonds, coupon and registered, at par and accrued interest. All deliveries made here, free of expense to purchasers.

NEW ORLEANS NATIONAL BANK,

A. BALDWIN, President.

BUCKEYE BELL FOUNDRY

Bells of Pure Copper and Tin for Churches Schools, Fire Alarms, Farms, etc. FULL WARRANTED. Catalogue sent Free.

VANDUZEN & TIFT, Cincinnati, O

MISCELLANEOUS.

WINTELER & RICKS,

DEALER IN

Leather and Shoe FINDINGS,

TOOLS, OILS, ETC.,

MANUFACTURERS OF

Boot, Gaiter and Shoe Uppers.

168 POYDRAS STREET.

NEW ORLEANS

NOW OPEN.

Schroeder's Family Garden,

Corner Short and Levee Sts.,

CARROLLTON.

Where all the delicacies of the season can be had at the most moderate rates. Comfortable and delightfully cool Dining Rooms. PURE CREAM, SPRING CHICKENS, etc., a Specialty.

MRS. F. SCHROEDER,
Proprietress.

Blount Springs, Alabama.

THE most accessible mountain Summer resort in the South. Only eighteen hours ride from New Orleans. Pure, bracing air. The best mineral water on the Continent. All chronic diseases successfully treated; dyspepsia a specialty. Send to the Proprietor for circulars, etc., or call on T. E. Crammer, corner Camp and Common streets, for information.

S. D. HOLT Proprietor,
Blount Springs, Ala.

BUCK'S IMPROVED

BRILLIANT STOVE.

Is acknowledged to be the

BEST COOK-STOVE MADE.

SOLD BY

H. HALLER,

NEW ORLEANS.

DEALER IN ALL KINDS OF

Cooking and Heating Stoves of the most Improved makes, stamped, Plain and Japanned Tin-ware, Tinned and Enameled Hollow-ware Iron and Clay Furnaces, Planer's Stock, Granite Iron-ware, Lamp-burner and Wick to suit, Tinned Iron Spoons and Forks, Coffee Mills of all kinds Plantained ware, Sad Irons, Fire-Grates, Fluting machines, etc. H. HALLER,

No. 55 Camp St., New Orleans

Price-lists mailed on application.

Carpets and Mattings.

ELKIN & CO.

160 ..... CANAL STREET 160

NEW PATTERNS

CANTON MATTIN, Best Quality.

WHITE AND CHECK

CANTON MATTING, in all Grades.

Oil Cloths, all widths, Linoleum and Linoleum Floor Cloths, Nottingham Lace Curtains, new designs, Window Shades and Cornices.

CARPETS OF ALL KINDS

At Reduced Prices.

$25.00 to $35.00

STEWART'S NEW IMPROVED

SINGER

Sewing Machine

Great Reduction in Prices!

Down with Monopolies!

Hard Times demand Low Prices.

We warrant all our machines to be NEW, LATEST-IMPROVED and PERFECT for

FIVE YEARS.

Our NEW MACHINE is supplied with a LOOSE BALANCE-WHEEL, which is a great improvement over the old SINGER, as it enables the operator to wind the bobbin without running the machine, or removing the work from the needle. This is the most important improvement ever put on the Sewing Machine.

Also dealer in all first-class machines, such as the

WHEELER & WILSON,

GROVER & BAKER,

DOMESTIC,

WILSON,

WEED, Etc.

Cotton, Silk, Flax, Oil and Needles for all kinds of Machines. Address,

M. A. PECK,

General Sewing Machine Agent,

153 CANAL STREET,

Next to Holmes' Dry Goods Store.

New Orleans.

F. FISCHER & SON,

PROPRIETORS

PICAYUNE SAW MILL,

FOOT OF CARROLLTON AVENUE,

Seventh District, New Orleans.

CYPRESS PINE AND SHINGLES.

P. O. Box 17, Carrollton.

All Bills and Orders will receive prompt attention.

FANCY GOODS! FANCY GOODS!

SCHILLING'S

Millinery Emporium, Hair Work

AND

FANCY GOODS BAZAR,

159 ..... CANAL STREET 159

The assortment comprises the very latest styles in

Millinery Materials, Hats and Bonnets,

HAIR GOODS of every description, and the most recherche selections in Jewelry, Fans, Combs Brushes, Dressing Cases, Specie Purses, Card Cases, Vienna Gilt Ornaments, Porte Monnaies and Perfumery.

Your attention is particularly directed to my

SPECIALTIES

In fine Shell, Ivory and Pearl JET GOODS, MILLINERY ARTICLES AND HAIR WORK.

G. T. SCHILLING,

159 CANAL STREET.

RAOUL'S NOVELTY WOOD YARD,

Franklin St., cor. Erato.

Try it for satisfactory dealing. Oak and Ash wood, green and seasoned, kept on hand, sawed and split ready for stove use, or will be cut and split to suit any size stove at short notice, and delivered in purchaser's wood-house, for $3.50 per half cord Ash, Oak $4.25. Guarantee no loss or waste in this wood

Yard, 371 Franklin Street.

MISCELLANEOUS.

ICE! ICE! ICE!

WHOLESALE AND RETAIL.

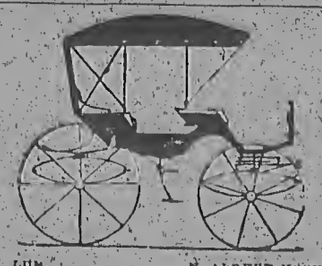
FAMILIES SUPPLIED AT LIBERAL RATES

ORDERS PROMPTLY ATTENDED TO.

WILLIAM MYERS,

NINTH STREET, between Magazine and Constance Sts; opposite the Market.

ATTENTION! ATTENTION!



M. ANDRIEU,

159 - POYDRAS STREET - 159

Home-Made Shoes, hand-sewed, $4 00

Home-Made Shoes, Screwed, $2 50-3 50

City-made Boots and Shoes of all kinds and styles, made of the very best material and workmanship, and at less prices than any other store in this city. Keeps all kinds for Gent's, Boys', Ladies' and Children's wear. Employs from 75 to 100 workmen constantly.

J. A. LUM. N. ALBERT HOOKE.

J. A. LUM & CO.,

MANUFACTURERS AND DEALERS IN

CARRIAGES, HARNESS, ETC.,

No. 35 Carondelet Street.

A Specialty made of Children's Carriages.

SAVE YOUR CARPETS

By having them cleaned by the

BOSTON PATENT STEAM

Carpet Beating and Renovating Co.

Office, 170 Camp Street,

Branch Office, 51 Royal Street,

Steam Carpet Beating and Renovating Works,

10, 12, 14 and 16 Poydras St.,

Corner of Annunciation.

The undersigned is the sole proprietor of the Holmes Patent Reticible Whip Carpet-Beating machine for cleaning Carpets and Matting for Dwellings, Churches, Public Buildings, Hotels, Steamboats, etc.

This, the Boston Patent Beater, has been in successful operation for the past fifteen years in all the principal cities in the United States, and has a world-renowned reputation as a carpet-cleaning machine.

This machine consists of a belt of endless straps, over which the carpets pass, and are beaten by a number of endless rebounding whips, restoring the color and removing all dust, dirt, vermin and moths, without the slightest injury to the finest fabric.

RENOVATING.

By the renovating process all Grease, Ink, Coal Smoke, Soot, and stains of every description are extracted from the carpets, restoring their original brightness of color. The quality of the restorers is not injurious to the most delicate shot or fabric, and is an actual preventive against moth. Send a Brussels or Velvet rug, which will be cleaned gratis as a sample.

Plush and Moquet Furniture, Piano and Damask Lambrequins, Woolen Shades, Damask Curtains, Blankets, Druggets, Piano and Table Covers, renovated to look like new.

Carpets taken up and relaid by first class workmen. No charge for taking up, packing or storing of Carpets.

Our rooms being easy of access, all, and especially ladies are respectfully invited to call and see the machinery in operation, and be convinced that this is the only way to have your Carpets thoroughly renovated from the dust, vermin and moths, for it cannot be done by hand beating. Every Carpet is cleaned under the personal supervision of the proprietors, and satisfaction in every respect guaranteed.

On receipt of orders we will send one of our covered wagons for and return your Carpets free of charge to any part of the City. All orders by mail or left at the office of works will be promptly attended to.

Beating Carpets, 5 cents per yard.
Renovating Carpets, 5 cents per yard.

H. L. JONES, Jr., Proprietor.
ALBERT PAUL, Agent.

Office—70 CAMP STREET.

ESTABLISHED IN 1825.

LEEDS' FOUNDRY,

Cor. Delord and Foucher Sts.

The Most Refreshing Toilet Article.

CASSEBEER'S

QUININE HAIR TONIC.

(EAU DE QUININE.)

WILL preserve, cultivate, beautify, arrest the fall of and restore a silken softness to the hair, and will not soil the most delicate fabric. Price, $1.

Cassebeer's Ammonia Lozenges.

For subduing coughs, colds, tickling in the throat, dry throat, etc., and facilitating expectoration. Price, 25 cents, sent by mail.

Both excellent preparations are for sale by all druggists, and by the proprietor, H. A. CASSEBEER, Apothecary, 57 Fourth avenue and 337 Sixth avenue, New York.

J. D. CRASSONS.

BOOT AND SHOE STORE,

NO. 26 FRENCHMEN ST., between Victory and Moreau, Third District, New Orleans.

A large assortment of Boots and Shoes always on hand, and made to order. Ladies', Children's and Gentlemen's Shoes manufactured to order.

GOODWYN'S EUREKA YEAST POWDER, a production of this city, is both popular with the trade and the delight of all experienced housekeepers; and no wonder, for it is an article of the very highest order of merit. Send for circular and prices.

P. M. GOODWYN, Manufacturer,
No. 29 Constance Street, New Orleans, La.

AGENTS WANTED.

AGENTS WANTED FOR THE

PICTORIAL

History of the World.

It contains 672 fine historical engravings and 1200 large double column pages, and it is the most complete History of the world ever published. It sells at sight. Send for specimen pages and extra terms to Agents, and see why it sells faster than any other book. Address

NATIONAL PUBLISHING CO., St. Louis, Mo.

$10 to $25 A DAY SURE MADE by Agents selling our Chromos, Crayons, Pictures and Chromo Cards. 125 samples, worth $5, sent postpaid for 85 cents. Illustrated Catalogue free. J. H. BUFFORD'S SONS, Boston. Estab'd 1830.

HOW TO BE YOUR OWN LAWYER AGENTS Wanted. $50 to $125 a Month. An Encyclopedia of Law and Forms. For Business Men, Mechanics, Farmers, Property Owners, Tenants, everybody, every business. Saves many times cost. Selling fast. Send for circular and terms. P. W. ZIEGLER & CO., 421 Olive St., St. Louis, Mo.

WANTED, AGENTS FOR THE

ERRORS OF ROMANISM

The best book ever published, being a complete exposition of this base system, which enslaves, demoralizes and corrupts and by its insidious influences is trying to destroy our glorious Republic, free Schools, and even with it that Priesthood cannot control, edited by the most eminent Protestant Bishops and other Divines. Profusely illustrated with portraits of contributors. Every person who values freedom should have this work. Address for circulars,

J. H. CHAMBERS, St. Louis, Mo.

MISCELLANEOUS.

MASON & HAMLIN CABINET ORGANS

Demonstrated best by HIGHEST HONORS AT ALL WORLD'S EXPOSITIONS FOR TWELVE YEARS; viz: at PARIS, 1867; VIENNA, 1873; ANTIAGO, 1875; PHILADELPHIA, 1876; TWO HIGHEST MEDALS at PARIS, 1878; and GRAND SWEDISH GOLD MEDAL, 1878. Only American Organs ever awarded highest honors at any. Sold for cash or installments. ILLUSTRATED CATALOGUES, with new styles and prices, free. MASON & HAMLIN ORGAN CO., BOSTON, NEW YORK, or CHICAGO.

WATERS' Orchestrion chimes ORGAN

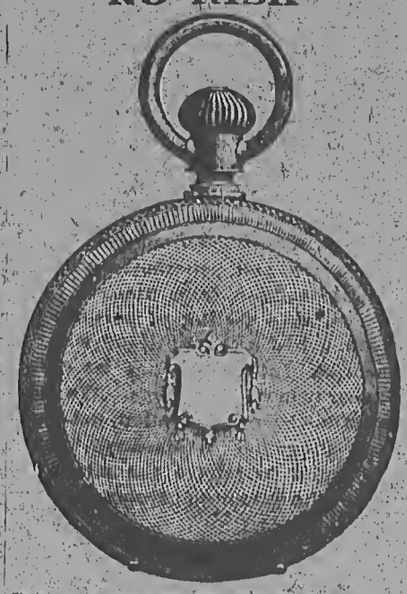
is the most beautiful in style and perfect in tone ever made. It has the celebrated Concerto stop, which closely imitates the Human Voice, and two and a half Octaves of bells tuned in perfect harmony with the reeds, & their effect magical & electrifying. WATERS' CLARIONA, ORCHESTRAL, CONCERTO, VESPER, CENTENNIAL ORGANS, CHAPEL and COTTAGE ORGANS, in Unique French Case, are in every respect FIRST CLASS.

WATERS' PIANOS, GRAND, SQUARE and Upright, ARE THE BEST MADE. The Tone, Touch, Workmanship, & Durability Unsurpassed. Warranted for SIX YEARS. PRICES EXTREMELY LOW for cash. Monthly Instalments received. A Liberal Discount to Teachers, Churches, Schools, etc. AGENTS WANTED. Special Inducements to the trade. Illustrated Catalogues Mailed. Second-hand Instruments at Great Bargains. HORACE WATERS & SONS, Manufacturers and Dealers,

40 EAST 14th STREET, UNION SQUARE, NEW YORK, Box, 3567.

THE DIEBOLD

SAFES.



A large and complete assortment of these Celebrated SAFES on hand and for sale at prices to suit the times. Parties desiring anything in our line are respectfully solicited to address the undersigned, for estimates, etc., as he feels confident of being able to give them satisfaction, both as regards price and quality of work.

A. ROY, Agent,

DIEBOLD SAFE & LOCK CO.,

27 Canal St., New Orleans, La.

NO RISK

To buy our special Ten Dollar Watch, for we guarantee them to be Solid Coin Silver, except cap over movement (inside), which is nickle. They are certainly the best Watches considering Time and Quality, that has ever been offered for the price. Cut represents the exact size. Key winder. We send one of the above to any address C. O. D., or on receipt of money, and twenty-five cents extra for registration (at our risk). Fully warranted. W. M. KENDRICK & SON,

110 Fourth Avenue, Louisville, Ky.

Send Catalogue free on application. (Mention this paper.)

TRUTH.

HOP BITTERS,

(A Medicine, not a Drink,)

HOPS, BUCHU, MANDRAKE, DANDELION,

AND THE PUREST AND BEST MEDICAL QUALITIES OF ALL OTHER BITTERS.

THEY CURE

All Diseases of the Stomach, Bowels, Blood, Liver, Kidneys and Urinary Organs, Nervousness, Sleeplessness, Female Complaints and Drunkenness.

$1000 IN GOLD

Will be paid for a case they will not cure or help, or for anything impure or injurious found in them.

Ask your druggist for Hop Bitters and free books, and try the Bitters before you sleep. Take no other.

The Hop Cough Cure and Pain Relief is the Cheapest, Surest and Best.

FOR SALE BY ALL DRUGGISTS.

PLASTIC JOINT

IRON ROOFING.

FIRE, WATER AND WIND PROOF.

Durable, Cheap, easily applied by any one. Provides for expansion and contraction.

In practical use sixteen years.

Boxed for shipment to any part of the country.

Address for Circular, CALDWELL & CO., Cincinnati, O.

Incomparably the Best and Cheapest Windmill. Protected by two patents. Twenty-Eight First Premiums. Light, but strong and durable. Has more wind surface, runs in lighter winds, is more automatic, and pumps more water than any other windmill ever before made. Requires no attention, no combustible, no running expenses. It has successfully withstood the tornadoes of the West, while other mills that stood near them have been destroyed. It is rapidly superseding others there. See certificates and testimonials in our illustrated Catalogue.

Kewanee Manuf'g Co. Patentees.

Office 35 BROADWAY, NEW YORK.

N. B.—Responsible State and County Agents wanted in all parts of the World.

$500. MADE IN 87 DAYS. CATALOGUE FREE. Buckeye Novelty Co., Cincinnati, O.

Scientific.

COMPRESSED AIR AS A MOTOR.—The pneumatic engine which has been on trial by the Second Avenue Railroad Company on the Harlem portion of their road, from the station at Ninety-Sixth street to Harlem river at One Hundred and-Thirtieth street, has proved so satisfactory to the company that it has authorized the construction of five more engines. These are to be used exclusively on the upper part of the road, where it is proposed to dispense entirely with the use of horse power so soon as the requisite number of engines shall be procured. It was stated at the company's office that the most sanguine expectations had been fulfilled; the new engine could be run at a trifling cost, and without the noise and smoke and smell of oil which accompany the use of steam; any rate of speed which was likely to be required could be maintained, and the engine was under as complete control of the engineer as one propelled by steam, or a car drawn by horses. Some time ago two Scotch engineers, Robert Hardie and J. James, invented a system of propelling cars by means of compressed air. The invention was examined by a number of practical railroad men, who were visiting Scotland. Hardie and James were induced to visit this country, and the company was organized. Experiments have been making for a year, resulting in improvements which now seem likely to render the invention serviceable to the public. The motive power is condensed air, contained in two reservoirs, placed one under each end of a car, which is similar in construction to those in ordinary use on street railways. The air is pumped in by a stationary engine at One Hundred and-Twenty-Seventh street, and this has been so far improved that the reservoirs in the car now used are filled in a few minutes. These are of steel, and are tested up to a strength many times greater than their working pressure, and it is claimed that there is no danger of explosion. The machinery is simple, and not liable to get out of order. The air tanks of the experimental car are only sufficiently large to enable it to make one round trip between the Harlem and the Ninety-Sixth street stations; but the cars now building will be larger, and will contain reservoirs of much greater capacity, and it is claimed that there will be no difficulty in constructing them, so that the round trip from Harlem river to Park slip, can be made without replenishing.—New York Tribune.

—At Bois-le-Duc, in Holland, a skillful method of making imitation diamonds has lately been perfected, and bids fair to put many spurious gems into the market. Common glass is carbonized and so treated that it may be cut and polished into a close resemblance to the fine Brazilian diamond, which will deceive highly-skilled lapidaries, and cannot be detected by tests that have usually proved effectual. Experts in London, including Mr. Streeter, recommend the use of a small file drawn across the surface as the only infallible test. This will not injure a diamond, but is destructive to the imitation.

—Story, the American sculptor, who lives in Rome, likes to consider himself as an Italian. In his studio he has many nightingales, which sing among his marbles. He works late into the Italian twilight. At home he reads himself on a sofa after dinner, while his wife reads to him until midnight—a time when he goes to his own room, and reads to himself until two o'clock in the morning. Story was born rich, and he has never had any troubles about money.

Cathartic Pills

Combine the choicest cathartic principles in medicine, in proportions accurately adjusted to secure activity, certainty, and uniformity of effect. They are the result of years of careful study and practical experiment, and are the most effectual remedy yet discovered for diseases caused by derangement of the stomach, liver, and bowels, which require prompt and effectual treatment. Ayer's Pills are specially applicable to this class of diseases. They act directly on the digestive and assimilative processes, and restore regular healthy action. Their extensive use by physicians in their practice, and by all civilized nations, is one of the many proofs of their value as a safe, sure, and perfectly reliable purgative medicine. Being compounded of the concentrated virtues of purely vegetable substances, they are positively free from calomel, or any injurious properties, and can be administered to children with perfect safety.

Ayer's Pills are an effectual cure for Constipation or Costiveness, Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Loss of Appetite, Foul Stomach and Breath, Dizziness, Headache, Loss of Memory, Numbness, Biliousness, Jaundice, Rheumatism, Eruptions and Skin Diseases, Dropsy, Tumors, Worms, Neuralgia, Colic, Gripes, Diarrhœa, Dysentery, Gout, Piles, Disorders of the Liver, and all other diseases resulting from a disordered state of the digestive apparatus.

As a Dinner Pill they have no equal.

While gentle in their action, these Pills are the most thorough and searching cathartic that can be employed, and never give pain unless the bowels are inflamed, and then their influence is healing. They stimulate the appetite and digestive organs; they operate to purify and enrich the blood, and impart renewed health and vigor to the whole system.

Prepared by Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Practical and Analytical Chemists, Lowell, Mass.

SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS EVERYWHERE.

EDUCATIONAL.

Centenary Institute,

AN Institution of learning, located at Summerfield, Alabama; was founded by the Alabama Conference and commenced operations in 1842, and has been in successful operation ever since. The Institute has two departments, male and female.

The buildings are of brick, large and elegant, sufficient to accommodate two hundred and fifty pupils. This is to notify all concerned that the Trustees intend, at their next annual meeting, June 24, to lease the building for five years to any person or persons competent to run the Institution in the interest of a church school.

Persons desiring further information will correspond with me at Summerfield, Ala.

A. H. MITCHELL, President Board of Trustees.

Summerfield, Ala., March 14, 1879.

Woodville Female Seminary.

A NON-SECTARIAN ACADEMY, UNDER the supervision of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, Mississippi Conference; Hon. E. McGehee, President of Board of Trustees. For Thoroughness of instruction, healthfulness, cheapness, and many other advantages, is not surpassed. We invite those interested to examine our credentials, and to obtain circulars, by calling upon Mr. Philip Werlein, New Orleans, La., or address the Principal,

A. J. WRIGHT, Woodville, Miss.

The Loquet-LeRoy Institute

AND KINDERGARDEN DAY AND BOARDING SCHOOL FOR YOUNG LADIES, 280 Camp Street.—This institution has now reopened under the auspices of the Misses MOISE, Cecelia W., Sallie L., and Corinne, the latter relict of the late R. G. Racul, daughters of Judge E. Warren Moise, deceased, successors of Mme Loquet LeRoy, whose good will and right to conduct the School under the old name they have purchased. Except in so far as the proprietors may enter into active service, there will be no change of teachers. No change whatever in the conduct and management of the School. They respectfully solicit a continuance of the patronage heretofore so liberally extended to the Institution, and that of their friends, and the public generally, promising strict devotion to every interest of the pupils committed to their charge.

C. W. MOISE, Principal.

REFERRING TO THE ABOVE MADAME LOQUET LEROY announces to her friends and former patrons the entire confidence she has in her successors, being in every way suited to the high trust they have assumed. She bespeaks for them a continuance of the patronage so liberally accorded her, and that she will still be actively connected with the institution. For terms and particulars apply to the principal.

HIWASSEE COLLEGE,

(Postoffice the same)

MONROE COUNTY, EAST TENNESSEE.

PARENTS desiring to find a safe and healthy location for their sons during the summer season would do well to patronize the above named institution, under the patronage of the Holston Annual Conference, Methodist Episcopal Church, South. The spring term closes May 22, and Fall session begins

FIRST MONDAY IN AUGUST, 1879.

Students arriving before the latter date will be beyond the reach of epidemics, and will thus secure some months of profitable study before Colleges usually open in less favored localities.

Excellent board in College Boarding House by D. A. McKenzie, the well known farmer-steward, at ten dollars per month, washing included. Same in good private families at nine dollars. Tuition, College Course, twenty dollars; English Course, fifteen dollars.

J. H. BRUNNER, D. D., President.
F. M. GRACE, A. M., Secretary.

MARBLE —AND— GRANITE

TOMBS, MONUMENTS AND GRAVE STONES.

Mantels, Grates, Hearths, Tiling, Flagging, etc.

GEO. STROUD.

164 St. Charles street, New Orleans, La.

Broadway Foundry Co.

JOHN J. HOLLIDAY, SUPERINTENDENT,

313 Carr Street, ST. LOUIS, MO.

Manufacturers of Stationary and Portable

Steam Engines and Boilers

SAW MILLS, GRIST MILLS, ETC.

Saw and Grist Mill Machinery, Rolling Mill and Blast Furnace Castings, Wrought Shafting and House Work. PARKERS & JOHNSON'S, WATTS' WHEELS, Tobacco and Lard Press Screws, Compound Tobacco Presses, Lard Kettles Iron and Brass CASTINGS of every description; also Quartz Mills and Smelting Furnaces of most improved descriptions.

HAVE PURCHASED ALL THE WHEEL & PULLEY PATTERNS OF GATY, M'CUNE & CO.

J. B. DAVIES, late of Louisville, Mechanical Manager.

FOUNDED JULY 4, 1808.

OLDEST SHOT TOWER IN AMERICA.

THOS. W. SPARKS,

Patent American Chilled Shot,

Standard Drop and Buck Shot AND BAR LEAD MANUFACTURER,

121 WALNUT STREET, PHILADELPHIA.

NORTON & MANNING, Agents, NEW ORLEANS.

G. B. MILLER & CO., Agents, GALVESTON.

CONVERTIBLE FARM MILL

THE simplest and most durable stone mill in the world. Any farmer can run and grind as fine meal as any four foot stone or as coarse feed as he chooses. Every Mill guaranteed. Send for Circular B with Price List.

Vertical position.

C. B. OGLESBY & Co., 59 Canal St., Chicago.

PINE ISLAND GUANO

FOR SUGAR CANE —AND— ALL QUICK-GROWING CROPS.

PINE ISLAND Ammoniated Phosphate,

FOR COTTON —AND— ALL SUMMER AND FALL CROPS.

The Best Fertilizers in use, and prepared with great care for the Southern market.

THE KINNEY & MILLER (Minnesota) Early Amber Sugar Cane Seed, CROP 1878,

Fresh from Kenny & Miller Farms.

DISCOUNT TO THE TRADE.

FOR SALE BY

HUGH W. MONTGOMERY, 100 Common St., New Orleans.

Sole Agent for the Southwest.

PROFESSIONAL CARDS.

WM. L. THOMPSON, ATTORNEY AT LAW,

Office, Garza Building, corner Houston and Soledad Sts.

SAN ANTONIO, TEXAS.

DR. E. P. DOREMUS, DENTIST,

SUCCESSOR TO DR. DICKEY.

110 Canal street, over B. T. Walshe's, NEW ORLEANS.

Special attention given to the preservation of the natural teeth.

DR. C. J. BICKHAM, RESIDENCE AND OFFICE,

230 Jackson St., Bet. Chestnut and Coliseum,

NEW ORLEANS.

Office Hours—Eight A. M. and three to four P. M.

DR. J. J. LYONS, NO. 319 CARONDELET STREET, Between Julia and St. Joseph, New Orleans, La.

CARRIAGES, WAGONS, ETC.

FIRST PREMIUM AT ST. LOUIS FOR 1878.

JOHN KIMPEL, Manufacturer of CARRIAGES AND BUGGIES,

PLATFORM WAGONS, TRUCKS, LIGHT AND HEAVY SPRING WAGONS.

206, 210, 212 & 214 Spruce St. ST. LOUIS, MO.

Barouches, Buggies and all kinds of Spring Wagons.

J. THOMSON & BROS., IMPORTERS AND DEALERS IN CARRIAGE, WAGON AND CART-MAKERS' MATERIAL,

And Manufacturers of Light Carriages and Spring Wagons,

All at Reasonable Prices,

68 AND 70 SOUTH RAMPART ST., Between Common and Gravier, NEW ORLEANS.

WANTED EVERYBODY TO know that LAPLACE'S INDIAN TURNIP PECTORAL BALM is not a secret preparation, its efficacy being due to the Indian Turnip, Arisæma triphyllum. It is highly efficacious for coughs, colds, asthma, and all diseases of the throat and lungs, and the relief of consumptive patients. Prepared and for sale by B. LAPLACE, Pharmacist, 23 and 25 Elysian Fields street. For sale also at the principal wholesale and retail druggists.

Depot in Mobile at J. C. DUMOSE & Co. Depot in St. Louis at RICHARDSON & Co. 5p

BUSINESS CARDS.

WATCHES.

LADY'S GOLD WATCHES, $20 and upward.
GENT'S GOLD WATCHES, $45 and upward.
GENT'S SILVER WATCHES, $12 and upward.
BOYS' SILVER WATCHES, $12 and upward.

All guaranteed.

A. B. GRISWOLD & CO., Cor. Canal and Royal Sts.

RICE, BORN & CO.,

80 CAMP STREET 80

WAREHOUSE 143, 145 & 147 MAGAZINE ST.

NEW ORLEANS,

IMPORTERS AND DEALERS IN

FOREIGN AND DOMESTIC

HARDWARE!

BUILDERS' HARDWARE,

GRATES, CUTLERY, STOVES,

HOUSE-FURNISHING GOODS, ETC.

SOLE AGENTS FOR THE

CHARTER OAK STOVE

HOWE SCALES and BARBED FENCE WIRE.

H. DeVERGES & CO., HARDWARE,

17 and 19 Decatur Street,

Opposite Postoffice, New Orleans.

IMPORTERS AND DEALERS IN

IRON, NAILS, CUTLERY, GUNS, AGRICULTURAL IMPLEMENTS, PLOWS, OILS, PAINTS, CORDAGES, ETC. ETC.

HEATH, PIPPEY & LARA, IMPORTERS AND DEALERS IN CARPETS, FLOOR OIL CLOTHS,

UPHOLSTERY GOODS, Wall Paper, Window Shades, Cornices, Lace and Nottingham Curtains, Mirrors, Moldings, Chromos, Engravings, etc.

☞ Frames made to order—a specialty

No. 99 Camp Street, New Orleans.

WATCHES AND JEWELRY,

37 BARONNE STREET,

Bet. Common and Canal, NEW ORLEANS.

ALSO

LOAN OFFICE,

Private entrance to right of show window.

Unredeemed pledges of every description sold at very low prices and with full guarantee.

OTTO SCHWANEKE.

Watches and Jewelry carefully repaired. Jewelry at low cash prices.

AROMATIC SALICYLINE TOOTH WASH FOR THE TEETH, GUMS & BREATH

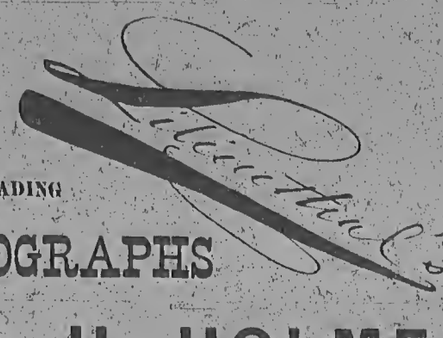
Warranted Pure, Harmless and Infallible, imparting the most fragrant Perfume to the breath (Otter of Roses and Sweet Myrrh), gives a healthy tone to the gums, cures all sores in the mouth, and by the action of its antiseptic curative qualities, removes all offensiveness of the breath, cleanses, beautifies and preserves the teeth; applied to decayed teeth it annihilates the pain almost immediately. Endorsed by the most Eminent Physicians and Dentists of Europe and America. It contains no injurious ingredients, such as used in other preparations now in the market. Price $1.00 per box (containing a large bottle Rose Wash, and box of finest Powder). Sent to any address on receipt of price. Manufactured by European Salicylic Medicine Co. of Paris and London. Address Washburne & Co., Sole Agents. Only Importers' Depot, 23 Cliff Street, New York. U. S. A. For sale by Druggists, Perfumery and Fancy Goods Dealers. eow

MISCELLANEOUS.

C. W. DUNBAR'S SONS,

3 Tchoupitoulas St., New Orleans,

PRESERVERS AND PACKERS OF



SHRIMP, FRESH OKRA, ARTICHOKES,

MANUFACTURERS OF

STANDARD FRUIT SIRUPS.

FOR SALE BY WHOLESALE AND RETAIL GROCERS.

FOR THE VERY BEST AND NEVER FADING

GO TO 121 CANAL ST.

PHOTOGRAPHS

Tauru Building.

D. H. HOLMES,

155 Canal Street, - - - - 15 Bourbon Street.

Our Stock of Spring Goods is now complete, consisting of the latest novelties in

SILKS, LACES, DRESS GOODS IN WORSTED FABRICS
BLACK GRENADINES IN SILK AND WOOL,
LINEN LAWNS, ORGANDIES, AND PERCALES,

HOSIERY in all Styles and Colors;

A Complete Assortment of MATTINGS

SAMPLES sent free of charge.

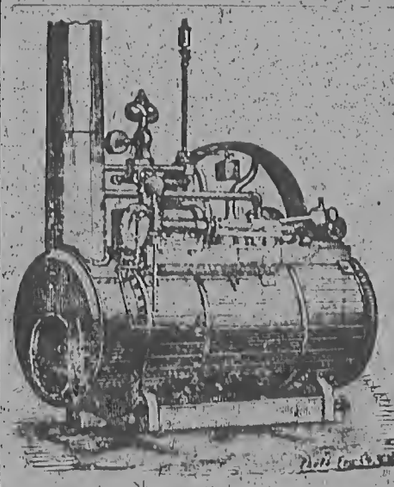
D. H HOLMES, 155 CANAL STREET.

R. M. & B. J. MOTNGOMERY,

FURNITURE EMPORIUM,

MORESQUE BUILDING,

Corner Camp and Poydras Streets,



Owing to the lateness of the season, and not wishing to carry them over the summer months, we have made great reductions in the price of all our fine

BEDROOM AND PARLOR SUITS,
FRENCH PLATE MIRRORS,
FANCY AND ORNAMENTAL FURNITURE.

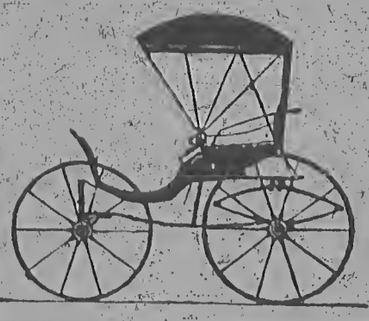
We also have a complete stock of Medium and Common Furniture, Office, Hall and Library Furniture; Best Wool Lawn Chairs, Rockers and Benches; Lawn Benches; Sch'ng Attachments; Invalid Rocking and Wheel Chairs; Spring Beds; Spiral, Woven Wire, Spring, Hair and Moss Mattresses; Feather Pillows and Bolsters; the Patent Tilting Spring Pillow, the best ever invented for a warm climate; Hygian and Perforated Seat Chairs; Rockers and Settees; the Vienna Folding and Lock Desk, the best school desk extant.

Our stock of FURNITURE and MIRRORS is one of the largest in the country, and we can successfully compete with any house North or South. Commission merchants and country orders solicited. All goods delivered free of charge. Give us a trial before purchasing.

N. B.—We are prepared to reupholster Parlor Suits and Chairs in any goods parties may select.

PAYNE'S PORTABLE STEAM ENGINES,

2 TO 25 HORSE POWER,



Strong, Simple and Durable,

BEST PLANTATION ENGINE MADE.

Send for Special Price List of this and other styles Engines, Boilers, etc.

B. J. WEST, SOLE AGENT, 115 and 117 Magazine Street, NEW ORLEANS.

Plantation Hardware and Cotton Implements, Saw Mills, Gins, etc.

ANDERSON, HARRIS & CO., Wholesale Manufacturers of

Buggies, Phætons,

CARRIAGES AND VEHICLES OF EVERY DESCRIPTION,

OFFICE AND FACTORY:

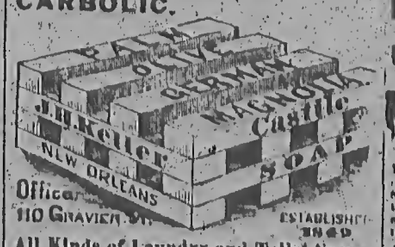
N. E. Cor. Baymiller and Liberty Sts., CINCINNATI.

Sixth Street (Green) Cars pass the door

Established in St. Louis in 1858.

R. L. ROSEBROUGH SONS,

Marble Works,



No. 1491 BROADWAY, Between O'Fallon and Cass Avenues, ST. LOUIS, MO.

TRUNKS, TRUNKS,

HAVING lately overstocked myself with this article from the best manufactories of Cincinnati and Chicago, from the finest Ladies' TRUNK, Gents' Sole Leather, Zinc, and in fact every kind made; also Patent Tray (this you need not take the tray out to get at the bottom of the trunk); also, a fine lot of SATCHELS and VALISES; also, a fine assortment of Ladies', Children's and Misses' SHOES of the best Philadelphia makers. Call and see for yourself at N. HAHN'S, 551 Magazine St., Corner St. Mary, New Orleans.

J. H. KELLER, MANUFACTURER OF CARBOLIC.

Office 110 GRAVIER ST. ESTABLISHED 1869

All Kinds of Laundry and Toilet Soaps.

Pontchartrain Cheap Store.

J. A. LACROIX, CORNER FRENCHMEN AND VICTORY STS.

LADIES', GENT'S, MISSES' AND CHILDREN'S

BOOTS AND SHOES OF ALL DESCRIPTIONS.

Always on hand a full assortment of first-class goods at prices which defy competition. Call and examine my stock before purchasing elsewhere. MY MOTTO—"Quick Sales and Small Profits." Jackson railroad cars pass in front of the store.

POOLE & HUNT, BALTIMORE

MANUFACTURERS OF

THE POOLE & HUNT LEFFEL TURBINE

WATER WHEELS,

MACHINE MOULDED MILL GEARING,

SHAFTING, PULLEYS AND HANGERS.

STEAM ENGINES AND BOILERS,

MIXERS FOR FERTILIZERS AND CHEMICALS

NEW RICH BLOOD!

PEGGON'S PERUVIAN LILIES make New Rich Blood, and will completely change the blood in the entire system in three months. Any person who will take one pill a day, that is from one to twelve weeks may be restored to sound health, if such a thing be possible. Sold everywhere or sent by mail for eight letter stamps.

I. S. JOHNSON & CO., Bangor, Me.

MISCELLANEOUS.

PERFORATED

VENEER SEATS AND CHAIRS

For use in Churches, Halls and Lodges, are coming into general use on account of their Comfort, Durability, Cleanliness, and Ornament.

No. 115.

Churches intending to buy Chairs or Settees will do well to correspond with

CARDNER & CO., Patentees and Manufacturers, 181 CANAL ST., NEW YORK.

COAL..... COAL..... COAL.

B. D. WOOD & BROS.,

Corner Camp and Common Streets, Opposite the City Hotel,

Wholesale and Retail Dealers in all kinds of COAL. Pittsburg Coal delivered by boat load or less on the coast, and shipped to ranks or in bulk, at lowest market rates. City trade supplied.

The Stewart Stove

WITH LATEST IMPROVEMENT,

Is now the

LEADING STOVE OF THE AGE.

There can be no failure in its perfect operation. Will outlast and consume less fuel than any other Stove made.

Can be had for coke, coal or wood.

Hot Water attachments for bathing, etc., can be attached with but little extra cost.

Pieces to repair old Stewart Stoves constantly on hand.

J. D. CAMPMAN, 133 Poydras Street.

ROSES

6 for $1, 14 for $2, by mail. Descriptive Catalogue free. Sent by J. T. Phillips & Son, West Grove, Chester Co., Pa. eow

BOOKS

ESTABLISHED 20 YEARS. Book Depot for Eastern prices. Stationery. Special attention to mail orders. Open Sunday 8 to 9 a. m. Depot west of the Mississippi. J. W. McINTYRE, 405, 407 Olive St., St. Louis, Mo. eow

WIRE RAILING AND Ornamental Wire Works.

DUFFEE & CO., No. 2 N. Howard St., Baltimore, manufacture WIRE RAILING for Cemeteries, Balconies, etc., Sieves, Fenders, Cages, Sand and Coal Screens, Woven Wire, etc. Also Iron Bedsteads, Chairs, etc.

LADY AGENTS WANTED FOR

MADAME GRISWOLD'S

PATENT SKIRT-SUPPORTING CORSETS,

21 E. 14th St. New York.

BRANCH OFFICE: No. 44 WINTER ST., BOSTON, MASS.

Any of the above goods sent by mail, postage prepaid, on receipt of the list price. Send for descriptive circular.

CAUTION!

Before purchasing look for Stamp and Trade Mark.

DR. S. C. GRAM, MANUFACTURER OF THE

SURE CURE TRUSS,

N.W cor Fifth & Elm sts., Cincinnati, O.

THE BEST TRUSS IN THE WORLD!

Those who have suffered untold agony for years, by wearing the Metallic Spring Trusses will find in the Sure Cure Truss all that its name implies—a sure cure for all the ills attendant upon rupture. It is a Belt Truss, no springs, strong elastic in back, valuable rubber pads that never blister, never slip. Can be worn at night.

Testimonials of cures can be seen at the office. No. 1 Elastic Trusses, the best manufactured, warranted, at $1 for single, $4 for double. Examinations free.

Trusses sent free by mail on receipt of order and money. Send stamp for circular.

MARSDEN'S PECTORAL BALM,

THE GREAT REMEDY FOR

COUGHS, COLDS, AND CONSUMPTION.

G. R. FINLAY & CO., New Orleans, La., Sole Agts.

☞ FOR SALE BY ALL DRUGGISTS.

DR. S. H. P. LEE'S

LITHONTRIPTIC

CURES STONE AND GRAVEL, GALL STONES, DIABETES, GOUT, ENLARGEMENT OF THE PROSTATE GLAND, and is an incipient stage to its incipient stage. BRIGHT'S DISEASE.

TRADE MARK. DISSOLVES

STONE AND GRAVEL

in the Kidneys, Liver and Bladder. It is now for the first time given to the public as a cure for the most distressing kidney affections. Send for pamphlet to Depot of the S. H. P. LEE COMPANY, No. 40 Clinton Place, New York city. Sold by druggists.

PRICES CURRENT

IN

THE NEW ORLEANS MARKETS.

REVISED AND CORRECTED WEEKLY.

☞ Correspondents should bear in mind that our quotations represent prices for round lots, and in filling small orders higher rates must be paid.

GROCERIES.

Butter, ₩ lb.:
Western	20	35
New York, good to creamy	—	—
Coffee, ₩ lb.:
Rio, fair	11¾	13¾
Rio, good	14¼	14¾
Rio, prime	14¾	15
Candles, ₩ lb.:
Star, best brands	11	11½
Corn Meal, ₩ bbl.:
Best, K. D.	2 85	— —
Cheese, ₩ lb.:
Factory	6½	7
N. Y. cream and English dairy	9	10
Fish:
Mackerel, extra No. 1, in bbls	— —	18 00
Mackerel, extra No. 1, in kits	— —	2 00
Sardines, quarter boxes	— —	— —
Flour, ₩ bbl.:
Superfine	4 10	— —
XX	4 50	— —
XXX	5 37½	5 62½
Choice XXX	5 87½	6 12½
Choice family	— —	— —
Fruits:
Dried apples, ₩ lb.	3	3½
Dried peaches, ₩ lb.	2½	—
Raisins, ₩ quarter box	80	85
Raisins, ₩ half box	— —	1 00
Raisins, ₩ whole box	1 50	—
Bananas, ₩ bunch	1 00	2 00
Crackers, ₩ lb.:
Soda	8	9
Butter	6	7
Sugar	8	9
Gingernuts	9	12½
Oil:
Coal, in cases, best	20	22
Coal, in barrels, best	15	16
Insurance, in cases	— —	40
Insurance, in barrels	— —	35
Lard, in barrels, best	55	60
Molasses, in barrels.
Common	— —	— —
Fair	— —	— —
Prime to choice	35	38
Golden and Roquet sirups	— —	— —
Half bbls. 5c. and kegs 10c. more.
Rice, Louisiana, ₩ lb.:
No. 2	4½	4¾
Ordinary	5½	6
Fair	6¼	6¾
Prime to choice	7¼	—
Soap, in boxes, ₩ lb.:
XXX Palm	6	—
Keller's magnolia	3½	—
Keller's olive	4	—
Starch, ₩ lb.	2½	2¾
Salt, in sacks:
Fine	1	1 15
Coarse	80	95
Sugar.
Good fair	— —	— —
Prime	6¼	—
Choice	6¾	6¾
Yellow clarified	7¼	—
White clarified	— —	— —
Crushed	— —	— —
Powdered	— —	— —
Spices, ₩ lb.:
Allspice	15¢	— —
Pepper	13¾	14
Cloves	45	— —
Cinnamon	— —	— —
Tea, ₩ lb.:
Black Oolong	37½	1 00
Green Imperial	80	90
Tobacco:
Low lugs	25 @ 3
Medium	3½ @ 3½
Good to fine	3¾ @ 4½
Low leaf	4½ @ 5
Medium	5½ @ 6½
Good	7 @ 8
Fine	7 @ 8
Selections	9 @ 10

GRAIN AND FEED.

Corn, ₩ bushel:
Yellow	50	— —
White	54	55
Mixed	45	49
Oats, ₩ bushel:
St. Louis	36	37
Texas	— —	— —
Galena	— —	— —
Bran, choice, ₩ 100 lbs	— —	80
Hay, ₩ ton:
Prime	— —	17 00
Ordinary	— —	— —
Cow Peas:
Whippoorwill	1 25	— —
Mixed	1 50	— —
Clay	1 75	— —

PROVISIONS.

Bacon, ₩ lb.:
Breakfast	— —	— —
Shoulders	4½	—
Sides, clear rib	5½	5¾
Sides, clear	5¾	6¼
Hams, sugar-cured	9¾	9¾
Mess Pork, ₩ bbl.	10 75	11 00
Dry Salted Meat:
Shoulders	3¾	3¾
Lard, ₩ lb.:
Choice, in kegs and pails	7½	7¾
Choice, in tierces and barrels	6¾	6¾

EDULENTS.

Potatoes, ₩ bbl.	3 00	3 25
Onions, ₩ bbl.	2 75	3 00
Apples, ₩ bbl.	— —	— —
Cabbages, ₩ 100	8 00	10 00

WOOL.

Burry	9	15
Louisiana, clear	21	23
Lake, clear	24	27

BALING STUFFS.

Bagging:
India	— —	— —
Jute	10¾	11
Ties, Arrow, best, per bundle, 10 ties and buckles	— —	2 10
Twine, hemp	13¾	14

POULTRY AND EGGS.

Poultry, ₩ dozen:
Old chickens	4 50	5 00
Young	2 50	3 50
Ducks	2 50	3 50
Geese	4 00	5 00
Turkeys	15 00	18 00
Eggs, ₩ dozen:
Western	9	10
Louisiana	9	10

POVERTY AND SUFFERING.

"I was dragged down with debt, poverty and suffering for years caused by a sick family and large bills for doctoring, which did them no good. I was completely discouraged, until one year ago, by the advice of my pastor, I procured Hop Bitters and commenced their use, and in one month we were all well, and none of us have been sick a day since, and I want to say to all poor men, you can keep your families well a year with Hop Bitters for less than one doctor's visit will cost, I know it.—A Workingman."

"Well, madame," said John Newton to one who was complaining of the imperfections of others, "if there were a perfect church on earth, it would cease being so the moment you and I entered it." And that remark still, has a pertinent application for those who, we fear, wont apply it.

LAME BACK. WEAK BACK.

MERSON'S CAPCINE POROUS PLASTER.

Overwhelming evidence of their superiority over all other plasters. It is everywhere recommended by physicians, Druggists, and the Press.

The manufacturers received a special Award and the only medal given for porous plasters at the Centennial Exposition, 1876, at the Paris Exposition, 1878.

Their great merit lies in the fact that they are the only plasters which relieve pain at once.

Every one suffering from Rheumatism, Sciatic Back, or Weak Back should call on the Chemist, Druggist, or any local party or else should send Ten cents for a Capcine Porous Plaster and be relieved at once. Price 25 cts. Sold by all druggists.

COMMERCIAL.

ADVOCATE OFFICE,
NEW ORLEANS, Monday, May 26, 1879.

COTTON.

The news has inspired factors with increased confidence, and it is difficult to buy unless at our outside figures or a fraction more; but there is only a limited inquiry with very light offerings, and the sales reported thus far have been confined to 100 bales at full prices.

The following is the official closing of the Cotton Exchange:

	To-Day.	Saturday
Low ordinary	11¼	11¼
Ordinary	11¾	11¾
Good ordinary	12⅛	12⅛
Low middling	12⅝	12⅝
Middling	12⅝	12⅝
Good middling	13⅛	13⅛
Middling fair	13⅝	13⅝

Sales to-day, 100 bales. Market dull and nominal.

MOVEMENT AT PORTS.

Receipts at United States ports, week ending Monday, May 26, 1879.

	Saturday.	Sunday and Monday.	This week.	Last year.
New Orleans	338	1,314	3,551
Galveston	228	760	1664
Mobile	54	123	900
Savannah	497	831	3,317
Charleston	80	56	295
Wilmington		72	382
Norfolk	4	0	1
Baltimore			37
New York	225		1,991
Boston	831	14	2,217
Philadelphia			336
Other ports			405
Total	2 783	3 824	19,212

FUTURES

The position of the market at New York may be seen by the following:

Months.	To-day.	Saturday.
January	11.51@11.52	11.15
February
March
April
May	13.20@13.27	12.98@13.07
June	13.30@13.32	13.08@13.09
July	13.57@13.51	13.27@13.28
August	13.55@13.56	13.3
September	13.3 @ 3.36	13.08
October	12.6 @12.25	12.04
November	11.56@11.57	10.52
December	11.54@11.55	11.41

Tone of the market steady. Sales, 139 000 bales.

An editor relates how a colored barber made a dead-head of him. He offered him the usual dime for shaving, when the fellow drew himself up with considerable promposity and said:

"I understand dat you is an editor."

"Well what of it? says we."

"We neber charge editors nuffin."

"But, my worthy friend," we continued, "there are a good many editors traveling now-a-days, and such liberality on your part would prove a ruinous business."

"Oh I neber mind," remarked the barber. "We make it up off the gemmen."

A correspondent at Portland, Oregon, furnishes this of the "Heathen Chinee:" "John" had bought a watch at our jeweler's but as it ran too slow, he took it back saying, "Watchee no good." "What is the matter with it?" asked the jeweler. "Oh," said John, "Watchee too much by'm by."—Harper's Drawer

A bright little fellow of four, the son of a former pastor of a flourishing church, who attends infant class in Sunday-school, received last Sunday morning a card on which were the words, "Pray without ceasing." After his mother had examined the text, he said: "I guess I won't show this to the minister, he prays long enough now.

MISCELLANEOUS.

TUTT'S PILLS.

SYMPTOMS OF A TORPID LIVER.

Loss of Appetite Bowels Costive, Pain in the Head with a dull sensation in the back part. Pain under the shoulder-blade, fullness after eating with a disinclination to exertion of body or mind, Irritability of temper, Low Spirits, with a feeling of having neglected some duty, Weariness, Dizziness, Fluttering of the Heart, Dots before the Eyes, Yellow Skin, Headache, generally over the right eye, Restlessness, with fitful dreams, highly colored Urine.

IF THESE WARNINGS ARE UNHEEDED SERIOUS DISEASES WILL SOON BE DEVELOPED.

TUTT'S PILLS

are especially adapted to such cases, a single dose effects a change of feeling as to astonish the sufferer.

A NOTED DIVINE SAYS:

DR. TUTT:—Dear Sir: For ten years I have been a martyr to Dyspepsia, Constipation and Piles. Last spring your Pills were recommended to me; I used them (but with little faith). I am now a well man, have good appetite, digestion perfect, regular stools, piles gone, and I have gained forty pounds solid flesh. They are worth their weight in gold.

Rev. R. L. SIMPSON, Louisville, Ky.

The first effect of TUTT'S PILLS is to Increase the Appetite, and cause the body to Take on Flesh, thus the system is nourished, and by their Tonic Action on the Digestive Organs, Regular Stools are produced.

DR. J. F HAYWOOD OF NEW YORK, SAYS:

"Few diseases exist that cannot be relieved by restoring the liver to its normal functions, and for this purpose no remedy has ever been invented that has so happy an effect as TUTT'S PILLS."

Sold Everywhere, 25 Cents.

OFFICE, 35 MURRAY ST., NEW YORK.

TUTT'S HAIR DYE.

GRAY HAIR OR WHISKERS changed to a GLOSSY BLACK by a single application of this DYE. It imparts a Natural Color, acts Instantaneously, and is as Harmless as spring water. Sold by Druggists, or sent by express on receipt of $1.

Office, 35 Murray Street, New York.

COMPOUND OXYGEN.

A NEW TREATMENT for the cure of chronic diseases by a true process of re-vitalization.

REMARKABLE CURES have been made in Consumption, Asthma, Catarrh, Bronchitis, Dyspepsia, Headache, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, and the large class of ailments which come from nervous depression.

LOSS OF VITALITY, feebleness of constitution, exposure to miasma, the enervating effects of climate, and especially IN SOUTHERN LATITUDES, to the slow reaction which attends convalescence, and which dooms so many to permanent invalidism.

STRONGLY ENDORSED by the Hon. JOSEPH E. BROWN, Hon. MONTGOMERY BLAIR, Ex-Gov. BOREMAN of West Virginia, and others who have tried the New Treatment.

FREE! A Treatise [200 pages] on COMPOUND OXYGEN, with many testimonials to most remarkable cures, sent free. Address

DRS. STARKEY & PALEN, 1109 Girard St., Philada.

Religious Notices.

WESLEYAN FEMALE INSTITUTE.

REV. W. A. HARRIS, D. D., President.

COMMENCEMENT EXERCISES.

SUNDAY, June 15, 11 A. M.—Commencement Sermon by Rev. Robert A. Young, D. D., of Nashville, Tenn.

SUNDAY, June 15, 8 P. M.—Sermon before the Young Ladies Christian Association.

MONDAY, June 16, 8 P M.—Final Celebration of Lee and Jackson Literary Society.

MONDAY, June 16, 9 P. M.—Baccalaureate Address by Bishop W. M. Wightman D. D., LL. D., president of Baltimore Conference.

TUESDAY, June 17, 8 P. M.—Commencement Soiree, Instrumental and Vocal Music. Musical Directors: Prof. K. Louis Ide and Miss Lizzie J. Daniel.

WEDNESDAY, June 18, 8 P M.—Conferring Distinctions, Awarding School and Final Diplomas, etc.

PROGRAMME OF CLOSING EXERCISES OF WHITWORTH FEMALE COLLEGE, BROOKHAVEN, MISS.

JUNE 19-24, 1879.

THURSDAY, June 19, 8 P M—Exhibition by Preparatory Department.

FRIDAY, June 20, 8 P M. Anniversary of Calliopean Society. Address by Rev. Beverly Carradine, Brandon, Miss. Valedictory by Miss Josie Johnson.

SATURDAY, June 21, 8 P M.—Essays and Recitations by Seniors.

SUNDAY, June 22, 11 A M. Commencement Sermon by Rev. W. H. Leigh, Forest, Miss.

MONDAY, June 23, 10 A. M.—Reunion of the Alumnæ. Address by Rev. W. H. Watkins, D D, of Jackson, Miss., beginning at 11:30. At 3 P M the annual meeting of the Board of Trustees. At 8 P M Grand Concert.

COMMENCEMENT DAY.

TUESDAY, June 24, 10 A M.—Annual Address by Hon. L. Q. C. Lamar at 11:30 A. M.

THE Commencement Exercises of the Greenville College Institute, Rev. M. E. Bull, principal, will embrace June 8-11.

Commencement Sermon by Rev. M. S. Andrews, D. D. at 10 A. M. June 8, 8 P. M. Rev. J. M. Mason. Literary Address by Rev. J. M. Boland, June 11, 8 P. M. 22

THE Camp-Meeting on Indian Village circuit will embrace the first Sabbath in October, commencing on Wednesday night before, at early candle-light, at Jones' Camp Ground, three and a half miles east of Vernon, La. Ministers of the gospel are invited.

22 R. T. PARISH, P. C.

NOTICE.—Ministers who propose attending the Commencement Exercises of Whitworth College will please to notify me, that I may provide them homes. All are cordially invited to attend. (2) H. F. JOHNSON, Pres't.

EAST MISSISSIPPI FEMALE COLLEGE COMMENCEMENT.

WEDNESDAY, June 4.—Anniversary of the Chrestomathian Literary Society.

THURSDAY, June 5.—Musical Concert.

FRIDAY, June 6.—Calisthenic Review.

SUNDAY, June 8.—Commencement, or Religious Services.

MONDAY, June 9.—Alumnæ Anniversary.

TUESDAY, June 10.—Commencement Day, and Annual Meeting of Board of Trustees.

Examinations and special addresses through out.

REV. J. T. HEARD,
REV. J. M. WEEMS,
REV. B. CARRADINE,
Conference Committee.

MAY 27, 1879. J. W. ATKISSON, Prest.

TO THE PREACHERS OF THE WOODVILLE DISTRICT.—My Dear Brethren: Please send me a correct list of all your local preachers and lay delegates to the District Conference, to be held at this place some time in July.

J. S. PARKER.

GREENSBURG, La., May 5, 1879. 2t

THE District Conference for Homer District, Louisiana Conference, will be held at Arizona, May 26-30

20 J. H. STONE, P. E.

THE Annual Camp-meeting at William's Camp Ground will commence on Thursday night before the fifth Sunday in June. This Camp Ground is situated on the Pensacola Railroad, thirty-four miles from Pensacola.

Ample arrangements are made for visitors especially ministers. All are cordially invited.

The meeting will be conducted on the self-sustaining plan.

W. L. WILLIAMS, President.
W. W. RICHARDS, Secretary. 17

Appointments for Quarterly Meetings.

ALABAMA CONFERENCE.

SELMA DIST.—SECOND ROUND.

Summerfield	Apr. 12, 13
Orrville	19, 20
East Selma	26, 27
Uniontown	May 4, 4
Uniontown circuit	10, 11
Clifton	17, 18
Selma	24, 25
Perryville	29
Brush Creek	June 1
Lower Peach Tree	8
Spring Hill	21, 22
Choctaw Corner	28, 29
Rembert Hills	July 5, 6
Marion	19, 20

The district Conference will be held in Marion, beginning at nine A. M., July 18

17 J. W. RUSH, P. E.

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

WOODVILLE DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

Jackson and Pipkin's Chapel, at Salem	June 14, 15
Livingston, at Soule's Chapel	21, 22
East Feliciana, at Clear Creek	July 5, 6
St. Helena, at Greensburg	12, 13
Wilkinson, at Pisgah	19, 20
Bayou Sara, at Tunica	26, 27
Woodville (Wednesday and Thursday)	30, 31
Amite, at Sharon	Aug. 2, 3
Magnolia, at Hollowayville	16, 17
East Baton Rouge, at Antioch	23, 24
Clinton	30, 31
Buffalo, at Mount Carmel	Sept. 6, 7
Winans and Concord, at Winans	13, 14

Note. The District Conference will meet in Greensburg, La., on the eleventh, twelfth and thirteenth days of July. Conference will open on Friday, at ten o'clock A. M.

Brethren will please bring their Quarterly Conference Journals with them for examination.

22 JAS. A. GUNTHREY, P. E.

VICKSBURG DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

Natchez	June 14, 15
Kingston, at Linwood	21, 22
Fayette, at Cane Ridge	28, 29
Port Gibson	July 5, 6
Rocky Springs, at Shiloh	12, 13
Cayuga, at Bear Creek	19, 20
Warren, at Oak Ridge	26, 27
Mount Olivet, at Wesley Chapel	Aug. 2, 3
Sunflower mission, at Wesley Chapel	2, 3
Rolling Fork, at Rolling Fork	9, 10
Clover Hill	16, 17
Chotard	16, 17
Vicksburg	23, 24

The District Conference will meet in the Methodist Church at Port Gibson at ten A. M., July 3, 1879. Members and delegates will please have the Recording Stewards' books of the several charges at the seat of the Conference for inspection.

22 W. L. G. HUNNICUTT, P. E.

SEASHORE DIST.—SECOND ROUND.

(COMPLETED.)

Whittington, at White Plain	May 31, June 1
Koenneer, at Abenezer	June 7, 8
Amite City, at Magee's	14, 15
Covington, at Oak Grove	21, 22
Pearlington, at Logtown	14, 15
China Grove, at Hopewell	21, 22
Wolf River mission	21, 22
Mount Carmel, at Columbia	28, 29
Westville, at Fairmount	28, 29

District Conference at Pearlington, beginning on Friday, June 13, at nine A. M. Bishop Keener is requested to preside.

19 JOHN A. ELLIS, P. E.

BRANDON DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

Forest, at Grange House	May 31, June 1
Walnut Grove, at Hillsboro	June 14, 15
Rankin	28, 29
Trenton, at Raleigh	July 5, 6
Fannin	12, 13
Brandon station	19, 20
Leaf River	26, 27
Newton, at Pleasant Valley	Aug. 2, 3
Carthage, at Liberty	9, 10
Prairie, at Holly Bush	16, 17
Union, at Buntyn's Spring Camp Ground	23, 24

Inquiry will be made, during this round, as to the number of "CHRISTIAN ADVOCATES" and other church papers that are being taken in the several pastoral charges in the district. Pastors will please be ready to answer.

Question 14 will be asked this round.

19 WILLIAM LEITH, P. E.

MERIDIAN DIST.—SECOND ROUND.

Wayne circuit, at Salem	Apr. 12, 13
Warnesboro circuit, at State Line	19
Chickasahay mission, at Henderson's	19, 20
Meridian	26, 27
Shubuta circuit, at DeSoto	May 3, 4
Enterprise circuit, at Spring Chapel	10, 11
Enterprise station, at Quitman	17, 18
Shady Grove mission, at Oak Grove	24, 25
Philadelphia circuit, at Philadelphia	31 June 1
Marion circuit, at Marion	June 7, 8
DeKalb circuit, at DeKalb	14, 15
Paulding circuit, at Hopewell	21, 22
Spring Hill circuit, at Lauderdale	28, 29

The District Conference will meet at Lauderdale station, Friday morning, June 27.

16 R. J. JONES.

HORSE-RACES AND FAIRS.—We asked a prominent director of one of our "agricultural" fairs why horse-racing thereat was not abandoned? He replied: "Because it is the life of the fair." "Many good people seriously object to it," we remarked. "Not so many as pretend," he said. "If horse racing is the life of the agricultural fair, why not give up the agricultural part of it," we asked, "and make it a horse race pure and simple?" "Because the agricultural part of it gives an excuse for coming, to many people that would not come otherwise," was the prompt answer.

We ask our readers to test this question during the approaching fair season. If horse-racing is to be a department of the "agricultural" fair—stay away and use your influence upon your neighbor to stay away. If the agricultural fair has no bottom of its own—if horse-racing be the life of it—let it sink. It does not deserve to live.—Rural New Yorker.

MISCELLANEOUS.

PRICE REDUCED TO 25 CENTS. The Greatest discovery of the age is DR TOBIAS' CELEBRATED VENETIAN LINIMENT. Thirty-two years before the public, and warranted to cure Diarrhœa, Dysentery, Colic and Spasms, taken internally; and Croup, Chronic Rheumatism, Sore Throat, Cuts, Bruises, Old Sores, and Pain in the Limbs, Back and Chest, externally. It has never failed. No family will ever be without it after once giving it a fair trial. Price 25 cts. DR TOBIAS' VENETIAN HORSE LINIMENT, in Pint Bottles, at 50c., is warranted superior to any other, or NO PAY, for the cure of Colic, Cuts, Bruises, Old Sores, etc. Sold by all druggists. Depot 42 Murray street, New York.

REGULAR OPELOUSAS PACKET.

Leaves EVERY TUESDAY at 5 P. M.

For Washington Opelousas, Port Barre, Simmsport, Churchville, and all landings on the Coast, Atchafalaya River and Bayou Courtableau. The very light draft passenger steamer

YAZOO,

WM. CRAWFORD, Master. J. B. SCHMIT, Clerk. Will leave positively as above. For freight or passage apply on board or to LORD & McFEE & K.E. Agents, 48 Camp St.

JERO. D. HITE, Agent 4 Tchoupitoulas St.

R. S. Connects closely with Boats for Bayou Des Glaize and Barges for Bayou Boeuf.

1879. 1879.

EXCURSION ROUTE!

NORTH, EAST AND WEST,

ST. LOUIS & NEW ORLEANS ANCHOR LINE,

The fine passenger steamers of this line will leave New Orleans on TUESDAYS, THURSDAYS and SATURDAYS, at 5 o'clock P. M., during the season, connecting at St. Louis with the principal railroads and Upper Mississippi river packets for all points North, East and West.

Passengers and baggage transferred from steamers to railroads FREE OF DRAYAGE.

Through and Excursion tickets for sale on board the boats and at the office of the company.

J. B. WOODS, General Agent,
No 103 Common Street.

"The Washington City Route."

BALTIMORE AND OHIO R. R.

THE SHORTEST, QUICKEST AND ONLY DIRECT ROUTE TO

Washington & Baltimore,

With direct connections for

Richmond, Lynchburg, Norfolk and the southeast.

Philadelphia, New York, Boston AND THE EAST.

PULLMAN PALACE CARS,

RUN THROUGH WITHOUT CHANGE Between the Principal

WESTERN AND EASTERN CITIES.

For Through Tickets, Baggage Checks, Movement of Trains, Sleeping Car Accommodations, etc., apply at Ticket Office as at all Principal Points North, South, East or West.

E. R. DORSEY, Asst. Gen. Pass. Agt.
L. M. COLE, Gen. Ticket Agt.
THOS. P. BARRY, Western Pass. Agent.
THOS. R. SLICER, Master of Transp'n.

W. C. SHEPARD & Co.,

49 CAMP STREET.

China Crockery Glass,

AND HOUSE FURNISHING EMPORIUM.

CHINA, SEMI-CHINA AND IRONSTONE DINNER SETS.

Viz.: 12 Dinner, 12 Breakfast, 12 Tea, 12 Fruit, 12 Butter Plates, 12 Tea, 2 After-Dinner Cups and Saucers, 1 Soup Tureen, 1 Gravy Boat, 2 Dishes with Tops, 2 Without, 4 Meat Dishes, 1 Salad Dish, 2 Pickle Shells.

Variety Novelties in House-Keeping.

TEA SETS all prices and quality.

GOBLETS, TUMBLERS, BOWLS, CAKE-STANDS, BERRY SETS, CASTORS, KNIVES, FORKS, SPOONS, LADLES, WAITERS.

CHAMBER SETS White, Band, Fancy—all prices.

TIN CHAMBER SETS, FOOT TUB, WATER CARRIER and SLOP JAR, REFRIGERATORS, ICE CREAM WATER COOLERS, CREAM FREEZERS, COAL OIL STOVES, LAMPS, CANS to contain 50 gallons of oil, BRUSHES, WOODWARE, TINWARE, PLATED WARE, FANCY VASES, MOTTO CUPS, MUGS, FLOWER GLASSES, CLOCKS, LOOKING GLASSES, CHANDELIERS.

MISCELLANEOUS.

THE PIANOS I KEEP.

Every Piano sold by me has stood the test of time—from ten to fifty years. A first-class house like mine cannot experiment at the expense of its patrons with untried or unreliable instruments. Being thoroughly familiar with the construction of a Piano, I am positive of their durability and reliability. I sell my Pianos with the understanding that if in ten or more years a defect in their construction under fair usage should show itself,

The Money Paid will be Cheerfully Refunded.

THE CHICKERING PIANOS,

Have been before the public for fifty-four years, and their reputation extends over the whole world. A six octave Piano of this make, forty-seven years old and perfect in every respect can be inspected in my store. Their superiority over all others is now universally acknowledged.

THE MATHUSHEK PIANOS,

Constructed on entirely new and patented principles which insure their retaining their original brilliancy of tone for a life time, and their standing longer in tune than any other Piano. Those excellent Pianos have been sold here during the last ten years and not the least defect has ever occurred. Their new Uprights are real models of perfection.

THE HALE PIANOS

Are good, reliable and well made Pianos, of excellent tone, and with elastic touch. There are over 100 of them in this city, and not a defective or worn out one among them.

MY PRICES are well known to be the lowest, as I prefer to sell ten pianos at a small profit than one at a large. My terms are liberal—selling new Pianos on monthly payments of $10, and second hand ones at $5. Fifty second hand Pianos in perfect order from $50 to $175. New Pianos from $275 upwards.

MASON & HAMLIN AND ESTEY ORGANS,

The best instruments of the kind made, from $50 upwards. Direct importation of

MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS, STRINGS AND MUSIC.

The trade and profession supplied at lowest prices.

I request the patronage of the public. No trouble to answer your letters, and I will be pleased to hear from all.

PHILIP WERLEIN,
The Piano Dealer.
185 Canal st., New Orleans.

YALE & BOWLING,

IMPORTERS AND WHOLESALE DEALERS IN

- DRY GOODS -

NOTIONS AND MILLINERY,

17, 19 and 21 - Magazine Street, - 17, 19 and 21

NEW ORLEANS, LA.

Mme. DEMOREST'S GRAND OPENING OF THE SPRING STYLES,

183 CANAL STREET,

NEW ORLEANS, LA.

These Patterns are in various sizes and put up in illustrated envelopes on which are printed full descriptions for making, trimming, quantity of material required, etc., and are so accurately marked that the most inexperienced person can put them together.

New Basques, Polonaises, Princess Dresses, Walking Skirts, Trains, etc., for Ladies' and Children's Dresses, also Boys' Clothes, Gentlemen's Underwear, Infants' Patterns, etc., furnishing economy, practical utility, artistic accuracy and fashionable elegance.

Prices From 10c. to 30c.

Send for catalogue, with directions in English, French, German and Spanish, which is furnished free on application.

GRAND OPENING

SPRING STYLES,

OF

Mme. Demorest's Patterns,

Of the Latest Fashions.

NEW BASQUES, POLONAISES, PRINCESS DRESSES, WALKING SKIRTS, FRAMES, ETC., FOR LADIES, MISSES AND CHILDREN'S DRESS.

D. P. PERRY,
183 Canal Street.
8p

BUY IN ROGERS' POWDER

CITRATE OF MAGNESIA

An Agreeable Aperient and Refrigerant.

This well-known preparation is highly recommended for DYSPEPSIA, HEADACHE, Sickness of the Stomach, Heartburn, and all complaints arising from Acidity, Bilious and Malarial Fevers. It cools the blood and regulates the bowels. It is a favorite medicine for children and its acidity and sweet taste makes it cooling and refreshing. Put up in 6-ounce bottles. Prepared by

A. ROGERS' SONS, Chemists, N. Y.

Superior to Mineral Waters, Seidlitz Powders, Etc.

For sale by all New Orleans druggists. 8p

"And the leaves of the tree were for the healing of the nations."—Rev. xxii, 2.

COCA BITTERS,

The Great South American Tonic.

The New Remedy made from the Leaves of the South American Coca Plant.

An excellent remedy prepared expressly for gentle use, and presenting in an elegant form all the wonderful health giving properties of Bay Chevylon Coca.

It is a Sovereign Remedy for Disorders of Digestion, Chills and Fever, Nervous Weakness, Sick Headache, Neuralgia, and other Nervous or Muscular Fatigue.

Convalescents from Fevers should use COCA BITTERS, as it gives IMMEDIATE STRENGTH and HASTENS RECOVERY.

For Sale by all Druggists.

SEND FOR CIRCULAR.

QUICHUA COCA COMPANY,

Manufacturing Chemists,

72 William St., New York.

9p

THE ORIGINAL Superintendent of Dr. Bly and LEWIS LOCKWOOD of New Orleans.

A. McDERMOTT,

has returned and established the business of manufacturing Dr Bly's patent

ARTIFICIAL

Arms and Legs,

and has purchased the good right for the Southern States. Perfect satisfaction guaranteed in all cases or no pay. Prices greatly reduced.

A. McDERMOTT,
308 Camp Street, N. O.

DR. F. WILHOFT'S

ANTI-PERIODIC

OR

FEVER AND AGUE TONIC,

Is deservedly the most popular

CHILL AND FEVER TONIC,

Because it is simply a preparation of Peruvian Bark without Quinine or any other dangerous drug, such as Arsenic etc., and because during a great number of years it has proved itself to be a

SAFE AND PERFECT SPECIFIC

For the cure of

ALL MALARIAL DISEASES.

This remedy is guaranteed in every way by its proprietors.

WHEELOCK, FINLAY & CO.

HOW TO PAINT.

A new work by a Practical Painter, designed for the use of Tradesmen, Mechanics, Merchants, Farmers, and as a Guide to Professional Painters. Containing a plain common sense statement of the methods employed by painters to produce satisfactory results in plain and fancy painting. Every description, including formulas for mixing paint in oil or water, colors required, etc. This is just the book needed by every person having anything to paint, and makes

Every Man His Own Painter.

Full directions for using white lead, lamp black, green, yellow, vermillion, brown, whiting, glue, pumice stone, asphaltum and spirits of turpentine, varnishes, furniture varnish, milk paint, preparing kalsomine—

Paint for Out-Buildings,

—Whitewash, paste for paper-hanging, graining in oak, maple, rosewood, black walnut staining decalcomanie, making rat pictures, painting flower stands, mahogany, parlor, rosewood polish, varnishing furniture, waxing furniture, cleaning paint—

Paint for Farming Tools,

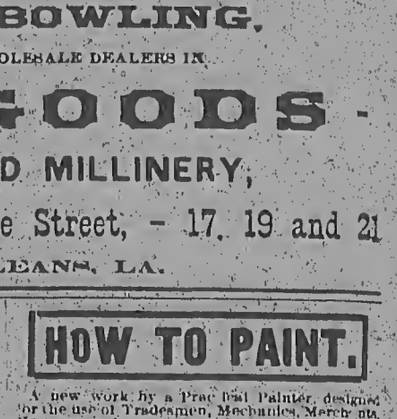
and for machinery, and household fixtures.

To Paint A Farm Wagon,

—to re-varnish a carriage, to make plaster casts. The work is neatly printed, with illustrations wherever they can serve to make the subject plainer, and it will save many times its cost yearly. Every family should possess a copy.

Price by mail, post paid, $1.

Address,



LATHROP & WILKINS,
112 Camp st., New Orleans.

BEWARE OF

Imitation Machines

Offered by second-hand dealers as

IMPROVED SINGER.

THE GENUINE

SINGER MACHINE,

—MADE BY THE—

Singer Manufacturing Co.

HAS NO EQUAL.

2,500,000 Singers in Daily Use.

Two-thirds of all the machines sold in the United States are those made by

The Singer Company,

Send for Circular and Price List. Address

The Singer Manufacturing Co.,

86 CANAL STREET,

Agents for Butterick's Patterns.

WM. G. LHOTE. A. SAMUELS.

LHOTE & CO.,

OLD BASIN

SASH, BLIND, DOOR FACTORY,

AND

Lumber Yard,

Offices, Cor. Toulouse & Franklin and 32 Carondelet Sts.,

P. O. Box 936. NEW ORLEANS.

8p

DISCOVERY BY which hair can be forced to grow on the smoothest heads. The papers all over the country contain notices of the remarkable virtues of Mrs. Hyatt's Hair Restorer, and there are scores of living witnesses in St. Louis who take pleasure in testifying to the efficacy of the Restorer. Mrs. Hyatt's principle is the most reasonable, because she proceeds on the well-based supposition that the hair germ never dies while life exists in the person, and that it is only necessary to stimulate the germ to produce a satisfactory growth. Three bottles for $5; $1 to accompany the order and balance to be paid when medicine is delivered.

360 NORTH SIXTH ST., up stairs,
St. Louis, Mo

T. W. HOTHEIM,

UNDERTAKER,

OFFICE, 271 CAMP STREET.

STABLES, 272 MAGAZINE STREET.

Embalming and disinterring bodies. Bodies carefully shipped. Carriages for hire.

FUNERALS STRICT ATTENTION. 4p

The Christian Advocate.

PUBLISHED FOR THE ALABAMA, MISSISSIPPI AND LOUISIANA CONFERENCES, METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH SOUTH.

VOL. 25. NEW ORLEANS, THURSDAY, JUNE 5, 1879. NO. 23.

The Christian Advocate.

REV. LINUS PARKER, D. D., Editor.

G. T. LATHROP, Publisher.

OFFICE—112 CAMP ST., NEW ORLEANS.

Address all matters of business, G. T. LATHROP, 112 Camp street, New Orleans.

Address all communications designed for publication REV. LINUS PARKER, 112 Camp street, New Orleans.

AGENTS—All the members of the Patronizing Conferences.

PUBLISHING COMMITTEES.

ALABAMA CONFERENCE.

REV. EDWARD WADSWORTH, D. D.
REV. FELIX R HILL.
REV. H. D. MOORE.

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

REV. W. H. WATKINS, D. D.
REV. JAMES A. GODFREY.
REV. J. G. JONES.

LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.

REV. JOHN MATHEWS.
REV. LINUS PARKER, D. D.
REV. CHRISTIAN KEENER.

RATES OF SUBSCRIPTION.

The New Orleans Christian Advocate will be furnished to subscribers at the following rates including postage:

One Year	$2 00
Six Months	1 15
Three Months	75

Will read from date to January 1, 1880, for $1.

To all Ministers of the Gospel and widows of deceased traveling preachers:

One Year	$1 00
Six Months	50
Three Months	25

THE JUG OF WHISKY.

Within these earthen walls confined
The ruin'd hopes of human kind;
More mischiefs here united dwell,
And more diseases haunt this cell,
Than ever plagued the Egyptian flocks,
Than ever cursed Pandora's box.

Within these earthen walls repose
The seed of many a bloody nose;
The chattering tongue, the horrid oath,
The fist for fighting nothing loth,—
The nose with diamonds glowing red
The bloated face, the broken head.

Forever fastened by this door;
Confined within a thousand more
Destructive fiends of hateful shape,
Even now are planning an escape.

Here only by a cork controlled,
And slender walls of earthen mould,
In all their pomp of death, reside
Revenge that never was satisfied;
The tree that bears the deadly fruit
Of maiming, murder and dispute;
Assault, that laughs at resistance,
The images of gloomy pain,—
All these, within this jug appear,
And Jack, the hangman in the rear.

NEWS OF THE WEEK.

DOMESTIC.

SARATOGA, May 26.—The Presbyterian Assembly to day adopted resolutions denouncing the habit of many church members attending theaters and operas.

The following was also adopted:

Resolved, That the General Assembly believing that the practice on the part of church members of reading secular papers on the Sabbath day is alarmingly on the increase, and believing also that it is a grievous injury to the personal piety of the readers and a serious obstacle to the cause of Christ in every community, and would deprecate the practice and would urge on all who love the Lord and desire the spread of His kingdom in the world, to do all in their power to discountenance it.

Regarding the overture against recognizing the Roman Catholic baptism, the Committee on Overtures reaffirm the action of the General Assembly of 1875, leaving it with the pastor and the convert to decide whether a re-baptism shall be made. The report was attacked by Elder C. D. Drake and the Rev. Dr. Prime, and defended by Rev. Dr. Patton, chairman of the committee, who declared, as he had done in his opening sermon, that the Roman Catholic is a branch of the Church of Christ.

LITTLE ROCK, ARK., May 27.—Trustworthy advices from the silver mining region in Montgomery county, near Hot Springs, are to the effect that rich ore, near the surface, has been discovered in many places, covering an area of several miles. California, Nevada and Colorado miners, now there, concur in saying the prospect is very good. As yet there is no satisfactory discovery of a true fissure vein. A stamping mill has been ordered and is soon expected.

Diamond Joe Reynolds sunk a shaft 118 feet and stopped operations, after spending $15 000 last season, for want of co-operation by other claimants. Some specimens taken from several mines are very rich. The question is as to the quantity. Prospectors are very sanguine, but have yet to realize their hopes. A great many claims have been staked off and there is a heavy rush to the region, which is about twenty miles west of Hot Springs.

RACELAND, May 27.—The steamer Blanche Porter, bound for Grand Isle, was wrecked Tuesday morning at the mouth of Bayou Lafourche and burned to the water's edge. All on board were saved. The passengers will return to the city this evening by Morgan's Railroad.

CINCINNATI, May 28.—The Republican State Convention met this morning.—Allen T. Brismore, of Cleveland, temporary Chairman; S. M. Fields, of Columbus, temporary Secretary. A recess was taken, and after re-assembling ex-Gov. Dennison was elected permanent Chairman. Alonzo Taft, Chas. Foster and Gen. J. W. Keifer were nominated as candidates for governor. Mr. Foster was nominated on the first ballot, the vote being, Foster 280 5-6, Taft 271 1-6 and Keifer 2. Foster's nomination was made unanimous.

WASHINGTON, May 29.—Mr. Gibson, from the committee on ways and means, reported a resolution providing for the final adjournment of congress on the tenth of June.

On motion of Mr Atkins, it was laid over till Saturday.

The bill placing vessels and hulks of the navy at the disposal of the commissioners on quarantine was reported by Mr. Goode, and amended by inserting the words, "with approval of the national board of health," and passed.

The veto message was received from the president, and laid before the house and read. It was listened to with close and, for a time, almost respectful attention. Only an audible titter went through the Democratic ranks when the sentence was read to the effect of the existing law being to secure an honest election. Again, when the sentence was read as to what good faith, honest endeavor and judicial authority can do for the protection of the elective franchise, the Democrats laughed outright, and the Republicans, as a counter demonstration, applauded.

Cox wanted to have the sentence read again, but his wish was not gratified. At the conclusion of the reading the Republicans again applauded. The house proceeded to vote on the bill, and refused to pass it over the president's veto; yeas 112; nays 91—a strict party vote. It was then referred to the judiciary committee.

On motion of Mr. Stephens, the senate amendments to the subsidiary coinage bill were concurred in. The house adjourned to Monday.

CHARLOTTESVILLE, VA., May 30.—The Baptist General Association this morning received report on educational and missionary work. State and foreign mission subjects elicited earnest discussions.

The committee on relations with the colored Baptists report that the subject had been thoughtfully and prayerfully considered. The report recommended the establishment and perpetuation of the closest fraternal relations, the appointment of delegates to colored Baptist bodies, and extended invitation to them to reciprocate.

WASHINGTON, May 31.—After a very full interchange of views and specially a minute examination of the president's veto message, in connection with the sundry existing statutes prohibiting interference by the army with elections, it was decided to recommend the immediate passage of a bill making the usual appropriations for support of the army throughout the next fiscal year, but containing proviso that no portion of the money therein appropriated shall be used for pay, transportation, equipment or subsistence of any troops used for police purposes to keep peace at polls.

It was further decided to recommend the passage of the legislative, executive and judicial appropriation bill in substantially the same terms as last year's bill and for the same amounts, except that they shall be more minutely specified, and except also that it shall not make any provision for the pay of supervisors or deputy marshals of elections. The new bill will, however, contain a clause providing that no officer shall be appointed or obligation incurred for which specific appropriation shall not have been made by congress.

This clause is already on the statute book, with the exception of the words "or obligation incurred," and there is also a law existing which prohibits diversion of any appropriation to a purpose from that for which it has been specifically made. The committees next agreed to recommend the passage of a separate measure embodying those sections of the vetoed appropriation bills, which provide for amendments of law concerning the method of drawing juries, and for the total abolition of the jurors' test oath.

In view of the fact that the president in his veto message, makes no comment on these, it is believed he will promptly approve them when presented to him by the independent bill. It was also argued to-day, in behalf of the adoption of the programme above outlined, that the president cannot justifiably withhold his signature from the appropriation bill merely because it omits to make provision for a particular object, and that in the anticipated event of his approving the present bills, the Democrats will have accomplished for the next year exactly what they would have accomplished for an indefinite period of time by the former bills, and what they may continue to accomplish by similar legislation as long as they remain in power.

NEW YORK, May 31.—The annual meeting of the synod of the Reformed Presbyterian Church convened today. The greater part of the session was taken up discussing the subject of "Sabbath in Family."

The report of the central board of domestic missions was read, setting forth that a demand had been made for an appropriation of $4,000 towards the carrying on of the new church in Selma, belonging to the Southern Mission.

MACON, GA., May 31.—The State Sunday-school Convention adjourned to day, after a very harmonious session. W. L. Goldsmith, State Controller, presided. Gov. Colquitt and other distinguished Georgians were present.

ST. LOUIS, June 1.—An Atchison (Kansas) special says: A terrible storm passed over Northern Kansas and Southern Nebraska Friday. It was most violent between Blue Rapids and Centennial stations, on the Central Branch Railroad, about thirty miles apart.

The town of Irving was nearly destroyed. About forty buildings were destroyed, fifteen persons killed and thirty or forty wounded. At Centralia, Beatty and Denison houses, trees and fences were blown down. At other points much damage was done and several lives lost. Additional advices state that the tornado was far more fatal than at first supposed. At Irving alone twelve persons were killed and forty wounded. Many were also killed and injured at Frankfort, Delphes and other places. The crops have also been much damaged.

WASHINGTON, June 2.—The House of Representatives has passed, on Mr. Robertson's motion, a bill to provide a commission on the improvement of the Mississippi river. The bill will probably pass the Senate at this session.

WASHINGTON, June 2.—The president has approved the bill to prevent the introduction of contagious and infectious diseases in the United States.

WASHINGTON, June 2.—Mr. Robertson, of Louisiana, chairman of the committee on Mississippi Levees, moved to suspend the rules and pass a bill for the appointment of a Mississippi river commission for the improvement of said river from the head of the passes, near its mouth, to its head waters. Passed—129 to 29. It provides for the appointment of five commissioners, three from the engineers' corps and three from civil life, who shall take into consideration and mature plans for the improvement of the Mississippi river, and report immediately to congress. $175 000 is appropriated to meet the expenses of the commission.

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 2.—The joint caucus committee have determined upon all the points of the new army and legislative executive and judicial bills, and will report to the full committees of both houses this evening.

The army bill will make the necessary appropriations for the current year, with the proviso that none of the money appropriated shall be used to transport, pay or feed troops used at the polls. This, the committee believes, cannot be called an abrogation of the rights of the president as commander in chief.

SHREVEPORT LA., June 2.—A fire broke out at one A. M., in the grocery and bakery of C. P. Theard, on the levee, destroyed three two-story brick stores entirely, and damaged three adjoining. The occupants were Hall and Dingle, Abe Dreyfus, J. H. Stephens, J. C. Soape, Gregg & Ford, and Horan & Looney. Loss $65 000; insurance $52 000.

OTTUMWA, IOWA, June 2.—Gen. Jas. Shields, late United States Senator from Missouri, died suddenly in this city last night.

He was in his usual health Sunday and wrote several letters after six o'clock in the evening, but just before retiring complained of a pain in the chest, and shortly afterward said to his neice that he was dying, and in thirty minutes expired, sitting in his chair and remaining conscious to the last. His remains leave here to-night for his home in Carrollton, Missouri.

FOREIGN.

CITY OF MEXICO, May 20.—There has been no official statement of abandonment of the expedition, but the work of preparation for it has been stopped because the means provided were inadequate. This will cause Senor Zamacona, Mexican Minister at Washington, to resign. He was the originator of the project.

LONDON, May 29.—The following telegraphic intelligence has been received at Lloyd's:

An engagement has taken place off Iquique, Peru, between the Chilian wooden vessels Esmeralda and Cavadonga and the Peruvian armor plated frigate Independence. All three vessels sank. The Independence was the most important vessel in the Peruvian navy, carrying fourteen heavy Armstrong guns.

ROME, May 30.—It is stated the Pope is preparing an encyclical, protesting against the bill passed by the Italian parliament requiring civil marriage to precede religious ceremony.

LONDON, May 30.—A telegram just received from South Africa, dated Maritzburg, May 14, says a civil war has broken out among the Zulus, and a great battle was fought on the fourteenth near Springpost between the people of a powerful Zulu chief, named Malcoma, and the forces of Cetewayo.

HONG KONG, May 8.—General Grant's visit everywhere absorbs public attention. He arrived here on the evening of April 30, in the French mail steamship Irrawaddi. The ship was immediately boarded by United States consuls Mosby, of Hong Kong, Lincoln, of Canton, Charge d'Affairs Holcombe, and a deputation of citizens of various countries, including Japan.

YOKOHAMA, May 16.—The notorious decision of the British Judge Wilkinson, in the Yokohama court, decreeing that opium shall be imported into Japan by British merchants, notwithstanding the prohibitary clause, in all the treaties, is again repudiated by the law officers of the crown.

LONDON, June 2.—A dispatch from Cape Town to the Times says: Information that King Cetewayo has buried the Royal Kraal and retired to northwest Zuland with a large army, is officially confirmed.

Our Woman's Missionary Society

MR EDITOR: Will you give me a small space in your paper to speak to the ladies of the Alabama Conference?

Dear sisters: At the session of our late General Conference at Atlanta we, in common with all our Southern sisters, were addressed in behalf of the noble cause of woman's work for woman, and the first Woman's Missionary Society of the church South was there formed. The board informed the ladies of our Southern churches of the organization, and appealed to us for active and zealous co-operation in this new and noble work. Shall the appeal be in vain? One look at the sorrowful and darkened condition of our sex in non-Christian lands should cause us all to say, no.

It is said there are now in the Chinese Empire alone two hundred millions of heathen women, and two hundred and fifty missionary ladies, each lady stands as the sole female teacher for eight hundred thousand women, who are in a measure dependent ones for a knowledge of salvation. Up to the measure of our ability are we not responsible? One has said, when we have reached that, we may expect great things from God. He who once fed five thousand with five loaves and two small fishes may take our very mites and so multiply them that we may have a share in feeding these multitudes with the bread of life. But this miracle was not performed until every bit of food among them was brought to Him. When we have done what we can, He will do what we cannot.

Methodist women of the Alabama Conference, are we doing what we can in this cause, regarding this our society as offering an opportunity of making grateful acknowledgments to the Author of our holy religion for the distinguished blessings bestowed on our sex in our Christian civilization? Are we giving, praying, working with all our might? Or are we staying the hand of the Lord in the salvation of unnumbered thousand by a look, or a wish, not yet given to Him?

A beautiful and touching appeal from one of these female workers in these dark lands, to American Christians, says:

O Christian women of Western lands! One striking truth is apparent to all our observations here. Those Chinese women who come to Christ no longer slay their female offspring. They ceased from this crime when the light of God's truth came to them from you, but there are other hundred millions who have not heard. The few already saved are the first fruits of a harvest which we wave to you from over the sea. You see what your Christian charity can do. How God honors and owns it!

Our society may compare favorably with others, but shall we not do more? We should have auxiliaries in every place where Methodism is found, and each of us active in procuring subscribers to our Advocate of Missions, edited monthly at Nashville, by Rev. S. A. Steel, fifty cents per year, giving the information our society proposes to furnish its members, and through them to the membership of the church.

We depend much for our success on the indorsement and support of our ministers—of this we feel confident. By all the prayers we have offered in secret for their success, by all the sympathy we have felt for them in their toils and sacrifices, by the memory of the fact they have never called on us in vain for help, we ask their encouragement in our work.

Mrs. E F. Chilton, of Opelika, is our corresponding secretary, to whom all reports of organizations should be sent, and who will furnish any desired information. All moneys should be sent quarterly to Miss V. W. Dorman, treasurer Woman's Missionary Society, Mobile.

Very truly,

MRS. J. HAMILTON, President.

MOBILE, May 24, 1879.

Field Notes.

LITTLE RIVER, LA., May 23, 1879.

MR. EDITOR: We will soon commence to build two churches on Little River—a part of Harrisonburg and Trinity circuit—one at French Fork and the other about nine miles from Troyville. We have good congregations at most of the churches. My circuit extends from French Fork to Vidalia. I have taken a good strip of the Black River country. I think a good circuit can be made for somebody, called the Vidalia circuit. I have a fine congregation at Vidalia, and at two other places in Concordia parish. On Sunday night I received seven into the church.

GEO. JACKSON.

BELLEVUE, LA., May 24, 1879.

Bellevue, the seat of Bossier parish, is situated twenty miles from Shreveport, on stage route to Monroe. Considerable amount of building and repairing has been done recently, and the old town looks thrifter and livelier than for years. The whites have only one church, but the utmost harmony prevails. Colored Methodists have a church of their own. The flourishing Union Sunday-school gave a picnic yesterday, and a good time was had. A good day school is going on here, supported by public funds. Weather very dry—gardens beginning to suffer. Will write of my other appointments soon.

J. W. MEDLOCK.

JACKSON, LA., May 25, 1879.

MR. EDITOR: Our protracted meeting held recently at this place resulted in some eighteen conversions. Sixteen were added to our church, and two of the converts united with the Presbyterians. We have three class-meetings, field weekly, each one well attended. The prayer meeting each Wednesday night is an occasion of profit. At the last quarterly meeting three young men, students of Centenary College, were licensed to preach.

C. G. ANDREWS.

CLINTON, LA., May 26, 1879.

Closed a meeting of two weeks' duration on the nineteenth; no conversions; two accessions; church greatly benefitted; two applicants after the evening service yesterday; will make four received this year. We are needing rain very much; crops generally in good condition; health of community good; circuit court in session; grand jury accomplished its work in one day.

T. B. HALLOMAN.

BUTLER COUNTY, ALA., May 27, 1879.

MR EDITOR: The church is not in a very prosperous condition in this community. There is a want of spirituality and combined effort upon the part of her members. We greatly need a heart-stirring revival of religion; may the Lord send it ere long. Crops are looking well, though small for the season. We have been favored with fine seasons up to the present, and the prospects of plenty are flattering. The oat crop is far better than we thought it could be one month ago. Yours,

ROBERT SMILIE.

OCEAN SPRINGS, MISS., May 27, 1879.

Protracted services held here by Bros. Cooper and Thompson have been greatly blessed to the church. Our church building here looks fresh and charming, as the painters are giving the finishing touches. Bro. Cooper has infused a love for God's house of worship at all points upon Seashore circuit. Biloxi building long neglected, will soon put on a live appearance. Handsboro people expect to move the old building to a central point, and I am glad to say that the quarterly meeting just held has been a time of refreshing for that people. My health improves, and I hope soon to be at work.

Fraternally,

H. B. DOWNER.

LAFAYETTE, ALA., May 27, 1879.

DEAR BROTHER: I have just finished the second round on Lafayette district, North Alabama Conference. It was, in the main, one of decided success. Love-feasts and communions well attended generally, and very spiritual. Finances behind; am urging the people to pay as well as pray as a means of grace. Some class-meetings held regularly; also some prayer-meetings; three parsonages on hand, and committees appointed on two other circuits to build. District Conference June 27-29.

JOHN B. STEVENSON.

LAUDERDALE, MISS., May 27, 1879.

We have bought a parsonage, this year, for $550. Most of the funds were raised by the ladies of this town. There is ample room on the lot for a church house, and we have between three and four hundred dollars subscribed to build a new church. At Linwood the church has just been finished, and is now a neat, commodious building. We have three Sunday-schools, one prayer-meeting and one Sunday-School Missionary Society. Attendance upon public worship very good. Finances in advance of last year at this date.

D. A. LITTLE.

GADSDEN, ALA., May 28, 1879.

DR PARKER: Our second Quarterly Conference meeting embraced last Sunday. The occasion was pleasant and profitable; three good sermons by our presiding elder, Rev W. L. Clifton. Our church is growing in numbers, with some signs of spiritual life, yet most are merely formal, I fear. We are nearly half up with our assessments for presiding elder and preacher in charge. Have raised about $125 for church repairs and some other church interests. Repairing our church. Hope to meet all of our assessments for the year. Our city is growing rapidly. The Press Association of the State is in our city to-day, and will doubtless write us up, whether we are upright or not. We have the finest scenery and grandest natural wonders of the State, I suppose. Fine summer resort; waters superior; healthful.

W. E. MANLY, P. C.

BELLEVILLE, ALA., May 2, 1879.

Within the bounds of this work all the elements of a first class circuit exist, and these elements are being developed. Our "predecessors" were not "failures." They have left their impress for good. Our country is healthy, population large, society, in the main, good. The spiritual condition of the work is improving. Sunday-school interest increasing; finances moderately good. Our missionary assessments have been raised. The early erection of a parsonage is in contemplation. Our Advocates are circulated; hope to increase the circulation.

JOHN S. FRAZER.

BRANDON, MISS., May 28, 1879.

MR. EDITOR: Since Conference we have had ten accessions and seven conversions. Our class-meeting has been revived, and work will be resumed in a few days on Brandon Camp Ground. Would like to send you a few items about this camp ground, at an early date, for the information of the brethren.

This station is one of the few works in the Conference that pays up the salary of the minister the first of each month.

B. CARRADINE.

HOLMESVILLE, MISS., May 28, 1879.

The outlook on the Amite circuit, Mississippi Conference, is encouraging. More than ordinary interest manifested in Sunday-school work. Fine Sunday-schools in successful operation, all using our own literature. Five of my churches supplied with our new "Complete Church Register." Sold about $60 worth of Methodist books since Conference. Baptized fourteen children and three adults. Crop prospects in these parts good. This is my father's eighty-fifth birthday. He is in health. Has been an official member of the Methodist Church fifty-four years.

H. P. LEWIS.

HARPERSVILLE, ALA., May 29, 1879.

A trip to the Jonesboro circuit; the occasion was the preaching of the funeral of William Foster, who died March 18; congregation large; thought to be at least five hundred people, after which the sacrament was administered to as many communicants as we ever saw on any former occasion. This work was served eight years by the writer; the greeting was cordial and typical of the one beyond. Bro. Wilson, the pastor, is in favor with his people.

T. P. ROBERTS.

PENSACOLA, FLA., May 29, 1879.

I am a local preacher in charge of Perdido mission; an excellent people; new work; few or no Methodists; few Hard Shells; few Mormans; quite a number of Missionary Baptists without a preacher; had but little preaching since the war; no schools of any kind; no church papers or literature; the Lord is reviving His work; pray for us at sundown; invite all your readers to join our sun-down prayer meeting for the Holy Ghost on all the preachers. Congregation Sunday, 150; 5 joined, 1 infant baptized. Tuesday congregation, 100; 11 joined, 20 children baptized. I have been trying to send you some names, also to furnish Disciplines, song books, catechisms, etc.

L. A. JONES.

FREEPORT, FLA., May 30, 1879.

We are in the midst of a revival; the meeting has been going on two weeks; don't know when it will close; several conversions and accessions, and more are coming. Our Sabbath school still grows; we will have a celebration on the seventh of June. A man named Childers was most brutally murdered near here last week; his head and one arm cut off; besides, shot all to pieces. He had just left here with $100. The whisky shops of this place have been closed after much effort.

J. B. ANDERSON.

HARPERSVILLE, ALA., May 30, 1879.

Shelby county Sunday-School Convention will convene, July 25-26, at the Methodist Church, at ten o'clock A. M. An interesting programme, setting forth important topics, has been published in the Sentinel, the county paper. Our Sunday-schools were never more promising. We have seven schools on this work, all recently supplied with our own literature. New Life has the right name as a music-book.

T. P. ROBERTS.

ENTERPRISE, MISS.

Sunday, May 25, was a busy day with the pastor in this place. A marriage, three miles in the country, at nine o'clock A. M., preaching at eleven o'clock, a burial at five P. M., and preaching at eight P. M. On yesterday, June 1, we baptized one adult and three infants, and received into the church six members. We are looking for greater things. Will the brethren pray for us?

J. T. HEARD.

The Christian Advocate.

THURSDAY, JUNE 5, 1879.

ALONE WITH CONSCIENCE.

I sat alone with my conscience,
In a place where time had ceased,
And we talked of my former living
In the land where the years increased.
And I felt I should have to answer
The questions it put to me,
And to face the answer and question
Throughout an eternity.
The ghosts of forgotten actions
Came floating before my sight,
And things that I thought were dead things
Were alive with a terrible might;
And the vision of all my past life
Was an awful thing to face,—
Alone with my conscience sitting
In that solemnly silent place.
And I thought of a far-away warning
Of a morrow that was to be mine,
In a land that then was the future,
But now is the present time.
And I thought of my former thinking,
Of the judgment day to be,
But sitting alone with my conscience
Seemed judgment enough for me;
And I wondered if there was a future
To this land beyond the grave;
But no one gave me an answer,
And no one came to save.
Then I felt that the future was present,
And the present would never go by,
For it was but the thought of my past life
Grown into eternity.
Then I woke from my timely dreaming,
And the vision passed away;
And I knew the far away warning
Was a warning of yesterday—
And I pray that I may not forget it
In this land before the grave,
That I may not cry in the future,
And no one to come to save.
And so I have learnt a lesson,
Which I ought to have known before,
And which, though I learnt it dreading,
I hope to forget no more.
So I sit alone with my conscience,
In the place where the years increase,
And I try to remember the future,
In the land where time will cease.
And I know of the future judgment,
How dreadful so'er it be,
That to sit alone with my conscience
Will be judgment enough for me.

—Spectator.

From the Work.

OKATUPPA MISSION, ALABAMA CONFERENCE.

E. C. Sternes, recording steward, writes us at length of the revived and flourishing condition of this work. The pastor, Rev. A. J. Briggs, is evidently a stirring preacher and pastor. We give the summing up of results as extracted from Bro. Sterne's communication:

"Bro. Briggs arrived on his work some time in January last. At his first appointment he preached, not knowing to whom he was addressing himself. Afterward learned that there were very few members who belonged to that church. He engaged at once to collect them, and get them out to church. He spent the following week among private families, praying with and 'stirring them up' to their duty. Thus he has been doing ever since his arrival on the work. The church alluded to now bids fair to become one of the strongest churches thoughout this whole country. All the churches on the entire work have been thoroughly organized and energized. There have been sixty-five adults added to the church, and thirty-seven infants baptized up to date. Sixty of the sixty-five are heads of families; besides these there have been scores of backsliders reclaimed. A church which last year paid comparatively nothing, has subscribed $185, and paid $52 in cash on the second round. A second, with very limited means, has subscribed $65 10, and will pay $100. Other churches have not been called as yet, which will surely respond when the call is made. You will doubtless be surprised to learn that we are going to have a camp meeting on the 'Okatuppa' work. It is a fact, and a fixed fact, that all the arrangements are made. It is settled, and a committee appointed to locate the grounds and appoint the time. We have twenty-five tenters. We are expecting the consummation of the revival that has been going on for two or three months in our midst. We pray God there may be a general in gathering of souls on that occasion. Our pastor spends his time during the intervals of preaching among us. His labors are very highly appreciated by us all. He does a large proportion of his work in the private circle and around the family altar. Would not our traveling brethren do well to work more in private families? Our children are warm and zealous friends of 'Uncle Briggs,' anxious for him to come, reluctant for him to leave. We close by saying: Instead of beholding in the churches the fruits of the carnal man, we behold the peaceable fruits of righteousness, all is peace and harmony, brotherly love and unity, throughout the work. Now we look for and expect the blessings of God to descend in rich effusion upon us."

SHUBUTA, MISSISSIPPI.

MR. EDITOR: Perhaps a line from a preacher's wife may not be out of place, so I venture to tell you something of what the ladies are doing in this little eastern village to aid in advancing the Christian cause. We organized a "Wesleyan Society" the last of February, and began work the first of March. We have eighteen members, and have made, up to date, $105. Our officers are ladies of culture, sound judgment and piety, and all the members work together in love and harmony. All seem interested in the comfort and happiness of their pastor and his family, and their attentions and unvarying kindness makes us feel that, though we are exiles from home and kindred, we have the love and sympathy of these good people.

Our parsonage is a neat cottage, convenient and pleasant, and has been built since January, and all paid for, except about $100, which we will soon raise. The gentlemen are not lukewarm in the interest of the church, but active and zealous in their efforts to promote the cause of the Master.

We have a good Sunday-school, presided over by a faithful superintendent, who is greatly beloved by all. We had a Sunday-school picnic on the sixteenth of May, which was a most enjoyable occasion. The children all looked bright and happy, and sang joyously the songs selected for the occasion. They seemed wondrously proud of their pink badge, which proclaimed them Methodist.

Our presiding elder is a general favorite, and always meets a heart-warm welcome in Shubuta. He is a man of deep piety, and eminently suited for the high and responsible position he occupies in the church.

Pray for us, that this may be a prosperous year, and strength given to accomplish the work allotted us.

We welcome the ADVOCATE heartily. It seems to us a dear old friend.

MAY 22, 1879. S. C. W.

MOUNT OLIVET CIRCUIT, MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

MR. EDITOR: This is my second year on Mount Olivet circuit, situated in Yazoo county, and in the bounds of the Vicksburg district, Mississippi Conference.

Last year was one of considerable prosperity and increase—having added to our church rolls on the circuit over sixty members, and conversions over half the number of accessions. The outlook at present is more favorable, if possible, than that of the former year, with manifestations of increased interest and prosperity.

Our Sunday-schools have improved in interest and numbers beyond our most sanguine expectations, with all the indications of continued improvement and prosperity.

Our Sunday-schools, be it said, to the honor of their officers, use exclusively our denominational literature. The circuit embraces four appointments, with five Sabbath-schools.

During the present year twelve have been added to our number, and thirteen children initiated by baptism. Our second quarterly meeting was held on the seventeenth and eighteenth instants, with benefit and profit to many in attendance.

Our presiding elder is a live man, looking after all the interests of the church with a minuteness and zeal without a parallel in my administration.

The agricultural outlook of this county is also propitious, and with anything like a favorable season the harvest promises to be an abundant one.

We are having already some excitement over politics, and to what extremes it is to be carried we can have but little idea. Our county is healthy and prosperous.

Sincerely,

W. W. HEAST.

NATARTIA, May 23, 1879.

WEST PASCAGOULA, BLUFF CREEK, MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

MR. EDITOR: This is one of the largest circuits in the Mississippi Conference, and it is also very inconvenient to travel, on account of several large creeks and badly-worked roads. Pascagoula (or the cow country, as it is sometimes called,) is a delightful place in many respects, and I am glad to say that the longer we stay here, and the more we know of the people, we become more and more in love with the country. When I was assigned this work I knew nothing about it; but I just supposed from the knowledge I thought I had of the work that it was the poorest work in the Conference. I am glad to say, Mr. Editor, that I am very much pleased with my situation at present. The financial interest of the work has improved during last year about one hundred per cent., and I think very soon we can resume again the dignity of a circuit. The financial interest is not all—we have been building some new churches. We have built five new churches—not quite finished yet, but hope to have them all finished by Conference. The spiritual interest of the church is not what we would like to see it, but we think there have been some improvements during last year, and also some this year.

The Sabbath-school interest is quite flattering. I have never seen a people more interested in Sabbath-schools than the people are at present on my work. Young and old are interested. Even young men, who are grown, are not ashamed to be seen with their spelling book trying to learn to spell, that they may soon learn to read.

Yours in Christ,

JOHN S. CALHOUN.

MAY 22, 1879.

DELHI DISTRICT CONFERENCE.

MR. EDITOR: The Delhi District Conference convened in Delhi, La., May 14. We have been accustomed to hold our District Conference in the fall, and in consequence of the change of time to the spring the attendance of the laymen was not as good as usual. There was, however, a larger attendance of ministers. All the various interests of the church were brought forward and discussed. On some lines of church work the outlook has never been brighter. The Sunday-school is receiving more attention, and the workers in that department are more in earnest than ever before. New schools have been started this year in many places, and there is a general awakening on this subject. Another cause for gratitude is in the matter of parsonages. Three parsonages have been secured this year. There are twelve circuits in the district, and seven parsonages. There is much missionary ground in this district which ought to be cultivated, but who will supply the means? The spiritual state of the church was reported as quite low. Instead of our people having a religion that controls everything, the majority of them have a religion that everything else controls. As to finance,—everlasting finance—instead of using the old phrase, "finances are behind," we can say: "Finances are not only behind, but they have turned round and are going the other way." One-half of the year has gone, and the preachers have received one-seventh of their allowances. So while on some lines we are progressing, on others we are not. The meeting was one of great social and spiritual enjoyment. The preaching was earnest and practical. The communion on Sabbath was a feast to many hungry souls. The hospitality dispensed by the citizens of Delhi was modeled after the apostolic injunction. One thing was clearly demonstrated, viz.: that all the pleasure and profit of a District Conference does not depend upon the presence of a Bishop or of a presiding elder.

C. W. CARTER.

Music—The Gem.

There is no Christian exercise that is practiced and exercised by as great a number of Christians as singing. Many Christians preach, more pray, but still more sing. This is certainly a duty, for it is commanded, and, I am inclined to believe, is a church ordinance; for Paul was speaking to the church, Ephesians v, 19, in which he says: "Speaking to yourselves in psalms, and hymns, and spiritual songs, singing," etc. See also Psalms lx, 11; and xxvii, 6. So, also, Paul was speaking to the church when he says: "I will sing with the Spirit, and I will sing with the understanding."

The church is a place where Christians are taught. Therefore it is the duty of the church and its officers to teach the people, and its members, and the children, to sing. Hence I argue that the "Patent," or seven-shaped note system of music, is the plainest and easiest taught, and should be universally used in teaching vocal music. Hence, in publishing "The Gem," the Methodists have certainly done a great and good work.

In having seven syllables for the seven principal sounds in music, we can more readily apply the sound to its syllable than if we had to apply two sounds to that one syllable, as we do, have to do, in the four-note system. Again, it is much easier to know the syllable and sound when we have a certain shape to know it by, as in this seven shape system.

Brethren, let us have more of the old songs of Zion in this plain system. I have much to say, but time will not admit. I would be glad to hear from the brethren on this subject. We have the world to teach, therefore let us awake to our duty and the more excellent way.

H. STEVENSON.

TROY, PIKE CO., ALA.

The venerable Canon Beadon, of Wells, England, is said to be 102 years old, and in good health. It is his boast that he reads without spectacles, and that he has not in his long life worn an overcoat.

At a Methodist Conference meeting held in New York a man got up and said he had long wished to speak, but his wife wouldn't let him. His wife died, however, and having his liberty at last, he proposed to exercise it. In about two minutes the entire Conference wept over the death of the lady as over the loss of a personal friend.—Buffalo Express.

Obituaries.

Correspondents, please write names and dates very distinctly. We follow copy on proper names.

Obituary notices should be forwarded promptly and immediately. Give only points of general interest, such as will help the living. Details of funeral services, and such phrases as 'mourn their loss," etc., are not edifying. Verses, either original or select, not admissible in this department. Give the locality distinctly and in full. In the case of infants only a simple announcement of the death, with names and dates, will be published.

☞ All obituaries received are published as soon as convenient. If, after a reasonable time, any such communication fail to appear, let a duplicate be sent instead of a complaint.

AT the late session of the Delhi District Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, held in the church at Delhi, Louisiana, May 14, 1879, the following resolution was unanimously adopted.

REV. JAMES E. CONE, late Presiding Elder of Delhi District, died at the residence of Col. T. C. Standifer, of Trenton, Louisiana, Monday, April 28, A. D. 1879. He was taken down sick and confined to his bed on Tuesday night, March 18, which he did not leave until God in His wise providence, relieved him of his sufferings and took him to Himself. Brother Cobb was a patient sufferer, having been for years afflicted with dyspepsia and other derangements of his physical organism. He traveled and preached under disabilities that few men could have borne. Such was his zeal for the cause of the Master he would not cease to imitate his example of "going about doing good" until stayed by the hand of Divine Providence; even then he was slow to believe he was near the end of his career of usefulness on earth. Said he: "I never expect to be able to preach any more, but I have begun a work for the honor of my Saviour, and I believe He will spare me to fulfill it." He, however, was submissive to the will of God, and requested that his brethren in praying for his recovery should do so with direct reference to God's will. "If it is Thy will spare me to complete this work. If not 'Thy will be done."

On Sunday, March 16, Bro. Cobb preached his last sermon in Trenton on the necessity of the suffering of Christ. Luke ix, 31-32. He preached with great earnestness, and his sermon was pronounced to be equal to his best pulpit efforts. He retired from the church to the parsonage much exhausted and suffering greatly from a disease of which he had for years been afflicted.

On Monday, seventeenth, and Tuesday eighteenth, he was up, but quite feeble. During Tuesday night he was attacked with several nervous spells or spasms; Wednesday morning he was prostrated; the nervous attacks continued with increasing severity. I was sent for and went to see him. I found him in great pain, but happy in God. Extending his hand to me he said: "O! Brother Wright, Jesus is so precious to me." I asked him if he realized that the Saviour was near. "O! yes, near and precious." He had told us in love-feast on Sunday evening that he expected a shoreless peace. He requested me nearly every day to read to him some portion of God's word, and would, commenting on the preciousness of God's word, speak of his trust or faith in God as being firm; "I believe in the bible, every word of it."

On Friday, April 4, he was visited by Bro. R. T. Parish, who prayed with him. He was very happy during prayers, and made hearty responses, rejoicing greatly in the Saviour's love. At this point he seemed to improve somewhat and continued to improve, and we began to hope the good Lord had answered our prayers, and he would be spared to our District and the church, but Tuesday, the eighth, he grew worse. Just as he was relieved from a severe spell of pain in a slow measured tone, as it weighing each word he uttered, he repeated Cowper's inimitable hymn, commencing

"There is a fountain filled with blood, Drawn from Immanuel's veins"

His soul seemed to fill unutterably full of glory and of God, and he shouted: "Praise God, O! my soul, and forget not all his benefits." From this time, the eighth, to the twentieth, he again gave signs of recovery; but here again on the twentieth of April, he grew worse; his mind became unsettled; his conversation showed that the strong intellect was weakening; his reasoning powers were evidently waning, and thus he continued to grow weaker and get more feeble till Monday, April 28, at ten minutes to twelve o'clock. There were gathered around his bed the Stewards of the Trenton Church, viz: T. C. Standifer, Jethro Moore, L. M. Kidd, John E. Morris, and as the pastor of the Trenton Church, Rev. J. L. Wright. Tearfully and silently we looked upon the conflict, as the valient aged soldier of the cross was engaged in silent contest with the last enemy, we saw the evident struggle of his faith in God as it looked out through his glazed eyes, now sightless, up to that company of convoying angels hovering above him, and waiting to catch up his blood-washed spirit and convey it to his home. We saw the effort he was making to speak, to us, and tell, doubtless, of his triumph and victory. We saw him trying to raise his hand, and by this to demonstrate the power of divine grace to sustain in the last hour, and while thus evidently struggling to give us an evidence of God's accompanying presence with the spirit, strugling freed itself from his diseased body and sped its way to God.

Thus passed away from earth our beloved Brother Cobb. God grant his mantle may fall upon some worthy one who may take his place in the front rank of the hosts of God.

Resolved, That we bow submissively to the dispensation of a wise Providence.

Respectfully submitted,

JAMES L. WRIGHT,
J. M. BROWN,
Committee.

MRS. SARAH ANN GARRETT died April 6, 1879, at her residence near Trinity, Catahoula parish, Louisiana, in the 70th year of her age.

Sister Garrett was one of the oldest and best beloved of the neighborhood in which she resided. She was the daughter Wm. W. Davis and Elizabeth Ball, and was born in Abbeville, S. C., July 15, 1809; she was first married to Mr. Sanders Neely, October 18, 1831. Soon after their marriage they moved to Alabama, thence to Mississippi and to Louisiana in 1845. On the third day of April, 1847, she was bereft of her kind and affectionate consort, leaving her the care of four lovely daughters.

She was married to Mr. Jacob Garrett December 17, 1848. One child was born unto them, the "pet" of the household. Sister Garrett united with the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, in 1857, and lived a truly conscientious and consistent member until her death.

In the bloom of youth her children were all taken from her, and her little grandchildren come under her special charge.

She was a tender, devoted and loving grandma, and knew so well to make her home cheerful and attractive; they yet dwell with thoughts of pleasure on their "sweet home" like which there was no such place.

I visited her during her last sickness and found her happy. Death had no terrors for her. She was ready and waiting, and often exclaimed, "Most home." She made all arrangements for the journey, and urged her husband and grandchildren to meet her on the golden shore.

GEO. JACKSON.

MRS. MOLLIE E. MUNDEN, nee LENOIR, was born in Talus county, Ala., December 16, 1858, and died in Perry county, Ala., May 9 1879.

The subject of this notice was more than an ordinary woman. Possessed of rare personal beauty, with splendid intellectual endowments, and having a most genial and amiable disposition, she was well capacitated to be attractive and entertaining in the circles in which she moved. With all these qualities to make her agreeable outside of home, she was equally endowed to fill the place of daughter, and sister, and wife. Industry and helpfulness, and love and devotion, characterized her in the domestic relations. When she first grew up to young womanhood the world threw around her the bewitchery of its charms and fascinations, and lured her, to some extent, into its galeties, yet in the month of August, 1877, she broke the potency of its influence, "renouncing the vain pomp and glory" thereof, and was received, by the author of this tribute, into the Methodist Episcopal Church, South. With firmness and decision she took her stand with the people of God, and most faithfully did she maintain it unto her death. In December, 1877, she was married to Mr. Walter C. Munden, an estimable young man, and most worthily did she become to him a companion and helpmate.

She was happy in her new relation and home. When her babe was born her happiness was augmented, and the future seemed radiant; but soon sickness came, and then death, but she was prepared and ready. During intense sufferings she was conscious of the approaching end, and when the final moment came she was sensible of it, and said: "I am getting cold. I am dying. I am gone. I am saved." Such triumph ought to comfort the stricken husband and the doubly bereaved mother.

J. W. SHORES.

MISS LUCY OVERTON GILMER was born October 21, 1852, in Lowndes county, Ala., and died May 19, 1879, at Fort Deposit, Ala.

She was baptized by J. Hamilton in infancy, and was happily converted and joined the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, at Tabernacle Church, Fort Deposit circuit, Ala., in 1869.

For a long time before her death she was a great sufferer, but bore her afflictions with Christian fortitude, and felt and often said, they work for me a far more exceeding and eternal weight of glory. On the twenty-ninth of October, 1878, her little niece, Emma Lou. Walton, daughter of H. J. and S. E. Walton, about eight years old, was suddenly taken away to the Land of Bliss, upon whom she had bestowed much labor and religious training, after which time she seemed to have a desire to depart and be with Christ.

I never knew a more devoted Christian. In the Sunday-school, in the class and prayer-meeting, at preaching, she was always in her seat (near the altar), and ready to take the heaviest burdens.

She loved her preacher and his family, and did everything in her power to advance their interest and make them happy.

On the Sunday evening before she died she talked freely to her brother of death, and said she was ready; and when the messenger came she bid adieu to loved ones on earth, to join those who had gone before.

WILLIAM H. MORRIS.

MRS. SUSAN ELLEN THOMAS was born in Henry county, Ala., April 22, 1847; was received into the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, in 1861; married to P. F. Thomas December 9, 1868, and died of apoplexy, May 10, 1879, in Henry county, Ala.

In the life of this estimable woman were blended most of the high qualities that beautify and adorn her sex. Naturally possessed of a good strong mind—was stored with good and useful knowledge—her heart was adorned with the riches of grace. Her whole life was a pattern of excellence. In her religious connection she was firm and steadfast, and lived every day as though it were her last upon earth. Accustomed to temperance and restraint, she acquired a well-governed disposition, trained by divine grace, to enjoy the advantages of the world with moderation. She was not lifted up by prosperity to be haughty and proud, nor was she greatly dejected when adversity came upon her, but even in the most trying condition in life to look up to an overruling Providence with trust and hope.

In her domestic circle her shining qualities made her at once the light and comfort of her household. In the social circle she is mourned by numerous friends, who will long remember her for the dignity and gentleness of her manners, and gushing sympathies of a warm and generous nature. She loved the Sabbath-school. She loved all the institutions of the church of her choice, and was always found at her place, when circumstances would admit of it. Making provision for a generous hospitality to ministers of the gospel seemed always to be one of her chief delights, not only with her favorite denomination, but with all Christians who are worthy the name of Christ. She leaves a husband, five little children, two brothers and three sisters, to mourn her loss.

M. R. CASSADY.

WILLIE A. LENOIR was born in Dallas county, Ala., November 19, 1862, and died in the city of Selma, Ala., April 7, 1879. Willie was a promising youth. Through all his childhood days he was remarkable for his industrious habits, for his filial devotion, and for his exemplary deportment. In August, 1877, he embraced religion, and was received by the writer into the Methodist Episcopal Church, South. Although he was not quite fifteen years old at the time, yet the manliness and decision with which he assumed the vows of a religious life were truly impressive. From the date of his espousal of the cause of the Master, up to the day of his death, he was prompt and uniform in the performance of all his Christian duties.

When he moved to Selma he carried his church letter with him, and at once attached himself to the church in east Selma charge, and for the short time he was there greatly endeared himself to the pastor, Rev. W. A. Wade, and the entire membership of that church.

The sickness that terminated in his death was intense and severe, yet it was borne with the patience and heroism of a true Christian, and he passed away from earth in peace and triumph. The bereavement is his widowed mother and her other children is a heavy one, and fills them with sadness, but they sorrow not as those who have no hope. Precious to them is the death of so noble and pure.

J. W. SIMS.

SARAH ADELINE STUBBS died in Spring Hill, in Marengo county, Ala., April, 1879, in the sixteenth year of her age.

Her parents, who were members of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, in which she was an infant, leaving her, with several other children, to the care of a maternal aunt, Miss Mary S. Cooper, who attended to her charge with the vigilance and affection of a mother.

"Addie" was naturally an ingenuous, sweet spirited girl, and was beloved by all who knew her. She was a pupil in the writer's school some years since, and won his love and admiration by her exemplary deportment. At a protracted meeting held at Spring Hill last fall she was converted and received into the Methodist Church by Rev. G. Hawkins. Her earnest perseverance as a seeker, and her consistent life after joining the church, attested the genuineness of her conversion. She was so scrupulous as to her promise to "be subject to the discipline of the church," that she relinquished and avoided all songs and instrumental music that did not "tend to the knowledge and love of God." She suffered much during her sickness, but bore all with Christian patience and resignation. She became unconscious several days before her death, from which condition she never revived.

The following lines were the last which she did:

There is a God who reigns above,
Lord of the heavens and earth and sea;
I fear his wrath, I ask his love,
And with my lips I sing his praise.

H. H. COTTRELL.

STEPHEN T. CLEMENT was born April 6, 1817, and died at his residence in Carroll county, Mississippi, March 27, 1879.

Brother Clement was a member of the Methodist Church, South, and had been about thirty years. He was a religious good man, living, as he thought, with a fear of God before his eyes. He seemed impressed that he would die when first taken sick, and expressed himself as resting and trusting in that God who he had for a short time served. His conversation, for some time before he was taken sick, was on religion and God's goodness to him.

We have heard him often in love-feast tell of his religious enjoyment, and when thus talking his soul would overflow with the baptism of the Holy Ghost. But the last battle has been fought and the victory gained. So he rests from his labors. Brother Clement was an humble man, content to occupy some humble seat in the house of God than to be in the lead, while his heart was in the great work of saving souls. He loved the church; he loved God; died as he had lived. And so ended the life of a good, humble Christian.

K. A. JONES.

BRO. GILES MONZINGO was born in Edgefield District, South Carolina, May 7, 1805. About seven years after his birth his parents moved to Washington county, Ga. Here Bro. Giles reached his majority. He married Miss Rosana Matthews of that State, January 26, 1826. He then moved to Houston county, but in November, 1848, he settled in Louisiana, near the town of Minden, where he died April 25, 1879, in the seventy-fourth year of his age. He joined our branch of the church about 1850, and held the office of class-leader and steward during the larger part of his religious life.

He was blameless, having a good report of those without. Every one called him "Uncle Giles," and we all loved him for what he was. Of course he died well. We have not lost by his death, but he has gained beyond all human estimate. He has left a weeping companion, children, grandchildren and numerous friends to mourn his absence.

JAS. E. BRADLEY.

DIED, in Pearlington, Miss., of typhoid fever, on the evening of August 7, 1878, SUSAN CELESTE, only child of Celeste Jane Graves and William E. Gray, of New Orleans, La.

MINNIE LEANORA, infant daughter of J. H. and Ann E. Simmons, was born August 12, 1874, and died March 4, 1879, aged four years, six months and twenty days.

JOHN THOMAS, infant son of G. W. and Zilpha Boyles, was born November 9, 1878, and died April 14, 1879, aged five months and five days.

The Christian Advocate.

THURSDAY, JUNE 5, 1879.

THE SAVIOUR'S KNOWLEDGE.

"We are sure that Thou knowest all things."—John xvi, 3.

Thou knowest, Lord, the weariness and sorrow
Of the sad heart that comes to Thee for rest;
Cares of to-day, and burdens for to-morrow,
Blessings implored and sins to be confessed;
I come before Thee at Thy gracious word,
And lay them at Thy feet; Thou knowest, Lord.

Thou knowest all the past; how long and blindly
On the dark mountains the lost sheep had strayed;
How the Good Shepherd followed, and how kindly
He bore it home upon His shoulders laid,
And healed the bleeding wounds, and soothed the pain,
And brought back life, and hope and strength again.

Thou knowest all the present; each temptation,
Each lollsome duty, each foreboding fear;
All to myself assigned of tribulation,
Or to beloved ones, than self more dear;
All pensive memories, as I journey on,
Longings for vanished smiles and voices gone.

Thou knowest all the future gleams of gladness,
By stormy clouds too quickly overcast;
Hours of sweet fellowship and parting sadness,
And the dark river to be crossed at last;
O! what hope and confidence afford
To tread that path, but this—Thou knowest, Lord.

Thou knowest, not alone as God, all knowing,
As man, our mortal weakness Thou hast proved,
On earth with purest sympathies overflowing,
Oh, Saviour, Thou hast wept, and Thou hast loved!
And love and sorrow still to Thee may come,
And find a abiding place, a rest, a home.

Therefore I come; Thy gentle call obeying,
And lay my sins and sorrows at Thy feet,
Thy everlasting strength my weakness staying,
Clothed in Thy robe of righteousness complete;
Then rising refreshed, I leave Thy throne,
And follow on to know as I am known.

—Dr. Kennedy's Hymnologia Christiana.

American Character.

In thus comparing the growing history of the present with the possible history of the future, may I be allowed to use a figure which I employed in one of my farewell speeches to my kind American hosts? In that memorable hour—memorable in the life of every one as the moment when he first sees the Pyramids of Egypt or the Alps of Switzerland—when I first stood before the cataracts of Niagara, it seemed to me that the scene which I witnessed was not an unapt likeness of the fortunes of America. It was midnight; the moon was full; and I saw from the vast bridge which spans the river the ceaseless contortion, confusion, whirl and chaos, bursting forth in clouds of foam from that immense central chasm which divides the American from the British dominion; and as I looked on that everchanging movement, and listened to that everlasting roar, it seemed an emblem of the devouring, fermenting, perplexed, bewildering activity, the ceaseless, restless, beating whirlpool of existence in the United States. But into the moonlight sky there rose a cloud of spray twice as high as the falls themselves, silent, majestic, immovable. That silver column, glittering in the moonlight, seemed an image of the future of American history—of the upward, heaven-aspiring destiny which should emerge from the distractions of the present.

Let me explain in a few words wherein that pillar of light has an historical substance, which may lead us to hope that it will not vanish away with the morning light, but may continue to guide the coming times of the United States. And for this purpose I select three points from the history of the past which conduce to a confidence, which, if not without "trembling," is still "rejoices" always—points on which I venture to insist, because they bear practically on an educational institution like this.

First, there is a marked peculiarity of the American people, apparent almost from the first, the singular buoyancy and elasticity both of the national and individual character. It may be the product of their brilliant, exhilarating, invigorating climate; it may be the accompaniment of the vast horizon opened out by their boundless territory; it may be partly the youth of the nation, on which I have so much enlarged in this address; but its existence is unquestionable. If at times there is something almost of levity in the readiness with which misfortunes are thrown off and life begun over again; if at times the more sober part of the nation is depressed by the sense of the difficulties which they have to encounter, yet on the whole this spring of vitality, if turned to good account, must be of incalculable value in this working world, where imagination still plays so large a part, and where so much is given to assurance of victory, even more than victory itself. If, perchance, the United States have too much of it, we, it may be, have too little; and this confidence of Americans in their own political, ecclesiastical and social system, is a warning to us to rise above those doleful lamentations with which in these days we often hear the citizens and churchmen, and Christians of England, despair of our country, our church and our religion.

Secondly, there are the elements of that character which they possess in common with the English race, with which their past history shows them to be in so many respects identical. In spite of some dark and sinister features in both countries, there is on the whole the same keen appreciation of the delights of pure domestic life. In spite of the lawlessness which is perhaps the inevitable outburst of the effervescence of communities not yet fully organized, there is on the whole in the mass of the people something of the same self control, and common sense, and love of freedom, and obedience to law, on which we pride ourselves, and which we are glad to recognize in our descendants. And these points of contact between the mother country and the daughter States not only are themselves encouraging, but they derive additional force from the guarantee which they give that the union between the two, though severed by the revolution of the last century, is in the essential elements of character and social sympathy yet unbroken.

We no doubt may have much to learn from America; but if this closeness of sympathy and homogeneousness of race is still maintained, they will always have something to learn from us, and will, we trust, be not unwilling to receive it. It is a solemn responsibility which this recollection of American history impresses upon us, that as we were their fathers, so in a large measure we are responsible for them—our children—responsible because they sprang from us, but yet more responsible because our good or evil actions still produce a direct impression on their susceptible minds. Commercial dishonesty, blind political partisanship, demagogic stratagems, frivolous luxury in English society, are strong incentives to any like vices which appear in the kindred stock; and, on the other hand, every attempt on our part to maintain refinement of manners, truthful dealing, a policy that does not tend to popular fashion or faction, simplicity and self-control in social life, act and have acted with immense force in promoting the like virtues beyond the Atlantic. "It is the spirit of the British Constitution," says Burke "which, infused through the mighty mass of the English settlements, prevades, feeds, nulles, invigorates, every part even down to the minutest." Our kinsmen beyond the sea may be flattered for the moment by being told that they are a nation stronger and greater than we. But they have too much sense and knowledge of our joint history not to be proud of their English parentage and their ancient home.—From Dean Stanley's Lecture on the Historical Aspect of the United States.

Blunders.

A Hampshire incumbent recently reported in the Pall-Mall Gazette some of the blunders he had heard made in the marriage service by that class of persons who have to pick up the words as best they can from hearing them repeated by others. He said that in his own parish it was quite the fashion for the man, when giving the ring, to say to the woman: "With my body I thee wash up, and with all my hurdie goods I thee and thou." He said the women were generally better up in this part of the service than the men. One day, however, a bride startled him by promising, in what she supposed to be the language of the prayer book, to take her husband, "to 'ave and to 'old from this day fortni't for better horse, for richerer power, in siggerness health, to love cherries, and to bay." What meaning this extraordinary vow conveyed in her own mind the incumbent said it baffled him to conjecture.

A story is told of a bailie whose studies in natural history seem to have been rather limited. The following case came before him one day: A man who kept a ferret, having to go into the country, left the cage with ferret in charge of a neighbor till he should return. The neighbor incautiously opened the cage door, and the ferret escaped. The owner was very angry, and brought a claim against his neighbor for damages. The following was the decision of the learned bailie: "Nae doot," he said to the man who had been left in charge, "ye was wrang to open the cage door; but," he added, turning to the other, "ye was wrang, too; for why did ye no clip the brute's wings?"

By the bad arrangement of clauses in composition, ludicrous blunders are sometimes made. A Wisconsin paper announced that the Board of Education had "resolved to erect a building large enough to accommodate five hundred students three stories high." In an English paper an advertisement appeared under the head of "To Let," of a house for "a family in good repair." Punch noticed this, and conjectured that "a family in good repair" must mean one in which none of the members were cracked. "The brooches would have been sent before, but have been unwell," was a note of apology sent to Dean Alford by his jeweler; and "Two sisters want washing," was an advertisement which appeared in the Manchester Guardian.

An amusing style of blunder is the "bull," for which the Irish get the most credit. It was an Irish editor who exclaimed, when speaking of the wrongs of his country: "Her cup of misery has been overflowing, and is not yet full!" It was an Irish paper that said of Robespierre that "he left no children behind him, except a brother, who was killed at the same time." Irish also was the cornet who, when writing home from India, praising the much-abused climate as really one of the best under the sun, added: "But a lot of young fellows come out here, and they drink and they eat, and they eat and they drink, and they die; and then they write home to their friends, saying it was the climate that did it!"

Though not so numerous as those of the Emerald Isle, Scotland is not without its specimens of this kind of blunder. Two operatives in one of the border towns were heard disputing about a new cemetery, beside the elegant railing of which they were standing. One of them, evidently disliking the continental fashion in which it was being laid out, said, in disgust: "I'd rather dee than be buried in sic a place." "Weel, it's the verra reverse wi' me," said the other, "for I'll be buried naewhere else if I'm spared."

Some blunders arise from misapprehension. A Bishop of Oxford sent round to the church-wardens in his diocese a circular of inquiries, including the question: "Does your officiating clergyman preach the gospel, and is his conversation and carriage consistent therewith?" The church-warden of Wallingford replied: "He preaches the gospel, but does not keep a carriage."

The Only Way.

Near the church of St. John de Lateran at Rome is the famous Scala Sancta, or Sacred Stair, said to have been brought from Jerusalem, and to be the same steps down which our Saviour walked from Pilate's hall of judgment. These steps are twenty-five in number, made of solid marble, and covered with wood to keep them from being worn away by the knees of the climbing pilgrims who come from all parts of the world. Martin Luther, three centuries ago, found the light of the gospel on that same stair. Dressed as a monk, with his shaven head and bare knees, he was creeping up those marble steps, hoping thereby to calm his troubled conscience and work his way to heaven, when all at once the voice of God was heard crying in his soul: "The just shall live by faith." Obedient to the heavenly voice, he saw his error of trying to earn his title to salvation by his own pains and works; and leaving the city in disgust, he went home to nail his "Theses" to the church door at Wittenberg, and to kindle the fire of the glorious Reformation.

Yes, Luther found the true way to heaven, not by climbing that Sacred Stair on his naked knees, but by simple faith in Jesus, who said: "I am the way, the truth and the life; no man cometh to the Father, but by Me." If you would ever enter heaven you must do it by the same way.

That way is an ancient way. On it the saints of God have walked in every age—patriarchs like Abraham, prophets like Samuel, judges like Gideon, apostles like Peter, martyrs like Stephen, mothers like Eunice, and children like Timothy, who knew from boyhood the Holy Book, and by it became wise unto salvation.

It is a narrow way; for "strait is the gate and narrow is the way, that leadeth unto life, and few there be that find it."

It is a holy way—"the highway of holiness." Here is God's pass word to all who enter it: "Except a man be born again, he cannot see the kingdom of God."

It is a difficult way. All its pilgrims, be they old or young, have some cross to carry. Like Bunyan's pilgrim, they must climb the hill Difficulty, and fight with Apollyon.

It is a safe or well guarded way for the angels encamp around it; and as the mountains are round about Jerusalem, so the Lord Almighty is round about its travelers.

Finally, it is a freely open way—free as the sun that shines on the evil and the good; free to all men, without money and without price, whatever the color of their skin or the land of their birth; free to the richest, if they only become poor in spirit; free to the poorest, if they only seek to be rich in faith; free to the wisest, if they only wish to be taught of God; and free to you, dear boys and girls. Only enter it now. You need to enter it, for you are not too young to sin, and not too young to die. Death may cut you off very soon, and your bed may soon be the little green grave. Enter it now while your hearts are tender; for the sooner you do so the earlier and the deeper will be your happiness.—Rev. A. Barnatyne.

Religious Intelligence.

—The Friends (Quakers) in Ohio number 9,017.

—The English Bible and Prayer Union, established for the consecutive and simultaneous reading of the Word of God, begins its fourth year with over 61,000 members in all quarters of the globe.

—It is said that the English Wesleyan Thanksgiving Fund, begun last year, is augmenting at the rate of $20,000 a week. It now amounts to over $350,000, and it is expected that enough will be subscribed to make it $1,200,000 which will put all the denominational schemes in excellent financial condition.

—The announcement is made in the Baptist Weekly of a piece of good fortune for Rochester Theological Seminary. It is about to receive an endowment of $136,000, the gift of five laymen—J. B. Hoyt, J. B. Trevor, Charles Pratt, and the brothers Rockefeller. Mr. Hoyt endows a chair of Hebrew language and literature, and the Rockefeller brothers provide a library and library building.

—The Belgian Bishops have issued a pastoral condemning the government project of law for the reform of primary instruction. They call it irreligious, because instruction in dogmatic religion is no longer made compulsory. At the end of the pastoral a prayer is prescribed closing with this sentence, "From the schools without God, and the schoolmaster without faith, deliver us, O Lord! Amen."

—The American Missionary Association began its work among the Freedmen at Fortress Monroe in 1861, where many colored refugees were gathered. In 1862 it employed 15 teachers; in 1870 the number reached 531, and in 1878 upward of 200. In all, the Association has employed 5,267 teachers and has planted Congregationalism in every State of the South.

—New Guinea is dangerously near New Britain, where the cannibals have recently been active; but the London Missionary Society has had stations in the eastern half of New Guinea, and the missionaries have not been molested. Between the two great islands and in China Straits there are numerous islands. Among these is Moresby, or Basilaki, which is peopled by cannibals. The missionaries of the London Society have long had their eyes on this island, hoping for an opportunity to teach its savages better ways. But it was necessary, as one of the missionaries says, to "move cautiously." The Basilaklans are among the most treacherous of human beings, and are besides quite numerous. They have occasionally visited the mission stations; but hitherto the missionaries have not returned the compliment. Basilaki is a sort of cannibal market. The neighboring tribes go there for materials for a cannibal feast, the same as civilized persons would to a butcher's market, and the Basilakians keep up the supply by raids upon neighboring tribes. Two of the "smartest teachers" in the New Guinea mission were selected to go to Basilaki. They left behind them in a safe place their wives and nearly all their goods, and put themselves at the mercy of the savages. There are now eight stations in the East Cape district of New Guinea.—Independent.

—That delightful center, to every American, of Christian life in Paris, the American Chapel, supports three stations connected with the work of the Rev. Mr. M'All. As we noticed a few weeks ago the Industrial school conducted in the station on Avenue Wagram has been remarkably successful, and the hall became too small to accommodate those who wished to attend. It was resolved to enlarge it. The Parisian of April 24, announces the opening of the new hall on the previous Friday evening. The room was crowded to its utmost capacity. Addresses were made by Rev. Messrs M'All and Gibson, and pastors Fisch and Bersier. There were also present Rev. Dr. Forbes, chaplain of the English Embassy; Rev. T. Baron Hart, of the English Congregational Church; Rev. Mr. Patterson, of the Scotch Presbyterian Church, and Madamme la Comtesse de Castries, mother of la Marechale de McMahon. The congregation of the American Chapel was well represented; the Rev. Mr. Hitchcock, the pastor; the American Minister, General Noyes, and Mrs. Noyes, with others being in the audience. General Noyes and Mr. Hitchcock made addresses in English, which were translated by Pasteurs Fisch and Bersier. The occasion was one of rare interest.—Christian Intelligencer.

—The Board of Directors of the Home, Frontier and Foreign Missionary Society of the United Brethren Church, began its annual session on the ninth of April, in Westerville, Ohio, in the chapel of Otterbien University. The board consists of the five bishops of the church, the secretary and treasurer of the society, and six directors. The annual sermon was delivered by Rev. J. L. Luttrell, of Fort Wayne, Ind. The report of the secretary, Rev. D. K. Flickinger, shows the missionary interest of the church to be in good condition. For nearly twenty-five years the church has supported a mission at Shengay, near Freetown, on the western coast of Africa. This mission has, at present, six missionaries and nineteen preaching stations. To this mission the Rev. D. F. Wilberforce, a native of Africa, whom the church educated, and who graduated from the Dayton High School last June, has been sent during the past year. The whole Sherbro country surrounding Shengay is open to the work of this church. The church sustains four missionaries in Germany. In this country it has missions in Canada, on the Pacific Coast, among the freedmen of Virginia, in Tennessee, and in most of the Northern States and Territories, especially in the West. The report of the treasurer, Rev. J. K. Billheimer, shows the total receipt of the past year to have been $37,787 82; total expenditures, $35,329 85. The society has a permanent interest bearing fund of $45,000. It has, also, some indebtedness, from which it earnestly desires to be relieved.

—The Church Missionary Society, like most great institutions, had a small beginning. It was founded eighty years ago, and began its work by sending letters to godly people asking their prayers, the interest of their friends, and for missionaries. It was said that those who fulfilled the first request rendered the Society the most valuable aid. The first year £91 was received, but no offers for service in the mission field; and it is a remarkable fact that the Society had to look to German Protestantism for its first missionaries. Of these 20 out of 27 were Germans. Most of the 20, however, took English wives with them; and thus English women, instead of English men, first represented the Society in heathendom. Having no men to send out at first, the Society made preparations to promote the study of Susu, Arabic, Chinese and Persian, and it was to the Susu tribes in West Africa that the first missionaries were sent, in 1804. In 1809 men were sent to Australia, and Abdul Masih, Henry Martyn's first Mohammedan convert, was engaged as an agent in India, before English missionaries were permitted to enter. After 1814 the Society's missions multiplied rapidly. In the two years following that date the Sierra Leone, Mediterranean, Calcutta, Madras, Travancore and New Zealand Missions were begun. In 1818 22 the Bombay, Tinnevelly, Ceylon and Rupert's Land Missions were added. The Telugu Mission was opened in 1841; East Africa and China in 1844; Yoruba in 1845; Sindh and Fuh-kien in 1850; Palestine and Hudson's Bay in 1851; the Punjab in 1852; Mauritius in 1856; the Niger and the North Pacific in 1857; Oudh, the Santal and Athabasca in 1858; Madagascar in 1860; Japan in 1869; Persia in 1875; the Nyanza in 1876. In all, the Society has from the beginning sent out 800 missionaries (men,) of whom 439 were trained at the Islington Missionary College and 126 were university graduates. There were no converts in the first twenty years and no baptisms. Now there are 30,000 communicants and 120,000 adherents, while in 1877 2,355 adults and 4,618 children were baptized. The Society found little favor at first with those in authority. The Archbishop of Canterbury would only promise to "look upon the proceedings with candor," and the Society had no bishops among its members for the first fifteen years. Four archbishops and seventy bishops are now among its patrons, and it is but just entering upon the career.—Independent.

Our Young People.

BE IN TIME.

Be in time for every call;
If you can, be first of all—
Be in time.

If your teachers only find
You are never once behind,
But are like the dial, true,
They will always trust to you—
Be in time.

Never linger ere you start
Set out with a willing heart—
Be in time;
In the morning up and on,
First to work, and soonest done—
This is how the goal's attained,
This is how the prize is gained—
Be in time.

Those who aim at something great,
Never yet were found too late—
Be in time.
Life with all is but a school;
We must work by plan and rule,
With some noble end in view,
Ever steady, earnest, true—
Be in time.

Listen then to wisdom's call,
Knowledge now is free to all—
Be in time.
Youth must daily toil and strive
Treasure for the future hive;
For the work they have to do,
Keep this motto still in view—
Be in time.

The Daughter of a King.

"I wish I were a princess!"

Emma stood with the dust-brush in her hand, pausing on her way upstairs to her own pretty little room, which she was required to put in order every day.

"Because then I would never have to sweep, and dust, and make beds, but would have plenty of servants to do these things for me."

"That is a very foolish wish," her mother replied; "and even if you were a princess, I think you would find it best to learn to do all those things, so that you could do them in case of necessity."

"It never is necessary for princesses to work."

"There my little girl proves her ignorance. If she will come to me after her work is done I will show her a picture."

The little bedroom was at length put to rights, and Emma came to her mother, reminding her of her promise about the picture.

"What do you see, my child?" her mother asked, as she laid the picture before her daughter.

"I see a young girl with her dress fastened up, an apron on, and a broom in her hand.

"Can you tell me what kind of a place she is in?"

"I do not know. There are walls and arches of stone, and a bare stone floor. I do not think it can be a pleasant place."

"No, it is not. It is a prison, and the young girl is a king's daughter."

"A king's daughter."

"Yes; and her story is a very sad one."

"Please tell me about her."

"More than eighty years ago the King of France was Louis XVI and his wife was Marie Antoinette. They were not a wicked king and queen, but they were thoughtless and fond of pleasure. They forgot that it was their duty to look after the good of their people, so they spent money extravagantly on their own pleasures while the whole nation was suffering. The people became dissatisfied; and when finally Louis and Marie Antoinette saw the mistake they had been making, they tried to change their conduct but it was too late. The people, urged on by bad leaders, learned to hate their king and queen. They were taken with their two children and the sister of the king and shut up in a prison called the Temple.

"There were dreadful times in France then, and every one who was suspected of being friendly to the royal family was sent to prison and the guillotine. The prisoners in the Temple passed the time as best they could. The king gave lessons to his son and daughter every day, or read to them all, while Marie Antoinette, Madame Elizabeth and the young Maria Theresa sewed.

"After a time the angry people took away the king and beheaded him. And shortly after the little son was separated from his mother, sister and aunt, and shut up by himself in the charge of a cruel jailor. Next it was Marie Antoinette's turn to ascend the scaffold, which she did in 1793. Her daughter Maria Theresa was then left alone with her aunt, the Madame Elizabeth.

"But it was not long she was allowed even this companionship. Madame Elizabeth was taken away and beheaded, and then the poor young girl of sixteen was left entirely by herself in a dismal prison, guarded and walked on by brutal soldiers. For a year and a half she lived thus, leading a most wretched existence, and not knowing whether her mother and aunt were alive or dead.

"Years afterward, when she was free, she wrote a book about her life in prison. In that we read: 'I only asked for the simple necessaries of life, and these they often harshly refused me. I was, however, enabled to keep myself clean. I had at least soap and water, and I swept out my room every day.'

"So here you see a king's daughter, and the granddaughter of an empress—Maria Theresa of Austria, one of the most remarkable women in history—after having carefully made her toilette, sweeping the bare stone floor of her cell."

"Is that a true story, mamma?"

"Yes, Emma, every word of it; and there is much more that I cannot tell you now."

"What became of her at last?"

She was finally released from prison, and sent to Austria to her mother's friends; but it was a full year after she reached Vienna before she smiled, and though she lived to be more than seventy years old, she never forgot the terrible suffering of her prison life.

"But, my child, what I wished to teach you is, that though it is sometimes very pleasant to be a princess, it may be most unfortunate at other times. Yet there are no circumstances in life, either high or low, in which a woman will find the knowledge of domestic duties come amiss, and in which she will not be happier and more useful for possessing that knowledge."

Little children do not always comprehend everything at once; so I will not say that from that time forth Emma took delight in dusting and sweeping.

But bear in mind what woman is the most happy. Not the one who is the most ignorant and the most burdensome to others, but the one who uses her wisdom and her strength for the benefit of those around her, shrinking from no duty that she should perform, but doing it cheerfully and well.—Children's Friend.

A Boy's Leisure Hours.

What a boy does with his leisure is most important; what he gets in school is mainly drill or exercise; it is a gymnasium to him; he must eat elsewhere. What he does with his spare hours determines his destiny. Suppose he reads history every day, or scientific books; in the course of a few years he becomes learned. It matters but very little what he undertakes, Latin, Greek, Hebrew, Sanscrit, all disappear if he uses his spare time on them.

A boy was employed in a lawyer's office, and had the daily paper to amuse himself with. He commenced to study French, and at that little desk became a fluent reader and writer of the French language. He accomplished this by laying aside the newspaper and taking up something not so amusing, but far more profitable.

A coachman was found obliged to wait long hours while his mistress made calls. He determined to improve the time; he found a small volume containing the Eclogues of Virgil, but could not read it, and so purchased a Latin grammar. Day by day he studied this, and finally mastered all its intricacies. His mistress came behind him one day as he stood by the horses waiting for her, and asked him what he was so intently reading. "Only a bit of Virgil, my lady." "What! do your read Latin?" "A little, my lady." She mentioned this to her husband, who insisted that David should have a teacher to instruct him. In a few years he became a learned man, and was a useful and loved minister in Scotland.

A boy was hired to open and shut the gates to let the teams out of an iron mine. He sat on a log all day by the side of the gate. Sometimes an hour would pass before the teams came, and this he employed so well that there was scarcely any fact in history that escaped his attention. He began with a little book on English history that he found in the road; having learned that thoroughly, he borrowed of a minister Goldsmith's History of Greece. This good man became greatly interested in him and loaned him books, and was often seen sitting by him on the log conversing with him about the people of ancient times.

The Snowflake.

Once upon a time, during a snowstorm, a few flakes fell upon a piazza. "How unhappy we are exclaimed one, "for, if the sun does not absorb us, we will sink down on the cold, hard stone beneath, there to melt away and die." "However," said another, "let us hope that a better fate awaits us." As he spoke, some one swept them all off.

The flake who had spoken so cheerfully on the piazza felt himself gradually sinking into the ground. He traveled slowly on, getting farther into the earth every day, until he came to the root of a plant. As he was, by this time, tired of being in the dark, he began to move up the stem, and one sunshiny day he found himself in the cup of a beautiful blue violet—no longer a snowflake, but a dewdrop. The violet was very much pleased at having such a beautiful visiter; she trained the leaves so as to protect it during the heat of the day, and did all in her power to keep it clear and lovely.

One day a robin flew down by the violet to rest himself. He talked to her and asked how she kept the dewdrop so fresh and bright. She told him how the dewdrop came to her, and how she contrived to keep it. After this the robin came every day to talk and sing to the violet. The summer grew hotter and hotter, and for a long time no rain fell. All the flowers faded except the violet; she alone was able to endure the heat. One day the robin flew down, not to sing, but to die. "Why, my pretty violet," said he, "how is it that while all the other flowers are faded and dying you are so fresh and lovely?" "It is," she answered, "because I have a charmed dewdrop that has lasted all through the summer." As she spoke she bent down her head, and bade the robin drink. He did so, and then raising his head he burst forth into a song of thanksgiving to God, who had ordained that the simple dewdrop should be the means of saving his life.

"CAN'T" AND "TRY."—Can't do it sticks in the mud, but try soon drags the wagon out of the rut. The fox said, "try," and he got away from the hounds when they almost snapped at him. The bees said, "try," and turned flowers into honey. The squirrel said, "try," and he went to the top of the beech tree. The snowdrop said, "try," and Spring soon threw Jack Frost out of the saddle. The young lark said, "try," and he found that his new wings took him over hedges and ditches, and up where his father was singing. The ox said, "try," and plowed the field from end to end. No hill too steep for try to climb, no clay too stiff for try to plow, no field too wet for try to drain, no hole too big for try to mend.

The Christian Advocate.

ORGAN OF THE ALABAMA, MISSISSIPPI AND LOUISIANA CONFERENCES OF THE M. E. CHURCH, SOUTH.

THURSDAY, JUNE 5, 1879.

REV. LINUS PARKER, D. D., Editor.

OFFICE.—118 CAMP ST., NEW ORLEANS.

Peril to Methodist Experience.

The Christian experience of the day is becoming confused and lamentably one-sided. The testimonies that we hear even in our Methodist love-feast, in many cases, lacks in the element of inward spiritual cleansing. One, and a very considerable current, seems to flow in the direction of a justification that is not attended by a conscious regeneration. Christ has paid the debt, and was delivered for our offenses. Resting in this, heaven is well assured. There may be no sense of victory over the easily besetting sin, no realization of a pure heart, and yet there is confidence of being accepted, and of final salvation through the merits of Christ.

None hold to the atonement as the ground of pardon and final salvation more stringently than do our doctrinal standards, but we do not divorce this doctrine from that of sanctification. While Christ has paid it all, still without holiness no man shall see the Lord. There is a meetness of character, a personal righteousness, a purity of heart, that coincides with pardon, and goes along with it. It is this aspect of experience that has fallen out of our testimony to an alarming extent. The mere seeker and the backslider are now advanced to the front, often witnessing to an assurance of justification, based upon a mental operation, rather than upon the felt power of a new life. Salvation is a matter of premises and conclusion, and not an actual sense of deliverance from the pollution and power of sin. Justification by faith is a wholesome doctrine, but it is a delusion to suppose that we are justified when sin still reigns in us, and the fruits of the Spirit are unknown. The kingdom "is righteousness, peace and joy in the Holy Ghost." The true believer receives the Spirit of adoption, crying: Abba, Father.

It has come to be a fashion to disclaim the very attainments in holiness which the Scriptures enjoin, and to seek to encourage the weak and troubled by relaxing the gospel demand of a perfect love. In some cases this may be the rebound from defective views of Christian perfection. It matters not how erroneously the doctrine has been advocated, we must insist upon a regenerated and sanctified nature, the attainment of personal holiness, and the witness of the Holy Spirit. The baneful breath of antinomianism and of imputed righteousness is already to be detected in our love feasts, and in the common religious talk of many of our people. The heterogeneous muddle of doctrines in the so-called unsectarian evangelists of the past few years has helped to corrupt and mislead. The miscellaneous and popular religious songs put forth by irresponsible individuals, and eagerly caught up and used without discrimination in our social meetings, have contributed largely to the result. Our pulpits have in some degree given way to a shallow sensationalism, and our doctrines are not preached as fully and habitually as in other years. Do one-half of our people know the distinctive meaning of justification and sanctification? Are they made to realize that they may and must be saved from sin, and that the adoption of sons, with the corresponding Spirit of adoption, is a present inheritance, and a blessing for the present hour?

Errors in doctrine are connected with false conceptions of experience. The true pulse of the church may be better felt in the experience meeting than anywhere else. And it is here that we think may be detected the beginnings of a serious disorder. There are false notes and discordant strains in the tone of our experiences. It is perhaps to be expected that the time of conversion and the attendant demonstrations should be less marked now than fifty years ago. But conversion, as embracing faith in Christ and a new creature, must be the same. Inward holiness must not be dissevered from the clearest and strongest conceptions of Christ's merit as the ground of salvation. Our testimony needs to be strengthened in regard to the work and witness of the Spirit in the heart, and in regard to the cleansing power of the blood of Christ. We are glad to hear people declare that their purposes are right, and that they are trusting in the atoning blood, but we should be gratified to hear more about victory over sin, and the blessedness of clean hearts.

The love-feast and the class-meeting are full of revelations and suggestions to the diligent and watchful pastor. He need not draw his bow at a venture if he be attentive to their voice.

Here and There.

—Last winter the Louisiana Legislature repealed the law establishing the Louisiana State Lottery Company. A bill was subsequently filed by the Lottery Company in the United States Circuit Court, praying for an injunction to restrain the State officers from interfering with its business. Upon the ground that the act of the Legislature repealing the Lottery Bill impairs the obligation of contract contained in the bill, the court granted the injunction, as follows:

The court orders and decrees that an injunction issue to the defendants requiring them to refrain from any interruption or disturbance of the said plaintiffs, their officers, agents, employees and servants in the exercise of any of the rights and privileges aforesaid, or in the management and prosecution of the business specified in the charter of the said company, under or in virtue of anything contained in the act No 41 of the General Assembly aforesaid, approved and promulgated the twenty-seventh of March, 1879.

Unless this decision shall be reversed by the Supreme Court, or unless the Constitutional Convention, now sitting, can find some method of relief, Louisiana will have to endure this iniquitous burden for fifteen years longer. The damage to public morals is already incalculable, and that which is to follow is something fearful to contemplate.

—One feature in the reports from every part of the church is most encouraging. The Sunday-school cause seems never before to have been so prosperous. From nearly every circuit the testimony is that the Sunday schools are in a flourishing condition, that new schools have been organized, and that they are generally furnished with our Southern Methodist Sunday-school periodicals. Our pastors are giving much personal attention to this department, and the people are becoming enlisted. We should aim at effective work. Superintendents and teachers cannot be too careful and thorough in their endeavors to lead the children to Christ. Their province is to mould the character of the young, to stimulate them mentally and spiritually, and to have them well instructed in the knowledge of the Bible. But beyond these objects is the conversion of the children. Something of the class meeting element might be mingled with that of the Bible class. A systematical catechetical course is desirable, and special attention should be given to memorizing Scripture. The more nearly we regard the young people in our Sunday-schools as preparing for active membership in the church the more practical will be the methods. Their conversion is, of course, first of all, then they must be instructed in the history, government and doctrines of Methodism, and their minds must be opened to the breadth and foundations of the Christian faith. Good and capable teachers are the greatest need of the Sunday-school. Our best educated and most devoted members should by all means give themselves to this work. It is a field in which the very choicest gifts are demanded. Christian women, especially, have found the Sunday-school a sphere of remarkable usefulness. As Sunday-school teachers, they can do a work for Christ and the church superior to that which they can do in any other department. Their labors in this direction have been one of the most considerable sources of the present revived condition of the Sunday-school cause. Many are already engaged in teaching, but there is room for many more.

—Another striking fact appears in the reports from the churches. The spirit of parsonage-building is growing in most of our Southern Conferences. This is a good sign in many ways. The foundations of an untrammeled itinerancy are being laid. Proper ministerial distribution is impossible without homes for the preachers. With them, the time of change is not very important as the trouble of obtaining houses, and of making gardens is obviated. The move can be made in March or April as easily as in December, and the times of holding the Conferences need not be limited to two or three winter months. A well-built and commodious parsonage is an important contribution to the preachers' support, because what it saves in rent is added to his salary. A parsonage has a tendency to unite and solidify the circuit. It is an institution in which every society is equally interested, and in which all have an equal proprietorship. Parsonages have their weight and influence in the Bishop's council, and the circuit or station that builds a parsonage is doing well for itself. While about it, aim to make the parsonage a comfortable and attractive home—at least of average quality with the homes of the people among whom it is located. Paint and shrubbery, and neat and attractive surroundings, have a decided value. The minister's wife will appreciate these things, his children will be impressed by them with a feeling of respect for the church and the itinerant calling, and the outside world will judge of the church by the way in which its pastors live. The itinerant has no other home, and this should be made as sweet and beautiful as possible. And then, on the other hand, the preachers should take care of the parsonages they occupy. They should see that nothing is wantonly destroyed, that garden and shrubbery be not neglected, and that the premises be left in better condition than they found them. It is, of course, always gratifying to the preacher to leave the parsonage in good order for his successor.

—The appeal of our Missionary Secretary will not be in vain, we hope. The need of money is urgent, and the collections should be made as soon as possible. Our collections ought to be made for foreign missions early in the year. There is no good reason why nearly the entire assessment should not be in the hands of the treasurer by the first of May. Such prompt attention would save a great deal of anxiety and embarrassment, and enable the board to move vigorously, and with hopefulness. With our Sunday School Societies, our Woman's Missionary Societies, and with every pastor imbued with missionary zeal, the results this year ought to exceed the faith of the board. Oh! for enlargement in the spirit of missions.

Religious Spasms.

The time is approaching when the doctor, who is "death on fits," should be on hand. The annual periodicity has nearly completed its round, and quite a number of our people are getting nervous and shaky. July and August and September are remarkable months for the production of religious spasms. It may not be uninteresting to diagnose a case of religious fits. A religious spasm is remarkably different from every other kind of spasm. There is a suddenness about an ordinary spasm which takes away your breath in an instant. The patient, apparently in good health, without any premonitory symptoms, all at once is seized with the paroxysm which prostrates him. The religious spasm is characterized by none of this suddenness. The symptoms are well marked previous to the paroxysm. The time may be long or short, according to the circumstances of each case. One of the first symptoms, and one clearly developed in every case, is spiritual apathy. So well defined is this symptom in some instances that one would suppose the patient could never be affected, even by a spasm. There is a lingering lethargy and a languid latitude about church work which makes the pastor of the patient feel as if a great big rough rock was sinking down into his soul. There is a sort of spiritual laziness which develops into a marvelous activity in endeavoring to put off all church work on others. Another symptom is discovered when the patient asks the pastor about the revival meeting. "As the hart panteth after the water brooks," so panteth his soul after the revival meeting. As the wounded deer leaves the herd and seeks the cool shade of solitude to ruminate in silence over his misfortunes, so this patient seeks retirement from the bustle of busy church-workers, and pines in secret for the dawn of the day that shall usher in the revival meeting. The past is gone, the present is not in his thought, for hope and expectation and desire have all gone forward, looking for the day of the revival meeting. Another symptom presents itself so strongly when the pastor announces the time appointed for protracted services that there can be no doubt that the case is in a fair way to develop itself in all its worst features. There is no mistaking that pulse and eye and tongue. The pulse is much quicker and fuller. There is a peculiar gleam of satisfaction stealing from under the eye-lashes. The patient looks like he wanted to put his arms around the pastor's neck, and give him the apostolic kiss of charity.

These are some of the premonitory symptoms. When the protracted services begin the patient is on hand, listening to every sermon, joining in every song, and responding heartily to every prayer. As the services deepen in interest, as the preaching pushes to the conscience the truth of God, as the singing swells in volume and spirituality, as the praying lifts sinners up toward the throne of grace, the patient exhibits unmistakable symptoms that the religious spasm, with all its intenseness, is upon him. For days, yea, even for weeks, his other self is so completely lost sight of that people begin to think that he is certainly another being. He is all energy and fire, all zeal and enthusiasm, ready like Peter to fight for his Lord, and to go with Him to prison and to death. But after the meeting, when the bustle subsides and things begin to settle down into the every-day routine, the patient's courage begins to withdraw, energy flags, zeal languishes. The symptoms of reaction are so marked that people begin to see manifestations of that other self which for a time was hidden. The new duties, which always follow revival services, seem to dampen his fervor, and the prospect of hard work ahead frightens him away from his fellows into what he thinks is a solitary communion with God.

Thus he spends his religious life, running around this circle, enjoying, seemingly to the utmost, the special seasons of reviving grace, and doing nothing for the glory of Christ.

If this were an exceptional case it would not be a matter of so much regret, but the sad fact is that very many church people are afflicted with these spasms. They act as if they were going into the kingdom of glory, not by walking steadily, nor by running continually, but by jumping occasionally. They take a jump at every revival meeting, and if they would examine carefully the heel marks they would find that the first jump they made was the best. Who will show us a remedy that can be applied to these cases of religious spasms?

C. W. CARTER.

The Marvin Monument.

The St. Louis Christian Advocate, of May 28, gives the following account of the Marvin Monument and its dedication:

Agreeably to notice previously given, the monument erected to the memory of Bishop E. M. Marvin was dedicated on Wednesday of last week, with solemn and impressive services being held on the ground from three to five o'clock in the afternoon of that day, in the following order:

1. The singing of a special hymn.
2. Prayer by Rev. R. M. Jones, of Wright City.
3. Address of presentation by Mr. J. E. Hall.
4. Response, by Rev. J. W. Lewis.
5. Oration by Bishop D. S. Doggett, of Richmond, Va.
6. Long meter doxology: "Praise God."
7. Benediction by Rev. J. C. Berryman, of Bellefontaine, St. Louis county.

A large number of persons, both from the city and county, were in attendance, among whom were quite a number of ministers of our own and of other denominations—many of them from a distance.

THE MONUMENT

is of light gray granite from Hurricane island, Me., designed by Mr. H. W. Kirchner, of St. Louis, and made under a contract with Messrs. Hall & Price, St. Louis. The material is similar to and is from the same quarry as the granite used in fronts of the new customhouse in this city.

The pedestal of the Marvin Monument is four feet four inches high, formed of three bases, the lower of first one being seven feet square and eighteen inches high. On the pedestal rests the die, a stone three feet seven inches square and three feet two inches high, with its four faces highly polished and cut in bas relievo as square shields with moulded round corners. The die is the only part of the monument that is polished, the other parts having hammered surfaces. On top of the die rests the plinth, a stone two feet ten inches square and eighteen inches high, heavily moulded in eight outlines. On this plinth rests the shaft, two feet three inches square at the base, pointed at the top, and twenty feet high. This shaft is a monolithic obelisk of the Egyptian order. The total altitude of the monument is about twenty nine feet, excellent in its proportions, simple in its style, and noticeable for its symmetry.

The southern face of the second base has in bas-relievo block letters six inches square the word "Marvin." On the south face of the die is cut in small and plain square letters the following inscription:

ENOCH MATHER MARVIN,
Bishop
METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH, SOUTH.
Born in Missouri, June 12, 1823.
Entered the Ministry 1841.
Ordained Bishop 1858.
Died in St. Louis, November 26, 1877.

THE CEREMONIES.

The monument stands less than two yards east of the Bishop's grave. The Memorial Association had chairs placed north of the grave for the Marvin family, and had erected a large platform, with chairs for the officers and managers of the association, and the speakers and clergymen who were to take active part in the dedication exercises. These exercises were witnessed by nearly twelve hundred persons, two-thirds of the spectators being ladies. The observers seated themselves under the shade of the trees on the monument knoll and the surrounding and nearest knolls.

Bishop Doggett, in his oration, spoke eulogistically of his late colleague, and instructively of the consecration of a monument to transmit to posterity the appreciation of Bishop Marvin's life, character and work. The oration was eloquent, positive and pathetic in its character, and was attentively listened to for an hour. In closing the oration he offered a consecration prayer.

The oration was regarded as a most masterly effort, both as to matter and manner of delivery. Thus was performed a labor of love by an appreciative and affectionate people.

The following, which we find in the Christian Union, has its bearings upon the lottery question in Louisiana. The evils attending the lottery in England are, for the most part, such as attend it here and everywhere.

THE END OF THE LOTTERY IN ENGLAND.

Whatever was the mischief socially and morally produced by the State Lottery, it was immensely aggravated by the spirit of gambling which it evoked. As comparatively few persons could buy a sixteenth, there sprung up a trade among a mean order of brokers of insuring numbers. This was in effect betting. In return for, say a shilling, the sum of one pound would be promised if a specified number turned up a prize. At one time, when the mania was at its height, the insurance-office keepers employed men to canvass for customers all over London, chiefly among domestic servants. From carrying a red morocco pocket-book in their hand, wherein to inscribe the names of insurers, they become known as "morocco-men." It has been stated, on credible authority, that in 1800 on an average each servant in the metropolis spent annually as much as twenty-five shillings in this vile practice of lottery insurance; the sum total so expended for a year by the wage earning classes generally being estimated at half a million sterling. The disorders—suicides, robberies, pilferings, brawls, fighting and cheating—caused by these "Little Goes," as the insurance practices were familiarly termed, were so clamant that in 1802 an Act of Parliament, 42 George III. cap. 119, was passed for their suppression. The preamble of the Act refers to the great sums of money "fraudulently obtained from servants, children and unwary persons, to the great impoverishment and utter ruin of many families." The penalty of carrying on Little Goes, or any other lottery whatsoever not authorized by Parliament, was a fine of five hundred pounds, the offender to be treated as a rogue and vagabond.

Subsequently to 1802 Little Goes maintained only a clandestine existence, like the betting-houses in connection with horse-races in the present day. At length the State Lottery, the parent of these depravities, wore itself out of date. By the more thoughtful part of the community it could no longer be tolerated. Government became ashamed of it, and saw that other means must be adopted to help the revenue.

Among the Editors.

Zions Herald.

—We are sent as ministers for the salvation of the people. Some men seem to think they are commissioned simply to purge the churches. Their first and principle work is to put down any conspicuous men and women who do not at once yield their judgments to the views of the new minister. They have plans of their own. They do not ask any advice about preaching, or "running prayer-meetings." If any persons have other notions, it is all the worse for them. They are accustomed to work on their own lines, and everybody must "look out for the engine when the bell rings!" They pride themselves upon bearing about the scalps of many leading men in the societies where they have heretofore been. They magnify the priestly office, and desire the laymen to attend simply to their own duties. Now the result almost inevitably is that in nine cases out of ten the harmony of a church is broken up, and its temporal and spiritual prosperity perilled by such a course. We are to save men, not to destroy them; to learn their peculiarities; to meet them where they are, and, by Christian courtesy and faithfulness, to gradually shape them into such characters as we would have them bear. It is a comparatively short and easy work to denounce, discourage and drive away men from the church; it is a Christ-like office to bear with them, suffer patiently from them, and win them, by God's grace, to their own salvation.

Richmond Christian Advocate.

—Let the staple of preaching be historical, critical, exegetical, and the church will be orderly, well instructed, but probably in no high degree spiritual. Let the preaching have a more direct relation to personal salvation—let it deal closely with sin, repentance, faith, holiness—let the church have, week after week, these subjects presented, explained, enforced, and the profiting of many will appear. It is well known that many preachers, less richly endowed than some of their brethren, have yet larger measures of success in all that deserves the name. Is not this largely due to the fact that they seldom present any topic that is not vital? The ministry sometimes wonders at its want of success, deplores it, and seeks explanation in everything except in what, apart from anything else, would alone account for it. The preaching may have been interesting, but not of a kind to produce awakening, lead to repentance, encourage faith, or to move and guide to a holy life.

New York Christian Advocate.

—The last few months have been months of great spiritual prosperity. Thousands have been born into the kingdom of peace. Their names have been entered upon the record of the church as probationers, and they have been assigned to class. They are young and tender. They do not understand the wiles of the adversary. The varieties of temptation that will beset them are too many for mention. Peril lurks for them. Some watchful eye must detect the first sign of discouragement and hasten with words of cheer. Difficult as it has been to bring these souls to true repentance and faith, it will be no less difficult to keep them in the way.

The Churchman.

—The church seems likely to be overrun by heathens. She need not fear persecution; she has always flourished under it. But she may well dread being taken up and "patron'zed" by those who care nothing for her Lord. She suffers when fashion sends its votaries to church in Lent, for in this way the real purpose of Lent and of church-going is hidden and stifled. She suffers, too, when men who are not communicants, who refuse to offer the worship which Christ enjoined, undertake to promote her temporal interests.

For the expedients which they resort to are foreign to her principles and her spirit, and sooner or later bring her into disrepute and smother her truer instincts. She suffers, too, when all men join apparently in her observance of holy Easter. For their celebration is only on the surface. They gladly turn the Lord's day into a festivity, delighting themselves with the glad music and the fragrant and beautiful flowers, but thinking nothing of the grand truth which has given birth to, and been perpetuated in, the great festival. She must constantly withstand the approaches of people who attend her services simply as a matter of taste and enjoyment, until she can teach them what it is to be a citizen of the kingdom of God, and what are the duties of such citizenship.

London Methodist.

—Notwithstanding the diversities of views and interests, the state of the law, as affecting intemperance, cannot long remain as it is. The vote of 169 members on the eleventh ultimo, in favor of Sir Wilfrid Lawson's Local Option Resolution, was an unmistakable indication that ere long the people of any district or town must have power to protect themselves against the licensed temptations which have done so much to demoralize our country. There is evidently a growing public opinion, based on bitter experience. The public conscience is becoming more and more impatient of the diplomatic excuses of statecraft and the adroit evasions of candidates as to this question, and will by and by brook no refusal to apply the remedial force of law to the crying national evil. This must be done, or else the people must be empowered to apply it for themselves. It is true the interest and the influence of "the trade" are immense. But the interests and the power of the nation are far greater; and if the nation is blind to its interests, or so unpatriotic as not to exert its power against its deadliest foe, Britain's sun must soon set in the dark reign of drink, with its swarming progeny of vice and misery and crime. This, however, is a catastrophe which will be prevented by the emphatic and unmistakable voice of the community under the inspiration of a conviction which is sinking deeply into the public mind that "the trade," fortified in the present state of the law, courted by too many politicians, and, alas, by some clergymen, enlarged to its present enormous dimensions by the debasement of the people, affecting to sway the election and shape the measures of our rulers, will demand nothing less than some such radical treatment as swept away our unjust corn laws and our accursed slave trade.

Change in the Ratio of Representation in the General Conference.

It appearing by the figures submitted to the College of Bishops, May 12 1879, that the Constitutional Amendments, recommended by the last General Conference, had been concurred in by the Annual Conferences, by a very large majority, it was, therefore, ordered that the fact be published in the church press, and the book editor be instructed to make the required alterations in the Book of Discipline.

D. S. N. MCTYEIRE,
Sec. College of Bishops.

General Minutes of the M. E. Church, South, for 1878.

We are now able to complete our Recapitulation of the General Minutes just prepared for the press. Many persons have applied for the statistics, which we give in brief: Traveling preachers, 3 457; superannuated, 306; local, 5,762; white members, 783 211; colored, 1 428; Indians, 4 698; total ministers and members, 798 862; increase in 1878, 24 129. Infants baptized, 25 049; adults 38 071; Sunday-schools 7,262; teachers, 54 867; scholars, 391 293; increase in 1878, 28 130. Collected for Conference claimants, $60 425 71; for foreign and domestic missions, $110 551 17—this includes only what was reported in the Annual Conferences—not special donations, nor the collections of the Woman's Missionary Society. We hope to have the minutes printed without delay. We have had hard work to collect and edit the materials, and have spared no reasonable pains to secure correctness.

THOMAS O. SUMMERS,
Book Editor.

A Response.

The following note is in the right spirit. The urgent needs of our missionary treasury call for general searchings of heart. We have forwarded the money—$10—to Dr. Wilson, Nashville.

SHILOH, UNION PARISH, LA.,
May 26, 1879.

DR. PARKER: In the beginning of this year I set aside a small sum, to be devoted to the cause of my Master. Bro. Allen's late stirring appeal in behalf of China, published in the NEW ORLEANS CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE, has inspired me with the desire to contribute my mite toward enlightening that benighted people. Inclosed find $10, which you will please have appropriated in that direction, and oblige,

Very respectfully,

JULIA M'CORMICK.

The programme of commencement exercises of Southern University will be found on our eighth page. Rev. Felix R. Hill, of Mobile, delivers the commencement sermon, on Sunday, June 29, at half-past ten P. M. Our friends at Greensboro will have a royal time. We wish it were in our power to be there to enjoy the rich treat in store for those who are so fortunate as to attend. The friends of education should rally strongly at the commencements of our own institutions, and by all means strengthen and encourage those who are giving time and ability to the vitally important interest.

For programme of commencement exercises of Alabama Conference Female College, Tuskegee, Ala., see eighth page. Dr. R. H. Rivers preaches the sermon, on Sunday, June 15, at ten A. M. Rev. J. M. Crews delivers the literary address on Tuesday June 17. The exercises promise to be more than usually attractive. The members of the Alabama Conference are specially invited to attend.

The commencement exercises of Mansfield Female College are published on the eighth page. Commencement Sunday is June 22. Rev. Robert Randle delivers the annual sermon. Rev. Joel T. Daves delivers the literary address on commencement day, Wednesday, June 25.

Rev. Joseph H. Davis, of the Virginia Conference, died in Westmoreland county, Va., May 9. The Richmond Christian Advocate says:

He had reached threescore and ten, and served the church with signal fidelity far on toward a half century. In those many and faithful years he had preached in the cities and in the circuits, from the mountains to the sea shore. He sat in the General Conference, and held for years the presiding eldership, and for some time the presidency of one of the Conference colleges.

The Raleigh Christian Advocate of May 28, speaking of the recent revival in Raleigh, N. C., says:

Our meetings closed last Sabbath night. For nearly seven weeks we had been holding services day and night. There were one hundred and sixty-two persons converted to God at Edenton St., and sixty five have joined the church; and eighty two were converted at Person St.; and thirty-one were added to the church. Others will join soon. We left several penitents at the altar pleading for mercy.

The trustees of Seashore Camp Ground are to hold a meeting on the ground, on Wednesday, June 18. See notice on the eighth page.

An Earnest Appeal.

The following appeal is sent to the friends and members of the church, to which special attention is called.

J. B. M'FERRIN, Book Agent.

The Book Committee of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, at their entrance into office, found the indebtedness of the Publishing House to be $300,000, of which $18,300 is the original purchase money for the ground, and secured by the vender's lien. $100,000 is in ten per cent. bonds, secured by a mortgage on the entire property of the house; and the remaining 182,000 is mainly a floating debt with no security whatsoever.

We undertook to pay as it accrued the interest on the ten per cent. bonds, and appealed to all other creditors to withhold all demands for payment until July 1, 1879, so as to afford time to test by actual experiment the business capabilities of the house under our management, and upon this ascertained basis to project and endeavor to execute plans for its relief. At the end of eleven months we are enabled to make the following statement of facts:

First, The house, under the present management, has paid all its current expenses up to May 1, has paid the $10,500 of interest accruing on the first mortgage bonds, has a few thousand dollars in hand, an increased stock in trade, and a constantly growing business; so that the committee are convinced of its ability to pay, four per cent. on its entire indebtedness, meet all current expenses, and provide an annual fund for the gradual reduction of its debt.

Secondly, There have been procured satisfactory subscriptions to four per cent. bonds of the house to the amount of $221,000, on the condition that they are to be issued, and the contract binding, when the entire $300,000 have been provided for in subscriptions esteemed by the committee good and valid.

Hence there now remain to be subscribed to these bonds $79,000 necessary to bind the $221,000 of subscriptions already made, and to provide for the entire $300,000, with the near approach of July 1, the limit of the indulgence asked by us, and promised by our creditors.

A failure of this scheme we would regard as end of all hope to relieve the embarrassments of the house—a disaster remediless, and too ruinous to contemplate; and a failure to complete the subscription within the time granted by our creditors would lessen public confidence, damage our credit, and be hazardous to the entire scheme.

All who feel any concern for the honor and future of our church, or interest in its great Publishing enterprise, must see the urgency of its present demands, and the vast importance of prompt and liberal subscriptions to these bonds.

While the Book Committee are grateful for their ability to make this showing, they "rejoice with trembling," and, between hope and fear, await the response of the church and its friends to this urgent and final appeal of immediate help.

JAMES WHITWORTH, President.
W. H. MORGAN, Secretary.

Publishing House of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, Nashville, Tenn., May 12, 1879

ACTION OF THE COLLEGE OF BISHOPS ON THE PLAN OF RELIEF OF THE PUBLISHING HOUSE.

We have been invited to attend the late session of the Book Committee, and have heard carefully prepared statements of each of the departments of the business of the Publishing House for the year past.

It gives us great satisfaction to say that the management has been safe and successful beyond our most sanguine expectations. We recommend the members of our Communion and its friends to meet the book agent in the spirit of prompt liberality, and close up, by the first of July, what remains to complete the subscription required to set the house free from all its embarrassments.

H. PAINE, Chairman.
H. N. M'TYEIRE, Secretary.

(A true extract from the Journal.)
NASHVILLE, TENN., May 10, 1879.

Periodicals.

—Our Nashville Sunday-school periodicals for June are out in fine style. This is our first acquaintance with the Infant Class. It is designed, we suppose, for the very youngest readers. It is a very attractive little sheet, and will be heartily appreciated. The Magazine has: Destruction of Tyre, with engravings, by Rev. A. W. Wilson, D. D.; Our China, by Rev. D. C. Kelley, D. D.; Helping Hand for Women, by J. W. B.; The Successful Sunday-School Teacher, A Cameo, by C. Rosser James; Christian Rejoicing. The editorial departments are, as usual ably and judiciously filled. Our reports from all parts indicate that our Sunday school publications are growing in favor. They ought to have universal acceptance and use in all our schools.

—Lippincott's Magazine for June has: State and Society in Ottawa, Illustrated; Why Do We Like Paris? concluding paper, Illustrated; A Strange Story; from the Coast House Keeping in Texas, Illustrated; Two Sonnets; Women's Husbands; 3; The Barber of Midas, part 1; With White Hands; My Village in the South, part 4; Through Winding Ways; Sir William Johnson, Bart; Played Out; American Fiction; Monthly Gossip; Literature of the Day.

—Sunday Afternoon for June has: At Home from Church; How Civilization Favors Our Birds; Four Elements of a Great Art; Was He a Traitor? Decoration Day, 1879; The Conflicts of Labor and Capital in England; Letters from Cape Cod; Old Catholicism from Its Own Point of View; Republic and Church in France; An Experiment, and What Came of It; Calvin the Sinner, 10, 11; The New Minister at Brayton; The Still Hour; Editor's Table; Literature.

—National Repository for June has: Rio de Janeiro, Illustrated; Ostrich Farming, Illustrated; A Tuesday Evening Sermon; The Riddle; Voices in the Wind; Studies of the Town; Old and New Japan; A Worshiper of Nature; The Hebrew Craftsman; Louis Antoine Garnier, Pages; The Gossip of History; Editorial Miscellany.

—The Popular Science Monthly for June has: 1. The Condition of Women from a Zoological Point of View. 2 Selecting a First Meridian. 3. The Study of Physics in the Secondary Schools. 4 Modern Science in Its Relations to Literature. 5 Observations on the Chameleon. 6 The United States Life Saving Service. 7. Diseased Condition of the Faculty of Wonder. 8 Are Explosions in Coal Mines Preventable? 9. Chemistry in Its Relations to Medicine. 10. The History of Games. 11. Whales and Their Neighbors. 12 Sketch of Prof. Clifford, with Portrait. Correspondence. Editor's Table. Literary Notices. Popular Miscellany. Notes. The Popular Science Monthly is conducted by E. L. and W. J. Youmans. Published by D. Appleton & Co., New York. Price, 50 cents per number, or $5 per annum.

—The North American Review for June has: Mon Testament Epitre—an Unpublished Poem by Voltair; National Appropriations and Misappropriations, by Gen. Garfield; The Stagnation of Trade and Its Cause, by Bonamy Price; The Education of Freedmen, by Harriet Beecher Stowe; Secret Mission to San Domingo, by Admiral D. D. Porter; Sacred Books of the East, by Prof. Max Muller; Evolution and Theology, by Prof. Simon Newcomb; The Pacific Railroad, by Henry V. Poor; Current Literature, by Mayo W. Hazeltine; Will England Return to Protection?—a letter to the editor by the Right Hon. John Bright, M. P.

MARRIED.

KEENER—MATHEWS.—At the Carondelet Street Church, May 27, 1879, by Bishop J. C. Keener, Rev. John O. Keener, of Alabama, to Miss Phala H. Mathews, daughter of Rev. John Mathews, of this city. No cards.

CHADWICK—HAYS.—At the residence of the bride's mother, Leake county, Miss., April 17, 1879, by Rev. John W. Ellison, Mr. John W. Chadwick and Miss H. C. Hays.

WIMBERLY—CAMERON.—At the residence of the bride's father, near Stevenson, Ala., May 2, 1879, by Rev. W. T. Andrews, Mr. Joel R. Wimberly to Miss Frances J. E. Cameron, daughter of Rev. W. E. Cameron, of the North Alabama Conference.

INMAN—JOHNSTON.—At the Methodist Church, in Madison Station, Ala., April 17, 1879, by Rev. W. T. Andrews Mr. J. F. Inman to Miss E. S. Johnston, all of Madison, Ala.

CHAMBLESS—MEEK. In Enterprise, Miss., April 8, 1879, by Rev. J. T. Heard, Mr. W. H. Chambless and Miss Lena K. Meek, all of Enterprise.

BEEDEN—McDONALD. In Quitman, Miss., May 21, 1879, by Rev. J. T. Heard, Mr. Henry Beeden and Miss Alice McDonald.

EDMONSON—BUCKLEY. In Clarke county, Miss., May 25, 1879, by Rev. J. T. Heard, Mr. W. H. Edmondson and Miss Margaret J. Buckley.

Publisher's Department.

While we continue to do our best to exclude fraudulent advertisements from the ADVOCATE, parties must judge for themselves as to the real value of the goods advertised. In ordering please mention the ADVOCATE.

SPECIMEN COPIES of the ADVOCATE will be mailed when desired, to facilitate agents in securing subscribers. Pastors will confer a favor by announcing this fact and forwarding names to the publisher.

THE air of perfection, cleanliness and home-like comfort which is so apparent at the American House, Boston, is one of the characteristic features of that well-regulated establishment. To those disposed to economize this popular hotel offers an opportunity seldom found at so thoroughly a first class house, having reduced its rates to $3 and $3 50 per day.

W. C. SHEPARD & CO.—Fruit jars Mason pints, $1 quarts, $1 25; two quarts, $1 50 per dozen; American Chinaware sets $15 $18. Equal in looks and usefulness, to French China. 19

WOOD.—At 116 Jackson street cheap wood of all kinds can be had. See advertisement.

OPELOUSAS PACKET—Ship by the reliable Fanchon your freight to Washington, Opelousas and other points. Her captain, H. H. Broad, is a worthy gentleman, and it is a pleasure to do business with him. See advertisement.

TOBACCO.—Messrs. Graignard & Schneider are successors to their fathers, and two more honorable gentlemen it would be hard to find. Their brands of chewing and smoking tobaccos, also snuff, can be relied on as the best in the market. See ad.

TOURISTS, ATTENTION!—The tide of summer excursion travel that for two or three years past has set toward the resorts of the North west with its grand scenery of mountain, lake and river, its numerous charming retreats and cozy nooks, will this season reach its flood, owing to the increased facilities extended to tourists by the wide awake and enterprising management of our popular Great Jackson Route. The time has been reduced one day, and with no change of cars to Chicago, and but one change to points beyond. a trip to the great North west is now made with as much ease, and in as short a time as formerly. At Baden Springs or the lake shore villages. Already considerate fathers are securing accommodations, at desirable points of rest, for wearied mammas and charming daughters (worn down by their efforts in the cause of charity during the past, more than usually exciting season,) and besiege the ticket office for choice sections in the sleeping cars. In another week the travel will have fairly started, and we predict for the Great Jackson Route a business it will tax its best efforts to accommodate. Sale of excursion tickets will begin on May 20. They will be good to return until November 1, thus giving ample time to enjoy the summer and fall seasons. Full information, with descriptive circulars and guide books profusely illustrated, in the highest style of the printer's art, may be had on application to A. D. Sheldon, ticket agent, 22 Camp st., corner of Common.

COUGHS, COLDS, ASTHMA.—If you are troubled with any of the above unpleasant afflictions, "Laplace's Indian Turnip Pectoral Balm" will relieve you. This popular medicine can be had by all druggists.

DENTIST.—We know of no better dentist than Dr. George I. Friedrichs, 155 St. Charles street. This gentleman is considered to be one of the most scientific in his profession, and our readers requiring a skilful dentist should avail themselves of his services.

PIANO OR ORGAN.—Do you want either one or both? Of course you do. Then Louis Grunewald, No. 22 Baronne street, will see that you go away pleased. He has pianos and organs to suit all persons. Drop in and see his immense establishment.

CANAL street has been very much ornamented in the last few weeks by houses for the starters of the different railroads. They are built in octagonal shape, with different colored embossed glass windows, and have a cupola on top, which make every one display. The work was done by Messrs. Lhote & Co., the largest and most extensive lumber merchants in the South.

THE MOST REFRESHING TOILET Accessory. Cassebeer's Quinine Hair Tonic will preserve, cultivate beauty, arrest the fall of and confer a silken softness to the hair. Price, $1. Cassebeer's Ammonia Lozenges, for mitigating coughs, colds, tickling in the throat, etc. Price, twenty-five cents, sent by mail. Both of these preparations are for sale by all druggists, and also by the proprietor, H. A. Cassebeer, 57 Fourth Avenue and 37 Sixth Avenue, New York.

OHIO AND MISSISSIPPI RAILROAD. This leading Eastern line, between St. Louis and Cincinnati with a branch to Louisville, is perfectly equipped with the very best of modern appliances for comfort and security of its patrons. It is invariably used by families and others going to the principal Eastern cities, and its close connection with other roads gives this line innumerable advantages over opposition routes, and makes it one of the most perfect in the country. Mr. W. W. Peabody is the general superintendent, with headquarters in Cincinnati, and a more efficient, gentlemanly officer cannot be found. The present popularity of this road is the result of his well-directed labor. Travelers should take this old reliable, going East from St. Louis, or going West from Louisville or Cincinnati.

MILITARY EXCURSION.—Prof. E. H. Murfee, Pass Christian, Miss., superintendent of the Mississippi Military Institute, is organizing a scientific and pleasure excursion to Virginia, and is attracting considerable attention on account of the advantages it offers for sight-seeing, clean traveling as well as instruction and training. $125 will pay for board, washing, tuition, railroad fare and medical attention. Write to the professor for further particulars, as the time is getting short. This is an opportunity seldom offered.

COTTON PRESSES.—The presses manufactured by the Reynolds Foundry have gained a reputation for excellence and superiority that no other article of the kind has ever succeeded to. They have taken the first premiums for every point of usefulness claimed by this class of implements, not only in Louisiana, but also in every other State Fair where they have been exhibited. The immense sales, and constantly increasing demand for these presses, indicates the high esteem and value in which they are held by those interested in such articles. In this complete establishment those who require anything in the foundry line will find Mr. Hotchkiss, the superintendent, faithful to his contracts reliable in his assurances prompt in attention to the requirements of his patrons, and in every respect a responsible gentleman to deal with. By reference to the advertisement on this page, it will give you an idea of the kind of work done at this establishment.

GENUINE MERIT.—In soliciting attention to the advertisement of E. H. Adams & Bro., 591 Magazine street, we can unqualifiedly recommend that well-established house to all needing articles in their line, as eminently reliable. The superior taste indicated by their fascinating stock has been enthusiastically commented upon by ladies of intelligence and refinement, more than a hundred of whom have pronounced it decidedly more attractive than they had elsewhere seen in this city. The senior of that firm has, during his career of more than twenty years in this city, been recognized by all who have had dealings with him as peculiarly adapted to the judicious management of the dry goods business, and no less conspicuous as a specimen of the finished gentleman. His late partner voluntarily paid him, in addition to his stipulated salary while employed as a clerk, $1,000 dollars as compensation for his wise and eminently successful management of the former's affairs through a series of months, during which illness prevented his visiting his store. We recently met a gentleman of widely recognized respectability, who heard that former partner pronounce Mr. E. H. Adams better qualified for the dry goods business than any other man he had ever seen. The sincerity of that strikingly significant compliment was practically demonstrated by the above-named extra compensation.—New Orleans Semi-Annual Trade Guide.

As the summer has commenced the question naturally arises in the minds of "can't get aways" how am I to spend an occasional day for the purpose of enjoyment and relaxation from business cares and household troubles? The answer is very simple. Take the cars to the New Lake end, step on board the steamer Heroine, and you will enjoy a trip on the water that, for comfort and pleasure, cannot be excelled. After you have once made the trip you will never have need to ask yourself the same question. The Heroine will make regular trips during the summer to Mandeville and Lewisburg for fifty cents. Our energetic and popular townsman, W. G. Coyle, Esq., has gone to great expense in fitting this fine, fast and commodious steamer for the benefit of the people on both sides of the lake, and has placed the most competent men he could find in charge of her. Our readers should avail themselves at least once a week of this most excellent opportunity.

BUSINESS NOTICES.

POZZONI'S MEDICATED COMPLEXION POWDER is acknowledged by thousands of ladies, who use it daily, to be the only preparation that does not roughen the skin, cause blister or leave black spots in the pores. Mothers can apply it to infants who become chafed with a surety of immediate relief. Removes all eruptions. Price, 50 cents and $1 per box. Sold by druggists, and at depot, 607 North Sixth street, St. Louis (Lindell Hotel.)

FEELS YOUNG AGAIN.

"My mother was afflicted a long time with Neuralgia and a dull, heavy inactive condition of the whole system; headache, nervous prostration, and was almost helpless. No physicians or medicines did her any good. Three months ago she began to use Hop Bitters, with such good effect that she seems and feels young again, although over seventy years old. We think there is no other medicine fit to use in the family.—A lady, in Providence, R. I.

AFTER you have tried nearly everything to get cured of Chronic Chills and Fever or Fever and Ague in vain we should advise you to try Dr. Wilmot's Anti-Periodic or Fever and Ague Tonic. It is not pleasant to take, but it contains no Quinine, and never fails to cure. Its composition is printed on the inside wrapper of each bottle, and it is indorsed by the most eminent physicians. For sale by all Druggists.

AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL—the world's great remedy for Colds, Coughs, Consumption, and all affections of the Lungs and Throat.

A Cough, Cold, or Sore Throat requires immediate attention, as neglect oftentimes results in some incurable Lung Disease. "Brown's Bronchial Troches" will most invariably give relief. Twenty-five cents a box.

There is no Escape

From attacks of fever during their prevalence, unless you keep your bowels open, liver in action, blood pure and stomach cleansed by a judicious use of Magoffin's Curdurango.

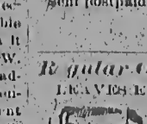
25,000 SOLD!

Farmers' and Mechanics' MANUAL.

Edited by GEO. E. WARING, Jr.
Author of "Elements of Agriculture," "Draining for Profit and for Health," and formerly Agricultural Engineer of Central Park, New York.

500 Octavo pages over 200 Illustrations.

Worth to any Thinking Working Farmer $25 per Year.



This book is for the most part a work of facts and figures—condensed analysis and demonstrations, about which there can be no dispute. The design was to produce a work of solid and enduring value, and of universal application and use. This work is offered as containing more that has been proven by long use to be of value to original is most necessary for every farmer and mechanic to know, and more on practicing novelty, than any other that has ever been presented to the farmers and mechanics of America. It is complete in every particular in which it is possible for such a book to be completed, and in addition to this it is so untechnical and suggestive in many of its parts to guide its readers to read more, to think more, to experiment more, and to become more intelligent and successful in the management of their business as well as really happier and wiser men.

A BOOK OF SOLID WORTH AND PRACTICAL UTILITY, "WORTH ITS WEIGHT IN GOLD."

Price, in Extra English Cloth, Gilt Back, Only $3 50.

Sent postpaid on receipt of price. Address
LATHROP & WILKINS,
112 Camp street, New Orleans.

Regular Opelousas Mail Packet.
LEAVES EVERY TUESDAY, AT 5 P. M.

For Washington, Opelousas, Port Barre, Lawtell, Church-ville, Calliou Lake on the Coast, Atchafalaya River and Bayou Courtableau. A safe and light-draft Steamer

FANCHON,

H. H. BROAD, Master. CHAS. JONES, Clerk, will leave as above. For freight or passage apply on board, or to
H. W. ADAMS, 21 Commercial Place.
J. E. CARLIN, 17 Tchoupitoulas St.

GRAIGNARD & SCHNEIDER,
DEALERS IN
Fine Cut Chewing, Snuff and Smoking
TOBACCO,
HAVANA AND DOMESTIC CIGARS,
46 Magazine St cor. New Orleans, La.
Brier Root and all other varieties of Pipes constantly on hand.

WHAT AGENTS SAY of O'Hara's Dollar Champion Corn Sheller.—"Easiest thing to sell I ever saw." "I shelled a bushel per hour." Sample mailed for 60c. W. ATLEE BURPEE & Co., 221 Church street, Philadelphia. 60w

MISCELLANEOUS.

DO YOU WANT A FIRST-CLASS

PIANO OR ORGAN?

No doubt you need one, and you will consult your interests by calling at

LOUIS GRUNEWALD'S

14 to 22 Baronne Street, Grunewald Hall,

and see at what low figures and accommodating terms you can buy. The celebrated STEINWAY, KNABE PLEYEL, FISCHER, PIANOS are the most renowned in the world, and you should buy no other.

THE BEST IS ALWAYS THE CHEAPEST.

SHEET MUSIC at half price.

Everything in the music line to suit everybody.

ADDRESS,

LOUIS GRUNEWALD,
Grunewald Hall, New Orleans.

SAVE FROM $2.00 TO $10.00
BY BUYING YOUR
RAILROAD TICKETS
AT GUEDRY'S
TICKET OFFICE,
31 ST. CHARLES STREET, under St. Charles Hotel, N. O.
F. E. GUEDRY, Agent.

WHEELER & PIERSON,
(Successors to Darcy & Wheeler and Pierson & Hewes)
CLOTHING AND FURNISHING GOODS,
Nos. 13 and 15 CAMP STREET, New Orleans.
Black Cloth Suits, $20 to $40 | Business Suits, $12 to $25
6 Shirts for $9 | Collars $1.50 per Doz.
Liberal reduction to Clergymen.
Rules for self-measurement sent on application, and orders carefully filled. Plantation clothing for country stores at very low prices in bulk.
WHOLESALE DEPARTMENT.

COTTON PRESSES
REYNOLD'S IRON WORKS,
C. W. HOTCHKISS, Superintendent.
Corner South Market and Fulton streets, New Orleans, La.
MANUFACTURER OF
Reynold's Revolving Wrought Iron Screw Plantation Cotton Press,
And Reynold's Reversing Gear Power Press.
Over One thousand of these Presses are now in use, and are acknowledged to be the most perfect Plantation Presses in ever particular at present known.

Timp's Patent Hand and Power Elevators,
For use in Stores, Warehouses, Factories, Hotels and Private Dwellings. These Elevators are now in use on the plantations of John S. Wallis, Esq., J. W. Colberry, Esq., Mrs. R. S. Williams, and many others, as well as in numerous stores in New Orleans, and have proved themselves extremely valuable in saving time and labor.

Capt. Jos. Menge's New Improved Dredge-Boat
Which is now in successful operation on the Magnolia Plantation, also operating near Mary Parish by the Louisiana Land Reclamation Company, of which Colonel H. Allen is President. Parties desiring information respecting the merits etc., of this superior Dredge can obtain same by addressing as above, or Capt. Jos. Menge, Pointe Michel, Plaquemines parish, La.

Cemetery Tombs, Iron Fronts for Buildings, Columns, Railings, Castings of all kinds, and Iron Works in General.

POPULAR PRICED PARASOLS
AND
SUN AND RAIN UMBRELLAS.
Lace and fringe trimmed PARASOLS, in black and colors.
Carriage PARASOLS, fitted in different colors.
Misses' PARASOLS, plain and fancy.
Ladies' sun and rain SILK UMBRELLAS.
Gents' Sun and Rain SILK UMBRELLAS.
Ladies' and Gents' real Scotch GINGHAM UMBRELLAS.
JUST OPENED.
Black and White Breton Laces, Antique Embroidery, stylish Hosiery, beautiful Buttons, desirable Dress Goods, White Goods, Black Goods, Lace Top Gloves and Mitts, Corsets, Ruchings, Veilings, Housekeepings, etc.
Best stock of FANS in the city. Five PALM LEAF FANS for Five Cents.
E. H. ADAMS & BROTHER,
594 Magazine Street, Fourth Store above St. Andrew.

5 NEW 5 BOOKS 5
For Temperance Gatherings.
Hull's Temperance Glee Book!
Received with the greatest favor. Great variety of Songs, Temperance and Social.
For Gospel Meetings & Sunday Schools.
THE GOSPEL OF JOY!
By Rev. S. ADAMS and S. H. SPECK. Nothing fresher, newer, brighter or better of the kind has ever appeared. (35 cts.)
For Everybody.
PINAFORE! PINAFORE!
Almost everybody has it. All the Words with and Music, with libretto complete for 40. Send also for the shocking sensational authors, and quite as good music.
(In press. FAUSTIZA (the new Opera.)
For Musical Students,
Johnson's New Method of Harmony!
Emphatically a good, easy, interesting, thorough method. ($1.)
For Young Singers.
CINDERELLA! CINDERELLA!
New Cantata, by FRANZ ABT. For Female voices. Fine Music. (50 cents.)
Send $2.00 for the Musical Record one year.
OLIVER DITSON & CO., Boston.
C. H. DITSON & CO.,
843 BROADWAY, N. Y.

WOOD! WOOD! WOOD!
Those who are desirous of securing CHEAP WOOD AND COAL, will find it to their interest to send their orders to the
JACKSON WOOD YARD,
116 JACKSON STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

MISSISSIPPI MILITARY INSTITUTE—SUMMER CAMPAIGN.
Scientific and pleasure excursion to Virginia Mountains and Washington, D. C. Tour to embrace about 30th inst. next. Twelve weeks' tour, including board, washing, tuition, railroad fare and medical attention, only $125.
Apply at Eyrich's Book Store for circulars, or address, E. H. MURFEE, Superintendent, Pass Christian, Miss.

ZELL'S
CONDENSED CYCLOPEDIA.
Rare opportunity for making money. Is now offered General Agents and Canvassers in the South on this exceedingly useful and nice book. Block 7000 pp., double column, 700 engravings. Also the large colored maps. Only $3 a copy. For terms and territory, address S. S. ZELL WOOD ZELL, DAVIS & CO., Philadelphia.

PIANOS.
PIANOS TUNED AND REPAIRED in the best and most satisfactory manner, at
Mr. Burchardt's Manufactory,
633 ..... MAGAZINE STREET 633
Between Jackson and Josephine Sts. 1y

$5,000 A YEAR for almost intelligent man—business men or agents. New lot of staple light work. Address J. B. CHAPMAN, Madison, Indiana.

J. S. RIVERS,
STATIONER,
Steam Power Printer,
BLANK BOOK MANUFACTURER,
LITHOGRAPHER AND ENGRAVER,
74 CAMP STREET,
NEW ORLEANS.

The New Louisiana Remedy.
Greatest Cough Syrup of the age, or of any age. Product of our swamps. Splendid for children. No poison. Thirteen pages of names of home references and increasing! Sold by druggists. Depot 106 Camp street, New Orleans.

Washington Avenue Drug Store,
Cor. Magazine & Washington Sts.
NEW ORLEANS.
Constantly receiving fresh supplies of pure Drugs Medicines, Chemicals, Patent Medicines, Combs of all kinds, Brushes, Soaps, Perfumery, Toilet and Fancy Articles, etc., sold at small margin. Coral Tooth Paste, recommended by all who use it as a very superior dentrifice. It beautifies the teeth to a fine pearl like ornament and ravelding decay. Alka line Bicopiel Powder, for beautifying, softening and preserving the skin, the best thing for prickly heat and all summer eruptions. Customers, city and country, will find our stock complete, comprising many articles impossible to enumerate here, and sold at moderate prices. Prescriptions put up day and night. C. J. MAYNEORA, M. D., Druggist, Pharmaceutist and Practical Chemist.

WANTED EVERYBODY TO know that LAPLACE'S INDIAN TURNIP PECTORAL BALM is not a secret preparation, its efficacy being due to the Indian Turnip, Arisæma triphyllum. It is highly efficacious for coughs, colds, asthma, and all diseases of the throat and lungs, and the relief of consumptive patients. Prepared and for sale by H. LAPLACE, Pharmacist, 25 and 28 Elysian Fields street. For sale also at the principal wholesale and retail druggists.
Depot in Mobile at J. C. DUBOSE & Co. Depot in St. Louis at RICHARDSON & Co. 5p

Farm, Garden and Household.

RURAL IMPROVEMENT.—About twelve years ago a gentleman engaged in business in New York city purchased a farm in the interior of the State, and set about improving it in accordance with his own tastes and notions. The farmers about him at first laughed in their sleeves at his attempts at "book farming," and predicted certain failure as the result of his experiments. Being an admirer of the beautiful, his first care was to surround his place with shade trees, and to give orders for their careful attention and culture. He next employed the columns of a local paper to prove to his neighbors the advantage of trees, not only for shade and shelter, but also as a means of protection against storms. A circular was printed and distributed, setting forth the matter more fully, and giving directions as to what varieties to plant, and how to care for them after being set. Meetings were called and the subject discussed, until at last the neighborhood caught the spirit of progress, and a tree-planting mania set in. The highways were adorned for miles, and yards heretofore bare of shade were now adorned with a bountiful supply. The good influence of that man's example spread, until the leading roads in the whole town were converted into avenues of shade, and an unattractive village transformed at length into one of the most lovely towns in central New York. A short time since the place was visited by a gentleman from this city—a son of the party who first led the way in tree-planting—and it was with difficulty that he recognized the spot. The old farm and the neighbors' farms and the village streets were adorned with graceful elms and maples from twenty to thirty feet in height. Strangers had heard of the place, and, attracted by its beauty, had chosen it for their home, and fine residences now graced the shady avenues. The old farm, which his father had purchased for $11,000, has been since re-sold for $30,000 and a like advance in property had taken place throughout the town. This gentleman builded better than he knew. We doubt whether with all his far-sightedness, he ever expected such results as have followed from his efforts.—St. Paul Press.

HOUSE PLANTS.—When a plant is in a bad condition, it is a mistake to apply a stimulating fertilizer. The causes of ill health are many, but the most general one with those who have had no experience in the care of plants is over-watering. Plants, to live, must have water, therefore the more water the better, seems to be the reasoning, and the consequence is starved, nearly leafless sticks in pots of mud. In the majority of cases withholding the water is one of the things needed, and with invalids a stimulating fertilizer is the one thing of all others not needed. When plants are in a flourishing condition and making growth, then fertilizers may be useful, especially if the soil in the pots was originally rather poor. Any of the fertilizers used in the garden would answer for plants in the house, were it not necessary to avoid unpleasant odors, and to consult neatness and ease of application. For hard-wooded, slow-growing plants, very fine bone dust or bone-cold by seedsmen for the purpose, is perhaps the best; a few tablespoonfuls being forked into the soil of the pot. For soft-wooded, quick-growers a liquid fertilizer may be used. This may be guano, a teaspoonful to a gallon of water; soot, two tablespoonfuls to a gallon, or the water of ammonia (liquid hartshorn) of the drug stores, an ounce to the gallon. Water the plants with either of these, instead of clear water, once or twice a week, as the condition of the plant requires. No invariable rule can be given.—American Agriculturist.

AN OBSERVATORY BEE HIVE.—An observatory hive appears to be indispensable to bee-keepers who are interested in watching the internal operations of a hive of bees. To make such a hive, lift a frame containing honey and brood and from a pint to a quart of bees from a full size hive. If there is no queen with them, all the better, as the process of rearing young queens can be seen if there are any eggs or larva in the combs. Have a narrow frame made to receive this frame; set a sash containing glass at each side of the comb, so that both sides of the comb will be in full view. The glass should be three-eighths of an inch from the comb. Unless the bees should be removed a mile or more to prevent them from coming back to the old hive, it is best to shut them in two or three days, giving them air; then let them out a little before sundown, so that they will not go far from home, but fly around the hive and mark the place. Such a hive can be set in the parlor, with a tube run under the window sash, to allow the bees to pass in and out. Tumblers set over the holes in the top may be filled with honey by the bees. It is best to cover the hive with cloth to keep it dark for a few days, until the bees become accustomed to the place. In such a hive the keeper can at all times show visitors the queen bee; see her lay her eggs; witness the process of building combs, storing honey and pollen, feeding the young, and many other things that are interesting to practical bee-keepers.—Practical Farmer.

ASPARAGUS.—Recent investigations and experiments have proved that some of the old theories relating to the cultivation of asparagus were erroneous. It was an old theory that the ground must be paved with stone, two feet from the surface, to prevent the roots from penetrating the soil too deep; another was, that it being a marine plant, it must receive a liberal dressing of salt; and still another, that it should be set on strong, moist soil.

No one at the present time, so far as we know, attempts to follow the paving theory, but many practice the application of large quantities of salt. Those who have given the subject a careful investigation are satisfied that a liberal dressing of salt not only injures its growth but also injures its flavor. While it will grow on almost any soil it is found to flourish the best on a warm, sandy loam.

Two rods of land well cultivated will furnish an abundant supply for a large family. The land should be prepared by trenching eighteen inches deep, and manured with sixteen cubic feet of good stable manure to the rod; the trenches to receive the roots should be eighteen inches deep, and for garden culture three feet apart; for field culture, three and a half feet is not too much.—Massachusetts Plowman.

PLANTING GRAPE-VINES.—One would suppose that so simple a thing as planting a grape-vine would not need writing about; and yet the number of people inquiring, "How shall we plant?" is so great that a few words to these inquirers may well be pardoned by those who think they already know enough about the matter. The rule is to plant the roots shallow; if they are long when we have to transplant them, instead of setting them deep we lay them along about four or five inches beneath the surface. It is, of course, very necessary to press the soil very hard, and firm over the roots; that is if the earth is tolerably dry. Enough in truth no vine should be planted except the earth is in this good condition.

It is very useful in planting a grape-vine to cut it closely in. Unless the last year's growth be very vigorous it may be almost all cut away. This is the way to get a good strong cane for bearing next year, which is the most that one ought to expect a vine to do. "Immediate bearing" is a delusion and a snare. Many a person spends a dollar or half dollar extra on a vine which he is told by the seller will bear this year, when for that amount of money he could multiply treble the quantity of grapes it will bear for him, even if it bears at all. Still, we like to plant good, strong, healthy grapes. The little crow quills which come out as rare grapes at high prices seldom give much satisfaction.—Christian at Work.

THE CARE OF EGGS.—How to keep eggs in the best possible condition for a number of days, in order to make a satisfactory hatch, does not seem to be understood by some. We have had eggs hatch well, although over three weeks old, but we usually make it a point not to let it go so long before setting them. For longer than that time, even if well cared for, it is best not to depend upon them, for the results usually are anything but satisfactory. In keeping eggs for hatching purposes, too many persons keep them in too warm a place, where they are sure to lose their vitality quickly, while a damp place is almost as fatal in its effects. Handling the eggs frequently is not only useless but serves to lessen the chances of hatching. Our plan of keeping eggs is very simple, and merely consists in carefully placing eggs, as soon as gathered, in shallow baskets, lined either with paper or a piece of cloth, and then keeping these in a cool, dark place until the eggs are needed. If a hen is kept from her nest long enough for the eggs to become cold, they are not necessarily spoiled, particularly if the incubation has progressed ten days, in fact, at any stage of the hatching period it is better to carry them through than to destroy them.—Poultry Bulletin.

CHICKEN SALAD Mayonnaise Sauce.—The sauce is first made, and is composed of the yelks of two eggs, one gill of salad oil, a little pepper and salt, and a teaspoonful of vinegar. Into a perfectly dry bowl place the yelks of two eggs; drop into the bowl upon the eggs, little by little and very slowly, the gill of salad oil, stirring continuously to the left. In stirring everything else the custom is to stir to the right, but in mixing this paste, to prevent curdling, it should be stirred to the left, or towards the left hand. When the eggs and oil have been formed into a stiff paste, add slowly the vinegar, pepper and salt, stirring all the time. The salad is made by breaking into small pieces a portion of a well boiled fowel, and sprinkle with pepper and salt. Then cut the heads of celery into the pieces and mix well with the chicken. Sprinkle over this one-half teaspoonful of vinegar, and over all pour the Mayonnaise sauce; sprinkle with a tablespoonful of capers; garnish the dish with leaves of lettuce and gherkins.

THE GENUINE

DR. C. McLANE'S

Celebrated American

WORM SPECIFIC

OR

VERMIFUGE.

SYMPTOMS OF WORMS.

THE countenance is pale and leaden-colored, with occasional flushes, or a circumscribed spot on one or both cheeks; the eyes become dull; the pupils dilate; an azure semicircle runs along the lower eye-lid; the nose is irritated, swells, and sometimes bleeds; a swelling of the upper lip; occasional headache, with humming or throbbing of the ears; an unusual secretion of saliva; slimy or furred tongue; breath very foul, particularly in the morning; appetite variable, sometimes voracious, with a gnawing sensation of the stomach, at others, entirely gone; fleeting pains in the stomach; occasional nausea and vomiting; violent pains throughout the abdomen; bowels irregular, at times costive; stools slimy, not unfrequently tinged with blood; belly swollen and hard; urine turbid; respiration occasionally difficult, and accompanied by hiccough; cough sometimes dry and convulsive; uneasy and disturbed sleep, with grinding of the teeth; temper variable, but generally irritable, &c.

Whenever the above symptoms are found to exist,

DR. C. McLANE'S VERMIFUGE will certainly effect a cure.

IT DOES NOT CONTAIN MERCURY in any form; it is an innocent preparation, not capable of doing the slightest injury to the most tender infant.

The genuine DR. McLANE'S VERMIFUGE bears the signatures of C. McLANE and FLEMING BROS. on the wrapper.

DR. C. McLANE'S

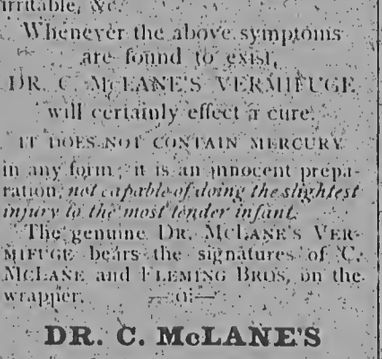
LIVER PILLS

are not recommended as a remedy for all the ills that flesh is heir to, but in affections of the liver, and in all Bilious Complaints, Dyspepsia and Sick Headache, or diseases of that character, they stand without a rival.

AGUE AND FEVER.

No better cathartic can be used preparatory to, or after taking Quinine.

As a simple purgative they are unequaled.



BEWARE OF IMITATIONS.

The genuine are never sugar coated. Each box has a red wax seal on the lid, with the impression DR. McLANE'S LIVER PILLS.

Each wrapper bears the signatures of C. McLANE and FLEMING BROS.

Insist upon having the genuine Dr. C. McLANE'S LIVER PILLS, prepared by Fleming Bros., of Pittsburgh, Pa., the market being full of imitations of the name McLane, spelled differently but same pronunciation.

BUCK'S IMPROVED

BRILLIANT STOVE.

Is acknowledged to be the

BEST COOK-STOVE MADE.

SOLD BY

H. HALLER,

NEW ORLEANS.

DEALER IN ALL KINDS OF

Cooking and Heating Stoves of the most improved makes; Stamped, Plain and Japanned Tinware, Tinned and Enameled Hollow-ware Iron and Clay Furnaces, Tinner's Stock, Granite Iron-ware, Lamp-burner and Wick to suit, Tinned Iron Spoons and Forks, Coffee Mills of all kinds Planished ware, Sad Irons, Fire-Grates, Fitting machines, etc. H. HALLER,

No. 55 Camp St., New Orleans.

Price-lists mailed on application.

OFFICE OF THE

Crescent Mutual Insurance Co.

New Orleans, May 17, 1879.

THIRTIETH ANNUAL STATEMENT.

The trustees, in conformity to the amended charter, submit the following statement of the affairs of the company on the thirtieth of April, 1879:

Fire Premiums	$165,168 35
Marine Premiums	24,051 22
River Premiums	69,321 25
		$258,543 52
Net earned premiums	$221,143 52
Less reinsurance	18,716 40
Less return premiums	5,626 57
	19,342 97
		201,800 55
LOSSES.
Fire losses	$36,038 94
Marine losses	9,337 36
River losses	28 576 05
	$73 952 35
Taxes, expenses, discount, profit and loss, less interest, rents, salvage, savings, etc	36,442 56
		110,395 01
Net profits		$91,405 54

The company have the following assets:

Bills receivable	$31,461 33
Loans on bond and mortgage	3 ,175 00
		$34,636 33
Loans on call	$2,552 64
Cash on hand	48,521 02
		51,073 66
Real estate	109,108 08
City bonds, bank and other stock	94,832 50
Premiums in course of collection	25,697 82
Suspense account and stock fractions	14,158 62
	$106,202 59

The foregoing statement is a true and correct transcript from the books of the Company.

THOS. A. ADAMS, President.

HENRY V. ODGEN, Secretary.

Sworn to and subscribed before me, this seventeenth day of May, A. D. 1879.

ALFRED INGRAHAM, Notary Public.

The Board of Trustees this day resolved, after paying ten per cent. in cash to the stockholders, and carrying to profit and loss $15,710, on account of the Mechanics' and Traders' Bank stock held by this Company, and also a further sum for shrinkage in values, to declare a dividend of twenty per cent. in cash on the net participating premiums, payable on Monday, the sixteenth of June next.

TRUSTEES.

Thos. A. Adams,	Sam'l B. Newman,
Sam'l H. Kennedy,	John Phelps,
Adam Thomson,	Henry Abraham,
Victor Meyer,	Joseph Bowling,
Edw'd J. Gay,	Simon Hernsheim,
Simon Forchelmer,	Joseph S. Wolfe,
R. B. Post,	Edward Pilsbury,
John E. King,	Fred'k Camerden,
Joseph W. Stone,	George Martin,
Alfred Moulton,	H. C. Jurey,
Edward Nalle,	George W. Sentell,
Paul E. Mortimer,	John V. Moore,
W. B. Conger,	Henry M. Preston,
Reuben G. Bush,	John M. Parker.

Mechanics' and Traders' Ins. Co

NEW ORLEANS, LA.

No. 14 CARONDELET STREET,

Solicits Fire, River & Marine Risks

GEO. H. FROST, Act'g Secretary. LLOYD R. COLEMAN, President.

F. C. GREGORY, Ass't Sec. & Fire Clerk.
JNO. C. WOOD, Marine and River Clerk.
F. AUZOUT, Inspector, etc.
J. Y. B. HASKELL, Collector.
Capt. S. B. FROST, Marine Inspector.

TRUSTEES.

Hugh Allison,	Robert L. Monre,
J. H. Allen,	H. J. Mullan,
J. A. Braselman,	Ed. Nalle,
Jno. D. Britton,	F. J. Odendahl,
Saml. Boyd,	Emile J. O'Brien,
Isaac Bloom,	Wm. A. Peale,
T. J. Carver,	J. M Putnam,
Geo. W. Cary,	D. L. Ranlett,
Jno. B. Cobb,	G. W. Sentell,
H. Dudley Coleman,	W. B Thompson,
Wm. L. Cushing,	W. P. Vinet,
J. M. Erankenbush,	J. M. Walsh,
Ben. Gerson,	Meyer Well,
P. G. Gilbert,	T. S. Waterman,
J. Davidson Hill,	Fred'k Wing,
M. Johnson	C. W. Wood,

Lloyd R. Coleman.

NOTICE.

Yesterday's fire will cause no interruption in my business. All orders for Cigar Boxes and Packing cases will be executed as usual, and delivered direct from my saw mill until the Box Factory is rebuilt.

HENRY OTIS.
Office, 74 Magazine street.

SOUTHERN

CHURCH ORGAN

MANUFACTORY,

No. 103 Baronne Street,

Under the National Theater,

NEW ORLEANS, LA.

PETER VEITER, Proprietor.

Church Organs tuned and repaired all over the South.

FRESH FISH.—FRESH FISH.

POMPANO, SPANISH MACKEREL AND RED SNAPPER.

can be bought at moderate prices by calling on

Batholomew, Tallon & Co.,
At French Market.

WINTELER & RICKS,

DEALERS IN

Leather and Shoe FINDINGS,

TOOLS, OILS, ETC.,

MANUFACTURERS OF

Boot, Gaiter and Shoe Uppers.

118 POYDRAS STREET.
NEW ORLEANS

NOW OPEN.

Schroeder's Family Garden,

Corner Short and Lerce Sts.,

CARROLLTON.

Where all the delicacies of the season can be had at the most moderate rates. Comfortable and delightfully cool Dining Rooms. PURE CREAM, SPRING CHICKENS, etc., a Specialty.

MRS. F. SCHROEDER,
Proprietress.

Blount Springs, Alabama.

THE most accessible mountain Summer resort in the South. Only eighteen hours ride from New Orleans. Pure, bracing air. The best mineral water on the Continent. All chronic diseases successfully treated; dyspepsia a specialty. Send to the Proprietor for circulars, etc., or call on T. E. Cranmer, corner Camp and Common streets, for information.

S. D. HOLT, Proprietor,
Blount Springs, Ala.

U. S. FOUR PER CENT. BONDS.

WE continue to sell these bonds, coupon and registered, at par and accrued interest. All deliveries made here, free of expense to purchasers.

NEW ORLEANS NATIONAL BANK,
A. BALDWIN, President.

BUCKEYE BELL FOUNDRY

Bells of Pure Copper and Tin for Churches Schools, Fire Alarms, Farms, etc. FULL WARRANTED. Catalogue sent Free.

VANDUZEN & TIFT, Cincinnati, O

MISCELLANEOUS.

BEE CULTURE.

MANUAL OF THE APIARY

BY A. J. COOK,

Prof. of Entomology in the Michigan State Agricultural College

THIRD EDITION.

Revised, enlarged, mostly re-written, and beautifully illustrated. Being new it is fully up with the times on every conceivable subject that interests the apiarist.

It is not only instructive but intensely interesting.

This work is a masterly production, and one that no bee-keeper, however limited his means, can afford to do without. It is printed in the best style on fine book paper. Price, bound in cloth, $1 25, postpaid. Address

LATHROP & WILKINS.
112 Camp St., New Orleans.

Subscriptions taken for The American Bee Journal.

JOS. B. WOLFE & CO.,

Cotton Factors,

59 Carondelet St., New Orleans.

And General Agents for

DANIEL PRATT'S IMPROVED

"Revolving Head" Cotton Gin,

PATENTED JULY 15, 1873.

Price Reduced to $4 per Saw.

THIS GIN has been in use for the past six seasons, and several recent improvements have been added. It obviates all friction at the end of the cotton box; prevents the roll from breaking, and gives a larger yield of lint from the same amount of seed than any other Gin in use. The Revolving Head lightens the draft and causes the Gin to run faster with less driving power, thus doing a great deal more work with the same time while economizing steam or animal power, than any other Gin. The seed being ginned very close, the length of the staple is increased, producing cotton on this account of a greater market value. This improved value given by length of staple, with extra production of lint, added to increased amount of work done, more than covers the cost of the Gin in every bale ginned. Testimonials sent by mail on application.

FEEDERS and CONDENSERS with latest improvements also made by the Daniel Pratt Gin Co., to work with these Gins. Send for descriptive circulars.

JOS. B. WOLFE & CO.,
New Orleans, La.

For Portland Cement, German Flags,

OR

SHILLINGER PATENT PAVEMENT,

ADDRESS

FRITZ JAHNCKE,

Box 113 Mechanics' Exchange, 208 Delord st., between Baronne and Carondelet.

COOPERAGE.—PHILLIP HIRSH, Cooper, 50 to 60 North Peters street, New Orleans, has for sale and keeps constantly on hand a large and selected stock of new clarified and open kettle Sugar Hogshead and coffee & Sugar Barrels; Molasses Barrels, Half Barrels and Kegs, all sizes; also, choice hogshead and barrel Hoop Poles. Contracts for future delivery solicited. Prices moderate. Satisfaction guaranteed.

$25.00 to $35.00

STEWART'S NEW IMPROVED

SINGER Sewing Machine

Great Reduction in Prices!

Down with Monopolies!

Hard Times demand Low Prices.

We warrant all our machines to be NEW, LATEST-IMPROVED and PERFECT for

FIVE YEARS.

Our NEW MACHINE is supplied with a LOOSE BALANCE-WHEEL, which is a great improvement over the old SINGER, as it enables the operator to wind the bobbin without running the machine, or removing the work from the needle. This is the most important improvement ever put on the Sewing Machine.

Also dealer in all first-class machines, such as the

WHEELER & WILSON,
GROVER & BAKER,
DOMESTIC,
WILSON,
WEED, Etc.

Cotton, Silk, Flax, Oil and Needles for all kinds of Machines. Address

M. A. PECK,
General Sewing Machine Agent.
153 CANAL STREET,
Next to Holmes' Dry Goods Store.
New Orleans.

F. FISCHER & SON,

PROPRIETORS

PICAYUNE SAW MILL,

FOOT OF CARROLLTON AVENUE,

Seventh District, New Orleans.

CYPRESS PINE AND SHINGLES.

P. O. Box 17, Carrollton.

All Bills and Orders will receive prompt attention.

FANCY GOODS! FANCY GOODS!

SCHILLING'S,

Millinery Emporium, Hair Work

AND

FANCY GOODS BAZAR,

159 CANAL STREET 159

The assortment comprises the very latest styles in

Millinery Materials, Hats and Bonnets,

HAIR GOODS of every description, and the most recherche selections in Jewelry, Fans, Combs Brushes, Dressing Cases, Specie Purses, Card Cases, Vienna Gilt Ornaments, Porte Monnaies and Perfumery.

Your attention is particularly directed to my SPECIALTIES

in the Shell, Ivory and Pearl JET GOODS.

MILLINERY ARTICLES AND HAIR WORK.

G. T. SCHILLING,
159 CANAL STREET.

RAOUL'S NOVELTY WOOD YARD,

Franklin st., cor. Erato.

Try it for satisfactory dealing. Oak and Ash wood, green and seasoned, kept on hand, sawed and split ready for stove use, or will be cut and split to suit any size stoves at short notice, and delivered in purchaser's wood-house, for $3.50 per half cord Ash, Oak $3.25. Guarantee no loss or waste in this wood.

Yard, 371 Franklin Street.

WIRE RAILING AND Ornamental Wire Works.

DUFUR & CO., No. 88 N. Howard St., Baltimore, manufacture WIRE RAILING for Cemeteries, Balconies, etc.; Sieves, Venders, Cages, Sand and Coal Screens, Woven Wire, etc. Also Iron Bedsteads, Chairs, etc.

MISCELLANEOUS.

ICE! ICE! ICE!

WHOLESALE AND RETAIL.

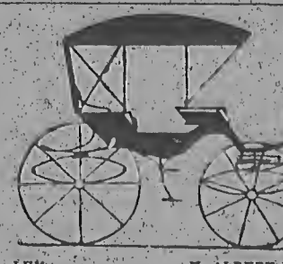
FAMILIES SUPPLIED AT LIBERAL RATES

ORDERS PROMPTLY ATTENDED TO.

WILLIAM MYERS,

NINTH STREET, between Magazine and Constance Sts., opposite the Market.

ATTENTION! ATTENTION!



M. ANDRIEU,

159 - POYDRAS STREET - 159

Home-Made Shoes, hand-sewed, $4 00

Home-Made Shoes, Screwed, $2 50-3 50

City-made Boots and Shoes of all kinds and styles, made of the very best material and workmanship, and at less prices than any other store in this city. Keeps all kinds for Gent.'s, Boys', Ladies' and Children's wear. Employs from 75 to 100 workmen constantly.

J. A. LUM. H. ALBERT HOOKER.

J. A. LUM & CO.,

MANUFACTURERS AND DEALERS IN

CARRIAGES, HARNESS, ETC.,

No. 35 Carondelet Street.

A Specialty made of Children's Carriages.

SAVE YOUR CARPETS

By having them cleaned by the

BOSTON PATENT STEAM

Carpet Beating and Renovating Co.

Office, 170 Camp Street,

Branch Office, 51 Royal Street,

Steam Carpet Beating and Renovating Works

10, 12, 14 and 16 Poydras St.,

Corner of Annunciation.

The undersigned is the sole proprietor of the Holmes Patent Reflexible Whip Carpet-Beating Machine for cleaning Carpets and Matting for Dwellings, Churches, Public Buildings, Hotels, Steamboats, etc.

This, the Boston Patent Beater, has been in successful operation for the past fifteen years in all the principal cities in the United States, and has a world-renowned reputation as a carpet-cleaning machine.

This machine consists of a bed of endless straps, over which the carpets pass, and are beaten by a number of endless reflexible whips, restoring the color and removing all dust, dirt, vermin and moths, without the slightest injury to the finest fabric.

RENOVATING.

By the renovating process all Grease, Ink, Coal Smoke, Soot, and stains of every description, are extracted from the carpets, restoring their original brightness of color. The quality of the restorative is not injurious to the most delicate tint or fabric, and is an actual preventive against moth. Send a Brussels or velvet rug, which will be cleaned gratis as a sample.

Plush and Moquet Furniture, Plush and Damask Lambriquins, Window Shades, Damask Curtains, Blankets, Druggets, Piano and Table Covers, renovated to look like new.

Carpets taken up and relaid by first-class workmen. No charge for taking up, packing or storing of Carpets.

Our rooms being easy of access, all, and especially ladies, are respectfully invited to call and see the machinery in operation and be convinced that this is the only way to have your Carpets thoroughly renovated from the dust, vermin and moths, for it cannot be done by hand beating. Every Carpet is cleaned under the personal supervision of the proprietors, and satisfaction in every respect guaranteed.

On receipt of orders we will send one of our covered wagons for and return your Carpets free of charge to any part of the City. All orders by mail or left at the office or works will be promptly attended to.

Beating Carpets, 3 cents per yard
Renovating Carpets, 5 cents per yard

H. L. JONES, Jr., Proprietor.
ALBERT PAUL, Agent.
Office—70 CAMP STREET.

ESTABLISHED IN 1835.

LEEDS' FOUNDRY,

Cor. Delord and Poucher Sts.

Carpets and Mattings.

ELKIN & CO.

100 ..... CANAL STREET 100

NEW PATTERNS

CANTON MATTING, Best Quality.

WHITE AND COLORED

CANTON MATTING, In all Grades.

Oil Cloths, all widths, Linoleum and Linoleum Floor Cloths, Nottingham Lace Curtains, new designs, Window Shades and Cornices.

CARPETS OF ALL KINDS

At Reduced Prices.

J. D. CRAMOND,

BOOT AND SHOE STORE,

NO. 26 FRENCHMEN ST., between Victory and Moreau, Third District, New Orleans.

A large assortment of Boots and Shoes always on hand, and made to order. Ladies', Children's and Gentlemen's Shoes manufactured to order.

GOODWYN'S EUREKA YEAST POWDER, a production of this city, is both popular with the trade and the delight of all experienced housekeepers; and no wonder, for it is an article of the very highest order of merit. Send for circular and prices.

P. M. GOODWYN, Manufacturer,
No. 29 Constance Street, New Orleans, La.

AGENTS WANTED.

AGENTS WANTED FOR THE

PICTORIAL

History of the World.

It contains 672 fine historical engravings and 1200 large double column pages, and it is the most complete History of the world ever published. It sells at sight. Send for specimen pages and extra terms to Agents, and see why it sells faster than any other book. Address

NATIONAL PUBLISHING CO., St. Louis, Mo.

$10 to $25 A DAY SURE MADE by Agents selling our Chromos, Crayons, Picture and Chromo Cards. 125 samples, worth $5, sent postpaid for 85 cents. Illustrated Catalogue free. J. H. BUFFORD'S SONS, Boston. Estab'd 1830.

HOW TO BE YOUR OWN LAWYER AGENTS Wanted. $50 to $125 a Month. An Encyclopedia of Law and Forms. For Business Men, Mechanics, Farmers, Property Owners, Tenants, everybody, every business. Saves many times cost. Selling fast. Send for circular and terms. P. W. ZIEGLER & CO., 629 Olive St., St. Louis, Mo.

WANTED, AGENTS FOR THE

ERRORS OF ROMANISM

The best book ever published, being a complete exposition of this base system, which enslaves, degrades and corrupts, and by its insidious influences is trying to destroy our glorious Republic, Free Schools, and everything that Priesthood cannot control, edited by the most eminent Protestant Bishops and other Divines. Profusely illustrated with portraits of contributors. Every person who values freedom should have this work. Address for circulars,

J. H. CHAMBERS, St. Louis, Mo.

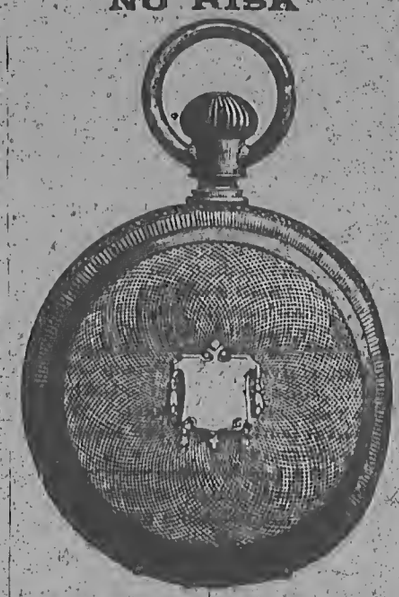
MISCELLANEOUS.

MASON & HAMLIN CABINET ORGANS

Demonstrated best by HIGHEST HONORS AT ALL WORLD'S EXPOSITIONS FOR TWELVE YEARS; viz: at PARIS, 1867; VIENNA, 1873; IAGO, 1875; PHILADELPHIA, 1876; Two HIGHEST MEDALS at PARIS, 1878; and GRAND SWEDISH GOLD MEDAL, 1878. Only American Organs ever awarded highest honors at any. Sold for cash or installments. ILLUSTRATED CATALOGUES, with new styles and prices, free. MASON & HAMLIN ORGAN CO., BOSTON, NEW YORK, or CHICAGO.

WATERS' Orchestrion chimes ORGA

is the most beautiful in style and perfect in tone ever made. It has the celebrated Concerto stop, which is a fine imitation of the Human Voice, and two and a half Octaves of bells tuned in perfect harmony with the reeds, & their effect; magical & electrifying. WATERS' CLARIONA, ORCHESTRAL, CONCERTO, VESPER, CENTENNIAL, CHIMES, CHAPEL, and COTTAGE ORGANS, in Walnut Fourth Cases are in every respect FIRST CLASS.



WATERS' PIANOS, GRAND, SQUARE, and Upright, ARE THE BEST MADE: the Tone, Touch, Workmanship & Durability Unsurpassed. Warranted for SIX YEARS. PRICES EXTREMELY LOW for cash. Monthly Installments received. A Liberal Discount to Teachers, Ministers, Churches, Schools, etc. AGENTS WANTED. Special inducements to the trade. Illustrated Catalogues Mailed. Second-hand Instruments at Great Bargains. HORACE WATERS & SONS, Manufacturers and Dealers, 40 EAST 14th STREET, UNION SQUARE, NEW YORK, Box, 3567.

THE DIEBOLD SAFES.

A large and complete assortment of these Celebrated SAFES on hand and for sale at prices to suit the times. Parties desiring anything in our line are respectfully solicited to address the undersigned for estimates, etc., as he feels confident of being able to give them satisfaction, both as regards price and quality of work.

A. ROY, Agent,
DIEHOLD SAFE & LOCK CO.,
27 Canal St., New Orleans, La.

NO RISK

To buy our special Ten Dollar Watch, for we guarantee them to be Solid Coin Silver, except cap over movement (inside), which is nickel. They are certainly the best Watches considering Time and Quality, that have ever been offered for the price. Cut represents the exact size. Key winder. We send one of the above to any address C. O. D., or on receipt of money and twenty-five cents extra for registration (at our risk). Fully warranted. WM. KENDRICK & SON,
110 Fourth Avenue, Louisville, Ky.
Send Catalogue free on application. (Mention this paper.)

TRUTH IS.

HOP BITTERS.

(A Medicine, not a Drink.)

CONTAINS

HOPS, BUCHU, MANDRAKE, DANDELION,

And the Purest and Best Medical Qualities of ALL OTHER BITTERS.

THEY CURE

All Diseases of the Stomach, Bowels Blood, Liver Kidneys and Urinary Organs, Nervousness, Sleeplessness, Female Complaints and Drunkeness.

$1000 IN GOLD

Will be paid for a case they will not cure or help, or for anything impure or injurious found in them.

Ask your druggist for Hop Bitters and free books, and try the Bitters before you sleep. Take no other.

The Hop Cough Cure and Pain Relief is the Cheapest, Surest and Best.

FOR SALE BY ALL DRUGGISTS.

ELASTIC JOINT

IRON ROOFING.

FIRE, WATER AND WIND PROOF.

Durable, Cheap, easily applied by any one. Provides for expansion and contraction. In practical use sixteen years. Boxed for shipment to any part of the country. Address for Circular, CALDWELL & CO., Cincinnati, O.

Incomparably the Best and Cheapest Windmill. Protected by two patents. Twenty-Eight First Premiums. Light, but strong and durable. Has more wind surface, runs in lighter winds, is more automatic, and pumps more water than any other windmill ever before made. Requires no attention, no combustible, no running expenses. It has successfully withstood the tornadoes of the West, while other mills that stood near them have been destroyed. It is rapidly superseding others there. See certificates and testimonials in our Illustrated Catalogue.

Kewanee Manuf'g Co. Patentees.
Office 55 BROADWAY, New York.

N. B.—Responsible State and County Agents wanted in all parts of the World.

$500 MADE IN 87 DAYS. CATALOGUE FREE. Buckeye Novelty Co., Cincinnati, O.

Scientific.

THE ELECTRIC LIGHT.—Mr. Balmanno Squire, Senior Surgeon to the British Hospital for Diseases of the Skin, delivered a lecture at the Royal United Service Institution on Thursday week, on the adaptation of the electric light to military and naval surgical practice. The contrivance he exhibited consisted of a remarkably small light and portable hand-lantern, containing in a tube projecting from the back of it (which tube served also a handle for the lantern) a Jablochkoff candle. By means of a screw contrivance the burning end of the electric candle could be advanced forward into the lantern as the candle gradually burnt back. This, with two connecting screws for attaching the electric wires, formed the whole of the apparatus. A minute window formed of dark blue glass, placed at the side of the lantern, formed the means of ascertaining from time to time the exact position of the burning end of the electric candle. Mr. Squire pointed out that the initial cost of the whole plant need not exceed a hundred pounds, while the cost of the electric candle does not exceed four pence per hour. The lamp burns for an hour and a half without change, and can be recharged within half a minute. Mr. Squire, by the aid of elaborate diagrams (prepared by Mr. Shoolbred, C.E., and by Mr. Latimer Clark, C.E.) of the various systems of electric lighting, showed the special advantages presented by the Jablochkoff system of furnishing a small hand lantern of this kind. He advocated its use as affording a powerful and steady light in the dark cock-pit of ships of war, where, during a naval engagement, a rapid succession of operations had to be conducted by the naval surgeon under the dim illumination of a cumbersome lantern containing a solitary paraffine candle. Mr. Squire advocated the use of his electric lantern for similar reasons in military field-hospitals, and pointed out that, while for military purposes the electric and steam engine conveyed on the same carriage would be far lighter than an ordinary piece of field artillery, yet for naval purposes the requisite steam power was always on board, and on most war-ships the necessary dynamo-electrical machine was already in use for electrical illumination against torpedo practice. The force required to generate the light he placed at only one and a half horse-power.—London Methodist

—A magnificent meteor is reported to have been witnessed in St. Louis early in February, a little before six o'clock in the morning. It is said to have looked nearly as large as the moon, which was shining brightly at the time. Its color was a mixture of purple and brilliant yellow, and it somewhat resembled a comet in appearance. It was first seen at a point a little west of north, and about midway between the zenith and the horizon. It moved due east with great rapidity, throwing out sparks as it went, and lighting not only the northern heavens, but the north side of objects which were in shade from the moon. It disappeared very suddenly about twenty degrees above the eastern horizon, the passage having occupied about three seconds. Sergt. Hayhurst, who saw it, states that it very much resembled, in size, color and shape, the great meteor which passed over Lake Erie a few years ago, and which he also saw.

—Camille Flammarion doubts the discovery of the intra mercurial planets said to have been made by two American professors. He argues that the observers mistook small stars in the constellation Cancer for the much-looked-for satellite.

THE BEST REMEDY FOR
Diseases of the Throat and Lungs.

Diseases of the pulmonary organs are so prevalent and fatal, that a safe and reliable remedy for them is invaluable to every community. AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL is such a remedy, and no other so eminently merits the confidence of the public. It is a scientific combination of the medicinal principles and curative virtues of the finest drugs, chemically united, to insure the greatest possible efficiency and uniformity of results, which enables physicians as well as invalids to use it with confidence. It is the most reliable remedy for diseases of the throat and lungs that science has produced. It strikes at the foundation of all pulmonary diseases, affording prompt and certain relief, and is adapted to patients of any age or either sex. Being very palatable, the youngest children take it without difficulty. In the treatment of ordinary Coughs, Colds, Sore Throat, Bronchitis, Influenza, Clergyman's Sore Throat, Asthma, Croup, and Catarrh, the effects of AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL are magical, and multitudes are annually preserved from serious illness by its timely and faithful use. It should be kept at hand in every household, for the protection it affords in sudden attacks. In Whooping-cough and Consumption there is no other remedy so efficacious, soothing, and helpful.

The marvellous cures which AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL has effected all over the world are a sufficient guaranty that it will continue to produce the best results. An impartial trial will convince the most sceptical of its wonderful curative powers, as well as of its superiority over all other preparations for pulmonary complaints.

Eminent physicians in all parts of the country, knowing its composition, recommend AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL to invalids, and prescribe it in their practice. The test of half a century has proved its absolute certainty to cure all pulmonary complaints not already beyond the reach of human aid.

Prepared by Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co.,
Practical and Analytical Chemists,
Lowell, Mass.
SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS EVERYWHERE.

EDUCATIONAL.

Centenary Institute,

AN Institution of learning, located at Summerfield, Alabama; was founded by the Alabama Conference and commenced operations in 1842, and has been in successful operation ever since. The Institute has two departments, male and female.

The buildings are of brick, large and elegant, sufficient to accommodate two hundred and fifty pupils. This is to notify all concerned that the Trustees intend, at their next annual meeting, June 23, to lease the building for five years to any person or persons competent to run the Institution in the interest of a church school.

Persons desiring further information will correspond with me at Summerfield, Ala.

A. H. MITCHELL,
President Board of Trustees.
Summerfield, Ala., March 12, 1879.

Woodville Female Seminary.

A NON-SECTARIAN ACADEMY, UNDER the supervision of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South. Mississippi Conference: Hon. E. McGehee, President of Board of Trustees. For Thoroughness of instruction, healthfulness, cheapness, and many other advantages, is not surpassed. We invite those interested to examine our credentials, and to obtain circulars, by calling upon Mr. Philip Werlein, New Orleans, La., or address the Principal,

A. J. WRIGHT,
Woodville, Miss.

The Loquet-LeRoy Institute

AND KINDERGARDEN DAY AND BOARDING SCHOOL FOR YOUNG LADIES, 280 Camp Street.—This institution has now reopened under the auspices of the Misses MOISE, Cecelia W., Sallie L., and Corinne, the latter relicte of the late R. G. Raoul, daughters of Judge E. Warren Moise, deceased, successors of Mme Loquet LeRoy, whose good will and right to conduct the School under the old name, they have purchased. Except in so far as the proprietors may enter into active service, there will be no change of teachers. No change whatever in the conduct and management of the School. They respectfully solicit a continuance of the patronage heretofore so liberally accorded to the institution, and that of their friends, and the public generally, promising strict devotion to every interest of the pupils committed to their charge. C. W. MOISE, Principal.

REFERRING TO THE ABOVE MADAME LOQUET-LEROY announces to her friends and former patrons the entire confidence she has in her successors being in every way suited to the high trust they have assumed. She bespeaks for them a continuance of the patronage so liberally accorded her, and that she will still be actively connected with the institution. For terms and particulars apply to the principal.

HIWASSEE COLLEGE,

(Postoffice the same)
MONROE COUNTY, EAST TENNESSEE.

PARENTS desiring to find a safe and healthy location for their sons during the summer season would do well to patronize the above-named institution under the patronage of the Holston Annual Conference, Methodist Episcopal Church, South. The spring term closes May 22, and Fall session begins

FIRST MONDAY IN AUGUST, 1879.

Students arriving before the latter date will be beyond the reach of epidemics, and will thus secure some months of profitable study before Colleges usually open in less favored localities.

Excellent board in College Boarding House by D. A. McKenzie, the well known farmer-steward, at ten dollars per month, washing included. Same in good private families at nine dollars. Tuition, College Course, twenty dollars; English Course, fifteen dollars.

J. H. BRUNNER, D. D., President.
F. M. GRACE, A. M., Secretary.

MARBLE
—AND—
GRANITE

TOMBS, MONUMENTS AND GRAVE STONES.

Mantels, Grates Hearths, Tiling, Flagging, etc.

GEO. STROUD.
164 St. Charles street: New Orleans, La.

Broadway Foundry Co.

JOHN J. HOLLIDAY,
SUPERINTENDENT,
313 Carr Street, ST. LOUIS, MO.
Manufacturers of Stationary and Portable
Steam Engines and Boilers
MULAY AND CIRCULAR SAW MILLS,

Saw and Grist Mill Machinery, Rolling Mill and Blast Furnace Castings, Wrought Shafting and House Work PARKER'S & JOHNSON'S WATER WHEELS Tobacco and Lard Press Screws, Compound Tobacco Presses, Lard Kettles Iron and Brass CASTINGS of every description: also Quartz Mills and Smelting Furnaces of most improved descriptions.

HAVE PURCHASED ALL THE WHEEL & PULLEY PATTERNS of GATY, M'CUNE & CO
J. B. DAVIES, late of Louisville, Mechanical Man't

FOUNDED JULY 4, 1808.

OLDEST SHOT TOWER IN AMERICA.

THOS. W. SPARKS,
Patent American
Chilled Shot,
Standard Drop and Buck Shot
AND BAR LEAD MANUFACTURER,
121 WALNUT STREET,
PHILADELPHIA.

NORTON & MANNING, Agents,
NEW ORLEANS.
G. B. MILLER & CO., Agents,
GALVESTON.

PINE ISLAND GUANO

FOR SUGAR CANE
—AND—
ALL QUICK-GROWING CROPS.

PINE ISLAND
Ammoniated Phosphate,
FOR COTTON
—AND—
ALL SUMMER AND FALL CROPS.

The Best Fertilizers in use, and prepared with great care for the Southern market.

THE KINNEY & MILLER (Minnesota)
Early Amber Sugar Cane Seed,
CROP 1878,
Fresh from Kenny & Miller Farms.
DISCOUNT TO THE TRADE.
FOR SALE BY
HUGH W. MONTGOMERY,
160 Common St., New Orleans.
Sole Agent for the Southwest.

Pontchartrain Cheap Store.

J. A. LACROIX,
CORNER FRENCHMEN AND VICTORY STS.
LADIES', GENTS', MISSES' AND CHILDRENS'
BOOTS AND SHOES
OF ALL DESCRIPTIONS,

Always on hand a full assortment of first-class goods, at prices which defy competition. Call and examine my stock before purchasing elsewhere.
MY MOTTO—"Quick Sales and Small Profits."
Jackson railroad cars pass in front of the store.

PROFESSIONAL CARDS.

WM. L. THOMPSON,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
Office, Garza Building, corner Houston and Soledad Sts.
SAN ANTONIO, TEXAS.

DR. E. P. DOREMUS,
DENTIST,
SUCCESSOR TO DR. DICKEY,
110 Canal street, over H. T. Walshe's,
NEW ORLEANS.
Special attention given to the preservation of the natural teeth.

DR. C. J. BICKHAM,
RESIDENCE AND OFFICE,
220 Jackson St., Bet. Chestnut and Coliseum,
NEW ORLEANS.
Office Hours—Eight A. M. and three to four P. M.

DR. J. J. LYONS,
NO. 219 CARONDELET STREET
Between Julia and St. Joseph,
New Orleans, La.

CARRIAGES, WAGONS, ETC.

FIRST PREMIUM AT ST. LOUIS FOR 1878.
JOHN KIMPEL,
Manufacturer of
CARRIAGES AND BUGGIES,
PLATFORM WAGONS, TRUCKS,
LIGHT AND HEAVY SPRING WAGONS.
208, 210, 212 & 214 Spruce St., ST. LOUIS, MO.
Barouches, Buggies and all kinds of Spring Wagons.

J. THOMSON & BROS.,
IMPORTERS AND DEALERS
IN CARRIAGE, WAGON
AND
CART-MAKERS' MATERIAL,
And Manufacturers of Light Carriages and Spring Wagons,
All at Reasonable Prices.
65 AND 70 SOUTH RAMPART ST.,
Between Common and Gravier,
NEW ORLEANS.

BUSINESS CARDS.

WATCHES.

LADY'S GOLD WATCHES, $20 and upward.
GENT'S GOLD WATCHES, $45 and upward.
GENT'S SILVER WATCHES, $12 and upward.
BOY'S SILVER WATCHES, $12 and upward.
All guaranteed.
A. B. GRISWOLD & CO.,
Cor. Canal and Royal Sts.

RICE, BORN & CO.,

69.....CAMP STREET.....91
WAREHOUSE—143, 145 & 147 MAGAZINE ST.
NEW ORLEANS.
IMPORTERS AND DEALERS IN FOREIGN AND DOMESTIC
HARDWARE!
BUILDERS' HARDWARE,
GRATES, CUTLERY, STOVES,
HOUSE-FURNISHING GOODS, ETC.
SOLE AGENTS FOR THE
CHARTER OAK STOVE
HOWE SCALE and
BARBED FENCE WIRE.

H. DEVERGES & CO.,
HARDWARE,
17 and 19 Decatur Street,
Opposite Postoffice, New Orleans.
IMPORTERS AND DEALERS IN
IRON, NAILS, CUTLERY, GUNS, AGRICULTURAL IMPLEMENTS, PLOWS, OILS, PAINTS, CORDAGES, ETC. ETC.

MENEELYS' BELLS,
For Churches, etc., known to the public since 1826, are made only at "THE MENEELY BELL FOUNDERY," WEST TROY, N. Y. Catalogues free.

HEATH, PIPPEY & LARA,
IMPORTERS AND DEALERS IN
CARPETS, FLOOR OIL CLOTHS,
UPHOLSTERY GOODS, Wall Paper, Window Shades, Cornices, Lace and Nottingham Curtains, Mirrors, Moldings, Chromos, Engravings, etc.
Frames made to order—a specialty.
No. 99 Camp Street, New Orleans.

WATCHES AND JEWELRY,
17 BARONNE STREET,
Bet. Common and Canal, NEW ORLEANS
ALSO
LOAN OFFICE.
Private entrance to right of show window.
Unredeemed pledges of every description sold at very low prices and with full guarantee.
OTTO SCHWANER.
Watches and Jewelry carefully repaired. Jewelry at low cash prices.

NO MORE
RHEUMATISM
OR GOUT
ACUTE OR CHRONIC
SALICYLICA
SURE CURE.
Manufactured only under the above trade-mark by the European Salicylic Medicine Co.
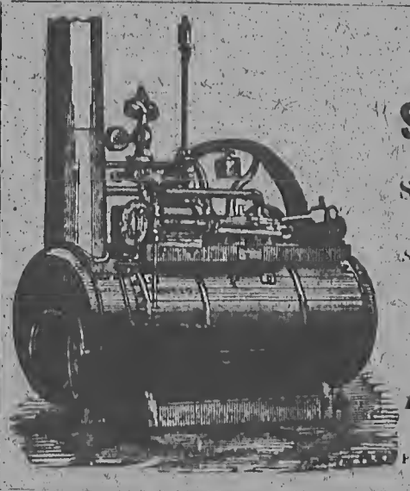
OF PARIS AND LEIPZIG.
IMMEDIATE RELIEF WARRANTED, PERMANENT CURE GUARANTEED. Now exclusively used by all celebrated Physicians of Europe and America, becoming a Staple, Harmless, and Reliable Remedy on both continents. The highest Medical Academy of Paris report 95 cures out of 100 cases within three days. Secret—The only dissolver of the poisonous Uric Acid which exists in the Blood of Rheumatic and Gouty Patients. $1.00 a Box; 6 Boxes for $5.00. Sent to any address on receipt of price. ENDORSED BY PHYSICIANS. SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS. Address
WASHBURNE & CO.
Only Importers' Depot, 43 Cliff st., N. Y.
eow

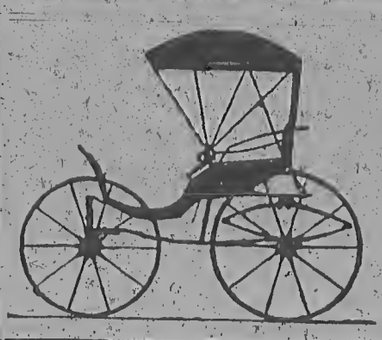
MISCELLANEOUS.

C. W. DUNBAR'S SONS,
3 Tchoupitoulas St., New Orleans,
PRESERVERS AND PACKERS OF
SHRIMP, FRESH OKRA, ARTICHOKES,
MANUFACTURERS OF
STANDARD FRUIT SIRUPS,
FOR SALE BY WHOLESALE AND RETAIL GROCERS.



FOR THE VERY BEST AND NEVER FADING
PHOTOGRAPHS
GO TO
121 CANAL ST.
Touro Building.

D. H. HOLMES,
155 Canal Street, - - - 15 Bourbon Street.
Our Stock of Spring Goods is now complete, consisting of the latest novelties in
SILKS, LACES, DRESS GOODS IN WORSTED FABRICS
BLACK GRENADINES IN SILK AND WOOL,
LINEN LAWNS, ORGANDIES, AND PERCALES,
HOSIERY in all Styles and Colors,
A Complete Assortment of MATTINGS
SAMPLES sent free of charge.
D. H. HOLMES
155 CANAL STREET.

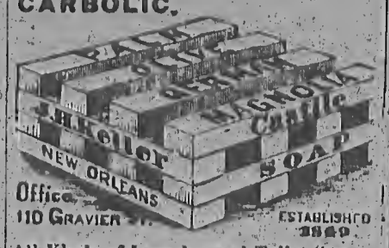


R. M. & B. J. MONTGOMERY,
FURNITURE EMPORIUM,
MORESQUE BUILDING,
Corner Camp and Poydras Streets,

Owing to the lateness of the season, and not wishing to carry them over the summer months, we have made great reductions in the price of all our line
BEDROOM AND PARLOR SUITS,
FRENCH PLATE MIRRORS,
FANCY AND ORNAMENTAL FURNITURE.
We also have a complete stock of Medium and Common Furniture. Office, Hall and Library Furniture; Bent Wood Linen Chairs, Rockers and Benches; Lawn Hammocks with Awning Attachments; Invalid Rocking and Wheel Chairs; Spring Beds; Spiral, Woven Wire, Spring, Hair, and Moss Mattresses; Feather Pillows and Bolsters; the Patent Elliptic Spring Pillow, the best ever invented for a warm climate; Rattan and Perforated Seat Chairs, Rockers and Settees; the "Victor" Folding and Lock Desk, the best school desk extant.
Our stock of FURNITURE and MIRRORS is one of the largest in the country and we can successfully compete with any house North or South. Commission merchants and country orders solicited. All goods delivered free of charge. Give us a trial before purchasing.
N. B.—We are prepared to re-upholster Parlor Suits and Chairs in any goods parties may select.

THE GOLD MEDAL
PARIS EXPOSITION 1878
WAS AWARDED TO
JOSEPH GILLOTT & SONS
FOR EXCELLENCE IN
STEEL PENS
THE FAVORITE NUMBERS 303, 332, 404, 170 & 351, W. S.
AND HIS OTHER STYLES—SOLD BY ALL DEALERS
THROUGHOUT THE WORLD

PAYNE'S
PORTABLE
STEAM ENGINES,
5 TO 15 HORSE POWER,
Strong, Simple and Durable,
BEST PLANTATION ENGINE MADE.
Send for Special Price List of this and Other styles Engines, Boilers, etc.
B. J. WEST,
SOLE AGENT,
118 and 117 Magazine Street,
NEW ORLEANS.
Plantation, Hardware, Agricultural Implements, Saw-Mills, Gins, etc.



ANDERSON, HARRIS & CO.,
Wholesale Manufacturers of
Buggies, Phætons,
CARRIAGES AND VEHICLES
OF EVERY DESCRIPTION,
OFFICE AND FACTORY:
N. E. Cor. Baymiller and Liberty Sts.,
CINCINNATTI.
Sixth Street (Green) Cars pass the door.

Established in St. Louis in 1858.
R. L. ROSEBROUGH SONS,
Marble Works,
No. 1421 BROADWAY,
Between O'Fallon and Cass Avenues,
ST. LOUIS, MO.

TRUNKS,
TRUNKS,
HAVING lately overstocked myself with this article from the best manufactories of Cincinnati and Chicago, from the finest Ladies' TRUNK, Gents' Sole Leather, Zinc, and in fact every kind made; also Patent Tray, (this you need not take the tray out to get at the bottom of the trunk); also, a fine lot of SATCHELS and VALISES; also, a fine assortment of Ladies', Childrens' and Misses' SHOES, of the best Philadelphia makers. Call and see for yourself at
S. BAUM'S, 551 Magazine St.,
Corner St Mary New Orleans

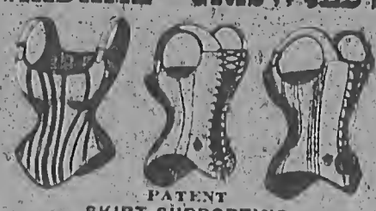
J. H. KELLER,
MANUFACTURER OF
CARBOLIC.

Office 110 Gravier ESTABLISHED 2869
All Kinds of Laundry and Toilet Soaps.

NEW RICH BLOOD!
PARSON'S PURGATIVE PILLS make New Rich Blood, and will completely change the blood in the entire system in three months. Any person who will take one each night from one to twelve weeks may be restored to sound health, if such a thing be possible. Sold everywhere, or sent by mail for eight letter stamps.
L. S. JOHNSON & CO., Bangor, Me.

MISCELLANEOUS.

PERFORATED
VENEER SEATS AND CHAIRS
For use in Churches, Halls and Lodges, are coming into general use on account of their Comfort, Durability, Cleanliness, and Ornament.



No. 115.
Churches intending to buy Chairs or Settees will do well to correspond with
CARDNER & CO.,
Patentees and Manufacturers,
183 CANAL ST., NEW YORK.

COAL.....COAL.....COAL
B. D. WOOD & BROS.,
Corner Camp and Common Streets,
Opposite the City Hotel,
Wholesale and Retail dealers in all kinds of COAL. Pittsburg Coal delivered by boat-load or less on the coast, and shipped in casks or in bulk, at lowest market rates. City trade supplied.

The Stewart Stove
WITH LATEST IMPROVEMENT,
Is now the
LEADING STOVE OF THE AGE
There can be no failure in its perfect operation. Will outlast and consume less fuel than any other Stove made.
Can be used for coke, coal or wood.
Hot water attachments for bathing, etc., can be attached with but little extra cost.
Pieces to repair old Stewart Stoves constantly on hand.
J. H. CAMPMAN,
133 Poydras Street.

LADY AGENTS WANTED FOR MADAME GRISWOLD'S

PATENT
SKIRT-SUPPORTING CORSETS,

21 E. 16th St.,
New York.
BRANCH OFFICE:
No. 44 WINTER ST., BOSTON, MASS.
Any of the above goods sent by mail, postage prepaid, on receipt of the list price. Send for descriptive circular.
CAUTION:
Before purchasing look for Stamp and Trade Mark.

DR. R. C. KRAM,
MANUFACTURER OF THE
SURE CURE TRUSS,
N.W. cor. Fifth & Elm sts. Cincinnati, O.
THE BEST TRUSS IN THE WORLD!
Those who have suffered untold agony for years, by wearing the Metallic Spring Trusses will find in the SURE CURE TRUSS all that its name implies—a sure cure for all the ills attendant upon ruptures. It is a BELT TRUSS, no springs, strong elastic in back, vulcanite rubber pads that never blister, never slip. Can be worn at night.
Testimonials of cures can be seen at the office. No. 1 Elastic Trusses, the best manufactured, warranted, at $5 for single; $4 for double. Measurations free.
Trusses sent free by mail on receipt of order and money. Send stamp for circular.

MARSDEN'S
PECTORAL BALM,
THE GREAT REMEDY FOR COUGHS, COLDS,
AND
CONSUMPTION.
G. R. FINLAY & CO.,
New Orleans, La., Sole Agts.
FOR SALE BY ALL DRUGGISTS.

DR. S. H. P. LEE'S
LITHONTRIPTIC

CURES STONE AND GRAVEL, GALL STONES, DIABETES, GOUT, ENLARGEMENT OF THE PROSTATE GLAND, and in its incipient stages, BRIGHT'S DISEASE.
[TRADE MARK.] DISSOLVES
STONE AND GRAVEL
In the Kidneys, Liver and Bladder. It is now for the first time given to the public as a cure for the most distressing kidney affections. Send for pamphlet to depot of the S. H. P. LEE COMPANY, No. 49 Clinton Place, New York city. Sold by druggists.

POOLE & HUNT, BALTIMORE.
MANUFACTURERS OF
THE POOLE & HUNT IMPULSE TURBINE
WATER WHEELS,
MACHINE MOULDED
MILL GEARING
SHAFTING, PULLEYS AND HANGERS,
STEAM ENGINES AND BOILERS,
MIXERS FOR FERTILIZERS AND CHEMICALS.

PRICES CURRENT

IN

THE NEW ORLEANS MARKETS.

REVISED AND CORRECTED WEEKLY.

☞ Correspondents should bear in mind that our quotations represent prices for round lots, and in filling small orders higher rates must be paid.

GROCERIES.

Butter, ₩ lb.:
Western	22	23
New York, good to creamy	—	—
Coffee, ₩ lb.:
Rio, fair	13	13¾
Rio, good	14	14¾
Rio, prime	14¾	14¾
Candles, ₩ lb.:
Star, best brands	11	11¾
Corn Meal, ₩ bbl.:
Best, K. D.	3 00	— —
Cheese, ₩ lb.:
Factory	6¾	7
N. Y. cream and English dairy	9	10
Fish:
Mackerel, extra No. 1, in bbls	— —	18 00
Mackerel, extra No. 1, in kits	— —	2 00
Sardines, quarter boxes	— —	— —
Flour, ₩ bbl.:
Superfine	4 00	— —
XX	4 90	5 0
XXX	5 25	5 50
Choice XXX	5 75	— —
Choice family	5 90	6 00
Fruits:
Dried apples, ₩ lb	3	3½
Dried peaches, ₩ lb	2½	— —
Raisins, ₩ quarter box	50	55
Raisins, ₩ half box	— —	1 00
Raisins, ₩ whole box	1 50	— —
Bananas, ₩ bunch	1 00	2 00
Crackers, ₩ lb.:
Soda	5	6
Butter	6	7
Sugar	5	9
Gingernuts	9	12½
Oil:
Coal, in cases, best	20	22
Coal, in barrels, best	15	16
Insurance, in cases	— —	40
Insurance, in barrels	— —	35
Lard, in barrels, best	58	60
Molasses, in barrels.
Common	25	— —
Fair	30	— —
Prime to choice	32	35
Golden and Roqoet syrups	—	— —
Half bbls. 5c. and kegs 10c. more.
Rice, Louisiana, ₩ lb.:
No. 2	4¼	4¾
Ordinary	6¼	—
Fair	6	6¾
Prime to choice	7	7¾
Soap, in boxes, ₩ lb.:
XXX Palm	6	— —
Keller's magnolia	3½	— —
Keller's olive	4¼	— —
Starch, ₩ lb.	2¾	4½
Salt, in sacks:
Fine	1 40	1 45
Coarse	90	95
Sugar.
Good fair	6	— —
Prime	6¼	— —
Choice	6¾	6¾
Yellow clarified	7¼	7¾
White clarified	— —	— —
Crushed	8½	— —
Powdered	8¾	— —
Spices, ₩ lb.:
Allspice	15¾	— —
Pepper	13¾	14
Cloves	45	— —
Cinnamon	— —	— —
Teas, ₩ lb.:
Black Oolong	87½	1 10
Green Imperial	80	90
Tobacco:
Low lugs	2¾ @	6
Medium	3¾ @	5½
Good to fine	3¾ @	4¾
Low leaf	4¾ @	5
Medium	5½ @	6¾
Good	7 @	8
Fine	7 @	8
Selections	9 @	11

GRAIN AND FEED.

Corn, ₩ bushel:
Yellow	52	— —
White	70	87
Mixed	50	— —
Oats, ₩ bushel:
St. Louis	43½	45
Texas	— —	— —
Salem	— —	— —
Bran, choice, ₩ 100 lbs	— —	80
Hay, ₩ ton:
Prime	— —	17 00
Ordinary	— —	— —
Cow Peas:
Whippoorwill	1 20	1 30
Mixed	1 45	1 50
Clay	1 60	— —

PROVISIONS.

Bacon, ₩ lb.:
Breakfast	— —	— —
Shoulders	4½	4¾
Sides, clear rib	6¼	5½
Sides, clear	5¾	6¾
Hams, sugar-cured	9	9½
Mess Pork, ₩ bbl	10 87½	11 00
Dry Salted Meats:
Shoulders	3½	8¾
Lard, ₩ lb.:
Choice, in kegs and pails	7¾	7¾
Choice, in tierces and barrels	6¾	6¾

ENCULENTS.

Potatoes, ₩ bbl	2 85	3 00
Onions, ₩ bbl	2 25	2 50
Apples, ₩ bbl	— —	— —
Cabbages, ₩ 100	6 00	10 00

WOOL.

Burry	14	20
Louisiana, clear	20	24
Lake, clear	15	— —

BALING STUFFS.

Bagging:
India	— —	— —
Jute	10¾	11
Ties, Arrow, best, per bundle, 20 lbs and buckles	— —	3 10
Twine, hemp	13½	14

POULTRY AND EGGS.

Poultry, ₩ dozen:
Old chickens	4 00	4 25
Young	2 00	2 50
Ducks	2 25	3 00
Geese	3 50	4 00
Turkeys	12 00	15 00
Eggs, ₩ dozen:
Western	9	11
Louisiana	10	12

POVERTY AND SUFFERING.

"I was dragged down with debt, poverty and suffering for years, caused by a sick family and large bills for doctoring, which did them no good. I was completely discouraged, until one year ago, by the advice of my pastor, I procured Hop Bitters and commenced their use, and in one month we were all well, and none of us have been sick a day since, and I want to say to all poor men, you can keep your families well a year with Hop Bitters for less than one doctor's visit will cost, I know it.—A Workingman."—Adv.

Kentucky mules are being extensively purchased by British agents for shipment to South Africa, to be used in the Zulu campaign. The Kentucky mule, armed cap a pie, from tooth to toenail, is about as effective a projectile as was ever invented for carrying the war into Africa.

BENSON'S CAPCINE POROUS PLASTER.

A WONDERFUL REMEDY.

There is no comparison between it and the common slow acting porous plaster. It is in every way superior to all other external remedies including liniments and the so-called electrical appliances. It contains new medicinal elements to which its combination with rubber, gives the most extraordinary pain relieving, strengthening and curative properties. Any Physician in your own locality will confirm the above statement. For Lame Back, Rheumatism, Female Weakness, Stubborn and Neglected Colds and Coughs diseased Kidneys, Wooping Cough effections of the heart, and all ills for which porous plasters are used, it is simply the best known remedy. Ask for Benson's Capcine Porous Plaster and take no other. Sold by all Druggists. Price 50 cents sent on receipt of price by Seabury & Johnson, 21 Platt street, New York.

COMMERCIAL.

ADVOCATE OFFICE,
NEW ORLEANS, Monday, June 2, 1879.

COTTON.

We notice some inquiry, resulting in sales thus far of 190 bales, mostly at Saturday's prices and partly with a leaning to inside figures. In most cases, however, especially for all desirable kinds, factors are more stringent in their pretensions, but the asking prices show considerable irregularity, and nothing has transpired yet to establish any quotable variation.

The following is the official closing of the Cotton Exchange:

	To-Day.	Saturday
Low ordinary	11	11
Ordinary	11¼	11¾
Good ordinary	11¾	11¾
Low middling	12⅛	12⅛
Middling	12⅜	12⅜
Good middling	12¾	12¾
Middling fair	13	13

Sales to-day, 750 bales. Market steady; offerings light.

MOVEMENT AT PORTS.

Receipts at United States ports, week ending Monday, June 2, 1879.

	Saturday.	Sunday and Monday.	This week	last year.
New Orleans	367	130		2,255
Galveston	877	60		1,417
Mobile	6	72		933
Savannah	61	16		1,755
Charleston	350			435
Wilmington	4	3		280
Norfolk	234	611		2 715
Baltimore	4 0			195
New York	44			913
Boston	157	500		609
Philadelphia	73			16
Other ports				406
Total	2 456			12,143

FUTURES.

The position of the market at New York may be seen by the following:

Middling	To-day.	Saturday.
January	11.45@11.46
February
March
April
May
June	13.06@13.8
July	13.2@@14.28
August	13.47@13.48
September	13.1@ 3.15
October	12.13@12.14
November	11.5@@11.57
December	11.45@1..46

Tone of the market quiet and firm. Sales, 68 500 bales.

A story is told of an old French shoemaker, who boasted that nothing could frighten him. Two young men thought they would test him. So one pretended to be dead, and the other induced the shoemaker to "sit up" with the supposed corpse. As the shoemaker was in a hurry about some work, he took his tools and leather, and began working beside the corpse. About midnight a cup of black coffee was brought him to keep him awake. Soon after, the coffee, having exhilarated him, forgetting that he was in the presence of death, he commenced to sing a lively tune, keeping time with his hammer. Suddenly the corpse arose, and exclaimed in a hollow voice: "When a man is in the presence of death he should not sing!" The shoemaker started, then suddenly dealt the corpse a blow on the head, exclaiming at the same time: "When a man is dead he should not speak." It was the last time they tried to scare the shoemaker.

MISCELLANEOUS.

TUTT'S PILLS.

SYMPTOMS OF A

TORPID LIVER.

Loss of Appetite, Bowels Costive, Pain in the Head with a dull sensation in the back part, Pain under the shoulder-blade, fulness after eating with a disinclination to exertion of body or mind, Irritability of temper, Low Spirits, with a feeling of having neglected some duty, Weariness, Dizziness, Fluttering at the Heart, Dots before the Eyes, Yellow Skin, Headache generally over the right eye, Restlessness with disturbed dreams, Highly colored Urine.

IF THESE WARNINGS ARE UNHEEDED SERIOUS DISEASES WILL SOON BE DEVELOPED.

TUTT'S PILLS

are especially adapted to such cases, a single dose of its effects such a change of feeling as to astonish the sufferer.

A NOTED DIVINE SAYS:

DR. TUTT:—Dear Sir: For ten years I have been a martyr to Dyspepsia, Constipation and Piles. Last spring your Pills were recommended to me; I used them (but with little faith). I am now a well man, have good appetite, digestion perfect, regular stools, piles gone, and I have gained forty pounds solid flesh. They are worth their weight in gold.

REV. R. L. SIMPSON, Louisville, Ky.

The first effect of TUTT'S PILLS is to Increase the Appetite, and cause the body to Take on Flesh, thus the system is nourished, and by their Tonic Action on the Digestive Organs, Regular Stools are produced.

DR. J. F HAYWOOD OF NEW YORK, SAYS:

"Few diseases exist that cannot be relieved by restoring the liver to its normal functions and for this purpose no remedy has ever been invented that has as happy an effect as TUTT'S PILLS."

Sold Everywhere, 25 Cents.

OFFICE, 35 MURRAY ST., NEW YORK.

TUTT'S HAIR DYE.

GRAY HAIR OR WHISKERS changed to a GLOSSY BLACK by a single application of this DYE. It imparts a Natural Color, acts Instantaneously, and is as Harmless as spring water. Sold by Druggists, or sent by express on receipt of $1.

Office, 35 Murray Street, New York.

COMPOUND OXYGEN.

A NEW TREATMENT for the cure of chronic diseases by a true process of re-vitalization.

REMARKABLE CURES have been made in Consumption, Asthma, Catarrh, Bronchitis, Dyspepsia, Headache, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, and the large class of ailments which come from nervous depression.

LOSS OF VITALITY, feebleness of constitution, exposure to miasma, the enervating effects of climate, and especially IN SOUTHERN LATITUDES to the slow reaction which attends convalescence, and which dooms so many to permanent invalidism.

STRONGLY ENDORSED by the Hon. JUDGE KELLEY, T. S. ARTHUR, Hon. MONTGOMERY BLAIR, Ex-Gov. HOREMAN of West Virginia, and others who have used the New Treatment.

FREE! A Treatise (200 pages) on COMPOUND OXYGEN, with many testimonials to most remarkable cures, sent free. Address

DRS. STARKEY & PALEN, 1109 Girard St., Philada.

T. W. HOTHICK,

UNDERTAKER,

OFFICE, 873 CAMP STREET,

STABLES, 872 MAGAZINE STREET.

Embalming and disinterring bodies. Bodies carefully shipped. Carriages for hire.

PUBLIC ATTENTION. 8p

Religious Notices.

COMMENCEMENT EXERCISES OF MANSFIELD FEMALE COLLEGE,

MANSFIELD, LA.

The examination of the classes of this Institution will be commenced on Friday, June 20, at 9 A M; and will be closed on Tuesday, June 24, at 2 P M.

The Commencement Sermon will be preached on Sunday, June 22, by Rev Robert Randle, P E, Shreveport district.

On Monday evening, June 23, at eight o'clock, the young ladies will give an entertainment, consisting of vocal and instrumental music, poetic recitations, and charades of pleasing merit.

Tuesday evening, June 24, beginning at eight o'clock, will be devoted chiefly to the performance of the famous operetta, "A Lesson in Charity; or The Miracle of the Roses," in one act and scene. Words by George Cooper; music by Luigi Bordese.

At ten A M, Wednesday, the graduating exercises will take place and degrees will be conferred on eight young ladies. The Annual Literary Address will then be delivered by Rev Joel T Davis, pastor of the Methodist Church, Shreveport, La.

Admission on Monday and Tuesday night, 50 cents; children, 25 cents.

23 THOS. ARMSTRONG, Prest.

COMMENCEMENT OF ALABAMA CONFERENCE FEMALE COLLEGE,

TUSKEGEE, ALA.

FRIDAY, June 13, 8 P M—Junior Exhibition.

SUNDAY, June 15, 10 A M—Sermon by Rev R H Rivers, D. D.

MONDAY, June 16, 8 P M—Exercises in Music, Elocution and Calisthenics.

TUESDAY, June 17, 10 A M—Reading Part of Senior Essays. Literary Address by Rev J M Crews, and Exhibition of Work in Art.

TUESDAY, June 17, 8 P M—Annual Concert.

WEDNESDAY, June 18, 10 A M—Reading remainder of Senior Essays and Graduating Exercises.

23 JOHN MASSEY, Prest.

PROGRAMME OF SOUTHERN UNIVERSITY,

SATURDAY, June 28, 9 A M. Meeting of the Board of Trustees.

SUNDAY, June 29, 10.30 A. M.—Commencement Sermon, by Rev. Felix R Hill

MONDAY, June 30, 10 A. M.—Prize Declamation. 8 P. M.—Exhibition of Belles Lettris Society.

TUESDAY, July 1 10 A. M.—Annual Address before the Literary Societies, by Samuel W. Goode. 11 A. M.—Alumni Address by Hon. Huey 8 P. M.—Annual Exhibition of Clariosophic Society.

WEDNESDAY, July 2, 10 A. M.—Orations of Graduating Class. Baccalaureate Address. Conferring Degrees 8 P. M.—Alumni Reunion.

Usual reduction on railroads. You are cordially invited to attend.

Yours truly, C. M. VERDEL, Sec

PROGRAMME OF CLOSING EXERCISES OF WHITWORTH FEMALE COLLEGE, BROOKHAVEN, MISS.

JUNE 19-24, 1879.

THURSDAY, June 19, 8 P M—Exhibition by Preparatory Department.

FRIDAY, June 20, 8 P M—Anniversary of Calliopean Society. Address by Rev. Beverly Carradine, Brandon, Miss. Valedictory by Miss Josie Johnson.

SATURDAY, June 21, 8 P M—Essays and Recitations by Seniors.

SUNDAY, June 22, 11 A M—Commencement Sermon by Rev W H Leith, Forest, Miss.

MONDAY, June 23, 10½ A M—Reunion of the Alumnæ. Address by Rev W H Watkins, D D, of Jackson, Miss. Beginning at 11.30. At 3 P M the annual meeting of the Board of Trustees. At 8 P M Grand Concert.

COMMENCEMENT DAY.

TUESDAY, June 24, 10 A M—Annual Address by Hon L Q C Lamar at 11.30 A M.

THE Commencement Exercises of the Greenville College Male Institute, Rev M E Butt, principal, will embrace June 8-11.

Commencement Sermon by Rev M S Andrews, D D at 10 A M. June 8, 8 P M: Rev J M Mason.

Literary Address by Rev J M Boland, June 11, 8 P M. 22

BRETHREN going by rail to the Seashore District Conference (at Pearlington, June 13-15) will stop at Lookout Station. Going east, take morning or evening train. Going west, only morning trains make connection with the steamboat. Before buying tickets, inquire of depot agents for special rates.

23 JOHN A. ELLIS, P. E.

SEASHORE CAMP GROUND.—The trustees of the camp ground will hold a meeting on the grounds on Wednesday, June 18, for business preparatory to the approaching camp meeting commencing on the sixteenth of July. Persons desirous to secure lots or tents are invited to be present. W. H. FOSTER, Prest.

P. HALLARAN, Secretary. 23

BY MISTAKE the district meeting for Homer district was published to be held May 25-29, when it is June 26-29.

23 J. H. STONE

THE Camp-Meeting on Indian Village circuit will embrace the first Sabbath in October, commencing on Wednesday night before at early candle light, at Jones' Camp Ground, three and a half miles east of Vernon, La. Ministers of the gospel are invited.

22 R T PARISH, P C.

NOTICE.—Ministers who propose attending the Commencement Exercises of Whitworth College will please to notify me, that I may provide them homes. All are cordially invited to attend. (22) H F JOHNSON, Prest.

TO THE PREACHERS OF THE WOODVILLE DISTRICT.—My Dear Brethren: Please send me a correct list of all your local preachers and lay delegates to the District Conference, to be held at this place some time in July.

J S PARKER.

GREENSBURG, La., May 5, 1879. 20.

THE District Conference for Homer District, Louisiana Conference, will be held at Arizona, June 26-30.

20 J. M. STONE, P. E.

THE Annual Camp-meeting at William's Camp Ground will commence on Thursday night before the fifth Sunday in June. This Camp Ground is situated on the Pensacola Railroad, thirty-four miles from Pensacola.

Ample arrangements are made for visitors, especially ministers. All are cordially invited.

The meeting will be conducted on the self-sustaining plan.

W. L. WILLIAMS, President.

W. W. RICHARDS, Secretary. 17

Appointments for Quarterly Meetings.

NORTH ALABAMA CONFERENCE.

BIRMINGHAM DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

Oxmoor and Helena, at Oxmoor	June 28, 29
Tuscaloosa circuit, at Taylorville	July 5, 6
Corsion circuit, at Village Falls	12, 13
Blount Springs circuit, at Warrior	19, 20
Birmingham station	26, 26
Jonesboro circuit, at Pleasant Hill	Aug. 2, 3
Ashville circuit, at Springville	9, 10
New Castle circuit, at Piney Woods	16, 17
Montevallo station	23, 24
Murphrees Valley circuit	30, 31
Jones' Valley circuit	Sept. 6, 7
Montevallo circuit	13, 14
Cahaba mission	20, 21

The District Conference for Birmingham district will be held at Warrior, July 18-20. The Introductory Sermon will be preached at eleven o'clock A. M., Friday the eighteenth, by Rev. R. J. Wilson. Let all the preachers in charge come prepared to make full and complete reports from their respective charges. A full attendance is very much desired.

23 J. G. GURLEY, P. E.

LAFAYETTE DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

Dadeville circuit, at Camp Hill	May 31, June 1
Sociopatoy circuit, at Sociopatoy	June 7, 8
Hatchett Creek mission, at North Bello
Beth	14-15
Lafayette station	21-22
Alexander City circuit, at Alexander City	28, 29
Louina circuit, at Hannery	July 5, 6
Pigeonville circuit, at Union	12, 13
Freedom circuit, at Rock Mills	19 20
Widowsville mission, at Bethlehem	26, 27
Athens circuit, at Reagan's Chapel	Aug. 2, 3
Lineville circuit, at Mount Pleasant	9, 10
Oak Bowdy circuit, at Midway	16, 17

The District Conference will be held at Alexander City, June 27-29. Sermon by W. T. Pullin on Thursday night, the twenty-sixth.

23 JOHN B STEVENSEN, P. E.

ALABAMA CONFERENCE.

GREENSBORO DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

Cuba	June 21, 22
Greensboro	28, 29
Uniana	July 12, 13
Forkland	19, 20
Belmont	26, 27
Newberth	Aug. 2, 3
Gainesville	9, 10
Greene	16, 17
Gastin	30, 31
Butler	Sept. 6, 7

23 S. H COX, P. E.

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

WOODVILLE DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

Jackson and Pipkin's Chapel, at Salem	June 14, 15
Livingston, at Soule Chapel	21, 22
East Feliciana, at Clear Creek	July 5, 6
St Helena, at Greensburg	12, 13
Wilkinson, at Pigeah	19, 20
Bayou Sara, at Tunica	26, 27
Woodville (Wednesday and Thursday)	30, 31
Amite, at Sharon	Aug. 2, 3
Magnolia, at Hollandsville	16 17
East Baton Rouge, at Antioch	23 24
Clinton	30, 31
Buffalo, at Mount Carmel	Sept. 6, 7
Winans and Concord, at Winans	13, 14

Note. The District Conference will meet in Greensburg, La., on the eleventh, twelfth and thirteenth days of July. Conference will open on Friday, at ten o'clock A M.

Brethren will please bring their Quarterly Conference Journals with them for examination.

2 JAS. A. GODFREY, P. E.

VICKSBURG DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

Natchez	June 14 15
King ton, at Linwood	21 22
Fayette, at Cane Ridge	28, 29
Port Gibson	July 5, 6
Rocky Springs, at Shiloh	12, 13
Cayuga, at Bear Creek	19, 20
Warren, at Oak Ridges	26, 27
Mount Olivet, at Wesley Chapel	Aug. 2, 3
Sunflower mission, at Wesley Chapel	2, 3
Rolling Fork, at Rolling Fork	9, 10
Clover Hill	16, 17
Chotard	18, 17
Vicksburg	23 24

The District Conference will meet in the Methodist Church at Port Gibson at ten A. M., July 3, 1879. Members and delegates will please have the Recording Stewards' books of the several charges at the seat of the Conference for inspection.

22 W. L. C. HUNNICUTT, P. E.

SEASHORE DIST.—SECOND ROUND.

(COMPLETED.)

Whittington, at White Plain	May 31 June 1
Pearlington, at Pearlington	June 4
Amite City, at Magnolia	8
Covington, at Oak Grove	7 11
Pearlington, at Logtown	14, 15
China Grove, at Hebron	21, 22
Wolf River mission	21, 22
Mount Carmel, at Columbia	2, 22
Westville, at Fairmount	28, 29

District Conference at Pearlington beginning on Friday, June 13 at nine A M. Bishop Keener is requested to preside.

19 JOHN A. ELLIS, P. E.

ABOUT the time lithrometers became so cheap as to induce agriculturists to purchase them, a farmer in Kilbride having been persuaded to become the possessor of the ornamental as well as useful instrument, failed to mistrust the ignorant, on one occasion, in spite of a rising barometer, it continued raining; the farmer, losing all patience, carried the instrument to the door, held it up towards the sky and exclaimed, "In the name o' guidness, will you no believe your ain een?"

MISCELLANEOUS.

PRICE REDUCED TO 25 CENTS. The greatest discovery of the age is DR TOBIAS' CELEBRATED VENETIAN LINIMENT, Thirty-two years before the public and warranted to cure Diarrhœa, Dysentery, Colic and Spasms, taken internally; and Croup, Chronic Rheumatism, Sore Throat, Cuts, Bruises Old Sores and Pains in the Limbs, Back and Chest, externally. It has never failed. No family will ever be without it after once giving it a fair trial. Price 25c. DR TOBIAS' VENETIAN HORSE LINIMENT, In Pint Bottles at 50c., is warranted superior to any other, or NO PAY, for the cure of Colic, Cuts, Bruises Old Sores, etc. Sold by all druggists. Depot 42 Murray street, New York.

"And the leaves of the tree were for the healing of the nations."—Rev. xxii, 2.

COCA BITTERS,

The Great South American Tonic.

The New Remedy made from the Leaves of the South American Coca Plant.

An excellent cordial prepared expressly for popular use, and presenting in an elegant form all the wonderful health giving properties of Erythroxylon Coca.

It is a Sovereign Remedy for Disorders of Digestion, Chills and Fever, Nervous Weakness, Sick Headache, Neuralgia, and either Nervous or Muscular Fatigue.

Convalescents from Fevers should use COCA BITTERS, as it gives IMMEDIATE STRENGTH and HASTENS RECOVERY.

For Sale by all Druggists.

SEND FOR CIRCULAR.

QUICHUA COCA COMPANY,

Manufacturing Chemists,

72 William St., New York.

8p

THE ORIGINAL Superintendent of Dr. BLY and LEWIS LOCKWOOD of New Orleans.

A. McDERMOTT,

has returned and established the business of manufacturing Dr Bly's patent

ARTIFICIAL

Arms and Legs,

and has purchased the sole right for the Southern States. Perfect satisfaction guaranteed in all cases or no pay. Prices greatly reduced.

A. McDERMOTT,

303 Camp Street, N. O.

MISCELLANEOUS.

YALE & BOWLING,

IMPORTERS AND WHOLESALE DEALERS IN

- DRY GOODS -

NOTIONS AND MILLINERY,

17, 19 and 21 - Magazine Street, - 17, 19 and 21

NEW ORLEANS, LA.

Mme. DEMOREST'S

GRAND OPENING

OF THE

SPRING STYLES,

183 CANAL STREET,

NEW ORLEANS, LA.

These Patterns are in various sizes, and put up in illustrated envelopes on which are printed full descriptions for making, trimming, quantity of material required, etc., and are so accurately marked that the most inexperienced person can put them together.

New Basques, Polonaises, Princess Dresses, Walking Skirts Trains, etc., for Ladies' and Children's Dresses, also Boy's Clothes, Gentlemen's Underwear, Infant's Patterns, etc., furnishing economy, practical utility, artistic accuracy and fashionable elegance.

Prices From 10c. to 30c.

Send for catalogue, with directions in English, French, German and Spanish, which is furnished free on application.

GRAND OPENING

SPRING STYLES,

OF

Mme. Demorest's Patterns.

Of the Latest Fashions.

NEW BASQUES, POLONAISES, PRINCESS DRESSES WALKING SKIRTS, FRAMES, ETC., FOR LADIES, MISSES AND CHILDREN'S DRESS.

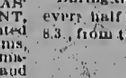
D. P. PERRY,

8p 183 Canal St reet.

ROGERS' POWDER CITRATE OF MAGNESIA

An Agreeable Aperient and Refrigerant.

This well-known preparation is highly recommended for DYSPEPSIA, HEADACHE, Sickness of the Stomach, Heartburn, and all complaints arising from Acidity, Bilious and Malarial Fevers. It cools the blood and regulates the bowels. It is a favorite medicine for children and its acidity and sweet taste makes it cooling and refreshing. Put up in 6-ounce bottles. Prepared by



A. ROGERS' SONS, Chemists, N. Y.

Superior to Mineral Waters, Seidlitz Powders, Etc.

For sale by all New Orleans druggists. 8p

REGULAR OPELOUSAS PACKET.

Leaves EVERY TUESDAY at 5 P. M.

For Washington, Opelousas, Port Barre, Simmsport, Chatchville and all landings on the Coast, Atchafalaya, Clover and Bayou Courtableau. The very light draft passenger steamer

YAZOO,

WM. CRAWFORD, Master. J. H. SCHMIT, Clerk. Will leave positively as above. For freight or passage apply on board or to

LOEB & MCFAKE, Agents, 46 Camp St.
GEO. D. HITE, Agent, 4 Tchoupitoulas St.

P. S. Connects closely with Boats for Bayou Des Glaize and Bargies for Bayou Boeuf.

1879. 1879.

EXCURSION ROUTE!

NORTH, EAST AND WEST,

ST. LOUIS & NEW ORLEANS

ANCHOR LINE,

The fine passenger steamers of this line will leave New Orleans on TUESDAYS, THURSDAYS and SATURDAYS, at 5 o'clock P. M., during the season, connecting at St. Louis with the principal railroads and Upper Mississippi river packets for all points North, East and West.

Passengers and baggage transferred from steamers to railroads FREE OF CHARGE.

Through and Excursion tickets for sale on board the boats and at the office of the company.

J. B. WOODS, General Agent.

No 104 Common Street.

"CHANGE OF SCHEDULE."

NEW ORLEANS, SPANISH FORT

AND LAKE RAILROAD.

MAY 24, 1879.

Until further notice the trains will leave the corner of Canal and Basin Streets as follows:

Sunday at 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 10.30, 11, 11.30, 12, 12.30, 1, 1.30, and every twenty minutes after. Last train from City 9.40, from the Lake at 10.30.

During the week at 6.30, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 1, 2, 3, and every half hour after. Last train from the city at 8.3, from the Lake, 9.30.

T. S. WILLIAMS, Superintendent.

"The Washington City Route."

BALTIMORE AND OHIO R. R.

THE SHORTEST, QUICKEST AND ONLY DIRECT ROUTE TO

Washington & Baltimore,

With direct connections for

Richmond, Lynchburg, Norfolk and the Southeast.

Philadelphia, New York, Boston

AND THE EAST.

PULLMAN PALACE CARS,

RUN THROUGH WITHOUT CHANGE

Between the Principal

WESTERN AND EASTERN CITIES.

For Through Tickets, Baggage Checks, Movement of Trains, Sleeping Car Accommodations, etc., apply at Ticket Offices at all Principal Points North, South, East or West.

E. R. DORSEY, Asst. Gen. Ticket Agt.
L. M. COLE, Gen. Ticket Agt.
THOS. P. BARRY, Western Pass. Agent.
THOS. R. SHARP, Master of Transp'n

DR. F. WILHOFT'S

ANTI-PERIODIC

OR

FEVER AND AGUE TONIC,

Is deservedly the most popular

CHILL AND FEVER TONIC,

Because it is simply a preparation of Peruvian Bark without Quinine or any other dangerous drug, such as Arsenic etc., and because during a great number of years it has proved itself to be a

SAFE AND PERFECT SPECIFIC

For the cure of

ALL MALARIAL DISEASES,

This remedy is guaranteed in every way by its proprietors.

WHEELOCK, FINLAY & CO.

HOW TO PAINT.

A new work by a Practical Painter, designed for the use of Tradesmen, Mechanics, Merchants, Farmers, and as a Guide to Professional Painters. Containing a plain common sense statement of the methods employed by painters to produce satisfactory results in plain and fancy painting of every description, including formulas for mixing paint in oil or water, tools required, etc. This is just the book needed by every person having anything to paint, and makes

Every Man His Own Painter.

Full directions for using white lead, lamp black, green, yellow, vermillion, brown, whiting, blue, pumice stone, asphaltum and spirits of turpentine, oils, varnishes, furniture varnish, milk paint, preparing kalsomine—

Paint for Out-Buildings,

—White wash, paste for paper-hanging, hanging paper, staining in oak, maple, rosewood, black walnut, staining, decalcomanie, making rustic pictures, painting flower stands, mahogany polish, rosewood polish, varnishing furniture, waxing furniture, cleaning paint—

Paint for Farming Tools,

and for machinery, and household fixtures,

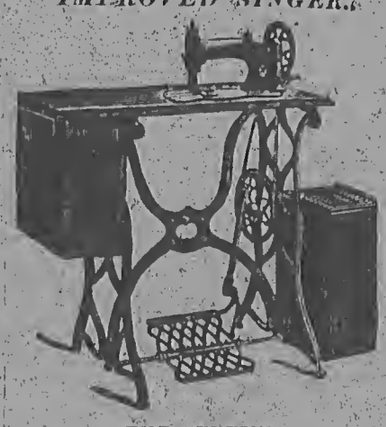
To Paint A Farm Wagon,

—to resemble a carriage, to make plaster casts. The work is neatly printed, with illustrations wherever they can serve to make the subject plain, and it will save many times its cost yearly. Every family should possess a copy.

Price by mail, post paid, $1.

Address

LATHROP & WILKINS,



112 Camp st., New Orleans.

BEWARE OF

Imitation Machines

Offered by second-hand dealers as

IMPROVED SINGER.

THE GENUINE

SINGER MACHINE,

—MADE BY THE—

Singer Manufacturing Co.

HAS NO EQUAL.

2,500,000 Singers in Daily Use.

Two-thirds of all the machines sold in the United States are those made by

The Singer Company,

Send for Circular and Price List. Address

The Singer Manufacturing Co.,

85 CANAL STREET,

Agent's for Butterick's Patterns.

WM. B. LHOTE. A. SAMUEL.

LHOTE & CO.,

OLD BASIN

SASH, BLIND,

DOOR FACTORY,

AND

Lumber Yard,

Offices, Cor. Toulouse & Franklin

and 32 Carondelet Sts.,

P. O. Box 936. NEW ORLEANS.

8p

W. C. SHEPARD & Co.,

49 CAMP STREET.

China Crockery Glass,

AND HOUSE FURNISHING EMPORIUM.

CHINA, SEMI-CHINA AND IRONSTONE DINNER SETS.

Viz: 12 Dinner, 12 Breakfast, 12 Tea, 12 Fruit, 12 Butter Plates, 12 Tea, 3 After-Dinner Cups and Saucers, 1 Soup Tureen, 1 Gravy Boat, 1 Dish with Tops, 2 Without, 4 Meat Dishes, 1 Salad Dish, 2 Pickle Shells.

Variety Novelties in House-Keeping.

TEA SETS all prices and quality.

GOBLETS, TUMBLERS, BOWLS, CAKE STANDS, BERRY SETS, CASTORS, KNIVES, FORKS, SPOONS, LADLES, WAITERS.

CHAMBER SETS White, Band, Fancy—all prices.

TIN CHAMBER SETS FOOT TUB, WATER CARRIERS and SLOP JAR, REFRIGERATORS, DIS. CHESTS, WATER COOLERS, CREAM FREEZERS, COAL OIL STOVES, LAMPS, CANS to contain 50 gallons of oil, BRUSHES, WOODWARE, TINWARE, PLATED WARE, FANCY VASES, MOTTO CUPS, MUGS, FLOWER GLASSES, CLOCKS, LOOKING GLASSES, CHANDELIERS.

DISCOVERY by which hair can be forced to grow on the smoothest heads. The papers all over the country contain notices of the remarkable virtues of Mrs. Hyatt's Hair Restorer, and there are scores of living witnesses in St. Louis who take pleasure in testifying to the efficacy of the Restorer. Mrs. Hyatt's principle is the most reasonable, because the proceeds on the well-based supposition that the Hair germ never dies while life exists in the person, and that it is only necessary to stimulate the germ to produce a satisfactory growth. Three bottles for $5; $1 to accompany the order and balance to be paid when medicine is delivered.

206 NORTH SIXTH ST., up stairs. St. Louis, Mo.

The Most Refreshing Toilet Article.

CASSEBEER'S

QUININE HAIR TONIC.

(EAU DE QUININE.)

WILL preserve, cultivate, beautify, arrest the fall of and confer a silken softness to the Hair, and will not soil the most delicate fabric. Price, $1.

Cassebeer's Ammonia Lozenges.

For mitigating coughs, colds, tickling in the throat, dry throat, etc., and facilitating expectoration. Price, 25 cents, sent by mail.

Both excellent preparations are for sale by all druggists, and by

The Christian Advocate.

PUBLISHED FOR THE ALABAMA, MISSISSIPPI AND LOUISIANA CONFERENCES, METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH SOUTH.

VOL. 25. NEW ORLEANS, THURSDAY, JUNE 12, 1879. NO. 24.

The Christian Advocate.

REV. LINUS PARKER, D. D., Editor.

G. T. LATHROP, Publisher.

OFFICE—112 CAMP ST., NEW ORLEANS.

Address all matters of business, G. T. LATHROP 112 Camp street, New Orleans.

Address all communications designed for publication REV. LINUS PARKER, 112 Camp street, New Orleans.

AGENTS—All the members of the Patronizing Conferences.

PUBLISHING COMMITTEES.

ALABAMA CONFERENCE.

REV. EDWARD WADSWORTH, D. D.
REV. FELIX R HILL.
REV. H. D. MOORE.

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

REV. W. H. WATKINS, D. D.
REV. JAMES A GODFREY.
REV. J. G. JONES.

LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.

REV. JOHN MATHEWS.
REV. LINUS PARKER, D. D.
REV. CHRISTIAN KEENER.

RATES OF SUBSCRIPTION.

The New Orleans Christian Advocate will be furnished to subscribers at the following rates, including postage:

One Year	$2 00
Six Months	1 15
Three Months	75

Will be sent from date to January 1, 1880, for $1.

To all Ministers of the Gospel and widows of deceased traveling preachers:

One Year	$1 00
Six Months	50
Three Months	25

THE DUMB SPINNER.

There lived a dumb spinner at Athelstane Lea,
A-spinning a magic web was she.

She spun and she twisted it strong and tight;
It was fair and delicate, smooth and white.

She built her a dwelling, arched and high;
Then the poor little spinner lay down to die.

The magic web was her winding-sheet.
It measured in length three fairy feet;

And the house she had built became her tomb.
She lay all alone in the twilight gloom;

But when morning had come and turned to noon,
Said the master: "Ah! 'tis a fine cocoon!"

Then they stripped from her body the robe so rare
To deck the form of a princess fair.

Now the silk sweeps over the palace floor,
And no one thinks of the spinner more.

—Kate Lawrence, in Wide Awake.

NEWS OF THE WEEK.

DOMESTIC.

ST. LOUIS, June 2.—A dispatch from Atchison, Kansas, says: The committee of surgeons and citizens sent to Irving, Kansas, Saturday, returned to-day. They report that twenty persons were killed and forty-eight severely wounded at or near Irving and Frankfort, fifteen killed and many wounded in the vicinity of Delphas, Ottawa county, and many casualities in other parts of the country traversed by the storm. Not less, therefore, than forty persons have been killed and seventy to eighty wounded, all the latter severely. The destruction of property is very great. Hundreds of houses have been demolished, and the crops in the path of the cyclone utterly destroyed.

The track of the tornado varied from three-fourths of a mile to one mile in width. Where it crossed Blue river it lifted every drop of water in its course, and passing over a well in Irving scooped it dry.

CHICAGO, June 3.—The average Democratic majority in this county in the judicial election yesterday is 8,223. Reports from the State are scattering, but indicate that where partisan nominations were made the Republicans generally elected their candidates by small majorities.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, June 4.—Ewing was nominated for Governor by the Democratic Convention to-day on the second ballot, and Rice for Lieutenant Governor.

NEW YORK, June 4.—James Orton Woodruff, projector of the Woodruff scientific expedition, died this morning of brain disease.

ST. LOUIS, June 4.—At the Brewer's National Convention the president's address stated that the sales of beer during the year ending June 30, 1878, were 9,473,361 barrels, and for the present year would reach 10,000 000 barrels. It argued at length, and from a scientific standpoint, the advantages of beer as a beverage and an article of nourishment.

WINCHESTER, Va., June 6.—The unveiling of two monuments erected to the memory of the Confederate dead, and decoration of the graves, took place here to-day. Gen. Joseph E Johnston was chief marshal, and the procession included military companies from Winchester, Martinsburg, Alexandria and Staunton, West Virginia, the Maryland section of the army and navy of the Confederate States, and the survivors of Capt. Murray's command of Maryland. The line of the procession carried two different banners of the Southern States, together with the national flag. The first of the monuments unveiled is of marble, forty-nine feet in height, surmounted by the statue of a Confederate soldier resting on his musket. It bears the inscription "Erected by the people of the South to eight hundred and twenty-nine unknown Confederate dead, in grateful remembrance of their heroic efforts, and their example of unstinted devotion to duty" also, "To the unknown and unrecorded dead; who they were none know; what they were all know." The other monument is a marble shaft, surmounted by an urn, erected by the ladies of Virginia, and bears the inscription: "In memory of the thirty-nine Virginia soldiers lying in this ground, who fell in defense of constitutional liberty and sovereignty of their States, from 1861 to 1865." The graves were decorated with flowers and evergreens and marked by flags of the Southern States. The Confederate flag was also displayed, but in the adjoining National Cemetery the national flag was flying.

SHREVEPORT, May 9.—A fire yesterday evening burned three dwelling houses on Fannin street. Loss, $5,000; insurance, $3,000.

FOREIGN.

CAPE TOWN, May 30.—The Zulu King, Cetewayo, on the sixteenth, dispatched an envoy to Col. Crealock, asking him to send a European to discuss terms of peace. John Dunn accordingly went to Cetewayo's kraal, but has already returned. Negotiations failed because the British refused any terms but unconditional surrender. Cetewayo's good faith is doubted.

CITY OF MEXICO, May 30.—The international exposition seems to be definitely abandoned.

LONDON, June 3.—A Rome dispatch to the Times, says: Mount Etna is ejecting enormous volumes of ashes. The destruction of property is immense. The commune of Majo has been obliterated, and Casello is threatened. The four main craters continue to pour forth lava.

The stream of lava which has interrupted the road at Pass Pesoaro, is half a mile wide and a hundred feet deep.

MESSINA, June 3.—The eruption of Mount Etna continues. A considerable portion of the bed of the Alcantara river is covered by lava. The damage to agriculture is already very serious. The inhabitants have been forced to abandon the village of Majo.

MADRID, June 3.—The Correspondencia says: The government will shortly submit to the cortes a bill for the abolition of slavery.

SIMLA, June 3.—Famine in Cashmere is very serious. Great distress prevails throughout the country. Many towns and villages have been depopulated. The authorities are sending assistance to the sufferers.

LONDON, June 4.—The Paris correspondent of the Times, says: M. DeLesseps will shortly issue a prospectus inviting subscriptions to the Panama canal project, and will go to the Isthmus himself in September. The United States delegates are disappointed at the rejection of the Nicaragua route.

LONDON, June 6.—The Times says: The steamer Faraday will leave for Milwall, on the lower Thames, on Monday next, and commence loading the new French Atlantic cable on Tuesday, and will sail in about a week after. The shore ends will be laid first; the Faraday will then return for the deep sea cable, which is being manufactured as rapidly as possible.

The route for this cable will be by way of Brest, Island of St. Pierre, off the south Coast of Newfoundland and Cape Cod. It is expected that the line will be open for business before autumn.

LONDON, June 6.—The Australian and European Bank of Melbourne, whose suspension was announced yesterday, was a joint stock company with a nominal capital of £600,000, of which £150,000 was paid up. The deposits are estimated at £500,000.

ROME, June 6.—The Chamber of Deputies has voted 500,000 lire for the relief of the sufferers by the eruption of Etna and the inundations of the River Po.

LONDON, June 7.—A dispatch to the Daily News, from Ostiglea, says: The whole course of Mencio, below Mantua, is lined with vast ingoons. The greatest damage is at Malara, fifteen miles below Mantua, where the Po has formed a lake thirty kilometers long and fifteen wide. The inhabitants of the flooded districts are encamped on the embankments. Thousands of acres of vines, rye and wheat have been ruined. The pecuniary loss far exceeds that by the great floods of the previous years.

ST. PETERSBURG, June 7.—The Supreme Tribunal, yesterday, declared Alexander Solovieff, guilty of belonging to a criminal association, the object of which is to overthrow the State.

After recapitulating the facts of his attempt on the life of the Czar, the judgment of the court sentences Solovieff to death by hanging after deprivation of civil rights.

ST. PETERSBURG, June 9.—Solovieff, who attempted to assassinate the Czar, was hanged this morning on Smolenski Field.

NEW IBERIA, June 9.—Judge Daniel Dudley Avery died at his residence, on Petite Anse Island, yesterday, in his seventieth year.

FIELD NOTES.

ALABAMA.

WHISTLER, ALA., May 30, 1879.

MR EDITOR: We had a three weeks' meeting in April, in which interest never flagged, and it has resulted so far in twelve or more conversions, and six added to the church. We expect "more to follow." The church has been much revived and encouraged. We licensed a young man to preach at our last Quarterly Conference, who was converted at the protracted meeting. The Good Templars are doing a good work here. They have initiated about twenty three new members at their two last meetings. No secular news of interest.

Yours truly,

C. L. CHILTON.

TUSCUMBIA, ALA., June 2, 1879.

MR EDITOR: We closed, ten days ago, a very interesting meeting at this place. The church was greatly revived and strengthened—eighteen converts. Since Conference eighteen have joined the church. Our new parsonage is on the church lot. It is convenient, comfortable and a credit to the noble, generous people who built it. Our District Conference convened May 23. Good attendance, and the most interesting session yet held in the bounds of this district. Bishop Paine, who was expected, did not reach us. Our presiding elder, Rev. R. A. Timmons, presided to the satisfaction of the entire Conference. Peace and prosperity throughout the bounds of the district.

Z. A. PARKER.

MOBILE, ALA., June 3, 1879.

DEAR DOCTOR: Franklin Street Church, Mobile, may be reported in a healthy condition, both as to its financial and spiritual interests. All claims on the church, to date, have been fully met. The building will soon be thoroughly repaired and improved. Average attendance in Sunday-school, for the present year, two hundred and sixty. Seven class-meetings held each week; well attended, and exerting fine influence. The congregations on Sunday, and at weekly prayer-meetings, good. Twenty-five have been added to the church for the first two quarters. We are praying and working and looking for a gracious revival.

Truly,

HENRY D. MOORE.

HUNTSVILLE, ALA., June 3, 1879.

I have completed my second round on this district. The preachers are all at their posts. The parsonage interest is growing. Some religious interest in several charges. Some twenty five or thirty members received the last quarter. Sunday-school interest improving. One charge has eleven Sunday-schools. The commencement exercises at Huntsville Female College is in progress. Pray for us.

M. L. WHITTEN.

BLADON SPRINGS, ALA., June 3, 1879.

Our second Quarterly Conference was held at Mount Zion. Rev. E. Wadsworth, D. D., our presiding elder, preached four sermons at Mount Zion, two at Isney and two at Bladon, making eight on this work. He looks after all the interests of the church, and will always have large congregations. The officers of the church are at work, and are looking for a prosperous year. The citizens of Bladon manifest much interest in our church and Sunday-school. Our Sunday-school enjoyed their picnic on last Friday; much interest was added by a service of song by the children, and a capital Sunday-school address by Bro. Wm Green, the active superintendant of Providence Sunday-school. Bro. Benj. Turner, superintendant, was in his happiest mood.

J. H JAMES, P. C.

LENTSVILLE CIRCUIT, ALA., June 3, 1879.

The Florence District Conference was held at Cherokee, May 28. Bishop Paine failed to attend from illness. From reports of the pastors the district is in an improving condition. Signs for good from all parts of the district. A man by the name of Baleo killed his wife last week. He is now in Athens jail. We have indications of a revival of religion on the Lentsville circuit.

R. W COONS.

OZARK, ALA., June 3, 1879.

The spiritual condition of the work is improving. Eight regular prayer meetings, some of which are well attended. Class meetings are being revived in some appointments. About thirty per cent. of our heads of families have family prayer. Sunday-schools full, and supplied with our literature. Second Quarterly Conference just over. Our presiding elder is sick, and unable to be with us. Had a good meeting, nevertheless. Have a strong board of official members, devoted to the church.

E. M. TURNER.

PRATTVILLE, ALA., June 3, 1879.

We have had a good meeting in Prattville; forty-five conversions; twenty-nine have joined the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, and others likely to follow; five have joined the Baptist, and some will join the Presbyterian, and, perhaps, the Episcopal Churches. We were compelled to close with over fifty penitents at the altar. There is a good influence reaching far and wide upon the community. We are indebted to Dr. Mitchell, Bros. Gillis, Rice and Rencher, for efficient help. Bros. Kirkpatrick, of the Presbyterian, and Tall, of the Baptist Church, united with us when present.

W. A. MCARTY.

NORTH PORT, ALA., June 3, 1879.

MR. EDITOR: My second quarterly meeting, held at Cripple Creek church, just closed; presided over by Bro. L. M. Wilson. He preached a noble sermon on Sunday, and the love of God was shed abroad. We had an excellent dinner on the ground. Seven suspensions, two accessions, one conversion, and general feeling manifested in the church. I hope this (North River) mission will soon be changed into a circuit, and it bids fair for the same.

C. S. D. LASSITER.

TALLADEGA, ALA., June 3, 1879.

Religion not very prosperous in this town; but a few of God's children are inquiring of the Lord, and earnestly praying for the outpouring of the Holy Ghost. What we need, what we must have, is a thorough revival of religion. Rev. A. West, presiding elder of Talladega district, resides here; and, though his wife is an invalid, and almost in a helpless condition, he is always at his post of duty, looking well to every interest of the church. The Talladega county Sunday-School Association met at Mumford on last Saturday and Sunday, a place ten miles above this. It was an occasion of interest. An immense congregation assembled on Sunday, at eleven o'clock, to hear the word preached.

Yours truly,

C. C. ELLIS.

STRINGVILLE, ALA., June 3, 1879.

Bro. Benjamin Williams, formerly a member of the church on Green circuit, Alabama Conference, and now of this (Ashville) circuit, who has been in a very precarious condition for several months, is now thought to be decidedly convalescent. For a great many years he has been one of the strongest pillars of the Methodist Church in west Alabama. He had a son who was a shining light in the Alabama Conference, but who has long since crossed the river.

J. B. GREGORY.

FORT PAYNE, ALA., June 5, 1879.

MR. EDITOR: Thinking that some information in reference to "Will's Valley" might be appreciated by brethren at a distance, I beg leave to say: We have seven appointments in the Valley Head circuit, but only three church houses of our own, three Methodist Sabbath-schools, and three union schools in the bounds of this work. All doing well. Two fine literary schools—one at Hacena Springs and one at Fort Payne. Spiritual condition not positively good, but negatively very good. Financial condition at low tide. Third Quarterly Conference held on the fourth instant. Rev. W. L. Clifton in the chair. We had a good time, but received no funds.

Respectfully,

M. K. CLEMENTS.

WARRENTON, ALA., June 6, 1879.

We have had no revivals yet. We have on our charge several fine Sunday-schools, all using our literature. We have some prayer-meetings, which are well attended. Our congregations are large and increasing; our District Conference will meet at Guntersville on the twenty-fifth of July; Rev. J. T. Morris will preach the opening sermon.

Yours in Christ,

J. W. WEST.

MISSISSIPPI.

HEIDON, MISS., May 29, 1879.

MR. EDITOR: Health of the country very good. Crops are looking well, but are very small for the time of year. Farmers are very much behind, though without cause, as the season has been very favorable, and, in fact, as good as could be desired. Religious matters not as firm as could be desired, yet indications of prosperity in this respect manifest in many ways, such as attendance on Divine services, Sunday-school interests, etc. Several protracted meetings set already.

Yours in Christ,

G. W. BROWN, Pastor.

WOODVILLE, MISS., May 29, 1879.

Wilkinson circuit is in the south west corner of the State of Mississippi. We preach twelve times a month—ten to whites and twice to colored. Congregations good. Some tokens of good. Methodists mostly have the field. Old Bethel Camp Ground is in Wilkinson circuit. A neat brick church, and a parsonage, good but somewhat out of repair, occupy the eighty acres belonging to the church—a church farm. Kansas emissaries supposed to have been in our midst. Kansas stock low. Crops average. Some parts begin to need rain. Camp meeting on Buffalo circuit in August.

THOMAS W. BROWN.

MCKINNEYVILLE, MISS., May 30, 1879.

MR EDITOR: We have just closed a most interesting and profitable meeting at this place, resulting in twenty-one accessions to the church, and a general building up of the Master's kingdom in our midst. Our much-beloved presiding elder was with us, and "abundant in labors," during the greater part of the week. Baptists, Presbyterians, Episcopalians and Methodists met, and communed together at the Lord's table on Sabbath. An impressive and most gratifying scene! On the closing night of our services some, who have not yet united with the church, publicly avouched their desire and purpose to live, henceforth, for Christ. The Lord be praised!

Yours,

T. C BRADFORD.

SATARTIA, YAZOO COUNTY, MISS., June 1, 1879.

DEAR BROTHER: We were placed, at the beginning of this year, in charge of Sunflower mission; are pleased with our work, and hope to be able to do much good for the advancement of Christ's kingdom. Congregations fine, and most excellent attention. Expect to have a two or three days' meeting soon. Will write you. Pray for us. Think we will be able to organize a church before long, and also be able to build a house of worship. Your paper is a most welcome visitor to our home.

Fraternally yours,

ROBERT S. GALE.

MOSS POINT, MISS., June 2, 1879.

MR. EDITOR: We have a new church at Zion, just completed; held our first service in it on the second Sabbath in May. It being our second quarterly meeting, the presiding elder was with us. The house is of very neat structure and well finished, except painting. We are having some very excellent meetings, and some accessions. Upon the whole, things are encouraging. The collections for the various church interests being attended to. The Mississippi Press Convention meets here on the fourth. The ADVOCATE is not forgotten.

Your brother,

G. F. THOMPSON, P. C.

RAYMOND, MISS., June 2, 1879.

Raymond ot. has three churches. Raymond Church is of long standing. Its venerable Sunday-school has long taught most of the children of the town and vicinity, and has done much good. Clinton Church is still older; with it are associated the names of Judge Johnson, Rev. O. L. Nash and Rev. T. Ford. Clinton is the seat of Mississippi College (Baptist)—High Church Baptists. Bolton Church is young and full of life. We have received eight members into the church at Bolton, on profession of faith, since Conference.

B. JONES.

JACKSON, MISS., June 2, 1879.

Our services on yesterday were peculiarly impressive. Six pupils, belonging to the Deaf and Dumb Institute, were received into the church. I read a portion of the general rules, baptized them according to our ritual, and received them into the church in due form. The principal of the Institute acted as my interpretor, the young ladies responding by signs. I do not know that I ever received so large a class into the church, who exhibited a more intelligent appreciation of the services. Two other Sunday-school scholars were received into the church.

But alas for us! Bro. R. D. Hardy, one of the truest men I ever knew, and one of our most useful stewards and members of the church, was taken from us. His end was peace.

W. H. WATKINS.

PELAHATCHIE, MISS., June 2 1879.

MR EDITOR: Our second Quarterly Conference for Prairie mission was held May 26, and we had a very excellent sermon by our beloved presiding elder, Bro. Leith. I preached my first sermon on this mission the third Sunday in January; found four organized churches, and one hundred and five members. We have since added eight members to our number; have good congregations; seemingly interested; think the prospect very good for a revival this summer; finances far ahead of our expectations; very near up to date; find the people very kind; think the prospect for a circuit very good; hope we will be able to do much good this year; crops very good; health good.

A. B. MILLER.

ENON, MISS., June 3, 1879.

The Enon circuit is about eighty miles long; parsonage at Enon, about fifteen miles from the center. We have nine churches—eleven appointments in all—five Sabbath-schools; good congregations on Sundays; small ones on week days. The spiritual condition thought to be improving; six accessions to date; family worship observed by quite a number, though neglected by the majority; circulation of religious literature limited. We are having plenty of rain, and prospects for good crops are encouraging.

L. CARLEY.

PONTOTOC, MISS., June 5 1879.

MR. EDITOR: The times of refreshing have come from the presence of the Lord. We have enjoyed quite a revival here. Between fifteen and twenty professed conversion. Eight additions to our church. Class-meetings have been revived in this charge. Oh, give us again that means of grace which helped our fathers to climb the holy hill of Zion! That means of grace which stimulated, edified and blessed the church of by-gone days. Some considerable excitement over the coming political campaign. When shall Christ reign? Fraternally,

D. C. BROWNE.

BROOKHAVEN, MISS., June 7, 1879.

There have been heavy rains during the last few days. The prospects for good crops are very fine. People are hopeful.

Our pastor, Bro. W. B. Lewis, baptized thirteen, and received into the church twenty persons, two weeks ago. He has a revival at Wesson. Bro. J. J. Clark is very low with consumption, but thinks he will recover. He is very happy all the time.

H. F. JOHNSON.

LOUISIANA.

CLINTON, LA., May 31, 1879.

MR EDITOR: The Lord is with us in saving power on East Feliciana circuit, Mississippi Conference. We have just closed a series of services at Olivo Brauch Church, commencing last Sunday, May 25, which resulted in fourteen conversions and three accessions. Among those converted was an old man sixty years of age. Thanks to Bro. R T. Davis for efficient services. We are expecting a glorious revival all round this circuit. To God be all the praise.

Your brother in Christ,

IRA B. ROBERTSON, P. C.

MAGNOLIA, LA., June 2, 1879.

On the third Sabbath, in April we dedicated a new house to the service of God, on the Plank Road, nine miles from the city of Baton Rouge, and protracted the services a few days. Result: a new organization; and, as still further results, on the fourth Sabbath in May received into full-fellowship eleven persons. Just in from Olive Branch, East Feliciana circuit, Bro. Robertson, P. C. Meeting continued five days, preaching only at night.

R. T. DAVIS.

COVINGTON, LA., June 2, 1879

DEAR BROTHER: I am getting on very well with my work. I have eleven appointments. We have five Sunday-schools in operation—not very prosperous yet. The greatest difficulty with which I meet on my work is to get our people to prove themselves to be the disciples of Christ in all that they say and in all that they do. I am doing what I can toward getting everybody to take the CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE.

Yours fraternally,

ISAAC L. PEEBLES.

TEXAS.

WACO, TEXAS, May 26, 1879.

MR. EDITOR: On my arrival here I found the people greatly excited over the railroad question. They want a narrow gauge from Texarkana to this city, and say they will have it. Would that New Orleans would exercise such determination when her interest is at stake.

Stayed in Galveston two days. Business rather dull, though not so much as in New Orleans. Rev. Mr. Hall (Campbellite) is delivering a course of lectures on "The Christian Religion" in Artillery Hall.

Yours truly,

S. FDANK.

NAVASOTA AND MILLICAN CT., TEXAS, May 31, 1879.

MR EDITOR: At our second Quarterly Conference it was agreed to inclose the grave of Dr. Martin Ruter with an iron railing. Money in hand for the purpose. We are having a spiritual dearth. Hope that spirituality may increase. Some accessions by certificate—about twelve. The second drought for this year is about closing. Light showers yesterday and to-day, indicative of a wet season. Crop prospects good. Health remarkably fine throughout the country.

THOMAS PRICE.

PARIS, TEXAS, June 4, 1879.

DEAR DOCTOR: Crop prospects good; beginning to need rain; health good; church matters moving on harmoniously; need more missionary zeal and revival power; church schools doing well; considering the embarrassment of our "free school" system. Two cases of suicide (young men) in our community recently; cause, whisky and its concomitants. I admire your use of pen and scissors.

JOHN H. M'LEAN.

Our French Mission.

DEAR MR. EDITOR: Would you please allow me, as the French missionary, to make an appeal through your columns? But before stating the nature of my appeal, it is but right to give an explanation. As is well known, I have been for the last five months at work among the Creoles in and around New Iberia, La. Everywhere large crowds have gathered to see the novel sight of a French preacher, and to hear what he had to say. In our churches, on the wayside, in groves, in ball-rooms and private dwelling-houses, have I had golden opportunities to sow the seed, and announce Christ, the crucified Saviour. And although, as was to be expected, some opposition had to be met with, still it has not hindered the people turning out to hear the word expounded.

Some three weeks ago I had the pleasure of seeing some result accomplished. Having visited and preached at Cypremort, one Monday evening, I was invited by an old French Creole, a converted Methodist of forty years' standing, to preach to his people, who were all Roman Catholics. I promised, and the next Thursday rode to Isle aux Cannes, where the appointment had been given out. The house was too small to contain the crowd, so we went into an adjoining grove. After having baptized an infant, I preached on the healing of the leper. I explained to them the nature of sin, and pointed out Jesus, the Son of the Holy Virgin Mary, as their only refuge. I never talk of errors, but simply preach justification by faith, as found in their own "paroissien." After service, and before the assembled people, I invited all who wished to flee from the wrath to come and serve Jesus, as the Methodists do, to come forward, and I would receive them as brethren. Six men and five women came forward and testified that they would live to God from henceforth. Last Sunday I visited them again, and, although it rained, still we had people who had rode twenty-five miles to the preaching. That morning I commenced a Sabbath-school, and taught the children our good old Methodist hymns, as we sing them in France and the Channel Islands. At two P. M. I preached again, upon: "What shall it profit a man," etc. The attention and seriousness was great, and upon inviting those who wished to join the church to come forward five more came, with tears running down their cheek, to take my hand. God is, indeed, very gracious, and we are expecting greater results still.

Now, my appeal is this: We need tracts for these persons, we want Bibles and Testaments. Already the parcel sent by Bro. Ivy has been distributed, and we stand in need of more. Will anybody help? The Tract Society agent writes me that he will let me have tracts at one-third the cost. Five or ten dollars would get us a good supply for the next six months. I dare not ask help from the Opelousas district. It has already done a deal. So now I, your French missionary, claim the help of the other districts in this matter. Without tracts and Bibles I am as a workman without tools. Hoping that God may open the heart of some good brother, I am

Yours truly,

W. J. PICOT.

NEW IBERIA, LA., June 3, 1879.

The Christian Advocate.

THURSDAY, JUNE 12, 1879.

THE KINGDOM WITHIN.

BY REV. GEORGE MACDONALD.

I fancy I hear a whisper,
As of leaves in a gentle air;
Is it wrong, I wonder, to fancy
It may be the tree up there—
The tree that heals the nations,
Growing amidst the street,
And dropping, for who will gather,
Its apples at their feet?

I fancy I hear a rushing,
As of waters down a slope;
Is it wrong, I wonder, to fancy,
It may be the river of hope—
The river of crystal waters
That flows from the very throne,
And runs through the street of the city
With a softly jubilant tone?

I fancy a twilight round me,
And a wandering of the breeze,
With a hush in that high city,
And a going in the trees;
But I know there will be no night there,
No coming and going day,
For the holy face of the Father
Will be perfect light away.

I could do without the darkness,
And better without the sun;
But O, I should like a twilight
After the day was done!
Would He lay His hand on His forehead,
On His hair as white as wool,
And shine one hour through His fingers,
Till the shadow has made me cool?

But the thought is very foolish;
If that Face I did but see
All else would be all forgotten—
River, and twilight and tree;
I should seek, I should care; for nothing,
Beholding it is countenance,
And fear to lose one glimmer
By a single sideway glance.

'Tis again but a foolish fancy
To picture the countenance so,
Which is shining in all our spirits,
Making them white as snow.
Come to me, shine in me, Master,
And I care not for river or tree;
Care for no sorrow or crying,
If only Thou shine in me.

I would lie in my bed for ages,
Looking out on the dusty street—
No whisper, no leaves, nor waters,
Nor anything cool and sweet—
At my heart this ghastly fainting,
And this burning in my blood—
If only I knew Thou wast with me,
Wast with me, and making me good.

The Lifted Hand.

We are told in the seventeenth chapter of Exodus that Amelek came down and warred with Israel. Some regard the Amelekites as the descendants of Esau. If they were, the old enmity between Jacob and Esau here reappears in their posterity after the flight of centuries.

Whether they derived their origin from Esau or not, they were a godless people, and as they saw the approach of the Lord's hosts, led by the wonderful cloud and pillar—the cloud looming up over the horizon, and daily drawing nearer—the flush of the pillar falling upon and over their boundaries, as the tread of the advancing columns sounded plainer—they became alarmed.

The Israelites were God's host—they had the truth—God was with them; so the Amelekites marked their approach with fear and displeasure. They were alarmed for their lives, property, customs and idols—hence they came down and warred with Israel.

As soon as they commenced the warfare Moses made his arrangements. He did not meet the foe with a mob, but with an organized army. He gives the leadership to men qualified for it, takes every precaution, and in these prudential measures glorifies God, who would have us use mind and body, wisdom and strength, to their full capacity. But Moses, while he did this, knew this was not all—nay, that the mightiest, most important thing, was yet to be done. He went to prayer. The Scripture says: "Moses, Aaron and Hur went up to the top of the hill, and it came to pass when Moses held up his hand that Israel prevailed, and when he let down his hand Amelek prevailed."

Amelek is a type of the world, Israel of the church. The church has the truth. The ark, and covenant, and testimony, is with it. More than all, God is with it. In its advances upon sin the world becomes alarmed—alarmed for its sinful existence, its customs and idols—and so straightway joins battle, opposing to its further progress an obstinate resistance.

The part for the minister of Christ is plain. Like Moses, he must use all prudential measures, must organize the church for defense, and, more than that, for victory. All that may be done by precaution, direction and example, must be done. Yet, after all that, the more excellent way remains. There are spiritual heights upon which he must stand, for the minister should be spiritually above his people, and there upon these heights must the hand be lifted—lifted in a mighty spirit of prayer.

Without this nothing will be done. It will come to pass that if the hand be not lifted the world will prevail; for if the pastor would see the church prevail he himself must prevail with God through the lifted hand.

And it must be kept lifted. Not a fitful, but a continuous spirit of prayer is demanded. Hence, just as he keeps the hand raised, God's cause prospers; as he lowers the hand, the world advances. The church with a prayerless pastor cannot prevail; they may be struggling faithfully, but to succeed the minister must be above them with raised hands.

In the attitude of Moses I see prayer; in the height upon which he stood I see holiness symbolized. In these the minister must be remarkable. Now let there be a descent from this height, a lowering of the hands, and the world triumphs in and over the church, the old scene is re-enacted, Amelek prevails against Israel.

The scene of that day is plainly pictured upon the mind; there on the plain Israel, the people of God, struggle with the idolatrous host of Amelek; victory, like a tide, sweeps backward and forward; now the shout goes up from this side, now from that. Who will prevail? It is a fearfully grand spectacle. But a grander spectacle than that is beheld—grander in the sight of God, and angels, and holy men—far above that struggling host, upon the mount, and limned against the sky appears the motionless form of Moses with the hand lifted!

A scene not altogether unlike this was remarked during the late civil war. While Southern and Northern armies were rushing together in deadly strife there was one figure seen now here, now there, and again sweeping along the front of the battle, but whenever and wherever seen the right hand was lifted—it was the figure of Stonewall Jackson. We remember how he prevailed in battle. It was, I firmly believe, because of the lifted hand. Take it anywhere, the lifted hand always prevails.

The Israel of God is still struggling with an Amelek of worldliness that would sweep truth and its upholders from the earth, but, thank God, for the successors of Moses—ministers of Jesus Christ who stand up here and there on mountain heights of holiness with the hand raised.

Blessed be God for them! They are the salt of the earth, they stand between the church and ruin. We find them in all denominations, and scattered through the ages, and always far above the mass of men, with the hand ever lifted.

It is a picture I would never forget—its importance cannot be overrated; for I feel at the judgment it will appear that the men who blessed the world, making it better, and bringing it nearer to God, who stamped their characters upon the generations, were not statesmen, nor generals, nor philosophers, but those who here and there, through the ages, kept the hand lifted!

D. C.

Some of St. Helena's Blessed Dead.

MR. EDITOR: On last Saturday evening I visited the Clinton and Pipkin burying-place, to spend a few moments in sweet and prayerful meditation. As I approached the hallowed spot my soul was filled with praise to God for the power of His grace in the salvation of such men as B. Pipkin, Thomas Clinton, and the eloquent and gifted George H. Clinton. When I entered the sacred enclosure the first grave was that of our beloved and venerable Bro. Pipkin, a man honored and loved for nearly sixty years as a member of the Mississippi Conference.

There is something in the life and character of the good and holy that the mind delights to contemplate. Their lives, adorned and beautified by the love of Jesus Christ, will ever live in the hearts and affections of their surviving fellow-beings.

I thank God that it was my good fortune ever to know such a man as dear Father Pipkin. I shall always reverence his precious name. My intercourse with him has made an impression upon my mind that the finger of Time can scarcely obliterate. I can never forget the day when I first met this holy man of God, and heard the words of precious counsel which fell from his lips.

His influence will be felt in this country for a generation to come. As I stood over his grave, and saw the bouquet of fresh flowers placed there by the hand of his affectionate and loving daughter, I could not but shed tears, not of grief, but of joy, for his holy memory, and his sanctified soul in the kingdom of glory.

The whole life of this dear father in Israel was indeed beautiful, but his grandest moments were his dying moments. He was perfectly rational to the very last, talking to his loved ones about heaven, and his reunion with loved ones in the glory-land.

We came next to the tomb of Thomas Clinton, of precious memory, another of God's chosen ones, whose name is still an affectionate household word throughout this whole section of country. It is a rare occurrence to find in the same neighborhood two such men as Pipkin and Clinton, and in the same graveyard two such graves. Oh! it seemed to me that I could almost hear the sound of angels' wings and the music of the skies. I have often thought since I have been preaching in this parish that if I should be called to my reward while here I would like to be buried in that sacred enclosure. It certainly will be a glorious resurrection from that place with these dozen saints to rise to meet the Saviour and His holy angels.

We came next to the grave of the eloquent, the sweet-spirited and gifted George H. Clinton. A beautiful monument marks the spot where he slumbers. I found the following appropriate inscription on his monument:

"Rev. George H. Clinton—'A Man of God—Amiable by nature—By grace perfect.' As a preacher, eloquent, successful, beloved. As a friend, peerlessly unselfish. As a husband and father, he was all that those relations demand."

Oh! what a glorious spot is the resting-place of the saints of God. Over it are spread the shadows of the cross of our blessed Saviour. There is a bright halo of glory shining from the eternal throne into the tombs of all God's saints.

It is an honor to St. Helena parish that such men as Thomas Clinton, Barnabas Pipkin and George H. Clinton found a burial-place in its soil.

J. S. PARKER.

GREENSBURG, LA., April 24, 1879.

"Apportionment of Claims."

If the allowance the Boards of Stewards make for the support of their preachers is a correct basis of distribution of all claims on the church, there is no necessity for a district stewards meeting, except for the sole purpose of estimating the amount necessary for the support of the presiding elder. The apportionment of this amount, and the distribution of all other claims, can be done by the presiding elder, or by any one at all acquainted with arithmetical rules.

If the amounts actually collected on a pastoral charge the previous year for the support of the ministry and other claims combined be considered as the ability of that charge, and he made the basis of distribution of all claims, there could be no ground for complaint of unfairness in the apportionment made by district stewards.

But to make the allowance the Boards of Stewards make for the support of their preachers, the basis of distribution of claims is unfair, because these amounts are no test of ability. The stewards on some charges estimate for the support of their preachers amounts far below the ability of the charges respectively (though quite sufficient for the support of the preachers,) while on many charges the stewards estimate as necessary for the support of their preachers amounts considerably in excess of the ability of the charges respectively (though not too much for the respectable maintenance of the preachers.)

Said a steward not long ago: "We may not hope to raise the amount estimated as necessary for our preacher, but we must estimate what we think is necessary," like the man who willed property to his children, and when reminded that he did not own so much property replied: "It is my will for my children to have the property, whether I have it to give to them or not."

Some charges can pay their preachers, and then pay very handsomely for other claims, while other charges can barely pay a meager allowance to their preachers, and, as a matter of course, cannot be expected to pay in proportion to other claims, because their financial strength is exhausted in the support of their preachers. It may be some charges ought to pay for Conference claimants at least as much as they pay their preachers, and to other claims in proportion, or at least until the limit of ability is reached.

W. HARGRAVE MORRIS.

ST. STEPHENS, ALA., May 7, '79.

From the Work.

WAYNESBORO, MISSISSIPPI.

MR. EDITOR: We propose holding a camp meeting on the Waynesboro work, and immediately on the Mobile and Ohio railroad, at Smith's Mill, four miles north of State Line, commencing on Thursday evening before the first Sunday in August, and continuing at least eight days. The location selected is a most desirable one, on account of accessability, convenience and healthy locality.

It being immediately on the railroad, the cars will stop and deliver persons, baggage, etc., on the camp grounds. It is a fine situation for a camp meeting, high and dry grounds, a beautiful creek of cool, clear water running by. There are five or six mineral springs near the grounds, of almost every variety of mineral water. Mr. E. H. Smith has any quantity of good lumber for building tents, within two to three hundred yards of the ground, which can be bought at very low rates. The ground for tents is free to every one desiring to tent, and will remain free as long as camp meetings are held there. Tenters can select their own location, and have room sufficient for convenience.

This place is about midway between Mobile and Meridian, in a beautiful and healthy piney woods country. Those who wish to spend a week or ten days of healthful recreation, and enjoy the pleasure and benefits of a camp meeting, can do so at less expense and greater convenience here than at most camp meetings. The plan of the meeting being self-sustaining, there will be preparations made, in the way of restaurants, for taking care of those who do not come prepared to take care of themselves, on reasonable terms. The Mobile and Ohio railroad will issue excursion or round-trip tickets at usual reduced rates from all stations on the road to the camp ground. Tenters from every direction, and especially from towns and villages along the Mobile and Ohio railroad, and country adjacent thereto, are invited. All our ministerial brethren are cordially invited to be with us. To be known as the Mongers Creek Camp Ground.

Very truly your brethren,

W. B. HINES, P. C.,
JESSE BYRD,
For Committee.

MAY 28, 1879.

BOGUECHITTO MISSION.

MR. EDITOR: When this mission was committed to my charge there were four organized churches in its bounds, but one of them was returned to its former connection with the Summit circuit. We have added three more preaching places, organized three Sunday-schools, two of which, at Bethel and Ebenezer, are very promising. The congregations are increasing, and very attentive to the word of God. We are having some interesting meetings; administered baptism and the Lord's Supper. A few days since we had class meeting—a happy time. Next day four persons joined. There were mourners at the altar, tears of penitents, tears of joy and shoutings of Christians. We were anxious to protract the services, but the press of labor and condition of the country forbid calling of the people from their labor. On the whole, the outlook is favorable in many places, except the finances; but when the crops mature we expect to get something for the several claims. The stewards allowed for pastor's support $200, and for support of the presiding elder $40, of which claim has been paid to date $38 40. But this has been a mission for many years. It should have been self-supporting years ago. Hope that ere long it will be so, and send the gospel abroad also. So mote it be.

J. NICHOLSON, Missionary.

MAY 28, 1879.

BRANDON DISTRICT, MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

MR. EDITOR: Have just closed second round of quarterly meetings, and report Brandon district, in many respects, in good condition. The church has been, and is, singularly free from disturbances. As the spring advances, much earnest work is being done, from which we look for happy results. Even now sound, unmistakable conversions, and numerous accessions to the church, are being reported by pastors. Sunday-school work, pastoral visitations, the social meetings of the church, and, in some places, the public collections for missions, are receiving more than their usual amount of attention. We have five camp grounds, where we expect to have as many grand feasts.

The only thing in the "horoscope" to excite apprehensions is the indication of a warm political canvass for the summer and fall. Strong excitement in this direction will certainly militate against the best interests of the church.

At the request of the brethren in the county, our District Conference has been postponed until late in August, at which time we hope to have you with us. The ADVOCATE, never forgotten, will receive its full share of attention during our third round.

WILL. H. LAIRD.

FOREST, MISS., May 28, 1879.

Mrs. Julia M. Olin, the widow of the late Stephen Olin, D. D., second president of Wesleyan University, says the New York Christian Advocate of May 8, died suddenly of pneumonia, at her residence in this city, on Friday last. Mrs. Olin was not only greatly beloved for the sake of her noble husband, but also for her own sake. Her literary contributions have adorned the pages of every periodical of the church, from the Quarterly Review downward. Young readers have been especially indebted to her. She has been prominently identified with every good work of the church, especially with the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society, which will deeply mourn its loss.

Obituaries.

Correspondents, please write names and dates very distinctly. We follow copy on proper names.

Obituary notices should be forwarded promptly and immediately. Give only points of general interest, such as will help the living. Details of funeral services, and such phrases as 'mourn their loss," etc., are not edifying. Verses, either original or select, not admissible in this department. Give the locality distinctly and in full. In the case of infants only a simple announcement of the death, with names and dates, will be published.

☞ All obituaries received are published as soon as convenient. If, after a reasonable time, any such communication fail to appear, let a duplicate be sent instead of a complaint.

MRS. MARY WILSON, wife of Capt. John H. Wilson, was born in Putnam county, Ga., January 10, 1791; moved to Clarke county, Ala., in 1810; after living there about eight years she moved to Mississippi. She joined the Methodist Episcopal Church at Crystal Springs, under the ministry of Rev. Thos. Owen, in 1824, and was ever a faithful Christian up the day of her death, which occurred at the residence of her son, Milton A. Wilson, near Vaiden, Carrol county, Miss., July 13, 1876.

Sister Wilson was eighty-seven years, five months and three days old when she died. For over fifty-two years of that time she was a devoted Christian. Sister Wilson was never very demonstrative in her religious enjoyments, but always seemed to enjoy a great degree of God's love.

Her daily walk was upright; ever demonstrating to the world the reality of the Christian religion; and ever ready to give a reason for the hope formed within her. She was a devoted Christian wife, affectionate and loving mother, a kind and generous neighbor, and all loved her that knew her. She was very much devoted to her bible, and during her last few years her daily talk was religion. She loved to hear of the prosperity of the cause of God, and, in fact, everything that related to the interest of the Gospel of Christ. Her last hours were full of comfort, and she died as she had lived. Her end was triumphant; surrounded by a number of grandchildren who loved her devotedly, she bid them adieu, and from earth-born woe and cares took her flight to the far-off home of the blessed, leaving many good works and pious examples to follow her in the gracious rewards. Just as she was breathing her last she asked that her funeral be preached from the fourteenth chapter and thirteenth verse of Revelation, thereby testifying in her last moment, the blessedness of them that sleep in Jesus. K. A. JONES.

WHEREAS, An all-wise dispensation of Divine Providence, has visited our beloved Order and removed from our midst a worthy brother, J. J. VANCE, true and tried, teaching us the mournful yet impressive fact that we all do fade as a leaf; and

WHEREAS A light that once glistened in the Masonic constellation, shedding joyous sunshine on every one within the reach of its penetrating rays, has been withdrawn to mingle with its purer source, and sweeter fields and fairer flowers, in that beautiful city that is lighted up by the glory of God and His blessed Son; and

WHEREAS, A cloud now hangs over the household of our departed brother, the community in which he lived, the church he loved so well and the lodge of which he was an exemplary member; therefore be it

Resolved, By New Ireland Lodge No. 253, Free and Accepted Masons, that in the death of our much beloved brother James J. Vance, of Newton county, Mississippi, Masonry has sustained the loss of a bright and blameless member. Christianity one in whose life all its glorious and savory doctrines were beautifully exemplified; the community one who, like his Master, went about doing good.

Resolved, That we deeply sympathize with his bereaved and grief stricken wife and fatherless children, and that we extend to them the profoundest sympathy and condolence that can emanate from the hearts of a band of brothers who knew him but to love him, and that we devoutly commend them to Him who bottles the widow's tears and hears the orphan's plaintive wail.

Resolved That our lodge be draped in mourning for three months, and that we wear the usual badge of mourning for thirty days.

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be spread on the minutes of our lodge, a copy be furnished the bereaved family and a copy be sent to the NEW ORLEANS CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE for publication. J. E. SUNTYS, for Committee.

LAURA M. KENALY, daughter of B. S. and M. A. E. Barr, was born August 12, 1856, at Lower Peach Tree, Wilcox county, Ala., and died near her birth-place. She was married to T. N. Kenaly, December 1876. She joined the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, August, 1876, of which she lived a consistent member until the time of her death. She possessed a very amiable disposition, which won for her the love and friendship of all who knew her. In her was found a happy combination of those Christian elements which constitute a child of God; she adorned in a beautiful manner her Christian profession; she was earnest and fervent in her devotions and consistent in her life; she embraced with gratitude all the means in her self of a growth in grace; she loved to talk about religion. As a child she was loving and obedient; as a sister she was kind; as a parent she was devoted, and as a companion true in all the obligations of married life. She was an obliging neighbor, she was patient in her afflictions. Her last illness was very severe; she seemed to be perfectly conscious of everything until about five minutes before her death. She called her family to her bed-side and bid them farewell and told them to live right soonly. Her brother, seeing that she was near her end, asked her if she was ready to die. Her answer was that she was ready and willing to go.

She has left a kind husband and a sweet little babe, four brothers, three sisters, and a mother to mourn her loss. It was not the privilege of the writer to be with her in her illness, but I have known her from infancy until a few years before her death. A BROTHER.

EMILY EVELYN COLLINS was born in St. Helena parish, La., November 24, 1858, and departed this life December 21, 1878. She was married to Mr. Broomfield November 24, 1874. She joined the Methodist Church in the summer of 1872.

The writer never knew the subject of this memoir intimately, but what we have heard of her character and life, she was very quiet and gentle in all her manners. Ever since her marriage she has remained very closely at home, looking to the interest of her household. There cannot, however, be any doubt as to her sincerity as a member of the Church of God. She was a woman of strong friendship and of a loving and tender heart. She was much beloved by those who knew her best and the most intimately.

A short time before her death she expressed a willingness to die. She leaves behind her in this world, to mourn their loss, a loving mother, brothers, her husband and several dear, bright little children. O! may the great Head of the Church watch over and take care of her dear little ones that are left in this world of sin, and bring them at last to everlasting life.

Sister Broomfield was taken out of this life at a very early age, just in the midst of a glorious womanhood. She was a kind wife and an affectionate mother. J. E. C. PARKER, P. C.

MRS MAGGIE R. ARCHER, wife of W. H. Archer, and daughter of Rev. O. I. Nash, died in Clinton, Miss., April 28, 1879.

Mrs. Archer was cut off in the prime of life. While yet growing and in vigorous health, with the promise of a long, pleasant and useful life, she was taken with gastritis, and after a painful and distressing illness of seven weeks, passed quietly to another life.

The daughter of an eminent and devoted minister of the gospel, she was led to a life of piety in her childhood, and from the way of religion she never turned aside. Amiable in temper, genile in disposition of cultivated manners and generous feelings, she made many friends and no enemies. Her's was a well rounded and lovely character, highly endowed naturally; "she wore religious graces and they gave her heavenly beauty."

Patient through all her sickness, pain and suffering ceased for some days before her death, and her tried spirit had time to plume its wings for its heavenward flight "through death's iron gates," and when the morning comes "then shall the righteous shine forth as the sun in the kingdom of their Father." R. J.

WILLIAM GEORGE CHAPMAN died at his residence in the city of New Orleans, April 1, 1879, aged sixty five years and eleven months. Born in Deptford, England, it was here in this city that the life work of Brother Chapman was done. For thirty-six years he was a member of the Church of Christ; nineteen of these years he was connected with the Moreau Street charge, filling the responsible positions of class leader and steward.

It is impossible for us to measure a life like Bro. Chapman's by the years into which it was crowded. Such lives can only be estimated by their more results, and these results are as wide and far reaching as eternity itself. Such a life could have but one close. A bright day his life had been, his death was a glorious sun-set.

His last words lit up like tapers from heaven the gloom of the grave. It was my privilege to minister to him during the last weeks of his illness. Those weeks were a triumphal march. When asked a short while before his death if all was well, his answer came back like a voice from the other world, "All is well." "The shining ones had met him" and he was with his God.

Bro. Chapman leaves an interesting and bereaved family to possess the blessed inheritance of his pious memory. J. H.

MISS LENA DUNHAM died in Pearlington, Mississippi, July 3rd, 1878, in the fifteenth year of her age. She was a member of the Methodist Church and a Sunday-school scholar. Her death was indeed a most remarkable one—a Christian triumph. As she was passing away she appeared to halt for a time on the dividing line between the present and future worlds, conscious of things before and behind her. She was a timid and retiring in character, but when dying she displayed the most remarkable Christian courage. She talked to her loved ones so sweetly of her home in heaven, of Jesus and the angels, told her parents if they could see and know things as she did, they would not want her to stay. Her exhortations, prayers and songs astonished and enraptured all that stood around her dying bed. She composed a song and sang it, with the chorus, "Oh come angel band," and like the noble Scot of Scotland, when called to die, goes back to native lake or pond, and folds her head beneath her snowy wings and sings her own death song, so Lena Dunham, after her parting charge to her loved ones, folded her hands upon her breast and sang herself down into death. Only come angel bands. She was dead. A. B. NICHOLSON.

Her Pastor.

REV. JOSEPH GRAHAM, was born in Fairfield District, South Carolina, October 6, 1792. In 1836 he emigrated to Alabama and settled in Greene county, afterward to Sumpter county. Where he remained until his death, February 9, 1879. At about the age of twenty one years he was happily converted to God and joined the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, in which he lived a consistent and devoted member until his death. His religious life was characterized by zeal and fidelity to God. For many years he was an earnest and faithful preacher in the local ranks. He was very scrupulous in the discharge of his religious duties, always observing Friday as a day of fasting, humiliation and prayer, and never omitting family worship when able to attend to it. As a neighbor he was kind, generous and accommodating, a man whose piety was ever respected and whose counsel was always sought and appreciated. His last illness was protracted and severe, in all of which he was patient and resigned, realizing the blessedness of that faith which had been his comfort through a long life. He died in great peace, leaving to his family a rich legacy of piety and faith. May they follow his steps.

J. M. PATTON.

DR. J. G. MOORE, son of Margaret and Cornelius Moore, was born at Dixon's Mills, Marengo county, Alabama, September 18, 1845, and died at Whitesville, Falls county, Tex., March 9, 1879, after ten days' sickness. Dr. J. G. Moore graduated March 9, 1864, at the Medical College of Richmond Virginia, entered the hospital as assistant surgeon and made many friends by his kind and faithful treatment of the sick and wounded soldiers. After the surrender he came home to see his relatives in Alabama. After a few short weeks he went from there to Texas, where his integrity, honesty, uprightness and geniality of spirit won for him many friends. It may be truly said that suffering humanity never went to him for aid and went away without consolation if it was in his power to give. The subject of this sketch was raised by a pious mother; though he never joined the church he prayed as he lay upon his bed of suffering for the last few days, and said that he felt the Lord had forgiven his sins. He admonished his friends to prepare for death, and not to grieve for him; that he was resigned to die if the Lord willed it. Dr. J. G. Moore was an obedient son, affectionate brother and a kind friend. He leaves many friends to regret his loss; though with the blessed hope that he has gone to rest. C. W. MOSES.

MRS. ANNA ANDERSON, wife of Thomas Anderson, and daughter of James and Sarah Allen; was born in Abbeville District, South Carolina, November 23, 1822; married to Thomas Anderson, in Gainsville, Ala., November 20, 1839, and died, in peaceful triumph in Dallas county, Ark., April 3, 1879.

Sister Anderson was converted at Liberty Camp Ground, in Upson county, Ga., in 1847, and has never doubted her conversion. Trained by religious parents, she could not remember when she did not present herself in prayer daily at the throne of grace. She was a regular Bible reader and had read it through many times, regularly in order.

Mr. Wesley's sermons and her bible were her Sabbath reading. She meditated on the law of the Lord day and night, and it was her delight. I was her pastor several years and know of her amiable Christian life, her noble Christian hospitality and her Christ-like zeal in laboring for the happiness of others. Her last prayer was, "Lord Jesus receive my spirit." ROBERT PARVIN.

MRS. SUSAN A. MCKEE was born February 27, 1840, and was married to P. A. Featherwood, January 17, 1861. After sustaining the loss of her first husband in 1869, she again married to John McKee, September 26, 1870, and died September 12, 1878. Sister McKee was a pious, hospitable and kind woman. She joined the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, in May, 1867, in which she lived and kept the faith until she died, leaving this world in peace and triumph, doubtless she is now enjoying her inestimable reward in the home of the blessed. A. C. HINDLEY.

Pine Apple, Ala.

Oh, let Thy sacred will
All Thy delight in me fulfill!
Let me not think an action mine own way
But as thy love shall sway,
Resigning up the rudder to Thy skill!

The Christian Advocate.

THURSDAY, JUNE 12, 1879.

LEFT ALONE AT EIGHTY.

What did you say, dear? breakfast?
Somehow I've slept too late;
You are very kind dear Effie;
Go tell them not so wall.
I'll dress as quick as ever I can,
My old hands tremble sore,
And Polly, who used to help, dear heart!
Lies t' other side o' the door.

Put up the old pipe, deary,
I couldn't smoke to-day;
I'm sort o' dazed and frightened,
And don't know what to say.
It's lonesome in the house, here,
And lonesome out o' door—
I never knew what lonesome meant
In all my life before.

The bees go humming the whole day long,
And the first June rose has blown,
And I am eighty, dear Lord, to-day—
Too old to be left alone!
O heart of love, so still and cold!
O precious lips, so white!
For the first sad hours in sixty years
You were out of my reach last night.

You've cut the flower; you're very kind;
She rooted it last May;
It was only a slip; I pulled the rose,
And threw the stem away;
But she, sweet, thrifty soul, bent down,
And planted it where she stood;
Dear, may be the flowers are living," she said,
"Asleep in this bit of wood."

I can't rest, deary—I cannot rest;
Let the old man have his will,
And wander from porch to garden post—
The house is so deathly still;
Wander, and long for a sight of the gate
She has left ajar for me;
We had got so used to each other, dear,
So used to each other, you see.

Sixty years, and so wise and good,
She made me a better man
From the moment I kissed her fair young face,
And our lovers' life began;
And seven fine boys she has given me,
And out of the seven not one
But the noblest father in all the land
Would be proud to call his son.

Ah, well, dear Lord! I'll be patient,
But I feel so broken up;
At eighty years it's an awesome thing
To drain such a bitter cup.
I know there's Joseph and John and Hal,
And four good men beside,
But a hundred sons couldn't be to me
Like the woman I made my bride.

My little Polly, so bright and fair!
So winsome and good and sweet!
She has roses twined in her sunny hair,
White shoes on her dainty feet;
And I held her hand—was it yesterday
That we stood up to be wed,
And—No, I remember—I'm eighty to-day,
And my dear wife, Polly, is dead!

Faith and Unbelief.

It would be by no means an uninteresting task, and it certainly would be a substantial service to all lovers of truth, if a competent hand would review the great battle-field upon which Christians and skeptics have, during the last 1,800 years, contended for the "faith once delivered to the saints." In no two successive generations have precisely the same weapons been used, or the same subjects assailed, or the same ground occupied. And a manual of the main objections and answers current at various ages, from the time of the early Gnostic and Ebionite controversies down to the philosophical and scientific unbelief of to-day, would be simply invaluable. We have histories of rationalism and histories of theology, but what is wanted is a combination of the two, with all extraneous matter excluded, and the points successively in debate presented in a clear, brief, forcible way. If our professors of theology would lecture on it in their classes, or the Christian Evidence Society take it up in their noble series of defence of the faith, a desideratum long felt would be supplied. The phase in which this solemn controversy has now entered is very different from that which it assumed in the last century and the early years of this. Then much of the contest against Christianity was conducted under the cover of friendship, and as professedly conservative of what were deemed the fundamental and necessary elements of religion. All that was demanded was the evacuation of what were said to be untenable positions. But now, that point having to some extent been gained, all disguise is abandoned, and nothing will satisfy the insatiable appetite of "modern" infidelity but the unconditional surrender of all that has been most certainly believed among us. Equally dissimilar are the means employed. The old rationalists certainly deserved their name. Whatever we may think of their premises or their conclusions, they were men of great intellect, and their works will live as monuments of splendid if perverted genius. In modern anti-Christian warfare, however, this feature is conspicuous by its absence. In proportion to the extravagance of the demands made is the extreme feebleness of the manner in which those demands are urged. On the one hand, all the resources of present-day unbelief are exhausted in the production of such work as "Supernatural Religion," whose second-hand erudition and vacillating logic Westcott and Lightfoot have so ably exposed. On the other, instead of a patient comparison of all available facts and a careful balance of all the probabilities, we have certain isolated phenomena trained to suit preconceived theories of the "scientific imagination," and on these dogmas which are used at best upon hypothesis, all argumentation must give way.

But it must be confessed that this change is due more to Christian than to infidel tactics. The insidious movements of infidelity a few generations ago were met with a policy of "no surrender," and the great apologists contended valiantly for every inch of ground that properly belonged to the domain of Christian truth. But the seductions of him who can assume the form of an angel of light, and who can quote Scripture as long as it suits his purpose, have been permitted to be too successful; and the temporary bait of "free thought" has ensnared unwary Christians; and position after position, truth after truth, has been relinquished, until there is scarcely anything left for the "roaring lion" to devour. We can hardly take up a modern work from the Christian side without finding some verity or another abandoned. But this policy either comes too late or ought never to have come at all. Who of our modern Agnostics is satisfied with a crumb of miracle here or a marvel of prophecy there? Deuteronomy departs from one school, and St. John from another. Whatever might have been sufficient for the skeptic a century ago, nothing but total surrender will do for his successor to-day. We admit, of course, that everything depends upon the truth or falsity of the things conceded; but both demanders and concederes have yet to bring forth their strong reasons in support of their case. The most extraordinary feature of the whole modern controversy is that weakness is met by weakness. We look in vain among the preachers of a so-called rational Christianity for the genius and strength of a Pearson, a Howe, a Butler or a Paley. Instead of that we have men debilitated with the very spirit of that skepticism which they profess to meet. Hasty conclusions are built on the enemy's premises, Christ is wounded in the house of His friends, and the whole transaction is covered with an ostentatious and sanctimonious display of what is called "charity," which, elsewhere however, goes by a very different name.

But the worst feature of this suicidal business is not that concessions are made, but that once made they become standpoints and weapons of attack on the part of the adversaries. When professed and even stipendiary defenders of the faith tear the Old Testament to shreds, throw away all but three gospels and a few of the epistles from the New, abandon important lines of Christian evidence, explain away miracles, treat prophecy as questionable history, define inspiration as the elevation of human genius, deny immortality and dismiss retribution with contempt, and much more to the same effect, is there room for wonder if unbelievers should use materials thus literally thrust into their hands? We are aware of what is said about fidelity to the truth which underlies these doctrines, and can appreciate it in the same ratio as we do the much-paraded Zulu devotion to the great mother, the Queen of England. We are told with the most charming simplicity that it is only the shell that is thrown away, while the kernel is preserved. What kind of kernel is preserved is well shown by the following, from a cotemporary: "Disbelief in the resurrection in any sense which would imply that Jesus Christ does not at this moment live is vehemently repudiated." What is left is termed "sifted belief," but alas the sieve is so constructed as to leave but little belief behind. What is the result? We will not impute motives, but taking it for granted that those we have ventured to criticise have done what they have done, to meet skepticism and make converts to a "rational Christianity," have they succeeded? The only reply is an emphatic and unqualified negative. They have made an unthankful foe still more unthankful; they have been pierced by an arrow more finely feathered than their own plumes; they have led the unwary and unstable astray. We are neither alarmists nor pessimists, but we do earnestly deprecate the harm and folly of this tampering with Divine truth, and to meet it we would recommend to our young ministers especially the laborious study of that grand massive intellectual belief which was the inheritance of our fathers, and which, by God's blessing, we hope to leave as our legacy to our sons.—London Methodist.

The Weary.

BY T. L. CUYLER, D. D.

Opening into one of the rich chapters of Isaiah—that are as full of nourishment as a wheat field—our eye lighted upon this passage: "The Lord God hath given me the tongue of the learned, that I should know how to speak a word in season to him that is weary." This set us to thinking about restfulness of God's word and of Christ's supporting grace. A very different thing is this from dreamy indolence. God abhors the idle man as a monster, and laziness as a cardinal sin. But rest is not only refreshing, but invigorating. The farmer's noonday hour under the shady tree refits him for the hot afternoon's toil in the harvest field. Nothing fits an army for battle like a good night's sleep and a full morning meal. If some "terrible toilers" would oftener halt and rest, they would live the longer.

All around us are multitudes of weary people. They are tired out with life's daily battle, with bearing the heat and burden of the day.

For all these tired and burthened hearts Jesus, the relief bringer, has His word in season. To the Christian with a small purse He says: "Your life consisteth not in the abundance of things ye possess. I counsel thee to buy of me gold tried in the fire, that thou mayest be rich. At my right hand are treasures forevermore." Only think how rich a man is who has a clean conscience here and heaven hereafter. To the doubting and despondling Jesus says: "Fear not, little flock. It is my Father's good pleasure to give you the kingdom." There is a wonderful restfulness for worried hearts in this single assurance: "Lo! I am with you alway." This may be called Christ's richest and sweetest promise. The most common cause of weariness is the attempt to carry an overload of care. And this is not a wise forethought for the future or a proper providence for life's "rainy day." It is sheer worry. The word in season for such overloaded Christians, who toil along life's highway like jaded pack-horses, is this: "Cast thy burthen on the Lord, and He shall sustain thee." If we will only drop everything that is sinful and superfluous in the shape of worry, He will enable us to carry the legitimate load. One more word for the weary is: "Cast your care on Him, for He careth for you." The literal meaning of this tonic text is: He has you on His heart. What an inspiring, gladdening thought! The Infinite God from His everlasting throne has poor, little, sinful me on His divine heart! My big load is not a feather to Him. He knows my frame; He remembers that I am but dust. Like as a father pities his children, so the Lord pitieth us poor weaklings. He says to us: "Give me your burdens." He who piloted Noah and all the precious freight in the Ark; He who supplied the widow's waning cruse of oil; who put Peter to sleep in the dungeon and calmed Paul in the roaring tempest—He says to me: "Roll your anxieties over on to me. I have you on my heart." What fools we are when we strap the load more tightly, and determine that nobody shall carry it but ourselves!

This divine doctrine of trust is a wonderfully restful one to weary disciples. It takes the tire out of the heart. As the infant drops over on mother's bosom, into soft repose, so faith rests its weary head on Jesus. He giveth His beloved sleep, so that they may wake up refreshed for their appointed work.

It is not honest work that really wears any Christian out. It is the ague-fit of worry that consumes strength, and furrows the cheek, and brings on decrepitude. That giant of Jesus Christ who drew the gospel chariot from Jerusalem to Rome and had the care of all the churches on his great heart never complained of being tired. The secret was that he never chafed his powers with a moment's worry. He was doing God's work, and he left God to be responsible for results. He knew whom he believed.

Silent Forces.

Workmen in the stone quarries sometimes find a very hard kind of rock. They pick little grooves for the iron wedges, and then, with great sledge-hammers, drive and drive the wedges into the flinty rock. And yet, once in a while, they fail to divide the solid mass. The iron wedges and the sledges prove useless, and the workmen wonder at the stubborn rock.

But there is yet another way. The iron wedges are removed from the narrow grooves. Then little wooden wedges of a very hard fiber are selected. Now you begin to shake your heads and think: "Well, if iron wedges will not do, how is it possible for wooden wedges to be used successfully?" Just wait until we explain. The sharp, well-made wooden wedges are first put into water. They are then inserted in the grooves tightly while wet, and water is kept in the grooves, and no sledge is needed to drive them. They would break under the severe blows of the ponderous hammer. But the workmen just let the wet wedges alone. They will do what the driven iron failed to do. How so? The damp wood swells. The particles must have room to enlarge. And the granite hearts of the rock cannot withstand this silent influence. In a little while the solid rock parts from top to bottom, and the workmen's will is accomplished.

It is so often in other things. What noise and visible effort fail to do some quiet power, when applied, will surely achieve. Teachers may remember this fact in mechanics, and manage some very stubborn natures by the application of the silent forces. The iron and the sledge-hammers often fail. But tears, prayers and a patient example never fail.—Alexander Clark.

Religious Intelligence.

—The Reformed Episcopal Church in Louisville has disbanded, the rector, the Rev. Benjamin Johnson, having resigned.

—There are now over 67,000 Sunday schools in the country, with an aggregate attendance of 3,000 children.

—The Reformed Episcopal Church celebrated its first anniversary in England on the third of July. Bishop Gregg preached, defining his position as to the Church of England and the Reformation.

—The committee of the Church Missionary Society is called this year for $1,050,000, or $30,000 more than the amount received last year, the largest income in the history of the Society. This is an enormous sum of money for one society to collect; but we have no doubt that the committee will get what it asks for. The scale of operations the Society is conducted upon is magnificent in proportion. The results are commensurate: 123,724 native Christians are reported for 1878.

—The report of the Associated Executive Committee of Friends on schools and missions among the Indians assigned to the care of the denomination state that the 12 boarding and day-schools are attended by 973 pupils, of whom 430 read English. Most of the religious work is being done among the children in school. "But few adult Indians are reached from want of knowledge of their language and from their attachment to their old habits of life."

—The progress of Messiah's kingdom in our times is marvelous. Pall Mall Gazette quotes the following from Dr. Seeley, President of Amherst College: "Within the last fifty years there have been opened, outside of nominal Christendom, more than four thousand centers of Christian influence from which the light of the gospel shines. Dark places of the earth, which were filled with the habitations of cruelty, have become homes of light and joy."

THE CHURCH PASTORAL AID SOCIETY.—The forty-fourth anniversary of this Society was held at Freemasons' Hall, May, 1879, the Earl of Shaftesbury in the chair. It appeared from the report read by the secretary that the receipts for the past year had amounted to £56,144, which, as compared with those of last year, show an increase of £6,148. The expenditure had been £55,018, and the total receipts since the institution of the Society had been £1,634,948. There are now seventy-eight applications for aid on the lists to whom nothing can be given for want of funds. To sustain all the grants in operation an increase of £60,695 is required. In moving the first resolution, the Earl of Chichester bore testimony to the benefits of the Society, which he declared was needed now more than ever, especially as at the present time there was a danger of forgetting the Protestant character of the Church of England.

—The forty-third annual meeting of the Home and Colonial School Society was held at the institution, Gray's Inn-road, London, May, 1879, under the presidency of the Earl of Chichester. The secretary (the Rev. W. Johnston) read the report of the committee, which congratulated the friends of elementary education on the decided progress which had been made during the year. The number of children in average attendance exceeded the number of the preceding year by nearly a quarter of a million, and the average grant per scholar throughout the country had been raised from 15s. 3d. to 15s. 9d.—an evidence of improvement in the attainments of the scholars. The consequent expense was represented by an increase in the education estimates for the current year of £300,251. The Right Hon. the Earl of Harrowby moved, and the Earl of Northbrook seconded, the adoption of the report, which was agreed to.

—The annual meeting of the Colonial and Continental Church Society took place at St. James' Hall, London, in May. Capt. Maude presided. During the past year the home income of the Society had been £18,825, and the expenditure £18,784. When to the above is added the amount raised and expended abroad, the gross income of the Society for the year is £40,357 3s. The Earl of Aberdeen in moving that the report be adopted, said he had spent many pleasant Sundays at the stations of the Society. It provided everything in the shape of religious services which many persons looked for when traveling. There were some persons who were accustomed when they had crossed the "silver streak," which divided this country from the Continent, to throw off the restraint which was exercised over them in their own country, and consequently the efforts of the Society were worthy of support. The Bishop of Guildford seconded the adoption of the report, and alluded to the work which had been carried on in Paris during the great Exhibition.

JAPAN AND CHRISTIANITY.—It would be hasty to leap to the conclusion that Japan will become rapidly Christianized. Christianity is a word of terror to nine-tenths of the people. A resident told me that an excellent servant he had from the country used to fly past the door like an arrow if the family knelt at prayer. They were weaving a charm she thought, that would bewitch her. And a native gentleman mentioned, as if it had been almost beyond hope, that the people in the country were ceasing to speak of Christianity as witchcraft, and were expressing curiosity to learn what it was. Centuries of denunciation have inspired a terror that is slow to abate. Nor are the people a religious people. Their temples are poorly attended and their demeanor is little reverent; but they have a regard for their priest; and with the priest it is a question of life or death. Christianity finds the priesthood an implacable, and by no means contemptible, foe. The young men who have been in Christian countries seldom profess Christianity on their return, and some of them are distinctly hostile, and have adopted the negative criticism that they found in Europe. There is not much of what at first sight seems to favor the missionary that is really on his side. It is all the more striking to notice what has been done, the churches that have been formed, their energy and faith, their independence and missionary spirit, and the interest with which a whole village will sometimes listen to the new doctrine; to speak with individual Christians, and find them so intelligent and so firm in their convictions; to learn that the church members are themselves the best missionaries, and to observe the class that constitutes the bulk of the Christian people.—Good Words.

—In the Diocese of Adelaide, Australia, which is coterminous with the colony of South Australia, the number of clergy is now forty-three. Three theological students of the new theological college at Adelaide have been ordained to the diaconate. Twelve additional lady readers have been licensed during the year. Two fresh districts have now been formed, and the York Peninsula areas are now likewise occupied. The Archdeacon of Flinders continues his periodical visits to the stations as far north of Adelaide as 400 miles. There is still much ground to be opened up. The bishop laments that "from Wellington to Lucepode Bay there is no missionary of our church. On the west coast of Spencer Gulf there is much need of one." The clergy are, most of them, very poorly paid, and it appears that the colonists might do better in this respect.

The religious needs of immigrants into Queensland from Melanesia and other Pacific islets are at last beginning to be attended to. At Maryborough Mr. M'Conkey, a merchant's clerk, has volunteered to teach some of them, and with remarkable success. English being the tongue current in Queensland, he, instead of studying the language of the islanders, wisely taught them ours; and one result of his evening classes is that twenty-three adults were lately baptized by the Bishop of Brisbane. Some more converts are preparing for the same rite. We are glad also to note the commencement of a Chinese mission in Northern Queensland, headed by a Chinese catechist of good education, and for some years engaged in like work in the Melbourne diocese. He was to be ordained deacon by the new Bishop of North Queensland on his arrival from England.—Churchman.

Our Young People.

A LITTLE GIRL'S WONDER.

BY NORA PERRY.

What do the birds say, I wonder, I wonder,
With their chitter and chatter? It isn't all play.
Do they scold, do they fret at some boggle or blunder,
As we fret, as we scold, day after day?

Do their hearts ever ache, I wonder, I wonder,
At anything else than the danger that comes
When some enemy threatens them over or under
The great, leafy boughs of their great, leafy homes?

Do they vow to be friends, I wonder, I wonder,
With promises fair and promises sweet,
Then, quick as a wink, at a word fall asunder,
As human friends do, in a moment of heat?

But day after day I may wonder and wonder,
And ask them no end of such questions as these
With chitter and chatter, now over, now under
The big, leafy boughs of the big, leafy trees.

They dart and they skim, with their bills full of plunder,
Not never a word of an answer they give,
And never a word shall I get, though I wonder
From morning till night, as long as I live.

Who Scratched the Baby?

CHAPTER I.

"Well," said slim little Miss Black Pin, plumping herself down on the pin-cushion, "there's news this morning!" She had just come in from Mrs. Tom's room, much out of breath for such a slim creature.

"Another party, I suppose," said the Diamond Hair-Pin." Miss Black Pin shook her head.

"Perhaps," said a Common Pin, "the furs are going to be pinned up in camphor." At this all the common pins looked sober—it meant for so many of their family eight months in the close camphory darkness of a trunk.

"You will have a guess again," said Miss Black Pin."

Here Great-great grandmother Gold Pin spoke up; she was a tall creature with a crooked back and a twisted toe, but pure gold: "Humph!" said she, "I can tell you; there is a baby!"

"A baby!" Every pin raised its heads.

"It's so," said Miss Black Pin, "there is a baby!"

And just then they heard it for themselves, in Mrs. Tom's room, a shrill, wee cry—a baby's cry. A big matronly Common Pin sprang up and clasped her hands.

"Bless its heart!" she said, "I want to go to it this minute."

"We shall be sent for, some of us," said one of the younger.

"I shall be, of course," said Great-great grandmother Gold Pin. "I fasten the bibs of the family. Master Tom's grandfather wore me, and Master Tom's father and Master Tom."

"Probably we shall all go in together on the pin-cushion," said Miss Black Pin.

But they didn't. The nurse came bustling in that minute. She had a new cushion in her hand, all lace and satin and bows. Old Mrs. Gold Pin, rose with a courtesy and came forward, but the plump fingers gathering up a row of small common pins, pushed the old lady over! Then she unclasped a slender Lace Pin, gold with blue enamel.

"Just the thing for the bib!" said she.

The old Gold Lady was flat on her back, her twisted toe up in the air, but at this she rolled over on her elbow, spluttering and gasping.

"Oh!" said she, "you're making a mistake, I pin the bibs."

But the nurse had whisked out. The Old Gold Lady grew silent; a strange look settled on her face.

"Ha! not good enough! Wonderful child. I'd like to see it—will see it."

CHAPTER II.

Old Mrs. Gold Pin did see the baby; she heard him long before she saw him though; such a steady wah wah wah as there was in Mrs. Tom's room, until the Old Gold Lady's heart ached like a grandmother's.

"What does all it?" said Nurse at last, almost ready to shake the little bundle of lace and lawn.

"Probably a pin is picking it somewhere," said Mr. Tom, who had just come in.

Baby's mamma sat up and felt carefully all over the poor little wah-wahing bundle.

"He's all right," said she, "but I have picked myself. Such vicious points as these little pins have—they aren't safe at all. Bring me the cushion, Nurse." Mrs. Tom examined pin after pin, then tossed cushion and all off the bed. "Bring me the old cushion out of the dressing room," she said.

Thus Old Mrs. Gold Pin got in—she and the whole troop of old family pins with her. Baby was pinned all over afresh with some thick, short pins that wouldn't slip; but still he cried. As his papa was carrying him up and down, he all at once stopped short.

"Look," said he. "I should think he would cry! I told you 'twas pins."

Sure enough, there was a long, red scratch between the baby's two wet blue eyes.

"Mercy!" said Baby's mamma, reaching for him again. "How could a pin have got there."

"Yes, how! Baby's eyes were not pinned on, nor was his nose. All the pins turned and looked at the Old Gold Lady.

"She's none too good," said Miss Cuff Pin, "to get up in the night and scratch a baby she hates; don't we all remember how she looked that day?"

The Old Gold Lady was shocked; she had been vexed—but to think of hurting a baby! Next day Baby cried bad as ever. They looked him over and over, and found another scratch on his cheek.

"I can get up in the night," said Mrs. Gold Pin to herself, "and I believe I will; for that is a scratch, a pin-scratch, too, I do verily believe!"

So that night, soon as all was still, Old Gold Lady rose and walked softly up the moon-ray to the crib. It was nearly morning, when suddenly she bent closer—oh, yes! just so—the culprit was caught. Old Mrs. Gold Pin giggled as she crossed the room and bent to speak in Mrs. Tom's ear. What she said I cannot say; but next day, when Baby was wah-wahing as usual, mamma remembered her dream, and stopped and examined his little hands. Then with the tiniest pair of scissors in all the world, cut his sharp little nails. So the probability is, that Baby scratched himself.—Baby Land.

Short Temperance Talk to the Boys.

BY JOHN B. GOUGH, IN LONDON.

There are young men here, there are boys here, when they take their little drop of beer they do not suppose they are going to become drunkards. They argue in this way—I am not going into the argument—"I can let it alone when I please. I have got a mind of my own, and I can drink a glass of ale, without its doing me any particular injury." Well, but you must remember this, that every man who has become an intemperate man, has become so in trying to drink moderately, in trying to take a glass with his friends. And when a man finds out it is injuring him, he says he will quit it. But that is the very time when a man will not quit it.

I went one Sunday between twelve and one o'clock—half-past twelve and one—down Seven Dials, London. I went to see what was to be seen there. There were crowds of people—quite a large crowd. One man was telling some pretty strong temperance truths; but I looked at the people. There was one woman, it seemed to me she had but one garment on her, and it was a bitter cold day, as you know. She stood shivering in the cold, but she had a threepence in her hand and was watching the door of "The Grapes." I saw men licking their white lips, and their tongues were as white as their lips, waiting for the door to open at one o'clock.

I saw boys and girls of sixteen years of age in such a wretched state of poverty. Now I do not believe such poverty need exist. My heart bled for them, waiting in crowds for those doors to open at one o'clock with a few pence. And that man who spoke to them, said: "Why, some of you have not got a shirt on, and yet you are going to pay money that ought to buy you a shirt into the brewery and into the public-house. The consequence is there is a lot of shirting on the factories, trade is bad, and people cannot get employment because the factories are overstocked. Why don't you go and buy linen and shirting and leather instead of making away with your money in beer, and you get nothing for it?"

I stood and looked—I speak my own sentiments, not yours—I looked at the name on that public house, "Truman, Hanbury & Buxton." I shall answer for what I say in the day of judgment, but, so help me God! in the hour of extremity, I would not have my name on such a house as that for all the money spent in drink, and that is 140,000,000 pounds sterling a year.

ABOVE HIS BUSINESS.—"I would not do that," said one clerk to another, whom he saw doing a disagreeable piece of work.

"It must be done, and why should not I do it," was the excellent reply.

In a few minutes the wouldn't-do-it clerk, ashamed of his remark, was assisting the clerk who was not above his business.

In Scotland there is a branch of the legal profession known as "Writers to the Signet." A young gentleman was apprenticed to one of these writers. The youth thought himself a very fine person, much above ordinary apprentices.

One evening the master desired him to carry a bundle of papers to a lawyer whose residence was not very far off. The packet was received in silence, and in as few minutes the master saw a porter run in the outer office. In a few minutes the youth walked out, followed by the porter carrying the parcels.

Seizing his hat the master followed, and overtook the porter, relieved him of the packet and walked in the rear of the apprentice. The lawyer's house being reached and the door bell rung, the youth cried out: "Here, fellow, give me the parcel!" and slipped a six-pence in his hand without looking around.

"Here is for you!" exclaimed a voice which caused the youth to turn around. His confusion, as he beheld his master, made him speechless. Never after that was he above his business.—Youth's Companion.

A STRANGE AMBITION.—We know of some young people who have a strange ambition to be considered "great readers." They do not use the word "great" in reference to what they learn by reading, but in regard to the number of books and pages that they read. They are not careful as to the quality. Usually this class of readers select the poorest quality, because they can get through with it quicker. Indeed, they will sometimes boast of the rapidity with which they can read a book, as though it were an occasion of honest pride to read a whole volume at one sitting. They forget that it is not the amount of reading which benefits one, but the quality and manner in which the book is used. Some get more good from a page than others from a volume.

What would be thought of one who should boast of eating everything set before him without any reference to the wholesomeness of the food? To eat large quantities of even wholesome food would be very unwise; to eat all sorts of food is a greater folly still. Some would call a man a glutton or a gormandizer; others would call him a pig.

Be select in your reading; read only what will do you good, and try to get all the good out of it you can. Have an ambition to be a thorough reader rather than a rapid one.—S. S. Classmate.

The Christian Advocate.

ORGAN OF THE ALABAMA, MISSISSIPPI AND LOUISIANA CONFERENCES OF THE M. E. CHURCH, SOUTH.

THURSDAY, JUNE 12, 1879.

REV. LINUS PARKER, D. D., Editor.

OFFICE.—118 CAMP ST., NEW ORLEANS.

One of his Devices.

Satan is most fruitful in devices. His wiles are so ingeniously planned that the very elect are in danger of being deceived. In almost every enterprise undertaken for lawful and useful ends he will endeavor to get in his mischievous work somewhere.

Our agricultural fairs have come to be little else than horse races and occasions of dissipation—often of Sabbath desecration. In nothing is the devil's art more conspicuous than in the endeavor to mask his allurements under the good name of industry, science and benevolence. Let him but get a foothold, and, as our agricultural fairs prove, he will finally monopolize the whole business, or make his part of it the chief feature. In entertainments given for charity, the dance or something else is almost certain to be interjected in such a way as to confuse, and at the same time to compromise religious people. The cause may be such as they would like to help, and the objectionable expedient is only a part of the means to reach a beneficent result. The social attractions, the name of being participants in a good and even patriotic enterprise, and reluctance to a seemingly trifling ground of opposition, all have their influence. The net is adroitly spread, and the snare is laid with consummate skill. There are theatricals, dances and raffles, perhaps, but the church members present need not participate in these. If, however, they only look on, or busy themselves with other features of the occasion, their money and influence have been secured, and the line of unworldliness has been broken. The camel's head is in at the door, and he will soon get his whole body inside. The affair may be of a character to enlist everybody. The worldly people demand their loved amusements, and are not at all squeamish about the things which the churches condemn. The church people suffer themselves, under feeble protest, to be drawn into the trap, and they surrender at discretion.

The menagerie and the circus are usually united nowadays. Bold female riders in scant attire, and the machine witticisms of vulgar clowns, draw much better than the rarest collection of animals. There is something profitable and instructive in zoological specimens, but it is found more profitable to add to them the exciting and not very chaste spectacles of the ring. What could be more sagacious than this plan that draws the crowd, and that attracts the more intelligent and respectable elements of society? And do not these wise worldlings know, and does not the devil know, even better than they, that there are always slack-twisted church members who are glad to have an excuse to indulge in doubtful pleasures? Christians go to see the animals, and thereby support the circus, and worldlings go to see the riding and the somersaults, and thereby help to keep up the menagerie. Was ever any plan more admirable or more ingenious? The astuteness of such a combination is truly wonderful.

Some Christian consciences might shrink from the night performances at the theater, but the daylight matinee is for their special accommodation. The patronage of the theater is in it, with all of its dissipating and immoral influences and tendencies, but the immediate aspect of the entertainment is perhaps more conservative, and the light of day throws a sort of shield over those in quest of recreation. The money spent helps to support an institution that is almost wholly evil, and the presence of respectable professors of religion, even at a morning performance, has its effect upon the young men who spend their evenings in the same place.

This adroit yoking together of the church and the world in works of charity, in public entertainments, in social reunions, and in amusements and recreations, is worthy of the father of lies. In it the devil often clothes himself as an angel of light, arrays himself in the garb of patriotism and benevolence, and hides his tricks in the disguises of saintliness. The apostolic injunction, "Be ye not unequally yoked together with unbelievers," was directed mainly against this most deceitful and damaging wile of Satan. That it has reference to marriage is doubtful. The sin that it warns against and forbids is this strange and incongruous alliance of Christians with those whose spirit and conduct are at war with the purity of the religious life.

There is but one course for those to pursue to whom Christ and the church are dear. They must keep themselves aloof from everything that conflicts with their Christian vows, or that is inimical and hurtful to their spiritual life. In nothing is Christian faithfulness more demanded, and in nothing are courage and decision more needed. No matter what the occasion or the cause may be, nor with what respectability and influence it may be surrounded, if the world will persist in smuggling in things offensive to the Christian conscience the duty of Christian men and women is plain. There is no ground for casuistical debate, none for hesitancy. If there is a time that calls for more promptness and firmness than another it is when the conscientious soul is confronted by this trick to yoke the church with the world in the use of expedients that are of evil tendency.

This covert and insidious attempt to gain Christian patronage and endorsement, and to force religious people to surrender their convictions of duty, is to be resisted to the uttermost. There is greater danger to the church and to personal piety from this wile of Satan than from the more open enticements, where vice is presented in its naked and well-known forms. One devil in ambush is more to be dreaded than a legion in the open field.

Dealing in Futures.

BY BISHOP KEENER.

MR. EDITOR: I understand that some of our New Orleans merchants have made a good deal recently by futures—marginal investments on nominal merchandise. I suppose that New York is mainly the looser. With us the wheel now happens to be up; in a few months the same wheel will be down; and ruin will then add another item to the long list of depressing events which have marked the history of the commercial enterprises of this city since the war. While some are rejoicing, as Gehazi did when he spoiled the Syrian, when he was all unconscious of the leprosy which had come with the gain, and had been transferred with it, is not this the fit time to utter a word of protest and note of solemn warning against this all-engrossing vice?

Who would cross a high, rickety bridge over a dangerous current with a wagon filled with his wife and prattling children—knowing that the chances were about even that all would in one moment be destroyed—who but a mad man? Who but a mad man would take such a risk, even if a continent of gold were just over the stream?

And is not the man who risks daily his wife's ring and his children's food, in order to hurry up the slow pace of time, bereft of reason—has not passion for gain destroyed the finer instincts as well as sensibilities of his nature?

The laws of all civilized nations regard debts made over the gambling table as null, because contracted where the "cursed rage for gold" makes men their own victims, and unfits them for fair dealing.

Under such pressure the human mind is incapable of acting; the results of a year compressed into a day, of a month of ordinary thought and toil into a moment, renders men unfit for all the duties of life; appetite, society, work, thought, prayer, reading, conversation, are all impossible under such excitement. Gamblers do not talk when the play is deep. At Crockfords, in London, all is as still as the sea-floor under its thousand fathoms pressure. Poverty or wealth by turns realized in a moment, at the turn of a card or a wheel, may do to amuse and beguile the pains of the lost, but in this fair world they are only less than death in their disturbance of human condition and pursuits.

There is no feeling of hope, no thought of good things to come in the breast of a man who habitually seeks to annihilate both space and time by covetous risks in marginal investments of uncontrollable, intangible and incalculable values.

The laws of gradual production are defied; the wholesome checks which God has placed upon man to restrain and limit the love of possession, and thereby prepare him for a healthy enjoyment of property, and the power which it gives, are broken down, and whether gain or loss comes, the suddenness of the result is equally fatal to sobriety of soul.

God is in no sense in the labor of such a man. It is but the mutual consent of a thousand men to put all they have in a single pool, and thereby defy the slow movements of natural increase, that each may hang upon the hope of making a fortune in a moment of time. Just so roustabouts collect on the stern of a boat, and gamble with each other for the wages of a trip, until one or two pocket all the labor of the voyage. Has any man the right to risk the bread of his children for the possible chance of sudden wealth—the fair earnings which God intends for them and which they need, for the gratification of a passion as desperate and heartless as the sport of devils?

"But it is done in New York." Yes, and so the proprietors of large gambling houses often employ men to represent the establishment, to play against all that come, and do not play themselves. True enough the gambling is done yonder, and the wheel is turned for you; but you are the party; you are the man that puts down the stake; they only furnish an opponent for you—another man and another family whose risk is over against yours, who make if you loose, and loose if you make.

Possibly you were never in a gambling house in your life. No, no one would have suspected you of gambling, because you are not there. You are at home trying to read, or to have family prayers, or making out to play with the children, or else at a prayer-meeting (God be merciful!) praying over Vesuvius, over the mouth of the pit which already moves to meet you at your coming. Who can imagine the thought that tears your anxious breast! The company of a billiard saloon, a gambling club, would have warned your family of the dangers which hourly threatened them with ruin, your pastor of your wayward course, your friends of the need they have for warning; but now you drop, as in a moment, into poverty, despair and bankruptcy, and drag all your friends down with you. It may be you have gained, and now are prominent in the house of God in song, in the Young Men's Christian Association in advice, and in society and politics affect to be a guide. Don't deceive yourself, you have lost your influence; nobody believes in your wisdom or your faith. Faith cannot live in a heart that hurries up the work of death after this manner. You are not fit to teach children in the Sabbath-school, who point and whisper: "There's the man who made a fortune by a lottery ticket. He's rich; made it all by 'futures!'"

That legislation should be turned this way to protect the innocent who can doubt—the innocent whose natural protector has ceased to have natural care for them? This is the true field for legislation: To protect the helpless against the avaricious, the extortioner or gambler, or men against parents, as in the factories of England, against one who would put his child to work at the tender age of six, for the sake of its earnings. Doubtless to frame a wise law will tax the ingenuity and strength of our best legal minds; but where so much is at stake it is high time to begin, and legislation will perfect itself by the experience of the law's practical operation. As it is, every department of economy and mercantile integrity demands a check upon this vice of "futures"—cotton, wheat and pork futures—marginal risks upon nominal merchandise. If such transactions were placed by law upon the same footing with other games of hazard, so that debts could not be collected which rest upon such illegitimate transactions, it would begin a cure. As it now stands, no man can tell whether his agent is sound or bankrupt, for who knows how much he may have invested in futures.

The pulpit and churches have a work to do here which had as well be undertaken before they go down bankrupt in piety, as well as in purse and character. Let them class "futures" with lottery tickets and club gambling, and utter a note of warning that our people may be instructed, and souls saved from the pit who are placed under our care. "There is a way that seemeth right unto a man, but the end thereof are the ways of death."

The Macedonian—A Qualified Call.

BY DOUBLE U.

Older than our day is the notion of helpfulness in a preacher, and it is now, as always, the quality most in requisition. For the work in its present state, and as called for by the officials, and by public opinion, is ability to build up again the interest that has temporarily waned from church life. The works exempt from this embarrassment are few, and the momentary trouble is unmanageable by the officials, upon whose shoulders the weight increases. To provide suitably for a preacher and his family is no longer within their power or purpose. Their resources are too limited, and they are without expedients to increase them. The public has lapsed into indifference, the officials have become disheartened. Heavy indebtedness paralyzes the farming constituency, meager support the professional, and the mercantile constitute but a small fraction of the membership. Most of the pastors are straitened in means from successive shortages on small salaries, and, while their needs are exigent, the dependence is made to rest upon their success for the scanty means contributed for their maintainance. To be able to throw himself safely upon the church for support the pastor must himself make that support possible.

This trial presses more generally, but not upon all, more than they are accustomed to, still this is the judgment formed and the feeling experienced, that the burden is unequal. It is not a new phase of church life, nor by any means an incurable disorder. A few years ago a church session in an Eastern town advertised for a pastor to help them out of a difficulty. Their building was under heavy mortgage, built costlier than their means or liberality justified. The pastor had retired with salary unpaid, the congregation had diminished to a discouraging fraction. The church was closed, while the interest on their debt was accruing beyond any resource of meeting. A minister responded, was accepted, and soon had a current of life set in the right direction. He suggested free against rented pews, voluntary contributions collected by the envelope plan, and such corresponding minor reforms as gave vitality to the principal expedients, and all grew right.

Any work may wane in some, or all of its interests, and become to the officials an insupportable burden. But it would be a rare instance for a depressed church not to yield readily to the influence of proper expedients for relief. The scope of usefulness in a preacher is largely increased by skill in the use of expedients.

And as every personal interest unites with personal obligation to build up the inheritance, and not to neglect it in its decline, nor waste it in its prosperity, it is not an impertinence to call attention to a subject of common interest, and of so grave importance.

Inventiveness of expedients is most in requisition now, for it cannot have escaped notice that arguments of obligation make but slight impression, and have no effect toward avoiding the disappointment of uncollected quarterage. Every one knows that the laborer is worthy of his hire. No one begrudges him a fair compensation for his work. No one suspects that he lives upon air alone. But the main preoccupation with all is the individual problem. The pastor is left to study up the case, and upon his success or failure the issue falls.

Besides his support, his acceptability turns upon his capability of helping out of a difficulty. Whatever may be credited to our age, an evident unconcern is shown toward those preachers who are without the capacity of self-care.

Give us a man, say they, that can build us up—one who can see what is necessary, can plan and work, can lead, a "fisher of men," of professional skill and aptness. No care is heavier than that for the church, but it is the fit care of the pastor, and when his instrumentality is seen in the opened streams of new prosperity his good fortune is instantly identified therewith. But in such a state of uniform depression, what could any one devise to bring about a return of prosperity? The expedient that starts an improving tendency is sometimes so small that its influence is overlooked, and only the heart in which it has its genesis can watch its operation with confidence and pleasure.

The expedients that work good results are rarely borrowed. They come of intense solicitude, constant thinking, and much, very much, prayer; in the midst of self-forgetfulness they spring up, and while desire raves with madness at the prospect of defeat. We gain few ends at such cost, and the acquisition leaves no room for egotism. If indebtedness ever becomes a feeling of relief, it is in the acknowledgment: The Great Head of the Church has led me to this. The breathing that comes easier, the sleep that so refreshes, the hope that gives to the outlook a cheerful light, the contentedness that ensues is a grace bestowed, a debt to eternal goodness, who has heard the prayer and helped to the discovery, that with such singular potency solves the problem that stumped the wisest and best of our church leaders. The preacher is sought after for use rather than mere occupancy of station or circuit, and if he fails to be useful no art will long preserve his calling.

Amusements.

Rev. Dr. Houghton, in the Northern Christian Advocate, says:

There is no greater mistake than for a young Christian to imagine that he is not to be unlike the world. It is no part of our business as Christians, by compromising, and temporizing, to break down the distinctions—the Scriptural distinctions—between the spirit of the world and the disciples of Jesus; even if by so doing we think we may win some souls.

According to an ancient fable the moon in an eclipse complained to the sun, saying: "Why, my dearest friend, dost thou not shine upon me, as usual?" "Do I not?" said the sun; "I am sure I am shining as I always do; why do you not enjoy my light as usual?" "Oh, I see," said the moon, "the earth has got between us!" Young Christians, the Sun of righteousness always shines; and it is your business to be so thoroughly united to the true church, to be so uncompromisingly indentified with the truth, to stand out so completely from the world, that the light may constantly fall on you, warming you into life, and growth, and fruitfulness.

The plain command of the Apostle furnishes a test that may be used as a touch-stone in all doubtful cases which arise in our social relations and enjoyments. The simple question is: Can this be done in the name of the Lord Jesus?' When you come up to the door of any place of amusement, toward which your footsteps may have tended—especially a place which is usually frequented by irreligious persons—when you are about to engage in any occupation or recreation that is in the slightest degree doubtful, be sure to prayerfully ask this question: "Would Christ approve of this? Can I ask His presence and blessing as I enter here?" Rev. George Whitefield was at one time solicited by a professed Christian lady to play a game of cards, and then go to the theater, where a celebrated actor was to perform, and where many cold-hearted, careless professors of religion would be found. When first asked he made no objection, and when the cards were produced and they were seated at the table, he said: "Let us ask the blessing of God!" "Ask a blessing of God at a game of cards?" exclaimed the astonished lady; "I never heard of such a thing!" Mr. Whitefield replied: "Ought we to engage in anything on which we cannot ask His blessing, and at which we cannot ask His presence?" This ended the game; and it need not be added that the lady failed to urge his attendance upon the theater.

Amusements are not the business of life. They are not to be regarded as necessities, but as luxuries; there is, therefore, great fitness in the following words: "Let amusements fill up the chinks in your existence, not the great spaces thereof. Let your pleasures be taken as Daniel took his prayers—with his window open; pleasures which need not cause a single blush on an ingenius cheek." If the devil ever laughs in his sleeve, it is when he has persuaded a professed Christian to compromise in a doubtful matter; for he knows that a little yielding from the strict line of right and duty will, if continued, end in coldness, carelessness, indifference, and finally complete apostacy. Compromising Christians are Satan's faithful allies; his decoys by which he entices crowds of weak-minded ones into his net; while, on the other hand, uncompromising Christians are the pillars of the church, and the chosen instruments whereby God will convert this world to His truth. There is no point where Satan is trying more skillfully—or with more subtle plausibility—to rub out the scriptural line of separation between the church and the world than at this point of popular amusements. For that reason, if for no other, an honest Christian cannot afford to stand in any doubtful position before the world. Our wisest course is to be out-and-out on Christ's side, or else make no pretensions whatever. In this fight an open enemy is less dangerous than a doubtful friend.

New Orleans has never enjoyed better health than at the present time. There is no yellow fever here, and nothing to indicate its approach. An efficient quarantine is in vigilant operation, and it is hardly possible that the fever can be imported among us this year.——The State debt, and what to do with it, just now occupies the attention of our people and of the Constitutional Convention now in session in New Orleans. It is a safe proposition that States, like individuals, ought to pay what they owe. It is also good policy. To repudiate an honest debt is always damaging to the repudiator. But what does the State owe? We do not enter into that question. Whatever it does owe can be paid, and ought to be paid.——Our Field Notes give account of many conversions, and indicate a gratifying degree of church life and movement. There is also the beginning of a revival of class meetings. In some pastoral charges they flourish. Instance: Franklin Street, Mobile, in which there are seven well-attended class meetings. Bro. Moore is perhaps entitled to the banner. Our New Orleans churches, and notably Bro. Sawyer's charge, in Baton Rouge, are also class meeting churches.——We have a full portfolio at this time. Thanks to contributors. We like a plenty. We can then select. Pastors, please help us in the matter of short obituaries. The editor would like to divide the responsibility with them. Our room is scant; but roll up the subscription list and we will then be able possibly to enlarge. Letters from distant points are always acceptable, and short essays on living topics.——Our foreign missionary treasury is empty, and largely overdrawn. Dr. Wilson is troubled about it, and not less troubled should every Southern Methodist be. Hurry up the collections, and remit. Pray that hearts may be touched, purses opened, and that gifts from the rich and poor may flow. And see to it that your own tithes are brought in.

Gracefully Done.

Speaking of Founder's Day at Vanderbilt University, the Nashville Union and American says:

Yesterday—Founder's Day—was ushered in by the ringing of the Vanderbilt bell at sunrise, and by the lively, stirring notes of the band which played all over the campus.

The members of the Board of Trust gathered at the university preparatory to the meeting to-day.

At night the members of the literary societies had their annual contest for the Founder's Prize Medal. There were present the elite of the city to the number of over six hundred, every seat in the chapel being occupied. The grounds were hung with over two hundred Chinese lanterns. The portrait of Commodore Vanderbilt, on the right of the rostrum in the chapel, was decorated with wreaths of ivy, cedar and flowers. Underneath it was the monograph C. V., one letter being made of red and the other of white roses.

The members of the faculty and visiting ministers occupied seats to the right of the stand, and the students of the university immediately in front of it.

To the left of the rostrum hung, for the first time, a large life-size portrait of Bishop McTyeire, placed there yesterday in honor of the day.

At half-past eight o'clock Chancellor Garland called the assembly to order, and, after prayer by Rev. Dr. J. Y. Ramsey, of Mississippi, referred to the portrait of Bishop McTyeire, which, he announced, was a present from Mrs. Vanderbilt. He then read the following letter from that lady:

"No. 10 WASHINGTON PLACE, N. Y., May 1.

"To Chancellor Garland, Vanderbilt University.

"DEAR SIR: Allow me to trouble you to receive for the Vanderbilt University a portrait of Bishop McTyeire, and to give it a place on the walls of the chapel. I have had it painted from a photograph by the same superior artist, Dr. Flagg, who painted the portrait of Mr. Vanderbilt. And, if I remember rightly, there is a vacant place on the other side of the pulpit or rostrum from where the Commodore's portrait is hung. I shall be gratified if it can be placed in that position.

"In presenting this gift to the university I desire not only to express my interest in the institution, and in compliment to Bishop McTyeire, for whose noble Christian character and great executive ability my husband entertained so high a regard, but in honor of the birthday of the founder who so wisely provided such educational advantages for the young men of our country.

"I beg leave to request that you and the honorable faculty over which you so ably preside would take charge of this matter, and see that all is accomplished by Founder's Day, May 27.

"Let me take this opportunity of congratulating you and the associated learned professors on the steady progress and great success of the university, and of expressing my earnest and heartfelt wish for your continued prosperity. Respectfully yours,

F. A. VANDERBILT."

"P. S.—The portrait will be shipped to your address, and, may I add a wish, that the first notice to the public should be when they are invited to see it.

F. A. V."

Accompanying the letter was the following dispatch:

"NEW YORK, May 12, 1879.—M. B. Toney, Agent Merchants' Dispatch, Nashville, Tenn.: Go the seventh instant I shipped to your care for Vanderbilt University an oil painting. Please do not mention its receipt except to the Chancellor.

R. L. CRAWFORD."

It was evident from this dispatch that Mrs. Vanderbilt intended that the matter should be kept so quiet that it would be a surprise to Bishop McTyeire when he entered the university on the founder's birthday.

The Good Templars have a very flourishing and a large lodge here for the size of the place, and they hold their meetings on Sundays. Now the question is: Is it right to hold meetings on Sunday? They transact all their business at these meetings, receive members, etc. They contend that they are doing a great deal of good, and that it is a religious cause, and that it is not inconsistent to hold their meetings on Sunday. The question is considerably agitated here. I am not a member. Have not joined them on account of Sunday meetings, as I do not hold that it is right to meet on Sunday.

Our views are asked on the question. We are in accord with the writer. It would be a very urgent case, indeed, that would justify holding lodge meetings on Sunday. The object of the lodge is a worthy one, and it is designed to do good, but holding its meetings on Sunday is very apt to interfere with attendance at church and with public worship. We do not know how the lodge meetings are conducted, nor how much of secular business is done in them, but we suppose the exercises are not wholly of a religious character. The Sabbath is needed for public worship, for the preaching and hearing of the gospel, and should be as completely as possible devoted to these ends. The custom of holding lodge meetings regularly on Sunday we do not think is common. We have heard of no other instance, and we believe it is rarely done.

Rev. Dr. Walker returned from Natchitoches, La., on Thursday of last week. He did not reach Natchi-toches until Sunday evening, June 1, and found the new church already dedicated by Rev. Christian Keener. The doctor, however, managed to preach three sermons before he left. Bros. Keener, Liverman and Cassity were there, and the meeting was being protracted. The church is a handsome and convenient edifice, finished, with the exception of the tower, and all paid for. We deeply regret to learn that the pastor, Rev. J. T. Hough, was lying very ill, and unable to be present at any of the services. When Dr. Walker left Natchitoches, on Tuesday, June 3, Bro. Hough was very low, and his condition critical. He has been instrumental in doing a remarkable work in Natchitoches, and has probably labored far beyond his strength. We sincerely hope and pray that he may be spared for many years to the church.

In another column will be found a very interesting communication from our French missionary, Rev. W. J. Picot, who is laboring in the Attakapas regions of Louisiana. Bro. Picot came to us from Canada last winter, was received into the Louisiana Conference, and appointed to this work among the French creoles. It is a most important mission, and is already bearing rich fruit. We most heartily second his appeal for money to buy Bibles and tracts. Any donations remitted to us will be forwarded to him promptly. He is in a field that is white to harvest, a field we have too long neglected, and the lack of a few dollars should not be allowed to hinder the gracious reaping. Bro. Picot is well qualified for this peculiar and difficult work, and we must hold up his hands. We exceedingly rejoice over the good tidings in his letter. His mission is one that concerns the whole church.

The Advocate of Missions, edited and published by Rev. S. A. Steel, has been discontinued, and its subscription list turned over to the Southern Missionary Herald, published at Weldon, N. C., Rev. A. R. Raven editor. We regret the discontinuance of the Advocate of Missions, but we are glad to know that Bro. Steele goes with his subscribers, and has become one of the corresponding editors of the Southern Missionary Herald.

The notice of the commencement exercises of Centenary College, Jackson, La., will be found on the eighth page. Commencement day is Wednesday, July 2. Rev. R. S. Woodward, of Natchez, preaches the commencement sermon on Sunday, June 29, at eleven A. M. Rev. C. W. Carter, of Bastrop, La., delivers the address before the alumni. The Board of Trustees meets Monday, June 30, at nine A. M. Let everybody come.

Attention is called to the notice of the Seashore Camp Ground, which will be found on the eighth page of this issue. By consulting the notice our readers will be informed in regard to fare on railroads, price of meals and lodging, and other matters. It will be well to cut out the notice for convenient reference.

The commencement exercises of Mansfield Female College are published on the eighth page. Commencement Sunday is June 22. Rev. Robert Randle delivers the annual sermon. Rev. Joel T. Daves delivers the literary address on commencement day, Wednesday, June 25.

Bishop Doggett, says the St. Louis Christian Advocate of May 21, reached this city about the middle of last week, presided at a district Conference held at Manchester Friday and Saturday, preached three on Sunday, and will remain in the State for some time, looking after the general interests of the church.

The venerable Asa H. Parker, father of Rev. J. A. Parker, of the Louisiana Conference, died near Haw-Ridge, Ala., April 6, 1879. He was in his eightieth year. His obituary will be published next week.

Rev. Thomas Price, writing from Millican, Texas, May 31, says:

Dearth in religious matters in this entire region of Texas. People intensely busy with work in the field. "The time for kings to go out to battle," I suppose, will be after awhile.

Rev. J. W. Lambuth, superintendent of our China mission, is expected to visit this country during the present year. Bro. Lambuth is in declining health, and it is hoped that he will be restored by a visit to his native land. He will receive a cordial welcome.

Rev. Francis Walker, formerly a member of the Alabama Conference, died in Hunt county, Texas, May 27. His obituary notice will appear soon.

Our North Alabama friends will find several of their Quarterly Conference notices on the eighth page. We have space for all.

The Givers and Their Gifts.

—Dr. Hugh Miller, who died suddenly in February last, has bequeathed the sum of $135,250 to several missionary societies, and to certain Free Church of Scotland interests the sum of $69,000.—In all, $204,250.

—The widow of the late Daniel P. Stone, of Malden, had given 25,000 to the Young Men's Christian Association toward erecting a new building, and several other persons promised liberal contributions for the same purpose.

—The will of Judge Packer, of Pennsylvania, bequeaths for the permanent endowment of Lehigh University, of Bethlehem, $1,500,000; for a library for the university, $500,000; to St. Luke's Hospital, Bethlehem, $300,000; St. Mark's Episcopal Church, Mauch Chunk, $300,000. There are several bequests which are kept private for the present.

—Mr. James B. Jermain, of Albany, N. Y., is the possessor of a large fortune, and his gifts to the charities of Albany and its vicinity have been numerous and ample. A fine stone church edifice, costing about $100,000, which he built and gave to a Presbyterian society of West Troy, is one of the evidences of his liberality.

—Mr. Hulings, of Bradford, Pa., who recently purchased 300,000 acres of oil land in West Virginia, has given to the Erie branch of the Western Seamen's Friend Society oil property at Bradford valued at from $10,000 to $12,000. The society is one of the largest in the Northwest, having under its care the seamen employed on the Western lakes and rivers—300,000 in all. It has also 6,000 poor children in its schools. The Cincinnati Bethel school is the largest in the country, or perhaps in the world, having 3,000 pupils. The Hon. Felix R. Brunot, of Pittsburgh, is president of the society, William Thaw, first vice president, and Hon. William A. Galbraith, of Erie, second vice president.

—T. M. Harvey, an English merchant of Natal, Africa, has given $100,000 to the English Wesleyan Missionary Society for foreign missions.

Books and Periodicals.

HEARING, AND HOW TO KEEP IT. By Charles H. Burnett, M. D. Philadelphia: Lindsay & Blakiston. 1879.

The American Health Primers embrace eleven volumes, small 12mos, of which this is the first in the series. "Hearing, and How to Keep It," treats of the Structure of the Ear; Physics and Physiology of Sound and Hearing; Diseases of the Ear; The Care of the Ear in Health; The Care of the Ear in Disease. The author evidently understands his subject, and he writes clearly, and compresses a vast amount of valuable information into the 145 pages of the volume. The other volumes of the series, as announced, are by some of the most eminent medical men of the country. For sale at Crescent City Subscription Book-House, 106½ Canal street, New Orleans.

SIX MONTHS AT MRS. PRIORS. By Emily Adams. Boston: D. Lothrop & Co.

A story containing many excellent moral and religious lessons, and designed for youthful readers. The contents and purpose of the book are described as follows: Mrs. Prior is the widow of a clergyman, and has been left with five little ones to support. She discharges her servant, and divides the lighter duties of the household between herself and the two eldest of her children, Minnie and Helen. Unaccustomed to anything but study and play, the girls find it very hard to have their old-time appointments for enjoyment circumscribed, and complain bitterly at first. The book gives a history of their experience, and shows how the work that was so irksome at first became in the end a source of pleasure and means of healthful discipline. The volume is a handsome 12mo, illustrated.

A SELECTION OF SPIRITUAL SONGS. With Music, for Use in Social Meetings. Selected and arranged by Rev. Charles S. Robinson, D. D. Scribner & Co., New York.

Spiritual Songs has been noticed by us some time ago. The present work is smaller, cheaper, and specially adapted to social meetings. The hymns and tunes have been selected, with some valuable additions, from the larger work, and comprise a collection of great merit. It contains 553 hymns and 330 tunes. The page is of the same size as that of Spiritual Songs, with fine paper, clear type, and a firm and handsome cloth binding. The book is to be sold at retail for 75 cents, with the same discount of 20 per cent. to the churches. For sale by Lathrop & Wilkins, 112 Camp street, New Orleans.

—Pet Series comprises six beautiful little volumes in a handsome box. The titles are: 1. Gertie's Doll. 2. Bessie's Birds. 3. Doll Flora. 4. White Rabbits. 5. Mary's Doll. 6. Baby Gracie. Published by the Presbyterian Board of Publication, Philadelphia. They are charming books for the youngest readers. For sale by Lathrop & Wilkins, 112 Camp street, New Orleans.

—From William A. Pond & Co., music publishers, New York, we have received a new Sabbath-school and praise book entitled "The Wreath of Gems," compiled by V. T. Barnwell. The hymns and music, both old and new, are, or will be, standard favorites. There are about one hundred and fifty different selections in the book, which is published in a most attractive style. For sale by Lathrop & Wilkins, 112 Camp street, New Orleans.

—Yensie Walton, by Mrs. S. R Graham Clark, published by D. Lothrop & Co., Boston, is a stout and elegantly bound volume of 391 12mo pages, and one of the best of the multitudinous religious stories which now flood the market. We believe that there are more profitable books than religious fiction, but if our young people must have tales and stories, such a work as Yensie Walton would be among the most edifying. Many most serious and valuable lessons are conveyed in an attractive and pleasing form.

—Symbols and System in Bible Reading is the title of a paper-bound 12mo of 61 pages, by Rev. W. F. Crofts. F. H. Revell, Chicago, publisher. It is a very suggestive and helpful work to pastors and Sunday-school teachers. For sale by Lathrop & Wilkins, 112 Camp street, New Orleans. Price, 25 cents.

—The American Bee Journal for June is filled with information in regard to bee culture. This valuable monthly is published by Thomas G. Newman & Son, Chicago, Ill.

—The Preacher and Homiletic Monthly for June is a valuable number of this able publication. The sermons are by Dr. Deems, Canon Liddon, Dr. Joseph Parker, Dr. T. L. Cuyler, Dr. William M. Taylor, and other notable preachers. We reiterate what we have said before, that this magazine is of great use to ministers of the gospel, and most instructive and desirable for all devout readers. Published by the Religious Newspaper Agency, New York. Price, $2.50 per annum.

—The Theological and Homiletic Monthly for June has the following table of contents: 1. Trinality. 2. The Fathers. 3. Saul the Pharisee. 4. Creed of the Orthodox Friends. 5. The Human Conditions of a Good Prayer Meeting. 6. A Sketch of Bishop John Early. 7. A Heavy Draft on Ministerial Gravity. 8. The Plan of the Sermon. 9. The Transfiguration. 10. A Good Conscience. 11. Exposition of Acts 2, 16, 21. 12. Note-Acts 26. 13. Editorial Miscellany. There is variety in this number, and ability. The editor's pen is manifest in several of the leading articles, as well as in the Editorial Miscellany. In the last department is an article, "Our Moorings," which should be most thoughtfully pondered by our preachers and people. The Theological and Homiletic Monthly is published and edited by Rev. R. N. Sledd, D. D., Richmond, Va. Price, $2.50 per annum. It is well worth the cost.

—Appleton's Journal for June has: The Shakespearean Myth—second paper—the Appeal to History, by Appleton Morgan; The Literature of the Victorian Reign—first survey—by Justin McCarthy; The Reaction of Genius—a tale—by W. M. Baker; Las Casas, from the Spanish of Emilio Castelar; A Chapter from Froude's Cæsar; The Seamy Side—a novel—by Walter Besant and James Rice; Some Aspects of the Present French Republic; On Chinese Fans; The Bayadere—a sonnet—by F. S. Saltus; Editor's Table; Books of the Day.

MARRIED.

PAYNE—HOLTZCLOTZ.—At Cotton Valley, La., by Rev. J. W. Medlock, May 6, 1879, Mr. J. M. Payne and Miss Candys Holtzclotz.

BROOKS—PRICE.—On the fifteenth day of May, by Rev. Thomas Price, Mr. Jesse H. Brooks to Miss Nannie E. Price, all of Millican, Texas.

ALEXANDER—EATON.—At the Methodist Church in Dayton, Ala., by the Rev. G. Hawkins, May 29, 1879, Mr. M. L. Alexander, of Fairdale, to Miss Clara L. Eaton, of Dayton.

CREWS—ASKEW.—At the residence of the bride's mother, by the Rev. G. Hawkins, June 5, 1879, Rev. J. M. Crews, of the Alabama Conference, to Miss Ora E. Askew, of Dayton, Ala.

Publisher's Department.

While we continue to do our best to exclude fraudulent advertisements from the ADVOCATE, parties must judge for themselves as to the real value of the goods advertised. In ordering please mention the ADVOCATE.

SPECIMEN COPIES of the ADVOCATE will be mailed when desired, to facilitate agents in securing subscribers. Pastors will confer a favor by announcing this fact and forwarding names to the publisher.

CLUB RATES.

The NEW ORLEANS CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE and the Nashville Christian Advocate will be sent to same address for one year on receipt of $3.50.

The NEW ORLEANS CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE and the Texas Christian Advocate will be sent to same address for one year on receipt of $4.

The NEW ORLEANS CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE and Frank Leslie's Sunday Magazine will be sent to same address for one year on receipt of $4, or to ministers for $3.50. Each paper to be mailed from its own office.

THE air of perfection, cleanliness and home-like comfort which is so apparent at the American House, Boston, is one of the characteristic features of that well-regulated establishment. To those disposed to economize this popular hotel offers an opportunity seldom found at so thoroughly a first-class house, having reduced its rates to $2 and $2.50 per day.

W. C. SHEPARD & Co.—Fruit jars Mason pints, $1; quarts, $1 25; two quarts, $1 50 per dozen; American China dinner sets, $15 $18. Equal in looks and usefulness as French China. 19

COOPERAGE.—T. A. Beck is one of the oldest coopers in the city, having been established since 1860. He is regarded as an enterprising, practical and skilled artisan. With his manufactory in a very suitable portion of the city, and his office conveniently located at 27 Peter street, near Customhouse street, Mr. Beck will attend to all orders in his line with the same celerity and satisfaction as have hitherto governed all of his wide transactions. His card is on this page.

TRUNKS.—S. Baum, 551 Magazine street, is constantly turning out a large stock of trunks of all grades for home and rural dealers who will be sure to find at the depot in this city any kind of trunks they may require. Mr. Baum has been for many years in this business, and purchasers will find his stock quite as large and desirable as at any leading house in the country. His stock of boots, shoes and gaiters, for men, women and children, is also very large, and those visiting his extensive establishment cannot fail to be suited in anything they may require in this line of trade. Our readers will find Mr. and Mrs. Baum obliging and attentive to every one visiting their well-stocked store.

LOUISIANA EQUITABLE LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY.—The above company has removed from their old quarters, where they have been for years, to 39 Carondelet street. Andrew Patton, Esq., is the popular and efficient secretary, who will be glad to impart any information to those thinking of insuring their lives.

MERCHANTS' MUTUAL INSURANCE COMPANY.—The Merchants' Mutual Insurance Company publish on this page the twenty-fifth annual statement. The Board of Directors declare a cash dividend of twenty per cent. on the net earned participating premiums, and payment on demand of ten per cent. per annum on their stock. This statement shows that the administration of their efficient president, Paul Fourchy, Esq., is of the most able character, and the most watchful care is exercised in taking risks, so as to protect faithfully the interests of stockholders, as well as insurers.

GARDNER HOUSE, CHICAGO.—Among the varied attractions offered to visitors to Chicago, this is nothing which strikes the stranger with more pleasant surprise and, we may say, amazement than the wonder of her hotels. Such are not to be found in any other part of the world. Not only the splendor and vastness of her buildings, and costliness of their furniture and equipments, which surpass in their luxuriousness the palaces of the kings, but the almost endless variety of viands, of every domestic production, and imported from all parts of the world, make up bills of fare equal to the demands of the most capricious appetite, and at the same time afford food for reflection upon the skill, enterprise and indomitable energy of those men and companies who erect and conduct them. The Gardner House, Chicago, of which Jewett, Wilcox is the manager, is in the front rank of such enterprises. This house is supplied with all the modern improvements and conveniences, and nothing is wanting that a guest could desire.

ST. LOUIS AND CAIRO SHORT LINE.—Under the fine management of its most able superintendent, Col. Warren, the vast means of the corporation which controls the above road have been liberally expended in accommodations and luxuries, and which are used to mitigate the annoyances and relieve the fatigue of travel; indeed, they have reached such perfection in the appliances for the comfort of passengers that it is difficult to conceive how they can be improved upon. Those who contemplate trips to the West or North should post themselves as to the advantages of this route. Col. H. S. Detrew is the general passenger and freight agent, with headquarters at St. Louis, Mo. This gentleman is considered to be not only one of the ablest and most popular officers the corporation has got, but also one of the most affable and attentive to the wants of the traveling public.

TOURISTS, ATTENTION!—The tide of summer excursion travel that for two or three years past has set toward the resorts of the Northwest, with its grand scenery of mountain, lake and river, its numerous charming retreats and cozy nooks, will this season reach its flood, owing to the increased facilities extended to tourists by the wide awake and enterprising management of our popular Great Jackson Route. The time has been reduced one day, and with no change of cars to Chicago, and but one change to points beyond, a trip to the great Northwest is now made with as much ease, and in as short a time as formerly to Bladon Springs or the lake shore villages. Already considerate fathers are securing accommodations, at desirable points of rest, for wearied mammas and charming daughters (worn down by their efforts in the cause of charity during the past, more than usually exciting season,) and besiege the ticket office for choice sections in the sleeping cars. In another week the travel will have fairly started, and we predict for the Great Jackson Route a business it will tax its best efforts to accommodate. Sale of excursion tickets will begin on May 20. They will be good to return until November 1, thus giving ample time to enjoy the summer and fall seasons. Full information, with descriptive circulars and guide books profusely illustrated, in the highest style of the printer's art, may be had on application to A. D. Sheldon, ticket agent, 22 Camp st., corner of Common.

BUSINESS NOTICES.

POZZONI'S MEDICATED COMPLEXION POWDER is acknowledged by thousands of ladies, who use it daily, to be the only preparation that does not roughen the skin, chap, blister, or leave black spots in the pores. Mothers can apply it to infants who become chafed with a surety of immediate relief. Removes all eruptions. Price, 50 cents and $1 per box. Sold by druggists, and at depot, 607 North Sixth street, St. Louis (Lindell Hotel.)

A WISE DEACON.

"Deacon Wilder, I want you to tell me how you kept yourself and family so well the past season, when all the rest of us have been sick so much, and have had the doctors running to us so long."

"Rev. Taylor, the answer is very easy. I used Hop Bitters in time and kept my family well and saved large doctor bills. Three dollars' worth of it kept us all well and able to work all the time, and I will warrant it has cost you and most of the neighbors one to two hundred dollars a piece to keep sick the same time. I guess you'll take my medicine hereafter."—See other column.

WE have long wanted a safe and reliable remedy for the cure of Chills and Fever. Quinine will cure it, but it disturbs the head and the fever returns. Now, we see that Messrs. Wheelock, Finley & Co., publish the compositions of their Dr. E. Wilhoft's Anti-Periodic or Fever and Ague Tonic, which is guaranteed a specific for the cure of Chills and Fever, Dumb Chills and all other diseases produced by malaria. Try it. It can be found in every Drug store.

THE MEDICAL FRIEND.

How many to-day attribute their healthy condition to the use of Maguire's Cundurango? When they feel any derangement of the liver, kidneys, blood or stomach or the least tendency to disease of any form, they resort to Cundurango, and in it find a faithful medical friend.

Sore Throat, Cough, Cold and similar troubles, if suffered to progress, result in serious pulmonary affections, oftentimes incurable. "Brown's Bronchial Troches" reach directly the seat of the disease, and give almost instant relief. Twenty-five cents a box.

MISCELLANEOUS.

DO YOU WANT A FIRST-CLASS

PIANO OR ORGAN?

No doubt you need one, and you will consult your interests by calling at

LOUIS GRUNEWALD'S

14 to 22 Baronne Street, Grunewald Hall,

and see at what low figures and accommodating terms you can buy. The celebrated STEINWAY, KNABE, PLEYEL, FISCHER, PIANOS are the most renowned in the world, and you should buy no other.

THE BEST IS ALWAYS THE CHEAPEST.

SHEET MUSIC at half price.

Everything in the music line to suit everybody.

ADDRESS,

LOUIS GRUNEWALD,

Grunewald Hall, New Orleans.

SAVE FROM $2.00 TO $10.00

BY BUYING YOUR

RAILROAD TICKETS

AT

GUEDRY'S

TICKET OFFICE,

31 ST. CHARLES STREET, under St. Charles Hotel, N.

F. E. GUEDRY, Agent.

WHEELER & PIERSON,

Successors to Darcy & Wheeler and Pierson & Hewes)

CLOTHING AND FURNISHING GOODS,

Nos. 13 and 15 CAMP STREET, New Orleans.

Black Cloth Suits, $20 to $40 | Business Suits, $12 to $25

6 Shirts for $9 | Collars $1.50 per Doz.

Liberal reduction to Clergymen.

Rules for self-measurement sent on application, and orders carefully filled. Plantation clothing for country stores at very low prices in our

WHOLESALE DEPARTMENT.

POPULAR PRICED PARASOLS

—AND—

SUN AND RAIN UMBRELLAS,

Lace and fringe trimmed PARASOLS, in black and colors.
Carriage PARASOLS lined in different colors.
Misses' PARASOLS, plain and fancy.
Ladies' sun and rain SILK UMBRELLAS.
Gents' Sun and Rain SILK UMBRELLAS.
Ladies' and Gents' real Scotch GINGHAM UMBRELLAS.

JUST OPENED.

Black and White Breton Laces, Antique Embroidery, stylish Hosiery, beautiful Buttons, desirable Dress Goods, White Goods, Black Goods, Lace Top Gloves and Mitts, Corsets, Ruchings, Vellings, Housekeeping, etc.

Best stock of FANS in the city. Five PALM LEAF FANS for Five Cents.

E. H. ADAMS & BROTHER,

594 Magazine Street, Fourth Store above St. Andrew.

Merchants' Mutual Insurance Co.

OF NEW ORLEANS

No. 104 Canal Street.

TWENTY-FIFTH ANNUAL STATEMENT.

In conformity with the requirements of their charter the company publish the following statement:

Premiums received during the year ending May 31, 1879, including unearned premiums of the previous year—
On fire risks	$315,771 30
On marine risks	18,855 82
On river risks	19,701 75
Total premiums	$356,331 87
Less unearned premiums	111,253 00
Net earned premiums May 31, 1879	$243,178 87

LOSSES PAID

On fire risks	$91,066 08
On marine risks	6,386 89
On river risks	5,542 20
Taxes and expenses, less interest	11,625 11
Reinsurances and return premiums	17,826 61	106,248 89
		$136,929 18
Reserved for unpaid losses		22,000 00
Profit		$114,929 18

The Company have the following assets, estimated at market value:

Real estate	$266,176 85
City bonds and mortgage bonds	14,000 00
Bank, Water Works and other stocks	130,561 65
Notes secured by mortgage or pledge	192,892 54
Bills receivable	62,583 40
Premiums in course of collection	25,639 81
City scrip	2,000 00
Judgment on mortgage notes	3,000 00
Cash on hand	61,392 11
	$712,227 54

The above statement is a just, true and correct transcript from the books of the Company.

P. FOURCHY, President.

G. W. NOTT, Secretary.

STATE OF LOUISIANA,
Parish of Orleans, City of New Orleans.

Sworn to and subscribed before me, the ninth day of June, 1879.

JAMES FAHEY, Notary Public.

At a meeting of the Board of Directors, held on the ninth day of June, 1879, it was resolved to declare a cash dividend of twenty per cent. on the net earned, participating premiums for the year ending May 31, 1879, payable on the third Monday of July next.

Also to pay to the stockholders, on demand, interest at the rate of ten per cent. per annum on their stock.

DIRECTORS:

P. Maspero,	H. Fabi,
J. J. Fernandez,	Edward Toby,
Paul Fourchy,	H. A. Chalaron,
John Hedden,	M. W. Smith,
John B. Lafiandie,	Chas. Laffite,
	R. W. Taylor.

Y-A-L-E L-E-C-T-U-R-E-S

ON

PREACHING.

BY BISHOP SIMPSON.

Price $1.50.

Mailed post-paid on receipt of price. Address

LATHROP & WILKINS,
112 Camp st., New Orleans.

REMOVAL.—THE LOUISIANA EQUITABLE Life Insurance Company has removed to No. 39 Carondelet street. Former office, corner Carondelet and Gravier streets, for rent.

ANDR. PATTON, Secretary.

T. A. BECK,

COOPERAGE,

OFFICE AND SALES ROOM:

27 North Peters Street,

Manufactory, Carondelet Walk, between Roman and Prieur Streets,

NEW ORLEANS, LA.

Has constantly on hand Sugar Hogsheads, Molasses Barrels, Half Barrels, Kegs, Flour, Sugar and Rice Barrels. Order for Hoop Poles filled at the lowest market rates. Particular attention paid to Trimming.

PIANOS.

PIANOS TUNED AND REPAIRED in the best and most satisfactory manner, at

Mr. Burchardt's Manufactory,

625 ..... MAGAZINE STREET 625

Between Jackson and Josephine Sts. tf

HOW TO PAINT.

A new work by a Practical Painter, designed for the use of Tradesmen, Mechanics, Merchants, Farmers, and as a Guide to Professional Painters. Containing a plain common sense statement of the methods employed by painters to produce satisfactory results in plain and fancy painting of every description, including formulas for mixing paint in oil or water, tools required, etc. This is just the book needed by every person having anything to paint, and makes

Every Man His Own Painter.

Full directions for using white lead lamp black, green, yellow, vermillion, brown, whiting, glue, pumice stone, asphaltum and spirits of turpentine, oils, varnishes, furniture varnish, milk paint, preparing kalsomine—

Paint for Out-Buildings,

—Whitewash, paste for paper-hanging, hanging paper, graining in oak, maple, rosewood, black walnut, staining, decalcomanie, making rustic pictures, painting flower stands, mahogany polish, rosewood polish, varnishing furniture, waxing furniture, cleaning paint—

Paint for Farming Tools,

and for machinery, and household fixtures.

To Paint A Farm Wagon,

—to re-varnish a carriage, to make plaster casts. The work is neatly printed, with illustration whichever they can serve to make the subject plainer, and it will save many times its cost yearly. Every family should possess a copy.

Price by mail, post paid, $1.

Address,

LATHROP & WILKINS,
112 Camp st., New Orleans.

J. S. RIVERS,

STATIONER,

Steam Power Printer,

BLANK BOOK MANUFACTURER,

LITHOGRAPHER AND ENGRAVER,

74 CAMP STREET,

NEW ORLEANS.

The New Louisiana Remedy.

Greatest Cough Syrup of the age, or of any age. Product of our swamps. Splendid for children. No poison. Thirteen pages of names of home references and increasing! Sold by druggists. Depot 106 Camp street, New Orleans.

Washington Avenue Drug Store,

Cor. Magazine & Washington Sts.

NEW ORLEANS.

Constantly receiving fresh supplies of pure Drugs, Medicines, Chemicals, Patent Medicines, Combs of all kinds, Brushes, Soaps, Perfumery, Toilet and Fancy Articles, etc., sold at small margin. Coral Tooth Paste, recommended by all who use it as a very superior dentrifice. It beautifies the teeth to a fine pearl like ornament and ravishing beauty. Alka line Bouquet Powder, for beautifying, softening and preserving the skin, the best thing for prickly heat and all summer eruptions. Customers, city and country, will find our stock complete, comprising many articles impossible to enumerate here, and sold at moderate prices. Prescriptions put up day and night. R. J. MAINEGRA, M. D., Druggist, Pharmaceutist and Practical Chemist.

WANTED—EVERYBODY TO know that LAPLACE'S INDIAN THERAPEUTICAL BALM is not a secret preparation, its efficacy being due to the Indian Turnip, arisæma triphyllum. It is highly efficacious for coughs, colds, asthma, and all diseases of the throat and lungs, and the relief of consumptive patients. Prepared and for sale by H. LAPLACE, Pharmacist 23 and 25 Elysian Fields street. For sale also at the principal wholesale and retail druggists.

Depot in Mobile at J. C. DUBOSE & Co. Depot in St. Louis at RICHARDSON & Co.

Farm, Garden and Household.

HOLDERS.—Old boot-tops, cut into pieces the right size and lined, make excellent iron-holders. The leather keeps all heat away from the hand.

No vegetable improves more on acquaintance than celery. It is sometimes objected to its cultivation by farmers that there is too much labor about it, and this was a serious objection when the fashion was to cultivate it in trenches, but it is found that a plow makes all the trench requisite for the dwarf and medium varieties, which are really more crisp, solid and better flavored than the giant "Boston market celery" can be grown with little more labor than a crop of cabbages, and as it adorns the table, tickles the palate and tones the stomach, it deserves a wider cultivation by farmers than it has secured.

SPINACH AND EGGS.—Spinach should never be cooked in water, says Miss Dods. After picking the leaves from the stalk, wash thoroughly in cold water. From the cold water place the leaves in a perfectly dry stew-pan, closely covered, and keep on the fire until the spinach becomes tender. When done draw off the water that will be found in the pan, and then chop the spinach finely, or rub through a sieve. To every quarter pound of spinach use an ounce of butter, a little pepper and salt, and a half tablespoonful of cream. Return the spinach to the sauce pan, add these ingredients, and cook ten minutes. Break the eggs in boiling water, into which some lemon juice and a pinch of salt has been dropped, and cook three minutes. When done, place on the top of the spinach and serve.

A GOOD USE FOR FRUIT CANS.—Perhaps one of the most appropriate uses of an old fruit can that can be devised is to make it contribute to the growth of new fruit to fill new cans. This is done in the following manner: The can is pierced with one or more pin-holes, and then sunk in the earth near the roots of the strawberry or tomato or other plants. The pin-holes are to be of small size, that when the can is filled with water the fluids can only escape into the ground very slowly. Thus a quart can, properly arranged, will extend its irrigation to the plant through a period of several days; the can is then refilled. Practical trials of this method of irrigation leave no doubt of its success. Plants thus watered flourish and yield the most bountiful returns throughout the longest droughts. In all warm localities, where water is scarce, the planting of old fruit cans, as here indicated, will be found profitable as a regular gardening operation.—Scientific American.

BEET SUGAR IN MAINE.—The Maine Beet Sugar Company, located in Portland, has proved a grand success. The Company are highly gratified with the results of last year. It being their first year, they paid out $1 per ton for beets. This year they advertise to pay the farmers $5 per ton for beets landed at a depot on the line of any railroad leading into Portland. Last year our farmers raised from 12 to 42 tons per acre. The amount raised depended almost entirely on the richness of the soil. Where the crop is 20 tons, the farmer receives $100 for every acre of beets raised. One ton of beets will produce 400 pounds of pressed pulp, which is sold to the farmers for $1 per ton, and every 800 pounds of pressed pulp is worth one ton of hay for stock. This year the Beet Sugar Company have added $10,000 to their capital stock, and have asked the farmers to cultivate 1,500 acres of beets, as it will require 30,000 tons of beets to supply their demands the present year. Many of our farmers will make beet raising a specialty, for the very reason that it will pay. It has been proved by actual experiment that the farmers in Maine can raise as many tons of beets per acre as are being raised in France or Germany, where the sugar beet is cultivated upon a large scale. One acre of beets will produce about 2,300 pounds of sugar. The sugar made in Portland last year was of a superior quality.—Providence Journal.

WHITEWASH FOR POULTRY HOUSES.—The man who lets his cellar go year after year without a fresh coat of whitewash may have to pay a hundred fold the cost in doctor's bills, with the risk of inestimable loss to his household in health or even in life. Whitewash is also worth more than it costs in the buildings occupied by domestic fowls. The Carolina Farmer has the following judicious remarks on its use for poultry houses:

"Without a free use of whitewash no poultry breeder can expect to keep his fowls healthy for any length of time, and to a neglect of this can be attributed many of the disappointments and much of the loss experienced by amateurs, who do not realize, until they have paid dearly for the experience, that cleanliness is one of the first principles of success in poultry keeping, and that time, in different forms, is an invaluable agent in promoting cleanliness in poultry-houses and amongst fowls. Where it can be done without too much expense, we would advise persons, in building their poultry-houses, to use planed boards at least planed on the inside in preference to rough ones, for it is far easier to keep the first mentioned clean when smooth boards are used, while the lice and other vermin cannot so readily find a lodging-place. As a preventive is cheaper and better than a cure, we would advise those who build a poultry house to give it a good whitewashing, both inside and out, before the fowls are let in. To make the whitewash still more distasteful to the vermin which have such a taste for poultry, mix a small quantity of carbolic acid with the wash, stir it well till it dissolves, and then apply. It is not injurious to the fowls, but is to vermin, and at the same time is a deodorizer and disinfectant."

DEEP AND SHALLOW PLOWING.—Few subjects attract more attention and give rise to more discussion and wun of agreement than that of the depth of plowing. Many do not consider the very important fact that to keep to shallow plowing depends upon the nature of the soil. The truth is, there are many soils in which, if one plows deep, he may find profit in so doing; but, on the other hand, there are thousands and thousands of acres of land where it is sheer madness to plow deep. On that clay land, where water cannot drain rapidly away and where the lack of drainage is the bane of the cultivator, it is found by experience that a shallow but rich surface soil is much better than a deeply stirred one. And the reason is obvious. If water be an injury, and it cannot get into the soil by reason of the tightness of the subsoil, the rain will pass over the surface to the open ditches, which always have to be made in a flat country. If we loosen such soil deeply, we only harbor more of our liquid enemy, and this counterbalances what otherwise might be a good thing in a deep soil. Besides these, there are other considerations. If the surface soil be poor, and we turn this down into a still poorer subsoil, we bury what little good there might have been in the surface soil far below the reach of the roots.

A little learning is undoubtedly a dangerous thing in farming. There is no department of industry where circumstances alter cases more than in this. While deep plowing is an excellent thing when circumstances suit, there are innumerable cases when it is wise to go the other way.—Germantown Telegraph.

ORCHARD GRASS.—On this eleventh day of June, I am cutting a piece of orchard grass of about one acre, which has stood in the lawn of my dwelling for the past thirty years. It averages fully three feet high, and portions of it run to four feet and upwards. If left in full bloom, and to let it stand some days longer would deteriorate it in quality for hay purposes. It is more or less mixed with red clover, now in full bloom, and both in perfect condition for the best quality of hay. The soil in which the grass grows is a strong clayey loam. It has had little stable manure for years past—none at all for several successive years—and last year a liberal dressing of unleached wood ashes on the stubble after the grass was cut. To appearance, the grass now yields fully two tons or more to the acre.

The real value of orchard grass is not well known. Cut when in bloom, and the stalks full of sap, it is an excellent hay for all classes of farm stock; and mixed on the ground with red clover, as it should be (for they are both in cutting season together, and the clover fills in the spaces between the tussocks of orchard grass, as the latter grows in compact bunches,) both together form a thorough matting over the ground, and the clover, with occasional top-dressing, will stay on the soil as long as the orchard grass remains. People not experienced in the growth of orchard grass, suppose it will run out after a few years' occupation of the ground. To confute such idea, I have about an acre of it on my farm, sowed by myself about forty years ago, mixed with red and white clover, timothy and blue grass; soil clayey loam. It has been mowed and fed closely every year since, with no manure at all, or scarcely so, that I can recollect, and it is now a heavy crop for hay uses. I admit that the present season is an uncommonly early and favorable one in this vicinity for grasses. Yet the orchard grass is always as good and productive as timothy, with the advantage of being nearly two weeks earlier for hay purposes, coming in exactly with red clover, the latter maturing for cutting too early for timothy, when grown together. For soiling, green food uses, orchard grass is the best I know. Sow in the spring of the year, two bushels to the acre.

Another advantage for orchard grass is its earliness, as well as lateness, for pasture, and its hardihood and duration in the soil. It will not run out sooner than blue grass (Poa pratensis), at least I have had them together for forty years, and they look equally good now as ever. Any good, friable soil, no matter if tenacious or clayey in composition—not loam, gravelly or sandy—will yield orchard grass in perfection.—L. F. Allen, in Country Gentleman.

45 Years Before the Public.

THE GENUINE

DR. C. McLANE'S

CELEBRATED

LIVER PILLS

FOR THE CURE OF

Hepatitis, or Liver Complaint,

DYSPEPSIA AND SICK HEADACHE.

Symptoms of a Diseased Liver.

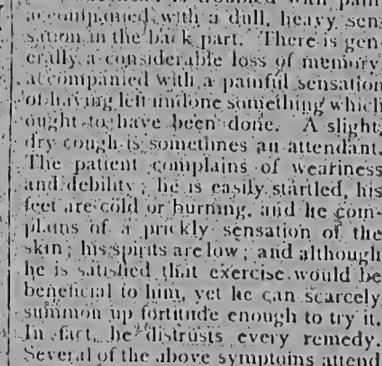
PAIN in the right side, under the edge of the ribs, increases on pressure; sometimes the pain is in the left side; the patient is rarely able to lie on the left side; sometimes the pain is felt under the shoulder blade, and it frequently extends to the top of the shoulder, and is sometimes mistaken for rheumatism in the arm. The stomach is affected with loss of appetite and sickness, the bowels in general are costive, sometimes alternative with looseness. The head is troubled with pain, accompanied with a dull, heavy sensation in the back part. There is generally a considerable loss of memory, accompanied with a painful sensation of having left undone something which ought to have been done. A slight, dry cough is sometimes an attendant. The patient complains of weariness and debility; he is easily startled, his feet are cold or burning, and he complains of a prickly sensation of the skin; his spirits are low; and although he is satisfied that exercise would be beneficial to him, yet he can scarcely summon up fortitude enough to try it. In fact, he distrusts every remedy. Several of the above symptoms attend the disease, but cases have occurred where few of them existed, yet examination of the body, after death, has shown the LIVER to have been extensively deranged.

AGUE AND FEVER.

DR. C. McLANE'S LIVER PILLS, IN CASES OF AGUE AND FEVER, when taken with Quinine, are productive of the most happy results. No better cathartic can be used, preparatory to, or after taking Quinine. We would advise all who are afflicted with this disease to give them a FAIR TRIAL.

For all bilious derangements, and as a simple purgative, they are unequaled.

BEWARE OF IMITATIONS.



The genuine are never sugar coated.

Every box has a red wax seal on the lid, with the impression DR. McLANE'S LIVER PILLS.

The genuine McLANE'S LIVER PILLS bear the signatures of C. McLANE and FLEMING BROS. on the wrappers.

Insist upon having the genuine DR. C. McLANE'S LIVER PILLS, prepared by Fleming Bros., of Pittsburgh, Pa., the market being full of imitations of the name McLane, spelled differently but same pronunciation.

BUCK'S IMPROVED

BRILLIANT STOVE.

Is acknowledged to be the

BEST COOK-STOVE MADE.

SOLD BY

H. HALLER,

NEW ORLEANS.

DEALER IN ALL KINDS OF

Cooking and Heating Stoves of the most improved makes, stamped, Plain and Japanned Tin ware, Plated and Enameled Hollow-ware, Iron and Clay Furnaces, Tinner's Stock, Granite Iron-ware, Lamp burner and Wick to suit, Tinned Iron Spoons and Forks, Coffee Mills of all kinds, Plantation ware, Sad Irons, Fire Grates, Fluting machines, etc.

H. HALLER,

No. 55 Camp St., New Orleans

Price-lists mailed on application.

OFFICE OF THE

Crescent Mutual Insurance Co.

New Orleans, May 17, 1879.

THIRTIETH ANNUAL STATEMENT.

The trustees, in conformity to the amended charter, submit the following statement of the affairs of the company on the thirtieth of April, 1879:

Fire Premiums	$168,168 06
Marine Premiums	24,051 22
River Premiums	66,821 25
		$258,543 52
Net earned premiums	$224,143 52
Less reinsurance	18,716 40
Less return premiums	5,626 57
	19,342 97
		204,800 55
LOSSES.
Fire losses	$36,038 94
Marine losses	9,337 86
River losses	28,576 05
	$73,952 35
Taxes, expenses, discount, profit and loss, less, interest, rents, salvage, savings, etc	36,442 66
		110,395 01
Net profits		$94,405 54

The company have the following assets:

Bills receivable	$21,461 83
Loans on bond and mortgage	31,175 00
		$51,636 83
Loans on call	$52,552 61
Cash on hand	48,521 02
		101 073 63
Real estate		109,108 08
City bonds, bank and other stock		94,632 58
Premiums in course of collection		25,697 82
Suspense account and stock fractions		14,158 62
		$406,207 59

The foregoing statement is a true and correct transcript from the books of the Company.

THOS. A. ADAMS, President.

HENRY V. OGDEN, Secretary.

Sworn to and subscribed before me, this seventeenth day of May, A. D. 1879.

ALFRED INGRAHAM, Notary Public.

The Board of Trustees this day resolved, after paying ten per cent. in cash to the stockholders, and carrying to profit and loss $15,740, on account of the Mechanics' and Traders' Bank stock held by this Company, and also a further sum for shrinkage in values, to declare a dividend of twenty per cent. in cash on the net participating premiums, payable on Monday, the sixteenth of June next.

TRUSTEES.

Thos. A. Adams,	Sam'l B Newman,
Sam'l H. Kennedy,	John Phelps,
Adam Thomson,	Henry Abraham,
Victor Meyer,	Joseph Bowling,
Edw'd J. Gay,	Simon Hernsheim,
Simon Forchelmer,	Joseph B Wolfe,
R. B. Post,	Edward Pilsbury,
John E. King,	Fred'k Camerden,
Joseph W. Stone,	George Martin,
Alfred Moulton,	D. C. Jurey,
Edward Nalle,	George W Sentell,
Paul E. Mortimer,	John V. Moore,
W. B. Conger,	Henry McPherson,
Reuben G. Bush,	John M. Parker.

Mechanics' and Traders' Ins. Co

NEW ORLEANS, LA.

No. 14 CARONDELET STREET,

Solicits Fire, River & Marine Risks

GEO. H. FROST, Act'g Secretary. LLOYD R. COLEMAN, President.

F. C. GREGORY, Ass't Sec. & Fire Clerk.
JNO. C. WOOD, Marine and River Clerk.
F. AUZOUT, Inspector, etc
J. Y. B. HASKELL, Collector.
Capt. S. B. FROST, Marine Inspector.

TRUSTEES.

Hugh Allison,	Robert L. Moore,
J. H. Allen,	H. J. Millaud,
J. A. Braselman,	Ed. Nalle,
Jno. D. Britton,	F. J. Odendahl,
Sam. Boyd,	Emile J. O'Brien,
Isaac Bloom,	Wm. A. Peale,
T. J. Carver,	J. M. Putnam,
Geo. W. Cary,	L. L. Raulett,
Jno. D. Cobb,	H. W. Sentell,
H. Dudley Coleman,	W. H Thompson,
Wm L. Cushing,	W. P. Vinet,
J. M. Frankenhush,	J. M. Walsh,
Ben. Garson,	Meyer Well,
P. G. Ghert,	T. S. Waterman,
J. Davidson Hill,	Fred'k Wing,
M. Johnson	C. W. Wood.

Lloyd R. Coleman.

NOTICE.

Yesterday's fire will cause no interruption in my business. All orders for Cigar Boxes and Packing cases will be executed as usual, and delivered direct from my saw mill until the Box Factory is rebuilt.

HENRY OTIS,
Office, 74 Magazine street.

SOUTHERN

CHURCH ORGAN

MANUFACTORY,

No. 103 Baronne Street,

Under the National Theater,

NEW ORLEANS, LA.

PETER VEITER, Proprietor.

Church Organs tuned and repaired all over the South.

FRESH FISH --FRESH FISH.

POMPANO, SPANISH MACKEREL AND RED SNAPPER.

can be bought at moderate prices by calling on

Batholomew, Talon & Co,
At French Market.

WINTELER & RICKS,

DEALERS IN

Leather and Shoe

FINDINGS,

TOOLS, OILS, ETC.,

MANUFACTURERS OF

Boot, Gaiter and Shoe Uppers.

168 POYDRAS STREET,

NEW ORLEANS.

NOW OPEN.

Schroeder's Family Garden,

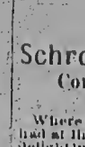
Corner Short and Levee Sts.,

CARROLLTON.

Where all the delicacies of the season can be had at the most moderate rates. Comfortable and delightfully cool Dining Rooms. PURE CREAM, SPRING CHICKENS, etc., a Specialty.

MRS. F. SCHRODER,
Proprietress.

Blount Springs, Alabama.



THE most accessible mountain Summer resort in the South. Only eighteen hours ride from New Orleans. Pure, bracing air. The best mineral water on the Continent. All chronic diseases successfully treated; dyspepsia a specialty. Send to the Proprietor for circulars, etc., or call on T. E. Crammer, corner Camp and Common streets, for information.

S. H. HOLT Proprietor,
Blount Springs, Ala.

U. S. FOUR PER CENT. BONDS.

WE continue to sell these bonds, coupon and registered, at par and accrued interest. All deliveries made here, free of expense to purchasers.

NEW ORLEANS NATIONAL BANK,
A. BALDWIN, President.

BUCKEYE BELL FOUNDRY

Bells of Pure Copper and Tin for Churches, Schools, Fire Alarms, Farms, etc. FULLY WARRANTED. Catalogue sent Free.

VANDUZEN & TIFT, Cincinnati, O

MISCELLANEOUS.

5 NEW 5 BOOKS 5

For Temperance Gatherings.

Hull's Temperance Glee Book!

Received with the greatest favor. Great variety of Songs, Temperance and Social.

For Gospel Meetings & Sunday-Schools.

THE GOSPEL OF JOY!

By Rev. S. ALMAN and S. H. SPECK. Nothing fresher, newer, brighter or better of the kind has ever appeared. (35 cts.)

For Everybody.

PINAFORE! PINAFORE!

Almost everybody has it. All the Words, Wit and Music, with Libretto complete for $1. Send also for the SORCERER. Same authors, and quite as good music.

(In press.—FAVINITZA, the new Opera.)

For Musical Students.

Johnson's New Method of Harmony!

Emphatically a good, easy, interesting, thorough method. ($1.)

For Young Singers.

CINDERELLA! CIDERELLA!

New Cantata, by FRANZ ABT. For Female voices. Fine Music. (50 cents.)

Send $2.00 for the Musical Record one year.

OLIVER DITSON & CO., Boston.

C. H. DITSON & CO.,

843 BROADWAY, N. Y.

ZELL'S

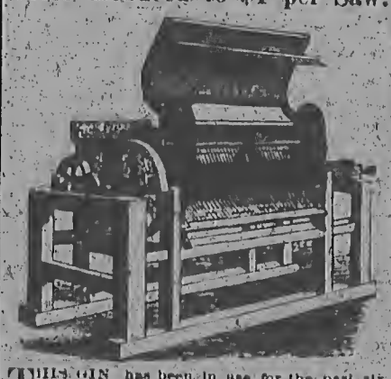
CONDENSED CYCLOPEDIA.

Rare opportunity for making money is now offered general agents and canvassers in the South on this exceedingly useful and low-priced book. 1000 pp., double column. 700 engravings, 16 double-page colored maps. Only $5 a copy. For terms and territory, address F. ZELLWOOD ZELL, DAVIS & CO., Philadelphia.

JOS. B. WOLFE & CO.,

Cotton Factors,

59 Carondelet St., New Orleans.



And General Agents for

DANIEL PRATT'S IMPROVED

"Revolving Head" Cotton Gin,

PATENTED JULY 15, 1873.

Price Reduced to $4 per Saw.

THIS GIN has been in use for the past six seasons, and several recent improvements have been added. It obviates all friction at the end of the cotton box; prevents the roll from breaking; and gives a larger yield of lint from the same amount of seed than any other Gin in use. The Revolving Head lightens the draft and causes the Gin to run faster with less driving power, thus doing a great deal more work with in the same time, while economizing steam or animal power, than any other Gin. The seed being ginned very close, the length of the staple is increased, producing cotton, on this account, of a greater market value. This improved value, given by length of staple, with extra production of lint, added to increased amount of work done, more than covers the cost of the Gin in every 100 bales ginned. Testimonials sent by mail on application.

FEEDERS and CONDENSERS with latest improvements also made by the Daniel Pratt Gin Co., to work with these Gins. Send for descriptive circulars.

JOS. B. WOLFE & CO.,
New Orleans, La.

For Portland Cement, German Flags, OR

SHILLINGER PATENT PAVEMENT.

ADDRESS

FRITZ JAHNCKE,

Box 144 Mechanics' Exchange, 308 Delord st., between Baronne and Carondelet.

COOPERAGE.—PHILIP HIRSCH, Cooper, 58 to 60 North Peters street, New Orleans, has for sale and keeps constantly on hand a large and selected stock of new clarified and open kettle Sugar Hogsheads and coffee & Sugar Barrels; Molasses Barrels, Half Barrels and Kegs, all sizes; also, choice hogshead and barrel Hoop Poles. Contracts for future delivery solicited. Prices moderate. Satisfaction guaranteed.

$25.00 to $35.00

STEWART'S NEW IMPROVED

SINGER

Sewing Machine

Great Reduction in Prices!

Down with Monopolies!

Hard Times demand Low Prices.

We warrant all our machines to be NEW, LATEST-IMPROVED and PERFECT for

FIVE YEARS.

Our NEW MACHINE is supplied with a LOOSE BALANCE-WHEEL, which is a great improvement over the old SINGER, as it enables the operator to wind the bobbin without running the machine, or removing the work from the needle. This is the most important improvement ever put on the Sewing Machine.

Also dealer in all first-class machines, such as the

WHEELER & WILSON,
GROVER & BAKER,
DOMESTIC,
WILSON,
WEED, Etc.

Cotton, Silk, Flax, Oil and Needles for all kinds of Machines. Address,

M. A. PECK,

General Sewing Machine Agent,

153 CANAL STREET,

Next to Holmes' Dry Goods Store,

New Orleans.

FANCY GOODS! FANCY GOODS!

SCHILLING'S

Millinery Emporium, Hair Work AND

FANCY GOODS BAZAR,

150.....CANAL STREET.....150

The assortment comprises the very latest styles in Millinery Materials, Hats and Bonnets; HAIR GOODS of every description, and the most recherche selections in Jewelry, Fans, Combs, Brushes, Dressing Cases, Specie Purses, Card Cases, Vienna Hill Ornaments, Porte Monnaies and Perfumery.

Your attention is particularly directed to my SPECIALTIES in fine Shell, Ivory and Pearl JET GOODS.

MILLINERY ARTICLES AND HAIR WORK.

C. T. SCHILLING,

150 CANAL STREET.

J. D. CRASSONS,

BOOT AND SHOE STORE,

NO. 26 FRENCHMEN ST., between Victory and Mureau, Third District, New Orleans.

A large assortment of Boots and Shoes always on hand, and made to order. Ladies', Children's and Gentlemen's Shoes manufactured to order.

MISCELLANEOUS.

ICE! ICE! ICE!

WHOLESALE AND RETAIL.

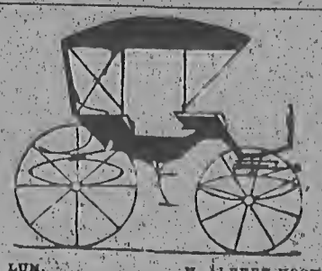
FAMILIES SUPPLIED AT LIBERAL RATES

ORDERS PROMPTLY ATTENDED TO.

WILLIAM MYERS,

NINTH STREET, between Magazine and Constance Sts., opposite the Market.

ATTENTION! ATTENTION!



M. ANDRIEU,

159 - POYDRAS STREET - 159

Home-Made Shoes, hand-sewed, $4 00

Home-Made Shoes, Screwed, $2 50-3 50

City-made Boots and Shoes of all kinds and styles, made of the very best material and workmanship, and at less prices than any other store in this city. Keeps all kinds for Gent.'s, Boys', Ladies' and Children's wear. Employs from 75 to 100 workmen constantly.

J. A. LUM. N. ALBERT HOOKER.

J. A. LUM & CO.,

MANUFACTURERS AND DEALERS IN

CARRIAGES, HARNESS, ETC.,

No. 33 Carondelet Street.

A Specialty made of Children's Carriages.

SAVE YOUR CARPETS

By having them cleaned by the

BOSTON PATENT STEAM

Carpet Beating and Renovating Co.

Office, 170 Camp Street,

Branch Office, 51 Royal Street,

Steam Carpet Beating and Renovating Works

16, 12, 14 and 16 Foyefarie St.,

Corner of Annunciation.

The undersigned is the sole proprietor of the Holmes Patent Reversible Whip Carpet-Beating Machine for cleaning Carpets and Matting for Dwellings, Churches, Public Buildings, Hotels, Steamboats, etc.

This, the Boston Patent Beater, has been in successful operation for the past fifteen years in all the principal cities in the United States, and has a world-renowned reputation as a carpet-cleaning machine.

This machine consists of a bed of endless straps, over which the carpets pass, and are beaten by a number of endless reflexible whips, restoring the color and removing all dust, dirt, vermin and moths, without the slightest injury to the finest fabric.

RENOVATING.

By the renovating process all Grease, Ink, Coal-Smoke, Soot, and stains of every description, are extracted from the carpets, restoring their original brightness of color. The quality of the restorative is not injurious to the most delicate tint or fabric, and is an actual preventive against moth. Send a Brussels or velvet rug, which will be cleaned gratis as a sample.

Plush and Moquet Furniture, Plush and Damask, Lambriquins, Window Shades, Damask Curtains, Blankets, Druggets, Piano and Table Covers, renovated to look like new.

Carpets taken up and relaid by first class workmen. No charge for taking up, packing or storing of Carpets.

Our rooms being easy of access, all, and especially ladies, are respectfully invited to call and see the machinery in operation and be convinced that this is the only way to have your Carpets thoroughly renovated from the dust, vermin and moths, for it cannot be done by hand beating. Every Carpet is cleaned under the personal supervision of the proprietors, and satisfaction in every respect guaranteed.

On receipt of orders we will send one of our covered wagons for and return your Carpets free of charge to any part of the City. All orders by mail or left at the office or works will be promptly attended to.

Beating Carpets, 3 cents per yard.
Renovating Carpets, 3 cents per yard.

H. L. JONES, Jr., Proprietor.
ALBERT PAUL, Agent.
Office—70 CAMP STREET.

Carpets and Mattings.

ELKIN & CO.

100.....CANAL STREET.....100

NEW PATTERNS.

CANTON MATTING, Best Quality.

WHITE AND CHECK.

CANTON MATTING, in all Grades.

Oil Cloths, all widths, Lignum and Linoleum Floor Cloths, Nottingham Lace Curtains, new designs, Window Shades and Cornices.

CARPETS OF ALL KINDS

At Reduced Prices.

F. FISCHER & SON,

PROPRIETORS

PICAYUNE SAW MILL,

FOOT OF CARROLLTON AVENUE,

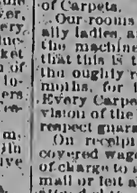
Seventh District, New Orleans.

CYPRESS PINE AND SHINGLES.

P. O. Box 17, Carrollton.

All bills and Orders will receive prompt attention.

GOODWYN'S EUREKA YEAST POWDER, a production of this city, in both popular with the trade and the delight of all experienced housekeepers; and no wonder, for it is an article of the very highest order of merit. Send for circulars and prices.



P. M. GOODWYN, Manufacturer,
No. 29 Constance Street, New Orleans, La.

RAOUL'S NOVELTY WOOD YARD,

Franklin St., cor. Erato.

Try it for satisfactory dealing. Oak and Ash wood, green and seasoned, kept on hand, sawed and split ready for stove use, or will be cut and split to suit any size stove, at short notice, and delivered in parishes, in wood-house, for $4.50 per half cord Ash, Oak $4.25. Guarantee no loss or waste in this wood.

Yard, 371 Franklin Street.

WIRE RAILING

AND

Ornamental Wire Works.

DUFUR & CO., No. 26 N. Howard St., Baltimore, manufacture WIRE RAILING for Cemeteries, Balconies, etc.; Sleeves, Fenders, Cages, Sand and Coal Screens, Wrought Wire, etc. Also Iron Bedsteads, Chairs, etc.

AGENTS WANTED.

AGENTS WANTED FOR THE

PICTORIAL

History of the World.

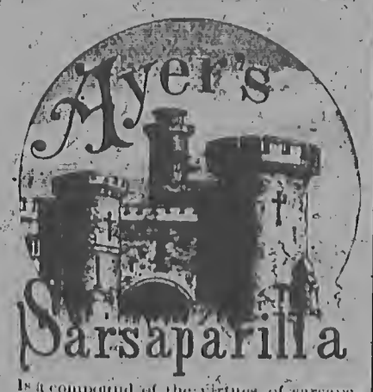
It contains 672 fine historical engravings and 1360 large double column pages, and it is the most complete History of the world ever published. It sells at sight. Send for specimen pages and extra terms to Agents, and see why it sells faster than any other book. Address

NATIONAL PUBLISHING Co., St. Louis, Mo.

$10 to $25 A DAY SURE MADE by Agents selling our Chromos, Crayons, Photos and Chromo Cards. 125 samples, worth $5, sent postpaid for 55 cents. Illustrated Catalogue free. J. H. BUFFORD'S SONS, Boston. Estab'd 1830.

HOW TO BE YOUR OWN LAWYER AGENTS Wanted. $50 to $125 a Month. An Encyclopedia of Law and Forms. For Business Men, Mechanics, Farmers, Property Owners, Tenants, everybody, every business. Saves many times cost. Selling fast. Send for circular and terms. P. W. ZIEGLER & CO., 631 Olive St., St. Louis, Mo.

MISCELLANEOUS.



WARRANTED
PURE
BEST IN THE WORLD
SOLD
EVERYWHERE
SOLD
EVERYWHERE
SOLD
EVERYWHERE

Scientific.

—Sir J. D. Hooker, in his anniversary address before the Royal Society, recently, asserts his belief that the greatest progress of recent times has been in the morphological knowledge of the lower orders of cryptogams. As noted in the Independent at the time when Schwendener's papers appeared, ten years ago, there seemed to be little doubt of the truth of his conclusions that lichens were compound plants, formed of fungi and algæ. But it was hardly to be expected that so wonderful a conclusion—wonderful in the light of all previous beliefs—should be quietly accepted by all Schwendener's contemporaries. Numerous very learned papers have appeared in opposition to this conclusion of Schwendener; but Dr. Hooker believes the increasing weight of evidence favors the new views, and he gives it as a fact that Stahl, taking up a challenge, actually made two well-known lichens—an Endocarpon and a Thallidium, by placing in juxtaposition the appropriate algæ and fungi. This, Dr. Hooker remarks, "may almost be regarded as deciding the question;" and the "almost" seems but an excess of scientific caution, and is probably induced by the fact that the distinguished Sachs has not wholly been converted. On spontaneous generation Dr. Hooker takes the negative side, and he regards the position of Dr. Dollinger, whose views against spontaneous generation have been given in our Scientific Notes, as very strong. He regards it as proved beyond doubt that infectious typhoid fever in the pig, as also splenic fever in other animals, are due to the germination of minute fungoid germs—Bacillus subtilis and Bacillus anthracis, and a Spirillum. Dr. Klein inoculated healthy pigs with the fluid containing the Bacilli; and the disease appeared in due time and followed its ordinary course. From the blood of horses that have died of fever a crop of Bacillus anthracis has been raised, while this fungus does not appear from the blood of healthy horses; and he further shows that the anthrax fever in animals can be produced at will by the use of this particular species of minute fungus.—Independent.

—Encke's comet has been found by the 26-inch equatorial instrument of the United States Naval Observatory. The Tribune says: "The reasons for the special interest taken in this comet may be briefly mentioned. Its orbit is entirely within the solar system. It was first seen in 1786, and was identified by Encke as a periodical comet in 1818. Its period is about 3 3 years. The disturbing influences of planets make the calculation of its path a matter of great difficulty. There is said to be evidence that it is gradually approaching the sun, and this is alleged as a proof that there is a resisting medium in space. A controversy over this question, which incidentally involves the destiny of the whole solar system, has been in progress for many years."

—In the course of the annual Rede lecture delivered at Cambridge, Prof. Clerk Maxwell, F. R. S., the lecturer this year, referred to the microphone as follows: "The Entomological Society have recently been much interested by Mr. Wood-Mason's discovery of a stridulating (i. e., sound producing) apparatus in scorpions. Perhaps ere long a microphone, placed in a nest of tropical scorpions, may be connected up to a receiver in the apartments of the society, so as to give the members and their musical friends an opportunity of deciding whether the musical state of the scorpion resembles that of the nightingale or that of the cat."

Is a compound of the virtues of sarsaparilla, stillingia, mandrake, yellow dock, with the iodide of potash and iron, all powerful blood-making, blood-cleansing, and life-sustaining elements. It is the purest, safest, and in every way the most effectual alterative medicine known or available to the public. The sciences of medicine and chemistry have never produced so valuable a remedy, nor one so potent to cure all diseases resulting from impure blood. It cures Scrofula, and all scrofulous diseases, Erysipelas, Rose or St. Anthony's Fire, Pimples and Face-grubs; Pustules, Blotches, Boils, Tumors, Tetter, Humors, Salt Rheum, Scald-head, Ringworm, Ulcers, Sores, Rheumatism, Mercurial Disease, Neuralgia, Female Weaknesses and Irregularities, Jaundice, Affections of the Liver, Dyspepsia, Emaciation, and General Debility.

By its searching and cleansing qualities it purges out the foul corruptions which contaminate the blood, and cause derangement and decay. It stimulates and enlivens the vital functions. It promotes energy and strength. It restores and preserves health. It infuses new life and vigor throughout the whole system. No sufferer from any disease which arises from impurity of the blood need despair, who will give AYER'S SARSAPARILLA a fair trial. Remember, the earlier the trial, the speedier the cure.

Its recipe has been furnished to physicians everywhere; and they, recognizing its superior qualities, administer it in their practice.

For nearly forty years AYER'S SARSAPARILLA has been widely used, and it now possesses the confidence of millions of people who have experienced benefits from its marvellous curative virtues.

Prepared by Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Practical and Analytical Chemists, Lowell, Mass.

SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS EVERYWHERE.

EDUCATIONAL.

MISSISSIPPI MILITARY INSTITUTE—SUMMER CAMPAIGN.

Scientific and pleasure excursion to Virginia Mountains and Washington, D. C. Tour begins about 25th June next. Twelve weeks' tour, including board, washing, tuition, railroad fare and medical attention, only $125.

Apply at Eyrichs' Book Store for circulars, or address, E. H. MURFEE Superintendent, Pass Christian, Miss.

Centenary Institute,

AN institution of learning, located at Summerfield, Alabama; was founded by the Alabama Conference and commenced operations in 1872, and has been in successful operation ever since. The Institute has two departments, male and female.

The buildings are of brick, large and elegant, sufficient to accommodate two hundred and fifty pupils. This is to notify all concerned that the Trustees intend, at their next annual meeting, June 23, to lease the building for five years to any person or persons competent to run the Institution in the interest of a church school.

Persons desiring further information will correspond with me at Summerfield, Ala.

A. H. MITCHELL, President Board of Trustees.

Summerfield, Ala., March 12, 1879.

Woodville Female Seminary.

A NON-SECTARIAN ACADEMY, UNDER the supervision of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, Mississippi Conference; Hon. E. McGehee, President of Board of Trustees. For Thoroughness of Instruction, healthfulness, cheapness, and many other advantages, is not surpassed. We invite those interested to examine our credentials, and to obtain circulars, by calling upon Mr. Philip Werlein, New Orleans, La., or address the Principal, A. J. WRIGHT, Woodville, Miss.

The Loquet-LeRoy Institute

AND KINDERGARDEN DAY AND BOARDING SCHOOL FOR YOUNG LADIES, 280 Camp street.—This institution has now reopened under the auspices of the Misses MOISE, Cecelia W., Sallie L., and Corinne, the latter relicts of the late R. G. Raoul, daughters of Judge F. Warren Moise, deceased, successors of Mme Loquet LeRoy, whose good will and right to conduct the School under the old name they have purchased. Except in so far as the proprietors may enter into active service, there will be no change of teachers. No change whatever in the conduct and management of the School. They respectfully solicit a continuance of the patronage heretofore so liberally extended to the institution, and that of their friends; and the public generally, promising strict devotion to every interest of the pupils committed to their charge. C. W. MOISE, Principal.

REFERRING TO THE ABOVE MADAME LOQUET-LEROY announces to her friends and former patrons the entire confidence she has in her successors being in every way suited to the high trust they have assumed. She bespeaks for them a continuance of the patronage so liberally accorded her, and that she will still be actively connected with the institution. For terms and particulars apply to the principal.

HIWASSEE COLLEGE,

(Postoffice the same)

MONROE COUNTY, EAST TENNESSEE.

PARENTS desiring to find a safe and healthy location for their sons during the summer season, would do well to patronize the above-named institution under the patronage of the Holston Annual Conference, Methodist Episcopal Church, South. The spring term closes May 22, and Fall session begins

FIRST MONDAY IN AUGUST, 1879.

Students arriving before the latter date will be beyond the reach of epidemics, and will thus secure some months of profitable study before Colleges usually open in less favored localities.

Excellent board in College Boarding House by D. A. McKenzie, the well known farmer-steward, at ten dollars per month, washing included. Same in good private families at nine dollars. Tuition, College Course, twenty dollars; English Course, fifteen dollars.

J. H. BRUNNER, D. D., President. F. M. GRACE A. M., Secretary.

WOOD! WOOD! WOOD!

Those who are desirous of securing CHEAP WOOD AND COAL, will find it to their interest to send their orders to the JACKSON WOOD YARD, 116 JACKSON STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

GRAUGNARD & SCHNEIDER, DEALERS IN Fine Cut Chewing, Snuff and Smoking TOBACCO, HAVANA AND DOMESTIC CIGARS, 46 Magazine Street, New Orleans, La. Brier Root and all other varieties of Pipes constantly on hand.

$5,000 A YEAR for honest, intelligent men or agents. New business; light work. Address, J. B. CHAPMAN, Madison, Indiana

MARBLE —AND— GRANITE

TOMBS, MONUMENTS AND GRAVE STONES.

Mantels, Grates Hearths, Tiling, Flagging, etc.

GEO. STROUD.

654 St. Charles street, New Orleans, La.

Broadway Foundry Co.

JOHN J. HOLLIDAY, SUPERINTENDENT,

313 Carr Street, ST. LOUIS, MO.

Manufacturers of Stationary and Portable

Steam Engines and Boilers

MULAY AND CIRCULAR SAW MILLS,

Saw and Grist Mill Machinery, Rolling Mill and Blast Furnace Castings, Wrought Shafting and House Work. PARKER'S & JOHNSON'S WATER WHEELS. Tobacco and Lard Press Screws, Compound Tobacco Presses, Lard Kettles Iron and Brass CASTINGS of every description; also Quartz Mills and Smelting Furnaces of most improved descriptions.

Have PURCHASED ALL THE WHEEL & PULLEY PATTERNS OF GATY, M'CUNE & CO.

J. B. DAVIES, late of Louisville, Mechanical Man'r.

FOUNDED JULY 4, 1808.

OLDEST SHOT TOWER IN AMERICA

THOS. W. SPARKS,

Patent American Chilled Shot,

Standard Drop and Buck Shot

AND BAR LEAD MANUFACTURER,

131 WALNUT STREET, PHILADELPHIA.

NORTON & MANNING, Agents, NEW ORLEANS.

G. B. MILLER & CO., Agents, GALVESTON.

Pontchartrain Cheap Store.

J. A. LACROIX,

CORNER FRENCHMEN AND VICTORY STS.

LADIES', GENT'S, MISSES' AND CHILDREN'S

BOOTS AND SHOES

OF ALL DESCRIPTIONS.

Always on hand a full assortment of first-class goods, at prices which defy competition. Call and examine my stock before purchasing elsewhere.

MY MOTTO—"Quick Sales and Small Profits."

Jackson railroad cars pass in front of the store.

PROFESSIONAL CARDS.

WM. L. THOMPSON, ATTORNEY AT LAW,

Office, Garza Building, corner Houston and Soledad Sts.

SAN ANTONIO, TEXAS.

DR. E. P. DORENUS, DENTIST, SUCCESSOR TO DR. DICKEY,

110 Canal street, over E. T. Waiske's, NEW ORLEANS.

Special attention given to the preservation of the natural teeth.

DR. C. J. BICKHAM, RESIDENCE AND OFFICE,

230 Jackson St., Bet. Chestnut and Coliseum.

NEW ORLEANS.

Office Hours—Eight A. M. and three to four P. M.

DR. J. J. LYONS, NO. 319 CARONDELET STREET

Between Julia and St. Joseph.

New Orleans, La.

CARRIAGES, WAGONS, ETC.

FIRST PREMIUM AT ST. LOUIS FOR 1878.

JOHN KIMPEL, Manufacturer of CARRIAGES AND BUGGIES,

PLATFORM WAGONS, TRUCKS, LIGHT AND HEAVY SPRING WAGONS.

208, 210, 212 & 214 Spruce St. ST. LOUIS, MO.

Barouches, Buggies and all kinds of Spring Wagons.

J. THOMSON & BROS., IMPORTERS AND DEALERS IN CARRIAGE, WAGON AND CART-MAKERS' MATERIAL,

And Manufacturers of Light Carriages and Spring Wagons,

All at Reasonable Prices.

68 AND 70 SOUTH RAMPART ST., Between Common and Gravier, NEW ORLEANS.

BUSINESS CARDS.

WATCHES.

LADY'S GOLD WATCHES,	$30 and upward.
GENT'S GOLD WATCHES,	$45 and upward.
GENT'S SILVER WATCHES,	$18 and upward.
BOYS' SILVER WATCHES,	$12 and upward.

All guaranteed.

A. B. GRISWOLD & CO., Cor. Canal and Royal Sts.

RICE, BORN & CO., 89.....CAMP STREET.....91

WAREHOUSE—143, 145 & 147 MAGAZINE ST., NEW ORLEANS,

IMPORTERS AND DEALERS IN FOREIGN AND DOMESTIC HARDWARE!

BUILDERS' HARDWARE, GRATES, CUTLERY, STOVES, HOUSE-FURNISHING GOODS, ETC.

SOLE AGENTS FOR THE CHARTER OAK STOVE

HOWE SCALE and BARBED FENCE WIRE.

The Stewart Stove WITH LATEST IMPROVEMENT, is now the LEADING STOVE OF THE AGE.

There can be no failure in its perfect operation. Will outlast and consume less fuel than any other stove made.

Can be had for coke, coal or wood.

Hot-water attachments for bathing, etc., can be attached with but little extra cost.

Pieces to repair old Stewart Stoves constantly on hand.

J. H. CAMPMAN, 133 Poydras Street.

MENEELYS' BELLS,

For Churches, etc. Known to the public since 1826, are made only at "THE MENEELY BELL FOUNDERY," West Troy, N. Y. Catalogues free.

HEATH, PIFFET & LARA, IMPORTERS AND DEALERS IN CARPETS, FLOOR OIL CLOTHS,

UPHOLSTERY GOODS, Wall Paper, Window Shades, Cornices, Lace and Nottingham Curtains, Mirrors, Moldings, Chromos, Engravings, etc.

Frames made to order—a specialty.

No. 99 Camp Street, New Orleans.

WATCHES AND JEWELRY, 17 BARONNE STREET,

Bet. Common and Canal, NEW ORLEANS.

ALSO LOAN OFFICE,

Private entrance to right of show window.

Unredeemed pledges of every description sold at very low prices and with full guarantee.

OTTO SCHWANER.

Watches and Jewelry carefully repaired, Jewelry at low cash prices.

AROMATIC SALICYLINE TOOTH WASH FOR THE TEETH, GUMS & BREATH

Warranted Pure, Harmless and Unalliable, imparting the most fragrant Perfume to the breath (Otar of Roses and Sweet Myrrh), gives a healthy tone to the gums, cures all sores in the mouth, and by the action of its antiseptic curative qualities, removes all offensiveness of the breath, cleanses, beautifies and preserves the teeth; applied to decayed teeth it annihilates the pain almost immediately. Endorsed by the most Eminent Physicians and Dentists of Europe and America. It contains no deleterious ingredients, such as used in other preparations now in the market. Price $1 00 per box (containing a large bottle Best Wash, and box of finest Powder) Sent to any address on receipt of price. Manufactured by Rucpessa Salicylic Medicine Co., at Paris and Lepsic. Address Washburne & Co., Sole Agents. Only Importers' Depot, 73 & 75 Nassau Street, New York, U. S. A. For sale by Druggists, Perfumery and Fancy Goods Dealers. 26w

MISCELLANEOUS.

G. W. DUNBAR'S SONS, 3 Tchoupitoulas St., New Orleans, PRESERVERS AND PACKERS OF SHRIMP, FRESH OKRA, ARTICHOKES, MANUFACTURERS OF STANDARD FRUIT SIRUPS.

FOR SALE BY WHOLESALE AND RETAIL GROCERS.

FOR THE VERY BEST AND NEVER FADING PHOTOGRAPHS GO TO Lilienthal's 121 CANAL ST. Turo Building.

D. H. HOLMES, 155 Canal Street, - - - 15 Bourbon Street.

Our Stock of Spring Goods is now complete, consisting of the latest novelties in SILKS, LACES, DRESS GOODS IN WORSTED FABRICS BLACK GRENADINES IN SILK AND WOOL, LINEN LAWNS, ORGANDIES, AND PERCALES, HOSIERY in all Styles and Colors, A Complete Assortment of MATTINGS

SAMPLES sent free of charge.

D. H. HOLMES 155 CANAL STREET.

COTTON PRESSES

REYNOLD'S IRON WORKS, C. W. HOTCHKISS, Superintendent.

Corner South Market and Fulton streets, New Orleans, La., MANUFACTURER OF Reynold's Revolving Wrought Iron Screw Plantation Cotton Press, And Reynold's Reversing Gear Power Press.

Over One thousand of these Presses are now in use, and are acknowledged to be the most perfect Plantation Presses in every particular at present known.

Timp's Patent Hand and Power Elevators,

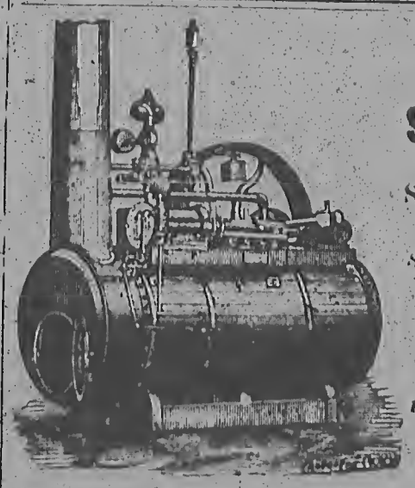
For use in Stores, Warehouses, Factories, Hotels and Private Dwellings. These Elevators are now in use on the plantations of John S. Wallis, Esq., J. W. Godberry, Esq., Mrs. R. S. Welham, and many others, as well as in numerous stores in New Orleans, and have proved themselves extremely valuable in saving time and labor.

Capt. Jos. Menge's New Improved Dredge-Boat

Which is now in successful operation on the Magnolia Plantation; also operating in St. Mary Parish by the Louisiana Land Reclamation Company, of which Commons H. Allen is President. Parties desiring information respecting the merits etc., of this superior Dredge can obtain same by addressing as above, or Capt. Jos. Menge, Pointe Michel, Plaquemines parish, La.

Cemetery Tombs Iron Fronts for Buildings, Columns, Railings, Castings of all kinds, and Iron Works in General.

R. M. & B. J. MONTGOMERY, FURNITURE EMPORIUM, MORESQUE BUILDING, Corner Camp and Poydras Streets,



Owing to the lateness of the season, and not wishing to carry them over the summer months we have made great reductions in the price of all our line

BEDROOM AND PARLOR SUITS, FRENCH PLATE MIRRORS, FANCY AND ORNAMENTAL FURNITURE.

We also have a complete stock of Medium and Common Furniture; Office, Hall and Library Furniture, Bent Wood, Cane Chairs, Rockers and Benches; Lawn Benches, with Awning Attachments; Invalid Reeking and Wheel Chairs; Spring Beds; Spiral, Woven Wire, Spring, Hair and Moss Mattresses; Feather Pillows and Bolsters; the Patent Elliptic Spring Pillow, the best ever invented for a warm climate; Rattan and Perforated Seat Chairs; Rockers and Settees; the Victor Folding and Lock Desk, the best school desk extant.

Our stock of FURNITURE and MIRRORS is one of the largest in the country and we can successfully compete with any house North or South. Commission merchants and country orders solicited. All goods delivered free of charge. Give us a trial before purchasing.

N. B.—We are prepared to re-upholster Parlor Suits and Chairs in any goods prices may select.

PAYNE'S PORTABLE STEAM ENGINES, 5 To 15 HORSE POWER.

Strong, Simple and Durable.

BEST PLANTATION ENGINE MADE.

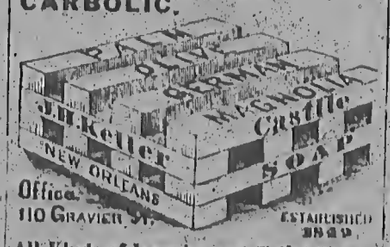
Send for Special Price List of this and other styles Engines, Boilers, etc.

B. J. WEST, SOLE AGENT, 115 and 117 Magazine Street, NEW ORLEANS.

Plantation Hardware, Agricultural Implements, Saw Mills, Gins, etc.

ANDERSON, HARRIS & CO., Wholesale Manufacturers of Buggies, Phætons, CARRIAGES AND VEHICLES OF EVERY DESCRIPTION,

OFFICE AND FACTORY: N. E. Cor. Baymiller and Liberty Sts., CINCINNATI.



Sixth Street (Green) Cars pass the door.

ESTABLISHED IN 1835. LEEDS' FOUNDRY, Cor. Delord and Poucher Sts.

Established in St. Louis in 1850.

R. L. ROSEBROUGH SONS, Marble Works, No. 1431 BROADWAY, Between O'Fallon and Cass Avenues, ST. LOUIS, MO.

J. H. KELLER, MANUFACTURER OF CARBOLIC.

Office 110 Gravier St. ESTABLISHED 1869.

All Kinds of Laundry and Toilet Soaps.

MISCELLANEOUS.

PERFORATED VENEER SEATS AND CHAIRS

For use in Churches, Halls and Lodges, are coming into general use on account of their Comfort, Durability, Cleanliness, and Ornament.

No. 118.

Churches intending to buy Chairs or Settees will do well to correspond with

CARDNER & CO., Patentees and Manufacturers, 183 CANAL ST., NEW YORK.

COAL.....COAL.....COAL.

B. D. WOOD & BROS., Corner Camp and Common Streets, Opposite the City Hotel,

Wholesale and Retail dealers in all kinds of COAL. Pittsburg Coal delivered by boat-load or less on the coast, and shipped in casks or in bulk, at lowest market rates. City trade supplied.

ROSES Over 81, 14 for $2, post-paid. Descriptive Catalogue for Plants by mail. Greenhouse Plants, Bedding Plants, etc. Address J. T. Phillips & Son, West Grove, Chester Co., Pa. 26w

BOOKS ESTABLISHED 20 YEARS. Books imported from Eastern publishers at wholesale rates. Special attention to mail orders. Catalogue 5 cents. Depot for Methodist Publications. J. W. McINTYRE, 406 Olive St., St. Louis, Mo. 26w

LADY AGENTS WANTED FOR MADAME GRISWOLD'S

PATENT SKIRT-SUPPORTING CORSETS,

21 E. 14th St. New York.

BRANCH OFFICE: No. 44 WINTER ST., BOSTON, MASS.

Any of the above goods sent by mail, postage prepaid, on receipt of the list price. Send for descriptive circular.

CAUTION!

Before purchasing look for Stamp and Trade Mark.

DR. S. C. KRAM, MANUFACTURER OF THE SURE CURE TRUSS, N.W. cor Fifth & Elm sts., Cincinnati, O.

THE BEST TRUSS IN THE WORLD!

Those who have suffered untold agony for years, by wearing the Metallic Spring Trusses will find in the Sure Cure Truss all that has ever been published—a sure cure for all the ills attendant upon rupture. It is a BELT TRUSS, no springs, strong elastic belt, back, Vulcanite rubber pads that never blister, never slip. Can be worn at night.

Testimonials of cures can be seen at the office. No. 1 Single Trusses, (the best manufactured, warranted, at $3 for single, $4 for double. Examinations free.

Trusses sent free by mail on receipt of order and money. Send stamp for circular.

MARSDEN'S PECTORAL BALM, THE GREAT REMEDY FOR COUGHS, COLDS, AND CONSUMPTION.

G. R. FINLAY & CO., New Orleans, La., Sole Agts.

FOR SALE BY ALL DRUGGISTS.

DR. S. H. P. LEE'S LITHONTRIPTIC

CURES STONE AND GRAVEL, GALL STONES, DIABETES, GOUT, ENLARGEMENT OF THE PROSTATE GLAND, and in its incipient stages, BRIGHT'S DISEASE.

[TRADE MARK.] DISSOLVES STONE AND GRAVEL in the Kidneys, Liver and Bladder. It is now for the first time given to the public as a cure for the most distressing kidney affections. Send for pamphlet to depot of the S. H. P. LEE COMPANY, No. 40 Clinton Place, New York city. Sold by druggists.

POOLE & HUNT, BALTIMORE, MANUFACTURERS OF THE POOLE & HUNT LEFFEL TURBINE WATER WHEELS, MACHINE MOULDED MILL GEARING, SHAFTING, PULLEYS AND HANGERS, STEAM ENGINES AND BOILERS, MIXERS FOR FERTILIZERS AND CHEMICALS

PRICES CURRENT

IN

THE NEW ORLEANS MARKETS.

REVISED AND CORRECTED WEEKLY.

☞ Correspondents should bear in mind that our quotations represent prices for round lots; and in filling small orders higher rates must be paid.

GROCERIES.

Butter, ₩ lb.:
Western	20	23
New York, good to creamy	13	14
Coffee, ₩ lb.:
Rio, fair	13¾	14¼
Rio, good	14¼	14¾
Rio, prime	14¾	15
Candles, ₩ lb.:
Star, best brands	11	11½
Corn Meal, ₩ bbl.:
Best, K. D.	3 00	— —
Cheese, ₩ lb.:
Factory	5½	6
N. Y. cream and English dairy	9	10
Fish:
Mackerel, extra No. 1, in bbls	— —	18 00
Mackerel, extra No. 1, in kits	— —	2 00
Sardines, quarter boxes	— —	— —
Flour, ₩ bbl.:
Superfine	4 00	— —
XX	4 90	5 0
XXX	5 25	5 50
Choice XXX	5 75	— —
Choice family	5 85	5 90
Fruits:
Dried apples, ₩ lb.	3	3½
Dried peaches, ₩ lb.	— —	— —
Raisins, ₩ quarter box	50	55
Raisins, ₩ half box	— —	1 00
Raisins, ₩ whole box	1 50	— —
Bananas, ₩ bunch	1 00	2 00
Crackers, ₩ lb.:
Soda	5	6
Butter	6	7
Sugar	5	6
Gingersnaps	9	12½
Oil:
Coal, in cases, best	20	23
Coal, in barrels, best	15	16
Insurance, in cases	— —	40
Insurance, in barrels	— —	35
Lard, in barrels, best	58	60
Molasses, in barrels:
Common	25	— —
Fair	28	— —
Prime to choice	32	35
Golden and Request strups	— —	— —
Halfbbls. 5c. and kegs 10c. more.
Rice, Louisiana, ₩ lb.:
No. 2	4¼	4¾
Ordinary	6	— —
Fair	6¼	6¾
Prime to choice	7	7½
Soap, in boxes, ₩ lb.:
XXX Palm	6	— —
Keller's magnolia	3½	— —
Keller's olive	4¼	— —
Starch, ₩ lb.	2½	2¾
Salt, in sacks:
Fine	1 4	1 45
Coarse	80	90
Sugar:
Good fair	— —	— —
Prime	— —	— —
Choice	6¼	— —
Yellow clarified	6¾	7
White clarified	— —	— —
Crushed	9	— —
Powdered	9	— —
Spices, ₩ lb.:
Allspice	13½	— —
Pepper	13½	14
Cloves	45	— —
Cinnamon	— —	— —
Tea, ₩ lb.:
Black Oolong	27½	1 10
Green imperial	80	90
Tobacco:
Low lugs		@ 3
Medium	3	@ 3½
Good to fine	3½	@ 4½
Low leaf	4½	@ 5
Medium	5½	@ 6
Good	7	@ 8
Fine	7	@ 8
Selections	9	@ 10

GRAIN AND FEED.

Corn, ₩ bushel:
Yellow	52	— —
White	56	— —
Mixed	50	— —
Oats, ₩ bushel:
St. Louis	40	41
Texas	— —	— —
Galena	— —	— —
Bran, choice, ₩ 100 lbs.	— —	80
Hay, ₩ ton:
Prime	— —	17 50
Ordinary	15 00	— —
Cow Peas:
Whippoorwill	1 20	1 30
Mixed	1 45	1 50
Clay	1 60	— —

PROVISIONS.

Bacon, ₩ lb.:
Breakfast	8½	— —
Shoulders	4½	4¾
Sides, clear rib	6½	6¾
Sides, clear	5¾	6
Hams, sugar-cured	9½	10
Mess Pork, ₩ bbl.	10 87½	11 00
Dry Salted Meats:
Shoulders	3¾	3¾
Lard, ₩ lb.:
Choice, in kegs and pails	7¼	7½
Choice, in tierces and barrels	6¾	6¾

EDULENTS.

Potatoes, ₩ bbl.	4 00	— —
Onions, ₩ bbl.	3 25	— —
Apples, ₩ bbl.	— —	— —
Cabbages, ₩ 100	6 00	10 00

WOOL.

Burry	11	15
Louisiana, clear	24	26
Lake, clear	30	31

BALING STUFFS.

Bagging:
India	— —	— —
Jute	10¾	11
Ties, Arrow, best, per bundle, 20 ties and buckles	— —	2 5
Twine, hemp	13½	14

POULTRY AND EGGS.

Poultry, ₩ dozen:
Old chickens	4 25	— —
Young	2 25	3 00
Ducks	2 25	3 00
Geese	3 00	4 00
Turkeys	12 00	— —
Eggs, ₩ dozen:
Western	14	16
Louisiana	15	18

FACTORY FACTS.

Close confinement, careful attention to all factory work, gives the operatives pallid faces, poor appetite, languid, miserable feelings, poor blood, inactive liver, kidneys and urinary troubles, and all the physicians and medicine in the world cannot help them unless they get out doors or use Hop Bitters, made of the purest and best remedies, and especially for such cases, having abundance of health, sunshine and rosy cheeks in them. None need suffer if they will use them freely. They cost but a trifle. See another column.—Adv.

The French Geographical Society has presented gold medals to Ensign de Brazza for his expedition up the Ogone river (West Africa,) to Lieut. Wyse for exploring the Isthmus of Darien, and to Capt. Nares, of the British navy, for his Arctic expedition of 1875-76.

BENSON'S CAPCINE POROUS PLASTER.

A WONDERFUL REMEDY.

There is no comparison between it and the common slow acting porous plaster. It is in every way superior to all other external remedies including liniments and the so-called electrical appliances. It contains new medicinal elements which in combination with rubber, possesses the most extraordinary pain relieving, strengthening and curative properties. Any Physician in your own locality will confirm the above statement. For Lame Back, Rheumatism, Female Weakness, Stubborn and Neglected Colds and Coughs, diseased Kidneys, Whooping Cough, affections of the heart, and all ills for which porous plasters are used, it is simply the best known remedy. Ask for Benson's Capcine Porous Plaster and take no other. Sold by all Druggists. Price 25 cents. Sent on receipt of price by Seabury & Johnson, 21 Platt street, New York.

COMMERCIAL.

ADVOCATE OFFICE,
NEW ORLEANS, Monday, June 9, 1879.

COTTON.

The inquiry appears to be limited, without any material variation in prices, the advantage, however, being on the side of the buyers. Sales thus far, 180 bales.

The following is the official closing of the Cotton Exchange:

	To-Day.	Saturday
Low ordinary	11	11⅛
Ordinary	11⅛	11⅝
Good ordinary	11⅝	12
Low middling	12⅛	12⅛
Middling	12⅜	12⅝
Good middling	12⅝	12⅞
Middling fair	13	13⅛

Sales to-day, 180, bales. Market dull.

MOVEMENT AT PORTS.

Receipts at United States ports, week ending Monday, June 9, 1879.

	Saturday.	Sunday and Monday.	This week last year.
New Orleans	41	167	2,116
Galveston	11	435	1 505
Mobile	9	77	866
Savannah	16	422	2,468
Charleston	10	9	361
Wilmington	1	20	167
Norfolk	43	261	1 741
Baltimore			177
New York	7		121
Boston	693	372	1,411
Philadelphia		4	16
Other ports			313
Total	2 436		12,143

FUTURES.

The position of the market at New York may be seen by the following:

Middling.	To-day.	Saturday.
January	11.31@11.35	11.37@11.39
February
March
April
May
June	13.07@13.09	13.10@13.13
July	13.15@13.18	13.25@13.26
August	13.32@13.34	13.40
September	13.02@13.03	13.11
October	11.98@11.99	12.07@12.08
November	11.43@11.44	11.49@11.50
December	11.31@11.32	11.36@11.38

Sales, 45,200 bales. Market weak.

A noted colored caterer being remonstrated with by a layman who was to have a "minister's meeting" at his house for his seemingly too-bountiful provision for their wants, shut off discussion by the terse, if inelegant exclamation, "Then plous folks eats awful!"

Mrs. Partington has been reading the health officer's weekly reports, and thinks "total" must be an awful malignant disease, since as many die of it as of all the rest put together.

MISCELLANEOUS.

TUTT'S PILLS

INDORSED BY

PHYSICIANS, CLERGYMEN AND THE AFFLICTED EVERYWHERE.

THE GREATEST MEDICAL TRIUMPH OF THE AGE.

TUTT'S PILLS CURE SICK HEADACHE.
TUTT'S PILLS CURE DYSPEPSIA.
TUTT'S PILLS CURE CONSTIPATION.
TUTT'S PILLS CURE PILES
TUTT'S PILLS CURE FEVER AND AGUE.
TUTT'S PILLS CURE BILIOUS COLIC.
TUTT'S PILLS Cure KIDNEY Complaint.
TUTT'S PILLS CURE TORPID LIVER.
TUTT'S PILLS IMPART APPETITE.

DR. TUTT has succeeded in combining in these pills the heretofore antagonistic qualities of a STRENGTHING, PURGATIVE, and a PURIFYING TONIC.

Their first apparent effect is to increase the appetite by causing the food to properly assimilate. Thus the system is nourished, and by their tonic action on the digestive organs, regular and healthy evacuations are produced.

The rapidity with which PERSONS TAKE ON FLESH while under the influence of these pills, indicates their adaptability to nourish the body, hence their efficacy in curing nervous debility, melancholy, dyspepsia, wasting of the muscles, sluggishness of the liver, chronic constipation, and imparting health & strength to the system. Sold everywhere.

Price 25 cents.

Office
53 Murray Street,
NEW YORK.

COMPOUND OXYGEN.

A NEW TREATMENT for the cure of chronic diseases by a true process of re-vitalization.

REMARKABLE CURES in Consumption, Asthma, Catarrh, Bronchitis, Dyspepsia, Headache, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, and the large class of ailments which come from nervous depression.

LOSS OF VITALITY feebleness of constitution, exposure to miasma, the enervating effects of climate, and especially IN SOUTHERN LATITUDES to the slow reaction which attends convalescence, and which dooms so many to permanent invalidism.

STRONGLY ENDORSED by the Hon. JOSEPH E. BROWN, Ex-Gov. GEORGIA; the Hon. T. J. ARTHUR, Ex-Gov. KENTUCKY; the Hon. MONTGOMERY BLAIR, Ex-Gov. MARYLAND; the Hon. JOSEPH E. BROWN, Ex-Gov. GEORGIA; the Hon. T. J. ARTHUR, Ex-Gov. KENTUCKY; the Hon. MONTGOMERY BLAIR, Ex-Gov. MARYLAND; the Hon. JOSEPHUS DANIELS, Ex-Gov. NORTH CAROLINA; the Hon. JOHN BOREMAN, Ex-Gov. WEST VIRGINIA; and others who have used the New Treatment.

FREE! A Treatise [200 pages] on COMPOUND OXYGEN, with many testimonials to most remarkable cures, sent free. Address DRS. STARKEY & PALEN, 1109 Girard St., Philada.

NEW RICH BLOOD!

PARSON'S PURGATIVE PILLS make New Rich Blood, and will completely change the blood in the entire system in three months. Any person who will take one each night from one to twelve weeks may be restored to sound health, if such a thing be possible. Sold everywhere or sent by mail for eight letter stamps.

I. S. JOHNSON & CO., Bangor, Me.

DR. F. WILHOFT'S

ANTI-PERIODIC

OR

FEVER AND AGUE TONIC,

Is deservedly the most popular

CHILL AND FEVER TONIC,

Because it is simply a preparation of Peruvian Bark without Quinine or any other dangerous drug; such as Arsenic, etc., and because during a great number of years it has proved itself to be a

SAFE AND PERFECT SPECIFIC

For the cure of

ALL MALARIAL DISEASES,

This remedy is guaranteed in every way by its proprietors.

WHEELOCK, FINLAY & CO.

Religious Notices.

COMMENCEMENT EXERCISES OF CENTENARY COLLEGE, JACKSON, LA.

Examination of Preparatory and College Classes, June 23-27.

Commencement Sermon, Sunday, June 29, by Rev. R. S. Woodward, of Natchez, Miss.

Meeting of Board of Trustees, Monday, June 30, at nine A. M.

Exhibition of Preparatory Department at half-past seven P. M.

Meeting of Alumni, Tuesday, July 1, at ten A. M. Address by Rev. C. W. Carter, of Bastrop, La.

Exhibition of Societies at half-past seven P. M. Address by ——

Commencement Day, Wednesday, July 2.

Next session begins on the first Monday in October. (24) C. G. ANDREWS, President.

COMMENCEMENT EXERCISES OF MANSFIELD FEMALE COLLEGE, MANSFIELD, LA.

The examination of the classes of this institution will be commenced on Friday, June 20, at 9 A. M. and will be closed on Tuesday, June 24, at 2 P. M.

The Commencement Sermon will be preached on Sunday, June 22, by Rev. Robert Randle, P. E., Shreveport district.

On Monday evening, June 23, at eight o'clock, the young ladies will give an entertainment, consisting of vocal and instrumental music, poetic recitations, and charades of pleasing merit.

Tuesday evening, June 24 beginning at eight o'clock, will be devoted chiefly to the performance of the famous operetta, "A Lesson in Charity—or The Miracle of the Roses," in one act and seven. Words by George Cooper; music by Luigi Bordese.

At ten A. M. Wednesday, the graduating exercises will take place and degrees will be conferred on eight young ladies. The Annual Literary Address will then be delivered by Rev. Joel T. Davis, pastor of the Methodist Church, Shreveport, La.

Admission on Monday and Tuesday night, 50 cents; children, 25 cents.

23 TIMS. ARMSTRONG, Prest.

PROGRAMME OF SOUTHERN UNIVERSITY.

SATURDAY, June 28, 9 A. M.—Meeting of the Board of Trustees.

SUNDAY, June 29, 10.30 A. M.—Commencement Sermon, by Rev. Felix R. Hill.

MONDAY, June 30, 10 A. M.—Prize Declamation. 8 P. M.—Exhibition of Belles Lettres Society.

TUESDAY, July 1, 10 A. M.—Annual Address before the Literary Societies, by Samuel W. Goodle. 11 A. M.—Alumni Address, by Hon. Huey. 8 P. M.—Annual Exhibition of Clariosophic Society.

WEDNESDAY, July 2, 10 A. M.—Orations of Graduating Class. Baccalaureate Address, Conferring Degrees. 8 P. M.—Alumni Reunion.

Usual reduction on railroads. You are cordially invited to attend.

Yours truly, C. M. VERDEL, Sec.

SEASHORE CAMP GROUND.—The regular annual camp-meeting on Seashore Camp Ground, for 1879, will commence on Wednesday, July 16, and continue from eight to ten days.

This camp ground is situated two miles west of Biloxi, Miss., and near midway from New Orleans to Mobile, fronting directly upon the Gulf of Mexico, less than one hundred yards from the sea, and less than five hundred from the New Orleans and Mobile Railroad. Occupying an elevated position, it is dry, clean and healthful, free from fevers, agues and epidemics. Shaded by a grove of rich and various foliage, and looking out upon the "wide, wide waves," it enjoys the cool, refreshing summer breezes of the sea, while the flowing waters of several mineral springs furnish free supplies of pleasant health giving drink.

Comfortable wooden tents or cottages of various dimensions, for individuals or families, are for rent on moderate terms.

The necessary but plain furniture for the same can be had at reasonable charge. Comfortable lodgings are furnished at fifty cents per night, and good board at the restaurant at fifty cents each, for breakfast and supper, and seventy-five cents for dinner, or $1 50 per day.

Reduced rates of fare and freight have been secured on the railroads.

On the New Orleans and Mobile Railroad the fare will be the same as last year, $3 20 from New Orleans, and $2 65 from Mobile, for the round trip, and tickets will be on sale at the depots on and after Monday morning, July 14, and will be good to the twenty-eighth inclusive. Freight will be received at the freight depots from the twelfth to the twenty-eighth of July inclusive, and be transported each way at half the usual rates.

The New Orleans, Chicago and St. Louis Railroad will furnish at all points on the road through tickets to the camp ground and return at five cents per mile over their road, with the addition of $3 20 to cover fare on the New Orleans and Mobile road.

On the Morgan, Louisiana and Texas road full fare from Morgan City to New Orleans, and return on same ticket free.

All the above tickets are required to be stamped on the camp-ground in order to be good to return on. All persons desiring information in regard to the camp ground are requested to address the undersigned or any member of the Board of Trustees.

W. H. FOSTER, President.
PHILIP HAILMAN, Secretary.

NEW ORLEANS, June 6, 1879. 12

JACKSON DISTRICT CONFERENCE will be held at Jackson, Mississippi beginning on Thursday, July 10, at 9 A. M.

24 F. K. FEATHERSTUN, P. E.

THE District Conference of the Meridian district, Mississippi Conference, will meet at Lauderdale station on Friday morning, June 27, at nine o'clock.

Rev. J. M. Weems will preach the opening sermon. Bishop Paine has promised to be present, if able. Recording stewards will send their Quarterly Conference Records.

Agents of the Mobile and Ohio railroad, of Scomba and State Line, and all intervening stations, will sell excursion tickets to Lauderdale and return at the rate of three cents per mile each way.

Tickets will be sold on the twenty-sixth and twenty-eighth inclusive. Return coupons will not be good after the thirtieth.

24 R. J. JONES.

BY MISTAKE the district meeting for Homer district was published to be held May 28-29, when it is June 28-29.

23 J. H. STONE.

THE Camp-Meeting on Indian Village circuit will embrace the first Sabbath in October, commencing on Wednesday night before, at early candle light, at Jones' Camp Ground, three and a half miles east of Vernon, La. Ministers of the gospel are invited.

23 R. T. PARHAM, P. C.

Appointments for Quarterly Meetings.

ALABAMA CONFERENCE.

GREENSBORO DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

Cuba	June 21, 22
Greensboro	28, 29
Havana	July 12, 13
Forkland	19, 20
Belmont	26, 27
Newbern	Aug. 2, 3
Gainesville	9, 10
Green	16, 17
Gaston	30, 31
Butler	Sept. 6, 7

23 S. H. COX, P. E.

NORTH ALABAMA CONFERENCE.

FLORENCE DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

Oakland circuit, at Cisnaan	June 14, 15
Tuscumbia station	18
Florence station	20
Cypress circuit, at Bethel Grove	21, 22
Shoal circuit, at Ebenezer	28, 29
Rodgersville circuit and Lexington mission, at Mount Bethel	July 5, 6
Lentzville circuit, at Walnut Grove	12, 13
Waterloo circuit	19, 20
Chickasaw circuit	26, 27
Colbert mission	Aug. 2, 3
Busleson mission	9, 10
Frankfort circuit	16, 17

24 R. A. TIMMONS, P. E.

TALLADEGA DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

Talladega circuit, at Owen's Springs	June 7, 8
Oxford circuit, at Leatherwood	14, 15
Alexandria circuit, at Weaver's	21, 22
Obatchee circuit, at Ragan's	28, 29
Ball Play mission, at Taylor's	July 4
Cross Plains circuit, at Howell's	5, 6
Talladega station	12, 13
Cropwell circuit, at Horkey's	17
Fayetteville circuit, at Fayetteville	26, 27
Chandler's Springs circuit	Aug. 2, 3
Harpersville circuit, at Harpersville	9, 10

The District Conference will be held at Enon, fifteen miles west of Talladega July 18-20.

24 ANSON WEST, P. E.

BIRMINGHAM DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

Oxmoor and Helena, at Oxmoor	June 28, 29
Tuscaloosa circuit, at Taylorville	July 5, 6
Coketon circuit, at Village Falls	12, 13
Blount Springs circuit, at Warrior	19, 20
Birmingham station	26, 26
Jonesboro circuit, at Pleasant Hill	Aug. 2, 3
Asnville circuit, at Springville	9, 10
New Castle circuit, at Piney Woods	16, 17
Montevallo station	23, 24
Murphree's Valley circuit	30, 31
Jones' Valley circuit	Sept. 6, 7
Montevallo circuit	13, 14
Cahaba mission	20, 21

The District Conference for Birmingham district will be held at Warrior, July 18-20. The introductory Sermon will be preached at eleven o'clock A. M., Friday the eighteenth, by Rev. R. J. Wilson. Let all the preachers in charge come prepared to make full and complete reports from their respective charges. A full attendance is very much desired.

23 J. G. DURLEY, P. E.

LAFAYETTE DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

Daleville circuit, at Camp Hill	May 31, June 1
Socopatoy circuit, at Socopatoy	June 7, 8
Hatchett Creek mission, at North Ribboth	14, 15
Lafayette station	21, 22
Alexander City circuit, at Alexander City	28, 29
Louina circuit at Hannery	July 5, 6
Plumneyville circuit, at Union	12, 13
Fredonia circuit, at Rock Mills	19, 20
Widowes mission, at Bethlehem	26, 27
Arbacoochee circuit, at Ragan's Chapel	Aug. 2, 3
Linsville circuit, at Mount Pleasant	9, 10
Oak Bowny circuit, at Midway	16, 17

The District Conference will be held at Alexander City, June 27-29, Sermon by W. T. Patillo, on Thursday night the twenty-sixth.

23 JOHN B. STEVENSEN, P. E.

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

BROOKHAVEN DIS.—THIRD ROUND.

Brookhaven	July 5, 6
Spring Ridge	12, 13
Hazlehurst	19, 20
Pisgah	26, 27
Crystal Springs	Aug. 2, 3
Pleasant Valley	9, 10
Mount Pleasant, at Georgetown circuit	16, 17
Mendville circuit	23, 24
Providence	30, 31
Galatia	Sept. 6, 7
Tupisaw	13, 14
Ebenezer, at Bogue Chitto mission	20, 21

District Conference at Crystal Springs, June 26-29. Quarterly Conference Journals required.

Hennington Camp Ground (Crystal Springs) meeting, July 24-30.

Providence Camp Meeting, August 28 to September 3.

The customary invitation to preachers is hereby extended.

Drs. Linfield, Johnson and West, W. Barnes and I. V. Enochs, Committee of Worship at Crystal Springs Camp Meeting. Dr. Watkins anniversarian.

24 W. E. M. LINFIELD, P. E.

Dr. Schliemann has invited Dr. Virchow and Dr. Lindenschmidt, the greatest authority in Germany on prehistoric archæology, to assist him in his excavations at Hissarlik. Dr. Virchow has accepted.

MISCELLANEOUS.

PRICE REDUCED TO 25 CENTS.—The greatest discovery of the age is DR. TOBIAS' CELEBRATED VENETIAN LINIMENT. Thirty-two years before the public and warranted to cure Diarrhœa, Dysentery, Colic and Spasms, taken internally; and Croup, Chronic Rheumatism, Sore Throat, Cuts, Bruises, Old Sores, and Pains in the Limbs, Back and Chest externally. It has never failed. No family will ever be without it after once giving it a fair trial. Price 25 cts. DR. TOBIAS' VENETIAN HORSE LINIMENT, in Pint Bottles, at 50c., is warranted superior to any other, or NO PAY, for the cure of Colic, Cuts, Bruises Old Sores, etc. Sold by all druggists. Depot 42 Murray street, New York.

"And the leaves of the tree were for the healing of the nations."—Rev. xxii, 2.

COCA BITTERS,

The Great South American Tonic.

The New Remedy made from the Leaves of the South American Coca Plant.

An excellent cordial, prepared expressly for popular use, and presenting in an elegant form all the wonderful health giving properties of Erythroxylon Coca.

It is a Sovereign Remedy for Disorders of Digestion, Chills and Fever, Nervous Weakness, Sick Headache, Neuralgia, and either Nervous or Muscular Fatigue.

Convalescents from Fevers should use COCA BITTERS, as it gives IMMEDIATE STRENGTH and HASTENS RECOVERY.

For Sale by all Druggists.

SEND FOR CIRCULAR.

QUICHUA COCA COMPANY,

Manufacturing Chemists,

72 William St., New York.

8p

THE ORIGINAL Superintendent of DR. BLY and LEWIS LOCKWOOD of New Orleans,

A. McDERMOTT,

has returned and established the business of manufacturing Dr. Bly's patent

ARTIFICIAL

Arms and Legs,

and has purchased the sole right for the Southern States. Perfect satisfaction guaranteed in all cases or no pay. Prices greatly reduced.

A. McDERMOTT,
942 Camp Street, N. O.

TRUNKS, TRUNKS,

HAVING lately overstocked myself with this article from the best manufactories of Cincinnati and Chicago, from the finest Ladies' TRUNK, Goats' Sole Leather, Zinc, and in fact every kind made; also Patent Tray, (this you need not take the tray out to get at the bottom of the trunk); also, a fine lot of SATCHELS and VALISES; also, a fine assortment of Ladies', Children's and Misses' SHOES, of the best Philadelphia makers. Call and see for yourself at

S. BAUM'S, 551 Magazine st.,
Corner St. Mary, New Orleans.

T. W. BOTHICK.

UNDERTAKER,

OFFICE, 971 CAMP STREET,

STABLES, 972 MAGAZINE STREET,

Embalming and disinterring bodies. Bodies carefully shipped. Carriages for hire.

FUNERALS STRICT ATTENTION. 8p

MISCELLANEOUS.

YALE & BOWLING,

IMPORTERS AND WHOLESALE DEALERS IN

- DRY GOODS -

NOTIONS AND MILLINERY,

17, 19 and 21 - Magazine Street, - 17, 19 and 21

NEW ORLEANS, LA.

Mme. DEMOREST'S

GRAND OPENING

OF THE

SPRING STYLES,

183 CANAL STREET,

NEW ORLEANS, LA.

These Patterns are in various sizes, and put up in illustrated envelopes, on which are printed full descriptions for making, trimming, quantity of material required, etc., and are so accurately marked that the most inexperienced person can put them together.

New Basques, Polonaises, Princes Dresses, Walking Skirts Trains, etc., for Ladies' and Children's Dresses, also Boy's Clothes, Gentlemen's Underwear, Infant's Patterns, etc., furnishing economy, practical utility, artistic accuracy and fashionable elegance.

Prices From 10c. to 30c.

Send for catalogue, with directions in English, French, German and Spanish, which is furnished free on application.

GRAND OPENING

SPRING STYLES,

OF

Mme. Demorest's Patterns,

Of the Latest Fashions.

NEW BASQUES, POLONAISES, PRINCESS DRESSES WALKING SKIRTS, FRAMES, ETC., FOR LADIES, MISSES AND CHILDREN'S DRESS.

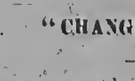
D. F. PERRY,
182 Canal Street.

8p

ROGERS' CITRATE OF MAGNESIA

An Agreeable Aperient and Refrigerant.

This well-known preparation is highly recommended for DYSPEPSIA, HEADACHE, Sickness of the Stomach, Heartburn, and all complaints arising from Acidity, Bilious and Malarial Fevers. It cools the blood and regulates the bowels. It is a favorite medicine for children and its acidity and sweet taste makes it cooling and refreshing. Put up in 8-ounce bottles. Prepared by



A. ROGERS' SONS, Chemists, N. Y.

Superior to Mineral Waters, Seidlitz Powders, Etc.

For sale by all New Orleans druggists. 8p

Regular Opelousas Mail Packet.

LEAVES EVERY TUESDAY, AT 5 P. M.

For Washington, Opelousas, Port Barre, Simsport, Churchville, all landings on the Coast, Atchafalaya River and Bayou Courtableau—The new and light-draft Steamer

FANCHON,

H. H. BRAUD, Master. THEO. JOHNS, Clerk, will leave as above. For freight or passage apply on board, or to

R. W. ADAMS, 27 Commercial Place.
J. E. CARLIN, 17 Tchoupitoulas St.

REGULAR OPELOUSAS PACKET.

Leaves EVERY TUESDAY at 5 P. M.

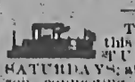
For Washington, Opelousas, Port Barre, Simmsport, Churchville and all landings on the Coast, Atchafalaya River and Bayou Courtableau. The very light draft passenger steamer

YAZOO,

WM. CRAWFORD, Master. J. B. SCHMIT, Clerk will leave positively as above. For freight or passage apply on board or to

LORIE & McPEAKE, Agents, 46 Camp St.
GEO. D. HITE, Agent, 4 Tchoupitoulas St.

P. S.—Connects closely with Boats for Bayou Des Glaize and Barges for Bayou Boeuf.



1879. 1879.

EXCURSION ROUTE!

NORTH, EAST AND WEST,

ST. LOUIS & NEW ORLEANS

ANCHOR LINE,

The fine passenger steamers of this line will leave New Orleans on TUESDAYS, THURSDAYS and SATURDAYS, at 5 o'clock P. M., during the season, connecting at St. Louis with the principal railroads and Upper Mississippi river packets for all points North, East and West.

Passengers and baggage transferred from steamers to railroads FREE OF CHARGE.

Through and Excursion tickets for sale on board the boats and at the office of the company.

J. B. WOODS, General Agent.
No. 164 Common Street.

"CHANGE OF SCHEDULE."

NEW ORLEANS, SPANISH FORT AND LAKE RAILROAD.

MAY 24, 1879.

Until further notice the trains will leave the corner of Canal and Basin Streets as follows:

Sunday at 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 10 30, 11, 11.30, 12, 12.30, 1, 1.30, and every twenty minutes after. Last train from City 9.40, from the Lake at 10 31.

During the week at 6.30, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 1, 2, 3, and every half hour after. Last train from the city at 8.31, from the Lake, 8.30.

T. S. WILLIAMS,
Superintendent.

"The Washington City Route."

BALTIMORE AND OHIO R. R

THE SHORTEST, QUICKEST AND ONLY DIRECT ROUTE TO

Washington & Baltimore,

With direct connections for

Richmond, Lynchburg, Norfolk and the Southeast.

Philadelphia, New York, Boston

AND THE EAST.

PULLMAN PALACE CARS,

RUN THROUGH WITHOUT CHANGE

Between the Principal

WESTERN AND EASTERN CITIES.

For Through Tickets, Baggage Checks, Movement of Trains, Sleeping Car Accommodations, etc., apply at Ticket Offices at all Principal Points North, South, East or West.

E. R. DORSEY, Asst. Gen. Ticket Agt.
J. M. COLE, Gen. Ticket Agt.
THOS. P. BARRY, Western Pass. Agent.
THOS. R. SLAFF, Master of Transp'n.

H. DEVERGES & CO.,

HARDWARE,

17 and 19 Decatur Street,

Opposite Postoffice, New Orleans.

IMPORTERS AND DEALERS IN

IRON, NAILS, CUTLERY, GUNS, AGRICULTURAL IMPLEMENTS, PLOWS, OILS, PAINTS, CORDAGES, ETC. ETC.

BEWARE OF

Imitation Machines

Offered by second-hand dealers as

IMPROVED SINGER.

THE GENUINE

SINGER MACHINE,

—MADE BY THE—

Singer Manufacturing Co.

HAS NO EQUAL.

2,560,000 Singers in Daily Use.

Two-thirds of all the machines sold in the United States are those made by

The Singer Company,

Send for Circular and Price List. Address

The Singer Manufacturing Co.,

85 CANAL STREET,

Agent's for Butterick's Patterns.

WM. B. LHOTE. A. SAMUELS.

LHOTE & CO,

OLD BASIN

SASH, BLIND, DOOR FACTORY,

AND

Lumber Yard,

Offices, Cor. Toulouse & Franklin and 32 Carondelet Sts.,

P. O. Box 936. NEW ORLEANS.

8p

W. C. SHEPARD & Co.,

49 CAMP STREET.

China Crockery Glass,

AND HOUSE FURNISHING EMPORIUM

CHINA, SEMI-CHINA AND IRONSTONE DIN NER SETS.

Viz.: 12 Dinner, 12 Breakfast, 12 Tea, 12 Fruit 12 Butter Plates, 12 Tea, 2 After-Dinner Cups and Saucers, 1 Soup Tureen, 1 Gravy Boat, 1 Bowl with Tops, 2 Without, 4 Meat Dishes, 1 Salad Dish, 2 Pickle Shells.

Variety Novelties in House-Keeping.

TEA SETS all prices and quality.

GOBLETS, TUMBLERS, BOWLS, CAKE STANDS REFRIGERATORS, CASTORS, KNIVES FORKS, SPOONS, LADLES, WAITERS CHAMBER SETS White, Hand, Fancy—all prices.

TIN CHAMBER SETS, FOOT TURNWATER CARRIERS and SLOP JAR, REFRIGERATORS ICE CREAM WATER COOLERS, CREAM FREEZERS, OIL GAS STOVES, LAMPS CANS to contain 50 gallons of oil; BRUSHES, WOODWARE, TINWARE, PLATED WARE FANCY VASES, MOTTO CUPS, MUGS, FLOWER GLASSES, CLOCKS, LOOKING GLASSES CHANDELIERS.

PINE ISLAND GUANO

FOR SUGAR CANE

—AND—

ALL QUICK-GROWING CROPS.

PINE ISLAND

Ammoniated Phosphate,

FOR COTTON

—AND—

ALL SUMMER AND FALL CROPS.

The Best Fertilizers in use, and prepared with great care for the Southern market.

THE KINNEY & MILLER (Minnesota)

Early Amber Sugar Cane Seed,

CROP 1878,

Fresh from Kenny & Miller Farms.

DISCOUNT TO THE TRADE.

FOR SALE BY

HUGH W. MONTGOMERY,

1160 Common St., New Orleans.

Sole Agent for the Southwest.

DISCOVERY BY which hair can be forced to grow on the smoothest heads. The papers all over the country contain notices of the remarkable virtues of Mrs. Hyatt's Hair Restorer, and there are scores of living witnesses in St. Louis who take pleasure in testifying to the efficacy of the Restorer. Mrs. Hyatt's principle is the most reasonable, because she proceeds on the well-based supposition that the Hair germ never dies while life exists in the person, and that it is only necessary to stimulate the germ to produce a satisfactory growth. Three bottles for $5; $1 to accompany the order and balance to be paid when medicine is delivered.

306 NORTH SIXTH ST., up stairs,
St. Louis, Mo

The Most Refreshing Toilet

The Christian Advocate.

PUBLISHED FOR THE ALABAMA, MISSISSIPPI AND LOUISIANA CONFERENCES, METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH SOUTH.

VOL. 25. NEW ORLEANS, THURSDAY, JUNE 19, 1879. NO. 25.

The Christian Advocate.

REV. LINUS PARKER, D. D., Editor.

G. T. LATHROP, Publisher.

OFFICE---112 CAMP ST., NEW ORLEANS.

Address all matters of business, G. T. LATHROP 112 Camp street, New Orleans.

Address all communications designed for publication REV. LINUS PARKER, 112 Camp street, New Orleans.

AGENTS---All the members of the Patronizing Conferences.

PUBLISHING COMMITTEES.

ALABAMA CONFERENCE.

REV. EDWARD WADSWORTH, D. D.
REV. FELIX R. HILL.
REV. H. D. MOORE.

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

REV. W. H. WATKINS, D. D.
REV. JAMES A. GODFREY.
REV. L. G. JONES.

LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.

REV. JOHN MATHEWS.
REV. LINUS PARKER, D. D.
REV. CHRISTIAN KEENER.

RATES OF SUBSCRIPTION.

The New Orleans Christian Advocate will be furnished to subscribers at the following rates, including postage:

One Year	$2 00
Six Months	1 00
Three Months	50

Will send from date to January 1 1880 for $1.

To all Ministers of the Gospel and widows of deceased traveling preachers:

One Year	$1 50
Six Months	50
Three Months	25

LOST.

A wild rose by the wayside flung,
Its fragrance on the morning air,
A pure scarce conscious perfume flung
I looked and found the sweet flower fair—
So fair I sought with sudden zest
To wear its beauty on my breast.
The trembling petals at my touch
A sweeter, subtler fragrance shed;
'Tis strange I loved that flower so much;
And yet it was dead!

In that high mood when thought has wings,
And flies alone its speed to test,
I struck an idol from its throne,
And dreamed the careless chords had caught
The life it is that my spirit sought,
Till sudden on my startled ear
Its dream created accent broke—
Ah, me! I had the picture dear—
The string had broke.

[illegible] while trying to be clever
[illegible] the rainy spell
[illegible] fragrance of that faded flower,
[illegible] hard's lastly [illegible] mistily blent
[illegible] with [illegible] and death's [illegible] with [illegible] every wish in heart and soul.
[illegible] my heart's [illegible]
[illegible] of hope half [illegible]
[illegible] that might have been.

NEWS OF THE WEEK.

DOMESTIC.

[illegible] Vicksburg [illegible]
[illegible] Mississippi [illegible]
[illegible] Wednesday [illegible]
[illegible] Vicksburg

The Christian Advocate.

THURSDAY, JUNE 19, 1879.

For the New Orleans Christian Advocate.

WARNING OF THE SEASONS.

BY TRANSIENT.

When lovely Spring awakes to life and power,
What lingering tempests rend her primal bower!
What sable rigor blights her flowery clod!
A sombre cloud hedges her bright array,
And Death, he claims a leaf from every spray—
O child, as fair—as frail, "Prepare to meet thy God!"

When red ant Summer grasps the helm of time,
Gone is the sweetness of her tender prime,
And worn the luster of her velvet sod;
Her utmost vigor brings her richer wane,
And highest noontide but an ebb to ebb again—
O youth, as grand—as fleet, "Prepare to meet thy God!"

When Autumn claims the guerdon of his toil,
His garnered store declares the tilled soil;
Ripe for their full his orchard spoilers nod;
His painted woods embraze their own decay,
And flowering skies frown at his fledgling day—
O man, as rich—as poor, "Prepare to meet thy God!"

When Winter tears her diadem from the year,
And steals the remnant of her scanty cheer,
And smites her lingering life with fatal rod,
Spent are the heavenly lires, and wide around
The paeans of triumphant ruin sound—
Old age, as worn—as spent, "Prepare to meet thy God!"

"Moses' Account of the Creation."

MR. EDITOR: It is not uncommon to see opinions expressed about "Moses' account of the creation." Is not this a mistake? Does Moses give any account of the creation? I understand that he does not. And yet how common it is for men to dispute whether the six days occupied in creation were six twenty-four-hour-days, or six geological periods of indefinite lengths. This dispute, it seems to me, is erroneous, so far as concerns creation.

Moses states one single, exclusive, dogmatic fact about creation. This is in the first verse of the first chapter of Genesis. He says God created. Without a word of explanation as to time, place or circumstances, there he begins and there he ends as to creation. He gives, here or elsewhere, not the slightest hint as to whether the creation occupied time at all—six days, or six periods of myriads of ages each in length—or whether it was a "work," as some have it, or anything else about it, but merely that God created whatsoever is.

Strictly speaking, it can hardly be called a fact. It is rather a truth. A fact is a historic occurrence. Creation is not historic. History relates to occurrences in and among created things, and not to the creation of them. Creation is no part of history. This, I suppose, is the reason why revelation gives no explanation of creation. Being a direct act of God, and therefore not phenomenal or conceivable, and revelation being addressed to men, an explanation could explain nothing to us. It would be like an attempt to explain algebra to a child, or colors to the blind.

The six days alluded to in the first chapter of Genesis have no reference whatever to creation. They are not creation-days, or days of creation, but historic days—days giving historic account of created or existing things. The question whether those six days of the first chapter are twenty-four-hour-days, or long periods, is a question, but one that has no relation to creation.

In this period, however long or short it was, the history tells us great geological and astronomical and other changes took place in the arrangement and disposition of created things. God said: "Let there be light," "Let there be a firmament;" and so, at a later period, he said: "Let there be a flood," and still later: "Let Abraham go into a far country," and "let a virgin bear a man-child." These things are historic. Creation is absolute origin, inconceivable, and therefore not capable of explanation; much or little, to finite creatures.

Another thing respecting creation, very important to be kept in view, is that it is not susceptible of being either proved or disproved. If I say there never was a divine or any other sort of creation, no scientific proof or testimony whatever can be broadened to contradict me; nor can I produce the least testimony, good or bad, to support my declaration. It is not a subject of debate. And the only ground of belief we have, or can have, of a creation at all, is that we read it in a book believed to be divinely revealed. Science knows nothing about it—absolutely nothing, pro or con. Science deals exclusively with created things, and not with the creation of them. It deals solely with changes, relations and movements of things already created and existing, but is totally ignorant as to how they ever got into existence.

It has been said that the production of life is a subsequent and separate creation. That may be so, but no man can know it. No proof whatever can be adduced for or against the proposition. I suppose there are three kinds of life, or life in three separate conditions, mineral, vegetable and animal. But in each of these cases is not life a necessary ingredient in the thing itself? What is an animal without life? Is it an animal? Did God create a tree and then create life, and put into it? Who can distinguish between one and several divine acts? Life is being created now, every hour.

If these things be borne in mind, it is easy to see how completely fertile it is for any one to attempt to deny a proper divine creation. Indeed, it is clearly true that Huxley, Darwin, Haeckel, and those writers, have never denied a divine creation. The only thing they have attempted to deny is some particular, supposed kind of creation; or that the time, place and mode of creation was different from what some suppose Moses represents. But the reply to all this is that Moses says not a word about any time, place, mode or circumstances of the creation. Moses says nothing except that God created.

Many persons interpret Moses as saying what he certainly does not say—that man was created in a short time, say a few hours, and that it was done by a process of handicraft. On all such subjects Moses is totally silent. Moses does not say whether the process of man-making at the first, if there was any process, was by growth, handicraft, development or emanation. Haeckel and Darwin say that at the first man proceeded from or out of pre-existing animal life. Moses says that man proceeded from or out of something pre-existing, but makes not the slightest intimation as to what that something was.

Neither Darwin nor any other man has ever written or spoken an intelligible sentence, true or untrue, descriptive or explanatory, of creation. This must be true, because creation is inconceivable.

These things are important in considering the errors of Darwinism. When these men talk about history, be it ever so remote—for all history is subsequent to creation—let it be understood that they are not talking about creation. Hold them to the question. Don't let them attempt to make history prove something about creation. If they essay to teach about creation, hold them to the point, and they are dumb. A history, or even the existence of things does not prove that there ever was a beginning. The only foothold Darwinism ever has gained is with illogical minds, by mixing up history with origin.

Let this be remembered: That history implies time, periodicity and succession of events such as progress, changes and phenomena, while creation utterly ignores any and all such considerations. Creation is origin—absolute origin—and so can have no circumstances, nothing susceptible of explanation, or about which an opinion may be formed.

K. AND Y.

Commencement at Hiwassee.

MR. EDITOR: Our annual exercises closed here on Thursday, May 22. As much of our patronage has been from the Southwest, you will permit me to give you some of the results of our last year's labors. We begin in August, because that suits our climate and people, and is the regular time for opening our public schools. This, of course, brings us out in the month of May, which makes our commencement occasions peculiarly pleasant. Our last was well attended, and had all the usual attractions of music, hospitality, etc.

The commencement sermon on the preceding Sunday was by an alumnus of the college, the Rev. G. C. Rankin, of Knoxville. Bro. Rankin was a young preacher when he came to school here some seven years ago, having traveled a hard circuit in Georgia the year before. He says that his means would not have permitted him to go to any other institution. In two years he graduated, and now, at the end of five years, he is filling the principal station in our Conference, Church Street, Knoxville. His sermon was equal to the best on such occasions, being perfectly orthodox and evangelical, while it was original, and filled with the finest thoughts, and delivered in a style and manner almost faultless. The body of students were greatly moved by his appeals to them, while the elder people, who had often heard him when he was a student, wept and rejoiced. Such a scene has rarely been witnessed at a commencement.

After the regular examinations, which were well attended, the degree of A. B. was conferred upon five of the best young men that have ever graduated here. Four of these have already become professional teachers, having been compelled to this work by the necessities attending them in getting their education. They have thus secured, without intending it, an education and a profession at the same time. Providence has thus directed them into a most useful and honorable calling, from which the church and society will receive the benefit of their labors. Several of them are engaged for prominent positions already. One of them, F. M. Street, having been elected an assistant professor in this college.

You will find on our annual catalogue the old historic names in Methodism of Axley, Patton, Munsey and Fulton. These are the descendants of men who planted the gospel in East Tennessee, and some of whom preached in the regions beyond. One of our graduates this year is a nephew of the celebrated Creed Fulton, the founder of Emory and Henry College, and promises to rival his uncle in the gifts of eloquence and oratory. We are earnestly hoping that the mantle of the elder Fulton has fallen upon him, and that he will feel impelled to enter the ministry.

Two other young men received the degree of Bachelor of Science, one of whom, a very worthy gentleman from Arnaudville, La., is William E. Walker. Mr. Francois R. Martin, from the same parish, received a similar degree last year. Two others, Simon and Hall Bus, of that vicinity, have gone home, leaving good records behind them, having spent several years here before returning home.

We are rejoicing in the prospective prosperity of the South from the high price of cotton, and hope to share it with you.

F. M. GRACE.

Culleoka Institute.

MR. EDITOR: This institution for boys is located at Culleoka, Maury county, Tenn., about fifty miles south of Nashville, on the Nashville and Decatur railroad. It is under the care of Messrs. W. R. and J. M. Webb, two gentlemen who have devoted themselves to teaching with an earnestness that has won for them a well-deserved reputation. It is a good school. The Bros. Webb are Christian gentlemen, good scholars, and diligent, faithful teachers, and they have attained eminent success.

The training is not only thorough in this school, but it is broad and uniform. Whether the pupil be in the English branches, in the mathematics or in the classics, the training is equally severe, and the knowledge attained is equally thorough.

The training in elocution is excellent. The young men in their public debates, and in their declamations, acquit themselves with great credit. They generally select for such occasions some of the live issues of the day, and thus interest both the pupils and the audience.

Besides, these gentlemen are Christians, and the moral influences thrown around their pupils is excellent. The school is under admirable discipline, and we know no place where better influences are brought to bear on young men. For parents who desire to send their sons abroad, Culleoka Institute offers all the elements of safety in morals, combined with the best advantages for mental training.

J. M. WRIGHT.

From the Work.

LOWER PEACH TREE, ALABAMA.

MR. EDITOR: This circuit (Lower Peach Tree) has a river boundary of some fifteen miles, and runs back about ten miles on the west side of "the beautiful Alabama," covering a fertile country of some twenty five miles in length and ten in breadth. It is peopled by a tolerably thrifty set of farmers, of fair intelligence. The circuit has five churches, and has some two hundred and seventy-five members. Lower Peach Tree is a little town on the river, in Wilcox county, having seven stores. We have a society at the place and a lot, but no house—preach in the basement of the Masonic Lodge, which is also used by the old school, and Cumberland Presbyterians and Baptists. Besides this, we have one other church in Wilcox, two in Clark, and one in Monroe. At Lower Peach Tree there is a good academy, presided over by Prof. Aldridge, with Miss Farr as assistant. They have from forty to fifty scholars. It is a good school. In a neighborhood known as Bear Creek, in Wilcox county, seven miles from Peach Tree, is Montgomery Institute. In all essential respects a Methodist school, of about fifty scholars, presided over by Prof. M. D. Thomason, with Miss Vaughn as assistant. This is one of the best schools of its grade in the State. Its conduct is superior to any school that I know. The discipline is fine, and the method of instruction excellent. The moral and religious training of the scholars is carefully attended to. It is one of the best places for those who cannot send their children to college to get a good education for them, cheap, that can be found anywhere.

There is not as much spirituality in the church as would be desirable, but there are many excellent Christians here—some, we believe, gone to heaven from this charge this year. Other veterans are ready to lay down their armor. There is quite a number of aged mothers, whose lamps burn brightly as they stand waiting the Master's bidding to go home. These frequently send up glorious shouts of praise for the grace already given. Oh! it stirs the soul to hear them. The past has been so full of mercies; the present so full of love; the future so full of hope; the final triumph is not far distant, nor doubtful. Thank God! Yet there are many defects in our circuit that organized effort, directed by faith and sustained by prayer, will remedy. But we need organizing. We need genuine conversions too. Some of our foremost men know not Christ. God help us this year.

We have no parsonage. We are making efforts to build one now. Evil prophets say we will fail. We must not fail. The circuit cannot afford to fail. They have no money to throw away on old dilapidated houses "to rent." Our subscription is doing well, so far. The crop prospects are very good. Early corn is being laid by in some instances. Cotton is looking well, and of good size, for the time of year. Fruits are nearly a failure.

W. P. H. CONNELLY.

MAY 28, 1879.

EDWARDS, MISSISSIPPI.

MR. EDITOR: Edwards—eighteen miles west of Vicksburg—ships from sixteen to seventeen thousand bales of cotton per annum.

This circuit consists of three churches—Edwards, Brownsville and Queen's Hill. Edwards has preaching fortnightly; the other places monthly. Besides these, three afternoon appointments have been established—one at a school house, two in "God's first temples." At all points the attendance upon public worship is good; at most of them remarkably so. Four Sabbath schools are in successful operation, aggregating more than two hundred pupils. A parsonage debt of $155, and another church debt of $20, have been paid. Needed improvements have been put upon the parsonage grounds, in the shape of fences and outbuildings. A number of fruit trees have been set out—peaches, apples, pears, plums, figs, cherries, grapes and raspberries. (A hint for other parsonages.) Shade trees have been planted. The furnishing of the parsonage is in contemplation. There have been thirteen accessions to our membership. Church finances, though they have not progressed pari passu with old Time in his ceaseless on going, are nevertheless not far in his rear, and I doubt not will overhaul him in the near future. The pastor and his family receive many substantial tokens of regard—many endearing attentions.

The good people of Brownsville enjoyed a treat recently in the shape of a sermon from our presiding elder, Rev. F. M. Featherston.

W. C. BLACK.

JUNE 2, 1879.

JACKSON DISTRICT, MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

MR. EDITOR: The Jackson district is doing well at this time. One circuit, however, has suffered some; the preacher did not go to it. Bro. H. H. Montgomery, on the Sharon circuit, is in bad health. I do hope that the people will send money enough to him so he can take his trip off, and get his health restored. Bro. Montgomery has been a faithful laborer in the church, and should not be forgotten.

The outlook for a good crop this year is truly flattering. The people at large seem to be in better spirits. In several places on the district we are having additions to the church. The preachers are at their work, and are doing well.

F. M. FEATHERSTON.

HOLTON, June 7, 1879.

NOTES FROM THE SEA SHORE, MISSISSIPPI.

MR. EDITOR: This is a beautiful country. The bays, the gulf, the oysters, the fish, the crabs, the flowers, the oranges, the Italian sunsets, the clouds, the salt water, and the kind people, make it a country of all countries. The work is improving materially. Our church in Ocean Springs has been recently repainted, and now it is a model of beauty. Bishop Keener preached for us last Sabbath. Our church in Biloxi is undergoing repairs.

We have just closed an interesting meeting at Hansboro. Fourteen joined the church. God bless the kind people of Hansboro! We have added to the church register eighteen names this year. The camp ground is beautiful. Bro. B. J. Barrier, of Philadelphia, Miss., died on the camp ground to-day. His death was caused by dyspepsia. We bury him to-morrow.

INMAN COOPER.

Obituaries.

ASA H. PARKER.—The subject of this memoir, the father of the writer, was born to Lewis and Sarah (Hatley) Parker, in Hancock county, Georgia, August 13, 1799, and died near Haw Ridge, Alabama, April 6, 1879.

My father was twice married; first to Martha Ann Foster, September 20, 1823, of whom one son was born; and the second time to Lucy Foster Brodgdove, November 2, 1826, of whom three sons and five daughters were born. He professed religion and connected himself with the church at "Sandy Run," in Hancock county, Georgia, in 1824. In 1834 he removed to Monroe county, Ga., and placed his membership at "Rogers Meeting House," where for several years he served as class leader. In 1837 he settled in Crawford county, Ga., and connected himself with the church at Macedonia. In 1846 he again moved, settling in Wilkinson county, Ga., and became a member of the church at Red Level, where, in 1848, the writer was converted. In 1855 my father, for the first time in his life, became a citizen of another than his native State. Removing to Alabama he settled in the county, and became a member of the church at Haw Ridge, where I suppose he held his membership until his death.

In 1847 my father was licensed to exhort, which he continued to do till strength failed. April 1, 1830, he became a sufferer by an abrasion on his foot, which assumed a cancerous nature, from the effects of which he had hardly recovered when he became the victim of dyspepsia, from which he suffered as long as he lived. But it is just and right both to him and the cause of Christ, that those who knew him most intimately should testify to the Christian patience and fortitude with which he bore his afflictions for nearly thirty years. I do not say my father was without a fault, but I do say that he had as few faults as any man.

In literature his early advantages were far above the average of the day. In a during a protracted congestive fever, he seemed to forget his native tongue and used the Latin as his native language. Unassuming and plain, he devoted his life to agricultural pursuits, except a few years while in Monroe county.

My mother writes: "It seems it is more than I can bear to part with my companion with whom I have lived for fifty-three years. * * * There is one consolation. * * * Time is short. I shall soon meet him where union and blessing is sweet, enduring, and sweeter, than in this life. Yes, we will all meet him in heaven."

J. A. PARKER.

MRS. M. A. WARE was born January 18, 18—, in the city of Savannah, Georgia. She professed saving faith in Christ in her early youth, and joined the Methodist Episcopal Church. She was married to Rev. Henry Ware on the twenty-third of November, 837, with whom she lived in the peaceful bonds of wedlock and love nearly forty-two years.

She was a decided earnest and consistent christian, adorning by innocency of life, the doctrine of God our Saviour, filling the sacred relations of wife and mother with satisfaction and success. During her protracted illness of nine years, upon his, she was a meek and patient sufferer. When the closing scene drew nigh death had no terror, thanks be to God who giveth the victory through our Lord Jesus Christ. Her only solicitude was that husband and children should meet her in heaven. On the twenty-second of May, 1879 she calmly fell asleep in Jesus. On the next day we committed her body to the grave in sure and certain hope of the resurrection of the just. Her glorified spirit waits her loved ones to fold their wings and meet her in heaven.

J. H. WALKER.

ELIZA DAUGHDRILL JARRETT was born in Elbert county, Georgia, October 1, 1809, and died near Mobile, Ala., March 6, 1879. She was married in 1828 to Mr. Lewellyn Willford, who died in 1835. In 1842 she was married to Columbus Georgia, to Mr. George W. Rossee, who still survives her. From early childhood she was an earnest Christian and consistent Methodist. During her residence of more than a quarter of a century in Alabama she was a member of the St. Francis Street Church, Mobile. Her life was marked by deep and trying experiences, but under all circumstances so great was the need of subsequent help, rest and dependence upon unfinished retreat in God, and the beauty of a faithful Christian life. Her death was very sudden, yet not altogether unexpected, as she had been ill for the long for many months. Those who knew her best loved and appreciated her most. There is not the shadow of a doubt that she is in heaven.

Sister Eliza was twice married and her eldest daughter is the wife of Rev. A. S. Andrews, D. D., of the Alabama Conference.

PET VAUGHN.

PETTIE L. CARTER was born April 26, 1858. Mattie V. Carlton was born December 9, 1859. Both these sisters were born near Green boro, Alabama, and are the only surviving children of J. W. and Sallie W. Carter whose maiden name was Sallie W. Carlton, raised in this county, Tennessee.

Both joined the Methodist Episcopal Church South in 1875, in Autauga county, Mississippi, under the ministry of Rev. P. Johnson of the Miss. Conference, at Spring Ridge Church. These two sisters were beautiful, lovely and intelligent, pride and comfort of their devoted and heart-broken parents. Sister Pettie was united in holy wedlock with Rev. E. H. Edger, April 2, 1876, and was truly a helpmeet for a minister. I have been told that in protracted meetings she excelled many. She lived to be the mother of two children, daughter and son. A few days before her death I administered the communion of the Lord's supper to her and family, and baptized her children, at which time sister Pettie was made to rejoice in Jesus Christ her blessed Saviour. On the twenty-eighth of March she fell asleep in Jesus in full assurance of eternal life.

Sister Mattie survived her sister Pettie but a few days. I administered the communion to her also. Her last words to her mother were: "God bless you; meet me in heaven," and fell asleep as did her sister, in hope of eternal life.

A. DAY, Pastor.

MISS NANNIE RAY, formerly of Mississippi, died April 12, 1879, in Baton Rouge, of consumption. Eight years ago she left her father, and three sisters and came to Louisiana with her only brother, to whom she was very much attached. She was converted and joined the Methodist Church in early womanhood. After living here some time she united by letter with the church at this place. When I first knew her, like many young Christians, she was sometimes drawn away from duty by worldly amusements; though she delighted in attending the house of God, often conversed upon the subject of religion and spoke of her conversion as the happiest time of her life. She had many noble traits of character, among them her devotion to her brother and his family. Within the last four years she has had a great deal of sorrow, which surely was the means of drawing her nearer to God; first her aged father died, about a year and a half after a sister, who was the first in the family to have an assumption, the two remaining sisters then came to the State, one an invalid with the same disease, who only lingered a few months. Nannie nursed her faithfully, saw her suffer and die as only a Christian can; then in a few short months she too fell a victim to the same terrible disease. Several times during her long and weary illness she conversed with me about her religious state; her only trust was in Jesus. She said persons often asked her if she was lonely, being confined to her room so much; her answer was, no, she enjoyed such sweet communion with her Saviour she could not feel lonely. Several weeks previous to her death her much loved brother reunited himself with the church, and had his two children baptized; the services were held at the house, he, too, being an invalid and unable to attend church. It was a joyful occasion for her; she told her pastor, Bro. Wynn, how happy she was and requested him to sing, when she was dead, "I would not live always." Ten days before she died it was her desire to partake of the Lord's supper. On the same occasion her youngest and only living sister joined the church. It was a precious season of grace to her; she sang with a clear voice, "Am I a soldier of the cross," and requested her friends to meet her in heaven.

She made arrangements for her burial, and spoke of her departure as if she was going on a visit. Her last night on earth she shouted aloud and seemed to rejoice at the approach of death. She retained her senses to the last. Just before she passed away, when her eyes were blinded with death, she called her little nephew, the care of whom had been her pleasure and delight, and said: "I fear I can't see you, but I know it is you; you will soon have no Auntie, she is coming home to God; you must be a good boy and love God." These were her last words. She calmly and sweetly breathed her last.

A FRIEND.

ON last Tuesday afternoon, May 20 after religious services, our dear father in Israel, D. L. CARR, requested a private interview with me.

After the friends had retired, he told his son Bennie to get me a pencil and paper, for he had better give me a few items of his life as he could, as I would want to say something at his funeral obsequies. In the outset he requested that no such stuff and then he gave me the following facts:

He was born in North Carolina, December 19, 1809. He joined the Methodist Episcopal Church in his native county in the twenty-fourth year of his age. He married Miss Susannah Turner, December 1831. He moved from Louisiana to Claiborne county, Miss., in 1837. He removed to Claiborne parish, La., in 1854.

Then he said: "Have this inserted in the Southern Christian Advocate, because of requests in that region." He then said: "The friends have been very kind to me;" of course refraining to blush.

He was then interrogated by me: "Do you have perfect peace?" "Yes," said he, "but little doubts come in sometimes and trouble me, and then I feel unworthy." When told to greet him of Jesus, that these feelings were common to God's people for we are only sinners saved by grace, he said: "Yes."

He then ordered that he be put in it if it were the Lord's will, that the time would be short. When urged to have patience he said it was so hard to have pain now when he was suffering so much.

He then further, that his whole trust was in Jesus Christ that he could go to none other. I then took him by the hand and said: "God bless you." He responded: "Yes," and Mrs. Brasher pray for me."

On the evening of May 21, at seven o'clock, our dear father in Israel closed his eyes in death. His prayer that his time might be short was answered. His last words were: "I'm gone." A great, a noble man has fallen in our midst and we are called to feel the pain and mourn over the loss. He was a trustee of our church property, a faithful steward, and the sunday-school superintendent. The Grove church at the time of his death was the front of the temperance cause in his neighborhood. We all feel that his place will be very difficult to fill. God in this has entwined the jewels in his crown.

JAMES K. BRADLEY.

Southern Christian Advocate please copy.

LEANDER ELMORE LOVE was born February 11, 1836, and died April 8, 1879, at his residence in Coushatta, La.

Brother Love's native place was Louisiana. In 1857 he was married to Mrs. Martha E. Ammons, of Madison parish, La. After the war he settled near Coushatta, and went into the mercantile business, in which he was successful in accumulating a competency for self and family. He was in bad health for years, but seemed always willing to bear patiently all he had always been a very exemplary man in relation to his duty and performed it. In the month of September last our camp meeting was held at the Methodist church and Bro. Love came to his rules and privileges. He was sick about ten days. During his sickness he talked but little, however he had no fears of death. A few days before his death my self and his pastor were waiting at camp meeting, when he remarked that the Spanish Bend Circuit preacher was expected during the meeting. I asked if it was he replied that he did not think he would live long. And we feel sure that he is forever free from the fetters of sin and death, and is now following Jesus.

In the death of Brother Love the church has lost a faithful member, the community a good citizen, and the family a kind husband and father. He was married twice, his second wife and children survive him. His eldest daughter is the wife of Rev. A. S. Andrews, D. D., of the Alabama Conference.

PET VAUGHN.

WHEREAS, It has pleased Divine Providence in his infinite wisdom to remove by death the spirit of our friend and brother, Richard P. Baker, therefore be it

Resolved, That in his death the church has lost one of its most faithful members, his brethren a kind and affectionate husband, his children a loving father, society a good citizen, and the Methodist Episcopal Church South in the Meridian District, Mississippi Conference, a devoted member.

Resolved, That we tender our sympathy to the bereaved family in the loss of their husband and father, and commend them to Him who is a friend "that sticketh closer than a brother."

Resolved, That the members of our Sunday-school wear crape for six successive Sundays as a token of respect for the family and our last offering to Dickie's memory.

THOS. A. HOLLAND, and others.

MRS. NANNIE L., daughter of Allen and Jane Moore, and wife of Edward Jack, was born in Greene county, Alabama, in 1837, and departed this life in Brandon, Mississippi, May 1, 1879. She joined the Methodist Church in early life, was married in 1853.

When the physicians said Mrs. Jack could not live, she received the intelligence calmly, resignedly. Calling around her daughters she said: "Dear I am going to leave you all; I give the children to you; I can safely trust them with you. I will ask the Lord, and I believe he will grant it, to let me come back and minister to you all in spirit, as I have done in the body; yes, I believe he will let me be almost a speaking angel to you." Then with remarks and advice to her, to her husband, to her sons and others, she, with that affection that ever characterized her beautiful life, commended to each of them her precious mother, who had passed her eightieth year, telling them always to Ma, and give her the preference in all things. Truly she had kept the command: "Honor thy father and thy mother."

When wealth was hers she dispensed a liberal hospitality, and there are many living witnesses to her charity. When adversity came she bore it like a Christian heroine; after her beaming home was in ashes, she made no useless regret, but with hands all inspired to such labor, toiled diligently, uncomplainingly and with patience that was a wonder in all of her family. And now the web of life drops well finished from her hands, hands often so tired, here folded softly by lovely hands over her gentle breast, to unbind and receive a harp, and join in the grand chorus of Redeemed to the Lamb!

ELLEN.

The Christian Advocate.

THURSDAY, JUNE 19, 1879.

GROWING OLD GRACEFULLY.

Softly, oh! softly the years have swept by thee,
Touching thee lightly with tenderest care;
Sorrow and care did they often bring nigh thee;
Yet they have left thee but beauty to wear,
Growing old gracefully,
Gracefully fair

Far from the storms that are lashing the ocean;
Nearer each day to the ideal home light;
Far from the waves that are rolling with commotion,
Under full sail and the harbor in sight!
Growing old cheerfully,
Cheerful and bright.

Past all the winds that were adverse and chilling;
Past all the currents that wooed thee unwilling,
Growing old peacefully,
Peaceful and blest.

Never a feeling of envy or sorrow,
Where the bright faces of children are seen;
Never a year from their youth wouldst thou borrow,
Thou dost remember what lieth between,
Growing old willingly;
Gladly, I ween!

Rich in experience that angels might covet;
Rich in a faith that has grown with thy years;
Rich in the love that grew from and above it,
Soothing thy sorrows and hushing thy fears,
Growing old meekly;
Loving and dear.

Ill ails at the sound of thy coming are lightened,
Ready and willing thy hand to receive;
Many a one at thy kind words has brightened,
"It is more blessed to give than receive!"
Growing old humbly;
Blest, we believe.

—Christian Globe

How to Live Long.

There is no end of books written by English and French medical men on the preservation of health and attainment of longevity. For the most part they are not of any practical value. They expatiate on the constituent elements of the body, the chemistry of digestion, the osseous structure, and such-like matters. They strangely miss the main object in their theme, which is to point out a course of living, with mental and bodily conditions that would tend to secure health and the protraction of existence. Does this arise from want of grasp, or from a fear of treading on popular prejudices? Or the topic of health, the world stands in need of a writer with the fearlessness of Luther, the acute reasoning of Pascal, and the incisive humor of Moliere. The latest learned authority on health and long life bores us with lacteals, azotised substances, albumen, lumbar lymphatics, chyle, the thoracic duct, and similar jargon. A long list is given of persons who lived to be upward of a hundred years of age. What did these centenarians know of fibrin, the mesenteric glands, and all the rest of it? Some were paupers, many were hard-working people in common life. Most likely not half a dozen in the whole lot knew anything about their inside. They lived in a variety of ways. The diet of a woman who lived to be a hundred and seventeen is said to have been buttermilk and greens, of which we have some doubt. Some were very temperate, and others quite the reverse. One old fellow, who reached a hundred and four, drank a pint and a half of London gin daily. An Irishman, who lived to be a hundred and eleven, drank identically of rum and brandy till the last. With exceptions of that kind, to be reckoned wonders in nature, temperance and simplicity of diet were the chief characteristic. Old age had been attained not by any hard and fast rule, but by a number of circumstances, as seen by general experience.

The inquiry is: can we by any amount of foresight largely increase the ordinary span of life? Always assuming that we have a good constitution to begin with, we answer in the affirmative. Innumerous instances life is prematurely cut off by inherited weakness and ailments, though no doubt in the worst existence may be protracted under skillful advice and precautions. Passing over this order of cases as not immediately concern, we take the naturally robust and healthy, and ask what, by foresight, they can do for themselves. M. Flourens, an able French writer, following the ancient physiologists, points out that in every man there is a great deal of force in reserve; and that "it is the progressive diminution of this fund that constitutes the physiological character of old age." Whatever, therefore, will help to strengthen this original force, or not unduly lessen it, forms a matter of grave consideration. The physical exercises appropriate to youth and early manhood of course tend to exhaust and increase the force at disposal. Advancing in life, the reserve force has often to bear the strain of hard work, indifferent food exposure to extreme climatic changes, along with a number of cares comprehensively expressed in the word "worry." "It is not work, but worry, that kills me," is pretty frequently uttered with a sigh, which tells a tale of unseen troubles.

Longevity often runs in families; this is easily explained. No human being can detach him or herself from the lives of predecessors. Our own life is only a protraction of the life from which it sprung. Parents disappear when their time comes, and their lives survive in their children. One is sometimes startled to find himself using the same gestures, the same forms of expression, be they smiles or frowns, as his father or mother; so likewise are seen recurrences of resemblance in features, the shape of fingers, nails, toes, and in other particulars. In the family pictures hung up in the halls of the older aristocracy, it is interesting to notice how frequently likenesses cast up after the lapse of two or three generations. Any of us in the present day may be a repetition of his great-grandfather. If there be a Roman nose in the family, it is sure to last for hundreds of years.

Just as we inherit weakness of constitution, we inherit strength; from which arises the suggestion of taking care whom we marry; but we all know that at the marrying time of life nobody is so wise as to take hints of this kind. Hence society gets into a kind of jumble of healthy and unhealthy; the weakest in the end, however, dying out. Speaking physiologically, nature cares nothing for individuals. It looks to the race, for the preservation of which it makes immense efforts. What we have to do is to assist nature by such a course of living as will maintain if not strengthen the vital force we happened to inherit. That we take to be a primary duty. Long life in a healthy frame, through successive generations, is a usual consequence.

If the truth be plainly told, the generality of people do not act as if they cared about a long life. They rather seem to try to kill themselves. Look at their way of going on. Many are flushed prematurely by coarse and reckless dissipation. Some by getting into a muddle of speculations which they had no business with, ending in debts, difficulties and heart-breaking misery. Some from love of excitement and fondness for company. Some by preposterously late dinners, sleeplessness, and ruin of the digestive functions. Some from keeping up an overaction of the heart by stimulants, while they are all the time congratulating themselves on being patterns of moderation. Many by overtasking the brain, of protracted mental occupation, from which spring nervous and other disorders. One seldom hears of plain, quiet labor killing anybody. The plain man, other things being equal, usually lives longest. He may be complimented on his cleverness who knows how to avoid lines of action which lead, to disaster and loss of health, or, to put the case more briefly, who knows how to let well alone. In certain circumstances, to do nothing requires a high effort of intelligence.—New York Observer.

Our Boys.

"While thy servant was busy here and there, he was gone."

It was a most impressive sermon from that text. It was, in that special case, made applicable to the influences that rest upon one's own soul, to the power and the strivings of the Holy Spirit, which, if regarded, may abide with us; but which, disregarded or disdained, may leave us forever.

But the text may also apply to any lost opportunities; to any case where it is either our duty or our privilege, or both, to do good, and while we are busy here and there the time passes and it is too late.

"While thy servant was busy here and there, he was gone."

People have been very much stirred up of late, or rather the newspapers have, about our boys. How deeply the anxiety has gone time will show. A vast deal of iniquity has been unearthed, and vile and vicious publications have been stopped, which had been doing their pernicious work for months and years.

Let us hope that so far as mothers are concerned the warning has been heeded. Mothers, as a rule, need but to be informed to be roused at once. None can see a daughter in danger without rushing at once to warn and rescue.

About the boys we are less sure, for—where are the fathers? In the course of a long experience we remember to have seen very few (we could count them on our fingers) really faithful fathers. Some are careless; they really don't care, and will tell you: "Oh, the boys will come out right enough!" The majority don't know. Others think it is the mother's duty to look after the children. That is rather a strictly Ameerican notion. Nine tenths of the exhortations are to mothers. We mean out of the Bible. In the Bible they are addressed to fathers and they are really and truly responsible for their children.

Most men are "too busy;" that is the excuse. They have begun by taking the means for the ends. Work was intended to be the means of feeding and clothing one's family. Now work, the profession or business is the aim and object of life. And it becomes so engrossing that such simple duties as the training and government of the boys a town considers quite out of the question. The Lord says of Hezekiah: "And thou shalt teach them diligently unto thy children." He answers: "Lord, I have not time; it is all I can do to make money for them."

There is no harm in supporting his family, but when a man has neglected the future duty of training them it is curious sometimes to see how he has put all that money into a bag with holes, so that he is no better off, and his children, perhaps have gone to ruin. For there is nothing to take the place of personal interest and of care.

We mourn over the country, and with reason. Things look dark; but one of the worst signs would be children going to ruin through the snares and snares that are set for them, and the fathers, the Christian fathers or at least the moral men, letting them go to ruin through sheer neglect.

"Take this child and train him for Me."

"Lord, while Thy servant was busy here and there, he was gone."

There used to be books for mothers; there are still. But also let us have an exhortation to fathers. Upon no other being can the care fall, and now is the only sure time. Mischief which is done is done early.

The way to escape heartaches, if nothing worse, is to be faithful to the children; and the way to save the nation is to save the boys.—Christian Union.

Mind Over Matter.

During a flying visit to Waukesha, Wis., Dr. Robert Boyd related to us an incident from the life of that prince of preachers, Robert Hall, which is one of the finest illustrations of the power of mind over matter we have ever seen.

As is well known, Mr. Hall was hardly ever free from suffering. His disease, so obscure as to baffle all physicians, steadily tightened its hold upon him, and many of his great sermons were preached under circumstances that would entirely have prostrated a man of feeble nerve. One Sunday morning when, as usual, the church was packed to hear the great preacher, one of his deacons, entering the room at the rear of the pulpit, found Mr. Hall lying on the floor enveloped in a perfect cloud of smoke by which he was endeavoring to deaden the pain. A student went into the pulpit to conduct the opening services. Mr. Hall lingered in the vestry till the very last moment, wrestling with excruciating pain. At length, as the last hymn was being sung, he rose, or was lifted from the floor. His eye was heavy with narcotics, his cheeks hung flabby, and his whole expression was lifeless. The sexton put his coat on him and opened the door. Slowly and laboriously pulling hand over hand he climbed the pulpit stairs. With one hand pressed on his side, and the other grasping the pulpit, he announced his text: "The Father of Lights." He looked more like a dead man than a living one. With slow and mechanical utterance he began. Without motion or gesture, save a feeble occasional movement of his right hand, he went on. He first described, as only he could, the glories of the natural heavens; and then exalted God as the "Father" of all these lights. He then called a graphic roll of the world's intellectual masters. God was also the Father of all mental greatness. And then he dwelt on moral and spiritual greatness, and traced it all to God.

As he proceeded a wonderful change came over his face. The faintness passed away from his cheeks, and the heaviness out of his eyes. His face shone like an angel's, his eye blazed with unnatural brilliance, and his voice, losing the huskiness with which he began, rang like a trumpet. A great change also came over the audience. As he went on from picture to picture, and poured out on that audience, accustomed, indeed, to eloquence, but now astonished, his wonderful wealth of word and thought, the people leaned forward in their seats, hardly daring to breathe, and finally fully one third of them, unconscious of what they were doing rose up and leaned toward the pulpit as far as they could reach. Many left their pews, and with unconscious steps silently, as a thief, crept down the aisles, until they found themselves standing entranced directly in front of the speaker, so irresistable was the magnet that drew them.

When the sermon was over the giant disease again claimed its victim, the eyes sunk and the face fell. He was again the feeble dying man. But during that glorious hour, when "great thoughts struck along the brain," the mind was supreme. It spurned weakness and death, and claimed its birthright. Such an hour as that will forever disprove the current materialism. These are times when man can "above himself erect himself." Such times prophecy the permanent triumph of the immaterial part of our being. If the mind be but the happy collection of physical atoms, then the eloquence of a physical, broken and dying man is an unexplained and anomalous thing. But if the mind be a separate and immortal entity, using the body as its servant, then we can understand how it can climb sometimes to its grandest achievements along the rickety and trembling stairway of an enfeebled and decaying physical nature.—Interior.

Religious Intelligence.

SOUTH AFRICA.—We have been favored with the following extract from a letter received by a lady in Lancaster from her sister in Natal: "Edendale, seven miles from Natal, is one of the oldest and most interesting mission stations. There are three white and Christian native teachers there; sixty of these, some of them teachers, local preachers, class leaders, and catechists, volunteered to go to the front, when the Zulus began to assemble. Mr. Allsopp, the only white person much concerned for them. They were to go on Monday morning, and he told them to meet him in the chapel at a quarter to seven. They grouped around the pulpit, using appropriate hymns, and were addressed. Mr. A. telling them most emphatically not to put weight on their shield, and commending them in prayer to the Lord. He afterwards rode out a little way with them, and before they proceeded again spoke a few words to them. Meeting the general he slapped them to inquire who they were, gave them a little address told them 'the God of Israel would be their God,' and as they had received the gospel they must try to give it to all over whom they had any influence. Taking off his hat, he gave 'Hurrah for Edendale!' Then the natives took off their hats and gave 'Hurrah for the General!' They were all well mounted. It was feared they were slain at Isandhla, but all returned except two. One of these gave in his own graphic way the account of their escape to the missionary. They fought their way cleverly through the Zulus after the manner of the Dutch warfare. They found themselves without ammunition except bits they could pick up, and they had lost their rifles. The words that 'God would be their shield' were their comfort. Mr. Allsopp brought one of them down to Natal that he might give the account to Mr. Mason, the missionary there."—Watchman.

—Protestantism is represented in Calais, France, by an Episcopal Church for the English population and by two Wesleyan Churches, one for the English and one for the French, in the suburb of St. Pierre, the French Wesleyan Church being the only French Protestant place of worship in the neighborhood. The Wesleyans have a scheme, as yet of the future, for building a Sailor's Institute for the many hundred English and Norwegian sailors that visit the port yearly. To raise money for their various work, they will hold a bazaar in the Wesleyan Mission House in London, in May or June. A number of accounts concur in representing that Roman Catholicism is losing ground in France, and an opportunity that has not occurred before is offering to introduce a new form of faith in its stead. Protestantism may offer the new form, but if it is not alert, it thereby, which is alert, will step into the place. It behooves the friends of true faith to be active.

—Protestant work is continued in Portugal quietly but effectively, and seems to excite no opposition from the government, in which respect its treatment is quite different from that it receives in Spain. A paper in Oporto notices in connection with the first register of death under a new law, that the burial services of the deceased was performed in the parochial cemetery "according to the evangelical rite, to which the deceased belonged," by the Rev. Guilhorme Dias, who is a Wesleyan minister, and author of a pamphlet in answer to a priestly attack on Protestantism. The first significance of this liberty will be understood when it is remembered that in free, Protestant England, a Wesleyan or other non conformist minister, would not to-day be permitted to read a burial service according to any rite, in any parochial cemetery. The Wesleyans have sent two effective preachers from Oporto to Lisbon, one to assist the English chaplain, the other to assist the Presbyterian minister.

—When the British Government desired more definite information respecting the Zulus and their country, it went to the missionary societies as the bodies most likely to possess it; and to one who knows what the missionaries are doing everywhere, it is the most natural thing in the world to read that "the Wesleyan Missionary Society have supplied the government as its request, with information on the ethnology, physical features and climate of Natal and Zululand, prepared by the Rev. Mr. Roberts, one of the missionaries of the society, who spent some time in those countries."

—The Missionary Herald says of the Bible House in Constantinople: "In this Bible House, both the American, British and Foreign Bible Societies have their offices; here the missionaries meet; here the scriptures have been translated into the many tongues of the empire; here a prayer-meeting is held each day at noon; here people of all nationalities—American, English, Scotch, Greek, Armenian, Bulgarian, Turkish—are engaged in preparing a Christian literature, including four weekly newspapers in as many languages, to be scattered throughout every portion of Turkey. May the glory of the Lord fill this house!"

—The Rev. Dr. Kennedy, of the Free Church of Scotland, has carried through the Synod of Ross an overture to the Assembly, asking that body to "adopt such measures as in their wisdom may seem fitted to secure that sound instruction be given in our theological halls, and to restore these institutions to the place they once held in the confidence of the office bearers and members of the church." Dr. Kennedy is the most influential of the Highland ministers, and this overture means, of course, that Prof. Smith's teachings are not thought sound of by the Highlanders.

—Lord James Butler, the leader of the Evangelical party in the Irish Episcopal Church, has withdrawn from the council because he is dissatisfied with the small measures of success that has attended the attempt to revise the prayer book. Some other members of the church think that too much has been done in this line, but they are not of the Evangelical party.

—The Regent Square Presbyterian Church, of London, has had for many years a class of the blind. It began with 21 members, and has increased to 140 members. A staff of about 40 ladies visit them weekly in their homes. Medical advice is provided for them, as well as pecuniary assistance whenever needed. Every Thursday evening they are entertained by lecture, concert, or readings. Most of the members are poor.

—The growth of the Baptist Church, since 1851 in London has been somewhat remarkable. While Methodists of all kinds have increased 164 per cent., Presbyterians and the English Church 42 per cent. each, Congregationalists 30, and Roman Catholics 98 per cent., the Baptists have grown at the rate of 154 per cent.

—Mr. Sankey has been permitted to sing and to hold services in the parish church of Chapel-en-le-Frith, Derbyshire, England, where a platform was erected under the chancel arch, and an American organ placed on it for his use. At this the Ritualistic papers are thoroughly displeased, and have called upon the Bishop of Litchfield to interfere.

—The Liberation Society in England is working with great activity to free religion, as it expresses it, from the control of the State. It has formed district organizations under which meetings in furtherance of its objects are held at numerous places. In the Manchester District sixty three meetings in favor of disestablishment have been held since November 13, 1868, and 186,000 publications have been issued.

—The New South Wales Conference assembled in Sydney, on Wednesday, January 29; the South Australian Conference in Adelaide, on Tuesday, January 21. The New Zealand commenced its sessions on the sixteenth of February, in Auckland.

—The Lutheran churches of Philadelphia received 700 communicants during the Lenten services, those of Reading, Penn., 264.

—The Baptist Publication Society has raised its debt of $20,000, and goes on its way rejoicing.

Our Young People.

PLAYING STORE.

"Ting a ling!" now they have opened the store;
Never was such an assortment before!
Mud pies in plenty, and parcels of sand,
Pebbles for sugar plums always on hand.

Plenty of customers coming to buy:
"Brown sugar, white sugar; which will you try?"
Paper, or money? their wealth, too, is vast;
In spite of my pains, they scatter it fast.

Quick little hands tie the bundles with care;
Smoother's ghost must be flitting the air;
Riddles fly over, and weather, no doubt.
What all these busy little folks talk about.

Sweet rosy cheeks, with your smiles of delight;
Dear loving eyes, that are winsome and bright;
Lips that are pure as the hue morning dew,
Older hearts to grow sheepish with you.

Red is the sun on the tops of the trees;
Laden with sweets, homeward wend the bees;
Little feet now have grown weary with play;
Little hands close up the store for the day.

—Monthly Reader.

From Our Little Friends.

MY GIFT.

POUGHKEEPSIE, JUNE 7, 1879.

MR. EDITOR: I am a little girl just five years old, and I cannot write a letter myself, so I have to get mamma to write for me. I sent you ten cents for the poor little heathen children who pray to wooden gods. I was so sorry for them this evening, when my mamma told me about them, that I was almost ready to cry. I have the sweetest little baby sister in the world, and mamma says I may have her for my baby. She is named Laura. Bro. Singleton preaches in our church about God. Your little friend,

KATIE BLAKE.

Note by the Editor.—Thanks to Katie. We will see that her dime goes to China, to help send the gospel there.

A Remarkable Journey.

BY EVA H. MILLER.

Two little babies were going to France, and the old sleigh had been repaired for the purpose of conveying them thither. Not that there was any snow upon the ground in June—not that the ocean had been bridged for their special benefit—not at all—yet they were certainly going this lovely summer day, all the way to France in that dingy old ping-sleigh.

One of these young ladies was a dark little elf, with black eyes full of fun; the other was a blonde fairy, whose blue eyes sparkled with mischief. The first was Madame Estella Adora Isabella Irene Jobette; the other was Lady Myrtle Willow.

Now it must be confessed that there were occasions when they were addressed by very different appellations; but just at present they had changed their personality, and were the happy possessors of these romantic titles. It must also be acknowledged that these high-born dames had very independent notions as to what constituted a voyage to France, and what were suitable costumes for such a journey.

The sleigh was under a shed in the back yard, standing with its shafts turned up against the wall, and was half full of hay. The horse, a handsome white charger, was wholly invisible to ordinary eyes, but his two noses could plainly see him pawing and pranching as if impatient to be off. One of the sides were a coat-tail, which looked suspiciously as if it were made of calico and tied by string around her waist; while the other was sweet, beautiful in a short costume loped with bows of yellow flannel.

The repairing of the sleigh consisted in pushing the hay to one end, and placing across its sides an elegant and luxurious seat made of a white pine board.

"If we should happen to want to go to sleep," which was very likely on such a long journey, "we can lie down on the hay," remarked Lady Myrtle Willow, in her stately fashion.

When all preparations were completed the ladies climbed into the sleigh, whipped up their horse, and started with great hubbub, to the admiration of all beholders.

Wildly reared and plunged the foaming steed, while the sleigh with its precious load, over mountains and hills, down valleys and dells, through cities and villages, Lady Myrtle Willow lavishly distributed gold and silver to the beggars on the way; but Madame Estella Adora Isabella Irene Jobette disdainfully curled her lips and refused to countenance them in the least.

How exciting it was! On, on, on they flew! The young ladies screeched and screamed with delight, and bounced up and down in their joy over the beautiful scenery spread out on either hand as far as the eye could reach. After a furious drive of about ten miles, Madame Estella Isabella suddenly exclaimed:

"Now we are hungry and must have our dinner!"

Down they sat on their sleigh-chariot floor, one each side of the seat, which—O wonder!—instantly became an elegant marble table, loaded with all that appetite could desire; while the vehicle was as suddenly transformed into a magnificent restaurant.

"I'll have some cream-cakes and an apple turnover," said the Madame Estella Adora.

"I want some turkey and strawberries and cream," said the mild Lady Myrtle.

"Hadn't we both better take some pineapples and oranges?" asked the madame, as she crammed an invisible cream cake into her mouth.

"Yes, and a couple of tarts," suggested her companion.

After this substantial and satisfactory meal was dispatched, I am sorry to say that the fine ladies left the restaurant without the slightest notion of paying their bills, deserted their faithful steed, not so much as offering him a wisp of hay, and took passage in a row-boat for China, without having even touched at the shore of France.

"How the sea goes!" exclaimed the excited Madame Estella, frantically rowing with an invisible oar, and flipping wildly about until she nearly fell overboard.

"Frightfully!" cried Lady Myrtle Willow, in joyous tone; then with a piercing shriek she pointed to a fearful pile of shingles, and cried despairingly:

"See that awful wave! We are surely going to be drowned! Help! Help!" Whereupon Lady Estella Adora Isabella lost all self-control, and fainted dead away, and lay gasping in the bottom of her boat, until Lady Willow brought her to her senses by holding a piece of brick to her nose.

"Cheer up, your majesty! here is a light house coming to save us!" she said encouragingly.

"No," objected Madame Estella "it is a whale, and we are to ride on its back."

There is so much resemblance between light-houses and whales that my lady was not at all disconcerted by her mistake, but was proceeding to be ship wrecked in the highest style, when that ungrateful Madame Estella Adora Isabella Irene promptly astride the whale—which the ordinary observers would have called a saw-horse—and, waving a majestic adieu, sailed away, leaving her companion alone by mid-ocean.

It was now Lady Willow's turn to faint; and, just as she had gotten herself nicely fainted, she was recalled violently to life by the sudden appearance upon the scene of a terrible monster, in the shape of a small boy, who shouted:

"Here, Em and Carrie! if you don't come in and set the table you can't have any dinner. Mother says, so!"

In the twinkling of an eye the raging ocean was transformed into a rickety old shed, the up-turned bark into a dingy rag carpet, the whale into a saw-horse; and two little girls, feeling cross and petulant at being interrupted in their play, slipped unwillingly into the places of the sweet Lady Myrtle Willow and the magnificent Madame Estella Adora—Wide Awake.

NAMES OF FINGERS.—Here are the names formerly given the fingers:

"First comes 'Pollex.'"

"But that isn't a finger!" we say.

"Well, perhaps that is why it was called 'Pollex.'"

"Then come 'Teacher' or 'Forefinger,' 'Longman,' 'Leechman,' and 'Lutteman.'"

It's plain enough how Teacher, Longman and Lutteman came by their names, but Leechman got his in this roundabout way:

It appears that, in the misty past, folks believed that a nerve ran straight from the third finger to the heart. Likewise they thought that this finger felt the effects of poison more quickly and definitely than any of the other fingers. Thirdly, and lastly, they made a point of stirring up their physic with it.

So, you see, this finger had a great deal to do with sickness, and getting well, and physic, and such matters, and as they call the man who physicked them—the doctor—a "leech," it saved trouble to give the same name to the physic finger and call it Leechman.—Jack in the Pulpit, St. Nicholas.

The great thing is for a boy to meet a temptation boldly, frankly and at once with a "No!" which has a meaning in it. Some boys will say "No," but it is in such a half hearted way that the tempter knows that it means a half "Yes." This simply gives an invitation for a repetition of the solicitation, and makes almost certain, too, the yielding. But a "No!" that is enforced by tone and look that tell what the word has its own true meaning settles half the matter; or if it does not settle it, makes it certain that if the temptation comes again, it will be weaker and he will be stronger. The first "No!" is a great thing.—Christian Weekly.

THE MISCHIEF MAKER.—Nelly Hall is a regular mischief-maker. Are there two little girls in school who are known as friends, happy in each other's society, Nelly goes to work to make trouble. She picks up some little harmless word here, adds a word or phrase, and takes away a word there, changes the tone and manner, and it makes the whole convey an entirely different idea.

"Mary Allen has a pair of mittens just like these I lost," says Frances Mayfare, innocently enough.

At recess Nelly calls Mary into a corner.

"What do you think Frances says about you?" she asks, in a mysterious whisper.

"What does she say?" asks Mary.

"Won't you ever tell as long as you live and breathe?" says Nelly.

"No," says Mary, thoughtlessly.

"Well, you know she lost her mittens; and this morning she said, 'Mary Allen has a pair of mittens just exactly like those I lost,' she says, and if you'd seen the way she looked, and how she tossed her head, and then says she, 'So just like mine!'"

"She didn't mean I stole them?" says Mary, naturally provoked.

"Of course she did."

So there is a foundation for a very pretty quarrel, and soon all the school is taking one side or the other, and there is a great talk and trouble.

The little mischief-maker never does in the storm she has raised. Do you know any little mischief maker? If you do, never listen to her "says she's" and "says I's." If she comes to you with a story, turn a deaf ear, for the words of a tale-teller are as wounds.—Child's Magazine.

"Well, Bessie," said her mother, "have you been a good girl, to-day?" "No, mamma!" "Why, Bessie, I hope you have not been a bad girl." "No, ma'ma," said the little thing, "not wuddy bad, not wuddy good, just a comferable little girl."

The Christian Advocate.

ORGAN OF THE ALABAMA, MISSISSIPPI AND LOUISIANA CONFERENCES OF THE M. E. CHURCH, SOUTH.

THURSDAY, JUNE 19, 1879.

REV. LINUS PARKER, D. D., Editor.

OFFICE,—112 CAMP ST., NEW ORLEANS.

For Whom Christ Died.

However strange and unknown some people may be to us, this is beyond dispute—that Christ died for them. Of some it may be that we know too much concerning their iguorance, degradation and vice. But, however fallen, Christ died for them. This fact ought to be a reason of concern aud sympathy, and the most powerful of motives to help them.

It should not be forgoiten in relation to those for whom we naturally love and care. Parental affection flows more purely and intensely where the conviction is clear and prominent that Christ died for our children. It is the ground of a peculiar interest which ennobles and elevates the natural affection, and gives a uew and profound significance to it. Parental fidelity may not seem to need this consideration, and yet it is a mighty re-enforcement to the most devoted love. It imparts a couception of the dignity and value of the souls committed to us that we might otherwise fail to reach. In all responsible relations it is the very highest statement of our accouutability for others. The greatness and fearfulness of the trust appears strikingly in the statement: That He who came to seek and to save that which is lost died for them. If they have received such maulfestatiou of the divine regard, our neglect of them is thereby immeasurably aggravated.

And thus, with the truth clearly grasped, that Christ died for all men, we travel beyond the pale of natural kinship, and of all social ties, to the remotest boundaries of the human family. Wherever there are men, there are those for whom Christ died. They seem to be far from us, separated from us by distance, race and character, but they are every one very precious to Him whom we call Lord. Just as precious to Him as are we aud our children, and invested with the same wealth of divine tenderness and compassion. Uppermost in our thoughts of savage, brutal and far-off people, should be this conceptiou of what God thinks about them, and of what Christ has suffered for them. Those hordes of Cannibals, and fierce and cruel savages encountered by Stanley in his terrific progress down the Livingstone, seem almost as repulsive as wild beasts, as hateful as devils, but they are among those for whom Jesus suffered. And to the devout Christian mind they are raised and transfigured by this fact, and the aversion we might otherwise feel is changed to kindliness and pity by the redemption provided for them.

Looking upon men through this atmosphere of the divine love, there can be no cherished enmity. It is a sufficient reason why we cannot hate, and why we must love, the very worst of men, that Christ died for them. About us are the dirty and unclean, beggars in rags, criminals and felons in bonds, thieves and prostitutes, masses of ignorant and vicious people, the filth and scum of society. All traces and vestiges of purity and virtue seem to have been obliterated. Why should we care for them? It is enough that Christ died for them. We cannot be in sympathy and fellowship with Him if not moved with compassion toward the worst and most degraded of men. The great practical lesson of the cross has not touched our hearts if it has not kindled in us a strong yearning to help and save these outcasts. While the message to sinners is that Christ died for them—a message of hope to the most guilty—it is also the warrant and inspiration of him who delivers it. In looking upon the people that throng the highways and streets, and that rush along the various paths to death, we must penetrate through the outward conditions—their poverty, their obscurity, their vices—and see in them that for which Christ died. Whether we look into the faces of a quiet congregation, or upon the countenances of an enraged mob, the supreme thing about them is that Christ died for them. Whether it be a poor man or a rich man, a good man or a bad man, the young or the old, the blood of redemption is connected with our thoughts concerning them.

It is obvious how this way of estimating men is calculated to inspire the Christian with the deepest solicitude for the welfare of all. For brotherly love it is unfailing. For charity, in its widest expansion, it is a necessary condition. Christ's love for all helps us to love all. It makes all men lovable, and plants in them that which draws our hearts toward them. Where all traces of goodness are obscured, and all nobility of nature has disappeared, the stamp and seal of divine love may still be seen. The most of men are ignorant of the most important thing which concerns them. How strong and irrepressible the desire, in true Christian souls, to tell them! With the conviction that Christ died for that man, can you meet him and not be constrained to utter the burden of your heart? Can you look upon your child, and yet keep back the tidings? With two-thirds of the world in pagan darkness, "without God, and having no hope in the world," can we look upon these masses and not try to tell them that they have a Saviour?

For whom Christ died! What a gracious and thrilling message we have, and the people that sit in darkness and in the shadow of death are waiting to hear it. The wonder is that every Christian tongue does not cry out that all consecrated treasure is not poured forth, and that Christian churches do not rise to their feet and go forth to tell the story. Since Christ has died for them these degraded and perishing men are something more to us than mere names and waifs drifting deathward. God has magnified them as the objects of His love, and they are worthy of ours. We cannot realize that Christ has died for them, and be indifferent about them. If Christ has died for them, we must awaken and fill the world with the message.

Revivals—Why Such Beggarly Results?

We find in the church two classes of extremists, if not equally, yet each very wide of the mark. The one composed of spiritual empyricks prescribes a revival as a panacea for all the ailments of the body ecclesiastic. The other holds that there ought to be no necessity for a revival—re, again, and vivere, to live—because the church ought to keep herself alive. So she ought, but, as a matter of fact, she does not. Hence those churches that have no revivals die of inanition, or else gather their supplies by raids on neighboring churches. A brother boasted that he had built up a strong church, "in a regular way, without resorting to extraordinary means." But it turned out, upon investigation, that when a neighboring church had a revival he slipped in among the converts and enticed them to his church. Yet, after all, his church did not prosper. The children surreptitiously taken from their spiritual mother did not grow by dry nursing. It is bad every way when a church becomes so poor in converting grace as to be tempted to steal.

But we inquire: Why are not revivals more fruitful of permanent good? Many reasons might be assigned, but there are two that seem to me to claim special attention:

1. In the true sense of the word, there may have been little or no revival—no reinvigoration of the church. The revival must be in the church—is confined to the church. The conviction and conversion of sinners is the legitimate result of the revival. Whenever a church begins to grow in grace it will be manifested by an increased love for the means of grace. The preaching of the word, the social prayer meetings, the class meetings, will become more attractive and better attended. If the pastor is wise, he will hear this "sound in the mulberry trees," as the providential indication that Israel is ready for the battle. There is a revival in the church, and if there are additions to the family the mother is in health and ready to take care of the children. But if the religious services are all languishing! If the pastor has to send for strange preachers, in order to attract a congregation by the novelty, there is no revival, and little hope of having one by such means. Yet we are not ignorant of the pressure that comes upon the pastor under such a state of affairs. He is liable himself to become impatient—to think if he could have a few conversions the church might be quickened by the reflex action. The fires ought to be kindled directly from the infinite Fire-fountain above; he knows it; but will it ever come that way? Or perhaps the members are clamorous for a protracted meeting, in the hope that without their co-operation the Lord will "add to them such as shall be saved." Or it may be that the pastor is beginning to fear that if he does not have additions to his church he will lose in the estimation of his brethren. Or there may be disorders in the church, and pastor and people hope to substitute a revival for the disagreeable duty of exercising discipline. Or, no matter what may be the cause, they begin a meeting prematurely. The church that was cold in the beginning remains in that state, or about the time the preachers are worn out by long continued and superabundant work—doing their own and supplying the church's lack—the church is seized with a momentary zeal that dies out in a week or two after the meeting closes. God honors his truth faithfully preached. There are children born in a languishing, cold, dead church. The mother is living, or trying to live, in an atmosphere that is below the freezing-point. The babe born and untended in such an atmosphere is soon frozen. The child born of a dead mother, and receiving no nourishment, is soon starved. At best it is a puny child, born of a sickly mother, with so little spiritual constitution, that the chances for living are very much against it.

2. We open the door of the church too widely. I do not mean to intimate that penitents are not entitled to church membership. Our terms are scriptural, and suited to the nature of the case: "Repent and be baptized, every one of you, for the remission of sins." Whoever repents purchases for himself a good degree of grace. Repentance is such a great beginning as makes the angels happy, and tempts out the assurance of the divine blessing. Any church would take that good man that fasted twice a week, paid tithes of all he possessed, and thanked God that he was not as other men. For my part, I had rather have the one that smote on his breast, crying: "God be merciful to me a sinner." Moreover, of all people, penitents stand in most need of help. I am glad that my church invites penitents to all the means of grace therein deposited. But the trouble with us, as with all the churches, is that we open our doors to impenitent sinners. It is thought that the church will exercise a restraining influence upon a person, or that his joining the church will have a good influence upon others, and then it will help to swell the numbers gathered at the meeting. But, be this as it may, yet it is certain that very many come into the church who never saw the "exceeding sinfulness of sin." Each protracted meeting adds a stratum of dead souls to the underlying strata of dead souls, till we have a church mostly made up of impenitent sinners. Now the question arises: Where is the pastor that can edify such a church? Must he go on building upon the sand, or must he tear away the foundation and build anew? Let any pastor who has been converted himself, and feels the burden of souls pressing upon him, undertake to manage such a church, and surely he will be cured of all love for such superficial work.

ALLEN CARTESON.

JUNE 6, 1879.

Letter from England.

MR. EDITOR: You will see by our English papers that attention has of late been greatly absorbed by the usual May meetings.

These meetings, once the scoff of a large portion of the would-be-wise public, and still the ridicule of the witlings who grow no wiser with "the process of the suns," have become a genuine power in the land. It is no longer pretended that they are the attempts of superstition to lash itself into fanaticism. There is a growing respect for true religion, and critics mark with observant eye that the churches parade their forces not for ostentation, but for review and severest criticism.

You will have in our papers detailed accounts of many of the May meetings. To us Methodist Londoners there are two meetings of special interest—the missionary breakfast meeting at Cannon Street Hotel, and the great missionary meeting at Exeter Hall. The first is considered a very enjoyable gathering. If you had taken your stand on the steps of the Terminus railway station in Cannon street, on Saturday morning, May 3, about 20 to 9 A. M., you would have seen lines of people converging upon the Palatial Hotel from many directions. People from the train, from omnibusses, cabs, and private carriages. By nine o'clock every place is full, and a happy, gossiping crowd is soon busy at breakfast. An hour afterward we assemble in the large room which I should say would seat 800 or 900 people—a lofty, well-ventilated room, surrounded with mirrors, and filled to overflowing with the creme de la creme of British Wesleyan Methodism. Happy is the chairman, who pays heavily for the honor of presiding, and who knows that the shorter his speech the better it will be appreciated. Happy the imposing array of missionary secretaries, some of whom have won their spurs as orators, and all of whom wear to-day a complacent judicial air. Happy the breakfasted, sociable crowd, chatting gaily, and speculating upon the magnitude and brilliancy of the new stars discovered by the committee, and invited to shine that morning. But, oh! ye stars! To see them twinkling, as it were, with a kind of nervous shiver before they shine! There is one who shone years ago, and who seemed like the lost pleiad, but who rises again with glossy head and beaming face, to cry: "Colors, thirty paces forward!" And to mark that meeting above all its fellows with the legend: "The colors shan't trail!" It would have made your American heart beat swiftly if you had seen how that story—one of your great struggles in the deplorable war between North and South—told upon the audience. But, though the subject is tempting, and I should like to mark with astronomical accuracy the waxing and waning of each luminary upon that occasion, "time and space" are against me.

The Exeter Hall meeting was also a notable success. The event of the day was the speech of Sir Arthur Gordon, the Governor of Fiji. But of this you already have a full report in the Watchman. That meeting is worthy of study. The doors are opened at nine o'clock in the morning, and the Hall, which seats over 4,000 people, is filled up directly, though the meeting does not commence until eleven o'clock, and from that hour, until about four P. M., does the huge audience sit patiently, appreciatively or enthusiastically, according to circumstances, but always with a decided interest in the great work of Wesleyan missions.

Well, our May meetings are now over, and we are in for another year of steady work. Swiftly upon the heels of the meetings, of which I have been speaking, come our district meetings. Grave and earnest were the discussions upon our position as a church. I fear that in spite of the fact that our congregations are larger, and our property greater, and our influence more and more felt, we shall have to face a decrease in the number of members in society. You will gather from our papers that Methodist opinion is divided in face of that fact. Many hold that our tests are too severe, others that we shall not gain by making them less stringent. One thing is obvious: We compare unfavorably with other churches, owing to the very completeness of our numerical returns. What a different view outsiders would take of our position if we were to simply announce the number of new members who join us every year! And if to that we were to add a list of our new chapels, etc., and the size of our congregations, they would open their eyes. As it is, every year hundreds of our people, moving to neighborhoods where there is no Wesleyan chapel, join other churches. They make a blank in our returns, but they are not lost. Then we receive a greater number in return; but while the Methodist finds it easy to become a Churchman, the Churchman finds it difficult to become a Methodist. The requirements are more stringent. If our roll of membership were relaxed, I dare say we should speedily add 100,000 to our membership. But, is it right? That is the question which perplexes the wisest and best heads among us.

You will have noticed that the proposal to hold an ecumenical Methodist Conference is winning its way. I trust that very soon every difficulty will be removed, and that representatives of every branch of the Methodist Church will assemble in the venerable City Road Chapel. What a gathering it will be! And what a church will be represented! How good men will exclaim with gratitude: "What hath God wrought!" Trusting, my dear Dr. Parker, to see you on that occasion,

Very truly yours,

W. COWELL BROWN.

LONDON, MAY 28, 1879.

Hearty Counsel.

The world at this time has more brains on the market than can be readily disposed of at a profit. If this statement be doubted, let the doubter look over the lists of brain-sellers from the backwoods pedagogue to the world-renowned professor; from the country editor to the chief of journalists; from the obscure literary hack to the author of the most ponderous or popular books. If not satisfied with this array, let him take in the legal, the medical, theological, mercantile and agricultural venders of thought. In fact, the world has so developed, cerebrally, that the functions of heart and vertebra are taxed to the utmost to sustain it at its present dimensions, and there is danger of the cranial arch giving way from internal pressure. One need not go three blocks from his house to get more advice of good intellectual quality than he can hold in his own head. Neighbor Banks knows more about the history of money than I could tell in a month. He knows what's the matter with financial affairs now. Money is tight, he says, and it won't get any better until the finances improve. This is his theory in a nut-shell, and I believe Neighbor Banks is half right. But the intellectual machinery and mental labor by which he has achieved this triumph are worthy of comparison with Edison's process of enlightening the world by electricity. Mrs. Ganse, who lives by the town creek, knows all about geese and other poultry. Friend Doolittle has "an idea" every time I meet him—"it struck him the very minute he saw me." After leaving me, to his satisfaction he goes off saying, patronizingly: "Brains is a great thing, isn't it?" I fully agree with him, and pray that—well, never mind.

But laying aside this strain, let us take a sober view of the case. The world is not suffering now for the lack of intellectual light. The blaze of knowledge now shining over the earth is far more bright than ever since mankind had a history. Knowledge has been increased. Practical, experimental knowledge is far beyond what it ever was before. Men's minds grasp as playthings mighty truths under which Newton and Kepler stooped and tottered. They are reaching out after truths of which the lights of the world fifty years ago never dreamed. If you go to men for information you can get it—more than you know what to do with. Advice, sound, wholesome and cheap, can be had everywhere. If you want counsel you can collect enough in six hours to last the United States and Great Britain thrown in for six months. There is so much to be had for the taking that it is a wonder that anybody ever loses anything, makes a mistake, or dies poor, or goes to the devil. If he does, twenty persons can be found who will testify that he did it contrary to their advice.

What's the matter, then? Why are we so pressed now? Why are men everywhere at their wits' end? Why don't they take the advice and improve by it? Where is the philosophic evolutionist who will account for this upon the theory of natural selection?

Let us venture a moral theory. Man is a moral as well as an intellectual being. To him no advice is worth anything, unless it reaches his heart. Solomon says: "Ointment and perfume rejoice the heart; so doth the sweetness of a man's friend by hearty counsel." Is not the secret in the word hearty? This word has more in it than may at once appear. 1. It comes from the heart. 2. It has the heart in it? 3. It has the sweetness of the heart and not the bitter. The last seems to me to be the most important of all. The manner in which advice is given has more to do with its success or failure than almost anything else. I would not make a pun; but when a sweet heart advises, who refuses to take the advice? It is a pleasure to do the will of such a counselor. There is no sense of humiliation, but rather the reverse. Man does not feel enslaved, but devotion abolishes the idea of servility. There is a sense of oneness in interest and aspiration between himself and adviser that excludes the idea of selfishness and its twin-demon suspicion. Faith and love have expelled them; their black shadows have vanished from the sunlit heart. Such counsel makes a man brave and strong. There is no tonic to the nerves like it. There is no such quickener of the intellect. It is ointment. If there are old sores, they heal up; if there are fresh wounds, they quit bleeding, and heal by first intention. It is perfume. Never did man hear of a better disinfectant. The air is purer, and descends deeper into the lungs. The heart which felt the decay of sentiments, and the putrefaction of the nobler principles, is sweetened. The sensitive nerves that had gathered into hard knots uncoil and are tender again. Sympathy, with his kind revives, in the heart of the misanthrope. He drinks in sweets from abroad, and at the same time unconsciously to him, it may be, he pays it back with sweetness of his own. The lily kisses the rose, and their intermingled odors fly off to awake honeysuckle and Jasmine. These smile in dewy freshness, and send back their greetings laden with sweets. Is not the reason, then, to be found here for the vast accumulation of untaken advice? The brains are not sweetened by the heart. The advice is cold bread—dry—unseasoned. People won't eat it unless they are starving. When they do eat it they sicken and loathe it. "Vanity and vexation of spirit." Brains, brains, but no heart. Glory, but no joy. Splendor, but no affection. Under the same sunshine that illuminated Eden, and with the accumulated wealth and wisdom of the ages, man moans and gasps, mopes and dies with the shades of Erebus in his soul, and a pauper in all things that can ease a heart throb or wake a smile of joy; a prince and a magician ruling the world to his own sorrow, and calling up spirits that will not down at his bidding. How sweet amid this ruin and wretchedness to meet hearty counsel!

T. A. S. A.

Pearl river, it seems, has three mouths, or there are three Pearl rivers as the stream approaches the gulf. Pearlington is on East Pearl river, about ten miles from where the river enters the Mississippi Sound. By rail to Lookout Station, on the New Orleans and Mobile railroad, and by steam tug eight miles to Pearlington, only three and a half hours from the Canal street depot.

The Seashore District Conference was a very pleasant one, and a gracious revival was under way when we left. The meeting was to be continued at least during the present week. Rev. John A. Ellis, presiding elder, opened the Conference on Friday morning, July 13, Bishop Keener arriving and taking the chair in the afternoon. Seashore is an immense district, embracing wide stretches of poor and sparsely-populated country. The presiding elder and pastors are laboring hard and faithfully, and the state of the church is improving. Some further account of the Conference will be published next week.

Pearlington claims to have the completest and finest saw mill in the whole land. It is owned by Messrs. Poltevent & Favre, and when fully manned it will turn out 100,000 feet of lumber daily. The mill is the business and life of the place. The steam whistle has a marvelous capacity of noise, and by it meal hours, working time and getting up are regulated. There is an endless chain which carries the slabs away and dumps them into a sort of Gehenna—a perpetual fire. And there are other endless chains hauling up the logs, moving the saw dust, and wheels, and cogs, and saws of all dimensions. Steam does almost everything, and the men simply wait upon and regulate the machinery. The way those big, hungry circular saws sing through a log is something marvelous. The song of the saw! Somebody ought to write it. There is both poetry and music in it.

Thanks to our Pearlington friends for three pleasant days among them! We were delighted with the large and attentive congregations, the saw mill, the District Conference, the abounding hospitality, the hearty kindness. And then our intercourse with preachers and laymen was exceedingly gratifying. Best of all, during the meeting in Pearlington a number found the pearl of great price.

On Sunday night, while preaching, Bro. G. F. Thompson was taken ill, but on Monday morning he was better, and able to return home. Bishop Keener and Judge Wood were also indisposed, but were improving when we parted with them at Lookout.

Vanderbilt Commencement.

The Nashville Christian Advocate in its notice of the Vanderbilt Commencement, says:

The contest for the Founder's Medal, by the Dialectic and Philosophical Societies on Tuesday evening, drew a brilliant audience. The contestants were D. U. Fletcher, of Georgia, and R. A. Durham, of Texas, representing the Dialectic Society; and J. C. Brown, of Alabama, and M. F. Sloan, of Arkansas, representing the Philosophical Society. The joust was lively. The speakers were good, better, best. All did well. Victory coquetted awhile with each one, but timidly placed the laurel upon the brow of Brown, of Alabama. The editor of this Advocate had the honor of presenting the medal; his remarks are not reported.

Dr. Milburn took the place of Bishop Pierce on Wednesday. The absence of the beloved and eloquent Georgian was a grief to all; but the noble discourse of Dr. Milburn filled the measure of the occasion. It had all his usual elegance, and more than his usual force and fervor. The text was Rom. i. 16: I am not ashamed of the gospel of Christ: for it is the power of God unto salvation. The contrast between the gospel of Jesus Christ on the one hand, and the philosophies of the Greeks and Judaism on the other, was drawn with a masterly hand. The closing appeal to the young men of the University was solemn and touching. This sermon will bear fruit.

The contest for the R. A. Young Medal on Wednesday evening drew another fine audience. Judge James Whitworth presided by request of Chancellor Garland. The speakers on the part of the Dialectic Society were M. M. Boddie, of Kentucky, and G. C. Stovall, of Texas; on the part of the Philosophical Society, W. H. Goodpasture, of Tennessee, and M. S. Sams, of Georgia. We have not room for our notes of these speeches. They were notable for their manly earnestness of tone. The Vanderbilt students are doing some thinking of their own—this is evident. The scales of excellence were so evenly balanced that the popular verdict was divided. The medal was awarded to the "Lone Star" State in the person of Mr. Stovall, and was presented by Dr. T. J. Dodd, in his own happy manner. The speaking was enlivened by showers of bouquets and thunders of applause.

The quarterly meeting of the New Orleans District Sunday-School Association, Tuesday night, June 10, was a very interesting occasion. Sunday-schools, in their relation to missions, was the topic for discussion. The presiding elder presented the facts and statistics in the history of missions as found in Dr. Cunnyngham's able pamphlet. Rev. John Mathews delivered a stirring address on the obligation to support missions, and the importance of training the children in missionary duty. Dr. J. B. Walker examined the representatives of the several schools as to their methods and results.

Rev. William M. Patterson, writing from the City of Mexico, May 22, says:

I appreciate very highly, indeed, the kind proposition of Bro. Daves, and your response, to purchase and send me a watch in place of the one I lost by the highway robbers. But I prefer, and propose, and insist, that this amount be used directly for the benefit of the mission. One hundred and fifty dollars will enable us to print five thousand catechisms, or help us in publishing other works which we need very much, and I cannot put it in my pocket, though given kindly and freely for that purpose.

In further relief of the case, I would say that I am Yankee enough to "guess" the time of day very well; and when I miss my dinner my wife very kindly saves it for me.

With consent of those who have contributed, we will turn over the amount on hand ($20) for the watch to be used for the purpose named by Bro. Patterson, and we should be happy to report soon the entire amount ($150) to be devoted to publications for the Mexican mission.

Bro. Patterson writes us also under same date:

I send by mail to-day a copy of our first Spanish book—a manual for Sunday-schools, including Catechism No. 1. One thousand copies cost $30. We will be very thankful to any Sunday-school that will send us $30 for this thousand, or a thousand of another number.

Monument Erected to Rev. Philip H. Moss.

MR EDITOR: Your last paper contains an account of the erection of a monument to Bishop Marvin. On last Sunday I went to the cemetery at Delhi to see a monument erected to the memory of one "whose like" will never be seen again by the people of Monroe and Delhi. I found the monument neat and elegant, with suitable inscriptions to Rev. P. H. Moss, who died of yellow fever in Delhi, September, 1878. On the base is the following: "Erected by his wife, his church, and his friends." The money was contributed by friends in Alabama, where Bro. Moss began his ministry, by Monroe and Delhi, where he closed his labors, and by his bereaved wife.

In coming years the itinerant who labors there will be at no loss to find the last resting-place of our departed brother; or should a stranger pass through that "city of the dead" he can easily see that the church honors a sainted pastor, and the world has sacredly embalmed the memory of a departed benefactor.

But Bro. Moss has a monument in the hearts of the people, more lasting than the marble; and long after that has ceased to tell the story of his death his holy influence will be a living factor in the conquest of the world for the Master.

Fraternally,

J. M. BROWN.

MONROE, LA., June 11, 1879.

Cause and Cure of Religious Spasms.

Ignorance of the nature of true experimental religion is the cause. Let this be removed by a system of preaching on the nature of religion, on justification, regeneration, adoption, sanctification, and the witness of the Spirit. A second cause is a want of a system of holy living. Let this be removed by preaching on the means of grace, prayer, reading the Bible, and constant attendance on the institutions and ordinances of the church. This done, if the spasm is not removed, it will be changed into a habit—a perpetual spasm. And there could be no objection to being full of faith and the Holy Ghost all the time. Will Bro. Carter try it?

JOHN PIPES.

MANSFIELD, La.

The commencement exercises of Centenary Female College, Summerfield, Ala., will take place June 22-25. Rev. E. L. Loveless preaches the commencement sermon, Sunday, June 22. The occasion promises to be a very entertaining one, and, of course, there will be a large gathering of the learning, piety, intelligence and beauty of central Alabama. We regret that the announcement did not reach us in time for our last week's issue. We wish our Summerfield friends a good time.

We learn that an excellent meeting is in progress in Shreveport, La. under the ministry of Rev. J. T. Daves. There are noon-day services, largely attended, besides preaching at the church. The work was increasing in interest. The special services have been kept up for nearly three weeks, we pray that there may be a large harvest of souls in Shreveport.

Mrs. Helen Foster Walles, wife of Rev. A. M. Walles, of the Louisiana Conference, died in Catahoula parish, La., June 2. Our bereaved brother will have the sympathy and prayers of his friends in his great affliction. Sister Walles was a gifted and most devoted Christian woman. Her obituary will appear soon.

The Collegiate Institute, Baton Rouge, Prof. W. H. N. Magruder, principal, gives its closing exhibition on Friday, June 20, at half-past seven P. M. The session has been a prosperous one, and the exhibition will be one of rare excellence. Prof. Magruder has the art of training boys.

Rev. R. S. Trippett, of the Louisiana Conference, with his daughter, Mrs. Fannie L. Faulk, passed through New Orleans, Tuesday last, on his way to England. He expects to return in September.

The ADVOCATE will be sent to new subscribers for the balance of the year to January 1, 1880, for one dollar.

The annual catalogue of Emory College, Oxford, Ga., session of 1878-79, has been received. There are 157 students in attendance.

Publisher's Department.

While we continue to do our best to exclude fraudulent advertisements from the ADVOCATE, parties must judge for themselves as to the real value of the goods advertised. In ordering please mention the ADVOCATE.

THE air of perfection, cleanliness and home-like comfort which is so apparent at the American House, Boston, is one of the characteristic features of that well-regulated establishment. To those disposed to economize this popular hotel offers an opportunity seldom found at so thoroughly a first-class house, having reduced its rates to $3 and $3.50 per day.

W. C. SHEPARD & CO.—Fruit jars Mason pints, $1; quarts, $1.25; two quarts, $1.50 per dozen; American China dinner sets, $15 $18. Equal in looks and usefulness as French China. 19

THE Globe Mutual Insurance Company have a notice in this issue to its policy holders, which is well worth perusing.

DRY GOODS.—E. H. Adams & Bro., 594 Magazine street, offer great inducements in everything which appears in their advertisement. This house is perfectly reliable.

G. W. DUNBAR'S SONS, whose office and store-rooms are located at No. 3 Tchoupitoulas street, New Orleans, are first-class merchants and reliable gentlemen. They supply the trade with their excellent preserves and canned goods, such as shrimps, fresh okra, artichokes, etc., as well as their standard fruit sirups. All grocers, and store-keepers generally, should keep their manufactures in store, as their patrons will be pleased with Dunbar's productions after they have a knowledge of them.

OHIO AND MISSISSIPPI RAILROAD. This leading Eastern line, between St. Louis and Cincinnati, with its branch to Louisville, is perfectly equiped with the very best of modern appliances for comfort and security of its patrons. It is invariably used by families and others going to the principal Eastern cities, and its close connection with other roads gives this line innumerable advantages over opposition routes, and makes it one of the most perfect in the country. Mr. W. W. Peabody is the general superintendent, with headquarters in Cincinnati, and a more efficient, gentlemanly officer cannot be found. The present popularity of this road is the result of his well-directed labor. Travelers should take this old reliable, going East from St. Louis, or going West from Louisville or Cincinnati.

ST. LOUIS AND CAIRO SHORT LINE.—Under the fine management of its most able superintendent, Col. Warren, the vast interest of the corporation which controls the above road have been liberally expended in accommodations and fixtures, and which are used to mitigate the annoyances and relieve the fatigue of travel. Indeed, they have reached such perfection in the appliances for the comfort of passengers that it is difficult to conceive how they can be improved upon. Those who contemplate trips to the West or North should post themselves as to the advantages of this route. Col. H. S. DeFew is the general passenger and freight agent, with headquarters at St. Louis, Mo. This gentleman is considered to be not only one of the oldest and most popular officers the corporation has got, but also one of the most affable and attentive to the wants of the traveling public.

GAS FITTING.—M. H. Applegate is the best man in the South to employ to do your work for you in all branches of his trade. His store is a large one, and well filled with an extensive assortment of chandeliers, brackets, globes, cooking ranges, bath tubs, pumps, and gas and water fixtures. Besides this large supply, which is unequaled in the South, he is a master of his peculiar trade, and puts up gas, steam or water fixtures, bath appliances, cooking ranges, and hangs chandeliers most thoroughly and artistically. Any one needing articles or work of the above description can be sure of entire satisfaction if they will patronize Mr. Applegate, and will have no cause to complain of his prices.

We had the pleasure of meeting the other day the newly-appointed river reporter of the New Orleans Picayune, J. G. Fountain, Esq. This gentleman, though not long in harness, has shown in the short space of two months to be the most able man that Journal ever had in that department. Shippers of freight, as well as captains of steamboats, have cause to be very grateful to the proprietor of the paper for their good judgment in the selection of this worthy gentleman, as his reports touching the boats and the river are of a most reliable nature.

CROCKERY AND CHINA.—Correspondents and purchasers of the above may rely upon the correctness of W. C. Shepard & Co., both in their dealings and statements. We have dealt with them for years, in purchasing for ourselves and others, and we take pleasure in saying that confidence and respect have been increased by our business intercourse. If will be a treat to see the magnificent assortment of new goods which they are opening. As far as our knowledge goes, this is the best house in the South that we can recommend our readers to go to.

GARDNER HOUSE, CHICAGO.—The ADVOCATE readers, as well as those who may see this paper casually, are specially reminded that the above house is one of the best family hotels in the country, presided over by Jewett Wilcox, a gentleman whose acquaintance with the Southern people is of a very pleasant nature, he having run for many years on the Mississippi river, commencing somewhere in 1850. The house over which he presides is centrally located on one of the broadest and most fashionable avenues directly facing the lake. One of the most important features in connection with this hotel are the charges, which are only $2 50 per day. When you arrive in Chicago go to no other house.

NEW YORK AND BOSTON.—The pleasantest way to go to Boston from New York, and to avoid the suffocating heat and dust of the road, incidental to railroad traveling, is to take the Providence Line of steamers from pier 33, North River, foot of Jay street. The boats on this favorite line are fitted up in magnificent style, regardless of expense, with the view to the comfort of the patrons of this route. The Massachusetts and Rhode Island leave alternate days at five o'clock, passing Hell Gate, once so difficult and dangerous to mariners, and to day memorable as being one of the greatest feats accomplished by modern engineering in this century. Vessels, and all kinds of crafts, sail past as easily and with as little prospect of accident as if they were in the open sea, and before the veil of darkness overspreads the land the passengers have enjoyed the lovely scenes which extend along the sound on either side after a refreshing night's repose. Providence looms up about seven o'clock in the morning, where the cars are in waiting to transport you through a picturesque country of forty-two miles, and before you get comfortably fixed in your seats the Hub is in sight.

TOURISTS, ATTENTION!—The tide of summer excursion travel that for two or three years past has set toward the resorts of the North west, with its grand scenery of mountain, lake and river, its numerous charming retreats and cozy nooks, will this season reach its flood, owing to the increased facilities extended to tourists by the wide awake and enterprising management of our popular Great Jackson Route. The time has been reduced one day, and with no change of cars to Chicago, and but one change to points beyond, a trip to the great Northwest is now made with as much ease, and in as short a time as formerly, to Bladon Springs or the lake shore villages. Already considerate fathers are securing accommodations, at desirable points of rest, for worried mammas and charming daughters worn down by their efforts in the cause of charity during the past, more than usually exciting season, and besiege the ticket office for choice sections in the sleeping cars. In another week the travel will have fairly started, and we predict for the Great Jackson Route a business it will tax its best efforts to accommodate. Sale of excursion tickets will begin on May 20. They will be good to return until November 1, thus giving ample time to enjoy the summer and fall seasons. Full information, with descriptive circulars and guide books profusely illustrated, in the highest style of the printer's art, may be had on application to A. D. Sheldon, ticket agent, 22 Camp st., corner of Common.

AN ADDRESS

TO THE PATRONS OF

The Christian Advocate.

No enlightened and thoughtful Christian can be either ignorant or indifferent to the vast power and importance of the press. The advantages for reaching entire communities and influencing them by a well-conducted religious newspaper are too obvious to require anything more than such suggestions as may aid in convincing others who do not reflect carefully on the subject.

No interest requiring a combination of influence and united action can be promoted without a thought conveying medium.

POLITICAL PARTIES,

actuated by a sagacity acquired from experience and observation, have been forced to regard the campaign organ as a means without which it would be idle to dream of success. These organs collect and array before their readers the salient points in political theories; gather and condense the most pertinent arguments; striking illustrations and forcible anecdotes, and make them the property of each reader throughout the State or nation, to be used by him with his fellow citizens in furthering the work sought to be accomplished. It is a notable fact, that upon the ability and efficiency with which such organs are conducted depends the success of the party, hence, are raised by assessing candidates and clubs, and in contributions from wealthy partizans for the purpose of sustaining them.

THOUSANDS OF DOLLARS

THE CHRISTIAN CAMPAIGN is of infinitely more importance, and our resources no less a necessity.

If we would conquer error with truth, and dispel darkness by the diffusion of light, the agency of a well-conducted and luminous printed medium is a necessary influence to the work of the pulpit; preaching, during the leisure hours of the week and on the Sabbath in the homes of our people, shedding influences upon their families as noiseless as it may be the rays of the sun, but giving shape and color to character and opinion, as does the light of that luminary to fruit and flower.

Should we be successful in the support of our mediums for conveying truth and making them light institutions than politicians are for temporal purposes. We hope not.

THE REFORMERS

of the last two centuries had the sagacity to comprehend the potency of the press, without which the labors of Luther and Wesley would have been confined to narrow limits; but seizing those winged messengers, the printed tracts, the seeds of the reformation were borne to far off lands and sown upon every shore of civilization.

He who would bless Christianity with a wide diffusion, a genuine growth and a luxurious fruitfulness, must avail himself of all of the improved methods of culture which Providence has made available. Among these, how inestimable is the value of the religious weekly, bringing to our homes the richest and rarest treasures of divine and human thought, gathered from the whole world of Christian literature; making them the property of the poorest, the humblest and the most obscure of its readers.

Tracts which have been so vastly useful in former years are now superseded almost entirely by the religious newspaper, each issue of which sends out numerous articles equally well adapted to the wants of the people, employing thousands of postmasters as its distributors and government agents as its carriers.

The press has been the favorite and most successful means of disseminating all the forms of error and corruption, which, like a deadly pestilence, have poisoned the atmosphere; fortunately, it is also an efficient means of conveying the salt of Christian purity through all the channels of tainted thought and feeling. The demand for the antidote is imperative; its weekly admonitions, cautions and counsels, exposing the flying errors, the corrupting sophistries, the disguised infidelity and licentious sentiments which destroy the moral tone and social health of communities are indispensable. The most dangerous errors are the most plausible, and are usually presented in a garb of fascinating phraseology, captivating the reader, bewildering his reason, corrupting his imagination, perverting his judgment, and leaving their miserable votary the prey of passions, which, like greedy vultures, tear out the vitals of the soul. We must preoccupy the mind of youth everywhere with truths antagonistic to prevalent errors, and make them familiar with the mask of their disguise.

VALUE IN THE FAMILY.

Aside from Christianity, a Christian paper pays. Who can estimate how much it pays the head of a family to introduce into his household an instructive newspaper; one that fosters a taste for investigation; promotes thought and encourages discussion and interchange of ideas among its different members? Without it at what a disadvantage does the son or daughter appear when coming into social contact with others who have had access to a means of knowledge by which they are informed on all the improvements, discoveries and great events of the age, and enabled to keep pace with the advance in the manufactures and inventions in the march of science and the progress of the arts.

AS AN EDUCATOR,

the able and well-conducted newspaper, with the thirty or forty thousand people composing the families in which it is read, is a far greater power than the college or university, with its one or two hundred pupils; for, the paper is not only enlightening young and old on every branch of useful knowledge, but is inspiring a thirst for knowledge, without which the pupil would not come to the fountains of collegiate learning.

THE ADVOCATE SHOULD be in every household. It is not enough that every family in the church is supplied with a religious paper; there are many families not in the church who, with proper effort, would take the ADVOCATE, and it would be of everlasting advantage to their children, if not to themselves.

LET EACH ONE TRY to send us one subscriber. Certainly every reader by proper effort could send us at least

ONE SUBSCRIBER,

if no more. If you are able to spare two dollars, why not present one a year's subscription to some

RELATIVE OR FRIEND?

How could two or more dollars be better invested? Will not such a gift be at once useful and suggestive; help in social intercourse, be a means of diversion and instructive recreation, and bring to light a thousand things not only available for breaking the monotony of a life otherwise dull, and brightening the wits of the children in the household, but be directly useful in widening the range of knowledge, and giving enlightened views of men and nature? The pleasure of a present of such a gift does not expire at once, but abides through the year, bringing at least fifty-two reminders of the givers' thoughtfulness and kindly consideration. To many a poor neighbor or youth, or child who could say "I get no paper," it would open an inviting door into the living world of human thought and action; enliven his interest in what is useful and instructive, and tend to create in him a becoming respect for the dignity and honor of his calling, whatever it might be, if innocent and useful, making him more fertile in resources, less likely to waste time in idleness or unprofitable and corrupting associations. The sincere reap the benefit in the increased intelligence and morality that blesses the community. The greatest wealth of a community or country is its moral, intelligent men and cultivated women; these you cannot have without a free use of the press.

ONE DOLLAR PROPOSITION.

If you cannot afford to subscribe for a year, send one dollar and we will send the paper to January next, as ordered.

C. T. LATIMER, Publisher.
112 Camp street.

BUSINESS NOTICES.

POZZONI'S MEDICATED COMPLEXION POWDER is acknowledged by thousands of ladies, who use it daily, to be the only preparation that does not roughen the skin, chap, blister, or leave black spots in the pores. Mothers can apply it to infants who become chafed with a surety of immediate relief. Removes all eruptions. Price, 50 cents and $1 per box. Sold by druggists, and at depot, 607 North Sixth street, St. Louis (Lindell Hotel.)

A WISE DEACON.

Deacon Wilder, I want you to tell me how you kept yourself and family so well the past season, when all the rest of us have been sick so much, and have had three doctors running to us so long."

Bro. Taylor, the answer is very easy. I used Hop Bitters in time and kept my family well and saved large doctor bills. Three dollars' worth of it kept us all well and able to work all the time, and I will warrant it has cost you and most of the neighbors one or two hundred dollars a piece to keep sick the same time. I guess you'll take my medicine hereafter." See other column.

Wilbor's Cod-Liver Oil and Lime. Persons who have been taking Cod-Liver Oil will be pleased to learn that Dr. Wilbor has succeeded, from directions of several professional gentlemen, in combining the pure Oil and Lime in such a manner that it is pleasant to the taste, and its effects in fitting complaints are truly wonderful. Very many persons whose cases were pronounced hopeless, and who had taken the Oil for a long time without marked effect, have been speedily cured by using this preparation. Be sure and get the genuine. Manufactured only by A. B. Wilbor, Chemist, Boston. Sold by all druggists.

TO ALL persons residing in paludal districts, Dr. F. Wilbor's Anti-Periodic or Fever and Ague Tonic, cannot be too highly recommended. It has been for years a specific in malarial diseases, but now that the proprietors, Messrs. Wheelock, Finley & Co., of New Orleans, give its composition to the public, it should be preferred to any other proprietary medicine. All druggists keep it for sale.

Bronchitis, Throat Diseases often commence with a Cold, Cough, or unusual exertion of the voice. These insidious symptoms are allayed by the use of "Brown's Bronchial Troches" which if neglected often result in a chronic trouble of the throat. Twenty-five cents a box.

Bureau of Topographical Engineers,
Washington, D. C., Aug. 4 1862.

Having made frequent use of Maguire's Hedine Plant I consider it an almost infallible specific for Cholera, Diarrhœa, Dysentery, Flux, etc., and can recommend it as such. S. H. LONG,
Col U. S. A. Chief Top Engs.

MISCELLANEOUS.

DO YOU WANT A FIRST-CLASS

PIANO OR ORGAN?

No doubt you need one, and you will consult your interests by calling at

LOUIS GRUNEWALD'S

14 to 22 Baronne Street, Grunewald Hall,

and see at what low figures and accommodating terms you can buy. The celebrated STEINWAY, KNABE, PLEYEL, FISCHER, PIANOS are the most renowned in the world, and you should buy no other.

THE BEST IS ALWAYS THE CHEAPEST.

SHEET MUSIC at half price.

Everything in the music line to suit everybody.

ADDRESS,

LOUIS GRUNEWALD,
Grunewald Hall, New Orleans.

SAVE FROM $2.00 TO $10.00
BY BUYING YOUR
RAILROAD TICKETS
AT GUEDRY'S
TICKET OFFICE,
31 ST. CHARLES STREET, under St. Charles Hotel, N.
F. E. GUEDRY, Agent.

C. W. DUNBAR'S SONS,
3 Tchoupitoulas St., New Orleans,
PRESERVERS AND PACKERS OF
SHRIMP, FRESH OKRA, ARTICHOKES,
IN TINS.
MANUFACTURERS OF
STANDARD FRUIT SIRUPS.
FOR SALE BY WHOLESALE AND RETAIL GROCERS.

WHEELER & PIERSON,
(Successors to Darcy & Wheeler and Pierson & Hewes)
CLOTHING AND FURNISHING GOODS,
Nos. 13 and 15 CAMP STREET, New Orleans.
Black Cloth Suits, $20 to $40 | Business Suits, $12 to $25
6 Shirts for $9 | Collars $1.50 per Doz.
Liberal reduction to Clergymen.
Rules for self-measurement sent on application, and orders carefully filled. Plantation clothing for country stores at very low prices in our
WHOLESALE DEPARTMENT.

POPULAR PRICED PARASOLS
—AND—
SUN AND RAIN UMBRELLAS.
Lace and fringe trimmed PARASOLS, in black and colors.
Carriage PARASOLS, lined in different colors.
Misses' PARASOLS, plain and fancy.
Ladies' sun and rain SILK UMBRELLAS.
Gents' sun and Rain SILK UMBRELLAS.
Ladies' and Gents' real Scotch GINGHAM UMBRELLAS.
JUST OPENED,
Black and White Breton Laces, Antique Embroidery, stylish Hosiery, beautiful Buttons, desirable Dress Goods, Waille Goods, Black Goods, Lace Top Gloves and Mitts, Corsets, Ruchings, Veilings, Housekeepings, etc.
Best stock of FANS in the city. Five PALM-LEAF FANS for Five Cents.
E. H. ADAMS & BROTHER,
594 Magazine Street, Fourth Store above St. Andrew.

BRACKETS. GLOBES.
M. H. APPLEGATE.
PLUMBER
Gas and Steam Fitter
GAS FIXTURES.
St. George and Defiance Ranges,
Plumbers' Material,
No. 116 POYDRAS STREET,
NEW ORLEANS.

THE POLICY HOLDERS OF THE GLOBE MUTUAL LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY OF NEW YORK, are cautioned against placing their policies in the hands of any one not connected with this Company. No one has been authorized to take charge of their claims. Everything is being done to protect their interests, and they will be advised promptly by the General Agent of any action affecting them.
C. S. LINDSAY,
New York, June 6, 1879. Secretary.

Y-A-L-E L-E-C-T-U-R-E-S
ON PREACHING.
BY BISHOP SIMPSON.
Price $1.50.
Mailed post-paid on receipt of price. Address
LAFIRDE & WILKINS,
112 Camp st., New Orleans.

TRUNKS,
TRUNKS,
HAVING lately overstocked myself with this article from the best manufactories of Cincinnati and Chicago, from the largest Ladies' TRUNK, Centre side Leather, Zinc, and to-day every kind made; also, Patent Tray (this is now used and take the tray out to get at the bottom of the trunk); also, a fine lot of SATCHELS and VALISES; also, a fine assortment of Ladies', Children's and Misses' SHOES, of the best Philadelphia makers. Call and see for yourself at
S. HACMS, 951 Magazine St.,
Corner St. Mary, New Orleans.

REMOVAL.—THE LOUISIANA EQUITABLE Life Insurance Company has removed to No. 30 Carondelet street. Former office, corner Carondelet and Gravier streets, for rent.
ANDE PATTON, Secretary.

H. DEVERGES & CO.,
HARDWARE,
17 and 19 Decatur Street,
Opposite Postoffice, New Orleans.
IMPORTERS AND DEALERS IN
IRON, NAILS, CUTLERY, GUNS, AGRICULTURAL IMPLEMENTS, PLOWS, OILS, PAINTS, CORDAGES, ETC. ETC.

Washington Avenue Drug Store,
Cor. Magazine & Washington Sts,
NEW ORLEANS.
Constantly receiving fresh supplies of pure Drugs, Medicines, Chemicals, Patent Medicines, Combs of all kinds, Brushes, Soaps, Perfumery, Toilet and Fancy Articles, etc., sold at small margin. Coral Tooth Paste, recommended by all who use it as a very superior dentrifice. It beautifies the teeth to a fine pearl-like ornament and ravishing beauty. Alkaline Bouquet Powder, for beautifying, softening and preserving the skin, the best thing for prickly heat and all summer eruptions. Customers, city and country, will find our stock complete, comprising many articles impossible to enumerate here, and sold at moderate prices. Prescriptions put up day and night. R. J. MASNEGRA, M. D., Druggist-Pharmaceutist and Practical Chemist.

WANTED—EVERYBODY TO know that LAPLACE'S INDIAN TURNIP PECTORAL BALM is not a secret preparation, its efficacy being due to the Indian Turnip, arisæma triphyllum. It is highly efficacious for catarrh, colds, asthma, and all diseases of the throat and lungs, and the relief of consumptive patients. Prepared and for sale by R. LAPEACE, Pharmacist, 24 and 26 Elysian Fields street. For sale also at the principal wholesale and retail druggists.
Depot in Mobile at J. C. Dumas & Co. Depot in St. Louis at Richardson & Co. 6p

T. A. BECK,
COOPERAGE.
OFFICE AND SALES ROOM:
27 North Peters Street,
Manufactory, Perdido st. Walk, between Roman and Prieur Streets,
NEW ORLEANS, LA.
Has constantly on hand Sugar Hogsheads, Molasses Barrels, Half Barrels, Kegs, Cane Sugar, and Rice Barrels. Order for Heavy Price filled at the lowest market rates. Particular attention paid to Trimming.

J. S. RIVERS.
STATIONER,
Steam Power Printer,
BLANK BOOK MANUFACTURER,
LITHOGRAPHER AND ENGRAVER,
74 CAMP STREET,
6p NEW ORLEANS.

The New Louisiana Remedy.
Greatest Cough Sirup of the age, or of any age. Product of our swamps. Splendid for children. No poison. Thirteen pages of names of home references and increasing! Sold by druggists. Depot 106 Camp street, New Orleans.

Farm, Garden and Household.

BEES MANAGING.—In the Spring it often happens that bees left on their Summer stands are largely reduced in numbers, so that they cannot cover nearly all their combs. Such should be aided by crowding up the division board, and securing frames until increasing numbers demands ex tension. In having small swarms, it is also a great advantage to these to restrict the space, unless the weather be quite warm.

In no case should surplus boxes be put on to the hives, until the real honey season has come and that is not the time that fruit trees bloom.

Fruit trees afford some honey, but the amount is scanty and there is nothing there until the Linden, Poplar, Locust or Honey or White clover bloom appears. Then put on such a rack as has been described, filled with sections all having starters of natural comb, or artificial comb foundation, and one of two of these, it would be well to have filled, or at least drawn out on both sides with empty or filled combs, to induce the bees to at once go up and work. We who are managing in this manner, always have a sufficiency of incomplete combs left over, which are carefully preserved. Big pieces of white clean comb can be cut out of the frames if needed for this purpose. All bits of clean nice comb should always be saved for starters.

After the bees have commenced work in the rack, if the season is favorable it will be necessary to very soon lift the rack and insert another directly under it, which is the process called tiering up. The time to do this, is when they are working in every part of the first rack, and have sealed over a part say, one-half of the combs in sight under the quilt.

In dull seasons when honey comes in slowly, it will do to take out single sections as completed, and replace with new ones, which starters as before. While it is borne in mind, that we have recorded instances where single colonies have brought in seventeen pounds in one day, it will be realized the necessity of providing room at the right time.—Maryland Farmer.

THE FARMER'S GARDEN.—The garden is not a luxury only, but a necessity to the farmer who wishes to have an attractive and healthful bill of fare; and it seems very strange, indeed, why it is so badly neglected by many farmers. One reason, however, I think is, that it is usually in some corner near the house, and is small, and planted in such a manner, that all the labor of weeding and hoeing has to be done by the hand. Now, I believe in a large garden and in planting the rows the whole length, leaving space enough between the rows to work a cultivator. By this means most of the work can be done by the horse, and in such a garden it is a pleasure to work, while in the old-fashioned one of one or two rods square, it is a backaching disagreeable job, and no wonder it is left to grow up to weeds.

The location of the garden is of great importance. I prefer a gentle slope to the east or south, so that the young plants may receive the sun early in the morning. It should not be very steep, for in rains, much damage will be done by the lands of soil; and it should also be protected from the north and west winds, by a high fence, or evergreens set along the border.

Many people never know the luxury of a good vegetable garden. They live from year to year, drudging without knowing how to manage ones. They never raise the best products except at the tables of others. People are too apt to forget to plant a succession of vegetables. The soil must be rich, the land well cultivated every week or oftener. We need not here repeat the special directions for the time of sowing and the treatment of each vegetable. Every seed catalogue gives these directions; and a catalogue can be had for a postal card. Plants which thrive only in warm weather must not be put out too early. Wait till the sun comes out hot. Tomatoes, squashes, sweet potatoes, sweet corn, egg plants, will grow then as if by magic.—Rural New Yorker.

Look to your whitewash. Good whitewash well applied to fences, rough siding, and the walls and ceilings of buildings, has a highly sanitary influence, as well as being in the highest degree preservative in its effects. To be durable, whitewash should be prepared in the following manner: Take the very best stone lime, and slack it in a close tub, covered with a cloth to preserve the steam. Sad as much as can be dissolved in the water used for slacking and reserve the lime should be applied, and the whole mass carefully strained and thickened with a small quantity of sand, the finer sand the better. A few pounds of wheat flour mixed as paste may be added, and will give greater durability to the mass, especially when applied to the exterior surface of buildings. With pure lime, properly slaked and mixed with twice its weight of the sand and sifted wood-ashes, in equal proportions, a most nice color may be made by the addition of pigments. Granite, freestone and other shades may be imitated, and will add much to the ornamentality of the work. This covering is very often applied and with good effect, to inner partitions, stone fences, roots and the walls of barns and other outbuildings. Probably the pure whitewash is more healthy than the colored, as the alkaline properties are supposed, and when used in cellars, kitchens and other decaying apartments, produces salutary results.

No person who regards the health of his family should neglect to apply a coat of it every Spring. Country places, especially farm-houses, where sewers are rarely improved in appearance by an annual coat of good whitewash, and will add to their permanency much more than many would imagine. It is cheap and easily applied, so that no other excuse need be offered against its general use.—Prairie Farmer.

TRAINING DAIRY COWS.—In a business like dairying, where so much depends upon the quality and quantity of the milk the owner who feeds and manages cows carefully to such ends, unless special caution is exercised in the selection of the cows. Whatever the breeding, the individual cows, and not the ordinary cows should be constantly weeded out from year to year. It makes no difference what the breed may be, the scrub always be found. Not that there is no gradation in breeds as to the way they must be selected with a view to what is wanted, whether dairy or cheese. Whatever the breed, none but the best members should be reserved to perpetuate the race, and as just as developed the best should be retained. The same also may be said in this question of development. All animals that will not good care and a fitting will not do a superior milker. Whether extensive treatment proves worthless. When the best cow is properly handled, she should be milked clean, and every minute used by good feeding and warm stabling, to produce as much and large a flow of milk as possible. The cow should be trained to give her milk freely. Good care and treating will bring her milk flow freely if she have it in her. If not, unsatisfactory.

The extraction of a heifer to give her milk freely consists solely in gentle handling and in milking so that the cow may feel secure in the operation. Holding back the milk, and kicking and running about are always the result of ill-proper and brutal handling.—Prairie Farmer.

RAISING TOMATOES.—Tomatoes are much more abundant and of better flavor when staked than when suffered to ramble over the ground. For garden culture there is no doubt about it being the most profitable plan, and it becomes a question as to what is the best way of doing the staking. In our own case we use slight branches that have numerous snags on, and which help to support the luxuriant weight of fruit which our plants always bear. Others use a long trellis, sloping and meeting at the top of a section (A.) but the corners are so much shaded soil induces is not favorable to the best results in tomato growing, as the tomatoes ripen unevenly and poorly. Some make jams to make neat upright trellises and train and prune the plants, making a pretty garden picture as well as producing capital results for the kitchen.—Gardener's Monthly.

A CURE FOR WARTS.—I had a mare some years ago that had a large wart on her side where the harness rubbed and kept it sore. In summer the flies made it worse. To prevent this, I put on a good dash of tar, and in a few weeks the wart was killed and disappeared. I have frequently tried it since on cattle and horses, and seldom had occasion to use a second application. The remedy is simple and effectual.—Prairie Farmer.

TO DRESS OR COLD FOWL.—Take the remains of a cold fowl, chopped fine; cover the bottom of a pudding-dish with fine bread-crumbs; put in the chicken, seasoned with pepper and salt, pour over a little cupful of gravy, cover quite thickly with bread-crumbs, and then strew over the bits of butter; cover and place in the oven for half an hour a few minutes; take off the lid and break in enough eggs to cover the top; sprinkle pepper and salt over and bake until the eggs are well cooked.

-BOOKS-
—FOR THE—
Farm and Garden
AGRICULTURAL.

Reserve this List, it will be followed each week by others, on different subjects, of practical benefit to the Farmer, Planter and progressive Agriculturist.

Allen's New American Farm Book	$2 50
Allen's (R. L.) American Farm Book	1 50
Ballou's Training and Rural Life	1 75
Barnard's Fattening by Parties	50
Barnard's Farming by Proxy	1 50
Barnard's Making Money	50
Barnard's My Ten Rod Farm	50
Barnard's Strawberry Garden	50
Barry's Fruit Garden	2 50
Brack-ett's Farm Talk—paper 50cts., cloth	75
Brill's Farm Gardening and Seed Growing	1 00
Bruce Corn and Broom Paper 25cts., cloth	75
Buist's Family Kitchen Garden	1 00
Colman's American Gardening	75
Emerson's Farmers & Planters Encyclopedia	6 00
Field Book for Draining	1 00
Farmers and Mechanics Manual	3 50
Farmer for Boys	1 50
Farm Culture (seven Prize Essays by practical growers)	30
Flint (Charles L.) on Grasses	2 50
French's Farm Drainage	1 50
Gregory on Cabbages	30
Gregory on Carrots Mangold Wurtzels etc	30
Gregory on Onion Raising	30
Gregory on Squashes	30
Hand-book of the Grasses of Great Britain and America	1 50
Horticulturist	1 50
Hyatt's Farming with Green Manure	50
Hudson's Gardening for Pleasure	1 50
Hudson's Gardening for Profit	1 50
How to Use Fertilizers	50
Howard's Grasses and Forage Plants of the South	30
How to Get a Farm and Where to Find One	1 00
Johnson's How to Grow	2 00
Johnson's How to Feed	2 00
Kilpatrick's Wheat Plant	1 75
Lodge, Lazy Yarb'ugh of Indiana	1 50
Lyman's Country Life and Farmer's Son	1 50
Quinn's—How to Raise them Profitably	50
Our Farm of Four Acres—paper, 30cts., cloth	60
Prize Orchard (Prize Essay)	25
Quinn's Money in the Garden	1 50
Register of Rural Affairs (1879)	50
Riley's Potato Pests—paper 50cts., cloth	75
Root's Manual on the Culture of Small Fruits	50
Root's Pay and Profit in my Garden	1 00
Schenck's Gardener's Text Book	75
Stewart's Irrigation for the Farm, Garden and Orchard	1 50
Ten Acres Enough	1 00
Thomas's Farm Implements and Machinery	1 50
Elihu Burker Papers, or Yankee Examples	1 50
Tobacco Culture. By fourteen experienced cultivators	25
Todd's Young Farmers' Manual 3 vols	4 50
Voll's Hand Farming without Manures	25
Warling's Farmers' Vacation	3 00
Warling's Handy Book of Husbandry, Mixed	2 50
White's Gardening at the South	1 00

Send post paid on receipt of price. Address,
LAUFROY & WILKINS,
112 Camp st., New Orleans.

THE GENUINE
DR. C. McLANE'S
Celebrated American
WORM SPECIFIC
OR VERMIFUGE.

SYMPTOMS OF WORMS.

THE countenance is pale and leaden-colored, with occasional flushes, or a circumscribed spot on one or both cheeks; the eyes become dull, the pupils dilate; an azure semicircle runs along the lower eyelid; the nose is irritated, swells, and sometimes bleeds; a swelling of the upper lip; occasional headache, with humming or throbbing of the ears; an unusual secretion of saliva; slimy or furred tongue; breath very foul, particularly in the morning; appetite variable, sometimes voracious, with a gnawing sensation of the stomach, at others, entirely gone; fleeting pains in the stomach, occasional nausea and vomiting; violent pains throughout the abdomen, bowels irregular, at times costive, stools slimy, not infrequently tinged with blood; belly swollen and hard; mine unfrequently respiration occasionally difficult, and accompanied by hurrough, cough sometimes dry and convulsive; uneasy and disturbed sleep, with grinding of the teeth; temper variable, but generally irritable, &c.

Whenever the above symptoms are found to exist,
DR. C. McLANE'S VERMIFUGE
will certainly effect a cure.

IT DOES NOT CONTAIN MERCURY, in any form; it is an innocent preparation, not capable of doing the slightest injury to the most tender infant.

The genuine DR. McLANE'S VERMIFUGE bears the signatures of C. McLANE and FLEMING BROS. on the wrapper.

DR. C. McLANE'S
LIVER PILLS

are not recommended as a remedy "for all the ills that flesh is heir to," but for affections of the liver, and in all Bilious Complaints, Dyspepsia and Sick Headache, or disease of that character, they stand without a rival.

AGUE AND FEVER.

No better cathartic can be used preparatory to, or after taking Quinine.

As a simple purgative they are unequaled.

BEWARE OF IMITATIONS.

The genuine are never sugar coated. Each box has a red wax seal on the lid, with the impression DR. McLANE'S LIVER PILLS.

Each wrapper bears the signatures of C. McLANE and FLEMING BROS.

Insist upon having the genuine DR. C. McLANE'S LIVER PILLS, prepared by Fleming Bros., of Pittsburgh, Pa., the market being full of imitations of the name McLane, spelled differently but same pronunciation.

Merchants' Mutual Insurance Co.

OF NEW ORLEANS.
No. 104 Canal Street.

TWENTY-FIFTH ANNUAL STATEMENT.

In conformity with the requirements of their charter the company publish the following statement:

Premiums received during the year ending May 31, 1879, including unearned premiums of the previous year—

On fire risks	$315,371 30
On marine risks	18,955 42
On river risks	1,701 75
Total premiums	$351,031 47
Less unearned premiums	111,253 00
Net earned premiums May 31, 1879	$213,178 37

LOSSES PAID:

On fire risks	$91,066 03
On marine risks	9,361 89
On river risks	5,3 2 20
Taxes and expenses, less interest	11,625 11
Reinsurance and return premiums	17,820 01	106,208 89
		$ 36,969 48
Reserved for unpaid losses		22,500 00
Profit		$14,469 48

The Company have the following assets, estimated at market value:

Real estate	$ 96,176 85
City bonds and mortgage bonds	15,000 00
Bank, Water Works and other stocks	133,580 68
Notes secured by mortgage or pledge	19,462 33
Bills receivable	6,5 3 44
Premiums in course of collection	35,630 81
City scrip	2,0 0 00
Judgment on mortgage notes	3,00 0 00
Cash on hand	61,392 41
	$712,227 51

The above statement is a just, true and correct transcript from the books of the Company.

P. FOURCHY, President.
G. W. NOTT, Secretary.

STATE OF LOUISIANA,
Parish of Orleans, City of New Orleans.

Sworn to and subscribed before me, the ninth day of June, 1879.

JAMES BABEY, Notary Public.

At a meeting of the Board of Directors, held on the ninth day of June, 1879, it was resolved to declare a cash dividend of twenty per cent on the net earned participating premiums for the year ending May 31, 1879, payable on the third Monday of July next.

Also to pay to the Stockholders, on deposited interest at the rate of ten per cent. per annum on their stock.

DIRECTORS:

P. Maspero,	D. Fajlo,
J. J. Fernandez,	Edward Toby
Paul Fourchy,	Dyer Chaffraix,
John Geddes,	M. W. Smith,
John B. Lallande,	Chas. Labitte,
	B. W. Taylor.

OFFICE OF THE
Crescent Mutual Insurance Co.
New Orleans, May 17, 1879.

THIRTIETH ANNUAL STATEMENT.

The trustees, in conformity to the amended charter, submit the following statement of the affairs of the company on the thirtieth of April, 1879:

Fire Premiums	$105,168 05
Marine Premiums	24,951 23
River Premiums	69,521 25
		$255,543 52
Net earned premiums	$224,443 52
Less reinsurance	13,716 40
Less return premiums	5,626 57
	19,342 97
		204,800 55

LOSSES,

Fire losses	$36,038 94
Marine losses	19,437 36
River losses	28,576 05
	$73,952 35
Taxes, expenses, discount, profit and loss, less interest, rents, salvage, savings, &c.	36,442 66
		110,395 01
Net profits		$94,405 54

The company have the following assets:

Bills receivable	$1,436 83
Loans on bond and mortgage	3,177 00
		$ 4,613 83
Loans on call	$ 2,552 61
Cash on hand	48 21 62
		1,073 66
Real estate	$56 68 08
City bonds, bank and other stock	94,632 58
Premiums in course of collection	25,697 82
Suspense account and stock fractions	14 158 82
	$ 66,307 59

The foregoing statement is a true and correct transcript from the books of the Company.

THOS. A. ADAMS, President.
HENRY V. OGDEN, Secretary.

Sworn to and subscribed before me, this seventeenth day of May, A. D. 1879.

ALFRED INGHAM,
Notary Public.

The Board of Trustees this day resolved after paying ten per cent. in cash to the stockholders, and carrying to profit and loss $15,740, on account of the Mechanics and Traders' Bank stock held by this Company, and also a further sum for shrinkage in values, to declare a dividend of twenty per cent. in cash on the net participating premiums, payable on Monday, the sixteenth of June next.

TRUSTEES.

Thos. A. Adams,	Sam'l R. Newman,
Samuel H. Kennedy,	James Tobin,
Adam Thomson,	Henry Chubbuck,
Victor Meyer,	Joseph Hawthorne,
Rowland Gee,	Siegfried Bernheim,
Simon Fochemer,	Joseph B. Wolfe,
R. B. Post,	Edward Pusbury,
John E. King,	Fred'k Camerden,
Joseph W. Stone,	George Smith,
Alfred Moulton,	D. C. Corey,
Edward Sarus,	George W. Scotell,
Lamb & Mortimer,	John V. Moore,
W. H. Conger,	Henry M. Preston,
Reuben G. Bush,	John M. Perker.

Mechanics' and Traders' Ins. Co

NEW ORLEANS, LA.
No. 14 CARONDELET STREET,
Solicits Fire, River & Marine Risks

GEO. H. FROST, Act'g Secretary; LLOYD R. COLEMAN, President.
F. C. GREGORY, Assistant & Fire Clerk.
JNO. C. WOOD, Marine and River Clerk.
E. AUZOIT, Inspector, etc.
J. Y. B. HASKELL, Adjuster.
Capt. J. B. FROST, Marine Inspector.

TRUSTEES.

Hugh Allison,	Robert L. Moore,
J. H. Allen,	H. J. Mullan,
J. A. Brandman,	Ed. Nalle,
Jno. D. Britton,	F. J. Odendahl,
Sam. Boyd,	Emile J. Olivier,
Isaac Bloom,	Wm. A. Pelle,
T. J. Carver,	J. M. Putnam,
Gen. W. Cary,	D. L. Rashell,
Jno. Dymond,	C. W. Seniell,
W. Dudley Coleman,	W. D. Tompkins,
Wm. L. Cushing,	W. P. Vinet,
J. M. Fraser Pulham,	J. M. Walsh,
Ben. Hernsheim,	Meyer Weil,
P. B. Gilbert,	T. S. Waterman,
J. Davidson Hill,	Fred'k Wing,
M. Johnson,	C. W. Wood,
	Lloyd R. Coleman.

SOUTHERN CHURCH ORGAN MANUFACTORY,

No. 103 Baronne Street,
Under the National Theater,
NEW ORLEANS, LA.
PETER VEITER, Proprietor.

Church Organs tuned and repaired all over the South.

WINTELER & RICKS,
DEALERS IN
Leather and Shoe FINDINGS,
TOOLS, OILS, ETC.,
MANUFACTURERS OF
Boot, Gaiter and Shoe Uppers.
163 POYDRAS STREET,
NEW ORLEANS

MISCELLANEOUS.

5 NEW 5 BOOKS 5

For Temperance Gatherings.
Hull's Temperance Glee Book!
Received with the greatest favor. Great variety of Songs, Temperance and Social.

For Gospel Meetings & Sunday-Schools.
THE GOSPEL OF JOY!
By Rev. S. ADAMS and S. H. SPECK. Nothing fresher, newer, brighter or better of the kind has ever appeared. (35 cts.)

For Everybody.
PINAFORE! PINAFORE!
Almost everybody has it. "All the Words, With and Music, with Libretto complete for $1. Send also for the SORCERER. Same authors, and quite as good music.
(In press.—FATINITZA, the new Opera.)

For Musical Students.
Johnson's New Method of Harmony!
Emphatically a good, easy, interesting, thorough method. ($1.)

For Young Singers.
CINDERELLA! CIDERELLA!
New Cantata, by FRANZ ABT. For Female voices. Fine Music. (50 Cents.)

Send $2.00 for the Musical Record one year.

OLIVER DITSON & CO., Boston.
C. H. DITSON & CO.,
843 BROADWAY, N. Y.

ZELL'S CONDENSED CYCLOPEDIA.

Rare opportunity for making money is now offered general agents and canvassers in the South on this exceedingly useful, and low-priced book. 1000 pp., double column. 700 engravings. 70,000 dictionary words and maps. Only $3 a copy. For terms and territory, address T. WOOD ZELL, DAVIS & CO., Philadelphia.

JOS. B. WOLFE & CO.,
Cotton Factors,
59 Carondelet St., New Orleans.
And General Agents for
DANIEL PRATT'S IMPROVED
"Revolving Head" Cotton Gin,
PATENTED JULY 15, 1873.
Price Reduced to $4 per Saw.

THIS GIN has been in use for the past six seasons, and several recent improvements have been added. It obviates all friction at the end of the cotton box, prevents the roll from breaking and gives a larger yield of lint from the same weight of seed than any other Gin. The Revolving Head throws the lint and cleans the Gin 10 to 20 times per minute, thus doing a great deal more work with the same power, than any other Gin. The seed being cleaned very close, the length of the staple is increased, producing on this account a greater market value. This improved value given by length of staple with extra production of lint, and no injury to the seed, makes a saving of more than covers the cost of the Gin in every 10 bales ginned. Testimonials sent by mail on application.

FEEDERS and CONDENSERS with latest improvements also made by the Daniel Pratt Gin Co. to work with these Gins. Send for descriptive circulars.

JOS. B. WOLFE & CO.,
New Orleans, La.

For Portland Cement, German Flags, or SHILLINGER PAT. NET PAVEMENT.
ADDRESS,
FRITZ JAENICKE,
Box 111 Mechanics' Exchange, 218 Bolord st., between Barrett and Carondelet.

COOPERAGE.—PHILLIPS BROS. & Cooperage Co., 160 N. Peters street, New Orleans, manufacture and keep constantly on hand Klared and selected Cypress of new, clarified and open Pickle Sugar Hogshead and Barrel Staves and Heads, Shingles and Cypress Lumber. A Supply of Barrels, Hogsheads and Kegs, always on hand. Orders promptly filled. Shipping facilities unsurpassed. Contracts for future delivery solicited. Prices moderate. Satisfaction guaranteed.

$25.00 to $35.00

STEWART'S NEW IMPROVED
SINGER Sewing Machine

Great Reduction in Prices!
Down with Monopolies!
Hard Times demand Low Prices.

We warrant all our machines to be New Latest Improved and Perfect for
FIVE YEARS.

Our New MACHINE is supplied with a Loose BALANCE WHEEL, which is a great improvement over the old SINGER, as it enables the operator to wind the bobbin without running the machine, or removing the work from the needle. This is the most important improvement ever put on this Sewing Machine.

Also dealer in all first class machines, such as the
WHEELER & WILSON,
GROVER & BAKER,
DOMESTIC,
WILSON,
WHEED, &c.

Cotton, Silk, Flax, Oil and Needles for all kinds of Machines. Address

M. A. PECK,
General Sewing Machine Agent.
133 CANAL STREET,
Next to Holmes' Dry Goods Store.
New Orleans.

FANCY GOODS! FANCY GOODS!
SCHILLING'S
Millinery Emporium, Hair Work AND
FANCY GOODS BAZAR,
150 ..... CANAL STREET 150

The assortment comprises the very latest styles in
Millinery Materials, Hats and Bonnets,
HAIR GOODS of every description, and the most recherche selections in Jewelry, Fans, Combs, Brushes, Dressing Cases, Specie Purses, Card Cases, Vienna Gilt Ornaments, Perfumes, Manuales and Perfumery.

Your attention is particularly directed to my SPECIALTIES in Blue Shell, Ivory and Pearl JET GOODS, MILLINERY ARTICLES AND HAIR WORK.

C. T. SCHILLING,
150 CANAL STREET.

J. D. CRAMONS.
BOOT AND SHOE STORE,
NO. 96 FRENCHMEN ST., between Victory and Moreau, Third District, New Orleans.

A large assortment of Boots and Shoes always on hand, and made to order. Ladies', Children's, and Gentlemen's Shoes manufactured to order.

MISCELLANEOUS.

U. S. FOUR PER CENT. BONDS.

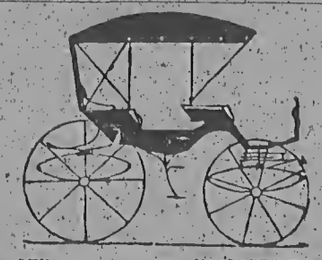
WE continue to sell these bonds, coupon and registered, at par and accrued interest. All deliveries made here, free of expense to purchasers.

NEW ORLEANS NATIONAL BANK,
A. BALDWIN, President.

ICE! ICE! ICE!

WHOLESALE AND RETAIL.

FAMILIES SUPPLIED AT LIBERAL RATES.



ORDERS PROMPTLY ATTENDED TO.

WILLIAM MYERS,
NINTH STREET, between Magazine and Constance Sts., opposite the Market.

ATTENTION! ATTENTION!
M. ANDRIEU,
159 - POYDRAS STREET - 159

Home-Made Shoes, hand-sewed, $4 00
Home-Made Shoes, Sewed, $2 50-3 50

City-made Boots and Shoes of all kinds and styles, made of the very best material and workmanship, and at less prices than any other store in this city. Keeps all kinds for Gent's, Boys', Ladies' and Children's wear. Employs from 75 to 100 workmen constantly.

J. A. LUM. N. ALBERT HOOKER.
J. A. LUM & CO.,
MANUFACTURERS AND DEALERS IN
CARRIAGES, HARNESS, ETC.,
No. 85 Carondelet Street.
A Specialty made of Children's Carriages.

SAVE YOUR CARPETS
By having them cleaned by the
BOSTON PATENT STEAM
Carpet Beating and Renovating Co.
Office, 170 Camp Street,
Branch Office, 51 Royal Street,
Steam Carpet Beating and Renovating Works
10, 12, 14 and 16 Polydras St.,
Corner of Annunciation.

The undersigned is the sole proprietor of the Holmes Patent Reflexible Whip Carpet-Beating Machine for cleaning Carpets and Matting for Dwellings, Churches, Public Buildings, Hotels, Steamboats, etc.

Thus, the Boston Patent Beating has been in successful operation for the past fifteen years in all the principal cities in the United States and has a world-renowned reputation as a carpet-beating machine.

This machine consists of a bed of endless straps, over which the carpets pass, and are beaten by a number of endless reflexible whips, restoring the color and removing all dust, dirt, vermin and moths, without the slightest injury to the finest fabric.

RENOVATING.

By the renovating process all Grease, Ink, Coal Smoke Soot, and stains of every description are extracted from the carpets, restoring their original brightness of color. The quality of the renovative is not to prejudice to the most delicate tint or fabric, and is an actual preventive against moths. Send a dressed or velvet rug, which will be cleaned gratis as a sample.

Piano and Moquet Furniture, Rugs and Damask Lambrequins We clean Sheeting Damask Curtains, Blankets, Druggets, Piano and Parlor Covers, renovated to look like new.

Carpets taken up and relaid by first class workmen. No charge for taking up, shaking or relaying of Carpets.

Our rooms being easy of access all, and especially ladies are respectfully invited to call and see the machinery in operation, and be convinced that this is the only way to have your Carpets thoroughly purified from the dust, vermin and moths, for it cannot be done by hand cleaning. Every Carpet is cleaned under the personal supervision of the proprietors, and satisfaction in every respect guaranteed.

On receipt of cards we will send one of our covered wagons for and return your Carpets, free of charge to any part of the city. All orders by mail or left at the office or works will be promptly attended to.

Beating Carpets, 5 cents per yard
Renovating Carpets, 8 cents per yard
O. D. JONES, Jr., Proprietor.
ALBERT PATT, Agent.
Office, 70 CAMP STREET.

Carpets and Mattings.
ELKIN & CO.

100 ..... CANAL STREET 100

NEW PATTERNS
CANTON MATTINGS, Best Quality.
WHITE AND CHECK
CANTON MATTING, in all Grades.
OIL Cloths, Linoleums and Linoleum Floor Cloths, Nottingham Lace Curtains, new designs, Window Shades and Cornices.
CARPETS OF ALL KINDS.
At Reduced Prices.

F. FISCHER & SON,
PROPRIETORS
PICAYUNE SAW-MILL,
FOOT OF CARROLLTON AVENUE,
Seventh District, New Orleans.
CYPRESS PINE AND SHINGLES.
P. O. Box 47, Carrollton.
All Bills and Orders will receive prompt attention.

GOODWYN'S EUREKA YEAST POWDER, a production of this city, is built popular with the Trade and the delight of all experienced housekeepers, and no wonder, for it is an article of the very highest order of merit. Send for circular and prices.
J. M. GOODWYN, Manufacturer,
No. 29 Constantine Street, New Orleans, La.

RAOUL'S NOVELTY WOOD YARD,
Franklin St., cor. Erato.
Will for a short time offer Oak and Ash wood green and seasoned, kept on hand, sawed and split ready for stove use, or will be cut and split to suit any size stove at short notice and delivered in purchaser's wood house, for $4 50 per half cord Ash or Oak; $5 25 (guaranteed no loss or waste in this wood.
Yard, 871 Franklin Street.

WIRE RAILING AND Ornamental Wire Works.
DUFUR & CO., No. 36 N. Howard St., Baltimore, manufacture WIRE RAILING for Cemeteries, Balconies, etc., Sieves, Fenders, Cages, Sand and Coal Screens, Wayon Wire, etc. Also Iron Bedsteads, Chairs, etc.

AGENTS WANTED.
AGENTS WANTED FOR THE PICTORIAL
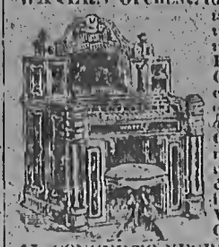
History of the World.

It contains 672 fine historical engravings and 1200 large double column pages, and it is the most complete History of the world ever published. It sells at sight. Send for specimen pages and extra terms to Agents, and see why it sells faster than any other book. Address
NATIONAL PUBLISHING CO., St. Louis, Mo.



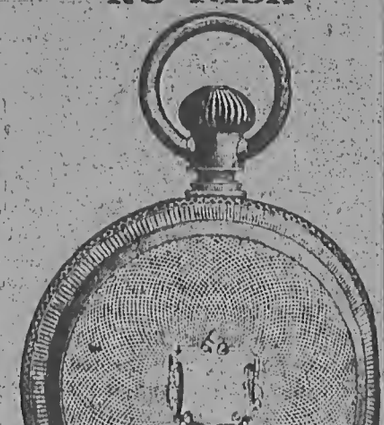
$10 to $25 A DAY SURE MADE by Agents selling our Chromos, Crayons, Picture and Chromo Cards. 125 samples, worth $5, sent postpaid for 85 cents. Illustrated Catalogue free. J. H. BUFFORD'S SONS, Boston. Estab'd 1830.

MISCELLANEOUS.

MASON & HAMLIN CABINET ORGANS
Demonstrated best by HIGHEST HONORS AT ALL WORLD'S EXPOSITIONS FOR TWELVE YEARS; viz: at PARIS, 1867; VIENNA, 1873; PHILADELPHIA, 1876; TWO HIGHEST MEDALS at PARIS, 1878; and GRAND SWEDISH GOLD MEDAL, 1878. Only American Organs ever awarded highest honors at any. Sold for cash or installments. ILLUSTRATED CATALOGUES, with new styles and prices, free. MASON & HAMLIN ORGAN CO., BOSTON, NEW YORK, or CHICAGO.

WATERS' Orchestrion Chimes ORGANS

The most beautiful, stable and perfect reed instrument ever made. It has the celebrated Concerto stop, which is the imitation of the Human Voice, and two and a half Octaves of bells tuned to perfect harmony with the reeds, & their effect magical & electrifying. WATERS' PIANOS are also CONCERTO-VESPER, CENTENNIAL CHIMES, CHAPEL, and COTTAGE ORGANS, in Unique French Cases are in every respect FIRST CLASS.



WATERS' PIANOS, Square, Cottage, and Upright, ARE THE BEST MADE. Have Tone, Touch, Workmanship, & Durability Unsurpassed. Warranted for SIX YEARS. PRICES EXTREMELY LOW for cash. Monthly Installments received. A Liberal Discount to Teachers, Ministers, Churches, etc. AGENTS WANTED. Specialties to the trade. Illustrated Catalogues Mailed. Second-hand Instruments at Great Bargains. HORACE WATERS & SONS, Manufacturers and Dealers,
40 EAST 14th STREET, UNION SQUARE, NEW YORK, Box 3567.

THE DIEBOLD SAFES.

A large and complete assortment of these Celebrated SAFES on hand and for sale at prices to suit the times. Parties desiring anything in our line are respectfully solicited to address the undersigned for estimates, etc., as he feels confident of being able to give them satisfaction, both as regards price and quality of work.

A. ROY, Agent.
DIEBOLD SAFE & LOCK CO.,
27 Canal St., New Orleans, La.

NO RISK

To buy our special, Ten Dollar Watch, now guaranteed to be Solid Coin Silver, as well as over one thousand similar, which we offer. The best Watch ever offered. Time and Quality. That has ever been offered for the price. Our reputation and our name whether We send one of the above to any address C. O. D. for examination on receipt of money and 25 cents extra for registration and mailing. Until warranted. W. H. KENDRICK & SON,
110 Fourth Avenue, Louisville, Ky.
Send Catalogue free on application. (Mention this paper.)

TRUTH IS,
HOP BITTERS
(A Medicine, not a Drink,)
MADE OF
HOPS, BUCHU, MANDRAKE, DANDELION,
And the Purest and Best Medical Qualities of all our Medicines.
THEY CURE
All Diseases of the Stomach, Bowels, Blood, Liver, Kidneys and Urinary Organs, Nervousness, Sleeplessness, Female Complaints and Drunkenness.
$1000 IN GOLD
Will be paid for a case they will not cure or help, or for anything impure or injurious found in them.
Ask your druggist for Hop Bitters a free book, and try the Bitters before you sleep. Take no other.
The Hop Cough Cure and Pain Relieve the Cheapest, Surest and Best.
FOR SALE BY ALL DRUGGISTS.

PLASTIC JOINT
IRON ROOFING.
FIRE, WATER AND WIND PROOF.
Durable, Cheap, easily applied by any one. Painting unnecessary. Is practical as slate or tin. Used for shipment in any part of the world. Address for Circular, CALDWELL & CO., Cincinnati, O.

Incomparably the Best and Cheapest Windmill. Protected by two patents. Twenty-Eight First Premiums. Light, yet strong and durable. Has more wind surface, runs in lighter winds, is more automatic, and pumps more water than any other windmill ever before made. Requires no attention, no complicated or running expenses. It has successfully withstood the tornadoes of the West, while other mills that stood near them have been destroyed. It is rapidly superseding others there. See certificates and testimonials in our illustrated Catalogue.
Kewanee Manuf'g Co. Patentees.
Office 35 Broadway, New York.
N. B.—Responsible State and County Agents wanted in all parts of the World.

$500. MADE IN 87 DAYS. CATALOGUE FREE. Buckeye Novelty Co., Cincinnati, O.

Scientific.

THE ELECTROMOTOGRAPH.—This invention of Mr. Edison has attracted much attention in England. The curious and important discovery was made by him a few years ago that messages could be received by the well known Morse recorder without the use of any magnet. This, says Prof. Barrett, in his Science Lectures for the People, to a telegraphist, would be like attempting to perform the play of Hamlet, while omitting the part of Hamlet himself. In fact, all that is necessary in this simple telegraphic instrument is a band of moistened paper drawn beneath a metal style. The accident of holding his finger against the style of a Morse's instrument led Mr Edison to notice that when an electric current passed from the paper to the point resting upon it, the friction of the moving paper was lessened. Hence, if the paper were drawn with a uniform force, it would slip more easily beneath the point the moment the current passed. The slipping of the paper is converted into a to and fro motion of a lever to which the point is attached, and which is made to actuate a bell or "sounder," and give rise to audible signals in the usual way. It is necessary to moisten the paper with a solution of certain chemicals. Potash was at first used, but a solution of sulphate of soda, or of common salt and pyrogallic acid, is found to be best. Mr. Edison has made use of this principle in his new telephonic receiver. The instrument has the appearance of a small box attached to the wall, and from which there projects a single funnel. Sounds of singing, speaking, whistling, etc., sent from the other end, are heard in every part of a moderately-sized room.

DEPHOSPHORIZED IRON.—One of the chief obstacles to the economical manufacture of steel has been the presence of small quantities of phosphorus in the various iron ores. The phosphorus makes the steel brittle and difficult to weld and for a long time metallurgists have been seeking for some method of easily and cheaply removing it while the metal was in the Bessemer converter, or on the hearth of the furnace. As long as this could not be accomplished, the manufacture of the Bessemer and open-hearth steels required the use of such ores as were free from phosphorus; and as ores of this kind are rather rare, it becomes a difficult and expensive matter to obtain them in sufficient quantity to meet the demands of the new branches of steel manufacture. There comes now the news, from several of the largest iron works abroad, and from one or two in America, of the almost simultaneous invention of several different processes for dephosphorizing the pig iron used for making steel. Should any of these methods prove successful, and doubtless many of them will be, more or less, it will be one of the greatest advances in modern metallurgy. It will immediately cheapen steel, and bring it into sharp competition with iron. On account of its superior strength, steel is far better than iron for most structural purposes, and in view of our enormous consumption in bridges, railways and the like, any step toward greater strength, and consequently greater safety, is indeed a blessing to the country.

—Five members of the French Scientific Expedition in Nevada visited Col. Fair at his Comstock mine the other day. More even than that silver wonder did they admire Col. Fair's little daughter, not yet four years old, who talked with them freely both in French and German.

—A Belgian physician asserts that colour blindness is attributable to the excessive and general use of tobacco.

—A man in Illinois has found a way to make good lumber out of cornstalks and straw.

Ague Cure

Is a purely vegetable bitter and powerful tonic, and is warranted a speedy and certain cure for Fever and Ague, Chills and Fever, Intermittent or Chill Fever, Remittent Fever, Dumb Ague, Periodical or Bilious Fever, and all malarial disorders. In miasmatic districts, the rapid pulse, coated tongue, thirst, lassitude, loss of appetite, pain in the back and loins, and coldness of the spine and extremities, are only premonitions of severer symptoms which terminate in the ague paroxysm, succeeded by high fever and profuse perspiration.

It is a startling fact, that quinine, arsenic and other poisonous minerals form the basis of most of the "Fever and Ague Preparations," "Specifics," "Syrups," and "Tonics," in the market. The preparations made from these mineral poisons, although they are palatable, and may break the chill, do not cure, but leave the malarial and their own drug poison in the system, producing tinnitus, dizziness, ringing in the ears, headache, vertigo, and other disorders more formidable than the disease they were intended to cure. AYER'S AGUE CURE thoroughly eradicates these noxious poisons from the system, and always cures the severest cases. It contains no quinine, mineral, or any thing that could injure the most delicate patient, and its crowning excellence, above its certainty to cure, is that it leaves the system as free from disease as before the attack.

For Liver Complaints, AYER'S AGUE CURE, by direct action on the liver and biliary apparatus, drives out the poisons which produce these complaints, and stimulates the system to a vigorous, healthy condition.

We warrant it when taken according to directions.

Prepared by Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Practical and Analytical Chemists, Lowell, Mass.

SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS EVERYWHERE.

EDUCATIONAL.

Woodville Female Seminary.

A NON-SECTARIAN ACADEMY, UNDER the supervision of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, Mississippi Conference; Hon. E. McGehee, President of Board of Trustees. For Thoroughness of Instruction, healthfulness, cheapness, and many other advantages, is not surpassed. We invite those interested to examine our credentials, and to obtain circulars, by calling upon Mr. Phillip Werlein, New Orleans, La., or address the Principal, A. J. WRIGHT, Woodville, Miss.

The Loquet-LeRoy Institute

AND KINDERGARDEN DAY AND BOARDING SCHOOL FOR YOUNG LADIES, 280 Camp Street.—This Institution has now reopened under the auspices of the Misses MOISE, Cecelia W., Sallie L., and Corinne, the latter relicte of the late R. G. Rionl, daughters of Judge E. Warren Moise, deceased, successors of Mme Loquet LeRoy, whose good will and right to conduct the School under the old name they have purchased. Except in so far as the proprietors may enter into active service, there will be no change of teachers. No change whatever in the conduct and management of the School. They respectfully solicit a continuance of the patronage heretofore so liberally extended to the institution, and that of their friends, and the public generally, promising strict devotion to every interest of the pupils committed to their charge. C. W. MOISE, Principal.

REFERRING TO THE ABOVE MADAME LOQUET-LEROY announces to her friends and former patrons the entire confidence she has in her successors being in every way suited to the high trust they have assumed. She bespeaks for them a continuance of the patronage so liberally accorded her, and that she will still be actively connected with the institution. For terms and particulars apply to the principal.

HIWASSEE COLLEGE,

(Postoffice the same)

MONROE COUNTY, EAST TENNESSEE.

PARENTS desiring to find a safe and healthy location for their sons during the summer season would do well to patronize the above named institution under the patronage of the Holston Annual Conference, Methodist Episcopal Church, South. The spring term closes May 22, and Fall session begins

FIRST MONDAY IN AUGUST, 1879.

Students arriving before the latter date will be beyond the reach of epidemics, and will thus secure some months of profitable study before Colleges usually open—the less favored localities.

Excellent board in College Boarding House, by D. A. McKenzie, the well known farmer-steward, at ten dollars per month, washing in-cluded. Same in good private families at nine dollars. Tuition, College Course, twenty dollars; English Course, fifteen dollars.

J. H. BRUNNER, D. D., President.
F. M. GRACE, A. M., Secretary.

WOOD! WOOD! WOOD!

Those who are desirous of securing CHEAP WOOD AND COAL, will find it to their interest to send their orders to the

JACKSON WOOD YARD,
116 JACKSON STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

GRAUGNARD & SCHNEIDER,
DEALERS IN
Fine Cut Chewing, Snuff and Smoking
TOBACCO,
HAVANA AND DOMESTIC CIGARS,
16 Magazine Street, New Orleans, La.
Brier Root and all other varieties of Pipes constantly on hand.

NOW OPEN.
Schroeder's Family Garden,
Corner Short and Levee Sts.,
CARROLLTON.

Where all the delicacies of the season can be had at the most moderate rates. Comfortable and delightfully cool Dining Rooms. PURE CREAM, SPRING CHICKENS, etc., a Specialty.

MRS. F. SCHROEDER,
Proprietress.

Blount Springs, Alabama.

THE most accessible mountain Summer resort in the South. Only eighteen hours ride from New Orleans. Pure, bracing air. The best mineral water on the Continent. All chronic diseases successfully treated; dyspepsia a specialty. Send to the Proprietor for circulars, etc., or call on T. E. Cranmer, corner Camp and Common streets, for information.

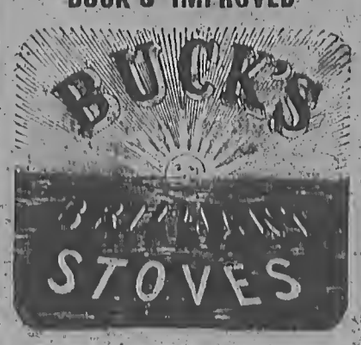
S. D. HOLT, Proprietor,
Blount Springs, Ala.

Broadway Foundry Co.

JOHN J. HOLLIDAY,
SUPERINTENDENT,
313 Carr Street, ST. LOUIS, MO.
Manufacturers of Stationary and Portable
Steam Engines and Boilers
MULAY AND CIRCULAR SAW MILLS,

Saw and Grist Mill Machinery, Rolling Mill and Blast Furnace Castings, Wrought Shafting and House Work, PARKERS & JOHNSON'S WATER WHEELS, Tobacco and Lard Press Screws, Compound Tobacco Presses, Lard Kettles, Iron and Brass CASTINGS of every description; also Quartz Mills and Smelting Furnaces of most improved descriptions.

HAVE PURCHASED ALL THE WILKEL & BULLEY PATTERNS OF DAVY, MUNSON & CO.
J. B. DAVIES, late of Louisville, Mechanical Manr



FOUNDED JULY 1, 1808.

OLDEST SHOT TOWER IN AMERICA

THOS. W. SPARKS,
Patent American
Chilled Shot,
Standard Drop and Buck Shot
AND BAR LEAD MANUFACTURER,
121 WALNUT STREET,
PHILADELPHIA.

NORTON & MANNING, Agents,
NEW ORLEANS.
G. B. MILLER & CO., Agents,
GALVESTON.

BUCK'S IMPROVED

BRILLIANT STOVE,
Is acknowledged to be the
BEST COOK-STOVE MADE.
SOLD BY
H. HALLER,
NEW ORLEANS.
DEALER IN ALL KINDS OF

Cooking and Heating Stoves of the most improved makes, Stamped, Plain and Japanned Tinwares, Tinned and Enameled Hollow-ware Iron and Clay Furnaces, Tinner's Stock, Granite iron-ware, Lamp burner and Wick to suit, Tinned iron spoons and Forks, Coffee Mills of all kinds, Plantation ware, Sad Irons, Fire Grates, Fluting machines, etc. H. HALLER,
No. 55 Camp St., New Orleans.
Price-lists mailed on application.

PROFESSIONAL CARDS.

WM. L. THOMPSON,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
Office, Garza Building, corner Houston and Soledad Sts.
SAN ANTONIO, TEXAS.

DR. E. P. DOREMUS,
DENTIST,
SUCCESSOR TO DR. DI KEY,
110 Canal street, over H. T. Walshe's,
NEW ORLEANS.
Special attention given to the preservation of the natural teeth.

DR. C. J. BICKHAM,
RESIDENCE AND OFFICE,
230 Jackson St., Bet. Chestnut and Coliseum.
NEW ORLEANS.
Office Hours—Eight A. M. and three to five P. M.

DR. J. J. LYONS,
NO. 219 CARONDELET STREET
Between Julia and St. Joseph,
New Orleans, La.

CARRIAGES, WAGONS, ETC.

FIRST PREMIUM AT ST. LOUIS FOR 1878.
JOHN KIMPEL,
Manufacturer of
CARRIAGES AND BUGGIES,
PLATFORM WAGONS, TRUCKS,
LIGHT AND HEAVY SPRING WAGONS.
208, 210, 212 & 214 Spruce St. ST. LOUIS, MO.
Barouches, Buggies and all kinds of Spring Wagons.

BUSINESS CARDS.

WATCHES.

LADY'S GOLD WATCHES, $30 and upward.
GENT'S GOLD WATCHES, $45 and upward.
GENT'S SILVER WATCHES, $12 and upward.
BOYS SILVER WATCHES, $12 and upward.
All guaranteed.
A. B. GRISWOLD & CO.,
Cor. Canal and Royal Sts.

RICE, BORN & CO.,
89.....CAMP STREET.....91
WAREHOUSE 143, 145 & 147 MAGAZINE ST.,
NEW ORLEANS,
IMPORTERS AND DEALERS IN FOREIGN AND DOMESTIC
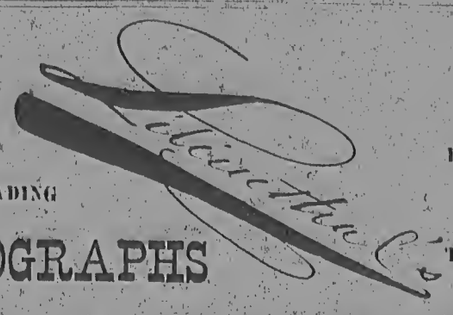
HARDWARE!
BUILDERS' HARDWARE,
GRATES, CUTLERY, STOVES,
HOUSE-FURNISHING GOODS, ETC.
SOLE AGENTS FOR THE
CHARTER OAK STOVE
HOWE SCALE and
BARBED FENCE WIRE.

The Stewart Stove
WITH LATEST IMPROVEMENT,
Is now the
LEADING STOVE OF THE AGE
There can be no failure in its perfect operation. Will outlast and consume less fuel than any other Stove made.
Can be had for coke, coal or wood.
Hot water cattle fixings for heating, etc., can be attached with but little extra cost.
Pieces to repair all Stewart Stoves constantly on hand.
J. B. CAMPMAN,
183 Poydras Street.

MENEELYS' BELLS,
For Churches, etc. Known to the public since 1826, are made only at "THE MENEELY BELL FOUNDERY," West Troy, N. Y. Catalogues free.

HEATH, PIPPEY & LARA,
IMPORTERS AND DEALERS IN
CARPETS, FLOOR OIL CLOTHS,
UPHOLSTERY GOODS, Wall Paper, Window Shades, Cornices, Lace and Nottingham Curtains, Mirrors, Moldings, Chromos, Engravings, etc.
Frames made to order—a specialty.
No. 99 Camp Street, New Orleans.

WATCHES AND JEWELRY,
17 BARONNE STREET,
Bet. Common and Canal, NEW ORLEANS.
ALSO
LOAN OFFICE,
Private entrance to right of show window.
Unredeemed pledges of every description sold at very low prices and with full guarantee.
OTTO SCHWANER.
Watches and Jewelry carefully repaired. Jewelry at low cash prices.



NO MORE
RHEUMATISM
OR GOUT
ACUTE OR CHRONIC
SALICYLICA
SURE CURE.
Manufactured only under the above trade mark by the European Salicylic Medicine Co.
OF PARIS AND LEIPZIG.

IMMEDIATE RELIEF WARRANTED. PERMANENT CURE GUARANTEED. Now exclusively used by all celebrated Physicians of Europe and America, becoming a Staple, Harmless, and Reliable Remedy on both Continents. The Highest Medical Academy of Paris report 95 cures out of 100 cases within three days. 86 per cent. The only dissolver of the poisonous Uric Acid which exists in the Blood of Rheumatic and Gouty Patients. $1.00 a Box; 6 Boxes for $5.00. Sent to any address on receipt of price. Endorsed by Physicians. SOLD BY ALL Druggists. Address
WASHBURNE & CO.
Only Importers' Depot, 93 Cliff st., N. Y. cow

MARBLE
—AND—
GRANITE
TOMBS, MONUMENTS AND GRAVE STONES,
Mantels, Grates, Hearths, Tiling, Flagging, etc.
GEO. STROUD.
164 St. Charles street, New Orleans, La.

MISCELLANEOUS.

FOR THE VERY BEST AND NEVER FADING

GO TO 121 CANAL ST.

PHOTOGRAPHS Tauro Building.

D. H. HOLMES,
155 Canal Street, - - - 15 Bourbon Street.

Our Stock of Spring Goods is now complete, consisting of the latest novelties in
SILKS, LACES, DRESS GOODS IN WORSTED FABRICS
BLACK GRENADINES IN SILK AND WOOL,
LINEN LAWNS, ORGANDIES, AND PERCALES,
HOSIERY in all Styles and Colors,
A Complete Assortment of MATTINGS
SAMPLES sent free of charge.
D. H. HOLMES
155 CANAL STREET.

COTTON PRESSES
REYNOLD'S IRON WORKS,
W. HOTCHKISS, Superintendent.
Corner South Market and Fulton Streets, New Orleans, La.,
MANUFACTURER OF
Reynold's Revolving Wrought Iron Screw Plantation Cotton Press,
And Reynold's Reversing Gear Power Press.
Over One thousand of these Presses are now in use, and are acknowledged to be the most perfect Plantation Presses in ever, particular at present known.

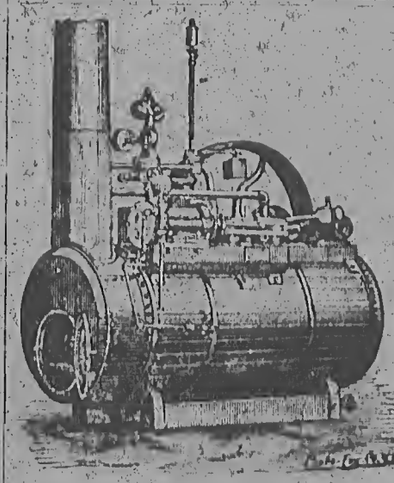
Timpson's Patent Hand and Power Elevators,
For use in Stores, Warehouses, Factories, Hotels and Private Dwellings. These Elevators are now in use on the plantations of John S. Wallis, J. W. Godberry, Esq., Mrs. R. S. Welborn, and many other parties, we have in numerous stores in New Orleans, and have proved themselves extremely valuable in saving time and labor.

Capt. Jos. Menge's New Improved Dredge-Boat
Which is now in successful operation on the Magnolia Plantation, near opposite, in St. Mary Parish by the Louisiana Land Reclamation Company, of which Columbus H. Allen is President. Parties desiring information regarding the merits, etc., of this superior dredge can obtain same by addressing as above, or Capt. Jos. Menge, Pointe-a-la-hache Plaquemines parish, La.

Cemetery Tombs Iron Fronts for Buildings, Chimney Railings, Castings of all kinds, and Iron Work in General.

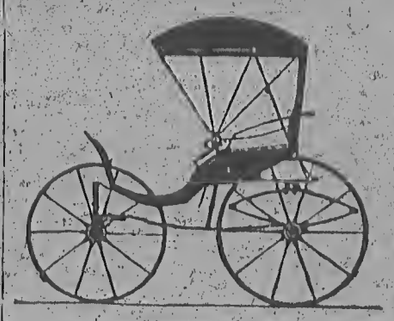
R. M. & B. J. MONTGOMERY,
FURNITURE EMPORIUM,
MORESQUE BUILDING,
Corner Camp and Poydras Streets,

Owing to the lateness of the season and not wishing to carry them over, the summer months we have made great reductions in the prices of all our line



BEDROOM AND PARLOR SUITS,
FRENCH PLATE MIRRORS,
FANCY AND ORNAMENTAL FURNITURE.

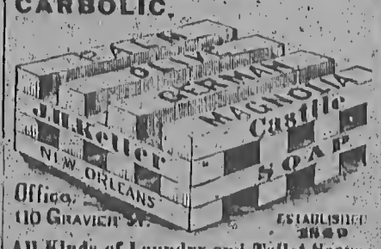
We also have a complete stock of Medium and Common Furniture, Office, Hall and Library Furniture, Bent Wood, Cane, Rockers and Benches, Lawn Benches, with Cushion Attachment, Invalid Rocking and Wheel Chairs, Spring Beds, Spiral, Wire, Wire Spring, Hair, and Moss Mattresses, Feather Pillows and Bolsters, the Patent Elastic Spiral Pillow the best ever invented for a warm climate; Rattan and Perforated Seat Chairs, Rockers and Settees, the Victor Folding and Lock Desk, the best school desk extant.



Our stock of FURNITURE and MIRRORS is one of the largest in the country, and we can successfully compete with any house North or South. Commission merchants and country orders solicited. All goods delivered free of charge. Give us a trial before purchasing.

N. B. We are prepared to reupholster Parlor Suits and Chairs in any goods, prices moderate.

THE GOLD MEDAL
PARIS EXPOSITION 1878
WAS AWARDED TO
JOSEPH GILLOTT & SONS
FOR EXCELLENCE IN
STEEL PENS
THE FAVORITE NUMBERS 303, 332 404, 170 & 351.
AND HIS OTHER STYLES SOLD BY ALL DEALERS
THROUGHOUT THE WORLD



PAYNE'S
PORTABLE
STEAM ENGINES,
5 TO 15 HORSE POWER,
Strong, Simple and Durable,
BEST PLANTATION ENGINE MADE.
Send for Special Price List of this and other styles Engines, Boilers, etc.
B. J. WEST,
SOLE AGENT,
115 and 117 Magazine Street,
NEW ORLEANS.
Plantation Hardware, Agricultural Implements, Saw Mills, Gins, etc.

ANDERSON, HARRIS & CO.,
Wholesale Manufacturers of
Buggies, Phætons,
CARRIAGES AND VEHICLES
OF EVERY DESCRIPTION,
OFFICE AND FACTORY:
N. E. Cor. Baymiller and Liberty Sts.,
CINCINNATI.
Sixth Street (Green) Cars pass the door.

ESTABLISHED IN 1859.
LEEDS' FOUNDRY,
Cor. Delord and Poucher Sts.
Established in St. Louis in 1859.
R. L. ROSEBROUGH SONS,
Marble Works,
No. 1491 BROADWAY,
Between O'Fallon and Cass Avenues,
ST. LOUIS, MO.

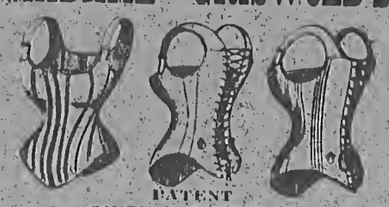
J. H. KELLER,
MANUFACTURER OF
CARBOLIC,

Office: 110 Gravier St. ESTABLISHED 1869
All Kinds of Laundry and Toilet Soaps.

MISCELLANEOUS.

PERFORATED
VENEER SEATS AND CHAIRS

For use in Churches, Halls and Lodges, are coming into general use on account of their Comfort, Durability, Cleanliness, and Ornament.



No. 115.

Churches intending to buy Chairs or Settees will do well to correspond with
CARDNER & CO.,
Patentees and Manufacturers,
183 CANAL ST., NEW YORK.

COAL.....COAL.....COAL
B. D. WOOD & BROS.,
Corner Camp and Common Streets,
Opposite the City Hotel.
Wholesale and Retail dealers in all kinds of COAL. Pittsburg Coal delivered by boat-load or less on the cosse, and shipped in sacks or in bulk, at lowest market rates. City trade supplied.

Pontchartrain Cheap Store.
J. A. LACROIX,
CORNER FRENCHMEN AND VICTORY STS.
LADIES', GENT'S, MISSES' AND CHILDREN'S
BOOTS AND SHOES
OF ALL DESCRIPTIONS.
Always on hand a full assortment of first-class goods, at prices which defy competition. Call and examine my stock before purchasing elsewhere.
MY MOTTO—"Quick Sales and Small Profits."
Jackson railroad cars pass in front of the store.

LADY AGENTS WANTED FOR MADAME GRISWOLD'S

PATENT
SKIRT-SUPPORTING CORSETS,

121 E. 18th St.
New York.
BRANCH OFFICE:
No. 14 WINTER ST., BOSTON, MASS.

Any of the above goods sent by mail, postage prepaid, on receipt of the list price. Send for descriptive circular.

CAUTION:
Before purchasing, look for Stamp and Trade-Mark.

DR. N. C. KRAM,
MANUFACTURER OF THE
SURE CURE TRUSS,
N. W. cor. Third & Elm sts., Cincinnati, O.
THE BEST TRUSS IN THE WORLD!
Those who have suffered painful agony for years, by wearing the Metallic Spring Trusses will find in the SURE CURE TRUSS all that the name implies—a sure cure for all the distressing ruptures. It is a BELT TRUSS, no springs, strong elastic in back, vulcanite rubber pads that never blister, never slip. Can be worn at night.
Testimonials of cures can be seen at the office.
No. 1 Elastic Trusses, the best manufactured; warranted, at $5 for single, $6 for double. Examination free.
Trusses sent free by mail on receipt of order and money. Send stamp for circular.

MARSDEN'S
PECTORAL BALM,
THE GREAT REMEDY FOR COUGHS, COLDS,
AND
CONSUMPTION.
G. R. FINLAY & CO.,
New Orleans, La., Sole Agts.
FOR SALE BY ALL DRUGGISTS.

DR. S. H. P. LEE'S
LITHONTRIPTIC

CURES STONE AND GRAVEL, GALL STONES, DIABETES, GOUT, ENLARGEMENT OF THE PROSTATE GLAND, and in its incipient stages, BRIGHT'S DISEASE.
TRADE MARK DISSOLVES
STONE AND GRAVEL
In the Kidneys, Liver and Bladder. It is now for the first time given to the public as a cure for the most distressing kidney affections. Send for pamphlet to depot of the S. H. P. LEE COMPANY, No. 40 Clinton Place, New York city. Sold by druggists.

POOLE & HUNT, BALTIMORE
MANUFACTURERS OF
THE POOLE & HUNT LEFFEL TURBINE
WATER WHEELS,
MACHINE MOULDED
MILL GEARING,
SHAFTING, PULLEYS AND HANGERS,
STEAM ENGINES AND BOILERS,
MIXERS FOR FERTILIZERS AND CHEMICALS

PRICES CURRENT
IN
THE NEW ORLEANS MARKETS.

REVISED AND CORRECTED WEEKLY.

☞ Correspondents should bear in mind that our quotations represent prices for round lots, and in filling small orders higher rates must be paid.

GROCERIES.

Butter, ₱ lb.
Western creamery, fancy	22	23
New York creamery, fancy	21	22
Coffee, ₱ lb.
Rio, fair	13½	13¾
Rio, good	14¼	14½
Rio, prime	14¾	15
Candles, ₱ lb.
Star, best brands	11	11½
Corn Meal, ₱ bbl.
Best, K. D.	3 00	— —
Cheese, ₱ lb.
Factory		6
N. Y. cream and English dairy	10	11
Fish:
Mackerel, extra No. 1, in bbls	— —	18 00
Mackerel, extra No. 1, in kits	— —	2 00
Sardines, quarter boxes	— —	— —
Flour, ₱ bbl.:
Superfine	4 00	— —
XX	4 90	5 00
XXX	5 25	5 50
Choice XXX	5 75	— —
Choice family	5 85	— —
Fruits:
Dried apples, ₱ lb	3	3½
Dried peaches, ₱ lb	2½	— —
Raisins, ₱ quarter box	50	55
Raisins, ₱ half box	— —	1 00
Raisins, ₱ whole box	1 87	— —
Bananas, ₱ bunch	1 00	2 00
Crackers, ₱ lb.:
Soda	5	6
Butter	6	7
Sugar	8	9
Gingernuts	9	12½
Oil:
Coal, in cases, best	20	23
Coal, in barrels, best	16	16
Insurance, in cases	— —	40
Insurance, in barrels	— —	35
Lard, in barrels, best	58	60
Molasses, in barrels.
Common	25	— —
Fair	28	— —
Prime to choice	32	35
Golden and Roquel, strupe	— —	— —
Half bbls, 5c. and kegs 10c. more.
Rice, Louisiana, ₱ lb.:
No. 2	4¼	4½
Ordinary	6¾	6¾
Fair	7	— —
Prime to choice	7¾	8
Soap, in boxes, ₱ lb.:
XXX Palm	8	— —
Keller's magnolia	8½	— —
Keller's olive	6½	— —
Starch, ₱ lb.	2½	— —
Salt, in sacks:
Fine	1 40	1 45
Coarse	90	95
Sugar.
Good fair	6	— —
Prime	6¼	— —
Choice	6¾	— —
Yellow clarified	7	— —
White clarified	— —	— —
Crushed	8½	— —
Powdered	9	— —
Spices, ₱ lb.:
Allspice	15½	— —
Pepper	13½	14
Cloves	45	— —
Cinnamon	— —	— —
Tea, ₱ lb.:
Black Oolong	27½	1 10
Green Imperial	80	90
Tobacco:
Low lugs	2¼@3
Medium	3¼@3½
Good to fine	3¾@4¼
Low leaf	4½@5
Medium	5¼@6
Good	7 @8
Fine	7 @8
Selections	9 @10

GRAIN AND FEED.

Corn, ₱ bushel:
Yellow	52	— —
White	56	— —
Mixed	50	— —
Oats, ₱ bushel:
St. Louis	40	41
Texas	— —	— —
Galena	— —	— —
Bran, choice, ₱ 100 lbs	— —	80
Hay, ₱ ton:
Prime	— —	17 50
Ordinary	15 00	— —
Cow Peas:
Whippoorwill	1 00	— —
Mixed	1 05	1 10
Clay	1 15	1 25

PROVISIONS.

Bacon, ₱ lb.:
Breakfast	7	— —
Shoulders	6	— —
Sides, clear rib	6	— —
Sides, clear	6	6
Hams, sugar-cured	10	13
Mess Pork, ₱ bbl	10 87½	11 00
Dry Salted Meats:
Shoulders	4½	— —
Lard, ₱ lb.:
Choice, in kegs and pails	6	6¼
Choice, in tierces and barrels	6¾	6¾

ESCULENTS.

Potatoes, ₱ bbl	3 00	3 75
Onions, ₱ bbl	2 50	3 00
Apples, ₱ bbl	— —	— —
Cabbages, ₱ 100	6 00	10 00

WOOL.

Burry	12	17
Louisiana, clear	28	9
Lake, clear	25	30

BALING STUFFS.

Bagging:
India
Jute	10¾	11
Ties, Arrow best, per bundle, 30 ties and buckles		2 50
Twine, hemp	13½	14

POULTRY AND EGGS.

Poultry, ₱ dozen:
Old chickens	3 75	— —
Young	3 00	3 50
Ducks	3 50	4 00
Geese	5 00	6 00
Turkeys	10 00	12 00
Eggs, ₱ dozen:
Western	12½	13
Louisiana	14	15

FACTORY FACTS.

Close confinement, careful attention to all factory work, gives the operatives pallid faces, poor appetite, languid, miserable feelings, poor blood, inactive liver, kidneys and urinary troubles, and all the physicians and medicine in the world cannot help them unless they get out doors or use Hop Bitters, made of the purest and best remedies, and especially for such cases, having abundance of health, sunshine and rosy cheeks in them. None need suffer if they will use them freely. They cost but a trifle. See another column.—Adv.

The following is told of a young gentleman who was passing an examination in physics. He was asked: "What planets were known to the ancients?" "Well, sir," he responded, "there were Venus, and Jupiter, and" (after a pause) "I think the earth; but I'm not quite certain."

BENSON'S CAPCINE POROUS PLASTER.
A WONDERFUL REMEDY.

There is no comparison between it and the common slow acting porous plaster. It is in every way superior to all other external remedies including liniments and the so-called electrical appliances. It contains new medicinal elements which in combination with rubber, possesses the most extraordinary pain relieving, strengthening and curative properties. Any Physician in your own locality will confirm the above statement. For Lame Back, Rheumatism, Female Weakness, Stubborn and Neglected Colds and Coughs, diseased Kidneys, Whooping Cough, affections of the heart, and all ills for which porous plasters are used, it is simply the best known remedy. Ask for Benson's Capcine Porous Plaster and take no other. Sold by all Druggists. Price 25 cents. Sent on receipt of price by Seabury & Johnson, 21 Platt street, New York.

COMMERCIAL.

ADVOCATE OFFICE,
NEW ORLEANS, Monday, June 16, 1879.

COTTON.

Under the unfavorable influence of the strike, and the reports from New York, the market is a good deal unsettled. There is, however, some inquiry, but thus far the only sales reported are 100 bales at a concession of about ⅛c. Nothing has transpired yet to establish any definite decline.

The following is the official closing of the Cotton Exchange:

	To-Day.	Saturday.
Low ordinary	10⅞	11
Ordinary	11⅛	11⅛
Good ordinary	11⅜	11⅜
Low middling	11⅝	11⅝
Middling	12	12⅛
Good middling	12⅜	12⅜
Middling fair	12⅝	12⅝

Sales to-day, 150 bales. Market dull.

MOVEMENT AT PORTS.

Receipts at United States ports, week ending Monday, June 16, 1879.

	Saturday.	Sunday and Monday.	This week.	Last year.
Galveston	22	56	1,124
New Orleans	224	141	1,777
Mobile		47	257
Savannah	42	51	2,372
Charleston	10	35	247
Wilmington	14	14	286
Norfolk	38	43	1,050
Baltimore			150
New York			50
Boston	257	257	514
Philadelphia	2		661
Various			683
Total	1,021	642	10,945

FUTURES.

The position of the market at New York may be seen by the following:

	To-day.	Saturday.
January	11.05@11.08	11.21@11.23
February
March
April
May
June	12.32@12.33	12.49@12.51
July	12.36@12.38	12.54@12.56
August	12.45@12.47	12.58@12.59
September	12.06@12.08	12.49@12.50
October	11.47@11.48	11.73
November	11.16@11.17	11.29@11.28
December	11.03@11.04	11.18@11.20

Sales, 136,900 bales. Market weak, irregular.

"Well, Pharoe, (colored) do you attend church?" "Lors, yes, Missus, couldn't live if I'se didn't go to meetin'." "Do you have good times there?" "I guess we does. We have 'tracted meetin' goin' on; and last night our minister vited persons to the altar, when three came fow'rd, and we thought dat furst-rate, considerin' de hard times."

MISCELLANEOUS.

TUTT'S PILLS

INDORSED BY
PHYSICIANS, CLERGYMEN AND THE AFFLICTED EVERYWHERE.
THE GREATEST MEDICAL TRIUMPH OF THE AGE.

TUTT'S PILLS CURE SICK HEADACHE.
TUTT'S PILLS CURE DYSPEPSIA.
TUTT'S PILLS CURE CONSTIPATION.
TUTT'S PILLS CURE PILES
TUTT'S PILLS CURE FEVER AND AGUE.
TUTT'S PILLS CURE BILIOUS COLIC.
TUTT'S PILLS CURE KIDNEY Complaint.
TUTT'S PILLS CURE TORPID LIVER.
TUTT'S PILLS IMPART APPETITE.

DR. TUTT has succeeded in combining in these pills the heretofore antagonistic qualities of a STRENGTHENING, DIGESTIVE, and PURIFYING TONIC.

Their first apparent effect is to increase the appetite by causing the tood to properly assimilate, thus the system is nourished, and by their tonic action on the digestive organs, regular and healthy evacuations are produced.

The rapidity with which PERSONS TAKE ON FLESH while under the influence of these pills, indicates their appropriability to nourish the body, hence their efficacy in curing nervous debility, melancholy, dyspepsia, wasting of the muscles, stagnation of the liver, caroidy constipation, and imparting health & strength to the system. Sold everywhere.

Price 25 cents.
Office, 39 Murray Street, NEW YORK.

COMPOUND OXYGEN.

A NEW TREATMENT for the cure of chronic diseases, a treatise on Compound Oxygen, its mode of action and results in a large number of cases, with numerous testimonials, sent free. Address DRS. STARKEY & PALEN, 1109 Girard St., Philada.

NEW RICH BLOOD!

PARSON'S PURGATIVE PILLS make New Rich Blood, and will completely change the blood in the entire system in three months. Any person who will take one each night from one to two weeks may be restored to sound health. Such a thing be possible. Sold everywhere or sent by mail for eight letter stamps.

I. S. JOHNSON & CO., Bangor, Me.

DR. F. WILHOFT'S

ANTI-PERIODIC

OR

FEVER AND AGUE TONIC,

Is deservedly the most popular

CHILL AND FEVER TONIC,

Because it is simply a preparation of Peruvian Bark without Quinine or any other dangerous drug such as Arsenic, etc., and because during a great number of years it has proved itself to be a

SAFE AND PERFECT SPECIFIC

For the cure of

ALL MALARIAL DISEASES,

This remedy is put up in every way by its Proprietors.

WHEELOCK, FINLAY & CO.

Religious Notices.

COMMENCEMENT CENTENARY FEMALE COLLEGE, SUMMERFIELD, ALABAMA.

SUNDAY, June 22.—Commencement Sermon, Rev. E. L. Loveless, D. D.
MONDAY, 10 A. M.—Junior Exhibition, First Part.
MONDAY, 8 P. M.—Exercises, Male Institute.
TUESDAY, 10 A. M.—Junior Exhibition, Second Part.
TUESDAY, 8 P. M.—Concert.
WEDNESDAY, 10 A. M.—Graduating Exercises, R. S. Holcombe.

A. D. McVOY.

COMMENCEMENT EXERCISES OF CENTENARY COLLEGE, JACKSON, LA.

Examination of Preparatory and College Classes, June 23-27.
Commencement Sermon, Sunday, June 29, by Rev. R. S. Woodward, of Natchez, Miss.
Meeting of Board of Trustees, Monday, June 30, at nine A. M.
Exhibition of Preparatory Department at half-past seven P. M.
Meeting of Alumni, Tuesday, July 1, at ten A. M. Address by Rev. C. W. Carter, of Rastrop, La.
Exhibition of Societies at half-past seven P. M. Address by ——
Commencement Day, Wednesday, July 2.
Next session begins on the first Monday in October. (24) C. G. ANDREWS, President.

PROGRAMME OF SOUTHERN UNIVERSITY.

SATURDAY, June 28, 9 A. M.—Meeting of the Board of Trustees.
SUNDAY, June 29, 10.30 A. M.—Commencement Sermon by Rev. Felix R. Hill.
MONDAY, June 30, 10 A. M.—Prize Declamation. 8 P. M.—Exhibition of Belles Lettres Society.
TUESDAY, July 1, 10 A. M.—Annual Address before the Literary Societies, by Samuel W. Goode. 11 A. M.—Alumni Address, by Hon. Rufus K. Hall. 8 P. M.—Annual Exhibition of Clariosophic Society.
WEDNESDAY, July 2, 10 A. M.—Orations of Graduating Class. Baccalaureate Address. Conferring Degrees. 8 P. M.—Alumni Reunion.

I shall request on railroads. You are cordially invited to attend.

Yours truly, C. M. VERDEL, Sec.

DISTRICT CONFERENCES.

THE District Conference for Mobile district will begin July 3, 1879, at eight P. M., in St. Paul's Church, Mobile. Recording stewards' books of Quarterly Conference records must be brought to the meeting.

25 E. WADSWORTH, P. E.

The District Conference for Columbus District will convene at Crawfordville, July 3-7. Bishop Paine is expected. Recording Stewards, send list of delegates. JOS. D. NEWSOM.

JACKSON DISTRICT CONFERENCE will be held at Jackson, Mississippi, beginning on Thursday, July 10, at 9 A. M.

24 F. M. FEATHERSTUN, P. E.

THE District Conference of the Meridian district, Mississippi Conference, will meet at Lauderdale station on Friday morning, June 27, at nine o'clock.

24 R. J. JONES.

BY MISTAKE the district meeting for Homer district was published to be held May 29-30, when it is June 26-29.

23 J. H. STONE.

THE Camp-Meeting on Indian Village circuit will embrace the first Sabbath in October, commencing on Wednesday night, before an early candle light, at Jones' Camp Ground, three and a half miles east of Vernon, La. Ministers of the gospel are invited.

22 R. T. PARISH, P. C.

Appointments for Quarterly Meetings.

ALABAMA CONFERENCE.

GREENSBORO DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

Cuba	June 21, 22
Greensboro	28, 29
Havana	July 1, 2
Forkland	5, 6
Belmont	26, 27
Newbern	Aug. 2, 3
Gainesville	9, 10
Green	16, 17
Gaston	23, 24
Butler	30, 31
	Sept. 6, 7

23 S. H. COX, P. E.

LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.

ALEXANDRIA DIS.—THIRD ROUND.

Simsport circuit	Aug. 2, 3
Bayou Boeuf and Evergreen, at Big Cane	9, 10
Speed's Creek, at Solomon Hill	16, 17
Pineville and Cotile	23, 24
Monticello, at Salmon's	30, 31
Shelby circuit	Sept. 6, 7
Rapides, at camp-meeting	13, 14
Harrisonburg, at Dr. Simms's school house	20, 21
Centerville	27, 28
Columbia, at Wheeville House	29, 30
Arcadia	Oct. 4, 5

24 C. REES, P. E.

NEW ORLEANS DIS.—THIRD ROUND.

Algiers	June 7, 8
Bellsbank Avenue	14, 15
Morgan Street	July 5, 6
Felicity Street	12, 13
Carondelet Street	Aug. 2, 3
Plaquemine and Grand Point, at False River	9, 10
St. Charles Avenue	17
Baton Rouge	23
Lafourche	Sept. 6, 7

25 LINUS PARKER, P. E.

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

JACKSON DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

Yazoo circuit	July 26, 27
Bayou Forest	Aug. 2, 3
Yazoo City station	3, 4
River Creek	9, 10
Tranquil circuit	9, 10
Brownsville circuit	16, 17
Jackson circuit	23, 24
Raymond Mission	23, 24
Madison circuit	30, 31
Marion circuit	30, 31
Canton circuit	Sept. 6, 7
Jackson station	6, 7
	13, 14

25 F. M. FEATHERSTUN, P. E.

BROOKHAVEN DIS.—THIRD ROUND.

Brookhaven	July 5, 6
Spring Ridge	12, 13
Hazlehurst	19, 20
Pisgah	26, 27
Crystal Springs	Aug. 2, 3
Pleasant Valley	9, 10
Mount Pleasant, at Georgetown circuit	16, 17
Meadville circuit	23, 24
Providence	30, 31
Goliath	Sept. 6, 7
Topisaw	13, 14
Ebenezer, at Bethel Hill mission	20, 21

District Conference at Crystal Springs, June 26.
20 Quarterly Conference Journals required.
Hemingway Camp Ground (Crystal Springs) meeting, July 4-6.
Providence Camp Meeting, August 28 to September 1.
The customary half fare privileges is hereby extended.
Drs. Linfield, Johnson and West, W. Barnes and J. V. Lincoln, Committee of Worship at Crystal Springs Camp Meeting. Dr. Watkins, Missionarian.

24 W. F. M. LINFIELD, P. E.

NORTH ALABAMA CONFERENCE.

DECATUR DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

Decatur	June 14, 15
Trinity, at Trinity	21, 22
Courtland, at Ebenezer	28, 29
Leighton, at Spring Creek	July 5, 6
Russellville, at Russellville	12, 13
Littlesville, at Littlesville	19, 20
Mount Hope, at Bethel	26, 27
Moulton, at Moulton	Aug. 2, 3
Antioch, at Mount Zion	9, 10
Danville, at McKendree	16, 17
Harisell, at Chestnut Grove	23, 24
Somerville, at Gandy's Cove	30, 31

25 W. R. KIRK, P. E.

HUNTSVILLE DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

Huntsville station	June 5
Triana circuit	7, 8
Madison circuit	19, 20
Pelhamville circuit	21, 22
Paint Rock circuit	28, 29
Vienna circuit	July 2, 3
Maysville station	5, 6
Madison station	13
Athens station	15
Limestone circuit	16
Larkinsville circuit	19, 20
Scott-boro circuit	22
Stevenson circuit	24
Stevenson and Edgefield station	26, 27
Deposit circuit	29
New Market circuit	Aug. 2, 3

The District Conference will be held at Madison beginning July 10.

25 M. L. WHITTEN, P. E.

FLORENCE DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

Oakland circuit, at Canaan	June 14, 15
Tuscumbia station	18
Florence station	20
Cypress circuit, at Bethel Grove	21, 22
Shoal circuit, at Ebenezer	28, 29
Rodgersville circuit and Lexington mission, at Mount Bethel	July 5, 6
Leighville circuit, at Walnut Grove	12, 13
Waterloo circuit	19, 20
Chickasaw circuit	26, 27
Colbert mission	Aug. 2, 3
Rusleson mission	9, 10
Frankfort circuit	16, 17

24 R. A. TIMMONS, P. E.

TALLADEGA DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

Talladega circuit, at Owen's Springs	June 7, 8
Oxford circuit, at Center	14, 15
Alexandria circuit, at Weaver's	21, 22
Ohatchee circuit, at Ragan's	28, 29
Ball Play mission, at Taylor's	July 4
Cross Plains circuit, at Howell's	5, 6
Talladega station	12, 13
Cropwell circuit, at Horkey's	17
Fayetteville circuit, at Fayetteville	26, 27
Chandler's Springs circuit	Aug. 2, 3
Hargersville circuit, at Hargersville	9, 10

The District Conference will be held at Enon, fifteen miles west of Talladega, July 18-20.

24 ANSON WEST, P. E.

BIRMINGHAM DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

Oxmoor and Helena, at Oxmoor	June 28, 29
Tuscaloosa circuit, at Taylorville	July 5, 6
Coketon circuit, at Village Falls	12, 13
Blount Springs circuit, at Warrior	19, 20
Birmingham station	26, 26
Jonesboro circuit, at Pleasant Hill	Aug. 2, 3
Asheville circuit, at Springville	9, 10
New Castle circuit, at Piney Woods	16, 17
Montevallo station	23, 24
Murphrees Valley circuit	30, 31
Jones' Valley circuit	Sept. 6, 7
Montevallo circuit	13, 14
Cahaba mission	20, 21

The District Conference for Birmingham district will be held at Warrior, July 18-20. The Introductory Sermon will be preached at eleven o'clock A. M., Friday the eighteenth, by Rev. R. J. Wilson. Let all the preachers in charge come prepared to make full and complete reports from their respective charges. A full attendance is very much desired.

23 J. G. GURLEY, P. E.

LAFAYETTE DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

Dadeville circuit, at Camp Hill	May 31, June 1
Socapatoy circuit, at Soc Patoy	June 7, 8
Hatchett Creek mission, at North Reboboth	14, 15
Lafayette station	21, 22
Alexander City circuit, at Alexander City	28, 29
Louina circuit, at Hannary	July 5, 6
Pinkneyville circuit, at Union	12, 13
Fredonia circuit, at Rock Mills	19, 20
Widowee mission, at Bethlehem	26, 27
Abbeyville circuit, at Rogers's Chapel	Aug. 2, 3
Lineville circuit, at Mount Pleasant	9, 10
Oak Bowery circuit, at Midway	16, 17

The District Conference will be held at Alexander City, July 27-29. Sermon by W. T. Padillo on Thursday night the twenty-sixth.

23 JOHN H. STEVENSON, P. E.

The Japan Weekly Mail, of February 22, says: Matsumoto Bunkichi, the well-known merchant of the race-course at Negishi, has been condemned to ten years' penal servitude for lending a room to Chinamen for the purpose of smoking opium therein. The case was proved by several of the Kanagawa Ken policemen; and, further, the accused is said to have confessed his guilt at the Bluff police station. The sentence will appear to foreigners to be out of all proportion to the magnitude of the offense; but it was provided for by a law, the object and stern intention of which is that opium shall not be allowed to be smoked by any subject of the empire, or any one amenable to its jurisdiction.

MISCELLANEOUS.

PRICE REDUCED TO 25 CENTS. The greatest discovery of the age is DR. TOBIAS' CELEBRATED VENETIAN LINIMENT. Thirty-two years before the public, and warranted to cure Diarrhœa, Dysentery, Colic and Spasms, taken internally; and Croup, Cyronic Rheumatism, Sore Throat, Chills, Bruises, Old Sores, and Pains in the Limbs, Back and Chest, externally. It has never failed. No family will ever be without it after once giving it a fair trial. Price 25 c. DR. TOBIAS' VENETIAN HORSE LINIMENT, in Four Bottles, at $1.00, is warranted superior to any other, or NO PAY, for the cure of Colds, Cuts, Bruises, Old Sores, etc. Sold by all druggists. Depot 12 Murray street, New York.

"And the leaves of the tree were for the healing of the nations."—Rev. xxii, 2.

COCA BITTERS,

The Great South American Tonic.

The New Remedy made from the Leaves of the South American Coca Plant.

An excellent cordial, prepared expressly for popular use, and presenting in an elegant form all the wonderful health giving properties of Erythroxylon Coca.

It is a Sovereign Remedy for Disorders of Digestion, Chills and Fever, Nervous Weakness, Sick Headache, Neuralgia, and either Nervous or Muscular Fatigue.

Convalescents from Fevers should use COCA BITTERS, as it gives IMMEDIATE STRENGTH and HASTENS RECOVERY.

For Sale by all Druggists.

SEND FOR CIRCULAR.

QUICHUA COCA COMPANY,
Manufacturing Chemists,
72 William St., New York.
8p

THE ORIGINAL Superintendent of Dr. Ely and Lewis's Locksmith of New Orleans,

A. McDERMOTT,

has returned and established the business at manufacturing Dr Ely's patent

ARTIFICIAL
Arms and Legs,

and has purchased the sole right for the Southern States. Perfect satisfaction guaranteed in all cases or no pay. Prices greatly reduced.

A. McDERMOTT,
203 Camp Street, N. O.

$5 A DAY for honest, intelligent business men or agents. New business; light work. Address J. B. CHAPMAN, Madison, Indiana.

MISCELLANEOUS.

YALE & BOWLING,
IMPORTERS AND WHOLESALE DEALERS IN
DRY GOODS
NOTIONS AND MILLINERY,
17, 19 and 21 Magazine Street, 17, 19 and 21
NEW ORLEANS, LA.

Mme. DEMOREST'S
GRAND OPENING
OF THE
SPRING STYLES,
183 CANAL STREET,
NEW ORLEANS, LA.

These Patterns are in various sizes, and put up in illustrated envelopes, on which are printed full descriptions for making, trimming, quantity of material required, etc., and are so accurately marked that the most inexperienced person can put them together.

New Basques, Polonaises, Princes Dresses, Walking Skirts, Trains, etc., for Ladies and Children's Dresses, also Boy's Clothes, Gentlemen's Underwear, Infant's Patterns, etc., furnishing economy, practical utility, artistic accuracy and fashionable elegance.

Prices From 10c. to 30c.

Send for catalogue, with directions in English, French, German and Spanish, which is furnished free on application.

GRAND OPENING
SPRING STYLES,
OF
Mme. Demorest's Patterns.
Of the Latest Fashions.

NEW BASQUES, POLONAISES, PRINCESS DRESSES, WALKING SKIRTS, FRAMES, ETC., FOR LADIES, MISSES AND CHILDREN'S DRESS.

D. P. PERRY,
183 Canal Street.
8p

DRY IN ROGERS' POWDER
CITRATE OF MAGNESIA

An Agreeable Aperient and Refrigerant.

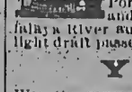
This well-known preparation is highly recommended for DYSPEPSIA, HEADACHE, Sickness of the Stomach, Heartburn, and all complaints arising from Acidity, Bilious and Malarial Fevers. It cools the blood and regulates the bowels. It is a favorite medicine for children and its acidity and sweet taste makes it cooling and refreshing. Put up in 8-ounce bottles. Prepared by

A. ROGERS' SONS, Chemists, N. Y.

Superior to Mineral Waters, Seidlitz Powders, Etc.

For sale by all New Orleans druggists. 8p

Regular Opelousas Mail Packet.
LEAVES EVERY TUESDAY, AT 5 P. M.



For Washington, Opelousas, Port Barre, Simsport, Churchville; all landings on the Coast, Atchafalaya River and Bayou Courtableau—The new and light-draft Steamer

FANCHON,

H. H. BROAD, Master, THEO. JOHNS, Clerk, will leave as above. For freight or passage apply on board, or to

R. W. ADAMS, 21 Commercial Place.
J. E. CARLIN, 17 Tchoupitoulas St.

REGULAR OPELOUSAS PACKET.
Leaves EVERY TUESDAY at 5 P. M.,

For Washington, Opelousas, Port Barre, Simmsport, Churchville and all landings on the Coast, Atchafalaya River and Bayou Courtableau. The very light draft passenger Steamer

YAZOO,

WM. CRAWFORD, Master. J. B. SCHMIT, Clerk. Will leave positively as above. For freight or passage apply on board or to

LORD & McPEAKE, Agents, 46 Camp St.
GEO. D. HITE, Agent, 4 Tchoupitoulas St.

P. S.—Connects closely with Boats for Bayou Des Glaize and Barges for Bayou Boeuf.

1879. 1879.
EXCURSION ROUTE!
NORTH, EAST AND WEST.
ST. LOUIS & NEW ORLEANS
ANCHOR LINE,

The fine passenger steamers of this line will leave New Orleans on TUESDAYS, THURSDAYS and SATURDAYS, at 5 o'clock P. M., during the season, connecting at St. Louis with the principal railroads and Upper Mississippi river packets for all points North, East and West.

Passengers and baggage transferred from steamers to railroads FREE OF CHARGE.

Through and Excursion tickets for sale on board the boats and at the office of the company.

J. B. WOODS, General Agent.
No. 141 Common Street.

"CHANGE OF SCHEDULE."

NEW ORLEANS, SPANISH FORT
AND LAKE RAILROAD.

MAY 24, 1879.

Until further notice the trains will leave the corner of Canal and Basin Streets as follows:

Sundays at 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 1, 2, 3, 4, 5,

The Christian Advocate.

PUBLISHED FOR THE ALABAMA, MISSISSIPPI AND LOUISIANA CONFERENCES, METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH SOUTH.

VOL. 25. NEW ORLEANS, THURSDAY, JUNE 26, 1879. NO. 26.

The Christian Advocate.

REV. LINUS PARKER, D. D., Editor.

G. T. LATHROP, Publisher.

OFFICE—112 CAMP ST., NEW ORLEANS.

Address all matters of business, G. T. LATHROP 112 Camp street, New Orleans.

Address all communications designed for publication REV. LINUS PARKER, 112 Camp street, New Orleans.

AGENTS—All the members of the Patronizing Conferences.

PUBLISHING COMMITTEES.

ALABAMA CONFERENCE.

REV. EDWARD WADSWORTH, D. D.
REV. FELIX R HILL.
REV. H. D. MOORE.

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

REV. W. H. WATKINS, D. D.
REV. JAMES A GODFREY.
REV. J. G. JONES.

LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.

REV. JOHN MATHEWS.
REV. LINUS PARKER, D. D.
REV. CHRISTIAN KEENER.

RATES OF SUBSCRIPTION.

The New Orleans Christian Advocate will be furnished to subscribers at the following rates including postage:

One Year	$2 00
Six Months	1 00
Three Months	50

Will send from date to January 1, 1880, for $1.

To all Ministers of the Gospel and widows of deceased traveling preachers:

One Year	$1 00
Six Months	50
Three Months	25

HASTE NOT, REST NOT.

Without haste! without rest!
Bind the motto to thy breast;
Bear it with thee as a spell;
Storm and sunshine guide it well!
Heed not flowers that round thee bloom;
Bear it onward to the tomb.

Haste not! let no thoughtless heed
Mar for aye the spirit's speed;
Ponder well and know the right;
Onward then with all thy might;
Haste not! years can ne'er atone
For one reckless action done.

Rest not! life is sweeping by,
Go and dare before you die—
Something mighty and sublime
Leave behind and conquer time!
Glorious 'tis to live for aye,
When these forms have passed away.

Haste not! Rest not! Calmly wait,
Meekly bear the storms of fate!
Duty be thy proper guide—
Do the right, whate'er betide!
Haste not! Rest not! Conflicts past,
God shall crown thy work at last.

—From the German of Goethe.

NEWS OF THE WEEK.

DOMESTIC.

WASHINGTON, June 18—The Mississippi River improvement commission bill was taken up in the senate.

The Mississippi River improvement Commission bill was passed with the Senate amendments providing that the commission shall consist of seven members—three from the Engineer Corps, one from the Coast and Geodetic Survey, and three from civil life; two of the latter to be civil engineers.

GALVESTON, June 18.—To morrow's News will publish the following specials;

The report of Negrete's pronunciamento against Diaz has been confirmed. Gov Diaz Gutierrez, of San Luis Potosi, has been killed by revolutionists. All mails in the interior of Mexico are interrupted. All newspapers in Monterey except the official journal, have been forced to suspend. Gen. Trevino is expected to pronounce soon. Naranjo, in Lampasas, is organizing against Diaz.

BROWNSVILLE, June 18—A dispatch from Saltillo says: The Governor of Nueva Leona was killed by revolutionists in Saltillo yesterday.

SNOW HILL, June 19. Judge Allison pronounced sentence upon Miss Dyer, this afternoon, for the killing of Miss Hearn. In view of the prisoner's previous good character, and the recommendation of the jury to mercy, the court remitted the imprisonment, and simply sentenced her to pay the maximum fine prescribed by law namely, $500.

MOBILE, June 20—The loss of last night's fire is about $175,000. Insurance on stock and buildings amounts to $123,475, of which Mobile companies lose $20,825.

ROCHESTER, June 20.—Prof. Swift discovered a new comet at 1 o'clock this morning in the constellation Perseus, right ascension two minutes thirty seconds, declination north 55 degrees.

WASHINGTON, June 21.—The Senate Committee on Privileges and Elections was authorized to appoint a sub-committee to sit during the recess and continue the Spofford-Kellogg investigation.

The President to-day signed the legislative appropriation bill.

The debate continued on the army bill until 1:30 A. M., when it was finally passed by a vote of yeas 33, nays 19; a party vote, except that Senator Burnside voted nye.

At 2 A. M. the Senate adjourned.

The report of the conference committee on the disagreeing vote of the two houses on the judicial expenses bill was taken up and adopted by a party vote.

ATLANTA, June 21 Judge Hillyer, after argument upon nineteen assignments of error in the case of Cox convicted of the murder of Alston, said he discovered no error in the record, and was bound to refuse the motion for a new trial. Defendant excepted, and the case goes to the Supreme Court in September.

Dr. Clark, editor of the Methodist Record, of Pittsburg, Pa. is here dangerously ill. He was the paternal messenger to the last General Conference in this city. Gov. Colquitt is having him cared for at the Executive Mansion. His recovery is not expected.

WASHINGTON, June 22. Representative Whitthorne, of Tennessee, has forwarded to Representative Gaddis, of Virginia, chairman of the House Committee on Education and Labor, a communication relating to the propriety of the proposed investigation into the causes of the recent colored exodus. After a general review of the relations between the slave-holders and the slaves, Mr. Whitthorne proceeds to consider the changes brought about in the South by the war, especially those relating to financial prosperity, and says that the losses on farm property alone, from 1860 to 1870, aggregated $771,000,000. When to these are added losses on bonds, horses, cattle, mills, manufacturing establishments and so forth, the amount is swelled to billions. With this burden the eight millions of whites of the South came out of the war, while the black race, suddenly emancipated and having no means of support except the unskilled labor of their hands, were left with scant protection against starvation, vice and crimes.

Mr. Whitthorne then considers the alleged ill-treatment of the colored race in the South since the war, and especially the alleged failure of white employers to give their colored laborers just and adequate compensation for their services. He shows that industry has revived in the South since 1865 and value of labor increased. From 1869 to 1878 there has been an increase of more than three million head of cattle and swine. During the last eight years six million more bales of cotton have been produced than were produced in eight years ending with 1861. In 1871 there were only seven and a half million acres of cotton cultivated, while in 1878 there were more that twelve millions. The gross earnings of Southern railroads are now in round numbers $43,000,000 per annum and there has been a decided increase in the growth of manufacturing industries.

Mr. Whitthorne then gives statistics showing that while farm laborers in the Northern and Western States are paid at the rate of $7 per capita of population, compensation of the same class of laborers in the South exceeds $10 per capita. The Southern States, with a population of 9,000,000, pay nearly $93,000,000 for labor, while the Northern States, with a population of 15,000,000, pay less than $115,000,000. In view of the facts, Mr. Whitthorne says, it cannot be asserted that the Southern laborer is not adequately paid or that he has any good reason to leave his birth place.

He says further that "It is believed by many that upon a thorough examination of the facts, this exodus movement will be shown to have its origin in speculation in Kansas railroad lands, to which a portion of the freedmen's money, through the Freedmen's Bank, was first dedicated, and that parties who aided in the robbery of that institution conceived there were millions in tempting its depositors and their race to become occupants of land upon which they held mortgage bonds. I feel sure that when all the truth is known it will be seen that both races have suffered from the madness and craft of politicians, and that the people of the Southern States in Christian civilization which, whilst it enriches mankind, is just and generous to all within its influence. It only asks to be judged in that charity which speaks in love and asks only the observance of that decree: That with whatsoever judgment ye would be judged, judge ye. If for such a purpose and in such a spirit investigation is sought, it should be had, but if not I am and will be first to ask you to have none of it."

FOREIGN.

KOENIGSBERG, June 17.—Prof. Johann Karl Friedrich Rosenkrantz, the eminent philosopher, is dead.

ROME, June 17.—The Capitale declares that eighteen persons were killed in recent riots at Calathano, in Sicily, and sixty wounded. Seventy arrests were made.

LONDON, June 17.—The Daily News's correspondent at Vienna reports that fresh inundations have taken place in Galicia, Silesia and Hungary. Half the town of Troppau, in Austrian Silesia, has been submerged. The hay harvest has been destroyed. Seven iron bridges have been demolished, and the Danube is still rising.

MESSINA, June 17. Continued shocks of earthquakes, attributed to the action of Mount Etna, have occurred near Santa Venere and Gland Guarnia, with the destruction of buildings and some loss of life.

ALGIERS, July 17 The column of troops which left Batla, in the province of Constantine, yesterday encountered 600 insurgents occupying a defile in Onetouba Hills. They were dislodged by artillery and the troops occupied their positions. The column continues its march to Medina.

ROME, June 18 There was a violent earthquake yesterday near the town of Acl, in Sicily, seven miles northeast of Catina. Five villages in the vicinity were wholly destroyed, ten persons killed and several injured. The inhabitants of the district all encamped en masse.

LONDON, June 19. A Reuter dispatch from Cape Town, dated June 4, via Madeira, today states that Prince Louis Napoleon, Prince Imperial of France, accompanied by other officers, left Col. Wood's camp to reconnoitre. The party dismounted in a meadow field, when the enemy crept upon them and killed the Prince. His body was recovered.

MADRID, June 19 A Socialist conspiracy has been discovered at San Miguel. Seven of the conspirators have been imprisoned and a list of their accomplices seized.

In debate in the Cortes on the speech from the throne, Premier Campos stated that the government fully intended to settle the Cuban question, and would pursue a conciliatory policy towards Cuba. He considered it impossible to abolish slavery immediately. The address was adopted with 149 yeas to 11 nays.

PANAMA, June 19. Peruvian advices state: Bolivia will have 20,000 men under arms, mostly disciplined soldiers on the 15th. A division numbering 1300 men left for Arica in three trains, commanded by Gen. Carlos De Villegas. This force will march to Iniquique, Arica, batteries are now in position to make an effective resistance. The morale and discipline of the Bolivian army is worthy of all praise. Speculations as to the Argentine Republic taking part in the struggle between Chilli and Peru may now be considered at an end, as the neutrality of that Republic has been officially declared.

PARIS, June 21. The Gazette De France says that before starting for Zululand, the Prince Imperial made a will appointing Prince Victor, eldest son of Prince Napoleon, his heir.

LONDON, June 23. A dispatch to the Post from Berlin reports that Field Marshal Von Manteuffel will be proclaimed Governor of Alsace-Lorraine.

The correspondent of the Standard at Jaffa reports that complete anarchy prevails in Southern Epirus.

Dispatches from Alexandria state that the Sultan leaves the Khedive full liberty of action; also that Austria and Germany will demand either his abdication or full payment of all his creditors.

He is making an effort to pay, hoping thus to gain the support of those powers.

The Times' Berlin dispatch announces that in consequence of raids in Kulda Territory by Chinese soldiers, who are ravaging the country with fire and sword, a large Russian expedition will soon be dispatched thither. As the raiders are likely to receive the support of the Chinese Government, war may follow.

LONDON, June 23. A telegram from Callao states that the Peruvian ironclad Huascar has bombarded Antofogasta and captured two Chilian transports. The Chilian man-of-war Cavadonga (wooden) has stranded. There has been a decisive engagement between the Huascar and two Chilian ironclads.

FIELD NOTES.

MISSISSIPPI.

BLACK HAWK, Miss., June 13.—The commencement exercises of the District High School, at this place, occurred June 8-10. The sermon was preached by the Rev. J. D. Cameron, of Holly Springs, from Psalms viii, 3, 4. A very able discourse. During the exercises at the school addresses were given by the Revs. K. A. Jones, J. F. Markham, A. P. Sage and others. Two young ladies, having completed the course of study, received diplomas. Miss Mattie Jones and Miss Willie Glenn. Master Mimms Stone was awarded a silver medal for oratory, and Miss Annie Lloyd Strear one for elocution. The next term opens September 1. For catalogue and all information address the principal, E. W. Tarrant, A. M., as above. Truly,

JOSEPH S. OAKLEY.

CANTON, Miss., June 15.—I have just learned by telegram, from Sister Montgomery, that Rev. H. H. Montgomery died this morning at three o'clock, at Castillion Springs, Holmes county, Miss., where he had gone to recuperate his failing health. Another one of our leaders is gone. He has been a member of the Mississippi Conference many years. Yours,

R. D. NORSWORTHY.

MOUNT CARMEL, Miss., June 15.—I am glad to say to you that we are getting along smoothly and pleasantly on Buffalo circuit. Congregations large. Finances well up. We have a committee of ladies appointed at each church to raise the missionary fund. These committees are all at work, and, I think, will raise the full amount. Remarkably healthy here now. Crop prospects fine, rather late, but looking well generally, and in fine order. Negroes quiet; working well; very few have left Wilkinson county.

W. W. SIMMONS, P. C.

HAZLEHURST, Miss., June 16.—The Bayou Pierre circuit is in Copiah county; is composed of six organized churches, with other occasional appointments. Hazlehurst is the trading point of most of my charge, and the most accessible point to all the churches. We have six Sunday-schools. The circuit has no parsonage. Do not know that they are ready to build; have made a move in that direction.

S. R. YOUNG.

VAIDEN, Miss., June 16.—The annual commencement of Yazoo District High School, located at Black Hawk, Miss., under the presidency of Prof. E. W. Tarrant, was held June 8-10. The public examination of the students was highly satisfactory. The exhibition and concert were quite entertaining to the large audiences who witnessed them. This school is prosperous under the management of Prof. Tarrant and his able corps of assistants. Country healthy. Crops good.

A. P. SAGE.

BROOKHAVEN, Miss., June 17.—The church in Wesson is prospering. We have just closed a meeting there of two weeks' duration. Our congregations were large, attentive and serious. Our large new church was frequently insufficient to accommodate the people who attended the services. Bros. Howard and Young assisted me. We baptized twelve, and received sixteen into full communion. Three candidates await baptism and reception.

W. B. LEWIS.

KOSCIUSKO, Miss., June 20.—We have just closed a meeting here of three weeks' continuance, which was in every way a success. The Lord was with us in power, convicting sinners, converting mourners, and blessing His people. There were about thirty-five conversions, nineteen of whom united with our church; others will join. We are indebted to Bro. R. D. Norsworthy for faithful services rendered the first week.

R. P. MITCHELL.

LOUISIANA.

COUSHATTA, La., June 12.—We are in the midst of a terrible drouth; no rain for nearly six weeks; corn almost ruined; health good; the spiritual condition generally good; Sabbath-schools good; our church at this place is secured; $630 cash in hand, and seven or eight hundred on subscription; our agent in your city brought from there $380 cash, for which we feel grateful to them; we will commence the church soon.

Your brother,

W. D. STAYTON.

KEACHIE, La., June 13.—Reached home yesterday from Natchitoches; left Bro. Hough very low on the tenth instant; very little hopes of his recovery; to-day is Baptist commencement; one graduate this year; we hope to be ready to dedicate our church in Keachie on the first Sabbath in August. R. H. Read, of Sherman, Texas, will, D. V., preach our sermon. It is very dry; corn is injured considerably; very little sickness; am doing very well on my circuit.

G. M. LIVERMAN.

NATCHITOCHES CIRCUIT, La., June 14.—We are being sustained on our work; have four organizations; about 100 members, and 500 hearers. We are trying to build up the Sabbath-school work. The membership on our work is not in best condition, but improving. Crops are not very good. Health not good, but improving. Yours,

R. M. BLOCKER.

HOMER, La., June 14. The examination is progressing at the college. President Smith is very popular as a teacher, and promises more for the college than any one who has been connected with the school during my residence here. The particulars of the examination we will give in our report. We are suffering from the effects of a protracted drought. A good deal of sickness.

J. A. PARKER.

NEW IBERIA, La., June 17.—Please acknowledge in you paper the receipt of $5, in answer to an appeal in the CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE, for French mission, from I. M. Dantzler, Moss Point, Miss. Many thanks. Work still prospering; eleven more have joined; total, twenty-seven. One man has given the land for a church, and all promise to work and set it up when lumber sufficient has either been given or bought. A great stir at Isle aux Cannes; persecution, but also additions and blessings.

W. J. PICOT, Missionary.

EAST FELICIANA, La., June 19.—The good work still goes on on East Feliciana circuit, Mississippi Conference. We have just closed a meeting at Pine Grove Church, of ten days' duration, resulting gloriously. Results already seen are six conversions, four accessions, three family altars erected, and an increase of spirituality among the older members of the church. We are trying to revive class-meetings, with favorable indications of success. Crop prospects flattering. Laborers quiet.

IRA B. ROBERTSON, P. C.

ALABAMA.

FRANKFORT CIRCUIT, Ala., June 12.—Our second quarterly meeting of this circuit, June 8-9, was a "time of refreshing from the presence of the Lord." Our presiding elder, Bro. Timmons, was with us in the spirit of the Master. Our people love him. Our people are improving financially. They are paying off some of the collections. I think we will pay out in full this year. The health of our county is good. Crops are looking well; wheat good; weather seasonable. Your brother,

C. C. O'NEAL, P. C.

PIKEVILLE, Ala., June 17.—We are moving along smoothly on Pikeville mission. The times are hard, but we expect to raise $50 for the missionary cause. Have that amount in good subscription; not done yet. We have five Sunday schools, all doing well. The school at Pikeville bids fair to be the best in the county. Quarterage very low. Prospects for revivals good.

G. M. G. RUNKIN, P. C.

RUTLEDGE, Ala., June 20.—The Rutledge circuit has ten churches, 634 members, ten Sunday-schools, with an increase of more than one hundred pupils over last year. The spiritual condition of the circuit is tolerably good. Class meetings are gaining favor. We have bought a parsonage in Rutledge, and hope to pay for it this year. We are now engaged in establishing a camp-ground on the circuit. We have been out to-day examining grounds for the same. Fine gushing springs of pure water, with beautiful grounds upon which to build; half mile from saw mill, and only two miles from town. Very easy of access.

WM. B. OWENS.

MISCELLANEOUS.

LONGVIEW, Texas, June 5.—Orange is a progressive young city; the great lumber depot of the exhaustless supply upon the waters of the Sabine river, the present terminus east of the New Orleans and Texas Railroad. This great thoroughfare is progressing to completion rapidly; will bear a tide of emigration into this terra incognita; heretofore a portion of that small belt of the earth's surface adapted to the growth of the orange, lemon and banana; rich alluvial soil mixed with seashell from two to four feet in depth, to be had in the immediate vicinity of Orange and the railroad at from $2 50 to $4 per acre; the rapid development of this fine region assured.

H. M. HOOTH.

DOWNEY CITY, Cal., June 9.—The Southern Pacific College, built by the Christian Church at this place, has just passed into the hands of Rev. C. B. Riddick, D. D. (Southern Methodist.) The doctor's large success here, during the last four years, gives as guaranty of large success in the control of the college. Cost of college building, $15,000. Religious interests, though not up to the desired point, are thought by pastors to be improving.

S. M. ADAMS.

DOWNEY CITY, Cal., June 9.—During the last fortnight incendiarism has been quite rife in El Monte, in this county. The barns and hay sheds of Hon. A. Ellis, and the corn crib of Mr. Baldwin, were burned. Loss probably $3,500. Insurance, $2,000. Our honore harvest thieves are now making us their annual visit. Last week fourteen horses were stolen in the county, and six fine mules, from one ranch. Political atmosphere growing warm. Four parties in the field.

S. M. ADAMS.

STEPHENVILLE, Texas, June 9.—This town has been refreshed by a visit from the Rev. Dr. Young, State lecturer of the "United Friends of Temperance," which resulted in the organization of a council with forty-two members. The doctor preached at the Methodist Church on Sunday morning to a large congregation, and organized a band of Hope. He reports great success in his recent tour. Local option is the result of his visits in many places. Dr. Rubison, the local Methodist minister, continues to do good service in the temperance cause.

S. FRANK.

SAN JOSE, Cal., June 10.—San Jose (pronounced San Ho-za,) is situated forty-eight miles south of San Francisco, with a population of 18,000, the garden spot of California, noted for its public schools, churches, and the refinement and intelligence of its citizens. Rev. H. B. Avery, pr acher in charge of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, a native of Tennessee, a devoted minister and plans and exemplary, and much esteemed by his congregation. Truly it may be said of him: he works for the Master. We are in a revival now, and prayers are offered daily at twelve o'clock, and sermon at night.

W. SMITH.

STEPHENVILLE, Texas, June 18.—This county has been suffering for rain, but on Sunday last we had a good shower, which refreshed everything very much. Further west the drought has materially injured the crops. The prospects here for a crop are very good. This is a beautiful country, high and rolling, interspersed with wood and prairie, and is noted for its picturesque scenery. Heretofore it was almost exclusively a stock country, but of late years people have turned their attention principally to the farming interest.

Yours,

S. FRANK.

Distributor of Church Literature.

MR. EDITOR: At the last session of the Alabama Conference the Rev. J. M. Scott was appointed "Sunday-school agent and distributor of church literature." The work embraced in the second clause of this appointment is a step forward and a step in the right direction. The destitution of "church literature" among our people is alarming. This is true whether we speak of religious periodicals or religious books. This may be an age of reading, and a large number of our people may be a reading people; but what do they read? To one who has investigated this question closely, the answer thereto is fearfully alarming. That the whole land is flooded with a literature which is anti-religious no observing person will call in question. That a large class of our people spend $10 for this kind of reading matter, when they spend $1 for church literature, is a fact equally patent to every observing person. If the money invested annually in secular newspapers and fashion monthlies and quarterlies, by our people, was spent for "church literature" every church paper, and the great Southern Methodist Publishing House, would not only live, but pay a fine per cent on the capital invested. In addition to the vast sum paid for periodicals, there are thousands upon thousands of dollars invested in books, the reading of which tends to anything else rather than godliness.

There may be many reasons for this state of things, but I call attention to only two. First, the want of a taste, or appetite for such reading as "church literature" contains. Parents have supplied their children with a class of reading that has developed a taste that finds nothing palatable in religious literature. Thus have things gone on, from generation to generation, until we have a large class in our church who never think of subscribing for a church paper, or buying a standard religious book. Hence the ignorance we so often find among our people in reference to Methodist doctrine, polity and nomenclature. Take one illustration. I had a family in my charge once in whose home there were no religious books, and across whose threshold no church paper had ever made its weekly visits. The father was well to do in this world's goods. Of course he educated his daughters; had one of those daughters, who had graduated with distinction, was so ignorant of church nomenclature that she did not know the meaning of the word parsonage.

This want of taste for religious literature, and the cultivation of an appetite basic in keeping with that naturalistic position of the human heart to love darkness rather than light. Take another illustration. Some years ago a backsliden Methodist went to hear a Universalist—such a gospel was very soothing to his troubled conscience he openly avowed his adherence to that faith. But, in order that he might become established in the doctrine, and be able to defend his new faith, he immediately invested $45 in the standard books of that church. Yet, notwithstanding he had been a Methodist for years, he had never bought a single religious book, much less a Discipline and a set of our standard works.

The presence of so much useless, frivolous and vicious literature among our people, and the destitution of religious literature, may be accounted for, secondly, by considering the methods used to dissominate both. In this, as in other things, the children of this world are wiser than the children of light. There are ten agents in the field circulating a literature that is either frivolous or vicious, where there is one agent circulating church literature. The people in the main want something to read, and the most of them have the money to pay for any paper or book they want, but the agent who goes to the homes of the people, who puts the book or paper in their hands, is the agent who will flood the land with the literature he proposes to sell. As a rule, our church literature must be carried to the people. We may advertise, may call attention to this paper or that book, but the way to get a subscriber for the one, or to sell the other, is to go to the man, lay the book or the paper before him, let him and his family see and examine for themselves. There is a magic power in the organ of vision and in the sense of touch.

Bro. Scott is doing a good work. He confines himself to the "distribution of church literature;" that is, he deals in no other kind. He is selling a good many of our standard theological works to our laymen. Every book he sells will put a moral power at work in that family.

Bro. Scott is also aiding the Sunday-school cause wherever he goes by lecturing on the subject, and supplying the schools with our literature. I bespeak for him a hearty co-operation on the part of all the preachers in whose pastoral charges he may come. Remember, brethren, that Bro. Scott is doing the work to which he was appointed by the church, and he is doing it faithfully in the fear of God. While we, as preachers, may do a great deal in the way of circulating the literature of the church, yet there is so much destitution it takes so much time and no small amount of capital to supply this destitution that we had better call for several more agents to be appointed to this work than to discourage the one already in the field.

Moreover, by a special arrangement with our book agent, Mr. McFerrin, Bro. Scott can supply every preacher, who has the capital to enter this work, with books as cheap as he can get them from Nashville. So, when he comes to your work, if you have the time and the means to supply your people, Bro. Scott will gladly supply you, and pass on into the regions beyond. So give him a hearty welcome, and a word of cheer. Tell the people that he was appointed to this work by the Bishop, and that the books he sells are endorsed by the church.

The time has come when we, as a church, must supply our people with our literature. If need be, let us put other agents in the field. In the meantime let every pastor do what he can to circulate our church papers, and to supply the people with good religious books.

J. M. HOLLAND.

Young Men's Christian Association.

MOBILE, June 2, 1879.

After some months of patient and careful work, the Young Men's Christian Association of Mobile came recently before the public and made an appeal to the citizens for money. The response was such as to encourage the Association to go on without hesitation in its work.

This success and the implied endorsement of the Association, in liberal contributions, by some of our very best citizens, has caused a discussion by others of its claims, and inquiry as to the necessity for the existence of such an institution among us.

The Association is positively religious in its character. It proposes to work with and for the church. It will avoid the assumption of any prerogative or privilege that belongs specially to the church. See articles of the Constitution below. It is purely local in its nature and operations. From the character of its organism it cannot be controlled by other similar organizations. It is independent of every other body except the churches to which its members belong. It asks from them sympathy, counsel and moral support.

The objects of the Association are—the religious training of young persons, their intellectual and moral improvement and development, to provide pleasant and attractive place of resort, and to establish among them a community of interest and feeling that will be a moral support to them in their lives as Christians. They will, in connection with the efforts of our churches, endeavor to win, attract and persuade young people of all classes and both sexes to a religious life.

Very abundant religious privileges are in the reach of all in this community. The church has access to the public through its ministry twice every Sabbath, through its Sabbath Schools once, and once in some churches twice; during the week, services, for the most part purely devotional are held. The whole time of the ministry is and ought to be taken up with religious duty and instruction. The churches in their assemblies are engaged in the worship of God and in receiving instruction from His word. No time is or can be spared from such occupations for instruction in what is purely intellectual and moral. Science, art and literature must be left for the time of consideration when men worship God or pursue others to His worship.

No one church can, while attending to its own special duties, establish a system of moral and intellectual instruction of such as will be attractive and beneficial, and in agreement with its spiritual teachings, to the young. It is in the power of the membership of the churches to establish and foster such institutions as not forgetting for a moment the paramount interests of the soul, will labor to improve the minds and cultivate the tastes of young people. Through such agencies it can attract the young from frivolous and exciting amusements to more satisfying recreation within reach of religious influences. It is too much to expect that our young people will at our bidding sit down to study treatises and read dry miscellany during the few hours they have for recreation. Literary tastes have been little cultivated here. Patient and costly effort is needed to develope them. They are doubtless as pure and refined as those of any other people.

It is a testimonial to the worth of our young men and women that, though all the recreation afforded them is in the shape of strong excitements and frivolous amusements, they retain and uphold the character, traditional to our country, of high toned refinement and gentility. They deserve the respect and sympathy and love we bestow on them. They are entitled to the benefits to be derived from our most strenuous efforts for their intellectual improvement and the cultivation of their refined tastes.

More than all, we owe them everything in the way of counsel, advice and instruction, combined with healthy and beneficial amusement that will keep them within the bounds of Christian influence, so that by the blessing of God on our efforts they may be led to Christ. The aim of the Association is to discharge these duties. Your sympathy and support are solicited.

ALFRED C. HERRAN, Gen. Sec.

EXTRACTS FROM THE CONSTITUTION.

ART. VI., SEC. 1. The Advisory Committee shall consist of the Pastors of the churches represented in the Association (at present Rev. J. B. Burgett, D. D.; Rev. Henry D. Moore and Rev. W. H. Richardson). They shall have access to all records, and have a right to introduce measures or report for or against any measure introduced. They shall appoint their own chairman, and meet as they may agree among themselves.

ART. VIII., SEC. 4. No member of this Association shall in the name of the Association, hold any religious services, or engage in any religious enterprise which is disapproved by the Advisory Committee.

ART. VIII., SEC. 1. This Association shall neither aid nor countenance persons who are not Ministers of the Gospel in conducting religious services or enterprises in such a manner as to encroach upon the prerogatives of ordained ministers.

Good words and actions are those which are pleasing to God, and which He gives us grace to speak and do." And a good man, or woman, or child, is one who tries to please God, to love and fear and obey Him, and to be like His beloved Son, our Saviour.

The Christian Advocate.

THURSDAY, JUNE 26, 1879.

For the New Orleans Christian Advocate.

TO THE NEWLY DEAD.

BY TRANSIENT.

Farewell! farewell! thou 'rt gone, thou 'rt gone, far hence!
The doors and lattice of thy thought and sense,
Against our tenderest plea, our keenest cry,
Are shut and barred, and dead their keepers lie!
And never more thy tuneful lips will play
To the sweet airs of sympathy for aye.
Thy boundless love has spent its meed of breath—
Thou 'rt ours no more; thou 'rt claimed of God and Death!
Yet warm around thy heart the ou hers thrill,
Their parting cheer thy lips are smiling still;
And still the faithful air, with sounding spell,
Murmurs the echo of thy last farewell!
Oh! life and death at one with thee abide;
Two worlds meet at thy couch; and we beside,
We see Eternity's o'er rushing tide!
And thou art fair—not that each feature lies
Calm at the touch of Death; and thy sad eyes,
To tears born, have done their task, and close
Forever to the flow of earthly woes;
Not that thy hands, no more to service pressed,
Have fallen into the mould of delicate rest;
And every rage of life withdrawn its sign—
Ah, no! a holier beauty far is thine,
A halo fair; and whence, whence doth it shine?
No sunbeam lights thine eye, thy ringlet glints;
No pulsing air thy feature moulds or tints;
Blanched are the rose buds on thy cheek, an vein
Shall spread them into vermeil bloom again;
No more with buoyant grace thy form is rife—
Thy marvelous beauty comes of earth nor life!
But say! thy spirit, in the eternal light,
In the celestial guise and garnish bright,
Awhile, with faithful fondness, do 'tarry
Beside the relic of its mortal day,
Lending this beauty to the heavee allied,
A reflex of the lingering glorified?
And who is he, the power that claimeth thee?
We call him Death and shrink—but who is he?
Though seven fold darkness be his guise, and though
Secret and Dread his name, he is no foe!
So kind he bears thee in his viewless arms!
So calm he soothes us in our wild alarms!
Is he an angel from the brightest heaveo,
The kindliest ministrant to Christians given,
To rend the weary manacles of clay,
And ope the latt'ce of eternal day?
Yes! in the rest that sanctifies thloo eye,
The calm that lulls thy lips, we meet reply:
We will not tremble then, we will not fear,
What time he calls us from our sorrows hore,
And points us upward to our Heavenly goal,
And bids us try the plulons of the soul.

Buried Beneath the Rubbish.

Sisters! friends! let us not bury our talents beneath our household cares and other labors. Let us not fold them away in a napkin, but consecrate them to the use of every good and noble purpose; for to us belongs the important task of molding the minds of our little ones, and a mother's influence can be of untold weight either for good or ill.

So let us struggle on, though we may meet with many disappointments; for it is by trials and sufferings we are purified. With weary footsteps and aching hearts we often feel as if our burthens are greater than we can bear; and oh! the bitter wail of anguish that rises to a mother's lips for the little forms that have passed away in their sweet innocence. O murmur not, for by faith we may be enabled to see the bow of promise sent by a Heavenly Father's love to gild the darkest hour and the sable gloom of adversity, only to teach us to rely on His protecting care. Let us faint not, but pray to Him for strength to perform the various duties devolving upon us, for it is a sweet task of love to guide our children through the fair fields of knowledge, and cull for them some of the choice buds; to bloom and adorn their youthful minds when we perhaps are in the silent tomb. How sweet the reflection to think that they will always remember "My mother taught me so;" for a mother's memory may be like a white-winged messenger robed with love, to win the wanderer back to the path of duty.

Remember we have the promise of the Bible, that if we "train up a child in the way he should go; when he is old he will not depart from it." O how important for us to teach them to call upon their "Creator in the days of their youth," and guide them to the fountain of truth and happiness—to that Book of books, the Holy Bible—and slake their youthful thirst with draughts from its soul soothing waters. Their homage will be as sweet incense, and brighten the hours of riper years; for to be truly great they must be good.

Let us weary not, but let duty be our watchword; and though ours is not the flowery path of ease, still with brave hearts let us soar for those elysian fields, there to receive the crown whose fair flowers never fade, but bloom in eternal sunshine; and may the beacon that guides us to our heavenly home be the mild rays of the Star of Bethlehem.

THE ITINERANT'S WIFE.

BLACK RIVER, LA., 1879.

Note by the Editor.—The above was published by us in 1874, and was written by Mrs. Helen Foster Wailes, whose obituary appears in the present number of the ADVOCATE. And by it, she being dead, yet speaketh.

From the Work.

THE NEW CHURCH IN NATCHITOCHES, LOUISIANA.

MR. EDITOR: On the first day of June the new Methodist Church in the town of Natchitoches, La., was dedicated by Rev. Christian Keener, presiding elder of Alexandria district.

Rev. J. B. Walker, of New Orleans, had the honors of this dedication service, being chosen by the pastor to deliver the dedication sermon, his not being present, owing to delay of the boat, saved him the labor, but not the honor, for the congregation, never having seen Rev. Dr. Walker, were none the wiser when the pulpit was filled by another, also a stranger to them. The charm, however, was broken by the arrival of the doctor "in propria persona," and by his preaching at night, to the edification and delight of all who heard. It was too late for regrets, for the collection had been raised and the church dedicated. We heard several comments on the two sermons—Dr. Walker's morning sermon and evening sermon. There was considerable surprise manifested when the truth came out. The only sufferers were the disappointed.

The church is a beautiful, well situated building, and one of the best improvements in the town for the last quarter of a century. It is under the blessings of God, the result of the faithful work of one man—Rev. Thomas J. Hough. I find that all great works are inaugurated, carried on and completed on this one man principle. The world is redeemed by one man—Jesus Christ. There it stands a great sermon to all who see it, and know the history of the church's struggles in this grim old town, the stronghold once of Catholicism and infidelity. It may be his first great sermon and it may be his last, for a mysterious Providence has stricken our brother and laid him upon a bed of sickness, at the very moment when his presence seemed to be necessary to the completion of the work. Bro. Hough has been sick for some two months, and confined to his bed for the last thirty days, suffering under general prostration. The evening before the dedication he had a stroke of paralysis, which, we thought, was the final summons to a more glorious work and higher service of his Lord, but he rallied from the stroke sufficiently to talk and converse with his friends. His situation, up to the time of our leaving, was quite critical. His friends and brethren were watching, hoping and praying for his recovery, and that he might be saved to the church, which could so ill spare him in this hour of its triumph and need.

Bro. Hough himself is calmly waiting on God with a full, strong faith. His mind, though clouded and unable to grasp many things, is clear and strong in its apprehension of spiritual things—delighting in prayer and the word of God. The hand of disease has not weakened his faith's hold on God. We left Bro. Liverman with him, and wait anxiously some news of his present condition.

The collection amounted to the sum of $560, leaving a balance still due on the church. The whole cost being something more than $4000.

C. KEENER.

GREENSBORO DISTRICT, ALABAMA CONFERENCE.

MR. EDITOR: Your field notes, many of them, remind me of the advertisements of patent medicines—tell of all the cures, but say nothing of the deaths. These good brethren tell of all the good, but say but little of the bad. Perhaps this is best. It is gratifying and encouraging to know of any good anywhere, and pastors and godly brethren should restore the weak and halting to the spirit of quiet meekness, telling the errors of their faults between themselves, and not give occasion to the ungodly to speak evil of the church of God. I think it would be a blessing to the cause of Christ if every pastor was required to furnish quarterly reports for publication. Then one portion of the church would know what the other portion was doing, and all would be provoked to good works. Your new publisher is evidently a man of snap and enterprise. The preachers feel the impulse of his wise business arrangements, and are doing, in most instances, their utmost to enlarge the patronage of the ADVOCATE.

Greensboro district, Alabama Conference, reports the following good things: Eutaw repairs and remodels her church house. Money all raised without suppers or fairs, or dramatic performances. Greensboro proposes to repair, and perhaps remodel her church house; expect every dollar to accomplish the work to be given by the church and a generous public. Mount Carmel, on the Newbern circuit, will build a new house. Seven hundred dollars raised at last quarterly meeting, and five or six hundred more will be added. York Station, on the Cuba circuit, has $500 subscribed to build a new church house, and will secure enough, doubtless, to erect a nice house. Sumptervllle, on the Gainesville circuit, will repair and perhaps remodel their house soon. Livingston will repair and perhaps move their building nearer the center of the town.

Earnest efforts are being made by the pastors to build or buy parsonages on the Gainesville, Greene, Butler and Newbern circuits.

Indications of revival pretty general on the work. Pastors all at their posts, and hopeful of success.

S. H. COX.

FORKLAND, ALABAMA.

MR. EDITOR: I am happy to inform you that the Forkland circuit is improving spiritually. Better congregations at all the appointments than the two previous years. Two flourishing Sunday-schools. One prayer meeting kept up at Forkland. Three appointments on the work, and three excellent church buildings, all in good repair. The parsonage needs a good deal of repair. We have suffered much from sickness. Lost two of our prominent female members—Sisters Annie Bird and Cornelia Taylor. They are missed much in the church and community. We have an appreciative, refined people on the entire circuit. We have a very small white population. The entire membership of the circuit is 82, and they are assessed: For preachers in charge, $600, and the Conference assess added, makes the tax heavy for the membership; but I never hear any complaint. This is one of the finest farming sections of the State. Crops are looking well. Bishop Wilmer preached here on the first of June; confirmed a class of ten; created quite a sensation. They have organized a Sunday-school, and arranging to build a church in Forkland.

Most respectfully,

D. J. WRIGHT.

JUNE 10, 1879.

SEASHORE DISTRICT, MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

MR EDITOR: The Seashore District Conference of the Mississippi Annual Conference met at Pearlington, Friday, June 13, 1879, at nine A. M. Rev. John A. Ellis, presiding elder, in the chair. Bishop Keener arrived during the day, and presided over the Conference during the session. Rev. Linus Parker, D. D., editor of our ADVOCATE, was with us, representing the interest of the paper, Rev. J. A. Ivy was also with us, representing the Southwestern Bible Society.

All the works were represented except two, and the reports show a forward progress and healthy condition of the church.

A report from the Board of Trustees of Seashore camp ground was received, read and accepted. John Poitevent and Dr. E. F. Griffin were elected by the Conference members of the board.

The following committee was appointed on the question of establishing a district school, as follows: Revs. John A. Ellis, I. W. Cooper and Robert Babbington.

A resolution was adopted endorsing our ADVOCATE and urging the necessity of placing it in every Methodist family.

Also one returning our heartfelt thanks to the good people of Pearlington and vicinity for their hospitality to us.

The following delegates were elected to the Annual Conference: Robert Babbington, J. L. Russ, George Wood and Irvin Roberts, L P. Alternates—A. Evans, E F. Griffin, J. E. Smith.

Amite City was chosen for the place of holding the next District Conference.

J. L. RUSS, Secretary.

MARION, MISSISSIPPI.

MR. EDITOR: Old Marion circuit is evidently taking on new life The interest manifested on the part of the official members, and the love and sympathy shown by them in looking after the comforts of their pastor, and in building up the various interests of the entire charge, show a decided improvement.

Our second Quarterly Conference convened at this place on the seventh instant, and closed on the eighth, with services at night, and a good prospect. One of the most encouraging features of this occasion was the full and prompt attendance of the official members of the charge. How pleasant and encouraging it is for the preacher and presiding elder to be met in full force by the officials of the Quarterly Conference, who with pleasant words and cheerful hearts are enlisted in the various enterprises of the church! It carries us back to the days of yore, when the fresh fires of our holy religion were kindled upon the altars of Methodism.

H. M. GILMORE.

JUNE 12, 1879.

ALEXANDRIA DISTRICT, LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.

MR. EDITOR: In the Alexandria district one need not ride far in any direction without coming to a praying place; not places "where prayer is wont to be made," so much as places where prayer must be made, as the only thing appropriate under the circumstances.

One round in the dry, and one round in the wet season, will be sufficient to make any one understand the force of the Saviour's exhortation: "Men ought always to pray, and not to faint."

Sometimes the praying place is found in a hill to ascend or descend—the road by way of a slant in three ways, with a steep gully fluted surface to move on. Pray before you ascend. Sometimes the praying place is just at the edge of a slough. Three ways to cross it, and no choice; all show trouble Think of your home, your unprofitable life. Pray and enter the drive by any of the three routes, or, with the independence of a perfect abandon of faith, strike out a new way as a warning to some fellow-traveler. You may find it the horrible pit, and the miry clay from which, when you are lifted, you will find a new song in your mouth—prayer has become praise. Through some deep water I came to the spot from which Richmond Nalle went up to his reward. The banks of the stream are yet sacred with the presence of Nalle's Saviour. The second round of the second year in the district is almost completed, and this is the first communication. I feel that I have waited too long—the field is large, the notes are legion. I can think of doing no more than just touching some of fresher points of interest.

The preachers are all at their works—preaching the gospel without money, but not without price. They are getting along somehow. How they do it is a mystery which cannot be explained on the principles of economy on their part, nor of honesty on the part of the church. The presiding elder has been serving the church, as well as the State, by preaching the gospel and enforcing the discipline.

The preachers in charge have the circuits well in hand. The experience meetings are healthier in tone, and on the whole the general outlook is more Christian and hopeful.

The dedication of the new and beautiful church in Natchitoches, in the place of Rev. J. B. Walker, of your city, was one of the facts without commeut in my last round.

C. KEENER, P. E.

WASHINGTON CIRCUIT, LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.

MR. EDITOR: I have added ten members to our list since Conference, and can now report about 120 members (minutes report 153.)

This is the hardest field, religiously, into which I have been called to labor. I found no class meeting in the circuit, which is a good index to the spirituality of the church. The prayer meetings had all died out, and all the Sabbath-schools had gone into winter quarters. Two of the schools had been dead nearly or quite a year.

We have reorganized the schools; have two prayer meetings in operation, and one weekly class meeting in Washington, which is well attended, and is a special means of grace to many hearts. God has blessed our labors to the conversion of several souls, and two have professed the experience of entire sanctification. O that all our preachers would earnestly seek the baptism of the Holy Ghost, and the fire of pure love! Then there would be no complaining of those few who are, in a Wesleyan and scriptural way, endeavoring to lead the church of God on to holiness and to heaven.

Your brother in Jesus,

J. E. WYNN.

JUNE 9, 1879.

Obituaries.

REV. FRANCIS WALKER died May 27, 1879, about six o'clock P. M. He was in the fifty-third year of his age. Nearly the whole of his life had been spent in the service of God as an itinerant Methodist preacher. In or about (we have no Conference records to report) the year 1849 or 1850 Bro. Walker was admitted on trial in the Alabama Conference In 1854 he was ordained deacon by Bishop Andrew. In 1857 ordained elder by Bishop Early. In this Conference Bro. Walker labored many years, filling important circuits, stations and districts. From the rugged mountains of North Alabama, to the bleached, sterile sands of Florida's coast, his voice as God's faithful watchman, was heard And doubtless thousands in Alabama and in Texas will rise up in the day of God's reckoning and call him blessed, as one under God who led them to Christ by his real and faithfulness. In 1869 he was located by the Montgomery Conference, and became a member of the Alabama Conference. In December 17, 1872, he was located by this Conference, and became a member of the Mississippi Conference, which Conference gave him a location at his request, December 28, 1874. This location Bro. Walker sought in view of associating with one of the Texas Conferences. But owing to circumstances, he was detained en route to Texas, and on his arrival did not see his way open to re-enter the traveling connection until the last two or three years. When anxious to do so, he found the North Texas Conference, in whose bounds he had cast his lot, a crowded as to induce him to defer, from time to time, the presentation of his certificate for readmission. Having been intimately associated with Bro. Walker for many years in the Alabama Conference, before my transfer to the then East, now North Texas Conference, in 1858, when in the providence of God our lots were once more cast together, on the Lone Oak circuit Hunt county, on which circuit Bro. Walker was sent as a supply, he often said the great blunder of his life was in leaving his own dear old Alabama Conference, and risking the adventures of a new and strange land. It was his opinion, after a costly experience, that preachers who had labored long and efficiently with the old Conferences had far better stay there. Many of us who have ventured in this experiment indorse his views, head and heart. Our old Alabama brethren, as also many in Texas, will be happy to know that Bro. Walker died as he had lived and preached. After being attacked by malarial hematuria, he passed rapidly away—the mind was constantly clouded. Two days before his death reason was dethroned, only when aroused for the moment. The morning before his death he was aroused to recognition. When asked if that bright world for which he had so long prayed, talked and preached was in view, he promptly answered that it was.

Thus quickly passing into a deep stupor, he continued to sleep until life's storm was over, merging but into that sweeter sleep which is in Jesus. Our brother leaves his beloved Eliza behind. With her, hand in hand, and heart in heart, he had walked the rough and rugged road of an itinerant for over a quarter of a century. Bro. Walker, in former years, knew how to abound; in these latter days how to want. May the smiles of our Lord rest with the bereaved wife and five children.

J. B. HAMB.

REV. ROBERT WEST departed this life December 14, 1878, at his son's, in Sharkey county, Miss. Bro. West was the son of William and Mary West. He was born August 7, 1807, in Sumner county, Tenn.; was married to Miss Margare Tidwell, of Sumner county, Tenn., September 10, 1828; professed religion and joined the Methodist Episcopal Church about the year 1829. Shortly after he was licensed to preach the gospel. His oldest son, William West, at whose house he died, says his father was a preacher as long ago as he can remember. He left Tennessee in 1844, and moved with his wife and children to Mississippi, and settled in Rankin county, near Brandon. He removed from Rankin, and settled in Lauderdale county, Miss. Here I became acquainted with Bro. West in 1852. I only knew him to love him. He was one of our very best men. I have in my hands a recommendation for deacon's orders from the fourth Quarterly Conference of Lauderdale circuit, Alabama Conference, September 5, 1850, signed William A. Smith, P. E., B. F. Parke, Sec. This is all the papers I could get.

Sister MARGARET WEST, wife of Rev. Robert West, departed this life in Lauderdale county, Miss., March 1, 1878. Sister West was the daughter of Isaac and Sarah Tidwell, and was born in Sumner county, Tenn., April 13 1803. She professed religion and joined the Methodist Episcopal Church when quite a young girl, and we often say she lived consistent; but Sister West surely was one of the very best and most devoted Christians I ever knew. I always felt that I was a better man when I could spend some time with them at their homes. These aged servants of God, and the church, was spared to see all their children grown, married and doing well, and they received them home to rest from labor.

LITTLE MARY W. WEST, daughter of William and Ellen West, departed this life in Sharkey county, Miss., October 26, 1878. She was born in Clarke county, Miss., September 14, 1872. She was a very remarkable child for uprightness of mind and intelligence, and always felt that Christ had claims upon her. She would often ask her mother questions about the Saviour. The parents should feel that they have an additional tie to heaven.

THOS. Y. ARMSTRONG.

HELEN FOSTER WAILES, wife of Albert M. Wailes, and daughter of David M. Smoot and Damaris Foster, was born at "Helena" Plantation, Tensas parish, La., November 27, 1846, and died in peace with her Maker, in Catahoula parish, La., June 2, 1879, aged thirty-two years and some months.

Her childhood life was bright and sunshiny—admired by all who knew her for her unusual sprightliness, and loved by her friends for her sweetness of disposition.

She made good use of her opportunities in acquiring an education, and progressed with astonishing rapidity in her studies; and though the breaking out of the late war prevented a thorough completion of her education yet she succeeded in acquiring from varied sources, quite a fund of general information, which enabled her on all occasions, without effort, to render herself agreeable and entertaining to her friends.

She was married to Albert M. Wailes on the second of September, 1863. She was the mother of six children, all of whom survive her. She united with the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, in the year 1864, under the ministry of the Rev. Wm. McLaughney. In all of the varied relations and departments of life she was a true woman. Being brought up to ease and comfort, she accepted the situation brought upon her family by the adversities of war, and cheerfully took upon herself the performance of domestic duties that proved to be too burdensome for her frail and delicate frame. In regulating her household affairs, and in the control and government of her children, she manifested considerable management, and her economy was such that she was truly a helpmeet to her husband The intellectual, moral and religious training of her children was ever uppermost in her mind, and occupied a considerable portion of her time and energies, and to her they are chiefly indebted for any such opportunities they have enjoyed. The Home Sunday-school was early established in her house hold, and was never omitted unless there was a public Sunday-school for her children to attend. As an itinerant's wife the fact of her having while in that sphere made many warm and sympathizing friends who will no doubt cherish her memory with love and affection, fully justifies us in saying that she filled that station with credit to herself and husband. She was a woman of principle and though she might have sometimes erred in judgment, she made no compromise with what she knew to be wrong.

But yet by nature she was not perfect. Speaking after the fashion of the world we would pronounce her faultless; but when we bring her life alongside the Gospel standard, her worldly virtues are transformed into Christian inconsistencies, showing how frail and full of sin we all are by nature, and how applicable to all the prayer "God be merciful to me a sinner."

There was a hidden pride about her nature that amounted almost to haughtiness; and though on the whole she was seemingly resigned to God's will, this spirit was more fully evident in the sunshine of prosperity, but when the tide of trouble rose high, and the storm of adversity fell upon her, she manifested a spirit of open rebellion against God's providence Herein was the renewing power of the Gospel exhibited in her case, God's love coming in mercy to her; in the storm and in the tempest, and gently whispered: "Whom the Lord loveth he chasteneth," and she disrobed herself of the mantle of self righteousness, and adorned herself with the garment of Christian humility, and then her hitherto rebellious spirit was enabled to say: "Not my will but Thine be done." Her whole character was gradually being freed from a spirit of worldliness, and gradually approximating the pattern and model of Christian perfection, and during the latter part of her life she manifested a spirit of Christian resignation that was truly wonderful

She had passed through the Refiner's fire and was being made perfect through suffering She gave no public expression to her inmost feelings, and but few knew her real sentiments but yet, the manifest changes wrought in her nature, together with her fervent prayers on her death-bed, has left the firm belief and fond hope fully formed that she is safe.

Her love to her husband was unbounded, and such was her self sacrificing spirit and devotion to her whole family, that we might almost say that she died that others might live

Her husband.

ALBERT M. WAILES.

ALLEN D. THOMS, SR., died at his residence in West Feliciana parish, August 2, 1878. Brother Thoms was converted and joined the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, in 1847, since which time his neighbors and friends say he led a consistent Christian life. He was never very demonstrative, but on suitable occasions he was ready and willing to give a reason for the hope within him. He had a vital personal experience—a knowledge of the great truth that his sins were remitted. His soul rejoiced in realization of the precious truth. The spirit itself beareth witness with our spirit that we are the children of God. He also realized the truth of another important teaching, viz: "In this world ye shall have tribulation," but amid the sorrows and disquietudes incident to distress of a peculiar nature, he maintained his integrity and came out of it all as gold purified and refined by the fire.

Brother Thoms was a good neighbor, an affectionate father, a devoted husband, a faithful Christian, and last, though not least of the many good qualities, we may mention his industry. He followed literally the injunction of the wise man, "whatsoever thy hand findeth to do, do it with thy might." He worked faithfully to advance his temporal interests, but best of all, he endeavored in accordance with the gospel plan, to "work out his own salvation with fear and trembling."

He was sick four months, but during all those painful days and sleepless nights he patiently awaited the coming of his change. He never murmured or complained, but prayed daily for sustaining grace to say cheerfully: "Thy will be done."

A short time before his death, in an interview with his pastor, he declared that death had no sting for him

He passed through great tribulation, but ever maintained his christian integrity, and we have good reason to believe that he will appear finally among those who have "washed their robes and made them white in the blood of the Lamb."

WILLIAM MASON was born in Baltimore, Md., December 16, 1799; moved to Louisiana in 1826; married Miss Lori da Prewett January 6, 1835; joined the Methodist Church in 1840; and died at his home in Opelousas, La., February 4, 1879. He was a good neighbor, a useful citizen, a lovick, unselfish husband, and a devoted Christian. His life had in it many of those excellencies which so much adorn the Christian name and character. So uniform was his piety that his life could be known by his conduct for one day. The light of his religious life shone brightly and constantly, and shed its luster on those around. It could not be otherwise than that such a life should end peacefully. As his end drew near, he often spoke of his love for the church, and prayed for its unity. He said to his aged companion: "Wife, God is love; and the blood of Jesus Christ cleanseth from all sin." Once he said: "I hardly know whether I am in heaven or not." At another time he exclaimed: "The room is full." The dying Christian seemed to catch a sight of the angel's convoy that waited to bear his tried spirit into the presence of his God.

The sun of his life set without a cloud; the victor in life was the victor in death; a really noble life ended peacefully, and the soldier of the cross laid down his armor to take up his crown.

J. B. HARRIS.

MRS. ELIZA ELVIRA DICKINSON daughter of Thomas and Olivia Legg, and consort of the late John P. Dickinson of the Alabama Conference, was born in Jackson county, Georgia, January 28 1808, and departed this life at the residence of her son-in-law, Wm. M. Murphree, Troy, Alabama, April 7, 1879. She was given to God in holy baptism in infancy, and in early life recognized her relation to the Methodist Episcopal Church. On the first day of September, 1825, she was married to Rev. J. P. Dickinson, then of the Georgia Conference. Sister Dickinson was the mother of six children, all of whom save Dr. Jas. H. Dickinson and Mrs. Mary O. Murphree preceded her to the spirit world. To her widowhood she lived near Troy, Alabama, in the vicinity of a church where her husband often preached and under the shade of which his remains and those of her son Rev. J. F Dickinson, await the resurrection morn For a long time her health was quite feeble. Last Fall she came to spend a time with her daughter, and to have the advantage of proper medical treatment Her disease was dyspepsia. She gradually grew weaker, and for months before her death was unable to take any exercise. It was my privilege to see her frequently and to watch the close of her long, cheerful and useful life. No murmur escaped her lips and no cloud obscured her spiritual vision. She was ready to depart, assured of peace with God. At seven minutes past twelve o'clock A. M., she gently and peacefully fell asleep in Jesus, and her remains await beside her departed loved ones till called forth with a likeness that will satisfy.

S. A. FULLER.

MRS HARRIET JULIA wife of D. W. M. Bryant died on the morning of May 10, 1879, at her residence in Clarke county Alabama The subject of this brief memoir was born in Shelby county, Alabama October 15 1841. Raised by pious Meth dist parents, she joined the church in early life; was educated in Talladega, Talladega county, Ala.; married July 29, 1860.

On the morning of the tenth of May, as Aurora began a wing the earth with brilliant pearl and the first beams of a beautiful and bright day began tinting the dew drops and passing in the solemn chamber, the angel of death, called in his summons, while came and bore her soul away to Christ. The pearly gates of heaven swung ajar, and there entered as pure a spirit as ever left earth.

Two little children on earth she left with a blessing to her husband and their God, and twelve in heaven, whom she has gone to join.

Weep not dear children, dry up your tears husband! The tomb mother, the noble wife, the pure spirit shall see God. The Lamb's book of life is replete with consolation to the bereaved ones and without such glorious consolation those who are left to mourn her loss would have no hope. But thanks to the Giver of every good and perfect gift, they are sustained and soothed in the real affliction by this gracious promise: "Thy will, O Lord," not mine be done. Dead is dear mother, saith her darling children; good bye dear wife, responds.

MRS CORNELIA TAYLOR was born in North Carolina, November 26 1826 and departed this life in Forkland, Green county, Ala. April 28, 1879. She was first the wife of J. H. Brasse and after his death she married Dr. J. C. Taylor She was a great but patient sufferer for many years with the wasting consumption. A kind and faithful husband is left to mourn over one who has been with him in joy and sorrow Two motherless grandchildren are deprived of her tender care and religious training, who studied to make them happy here, and prepare them for meeting hereafter. By this sad providence a gloom has come over our church. She loved the church, and labored for its good. The doors of her house and heart were ever open to God's ministers to share her liberal hospitality. The writer visited her often during her illness, and conversed with her freely about her future hopes and prospects. She expressed no fears of death, met it bravely and calmly, and manifested that Christian fortitude which the grace of God can only give under such extreme suffering. We would summon to our aid and comfort her memory; review her life of unostentatious piety, consider her present fidelity, and say the Lord's will be done.

D. J. WRIGHT.

MRS RETENNIE M. JORDAN, wife of A. B. Jordan, died at her residence near Hillsville, Jones county, Miss., April 8, 1879, in maiden name was Deason; aged forty-four years and eight months. She was a consistent member of the Methodist Church. Her house was a home for the preachers; her hands were ever ready to help the poor; she was a kind and faithful wife and mother, and a hospitable neighbor. She leaves a husband and six children, a mother and many friends to mourn her loss. We sincerely sympathize with her family in their bereavement.

T. J. MILLER.

The Christian Advocate.

THURSDAY, JUNE 26, 1879.

THE FOOLS PRAYER.

The royal feast was done; the king
Sought some new sport to banish care,
And to his jester cried: "Sir Fool,
Kneel now, and make for us a prayer!"

The jester doffed his cap and bells,
And stood the mocking court before;
They could not see the bitter smile
Behind the painted grin he wore.

He bowed his head, and bent his knee
Upon the monarch's silken stool;
His pleading voice arose: "O Lord,
Be merciful to me, a fool!

"No pity, Lord, could change the heart
From red with wrong to white as wool;
The rod must heal the sin; but, Lord,
Be merciful to me, a fool!

"'Tis not by guilt the onward sweep
Of truth and right, O Lord, we stay;
'Tis by our follies that so long
We hold the earth from heaven away.

"These clumsy feet, still in the mire,
Go crushing blossoms without end;
These hard, well-meaning hands we thrust
Among the heart-strings of a friend.

"The ill timed truth we might have kept—
Who knows how sharp it pierced and stung?
The word we had not sense to say—
Who knows how grandly it had rung?

"Our faults no tenderness should ask,
The chastening stripes must cleanse them all;
But for our blunders—oh, in shame
Before the eyes of Heaven we fall.

"Earth bears no balsam for mistakes;
Men crown the knave and scourge the tool
That did his will; but thou, O Lord,
Be merciful to me, a fool!"

The room was hushed; in silence rose
The king, and sought his gardens cool,
And walked apart, and murmured low,
"Be merciful to me, a fool!"

—Atlantic.

The Hegira.

Every age has been marked by its distinctive nitro-syncrasy, which has given cause for hope or fear, as the weal or woe of the masses are affected thereby. The distinctive feature of this age, in all classes and sections, is unrest—a desire to change with the least possible regard to the consequences. That so great a rush from the merest impulse, showing in many instances an almost complete dethronement of reason, should follow such revolutions and evolutions of State and society, as we have so recently experienced, is a thing to be expected as naturally as that an effect should follow a known cause.

Yet, however well authenticated and far out of reach of the well wishes of society and the higher interests of human souls, the promise may be: the Christian philosopher cannot view its activities nor contemplate its direful sequences with placid indifference. Conscious impotency, growing out of any cause whatsoever, to remedy the evil, may palsy the strong arm and strike with dumbness lips that would speak with burning fervor. But even then the heart looks to the source of help with that agonizing earnestness with which the suffering infant gazes into the face of its mother, with no words to tell its pains.

Thus does the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, look upon the negro hegira, not that we are apprehensive that our fertile soil will not be cultivated, and we deprived of its rich annual products. Far less do we fear this than the manufacturer does the strike of his hands on account of wages, as he knows others are ready to take the deserted place, so to we know that emigration will come to our aid, that is now kept away because it cannot compete with colored labor. Our interests as a church are impelled by higher motives than mere temporalities. They have an interest in the blood of Christ, and it is this we have and will guard while a merciful Providence suffers us to remain together.

Yet with all our interest in them our forces have been palsied. With a sense of our utter helplessness upon us we have had to stand by and witness the most gigantic efforts to persuade them into this hegira from more than many poor whites of the North enjoy, to the wilderness without "the cloud by day or the fire by night." And we have waited, watched and prayed for one protesting voice from our brethren of the Methodist Episcopal Church. But, alas! we have hoped in vain. One word, only one, from them to their over two hundred thousand members among them would have stilled. Yet the Christian world is shocked with amazement by the knowledge that that word was never spoken. Their church organs were the ready instruments in the hands of politicians to urge the poor negro on to certain ruin, that a single political end might be achieved. Then, as if to hide their work in a shameful achievement, they wrote long and sneering editorials, calling on Southern Advocates to "wake up and tell us what means this hegira."

They laughed at our discomfiture. Yes, thank God, to us it was a deep spiritual discomfiture. Yet it rests on a pivot, and some day its weight will throw confusion in other's ranks. Sad as is the thought, let our brethren of the Methodist Episcopal Church know that we hold them responsible for every tear shed for bread and for every human sacrifice offered on the altar of this negro hegira. From 1844 to this day they have labored to cut us off from the negro. They have at last succeeded, and to the measure of their success we hold them responsible in time, and we will hold them at the tribunal of God.

J. M. WEEMS.

What Persons Become by Devotion.

Man is a worshiping being. To worship is constitutional with him, but it must be acknowledged by all that he may pay his devotions to unworthy objects. This is common among men, and the effect is evident. The character of men depends upon the object of their worship. Men become assimilated to whatever they are devoted to. A godly man is like God, because he worships God. He is like Him in his disposition and feelings. He is merciful, just and good. The ungodly are those who are unlike God in their disposition and character. A man may be industrious, and he may succeed, too, in the affairs of this life. He may prosper in the world, increase in riches, and not be in trouble as other men, and yet if he be not a worshiper of God he is termed an ungodly man. The moral status of a person is commensurate with the strength of his devotion to his object of worship, whatever may be its character, whether worthy or unworthy. I use the word moral as relating to either right or wrong. Then it follows that any one is good in proportion to the strength of his devotion to God, and is destitute of good in proportion to the strength of his devotion to that which is opposed to God. Without devotion to God there is no power to accomplish good. If a man be not devoted to Christ he may say a thousand times that he forgives his enemies and yet he does not in an evangelical sense. Power to perform this important duty, in the proper sense, comes through our devotion to Christ. We could not believe St. Stephen, the first Christian martyr, to have been sincere, when he was being stoned to death, in uttering the words: "Lord, lay not this sin to their charge," if it had not been for the fact that he had, by his devotion, become assimilated to Christ. He, being like the Saviour, could suffer as He suffered, and manifested the same spirit "when he was tried." Paul, no doubt, would have been driven to despair had it not been for his devotion to Christ, for he suffered everything that a chilling and unjust world felt disposed to place upon him. Who can estimate the worth of St. Paul?

We do not measure a man religiously by what he knows, neither by his finances nor by the number of his friends, but simply by his devotion, and it is his devotion to God that makes him "the salt of the earth" and "the light of the world." Upon the other hand, it is a man's devotion to the world that makes him a child of the devil and a subject of hell.

Adoration is the great secret of all religious power. A preacher may preach so-called "excellent sermons," and deliver reputed, "masterly discourses," and men may praise him for it, and yet if he is not like Christ their influence is of short duration. There are men who write volumes of sermons in good style that will not live after them, and it is simply for the lack of moral strength upon their part. Every thinking man can see that there is a peculiarity about Mr. Wesley's sermons that few others possess, and no doubt but they will live "until all the ransomed church be saved to sin no more," and why is this? The answer is easy. It is because he was a man strongly devoted to God. He did not build upon a false basis. His sermons, we may say, are a true expression of what he was.

The hymns that we sing with the highest degree of interest—those that influence our hearts most—are those written by deeply pious men. The hymns of Mr. Charles Wesley scarcely have a parallel; they are appreciated and sung by all Protestants, or very nearly so at least, and doubtless will be to the end of the world, and the chief reason is because he was a truly devoted man. It seems that his religious power is manifested principally in this way, that is, in his hymns of praise. Certainly nothing but devotion to God will prepare any one for living successfully the life that now is, and for the enjoyment of that which is to come.

L. C. CATHCART.

TUSCOLA, Ala., June 5, 1879.

Money—Its Uses and Abuses.

Money in its place, is a good thing. Out of its place it is a power for evil. For the legitimate purpose of a circulating medium, and for the commercial uses of exchange and trade, it is indispensable. As an instrument to send the gospel to the heathen, and aid in advancing and extending the interests of the Redeemer's kingdom, it is invaluable. When it becomes the object of inordinate affection, and when it is prostituted to illicit uses, it becomes a source of great mischief.

We have long been convinced that an immoderate love of and an overweening trust in wealth is one of the crying curses, one of the damning sins, of this age and of this country. The miser worships his hoarded treasures for the selfish gratification of possession. Fortunately, however, this class of sordid wretches is not very large.

One man loves money because it enables him to live in magnificent style and dashing splendor. Another craves riches for the satisfaction of his fleshly appetites and worldly propensities.

Still another evil of influence lies in the tendency it engenders, and fosters in a spirit of vanity and haughtiness of bearing so contrary to the humility and dependence taught and exhibited by Christianity. But the damaging influence of opulence, to which we desire especially to call attention in this article, is the disposition to erect gold and silver as a standard, not only of commercial values and of pecuniary worth, but of a man's character and standing in the community. As humiliating as the confession may be, justice and truth compel us to make it the possession of or the ability to command a certain amount of money gives a man a passport to the best society, regardless of his intellectual worth or moral excellence. Even under the boasted civilization of the nineteenth century, of which we hear so much, how few men of moderate means are intrusted with positions of honor and profit.

The Bible represents the poor as the object of the special care of the Divine Being, for whom He becomes voluntary surety, and direful maledictions are pronounced against those who oppress the fatherless and the widow. The Apostle Paul, in one of his letters to Timothy, says: "Charge them that are rich in this world, that they be not high-minded, nor trust in uncertain riches, but in the living God, who giveth us liberally all things to enjoy."

God deliver us from the "divers temptations and snares" into which "they that will be rich fall," and from the prevalent mania to accumulate worldly goods, and help us to "lay up treasures in heaven, where neither moth nor rust doth corrupt," and where "riches will take to themselves wings and fly away."

PICKENS.

TULIP, March 28, 1879.

"For He Had Great Possessions."

They too settled his doom. Fatal "possessions" they proved to be. A few moments ago he almost touched the hem of Jesus' garment, in outreaching piety. Everything Jesus named as needful for eternal life he had done. "What lack I yet?" could, as his case looked, have but one answer, viz.: nothing. Heaven sure to him! Ah, but not that answer, nothing, came from Jesus to him. "Go, sell and give what thou hast and follow me." In a moment the young man's aspect alters. He becomes pale. His look goes to the ground. Not another word from his just now buoyant fluency; and "he sorrowfully went away, for he had great possessions." The "for" was the hinge to the turning. On it turned the door of his doom.

What "possessions" did that decisive work on that rare man? Not money necessarily, nor lands, nor houses, nor stocks, nor "business interests." No particular wealth—a miscellaneous property, very like, and little matters it what it was; the terrible work done by it upon him is the thing. "Possessions," things he held as his own, broke the "cords" which were gently drawing him to Jesus. The things which he had turned him from having eternal life. No matter for the kind or number of them; if choice or mean, in mass or in multitude, what they did against his soul—oh, the heart bleeds to read it!

We are like him in one thing—we have possessions—everybody some; many have "great possessions." Oh! no; not of money or what we call "property," perhaps, but personal ownership of what can be used in the same way, and be just as fatal to us as they were to him, viz.: stop us from following Jesus. Our persons, our talents, acquirements, aptitudes, habits, tastes and prejudices, and, too, our friends, our associates, business, office, expections, as well as money and lands, all are "possessions." Everybody has some of these; many have a great store of them.

Anything we have or hope to have, preferred by us to Christ, sets us at once beside that young man at the moment "he went away." A self-admired face on hand; a self-satisfying talent; conceited knowledge; or some secret appetite or longing or lust; or untold bit of pride or minute self will; any one of these may be my possession, which, preferred to Jesus, settles my eternal death.

Ah! these terrible "possessions"! this appalling inheritance stored in our fallen nature, and made so often "great" by lifetime accumulations, how souls repeat that day's "went away sorrowful," and often too after they get so near to Jesus as to ask: "What lack I yet?" and when he replies: "Part with your possessions, on any terms, and follow me." Some reader of this may be standing beside the young man asking the question. Will you be with him in—went away— * * * for?"—Advance.

Religious Intelligence.

—The Free Church of Scotland has recently received a legacy of one hundred thousand dollars.

—The Methodist Protestant Church has had a very successful year since reunion. Thirty-one out of 42 Conferences show a total net increase of 12,560.

—A cargo of banished heathen gods and war clubs, from one of the South Sea Islands, has been announced for sale in London.

—There are now 22 mission stations in the City of Paris, with accommodations for 5,000 persons. The weekly attendance is about 8,000. From 2,000 to 3,000 attend weekly the reunions for young people.

—The report from the Mortlock Islands, obtained from the last trip of the Morning Star, shows that on the nine islands visited there are nine good meeting-houses, and as many parsonages, with good schools at all the stations.

—The Church Missionary Society of England secured the very large sum of $237,930 from the children alone, during the last missionary year. It was all gathered by the little collecting books, cards and boxes that the Society sends out.

—The seventy-fourth Protestant Christian Church is shortly to be built opposite the Colonna Palace, at the outlet of Via Nazionale, Rome, Italy. This shows wonderful progress in ten years in that city.

—Mr. McAll's evangelizing work among the workmen of Paris is exciting the interest of other classes. Madame McMahon's mother and the Countess Schouvaloff and her sister attend the meetings, and the Princess Imperial of Germany has sent for its reports.

—At the invitation of Bishops of the American Episcopal Church, Rev. W. J. Knox Little, Rector of St. Albans, Chestwood, has left England to take part in mission services in several cities of Canada and the United States.

—The London City Mission Society employed last year 348 missionaries, who made nearly 3,000,000 visits; distributed 25,342 Bibles and 3,642,204 tracts, held 11,100 meetings, induced 1,438 persons to become communicants, restored 348, reclaimed 2,153 drunkards and 600 fallen women, and put 4,111 children in schools.

—The English Church Association now has 358 branches, three of which have lately been established in Scotland, and has become one of the largest organizations of the century for the maintenance of Protestant principles in the Church of England. It is organizing operations throughout the kingdom to bring the subject of ritualism before candidates for parliament at the coming election.

—Some of the most flourishing missions in South Africa are under the control of German missionary societies. During the recent war in Zululand, one of the mission stations was destroyed and one of the German missionaries badly treated by the British troops, and now Germany calls upon the British government for an apology.

—As to Christian converts in China, the Rev. W. Fleming Stevens of the Presbyterian Church in Ireland says he has never seen anywhere in Christian lands Christian men and women of higher type, or a higher spiritual experience, than some whom he met in China. And of Chinese preachers he says he has never heard sermons which impressed him more.

—At the end of last year a small party of the China Inland Mission made an interesting journey from Chung-king, in Szechuen, to Kingchow, Kansu. About half the distance has probably not before been traversed by Europeans. The country was very mountainous, and in parts the road was supported on beams and iron bars let into the face of the cliff.

—The Congregationalist says: The American Board enrolls to-day nine less ordained missionaries than five years ago. Few young men are offering themselves, though at least twenty are needed for reinforcing present fields and for prospective enlargement, including eight for Turkey and four for Northern China. The receipts of the board for the first eight months of the present financial year are $24,000 less than for the corresponding months last year. Legacies, including $40,000 already received from the Otis estate, have declined $27,000, though donations have advanced $3,000.

—The British Society for the Propagation of the Gospel among the Jews celebrated its thirty-sixth anniversary in Exeter Hall, London, May 6. The Society expended during the year nearly $37,000 in its operations at home and abroad. These have been conducted in London, Manchester, Leeds, Birmingham, Paris, Algiers, Hamburgh, Königsberg, Nuremberg, Stuttgard, Frankfort-on-the-Main, Breslau, Vienna, Pragüe, Limburg, Riga, Odessa, Adrianople and Rome. A mission-house has been opened in Spitalfields, a strongly Jewish quarter of London, and a medical mission established there. The Society also supports a Home for Aged Israelites. One of the speakers, Dr. Josefy, a Jew by birth, stated that at the invitation of the Presbyterian Church he was about to go to Vienna to labor among the Jews there, of whom that city contained 100,000, nearly as many as there were in the whole of England and twice as many as there were in France.

—The report of the Religious Tract Society, presented at the eightieth annual meeting, showed that during the past year of the Society's operations the total receipts of money from all sources amounted to $745,625, and the expenditures to $729,650; $132,085 had been received in donations and subscriptions, the balance of income being secured by sales of books and tracts, &c. Grants of the Society's publications had been made to the value of $216,810; 624 new publications had been issued, of which 217 were tracts. The issues of the Society exceeded those of the previous year by 7,500,000 copies. Grants of tracts had been made for distribution among the soldiers engaged in the Afghan and Zulu wars, and a large expenditure had been incurred for the circulation of tracts at the Paris Exposition. Several instances were recorded, showing that the tracts had been blessed of God in leading souls to Christ, but it was stated in the vast majority of cases the influence exercised was hidden and untraceable. The Earl of Shaftesbury presided, and spoke of the suitableness of the Society's publications for counteracting the pernicious but attractive-looking literature of the day.

—According to Hubner's "Statistical Tables of all the countries of the earth," there are in the German Empire 25,600,000 Evangelical Christians, 14,900,000 Roman Catholics, 28,000 Orthodox Greek Christians, 512,000 Jews, 6,000 of all other denominations or of none. In Austria, Hungary, there are 23,500,000 Roman Catholics, 3,000,000 Evangelical Christians, 7,220,000 Greek and other Christians, 1,375,000 Jews, 5,000 Mohammedans and others. In France there are 36,390,000 Roman Catholics, 600,000 Evangelical Christians, 118,000 Jews, 21,000 Mohammedans and others. In Great Britain and Ireland there are 26,000,000 Protestants of various denominations, 5,500,000 Roman Catholics, 26,000 Greeks, &c., 46,000 Jews, 6,000 Mohammedans and others. In Italy there are 26,660,000 Roman Catholics, 100,000 Greeks, 96,000 Evangelical Christians, &c., 36,000 Jews, 25 Mohammedans and others. In Spain there are 16,500,000 Roman Catholics and 180,000 adherents of other denominations (details are not given.) In European Russia there are 56,100,000 Orthodox Greek Christians, &c., 2,680,000 Evangelical Christians, 7,500,000 Roman Catholics, 2,700,000 Jews and 2,600,000 Mohammedans and others. In Belgium there are 4,920,000 Roman Catholics, 13,000 Reformed Church, 2,000 Jews and 3,000 belonging to other denominations. In the Netherlands there are 2,001,000 members of the Reformed Church, 1,235,000 Roman Catholics, 61,000 Jews and 4,000 of other denominations. In Sweden and Norway 4,162,000 members of the Evangelical Church, 4,000 Greeks and other Christians, and 2,000 Jews; the number of Roman Catholics is not officially given—it is estimated at less than 1,000.

Our Young People.

A SONG.

Little gipsy, winsome gipsy,
Laughing Edna Belle,
Searching low for pigeon berries
In the forest dell.
Making garlands, most fantastic,
Of the forest leaves,
Now a princess, now a fairy,
In her "make believes."
While the morning yet is sweet,
Hearing home with tripping feet
Treasures to our door.
Which is fairest? Who can tell?
Richest, rarest? Edna Belle,
Brightest ever more!

Weary darling, wistful darling,
Thoughtful Edna Belle,
Listening long to grandma's stories
That she loves so well;
Watching now her lengthened shadow
On the cottage wall,
Wondering how, with puzzled gazing,
"She should be so tall."
Kneeling now with folded hands,
—Anchor cast in golden sands,
"Close by 'dream-man's' door;
When to-morrow sees her sail,
May no sorrow fan the gale
From the peaceful shore.

—The Farmer.

From Our Little Friends.

RAYVILLE, La., June 9, 1879.

MR. EDITOR: It does seem with so small an amount I should be more punctual, but it takes wise economy and hard work for a little girl to raise this amount and a nickle to the Sabbath school and a Sabbath Evening Missionary Society, that requires each member to pay a nickle each evening. I was pleased to read of the little girl, "who put a prayer in the box with her nickle," if we all did likewise much good (mamma says) would come of it—I will, in consideration of your time being valuable, close, with my one dollar inclosed for China Mission.

PEARL.

Chicken's Mistake.

"Hear me my dear!" said Mrs. Hen to Chicken Plump, her son, "I fear you are eating too much."

"Oh no," replied the saucy chick "I know how much my crop will hold."

"Cluck, cluck my son! You forget how young you are. Why, you began to peep only four months ago. Now you are quite a chicken, to be sure; but don't think, because your comb is beginning to sprout, that you know more than your elders. We who have picked and scratched for years, have picked up wisdom, and chickens like you should heed what we say."

"Oh dear!" grumbled Chick; "I never do anything right. When I pecked Coquet this morning for getting all the oats, you bounced upon me like a hawk, and nearly pecked my head off. I can never forget on the barnyard gate to flap my wings and crow without your cackling, 'That's father's place; you'd better keep where you belong;' and now you say I'm growing too fat. What's the use, please tell me, of keeping as thin as a feather when there's so much nice grain scattered about?"

"You forget," answered Mrs. Hen "that that's the farmer's way to fatten you for next Thanksgiving. That dreadful day is not far off, and if you be a glutton you will certainly lose your head. Look at me! For six years I've governed my appetite, and here I am. They called me the 'tough' old speckled hen; but what of that? I'd rather be tough and alive than tender and roasted. Take your mother's advice. Remember that moderate eating and a long life are better than gluttony and a hot oven."

Impatient of so much wisdom, Chicken ran off to the sty where he found his friend Neb, the pig.

"Ha, Neb," cried he, "you lazy thing! Why don't you bestir yourself, instead of dozing here all day with such a dirty face?"

"Stir myself!" exclaimed Neb. That's not easily done. Somehow, my legs are getting much too small for me."

"I might give you a little advice, but that's not in my line. You'd better talk with mother, Mrs. Hen. She'd tell you to stop eating, if you don't want to be stuffed and roasted next Thanksgiving day. That's the way she talks to me."

"Stuffed!" repeated Neb, with an angry twinkle in his little gray eyes. "Such stuff will do for half-fledged chickens; but for me—why, I'm worth my weight in corn; yes, thirty times as much. Don't you see how the farmer fills my trough every day with good things, and how pleasant he is when I eat well? Don't that prove he's not going to kill me?"

"Of course," said Chicken gayly. "Guess we know what's what. But there's the farmer. Hope you'll have a good dinner."

So chicken and Neb went on eating and enjoying themselves, till, one dark morning, Chicken was aroused by a terrible squeal. He flew from his perch and ran into the yard. There was poor Neb lying dead, the butcher standing near him with a great knife in his hand.

Chickens, terribly frightened at the sight, ran to hide under a rock.

"What if I should be mistaken?" thought he, "I wish—"

Can you guess, little folks, what he wished? Whatever it was, it came too late; he was roasted for the next Thanksgiving dinner.—Well Spring.

Something for Plain Girls.

No woman likes to be ugly, and she who is born a beauty is fortunate indeed. But let not the plain or even the ugly girl despair of acquiring a sufficient amount of beauty to render her attractive. Do not let a foolish fear, a silly shame, or, worse still, a superstitious prejudice against what is called vanity, prevent you from trying to improve your looks, if you are not naturally a beauty, or from trying to preserve and place at the best advantage the charms which you already possess.

When a woman loses a desire to please, she loses half her charms. Nothing is more conductive to beauty than cheerfulness and good humor; and no morose or unhappy woman can be good humored and cheerful. Then there are vast numbers of ill-tempered women who are ill-tempered because they are ugly. They do not know what is the matter with themselves; neither do their friends know. But the incessant neglect and indifference with which they are treated finally does its work of embittering their feelings until the effect upon their moral character is most perfidious. Every woman ought to understand that nothing short of deformity can make a woman utterly unattractive, provided she will study her points; and points of attractiveness every woman has.

A thoroughly refined, peaceful manner can be acquired by any woman, and is a powerful charm. The best grace is perfect naturalness. Still, you must study yourself, and form your manners by the rule of that art which is but a carrying out of the law of nature. But if it is your nature to be forever assuming some ungainly, ungraceful attitude, pray help nature with a little art. If you are stout, avoid the smallest chair in the room; and be sure, if you do sit on it, not to lean back in it with your arms folded in front of you; just below the line of your waist, especially while the present fashion lasts. If you are thin, do not carry yourself with your chin protruding and your spinal column curving like the bowl of a spoon. Do not wear flimsy material made up without a ruffle or puff or flounce, to fill up the hard outlines of your bad figure, so cruelly defined by the tightly pulled back draperies. Study the art of dress.

We once knew a very plain woman who dressed so tastefully that it was an absolute pleasure to look at her. If you have been moping until you are sick with the thought of your hopeless ugliness, be up and doing. Forget your disappointments; forget the past and the sneers of your own family over the mistakes that you have made. There are still friends to be won. There is work to be done. Rouse yourself, and cast off the enervating distrust of self, and the moral cowardice which forbids you to assert yourself.—Young Woman's Journal.

THE FIRST PEEP INTO A MIRROR. A few weeks ago a company of Siamese women came to see me and to look at my house. They consider it a great treat if I invite them through my rooms and let them look at my bed, my tables, my chairs, my pictures and nick-nacks, and especially if they can get a look at themselves in the mirror on the bureau. One or two of those who came had been here before, and they were telling of how they looked in the glass till the others were all anxious to see, too, so they gathered in a crowd and stood before the mirror. One quick look, and then a surprised, startled cry, and some of them hid their faces, others jumped away, and some looked about to see who was really there. They had never seen themselves before, and did not know how miserable they looked, with their black teeth and naked bodies. They drew their scarfs over their breasts, and tried to hide from the sight of themselves.

One turned to me and said, "We are very hateful looking, don't you think so?" I did not tell them, I had always thought so, but I said, "Now, since you know how you look, is it any wonder that we always tell you to wear more clothes and to quit chewing betel?"

Some of them would not be induced to look the second time, while others stood and stared, as much, perhaps, as you would, if you should see one of them suddenly appear in your streets.

Of late, nearly every Siamese house has some kind of a little glass, four by six inches, perhaps, or it may be a little round one that costs two cents, and is, as one of my girls said, "only large enough to see your nose in." Children's Work for Children.

WHAT BOYS SHOULD BE—First: Be true—be genuine. No education is worth anything that does not include this. A man had better not know how to read—he had better never learn a letter of the alphabet, and be true and genuine in intention, rather than being learned in all sciences, and in all languages, to be at the same time false in heart and counterfeit in life. Above all things, teach the boys that truth is more than riches; more than culture, more than earthly power or position.

Second: Be pure in thought, language—pure in mind and body. An impure man, young or old, poisoning the society where he moves with smutty stories and impure examples is a moral ulcer; a plague spot, a leper who ought to be treated as were the lepers of old, who were to cry, "Unclean!" as a warning to save others from the pestilence.

Third: Be unselfish. Take care for the feelings and comforts of others. To be polite. To be just in all dealings with others. To be generous, noble and manly. This will include a genuine reverence for the aged and things sacred.

Fourth: Be self reliant and self-helpful even from early childhood. To be industrious always, and self-supporting at the earliest proper age. Teach them that all honest work is honorable, and that an idle, useless life of dependence on others is disgraceful.

When a boy has learned these four things, when he has made these ideas a part of his being,—however young he may be, however poor, or however rich,—he has learned some of the most important things he ought to know when he becomes a man. With these four properly mastered, it will be easy to find all the rest.—Home Arts.

The Christian Advocate.

ORGAN OF THE ALABAMA, MISSISSIPPI AND LOUISIANA CONFERENCES OF THE M. E. CHURCH, SOUTH.

THURSDAY, JUNE 26 1879.

REV. LINUS PARKER, D. D., Editor.

OFFICE—112 CAMP ST., NEW ORLEANS.

Praying in the Family.

From all accounts it does seem that there is great negligence in this matter. At a late District Conference we were more than ever impressed with the fact.

Household affairs must be regulated with reference to prayer. One trouble is to find time when all the family can be together, when the wife can leave her domestic work, when the father can make his business wait, and when the children are all in-doors. There must be fixed times for the morning and evening, and every member of the family must plan and arrange in reference to those hours. Where there is a will there is a way. Some time during the day, at least a few moments, can be provided. In some cases it may require early rising in order that there may be prayer in the morning, and at night the family must be gathered early if we would have the children present. Under the best of regulations occasional interruptions will occur, and the difficulties in the way, on account of engagements, business and company, are much greater in some households than in others. Generally it will be found practicable to have family prayers morning and night; possibly some may find it almost impossible, except at night, but, whatever the stress of circumstances, family prayer can be had sometime.

The very intimacies of the family make this duty often more embarrassing than prayer in public. To be easily and comfortably attended to the spirit, temper and conduct at home must be consistent. It is more a matter of spiritual and exemplary living than anything else. There may be exceptionally shrinking and timid natures, to whom it is a cross under all circumstances, but, as a rule, we may affirm that where the head of the house is a converted and godly person, prayer with the family will be a privilege rather than a task.

It is a duty encumbent upon women as well as men. In the absence of the father the pious mother should consider herself called to minister at the family altar. With the consent of an irreligious husband, it would not be unseemly for the pious wife to lead in the devotions. And in the home of widowhood, of all other homes, there should be family prayer. Devoted women all over the church have a special mission to perform in promoting and reviving family prayer. In the domestic arrangements they can do much to facilitate it, and where the husband is engrossed and negligent the wife may help him to greater faithfulness in his duty.

The educating influence of family prayer upon the children cannot be too highly estimated. It makes them respect the religion of their parents; they imbibe insensibly the spirit of prayer, and grow up in the atmosphere of salvation. The family altar will bind the child to Christ and to the truth even more strongly than the Sunday-school. It is the school of prayer where they learn the form and the spirit of prayer, and where they receive the lessons which prepare them for prayerful and holy lives.

The benefit to parents themselves in the conflicts and cares of life is not insignificant. The Scripture read is something for them to feed upon, and it ministers to their peace and spirituality to place their children and themselves, and all their interests, under the wing of Jehovah.

Much is said about the conduct of the prayer meeting. Something may be written about the manner of conducting family prayer. As a rule, the Scriptures should be read in some sort of order, and the lesson should be short, each one present, with Bible in hand, reading a verse in turn, and the Lord's Prayer, repeated by all, should close the morning exercises. The vows: "I renounce the devil, and all his works," and the Apostle's Creed, may also, on occasion, be repeated by the family, and a doxology, or other short hymn, be sung. If possible, let every child take some audible part. The Ten Commandments, the Beatitudes, and other scriptures sometimes recited together, or each a verse in turn, will be both edifying and give variety. We would, however, be bound by no inflexible rules. When time serves, more length and variety; when there is haste, from three to five minutes will suffice.

Our General Rules enjoin family prayer, the Scriptures require it, but it is a duty so obvious, so vital to the soul, so essential to the welfare of the household, that we do not stop to argue. To those who have hitherto neglected this matter we direct our word of exhortation. As you value your own salvation, begin at once. Do not cast about for written forms, but begin to pray with your wife and children. If you have to start with the Lord's Prayer, and a dozen words of your own, begin. If it is a cross, take it up. If inconvenient, study and arrange that you may find the opportunity. You cannot expect to enjoy religion and live in open neglect of so plain a Christian duty. God's blessing cannot rest upon a prayerless house. And your children! How are you to give account for them when you have never prayed with them? Can you wonder that they are careless about religion, or that they should be finally lost when you neglect the most effectual means for their religious training? It is possible that in our straining after other interests we are overlooking the institution that is the oldest and the most vital of all. Christian men and women, fathers and mothers, pray in your families.

No Breath in Them.

The resurrection of the dry bones had two very distinct stages. The bones had come together, and the body had been wrought into a perfect and symmetrical organism under the ministry of prophesying. The dry bones had come to the form of life, but there was no breath in them. They were dead still. Something had been done for them, but it was incomplete. Spiritual life was wanting.

The vision is significant in its application to the state of the church. In too many instances the most essential thing has not been felt at all. An interest has been excited, there has been an awakening, and many have been received into the fellowship of God's people. The first stage in the process has been reached, and there the work has stopped. The work in them has been arrested just where the regenerating power of the Holy Spirit should have been experienced. They have the form of godliness, the profession of it, and a certain conformity to the faith, but they are without life.

In whatever way it has been reached, there are multitudes precisely in this condition. They are midway between the dry bones of the valley and the living army that stands upon its feet in full panoply for the Lord's battle. This half experience may be owing to defective prophesying. The word has been uttered, there has been an appeal that rings through the valley, there have been awakening calls, but the absolute need of the Spirit has not been sufficiently felt and emphasized. If the prophet had left off at the point where the apparent restoration was effected, nothing would have been accomplished. One form of death would have been exchanged for another. But this is what is often done in preaching the word. The converts are gathered, counted, and much is expected of them. But nothing comes of it. They do not stand on their feet, they do not swell the host of active, working, self-denying Christians. The breath of the Spirit has not been invoked upon them. The preacher has done his work only in part. The most essential thing has been neglected. The gospel has not been preached "with the Holy Ghost sent down from heaven."

There are prayerless, worldly, covetous people—people who take no thought for the salvation of the world, and whose relation to the body of Christ is of the most distant and nominal character. Death in the valley of the world, and death in the church and under gospel influences, are not quite the same. The last is perhaps the more alarming, the more serious.

It is time to prophesy unto the wind. Thus saith the Lord God: "Come from the four winds, O breath, and breathe upon these slain, that they may live." "A name to live and are dead" is the impressive statement concerning an ancient church. It holds as to individuals in all churches. There are the semblance and form of life, but there is no breath in them. The life-giving Spirit is needed in the sanctuary, and the gospel preached without His presence is preached in vain.

Notes from Nashville.

BOARD OF MISSIONS.

The Board of Missions held its regular monthly meeting Wednesday, June 11. The necessity of meeting the drafts which are pressing upon the treasury, together with the importance of keeping out of debt, was duly considered. This can be accomplished only by liberal contributions, and by prompt returns of money collected throughout the connection. It is specially desired that Bishops and presiding elders give prominence to this subject at District Conferences. If all the preachers would take up collections, and forward the money at once to the treasurer, he would be able to meet all demands. This is urgently requested. Our mission work was never before so promising, and it will not do to arrest it in its progress. The world must be converted, and we must do our part in the work of conversion. I am glad to see that the Woman's Missionary Society is doing well—the late meeting at Louisville was a success. "Help those women."

THE PUBLISHING HOUSE.

The Book Committee held its monthly meeting last week. It is a year since the new dispensation was inaugurated. The review was encouraging. The committee and agent are determined to succeed. They are disposing of the bonds all the time. The agent, assisted by Dr. Young, is actively and successfully engaged in this work. The business manager, Mr. Palmer, quietly and judiciously manages the affairs of the house. The periodical interest is flourishing—we are doing more in the book line, though we have not the means of publishing all that we could wish. Among the recent publications of the house is a work entitled "Christians, or Disciples." It comprises a pamphlet discussion of the subject suggested by the title, by the Rev. S. Noland, of the Kentucky Conference, and Elder F. G. Allen, of the Campbellite faith and order. First we have "Christians, or Disciples," by Mr. Noland, with an introduction by the Rev. A. H. Redford, D. D.—published some time since at our house. Then "Rev. S. Noland's pamphlet, entitled: 'Christians, or Disciples,' reviewed by F. G. Allen, with an introduction by J. W. McGarvey"—first printed at Lexington, Ky. Then comes "Reply by the Rev. S. Noland to Elder F. G. Allen's Review of 'Christians, or Disciples'—with preface by A. H. Redford, D. D."—which was printed at our house. Then comes "Rejoinder to S. Nolaud's Reply to 'Christians, or Disciples,' Reviewed by F. G. Allen"—followed by "Surrejoinder to F. G. Allen's Rejoinder—by the Rev. S. Noland." All the foregoing make a portly pamphlet of 167 pages. Those who like controversial discussions of this sort will find these pamphlets good reading for the dog-days. It seems to us—though we may be considered partial in our views—that Mr. Noland triumphantly establishes his positions. We commend his powerful argument to all who are seeking light in the premises. This collection of pamphlets is published by agreement of both parties.

VANDERBILT UNIVERSITY.

How quiet is everything this Monday morning on the Vanderbilt grounds. The birds are singing their matins, the University clock strikes the hour, but no chapel bell rings for prayers, no Wesley Hall bell rings for breakfast—all is as quiet as a cemetery. The students are gone—save three or four "theologues"—nearly all the professors and some of their families are gone. The chancellor to his loved Virginia (alas! for the finny tribe that may be within his reach!) Prof. Humphreys to Southwest Virginia, Prof. Buchanan to Emory and Henry (where there is a commencement;) Prof. Lupton to Mexico (inspecting silver mines;) Prof. Sailford has gone with a company of students to East Tennessee on a geologizing and botanizing expedition; Prof. Grandbery is at Athens, Ala., attending a commencement; Prof. Dodd is in Kentucky; Prof. Doggett is about to leave for his beloved Richmond; Dr. Anderson, late tutor at Vanderbilt, whom I had the honor and pleasure of marrying, the other day, to one of Tennessee's most lovely girls, a daughter of the Rev. A. Mizell, has taken his bride to his parental home in Kentucky. He has just received his Ph. D. from Vanderbilt, and is about to fill the chair of chemistry in Central College, Missouri. He will be found worthy and well qualified—a good scholar and a devoted Methodist. By the way, the degree of Ph. D. was also conferred on Mr. Tullis, one of our biblical students, and now a tutor in the University.

The new Vanderbilt Register is published. You see that a School of Pharmacy has been established—Dr. Lupton is the dean. Prof. Olin H. Landreth has been elected to the chair of Civil Engineering. A School of Dentistry has also been established in connection with the University—Dr. W. H. Morgan is the dean. But I must refer you to the Register for full particulars in regard to these matters. A copy of the Register will be sent to any one applying for it. You will see that the biblical students received diplomas at the late commencement—three in the entire course, and seven in the two year's course. We hope these young men will make full proof of their ministry, and endure hardness as good soldiers of Jesus Christ. I ought, perhaps, to say that our commencement was an occasion of great interest. Bishop Pierce was to have preached the commencement sermon, but he was precluded from doing so by ill health. Dr. Milburn supplied his place. He discoursed eloquently on Romans i, 16. The sermon was not lacking in breadth or length, depth or height. In connection with it there was a service of song, conducted by some of the best singers in Nashville—it was a rare treat. Mrs. Craig, the Tennessee Nightingale, sang like an angel. Her brother-in-law, Mr. Dorman, led the choir—he is a maestro, though not by profession. A piece from Handel was exquisitely rendered, and the following ode, composed for the occasion, was admirably sung in the Old Hundredth tune:

Father of lights! with one accord,
Thy works and word proclaim thee Lord—
Reveal thy wisdom, power and love,
To all around, beneath, above.

By faith and science here we trace
Thee, God of nature and of grace;
Though dimly seen, yet seen art thou—
Father of lights! we see thee now!

But when we gain that world of bliss,
Where faith and science both shall cease,
Where floods of light burst from thy throne,
Then shall we know as we are known.

Jehovah Elohim! to thee—
In essence one, in persons three—
With bounding heart and tuneful song
We raise our glad commencement song!

You see both of God's great books—of nature and revelation—are here studied, and we find no hostility between them. Those who think we must ignore science if we hold to the Bible know not what they speak, or whereof they affirm. We war with no science, except that which is falsely so allied.

Prof. Dodd, of Kentucky, brother of our professor of Hebrew, delivered a capital address before the Literary Societies. He is a man of no ordinary accomplishments. Dr. Milburn delivered the regular commencement address. He paid a most eloquent tribute to the late Commodore and to Bishop McTyeire, respecting the Commodore's eulogy of the Bishop, as a man of extraordinary ability. By the way, a fine life-size portrait of the Bishop (presented by Mrs. Vanderbilt) was suspended on Founder's Day near that of Mr. Vanderbilt, in the chapel—which is now adorned by the portraits of most of our Bishops. We must have them all.

But I must stop. I am engaged to preach a memorial sermon on the occasion of the death of Dr. DuPre, at the commencement of Martha Washington College, Abingdon, Va., Sunday, June 22, and to deliver an address on Wednesday, June 25. I am very sorry that it will be out of my power to attend the commencement of the Southern University at Greensboro the week after. I should be glad, indeed, to hear the commencement sermon by my boy, the Rev. F. R. Hill, pastor of St. Francis Street church, Mobile, and to take part in the very interesting exercises which will take place on the occasion. The programme which I have received is very enticing. Success to that noble institution!

Bishop McTyeire has gone to Georgia to attend the commencement of Emory College. I like this general circulation—it does good. We are members one of another.

THOS. O. SUMMERS.

NASHVILLE, TENN., June 16, 1879.

Letter from Brazil.

LIMEIRA, PROV. DE SAO PAULO, BRAZIL, May 1, 1879.

MR. EDITOR: I have just received the ADVOCATE, containing the letters of Bro. Ransom and myself, in regard to emigration to this country. I will just remark that Bro. Ransom is like most Americans who are only partially acquainted with this part of the empire. With very few exceptions, our people were very poor when they came to this country ten or twelve years ago. Many of them did not have money to buy a month's supply of provisions. Yet now the most of them are in a condition to live comfortably in a plain way. Those who had money when they came have generally done well. Some have more than doubled their capital, and I believe in every instance where they went to work raising corn and cotton, just as they did in the "States," people have done well—staying in one place, and living just as they would have done in Alabama or Mississippi.

The misfortune with some has been that they have moved too often, and tried to find some easy way to live, but in the end have found that the old way of plowing and hoeing is the best.

I have been an itinerant preacher most of the time for the last thirty-four years. I consider myself one now, and I know a good deal about itinerant life in Alabama. My first circuit in Alabama was in 1840. "Brush Creek" was the name, around the pleasant town of Greensboro, and a good circuit it was, despite the name, yet I found rougher fare on some parts of that circuit than I find on the Santa Barbara circuit in Sao Paulo, and we have here a climate far, very far more pleasant than in Alabama, much more healthy. The soil is productive, and our seasons are much more uniform, so that our crops seldom fail. Gentle breezes we have all the year, but the wild tornado has never made its track across our beautiful plains.

The past summer was the wettest I have ever known in Sao Paulo, yet our crops of corn, cotton and rice, etc., are about an average. Your old friend, Mr. O. Whittaker, will make this year eight full bales of cotton per hand, and two hundred bushels of corn per hand. But his crop is above the average.

You make quite a mistake in the way you have printed Bro. Ransom's note, about the expense of a missionary for Piracecaia—$1 600 is all that is needed, and I presume Bro Ransom wrote 2 000 milreis, not dollars; and if the young man and wife can be sent we will pay thirty per cent. of that amount.

But Bro. Ransom greatly needs an assistant in Rio, and I do hope the board will find a suitable man for that work. Ransom is doing a great deal of work there, and he and his ex Padre have their hands full. He needs a strong man to aid him.

I am to remove to Piracecaba next week. My daughters will teach a female school for Brazilians and English-speaking pupils. We are to have several American families there, so that our missionary and his wife can have the society of their own people. Piracecaba has a population of 6,000 or 8 000 inhabitants, with a large cotton factory and a saw-mill, and on the opposite side of the river a large sugar mill, and there is water power enough, and very easily controlled, to run a half dozen more very large factories. Indeed, I never saw water power on a large scale so easily controlled. There are no high hills on either side of the river, and it is easily accessible at the falls, and for considerable distance below. The waterfall in all is 50 or 60 feet, in a distance of 300 to 400 yards. A substantial bridge spans the river near the head of the rapids, and is 125 yards long. The greatest extremes between high and low water are here not more than 15 feet.

Below the falls the river is large enough for steamboats. A German company are trying to introduce them; but they do not understand the business, and will do nothing. I will add, a railroad connects the town with the city of Sao Paulo.

From all I can learn, cotton factories are very profitable in this province. I am well acquainted with an American who is connected with one of these factories, and he tells me the profits are over seventy five per cent., and he has access to their books. These factories all do full work, and get ready sale for all their goods at high rates. Other factories at Piracecaba would do well, and capitalists would find it a fine investment. Fraternally yours,

J. E. NEWMAN.

From the Top of a Diligence.

From the top of a broken down Mexican diligence, Rev. W. M. Patterson writes to the Nashville Christian Advocate. We quote as follows:

We came to Mexico believing the work of the Lord would prosper in this land, and our expectations have been more than realized. We have here now, as already reported to the Board of Missions, 12 native preachers, 8 teachers, 268 members, 200 pupils in the Sunday-schools, and 180 in the day schools. Here is our working force with which to begin the coming year; and if, with a much less force in the first year of our mission (except in the City of Mexico,) and with much less means than we hope to have hereafter, the Lord of the vineyard has granted this success to his laborers, what may we not expect in the year to come?

The expense of mission-work in Mexico is necessarily in excess of some other countries. But the business-man looks to the time his capital is employed, and the per cent. which his investment yields. You cannot persuade him to take five years to do that which can be done as well in one.

The work of the Church in Mexico is not an experiment, but one of the brightest realities in the history of missions. Almost all the denominations of Christians are laying well their foundations and building rapidly thereon, occupying permanently the prominent and important points of the country; and if the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, does not keep pace now with her sister churches, she will not likely have an equal opportunity in the future to come up with them again. At present, the character of our stations and the prospect of success in our work, I think, are not surpassed by those of any other church in the field. Shall we fall behind others, or advance with them in this good and great cause? The people invite us and urge us to occupy and cultivate some of the most promising portions of the field.

You see, Mr. Editor, some of the things which urge me to urge others to provide for the maintenance and extension of our mission-work as other Churches are extending their work. Dr. Summers says I "clamor for more help," and "must have it." Well, the pressure is such, and the promise of the work such, that I must continue to clamor, for we must have more help in Mexico.

Thus far we have not called upon the Church to send out other American missionaries, because there are some advantages in using native brethren in our work. These native brethren are already in the field. And as they go forth declaring the peace and love of God in their hearts, telling to their countrymen the story of the cross and the way of salvation, we must call on those who have the means to supply their wants, for they are without other resources. What we need is financial help for the preachers and teachers now at work, and others who wish to work.

We have now applications from at least six young men to prepare for the ministry, and there is abundant work for them to do. These young men have good educations. Some of them read German, French, Latin, etc., but they all need a special training for the work of the Church. We need a school for this purpose in the City of Mexico. It can be established and conducted as a "special" enterprise, supported by "special" contributions.

As yet we have no boarding school in our Mission, not a Bible-reader, no literature for our people, but few day-schools in proportion to the demand for them, our schools have but little furniture and few books, etc. Wherefore we "clamor for more help."

In conclusion, I would recommend to the earnest, prayerful consideration of the Church, the women's missionary societies, the Sunday-school missionary societies, all friends of missions, old and young, the closing lines of a letter from Dr. Summers to the New Orleans ADVOCATE: "Let us enter that field in force. Let us take the tide at the flood. Let us contribute liberally, and pray fervently, and work earnestly, for the Mexican Mission."

—The commencement exercises of the Academical Department of the University of Louisiana, Saturday, June 21, were of a very interesting character. Judge Kennard, president of the Board of Managers, made an able address on the occasion. The session just closed has been a gratifying and successful one. Prof. Jesse, dean of the faculty, and the other members, have given general satisfaction.

—The bill authorizing the appointment of a commission to report upon the improvement of the navigation of the Mississippi, and plans for the protection of alluvial lands, has passed Congress, and has received the President's approval. This is regarded as a very important measure for the Southwest, and indicates that the general government will at no distant day take charge of the levees.

—The Army and Legislative Appropriation Bills have been passed, and have been signed by the President. The Judicial Expenses Bill, passed by both houses, has been vetoed by the President. The President's objections were based upon those features of the bill which prohibited the use of funds for the pay of United States marshals and supervisors at the polls. There is much excitement and furor about the matter. Probably a new bill will be framed and passed more acceptable to the President.

—A press dispatch, June 22, states that Rev. Dr. Clark, the gifted and genial editor of the Methodist Recorder, Pittsburg, Pa., was critically ill at the residence of Rev. Colpoitt, Atlanta, Ga. At our forms are being made up, Tuesday night, June 24, we have no further advices concerning his condition. Dr. Clark's death would be deeply regretted by every branch of Methodism.

—The State debt is still the absorbing question in the Louisiana Constitutional Convention. No basis of settlement has yet been reached, and financiers and dealers in bonds are at sea. Some decision is likely to be reached within a week—so we are told.

A note from Rev. R. D. Norsworthy, of Canton, Miss., received just after our last week's paper went to press, brings us the melancholy tidings of the death of Rev. H. H. Montgomery, of the Mississippi Conference. Up to the time of this writing we have heard nothing further concerning the sad event. Bro. Norsworthy states that Bro. Montgomery died at Castilllan Springs at three A. M., Sunday, June 15. He had been in failing health for several years, but was present at the session of his Conference last winter, and, as we thought, looking somewhat improved. He was appointed to Sharon circuit, and during the earlier part of the year attended to his work, until he was compelled by failing strength to desist. Bro. Montgomery was among the most prominent men in his Conference, a man of good administrative ability, a strong and instructive preacher, and a most industrious and faithful pastor. None were more devoted to the Master's work. We suppose he was about sixty years of age. Some one familiar with his history will doubtless furnish us an obituary sketch soon. We tender to the bereaved widow and other kindred our sincerest sympathy in this hour of sorrow.

Rev. Dr. Tudor, presiding elder of St. Louis district, St. Louis Conference, dropped in on us on Tuesday of this week. His presence was to us a wholly unexpected refreshment. Glad to see him in fine health, and looking nearly as young as when we parted with him five years ago. His many friends in New Orleans will rejoice to meet him once more. We believe he is to preach at the Carondelet Street Church on Sunday, June 29, at eleven A. M. The doctor is on his way to the home of Mr. Edward J. Gay, near Plaquemine, where Mr. Andrew Price and Miss Anna Gay are to be united in marriage, on Thursday, the twenty-sixth instant.

Rev. T. A. S. Adams, late President of Soule Female College, Murfreesboro, Tenn., has been appointed to visit Mississippi in behalf of the Publishing House. Our readers are well acquainted with T. A. S. A., and we commend him and his mission to our people. Be liberal and be prompt in subscribing for the four per cent. bonds. Now that the battle is so nearly won defeat would be absolutely shameful.

Rev. Nathan Sullivan of the Memphis Conference, and preacher in charge of the Trenton circuit, died June 14. The Western Methodist speaks of him as one of the veterans of our itinerancy—a man of strong mind, of warm heart, of great energy and perseverance—all his life given to Christ.

The Memphis District Conference of the Colored Methodist Episcopal Church, says the Western Methodist, was held in Lagrange, Tenn., May 30-31. Bishop Holsey presided over the body, in which all the charges were represented. The reports of the presiding elder, Rev. H. Hezel, and of the several pastors, showed the District in good condition—all at their post of duty, and the Lord blessing their labors with great success. In the twelve charges there are 2,168 members; and thirty-one Sunday-schools with 1 873 scholars. The interest in Sunday-schools is increasing. A subscription of $100 75 was secured to aid in erecting a school of high order in the bounds of the Tennessee Conference. For a church edifice in Lagrange there was a collection amounting to $255 Through the kindness of the Rev. W. A. Cook, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, and of the trustees, their house of worship was occupied on Sunday morning by the colored people, and Bishop Holsey preached to them—to the white people in the afternoon. We learn that everybody was much pleased with the Bishop's sermons. Next District Conference at Collierville, Tenn.

The Board of Trustees of Drew Theological Seminary, Madison, N. J., at their meeting, May 13, re-elected Bishop Simpson, president; John B. Cornell, vice president; Andrew V. Stout, treasurer; and William White, secretary. The annual report shows that the current expenses have been met, and there is no floating debt. The Rev. Dr. John F. Hurst, president of the seminary, has been engaged in raising the new endowment fund, the first having been swept away by the failure of Daniel Drew, the founder. Of the entire $300,000, Dr. Hurst has secured $218,421.

We announce with pleasure, says the Texas Christian Advocate of June 21, that the debt which has been hanging over St. John's Church, Galveston, has been provided for. The debt amounted to nearly $19 000. Notwithstanding the hard times, the members and friends of the church raised by subscription, $10,000. The balance will be raised by bonds, redeemable in three and six years. With this burden removed, the pastor and people may, with good heart, work for a revival.

The programme of commencement exercises of Port Gibson Collegiate Academy will be found on the eighth page.

We wish we could be there. Our visit to Port Gibson several years ago has left in us a strong desire to see the place and people again.

Rev. R. B. Dawner, duly authorized, expects to travel the remainder of the year in behalf of East Mississippi Female College. He bears Bishop Keener's commendation to the members and friends of our church.

JOHN A. ELLIS.

Some one sends us, without address, two dollars to be used by Rev. W. J. Picot, our French Missionary, to buy tracts and Bibles. We will forward the money to Bro. Picot at once.

Rev. A. E. Clay, writing from Fattersonville, La., June 16, says: "All are well. Work never more prosperous. Congregations fill the churches."

Ernest White, son of our good friend Rev. T. H. White, was one of the graduates at the recent commencement of Corvallis College, Oregon.

Mr. Hendy Burke, an old citizen of New Orleans, died suddenly, on Saturday, June 21.

MARRIED.

HALL—HALL.—At the bride's residence, Edwards, Miss., June 21, 1879, by Rev. W. C. Black, Mr. J. C. Hall of Vicksburg, to Mrs. Sue Hall.

GOODWIN—ADAMS. At Miller chapel, Leake county, Miss., June 4, 1879, by Rev. Irvin Miller, Mr. Charles Goodwin to Miss Lizzie Adams.

DAVIS—NORTON.—At the residence of the bride's father, June 5, 1879, by Rev. H. H. Caldwell, Mr. Charles McCauley Davis, of West Feliciana, La., to Miss Frances H. Norton, of Lincoln county, Miss.

ADDRESS No. 2,

TO THE PATRONS OF

The Christian Advocate.

THE REASON WHY!

Your neighbor should take the Advocate.

ITS VALUE IN THE HOUSEHOLD.

SALIENT POINTS.

To many parties throughout the country, who take no paper, all the important items of interest telegraphed from different parts of the world are collected and appear each issue of the paper under the heading of comprising domestic and foreign matter selected with a view of giving information on all subjects of interest outside of the r own domestic circle, a condensation of the daily press.

NEWS OF THE WEEK,

OUR FIELD NOTES

give items of interest more local in character, keep the different sections in our region more fully informed of recent events, the state of weather, condition of crops, social life, progress of the church, results of revivals, influence and effect of camp-meetings, as well as all in light in the habits, customs and peculiarities of the people in other portions of our own and surrounding States, and, being short and pithy, are interesting and valuable reading.

Our Missionary Work is fully chronicled by practical workers; and the results of their labor fully described by the writers under the heading and it also covers many valuable articles, describing the progress in general church work, and elaborates the successful labors of the pastors of the various appointments, giving valuable hints of the effect of united effort on the part of pastors and people in building churches, parsonages, and in general spreading of the Gospel throughout the vicinity; in fact, a complete historical review of the practical results of the Christian campaign against error and darkness. Our contains a digest of general church matters of the different denominations throughout the world, foreign and domestic, and is selected with great care from the leading religious papers of the day.

FROM THE WORK;

RELIGIOUS INTELLIGENCE

OUR YOUNG PEOPLE

is essentially a child's corner, and has two columns of selections from the best writers of juvenile periodicals, giving wholesome as well as instructive reading matter for the little ones, with occasional original letters from the younger members of our church and Sunday schools.

THE FARM AND GARDEN, AND SCIENTIFIC

columns contain articles of great interest to the planter, mechanic and merchant, and the receipt of practical recipes in the Advocate are worth many times the subscription price for the household, the farm, the garden and the shop. It contains suggestions which are invaluable, statements of remedies for complaints affecting men, animals and fowls, and keeps its readers advised of improved methods for pursuing the different trades and industries.

THE PRICES CURRENT

of the New Orleans market are revised and corrected weekly, which makes this department a special feature, and gives the Advocate great popularity with the people in towns and the country.

THE COMMERCIAL

news gives an insight to the inquiry for and movement of the cotton crop, the sales, prices, at the official closing of the Cotton Exchange, with prospects of future prices for delivery and enables the intelligent and progressive planter to make his calculations of amount to be realized per acre on his growing crop.

GENERAL REMARKS.

Surely for 2 cents and a high price for an eight page family paper, whose weekly visits cheer many a heart, and whose regular calls keep one informed of the progress of religion, science, education, agriculture and other matters of interest in the busy world around us. If subscribers pay promptly, and use their influence to add additional subscriptions from their neighbors and friends, the time is not distant when the paper can be enlarged, the advertising columns reduced, and many valuable improvements made that will prove of material advantage to all subscribers. We solicit you to exert your influence to obtain new subscribers, and do not wish to depend on our advertising columns to pay running expenses, and if individual effort be generally exerted, the results would be incalculable. The publisher refers to you, and will spare no pains in giving you a first-class paper. The editorial management could not be excelled; the paper, print and general make up will stand comparison with any paper in the land, and we propose to still further improve it, but we desire your help, your cheering words, and last but not least your kindly effort to increase the circulation of your own paper.

Yours truly,

H. T. LATHROP, Publisher.

Publisher's Department.

While we continue to do our best to exclude fraudulent advertisements from the ADVOCATE, parties must judge for themselves as to the real value of the goods advertised. In ordering please mention the ADVOCATE.

The air of perfection, cleanliness and home-like comfort which is so apparent at the American House, Boston, is one of the characteristic features of that well-regulated establishment. To those disposed to economize this popular hotel offers an unparalleled seldom found at so short notice, a first class house, having reduced its rates to $3 and $3 50 per day.

W. C. SHEPARD & Co.—Fruit jars Mason pints, $1; quarts, $1 25; two quarts, $1 50 per dozen; American China dinner sets, $15 $18. Equal in looks and usefulness as French China. 19

On this page see what E. H. Adams & Bro. have to say about parasols, umbrellas, and other articles in the dry goods line.

If you are troubled with diabetes, gout, Bright's disease, and other diseases, look at Dr. S. H. P. Lee's Lithontriptic advertisement. This famous remedy is highly spoken of. Address, 45 Clinton Place, New York.

Loan Office.—The loan office of Otto Schwaner, Esq., located at 17 Baronne street, is advertised in our columns. We call attention to what is said about the sale of unredeemed pledges on the seventh page.

Hibernia National Bank.—Reference to the statement, published in another column, will satisfy any and every one that the above bank is a well-managed institution, conducted on a solid business basis.

Bargains in Dry Goods.—The house of D. H. Holmes, 135 Canal and 15 Bourbon street, is familiar to every reader of the Advocate, as well as to every man and woman in New Orleans, and everybody also knows that if you want bargains this is the place to find them. Their stock is as fine as at any dry goods store in this country.

Music, Pianos and Musical Instruments.—On this page will be seen L. Grunewald's advertisement, the favorite resort of all lovers of music and the grand depot of musical instruments in the South. His stock is unsurpassed in the South for the variety and numbers of pianos or, as he says, "The terms upon which he disposes his instruments suit all purses." Visitors will receive every attention, and they may be sure that they will get their money's worth.

The Chicago and Alton Railroad still continues to remain the popular thoroughfare to Chicago and all Northern and Northwestern points. This company have given much attention to the wants of the traveling public, and now are prepared to give their patrons elegant and rapid transportation in their splendid day and Pullman sleepers. The employees are always found courteous and obliging, as the management will not keep those who are not in their employ. If you contemplate a trip North do not fail to take the Chicago and Alton Line, and enjoy the lovely scenery of Illinois. S. H. Knight, Esq., is the ticket agent, corner Fourth and Pine streets, St. Louis, than whom a more polite and affable gentleman never existed.

Louisville and Great South ern Railroad.—Those who have had the pleasure of traveling over this road will attest to its unsurpassed accommodations on this line. Aside from the pleasure of taking this route many passengers choose it in view of personal comfort in travel. Those who may have business to transact with the general passenger agent, Col. C. P. Atmore, will find in him a most courteous and intelligent gentleman, and an officer well calculated to work up the business of his department in a corporation of such vast proportions. Indeed the courtesy and attention to the comfort of passengers on the part of officers, conductors and employees generally is one of the most desirable features in the management of the road.

Patronize Home Industry.—Messrs. D. Driscoll & Bro. have opened a large carriage factory at 201 and 203 Magazine street, which is one of the largest in the South. These gentlemen have been engaged in this branch of the business for years, and the senior of this firm is well known to be one of the best carriage painters in the south. The building is two stories high. The first floor is for a carriage repository, and the other is the manufacturing department. This firm has every facility for the prompt and satisfactory execution of all orders intrusted to their care, and their sales are as reasonable as at any of the Eastern or Northern depositories.

Travelers' Official Guide.—To know exactly where you are to travel, and to avoid the numerous annoyances of being needlessly asking questions from the conductor and your fellow passengers, which must be a bore to them, particularly if the same stereotyped questions are very often repeated, go to the nearest book store and invest fifty cents, which is a small outlay considering the valuable information therein imparted, to say nothing of the expense attached to the getting up of these serviceable guides and then you are ready to travel all over the United States, provided you have the money. The guide will be your faithful friend and conductor, and when you return to your home after your long summer jaunt is ended, you will proclaim that the traveler's Official Guide saved you considerable mental as well as physical trouble.

Coal and Wood.—Mr. George F. Pierson, corner Bayanda and Felicity streets, will be happy to receive you at his private office adjoining the wood yard and to toss you on the price of coal. The office is neatly mattted, and, with plenty of fans, an agreeable time can be spent so that when you leave you will say to yourself: George F. Pierson will be my wood man.

Ohio and Mississippi Railroad. This leading Eastern line, between St. Louis and Cincinnati, with its branch to Louisville, is perfectly equipped with the very best of modern appliances for comfort and safety of its patrons. It is favorably used by families and parties going to the Pacific Slope either, and its close connections with other roads gives this line unquestionable advantages over competing routes and makes it one of the most select in the country. Mr. W. W. Peabody is the general superintendent, with headquarters in Cincinnati, an active, efficient, gentlemanly officer cannot be found. The efficient department of this road is the result of his well-directed labor. Travelers should take this favorable route going East from St. Louis, or going West from Louisville or Cincinnati.

New York and Boston. The pleasantest way to go to Boston from New York, and to avoid the suffocating heat and dust of the road, incidental to railroad traveling, is to take the Providence Line of steamers from pier 33, North River, foot of Jay street. The boats on this favorite line are fitted up in magnificent style, regardless of expense, with the view to the comfort of the patrons of this route. The Massachusetts and Rhode Island leave alternate days at five o'clock, passing Hell Gate, often so difficult and dangerous to mariners, and to day memorable as being one of the greatest feats accomplished by the form engineering in this century. Vessels and all kinds of crafts, sail past as easily and with as little prospect of accident as if they were in the open sea, and before the veil of darkness overspreads the land the passengers have enjoyed the lovely scenes which extend along the sound on either side after a refreshing night's repose. Providence lands up at seven o'clock in the morning, where the cars are in waiting to transport you for the eighty picturesque country of forty-two miles, and before you get comfortably fixed in your seats the Hub is in sight.

Tourists, Attention! The tide of summer excursion travel that for two or three years past has set toward the resorts of the North west, with its grand scenery of mountain, lake and river, its numerous charming retreats and cozy hooks will this season reach its flood, owing to the increased facilities extended to tourists by the wide awake and enterprising management of our popular Great Jackson Route. The line has been enlarged one day, and with no change of cars to Chicago, and but one change to points beyond, a trip to the great Northwest is now made with as much ease and in as short a time as formerly, to Bladon Springs or the lake shore villages. Already considerable fallers are securing accommodations, at desirable points of rest, for wearied mammas and charming daughters (worn down by their efforts in the cause of charity during the past, more than usually exciting season,) and besiege the ticket office for choice sections in the sleeping cars. In another week the travel will have fairly started, and we predict for the Great Jackson Route a business it will tax its best efforts to accommodate. Sale of excursion tickets will begin on May 20. They will be good to return until November 1, thus giving ample time to enjoy the summer and fall seasons. Full information, with descriptive circulars and guide books profusely illustrated, in the highest style of the printer's art, may be had on application to A. D. Sheldon, ticket agent, 22 Camp st., corner of Common.

BUSINESS NOTICES.

Pozzoni's Medicated Complexion Powder is acknowledged by thousands of ladies, who use it daily, to be the only preparation that does not roughen the skin, chap, blister, or leave black spots in the pores. Mothers can apply it to infants, who become chafed with a surety of immediate relief. Removes all eruptions. Price, 50 cents and $1 per box. Sold by druggists, and at depot, 607 North Sixth street, St. Louis (Lindell Hotel.)

An infallible cure for Fever and Ague is Ayer's Ague Cure. Wholly vegetable and containing no quinine, it is harmless and sure.

WORKINGMEN.

Before you begin your heavy Spring work after a Winter of relaxation, your system needs cleansing and strengthening to prevent an attack of Ague, Bilious or Spring Fever, or some other spring sickness that will unfit you for a season's work. You will save time, much sickness and great expense if you will use a bottle of Hop Bitters in your family this month. Don't wait. See other column.

(From Gen'l Fitz Henry Warren.)

St Louis, November 20, 1862.

Messrs. J. & C. Maguire: I have never known any remedy to have such excellent effect as Maguire's Peruvian Plant in Cholera Infantum or the Bowels, such as Cholera, Dysentery, Diarrhœa, Cholera Morbus, etc.

FITZ HENRY WARREN,
Brig Gen'l U. S Volunteers.

In former years it was a common occurrence to find fifty per cent. of the field hands in Louisiana, Mississippi and Alabama stricken down with Swamp Fever, Chills and Fever or Dumb Ague. Just during the busiest time of planting. Now, we are glad to hear, that the planters succeed during every year of its absence, in a few days by the use of Dr. F. Wolfe's Aro Periodic and Fever and Ague Tonic, which is sold by druggists through the country.

To Consumptives.—Many have been happy to give their testimony in favor of the use of Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup. Experience has proved it to be a valuable remedy for Consumption, Asthma, Diphtheria, and all diseases of the Throat and Lungs. Manufactured only by A. B. Wilson, Chemist, Boston. Sold by all druggists.

Report of the Condition

OF THE

Hibernia National Bank,

AT NEW ORLEANS,

In the State of Louisiana,

At the Close of Business, June 14, 1879.

RESOURCES.

Loans and discounts		$ 975 73
United States bonds to secure circulation		100 00
Due from reserve agents	$ 78,201 91
Due from other National Banks	7,201 01
Due from State Banks and bankers	1,438 72
Real estate, furniture and fixtures	3,923 11
Current expenses and taxes paid	11 822 51
Cash items	720 87
Exchanges for Clearing House	55,147 85
Bills of other Banks	62,777 00
Specie	9,000 00
Legal tender notes	12,000 00
Five per cent. Red. U. S. Treas urer	18,000 00	182,887 91
Total		$ 1,563 77 41

LIABILITIES.

Capital stock paid in		$ 600 00 00
Surplus fund		100 00 00
Undivided profits		6 111 76
National bank notes outstanding		355,700 00
Dividends unpaid		1,142 00
Individual deposits subject to check	$687,124 15
Demand certificates of deposit	3,871 00
Due to other National Banks	522 09
Due to State Banks and bankers	9
	691,524 24
Total		$ 1,563 77 41

STATE OF LOUISIANA, } ss
Parish of Orleans. }

I, JOHN C. BEVEREUX Cashier of the above named bank do solemnly swear that the above statement is true to the best of my knowledge and belief. JOHN C. BEVEREUX, Cashier.

Subscribed and sworn before me this twenty-first day of June 1879.

W. J. CASTELL, Notary Public.

Correct—Attest: JOHN H. HANNA, J. W. STONE, H. M. PRESTON, Directors.

YOUNG MEN'S Christian Association

OF NEW ORLEANS.

Rooms No. 57 Camp Street.

Open from 9 A. M. to 9 P. M. except Sunday, and on Sundays from 2 to 9 P. M., where may be found the leading daily and weekly papers of the most important cities of the United States.

SERVICES.

Tuesday, 7:30 P. M. Devotional.
Thursday, 7:30 P. M. Singing Class.

NOON-DAY PRAYER-MEETING.

Daily 12 to 12:30.

Rich Prayers and Remarks are limited to three minutes.

Y-A-L-E L-E-C-T-U-R-E-S

ON

PREACHING.

BY BISHOP SIMPSON.

Price $1 50.

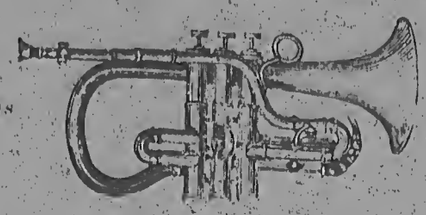
Mailed post-paid on receipt of price. Address LATHROP & WILKINS, 112 Camp st., New Orleans.

U. S. FOUR PER CENT. BONDS.

We continue to sell these bonds, coupon and registered, at par and accrued interest. All deliveries made here, free of expense. Report purchases.

NEW ORLEANS NATIONAL BANK,
A. BALDWIN, President.

TRUNKS, TRUNKS,



HAVING lately overstocked myself with this article from the best manufactories of Cincinnati and Chicago, from the finest Ladies' TRUNK, Genis' Side Leather Thic, and in fact every kind made; also Patent Tray (this you need not take the trouble to get at the bottom of the trunk); also, a fine lot of SATCHELS and VALISES; also, a fine assortment of Ladies', Children's and Misses' SHOES, of the best Philadelphia makers. Call and see for yourself at

S. HAUM'S, 551 Magazine St.,
Corner St. Mary, New Orleans.

MISCELLANEOUS.

LARGEST AND MOST POPULAR

MUSIC HOUSE IN THE SOUTH,

Easiest Terms Lowest Prices

General Agency for the celebrated

STEINWAY, KNABE, PLEYEL, FISCHER PIANOS

And the Popular Organs of

CLOUGH & WARREN AND PELOUBET, PELTON & CO.

Everything in the Music line at rock bottom prices. Send for illustrated catalogue.

LOUIS GRUNEWALD,
Grunewald Hall, New Orleans.

SAVE FROM $2.00 TO $10.00

BY BUYING YOUR

RAILROAD TICKETS

AT

GUEDRY'S

TICKET OFFICE,

31 ST. CHARLES STREET, under St. Charles Hotel, N.

F. C. GUEDRY, Agent.

WHEELER & PIERSON,

Successors to Darcy & Wheeler and Pierson & Bowles

CLOTHING AND FURNISHING GOODS,

Nos. 13 and 15 CAMP STREET, New Orleans.

Black Cloth Suits, $20 to $40 | Business Suits, $12 to $25
6 Shirts for $9 | Collars $1.50 per Doz.

Liberal allowance to Georgians.

Rules for self-measurement sent on application, and orders carefully filled. Plantation clothing for country stores at very low prices to suit.

WHOLESALE DEPARTMENT.

POPULAR PRICED PARASOLS

AND

SUN AND RAIN UMBRELLAS.

Lace and fringe trimmed PARASOLS, in black and colors.
Carriage PARASOLS, plain and fancy.
Misses' PARASOLS, plain and fancy.
Gents' Silk and Gloria SILK UMBRELLAS.
Gents' Silk and Gloria SILK UMBRELLAS.
Ladies' and Gents' real Scotch GINGHAM UMBRELLAS.

JUST OPENED,

Black and White Breton Laces, Antique Embroideries, Silk Buttons, the latest Novelties, desirable for Suits, Wash Goods, Black Goods, Lace Fichus, Ties and Scarfs, Corsets, Ribbons, Veilings, Handkerchiefs, etc.

Best stock of FANS in the city. Five PALM LEAF FANS for Five Cents.

E. H. ADAMS & BROTHER,

594 Magazine Street, Fourth Store above St. Andrew.

Millersburg Female College.

The leading institution in the SOUTH AND WEST.

Elegant new buildings. Eighteen experienced teachers. Everything complete. You will pay fifty dollars for the year. Send at once for catalogue.

GEO. T. GAILLARD, D. D.,
Millersburg, Ky.

Augusta Female Seminary

STAUNTON, VIRGINIA.

MISS MARY J. BALDWIN, Principal.

The Session of 1879 will begin on the first Wednesday in September and close the first Wednesday in June following.

TERMS:

For session of thirty weeks, payable one half on entering and the balance on February 1. Selected the first. For board, washing, fuel, lights, use of chairs, use of library, entertainments, and full English course, including book of system and reading, per session, $150.

For full particulars apply to the Principal for catalogues.

The Medical Department

OF THE

UNIVERSITY OF LOUISIANA,

NEW ORLEANS.

Possesses unrivaled advantages for practical teaching. The Charity Hospital has an annual average of more than six thousand patients, and is visited daily by the Professors and Demonstrators of the Schools.

The Annual Circular will be sent on application to the undersigned.

E. D. CHURCHILL, M. D., Dean.

GEO. E. PIERSON,

COAL AND WOOD,

Cor. Bayanda and Felicity Sts.

Orders can be left with E. E. Hews, at Wood's Yard, or Pierson & Bowles, at Church Hollow, corner Magazine and Jackson Sts. A. De Pinedo, corner Bayanda and Felicity Sts.

D. DRISCOLL & BRO.,

200 & 202 S. MAGAZINE ST. 200 & 202

Between Julia and St. Joseph Streets,

Manufacturers of

CARRIAGES, BAROUCHES, BUGGIES, SPRING WAGONS, ETC.

Special attention given to repairing in all its branches, and all work guaranteed.

SUMMER MUSIC BOOKS!!

For the Sabbath or Sunday School.

THE GOSPEL OF JOY! 35c.
Excellent Gospel music.

GOOD NEWS! 35 cts.
Well known, always good.

SHINING RIVER! 35 cts.
Very beautiful songs.

GEMS OF ENGLISH SONG! $2 50
Best song collection.

CLUSTER OF GEMS. $2 50.
Capital Piano Pieces.

GEMS OF THE DANCE! $2 50
Brilliant Waltzes, etc.

What Books to read.

Lives of Beethoven ($2 50); Mozart ($1 75); Schumann ($1 75); and other biographies of different musicians. Also Ritter's History of Music, 2 vols., each $1 50.

Musical Record ($2 50), the oldest reading music paper published. Very valuable for reference. 1,800 books.

Any book mailed for retail price.

OLIVER DITSON & CO., Boston.
C. H. DITSON & CO.,
843 BROADWAY, N. Y.

REMOVAL. THE LOUISIANA EQUITA ble Life Insurance Company has removed to No. 39 Carondelet street. Former office, corner Carondelet and Gravier streets, for rent.

AND. PATTON, Secretary.

Washington Avenue Drug Store,

Cor. Magazine & Washington Sts.

NEW ORLEANS.

Constantly receiving fresh supplies of pure Drugs, Medicines, Chemicals, Patent Medicines, Combs of all kinds, Hair Brushes, Soaps, Perfumery, Toilet and Fancy Articles, etc., sold at small margin. Dupal Denvil Baby, recommended by all who use it as a very superior appliance. It beautifies the teeth to a fine pearl like ornament and enriches the beauty. Also the Rasque Powder, for beautifying, whitening and preserving the skin, the best thing for prickly heat and all summer eruptions. Customers city and country will find our Store convenient, comprising many articles impossible to obtain except here, and all at moderate prices. Prescriptions put up day and night. R. J. MAUNEGRA, M. D., Druggist, Pharmaceutist and Practical Chemist.

WANTED EVERYBODY TO know that LAYMAN'S IN DIAN HERBAL BALM is not a secret preparation, but one containing the best Indian Herbs, and is known to cure Consumption, Bronchitis, Asthma, Catarrh, Diphtheria. It instantly relieves Coughs, Colds, Soreness of the Throat and Lungs and the relief of Consumptive patients. Prepared, and for sale by LAYMAN & CO., Pharmacists, 24 and 26 St. Louis street. For sale also at the principal wholesale and retail druggists.

Depot in Mobile at J. C. Denegre & Co. Depot in St. Louis at Richardson & Co. 6p

T. A. BECK, COOPERAGE,

OFFICE AND SALES ROOMS:

27 North Peters Street,

Manufactory, Carondelet, between Walnut and Felicity streets.

NEW ORLEANS, LA.

Has constantly on hand, and for sale, Hogsheads, Molasses Barrels, Half Barrels, Keno, Flour, Sugar and Beef Barrels. Order by letter, Post or Telegraph, will receive prompt attention. Particular attention paid to Trimming.

COOPERAGE.

PHILLIP HIRSCH, Cooper,

50 to 60 NORTH PETERS STREET,

NEW ORLEANS, LA.

Has on hand, and keeps constantly on hand, a large and full stock of new and old Hogsheads and Barrels, suitable for Sugar, Molasses, Rice, Beef, Pork, Flour, Salt, Lard, Oil, Bagging, Cotton and Wool Packing. Half Barrels and Kegs for Nails, Shot, Powder, Lead and Tobacco. Barrels for Cement, Lime and Plaster. Hogsheads and Barrels for Sugar and Molasses. Orders solicited. Prices the lowest. Satisfaction guaranteed.

J. S. RIVERS,

STATIONER,

Steam Power Printer,

BLANK BOOK MANUFACTURER,

LITHOGRAPHER AND ENGRAVER,

74 CAMP STREET,

NEW ORLEANS.

The New Louisiana Remedy.

Greatest Cough Syrup of the age, or of any age. Product of our swamps. Splendid for children. No poison. Thirteen pages of names of home references and increasing! Sold by druggists. Depot 106 Camp street, New Orleans.

Farm, Garden and Household.

Salicylic acid is regarded by many physicians as almost a specific in acute rheumatism.

Gardening is regularly and practically taught in more than 20,000 primary schools in France. Every school-house has its garden, and teachers must be not only good gardeners, but qualified to teach horticulture, or they cannot pass examination.

To Save Soap.—The addition of three quarters of an ounce of borax to a pound of soap, melted in without boiling, makes a saving of one-third the cost of soap, and three-quarters the labor of washing, and improves the whiteness of vegetables; besides, the nasty vegetable dirt is removed, and the hands receive a peculiar soft and silky feeling, leaving nothing more to be desired by the most fastidious washerwoman.

The Massachusetts Ploughman says: "The best time to transplant evergreens, we have found to be the last of May, or in late seasons, the first of June. A few evergreen trees and shrubs properly arranged make a home more pleasant and attractive, and seem to lift the worshipers up into a position where they can more fully realize the beauties of nature, when assisted by art."

Hogs.—If you have pigs, kegs or cans that have become stale or musty in the inside, wash them with clean, hot slip-up with warm water, allow a little caustic soda, and let it stand a few hours; empty the water and rinse thoroughly, and it will be as sweet as if it had never been tainted. So says a "Farmer's Wife," in the Country Gentleman.

To Re-Cook Fish Fish.—Pick up in flakes any cold fish, put in a stew-pan with brown butter, add to it a finely grated nutmeg and a few whole pepper-corns, a little minced parsley and one onion, with a little sprig of sweet herbs; season with salt, and when dished squeeze the juice of a lemon over it.

An old beekeeper says: "In my opinion the best hive ever devised for bees, cream and butter is a big grade Jersey cow! Any store hands, or even gentlemen, can manage Jerseys. Such a grade will produce more milk, cream and butter of equal quality than any other thoroughbred Jersey."

Remedy for the Sick Headache.—Take the juice of two lemons in half a wine-glass of sherry or Madeira wine, sweeten with loaf sugar, and drink while effervescing. Be careful to avoid wine and cordials.

Brown Betty.—Cut a layer of sweet apple sauce in a deep dish, and cover it with a layer of crackers or bread crumbs, sprinkled with sugar, cinnamon, then layer of sauce, etc., making the last a layer of crumbs; bake in oven, and eat now with cold, sweetened cream.—Household.

There is no part of the farm that yields so much comfort to the family, and shows so much profit on the ledger as the garden, provided it is properly managed. Farmers apparently believe this certainly of the great men, and so give their attention to getting their gardens as will secure the best results. They seem to regard gardening as fancy work suitable for women and children.

Canning Rhubarb.—Permit me to tell the readers of the Rural how to can rhubarb. I do plant as I have never seen it among the recipes given. Prepare same as for pies and pack in glass cans, covering with cold water, taking care to get all the air out, and then put the cover on as tight as possible. I have just used some which I put up in this way last spring nearly as fresh and nice as when new, though not quite as good as some I have in glass tops sealed in the water bath. The pies are made the same as fresh pie plant.—Rural New Yorker.

The Rural New Yorker says: "An intending purchaser should have the horse brought out before him, and watch the animal as he stands at rest. If the owner is continually starting the horse into motion, and urging him to show off, something may be suspected, because it is when a horse is at perfect rest that his weak points are divulged. If the horse be sound he will stand square on his limbs, without moving any one of them, the feet being placed flat upon the ground, and all his legs plumb and naturally poised. If one foot be thrown forward, and the toe resting to the ground, but the heel raised, or if the foot be off from the ground, and the weight taken from it, disease or tenderness may be suspected."

Bavarian Cream.—One pint sweet cream; yolks only of four eggs; one-half ounce gelatine or isinglass; one cup (small) of sugar; two teaspoonfuls vanilla, or bitter almond extract. Soak the gelatine in just enough cold water to cover it for an hour, strain, and stir into a pint of the cream in the boiling pot. Beat the yolks, smooth with the sugar, and add the boiling mixture, beaten in a little at a time. Return all to the kettle, but do not actually boil; remove it from the fire, flavor, and while it is still hot stir it by the over pint of cream, whipped or churned in a syllabub churn to a stiff froth. Beat in this whip a spoonful at a time into the custard until it is the consistency of sponge cake batter. Dip a mold in cold water, pour in the mixture, and set on the ice to form.

A New Forage Grass for Hot Countries.—The most noteworthy plant figured in the Botanical Magazine for the present month is the mole Mauritius grass originally introduced into France from Guatemala, under the name of Teosinte. It was referred first to Reana, and now to Euchlæna, and is of interest, botanically, as being nearly allied to Maize, whose wild progenitor it thus supports. It is a handsome grass, and flowered in the Water Lily-house at Kew last year, its stems attaining the height of 13 feet. Experiments made with it in the Botanical Garden at Montpellier, France, would seem to show that it is a valuable forage plant, yielding seed producing 160 stems, and these attaining 10 feet in height in the climate was not warm enough to enable it to flower. It has been introduced successfully into Egypt, where it flowers and seeds abundantly. From Kew it has been distributed to Cyprus, the East and West Indies, and to Queensland, where it is likely to be of great service.—Gardener's Chronicle.

Polish Fowls.—They are easily kept in small yards or in confinement. To fancy persons, with a genuine love for fine poultry, this is a great recommendation, as their circumstances will not allow them to have extensive runs. The Polish are the fowls for them, and as described of one of their admirers that he could, "he could raise a Polish cock in a hat-box, and win a prize with him." Secondly, they are very small feeders. The food required to support a Brahma or Cochin will properly varied, keep a trio or more of Polish in splendid condition. I have often seen Polish hens who were laying daily, who ate less than a Bantam. Thirdly, they are great layers. I do not wish to exalt their merits of the Leghorns for mere egg-laying machine would do much better than a Brown Leghorn hen. But place the two in a small range, and the Polish hen takes the lead at once. The Brown hen'll wants her field to herself, and circumscribe the space in which her restless feet may exercise, and the produce of eggs diminishes to a great degree. But eight feet by twenty-five, and a weekly run out for a few hours, and the Polish hen will steal out her eggs as regularly as if she had an open air proposal. Fourthly, they are easily tamed and gentled. Be careful to accustom them to your voice and step, do not come upon them suddenly and startle them, and they will soon learn to come round like cats and eat out of your own hand.—Cor. Maryland Farmer.

The Army or Grass Worm.—The insect is with us every year. In ordinary seasons, when it is not excessively numerous, it is seldom noticed; (1) because moths are few, swift, flyers, and nocturnal in habit; (2) because the worms, when young, have protective coloring, and when mature, hide during the day at the base of meadows. In years of great abundance the worms are generally unnoticed during their early life, and attract attention only when, from crowding too much on each other, or from having exhausted the food supply in the fields in which they hatched, they are forced from necessity to migrate to fresh pastures in great bodies. The earliest attain full growth and commence to travel in armies, to devastate our fields, and to attract attention, about the time that winter wheat is in the milk—this period being two months after in Maine than in southern Missouri; and they soon afterwards descend into the ground, and thus suddenly disappear, to issue again two or three weeks later as moths. In the latitude of St. Louis the moths of these moths lay eggs, from which are produced a second generation of worms, which become moths again late in July or early in August. Exceptionally a third generation of worms may be produced from these.

Further north there is but one generation annually. They hibernate, and oviposit soon after vegetation starts in spring. The chrysalides may also hibernate, and probably do so to a large extent in the more northern States. The eggs are inserted between the sheath and stalk, or secreted in the folds of a blade; and annuals and perennial grasses are preferred for this purpose. The worms abound in wet springs, preceded by one or more dry years. They are preyed upon by numerous enemies, which so effectually check their increase, wherever they unusually abound, that the second brood, when it occurs, is seldom noticed; and two great army worm years have never followed each other, and are not likely to do so. They may be prevented from invading a field by judicious ditching, and the burning over a field, in winter or early spring, effectually prevents their hatching in such field.—Dr. Riley's Ninth Annual Missouri Report.

-BOOKS-

—FOR THE—

Farm and Garden

FRUITS AND FLOWERS.

Every book in this list will be followed each week by others on different subjects of practical benefit to the Farmer, Planter and progressive Agriculturist.

American Bee Culturist	[illegible]
American Weeds and Useful Plants	1 75
Barnard's Simple Flower Garden	1 50
Breck's New Book of Flowers	1 75
Buchanan's Culture of the Grape and Wine-Making	75
Buist's Flower Manual	1 50
Buist's Vegetable Directory	1 50
Chorlton's Grape Grower's Guide	75
Cole's Veterinary Pocket Book	75
Cloves's Fruit Preserver's Manual	25
Downing's Fruits and Fruit Trees of America. New edition	5 00
Eastwood on Cranberry	75
Elliott's Fruit Book or, Fruit Growers' Guide	1 50
Elliott's Western Fruit Grower's Guide	1 50
Fleet's Gear Culture	1 75
Fuller's Grape Culturist	1 50
Fuller's Illustrated Strawberry Culturist	25
Fuller's Small Fruit Culturist	1 50
Fulton's Peach Culture	1 50
Henderson's Practical Floriculture	1 50
Hooper's Western Fruit Book	1 00
Husmann's Grapes and Wine	1 00
Johnson's Window Gardening in a Home	1 00
Mohr on the Grape Vine	1 00
My Vineyard at Lakeview	1 25
Parsons on Strawberry Culture	75
Parsons on the Rose	1 50
Phin's Open Air Grape Culture	1 00
Quinn's Year and Gu de for Profit	1 00
Rivers' Miniature Fruit Garden	1 00
Robinson's Ferns in their Homes and Ours	1 50
The Hubbers System of Grape Culture	50
Thomas' American Fruit Culturist. New edition	2 00
Vick's Flower and Vegetable Garden, paper, 175 pages	175
Vick's Flower and Vegetable Garden, cloth	1 00
White's Raisin Culture	1 25

Sent postpaid on receipt of price. Address

LAFARGUE & WILKINS,
42 Camp st. New Orleans.

45 Years Before the Public.

THE CENUINE

DR. C. McLANE'S

CELEBRATED

LIVER PILLS

FOR THE CURE OF

Hepatitis, or Liver Complaint,

DYSPEPSIA AND SICK HEADACHE.

Symptoms of a Diseased Liver.

PAIN in the right side, under the edge of the ribs, increases on pressure; sometimes the pain is in the left side; the patient is rarely able to lie on the left side; sometimes the pain is felt under the shoulder blade, and it frequently extends to the top of the shoulder, and is sometimes mistaken for rheumatism in the arm. The stomach is affected with loss of appetite and sickness; the bowels in general are costive, sometimes alternative with loose; the head is troubled with pain, accompanied with a dull, heavy sensation in the back part. There is generally a considerable loss of memory, accompanied with a painful sensation of having left undone something which ought to have been done. A slight, dry cough is sometimes an attendant. The patient complains of weariness and debility; he is easily startled, his feet are cold or burning, and he complains of a prickly sensation of the skin; his spirits are low, and although he is satisfied that exercise would be beneficial to him, yet he can scarcely summon up fortitude enough to try it. In fact, he distrusts every remedy. Several of the above symptoms attend the disease, but cases have occurred where few of them existed, yet examination of the body, after death, has shown the LIVER to have been extensively deranged.

AGUE AND FEVER.

DR. C. McLANE'S LIVER PILLS, IN CASES OF AGUE AND FEVER, when taken with Quinine, are protective of the most happy results. No better cathartic can be used, preparatory to, or after taking Quinine. We would advise all who are afflicted with this disease to give them a FAIR TRIAL.

For all bilious derangements, and as a simple purgative, they are unequaled.

BEWARE OF IMITATIONS.

The genuine are never sugar coated.

Every box has a red wax seal on the lid, with the impression DR. McLANE'S LIVER PILLS.

The genuine McLANE'S LIVER PILLS bear the signatures of C. McLANE and FLEMING BROS. on the wrappers.

Insist upon having the genuine DR. C. McLANE'S LIVER PILLS, prepared by Fleming Bros. of Pittsburgh, Pa., the market being full of imitations of the name McLane, spelled differently but same pronunciation.

Merchants' Mutual Insurance Co.

OF NEW ORLEANS.

No. 194 Canal Street.

TWENTY-FIFTH ANNUAL STATEMENT.

In conformity with the requirements of their charter the company publish the following statement:

Premiums received during the year ending May 31, 1879, including unearned premiums of the previous year—
On fire risks	$315,771 30
On marine risks	18,955 42
On river risks	14,701 75
Total premiums	$351,431 87
Less unearned premiums	111,253 00
Net earned premiums May 31, 1879	$243,178 87

LOSSES PAID:

On fire risks	$61,066 08
On marine risks	70,364 89
On river risks	5,3 2 20
Taxes and expenses, less interest	11,625 11
Reinsurances and return premiums	17,820 61	116,208 89
		$ 36,969 48
Reserved for unpaid losses		22 000 00
Profit		$114,969 48

The Company have the following assets, estimated at market value:

Real estate	$206,176 85
City bonds and mortgage bonds	15,000 00
Bank, Water Works and other stocks	133,561 68
Notes secured by mortgage or pledge	19,2 2 33
Bills receivable	62,5 3 43
Premiums in course of collection	35,630 81
City scrip	2 01 00
Judgment on mortgage notes	3,000 00
Cash on hand	61,392 41
	$712,227 51

The above statement is a just, true and correct transcript from the books of the Company.

P. FOURCHY, President.

G. W. NOTT, Secretary.

STATE OF LOUISIANA,
Parish of Orleans, City of New Orleans.

Sworn to and subscribed before me, the ninth day of June, 1879.

JAMES FAHEY, Notary Public.

At a meeting of the Board of Directors, held on the ninth day of June, 1879, it was resolved to declare a cash dividend of twenty per cent on the net earned participating premiums for the year, ending May 31, 1879, payable on the third Monday of July next.

Also to pay to the stockholders, on demand interest at the rate of ten per cent. per annum on their stock.

DIRECTORS:

P. Maspero,	D. Fallo,
J. J. Fernandez,	Edward Toby,
Paul Fourchy,	D. A. Chalfraix,
John Gedges,	M. W. Smith,
John B. Lallande,	Chas. Lallte,
B. W. Taylor.

OFFICE OF THE

Crescent Mutual Insurance Co.

New Orleans, May 17, 1879.

THIRTIETH ANNUAL STATEMENT.

The trustees, in conformity to the amended Charter, submit the following statement of the affairs of the company on the thirtieth of April, 1879:

Fire Premiums	$165,168 05
Marine Premiums	24,051 22
River Premiums	69,321 25
	$258,543 52
Net earned premiums	$224,143 52
Less reinsurance	$13,716 40
Less return premiums	5,626 57
	19,342 97
	204,800 55

LOSSES.

Fire losses	$36,038 91
Marine losses	29,337 56
River losses	28,576 05
	$73,952 35
Taxes, expenses, discount, profit and loss, less interest, rents, salvage, savings, etc	36,442 66
	110,395 01
Net profits	$94,405 54

The company have the following assets:

Bills receivable	$31,461 83
Loans on bond and mortgage	30,175 00
	$61,636 83
Loans on call	$52,552 61
Cash on hand	48,521 62
	1 1 078 66
Real estate	109, 68 08
City bonds, bank and other stock	94,632 58
Premiums in course of collection	25,897 82
Suspense account and stock fractions	14,158 62
	$406,207 59

The foregoing statement is a true and correct transcript from the books of the Company.

THOS. A. ADAMS, President.

HENRY V. OGDEN, Secretary.

Sworn to and subscribed before me, this seventeenth day of May, A. D 1879.

ALFRED INGRAHAM,
Notary Public.

The Board of Trustees this day resolved, after paying ten per cent. in cash to the stockholders, and carrying to profit and loss $15,746, on account of the Mechanics' and Traders' Bank stock held by this Company, and also a further amount for shrinkage in values, to declare a dividend of twenty per cent. in cash, on the net participating premiums, payable on Monday, the sixteenth of June next.

TRUSTEES.

Thos. A. Adams,	Sam'l B. Newman,
Sam'l H. Kennedy,	John Phelps,
Adam Thomson,	Henry Abraham,
Victor Meyer,	Joseph Bowling,
Edward Gay,	Simon Hernsheim,
Simon Forchheimer,	Joseph B. Wolfe,
R. D. Pope,	Edward Pinsbury,
John E. King,	Fred'k Chamerden,
Joseph W. Stone,	George Martin,
Alfred Moulton,	D. C. Jurey,
Edward Nalle,	George W. Sentell,
Paul E. Mortimer,	John V. Moore,
W. B. Conker,	Henry M. Preston,
Reuben G. Bush,	John M. Parker.

Mechanics' and Traders' Ins. Co

NEW ORLEANS, LA.

No. 14 CARONDELET STREET,

Solicits Fire, River & Marine Risks

GEO. H. FROST, Act'g Secretary. LLOYD R. COLEMAN, President.

F. C. GREGORY, Ass't Sec. & Fire Clerk.
JNO C. WOOD, Marine and River Clerk.
E. AUZOUT, Inspector, etc
J. Y. B. HASKELL, Collector,
Capt. S. B. FROST, Marine Inspector.

TRUSTEES.

Hugh Allison,	Robert L. Moore,
J. H. Allen,	H. J. Mullan,
J. A. Braselman,	Ed. Nalle,
Jno. D. Britton,	F. J. Odendahl,
Sam. Boyd,	Emile J. O'Brien,
Isaac Bloom,	Wm. A. Peale,
T. J. Carver,	J. M. Putnam,
Geo. W. Cary,	D. L. Raulett,
Jno. D. Cobb,	G. W. Sentell,
H. Dudley Coleman,	W. B. Thompson;
Wm. L. Cushing,	W. P. Vinet,
J. M. Erankenbush,	J. M. Walsh,
Ben. Gerson,	Meyer Weil,
P. B. Gilbert,	T. S. Caterman;
J. Davidson Hill,	Frank Wing,
M. Johnson,	C. W. Wood,
Lloyd R. Coleman.

SOUTHERN CHURCH ORGAN MANUFACTORY.

No. 103 Baronne Street,

Under the National Theater,

NEW ORLEANS, LA.

PETER VEITER, Proprietor.

Church Organs tuned and repaired all over the South.

WINTELER & RICKS,

DEALERS IN

Leather and Shoe FINDINGS,

TOOLS, OILS, ETC.,

MANUFACTURERS OF

Boot, Gaiter and Shoe Uppers.

108 POYDRAS STREET,

NEW ORLEANS

MISCELLANEOUS.

BRACKETS. GLOBES.

M. H. APPLEGATE,

PLUMBER,

Gas and Steam Fitter

GAS FIXTURES,

St. George and Defiance Ranges,

Plumbers' Material,

No. 118 POYDRAS STREET,

NEW ORLEANS.

H. DeVERGES & CO.,

HARDWARE,

17 and 19 Decatur Street,

Opposite Postoffice, New Orleans.

IMPORTERS AND DEALERS IN

IRON, NAILS, CUTLERY, GUNS, AGRICULTURAL IMPLEMENTS, PLOWS, OILS, PAINTS, CORDAGES, ETC. ETC.

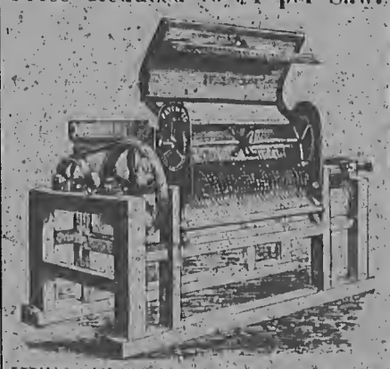
ZELL'S CONDENSED CYCLOPEDIA.

Rare opportunity for making money is now offered general agents and canvassers in the South on this exceedingly useful and to-date priced book. 1060 pp., double column, 700 engravings, dissolving-page, colored maps. Only $1 a copy. For terms and territory, address F. ELLWOOD ZELL, DAVIS & CO., Philadelphia.

JOS. B. WOLFE & CO.,

Cotton Factors,

59 Carondelet St., New Orleans.



And General Agents for

DANIEL PRATT'S IMPROVED

"Revolving Head" Cotton Gin,

PATENTED JULY 15, 1873.

Price Reduced to $4 per Saw.

THIS GIN has been in use for the past six seasons, and several recent improvements have been added. It obviates all friction at the end of the cotton box, prevents the roll from breaking, and gives a larger yield of lint from the same amount of seed than any other Gin in use. The Revolving Head lightens the draft and causes the Gin to run faster with less driving power, thus doing a great deal more work within the same time, while economizing steam or animal power, than any other Gin. The seed being ginned very close, the length of the staple is increased, producing cotton on this account of a greater market value. This improved value given by length of staple, with extra production of lint, added to increased amount of work done, more than covers the cost of the Gin in every bale ginned. Testimonials sent by mail on application.

FEEDERS and CONDENSERS, with latest improvements also made by the Daniel Pratt Gin Co. to work with these Gins. Send for descriptive circulars. JOS. B. WOLFE & CO.,

New Orleans, La.

For Portland Cement, German Flags, OR

SHILLINGER PATENT PAVEMENT,

ADDRESS

FRITZ JAHNCKE,

Box 143 Mechanics' Exchange; 208 Delord st., between Baronne and Carondelet.

$25.00 to $35.00

STEWART'S NEW IMPROVED

SINGER Sewing Machine

Great Reduction in Prices!

Down with Monopolies!

Hard Times demand Low Prices.

We warrant all our machines to be NEW, LATEST-IMPROVED and PERFECT for

FIVE YEARS.

Our NEW MACHINE is supplied with a Lever BALANCE-WHEEL, which is a great improvement over the old SINGER, as it enables the operator to wind the bobbin without running the machine, or removing the work from the needle. This is the most important improvement ever put on the Sewing Machine.

Also dealer in all first-class machines, such as the

WHEELER & WILSON, GROVER & BAKER, DOMESTIC, WILSON, WEED, Etc.

Cotton, Silk, Flax Oil and Needles for all kinds of Machines. Address

M. A. PECK,

General Sewing Machine Agent.

153 CANAL STREET,

Next to Holmes' Dry Goods Store.

New Orleans.

FANCY GOODS! FANCY GOODS!

SCHILLING'S

Millinery Emporium, Hair Work AND FANCY GOODS BAZAR,

159.....CANAL STREET.....159

The assortment comprises the very latest styles in Millinery Materials, Hats and Bonnets, HAIR GOODS of every description, and the most recherche selections in Jewelry, Fans, Combs, Brushes, Dressing Cases, Specie Purses, Card Cases, Vienna Gilt Ornaments, Porte Monnaies and Perfumery.

Your attention is particularly directed to my SPECIALTIES in fine Shell, Ivory and Pearl JET GOODS, MILLINERY ARTICLES AND HAIR WORK.

G. T. SCHILLING,

159 CANAL STREET.

Pontchartrain Cheap Store.

J. A. LACROIX,

CORNER FRENCHMEN AND VICTORY STS.

LADIES', GENTS', MISSES' AND CHILDREN'S

BOOTS AND SHOES

OF ALL DESCRIPTIONS.

Always on hand a full assortment of first-class goods, at prices which defy competition. Call and examine my stock before purchasing elsewhere. MY MOTTO—Quick Sales and Small Profits. Jackson railroad cars pass in front of the store.

J. D. CHASSONS.

BOOT AND SHOE STORE,

NO. 96 FRENCHMEN ST., between Victory and Moreau, Third District, New Orleans.

A large assortment of Boots and Shoes always on hand, and made to order. Ladies', Children's and Gentlemen's Shoes manufactured to order.

MISCELLANEOUS.

ICE! ICE! ICE!

WHOLESALE AND RETAIL.

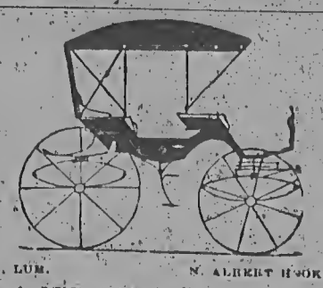
FAMILIES SUPPLIED AT LIBERAL RATES

ORDERS PROMPTLY ATTENDED TO.

WILLIAM MYERS,

NINTH STREET, between Magazine and Constance sts., opposite the Market.

ATTENTION! ATTENTION!



M. ANDRIEU,

139 - POYDRAS STREET - 139

Home-Made Shoes, hand-sewed, $4 00

Home-Made Shoes, Screwed, $2 50-3 50

City-made Boots and Shoes of all kinds and styles, made of the very best material and workmanship, and at less prices than any other store in this city. Keeps all kinds for Gent.'s, Boys', Ladies' and Children's wear. Employs from 75 to 100 workmen constantly.

J. A. LUM. N. ALBERT BOOKER.

J. A. LUM & CO.,

MANUFACTURERS AND DEALERS IN

CARRIAGES, HARNESS, ETC.,

No. 83 Carondelet street,

A Specialty made of Children's Carriages.

SAVE YOUR CARPETS

By having them cleaned by the

BOSTON PATENT STEAM

Carpet Beating and Renovating Co.

Office, 170 Camp Street,

Branch Office, 54 Royal Street,

Steam Carpet Beating and Renovating Works

10, 12, 14 and 16 Poydras St.,

Corner of Annunciation.

The undersigned is the sole proprietor of the Holmes Patent Reflexible Whip Carpet-Beating Machine for Cleaning Carpets and Matting for Dwellings, Churches, Public Buildings, Hotels, Steamboats, etc.

This the Boston Patent Beater, has been in successful operation for the past fifteen years in all the principal cities in the United States, and has a world-renowned reputation as a carpet-cleaning machine.

This machine consists of a bed of endless straps, over which the carpets pass, and are beaten by a number of endless reflexible whips, restoring the color and removing all dust, dirt, vermin and moths, without the slightest injury to the finest fabric.

RENOVATING.

By the renovating process all grease, ink, coal smoke, soot, mill stains of every description, are extracted from the carpets, restoring their original brightness of color. The quality of the restorative is not injurious to the most delicate tint or fabric, and is an actual preventive against moth. Send a Brussels or velvet rug, which will be cleaned gratis as a sample.

Plush and Moquet Furniture, Plush and Damask Lambrequins, Window Shades, Damask Curtains, Blankets, Druggets, Piano and Table Covers, renovated to look like new.

Carpets taken up and relaid by first class workmen. No charge for taking up, packing or sorting of Carpets.

Our rooms being easy of access, all, and especially ladies, are respectfully invited to call and see the machinery in operation, and be convinced that this is the only way to have your Carpets thoroughly renovated from the dust, vermin and moths, for it cannot be done by hand beating. Every Carpet is cleaned under the personal supervision of the proprietors, and satisfaction in every respect guaranteed.

On receipt of orders we will send one of our covered wagons for and return your Carpets free of charge to any part of the City. All orders by mail or left at the office or works will be promptly attended to.

Beating Carpets, 5 cents per yard.
Renovating Carpets, 5 cents per yard.

H. L. JONES, Jr., Proprietor.
ALBERT PAUL, Agent.
Office—70 CAMP STREET.

Carpets and Mattings.

ELKIN & CO.

100.....CANAL STREET.....100

NEW PATTERNS

CANTON MATTING, Best Quality.

WHITE AND CHECK

CANTON MATTING, in all Grades.

Oil Cloths, all widths, Linoleum and Linoleum Floor Cloths, Nottingham Lace Curtains, new designs, Window Shades and Cornices.

CARPETS OF ALL KINDS

At Reduced Prices.

F. FISCHER & SON,

PROPRIETORS

PICAYUNE SAW MILL,

FOOT OF CARROLLTON AVENUE,

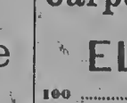
Seventh District, New Orleans.

CYPRESS PINE AND SHINGLES.

P. O. Box 47, Carrollton.

All Bills and Orders will receive prompt attention.

GOODWYN'S EUREKA YEAST POWDER, a production of this city, is both popular with the trade and the delight of all experienced housekeepers; and no wonder, for it is an article of the very highest order of merit. Send for circular and prices.



P. M. GOODWYN, Manufacturer,
No. 20 Constance Street, New Orleans, La.

RAOUL'S NOVELTY WOOD YARD,

Franklin St. cor. Erato.

Try it for satisfactory dealing. Oak and Ash wood, green and seasoned, kept on hand, sawed and split ready for stove use, or will be cut and split to suit any size stove at short notice, and delivered in purchaser's wood-house, for $4 50 per half cord Ash, Oak $4 25 Hogsheads no loss or waste in this wood.

Yard, 371 Franklin Street.

WIRE RAILING AND Ornamental Wire Works.

DUFUR & CO., No. 30 N. Howard St., Baltimore, manufacture WIRE RAILING for Cemeteries, Balconies, etc.; Sieves, Fenders, Cages, Sand and Coal Screens, Woven Wire, etc. Also Iron Bedsteads, Chairs, etc.

AGENTS WANTED.

AGENTS WANTED FOR THE

PICTORIAL

History of the World.

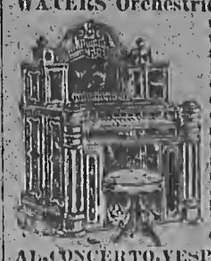
It contains 872 fine historical engravings and 1200 large double-column pages, and it is the most complete History of the world ever published. It sells at sight. Send for specimen pages and extra terms to Agents, and see why it sells faster than any other book. Address

NATIONAL PUBLISHING CO., St. Louis, Mo

$10 to $25 A DAY SURE MADE by Agents, selling our Chromos, Crayons, Picture and Chromo Cards. 125 samples, worth $5, sent postpaid for 85 cents. Illustrated Catalogue free. J. H. BUFFORD'S SONS, Boston. Estab'd 1830

WHAT AGENTS SAY of O'Hara's Dollar Champion Corn Sheller:—"Easiest thing to sell I ever saw." "I shelled 6 bush. ls per hour." Sample mailed for 60c. W. ATLEE BURPEE & Co., 221 Church street, Philadelphia. cow

MISCELLANEOUS.



MASON & HAMLIN CABINET ORGANS

Demonstrated best by HIGHEST HONORS AT ALL WORLD'S EXPOSITIONS FOR TWELVE YEARS; viz: at Paris, 1867; Vienna, 1873; Santiago, 1875; Philadelphia, 1876; Two HIGHEST MEDALS at Paris, 1878; and GRAND SWEDISH GOLD MEDAL, 1878. Only American Organs ever awarded highest honors at any. Sold for cash or installments. ILLUSTRATED CATALOGUES, with new styles and prices, free. MASON & HAMLIN ORGAN CO., BOSTON, NEW YORK, or CHICAGO.

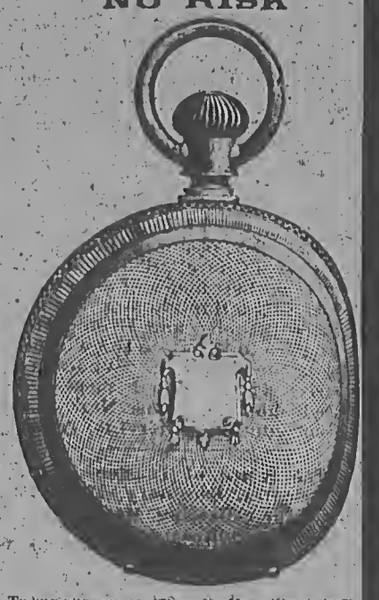
WATERS' Orchestrion chimes ORGANETTE is the most beautiful in style and finish of any 2? tone organ ever made. It has the celebrated Concerto stop, which is a fine imitation of the Human Voice, and two and one-half Octaves of bells toned to perfect harmony with the reeds, & the effect musical & electrifying. WATERS' CELESTINA ORGANETTE is the

ALL CONCERTO, VESPER, CENTENNIAL CHIMES, CHAPEL and COTTAGE ORGANS, in Unique French Cases are made by respect FIRST CLASS.

WATERS' PIANOS, Upright and Square, ARE THE BEST MADE. Their Tone, Touch, Workmanship & Durability Unsurpassed. Warranted for SIX YEARS. PRICES EXTREMELY LOW for cash. Monthly Installments received. A liberal Discount to Teachers, Ministers, Churches, Schools, etc. AGENTS WANTED. Special inducements to the trade. Illustrated Catalogues Mailed. Second-hand Instruments of Great Bargains. HORACE WATERS & SONS, Manufacturers and Dealers, 481 EAST 14th STREET, UNION SQUARE, NEW YORK, Box 3567.

THE DIEBOLD

SAFES.



A large and complete assortment of these Celebrated SAFES on hand and for sale at prices to suit the times. Parties desiring anything in our line are respectfully solicited to address the undersigned for estimates, etc., as he feels confident of being able to give them satisfaction, both as regards price and quality of work.

A. ROY, Agent,

DIEBOLD SAFE & LOCK CO.,

27 Canal St., New Orleans, La.

NO RISK

To buy our special Ten Dollar Watch, for we guarantee them to be Solid Coin Silver, except the cover movement (inside), which is nickel. They are certainly the best Watches considering Time and Quality, that has ever been offered for the price. Cut represents the exact size of the Watch. We send one of the above to any address C. O. D., or on receipt of money, but (send 40 cents extra for registration fee) and if not satisfactory, can be returned within 5 days and money will be refunded. Every Watch warranted. WM. KENDRICK & SON, 110 Fourth Avenue, Louisville, Ky.

Send Catalogue free on application. (Mention this paper.)

TRUTHS.

HOP BITTERS.

(A Medicine, not a Drink,)

CONTAINS

HOPS, BUCHU, MANDRAKE, DANDELION,

And the Purest and Best Medical Qualities of all other Bitters.

THEY CURE

All Diseases of the Stomach, Bowels, Blood, Liver, Kidneys and Urinary Organs, Nervousness, Sleeplessness, Female Complaints and Drunkenness.

$1000 IN GOLD

Will be paid for a case they will not cure or help, or for anything impure or injurious found in them.

Ask your druggist for Hop Bitters and free books, and try the Bitters before you sleep. Take no other.

The Hop Cough Cure and Pain-Relief the Cheapest, Surest and Best.

FOR SALE BY ALL DRUGGISTS.

ELASTIC JOINT

IRON ROOFING

FIRE, WATER AND WIND PROOF.

Durable, Cheap, easily applied by anyone. Provides for expansion and contraction. In practical use six years. Boxed for shipment to any part of country. Address for Circular, CALDWELL & CO., Cincinnati.

Incomparably the Best and Cheapest Windmill. Protected by two patents. Eight First Premiums. Light but strong and durable. Has more wind surface runs in lighter winds, is more automatic, and pumps more water than any other windmill ever before made. Requires no attention. No complicated running expenses. It has successfully withstood the tornadoes of the West, while other mills that stood near them have been destroyed. It is rapidly superseding others there. See certificates and testimonials in our Illustrated Catalogue.

Kewanee Manuf'g Co. Patentees.

Office—35 BROADWAY, NEW YORK.

N. B.—Responsible State and County Agents wanted in all parts of the World.

$500. MADE IN 87 DAYS. CATALOGUE FREE. Buckeye Novelty Co., Cincinnati, O.

Scientific.

The bone cave at Shandon, near Dungarvan, in Waterford, accidentally discovered some twenty years ago, was the first Irish cave which produced animal remains belonging to the pleistocene period, in it were found remains of the mammoth, horse, bear, wolf, and reindeer. Professor Leith Adams, in his report on the exploration of this cave (1876), surmised that it was an enormous shelter-shed where the wild denizens repaired to end their days, or for the purpose of dragging in their prey, and he suggested that it required only funds and some enterprise to discover other caverns in the neighborhood of this one containing abundance of pleistocene animal remains. One such has within the last few days been discovered near Cappoquin, at a distance of about seven miles from the Shandon cave, by Mr. Usher, of Cappagh. This new cavern is of large size, and appears to have been occupied at a very remote period by bears, portions of whose skeletons are to be met with in the lower deposits of the floor; but the chief interest in this discovery rests in the fact that remains of the great Irish elk (Megaceros Hibernicus) were found in it, in combination with the bones of other deer and of bears, and along with a polished greenstone celt (neolithic) and several bone rubbers.

A NEW WRITING TELEGRAPH.—Nature reports that an invention of a real, practical character, not a mere pium post futurum invention like many we have heard of lately, has just been made by Mr. E. A. Cowper, the well known mechanical engineer. It is a real telegraphic writing machine. The writer in London moves his pen, and simultaneously at Brighton another pen is moved, as though by a phantom hand, in precisely similar curves and motions. The writer writes in London; the ink marks in Brighton. We have seen this instrument at work, and its marvels are quite as startling as those of the telephone. The pen at the receiving end has all the appearance of being guided by a spirit hand. The apparatus is shortly to be made public before the Society of Telegraph Engineers.

—A valuable cement is described in Dingler's Polytechnisches Journal, which consists of a chromium preparation and isinglass. It is made by dissolving chromic acid in water, as follows: Crystallized chromic acid, 2½ grammes; water, 15 grammes; ammonia 15 grammes. To this solution about ten drops of sulphuric acid are added, and finally thirty grammes of sulphate of ammonia and four grammes of the white paper. The isinglass solution is prepared by dissolving isinglass in dilute acetic acid—one part to seven parts water. These two solutions are kept separate till the cement is needed. When used for envelopes, for which the cement seems specially adapted, the chromium preparation is applied to the part under the flap, while the flap itself is moistened with the isinglass solution. The two are then pressed together, and a cement formed which is firm and solid, insoluble in hot or cold water or even steam, and not affected by either acids or alkalies.

—Professor Newcomb, of the Naval Institute of Washington, has received letters from Otto Struve, Director of the Pulkowa Observatory, announcing that the Russian Government has voted 250,000 rubles for the construction of the largest telescope that can be advantageously made, including a building in which to mount it. The object glass is intended to be between thirty inches and three feet in diameter. If the glass-makers should prove able to cast a disc of this size of the necessary evenness and purity, it has not yet been decided who shall undertake the most difficult part of the work, the grinding of the glass—and before deciding Struve intends to visit this country in order to examine the Washington and other great telescopes made by Alvan Clark & Sons. He will probably arrive here for this purpose sometime during the Summer. Should his examination prove satisfactory he will, he says, be ready to open negotiations with the Clarks for the work. If he is not it will be done enough better to warrant the risk of sending the glass twice across the Atlantic.

An analogy between the action of the phonograph and the action of the brain in the process of memory, has been suggested by Mr. C. W. Siemens. "It seems a fair question to ask," he says, "whether the gray cortical cells of the brain may not, after all, be something analogous to a storehouse of phonographic impressions representing the accumulated treasure of our knowledge and experience. If, he called into rapid action by the directing power of the mind in turning on, as it were, one barrel or another." Mr. Siemens also thinks this hypothesis explains continuous dreams, which may be regarded as due to some local disturbance that turns several phonographic barrels of memory at the same time.

The Russian Society of Hygiene proposes to put locks with wrote inserts on a black ground, in order to check the increase of injury in schools.

Has been in constant use by the public for over twenty years, and is the best preparation ever invented for RESTORING GRAY HAIR TO ITS YOUTHFUL COLOR AND LIFE.

It supplies the natural food and color to the hair glands without staining the skin. It will increase and thicken the growth of the hair, prevent its thinning and falling off, and thus AVERT BALDNESS.

It cures Itching, Eruptions and Dandruff. As a HAIR DRESSING it is very desirable, giving the hair a silken softness which all admire. It keeps the head clean, sweet and healthy.

The State Assayer and Chemist of Mass. and leading Physicians endorse and recommend it as a great triumph in medicine.

BUCKINGHAM'S DYE FOR THE WHISKERS

Will change the beard to a BROWN or BLACK at discretion. Being in one preparation it is easily applied, and produces a permanent color that will not wash off.

PREPARED BY
R. P. HALL & CO., NASHUA, N. H.
Sold by all Dealers in Medicine.

EDUCATIONAL.

Woodville Female Seminary.

A NON-SECTARIAN ACADEMY, UNDER the supervision of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, Mississippi Conference; Hon. E. McGehee, President of Board of Trustees. For Thoroughness of instruction, healthfulness, cheapness, and many other advantages, is not surpassed. We invite those interested to examine our credentials, and to obtain circulars, by calling upon Mr. Philip Werlein, New Orleans, La., or address the Principal.

A. J. WRIGHT
Woodville, Miss.

The Loquet-LeRoy Institute

AND KINDERGARDEN DAY AND BOARDING SCHOOL FOR YOUNG LADIES, 280 Camp Street.—This institution has now reopened under the auspices of the Misses MOISE, Cecelia W., Sallie L., and Corinne, the latter relicte of the late R. G. Raoul, daughters of Judge E. Warren Moise, deceased, successors of Mme Loquet LeRoy, whose good will and right to conduct the School under the old name they have purchased. Except in so far as the proprietors may enter into active service, there will be no change of teachers. No change whatever in the conduct and management of the School. They respectfully solicit a continuance of the patronage heretofore so liberally extended to the institution, and that of their friends, and the public generally, promising strict devotion to every interest of the pupils committed to their charge.

C. W. MOISE, Principal.

REFERRING TO THE ABOVE MADAME LOQUET-LEROY announces to her friends and former patrons the entire confidence she has in her successors being in every way suited to the high trust they have assumed. She bespeaks for them a continuance of the patronage so liberally accorded her, and that she will still be actively connected with the institution. For terms and particulars apply to the principal.

HIWASSEE COLLEGE,

(Postoffice the same),
MONROE COUNTY, EAST TENNESSEE.

PARENTS desiring to find a safe and healthy location for their sons during the summer season would do well to patronize the above-named institution under the patronage of the Holston Annual Conference, Methodist Episcopal Church, South. The spring term closes May 22, and Fall session begins

FIRST MONDAY IN AUGUST, 1879.

Students arriving before the latter date will be beyond the reach of epidemics, and will thus secure some months of profitable study before Colleges usually open in less favored localities. Excellent board in College Boarding House by D. A. McKenzie, the well known farmer-steward, at ten dollars per month, washing included. Same in good private families at nine dollars. Tuition, College Course, twenty dollars; English Course, fifteen dollars.

J. H. BRUNNER, D. D., President.
F. M. GRACE, A. M., Secretary.

WOOD! WOOD! WOOD!

Those who are desirous of securing CHEAP WOOD AND COAL, will find it to their interest to send their orders to the

JACKSON WOOD YARD,
146 JACKSON STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

GRATGNARD & SCHNEIDER,
DEALERS IN
Fine Cut Chewing, Snuff and Smoking
TOBACCO,
HAVANA AND DOMESTIC CIGARS,
46 Magnolia Street, New Orleans, La.
Brier Root and all other varieties of Pipes constantly on hand.

NOW OPEN.
Schroeder's Family Garden,
Corner Short and Levee Sts.,
CARROLLTON.

Where all the delicacies of the season can be had at the most moderate rates. Comfortable and delightfully cool Dining Rooms. PURE CREAM, SPRING CHICKENS, etc., a Specialty.

MRS. E. SCHROEDER,
Proprietress.

Blount Springs, Alabama.

THE most accessible mountain Summer resort in the South. Only eighteen hours ride from New Orleans. Pure, bracing air. The best mineral water on the Continent. All chronic diseases successfully treated; dyspepsia a specialty. Send to the Proprietor for circulars, etc., or call on T. E. Cranmer, corner Camp and Common streets, for information.

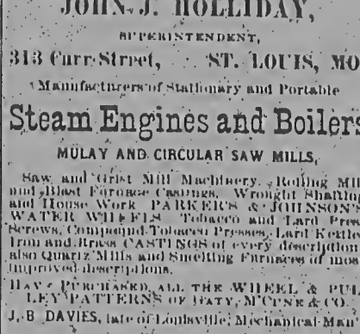
S. D. HOLT, Proprietor,
Blount Springs, Ala.

Broadway Foundry Co.
JOHN J. HOLLIDAY,
SUPERINTENDENT,
313 Carr Street, ST. LOUIS, MO.
Manufacturers of Stationary and Portable
Steam Engines and Boilers
MILAY AND CIRCULAR SAW MILLS,

Saw and Grist Mill Machinery, Rolling Mill and Blast Furnace Castings, Wrought Shafting and House Work. PARKER'S & JOHNSON'S WATER WHEELS. Tobacco and Lard Press Screws, Compound Tobacco Presses, Lard Kettles Iron and Brass CASTINGS of every description; also Quartz Mills and Smelting Furnaces of most improved descriptions.

HAVE PURCHASED ALL THE WHEEL & PULLEY PATTERNS OF DATY, M'CUNE & CO.

J. B. DAVIES, late of Louisville, Mechanical Man't.



FOUNDED JULY 1, 1808.

OLDEST SHOT TOWER IN AMERICA

THOS. W. SPARKS,
Patent American
Chilled Shot,
Standard Drop and Buck Shot
AND BAR LEAD MANUFACTURER,
131 WALNUT STREET,
PHILADELPHIA.

NORTON & MANNING, Agents,
NEW ORLEANS.
G. B. MILLER & CO., Agents,
GALVESTON.

BUCK'S IMPROVED

BRILLIANT STOVE.
Is acknowledged to be the
BEST COOK-STOVE MADE
SOLD BY
H. HALLER,
NEW ORLEANS.
DEALER IN ALL KINDS OF

Cooking and Heating Stoves of the most Improved makes. Stamped, Plain and Japanned Tin ware. Tinned and Enameled Hollow-ware Iron and Clay Furnaces, Tinner's Stock, Granite Iron-ware, Lamp burner and Wick to suit. Tinned Iron Spoons and Forks, Coffee Mills of all kinds. Plain and Japanned ware, Sad Irons, Fire Grates, Fluting machines, etc.

H. HALLER,
No. 55 Camp St., New Orleans.
Price-lists mailed on application.

PROFESSIONAL CARDS.

WM. L. THOMPSON,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
Office, Garza Building, corner Houston and Soledad Sts.,
SAN ANTONIO, TEXAS.

DR. E. P. DOREMUS,
DENTIST,
SUCCESSOR TO DR. DICKEY.
110 Canal street, over B. T. Walshe's,
NEW ORLEANS.
Special attention given to the preservation of the natural teeth.

DR. C. J. BICKHAM,
RESIDENCE AND OFFICE,
220 Jackson St., Bet. Chestnut and Coliseum
NEW ORLEANS.
Office Hours—Eight A. M. and three to four P. M.

DR. J. J. LYONS,
NO. 219 CARONDELET STREET
Between Julia and St. Joseph,
New Orleans, La.

CARRIAGES, WAGONS, ETC.

FIRST PREMIUM AT ST. LOUIS FOR 1878.
JOHN KIMPEL,
Manufacturer of
CARRIAGES AND BUGGIES,
PLATFORM WAGONS, TRUCKS,
LIGHT AND HEAVY SPRING WAGONS.
208, 210, 212 & 214 Spruce St. ST. LOUIS, MO.
Batouches, Buggies and all kinds of Spring Wagons.

BUSINESS CARDS.

WATCHES.

LADY'S GOLD WATCHES, $30 and upward.
GENT'S GOLD WATCHES, $45 and upward.
GENT'S SILVER WATCHES, $12 and upward.
BOYS SILVER WATCHES, $12 and upward.
All guaranteed.

A. B. GRISWOLD & CO.,
Cor. Canal and Royal Sts.

RICE, BORN & CO.,
89.....CAMP STREET.....91
WAREHOUSE—143, 145 & 147 MAGAZINE ST.,
NEW ORLEANS.
IMPORTERS AND DEALERS IN FOREIGN AND DOMESTIC
HARDWARE!
BUILDERS' HARDWARE,
GRATES, CUTLERY, STOVES,
HOUSE FURNISHING GOODS, ETC.
SOLE AGENTS FOR THE
CHARTER OAK STOVE
HOWE SCALES and
BARBED FENCE WIRE.

The Stewart Stove
WITH LATEST IMPROVEMENT.
Is now the
LEADING STOVE OF THE AGE

There can be no failure in its perfect operation. Will outlast and consume less fuel than any other Stove made.
Can be had for coke, coal or wood.
Hot water attachments for bathing, etc., can be attached with but little extra cost.
Pieces to repair old Stewart Stoves constantly on hand.

J. H. CAMPMAN,
133 Poydras Street.

MENEELYS' BELLS,
For Churches, etc. Known to the public since 1826, are made only at "THE MENEELY BELL FOUNDERY," West Troy, N. Y. Catalogues free.

HEATH, PIPPEY & LARA,
IMPORTERS AND DEALERS IN
CARPETS, FLOOR OIL CLOTHS,
UPHOLSTERY GOODS, Wall Paper, Window Shades, Cornices, Lace and Nottingham Curtains, Mirrors, Moldings, Chromos, Engravings, etc.
Frames made to order—a specialty.
No. 99 Camp Street, New Orleans.

WATCHES AND JEWELRY,
17 BARONNE STREET,
Bet. Common and Canal, NEW ORLEANS.
ALSO
LOAN OFFICE,
Private entrance to right of show window.
Unredeemed pledges of every description sold at very low prices and with full guarantee.
OTTO SCHWANER.
Watches and Jewelry carefully repaired. Jewelry at low cash prices.

AROMATIC
SALICYLINE
TOOTH WASH
FOR THE
TEETH, GUMS & BREATH

Warranted Pure, Harmless and Infallible, Imparting the most fragrant Perfume to the breath (Otar of Roses and Sweet Myrrh), gives a healthy tone to the gums, cures all sores in the mouth, and by the action of its antiseptic curative qualities, removes all offensiveness of the breath, cleanses, beautifies and preserves the teeth; applied to decayed teeth it annihilates the pain almost immediately. Endorsed by the most Eminent Physicians and Dentists of Europe and America. It contains no injurious ingredients, such as used in other preparations now in the market. Price $1.00 per box (containing a large bottle Rose Wash, and box of finest Powder). Sent to any address on receipt of price. Manufactured by European Salicylic Medicine Co. of Paris and Leipsic. Address Washburne & Co., Sole Agents. Only Importers' Depot, 23 Cliff Street, New York, U. S. A. For sale by Druggists, Perfumery and Fancy Goods Dealers. 90w

MARBLE
—AND—
GRANITE
TOMBS, MONUMENTS AND GRAVE STONES.
Mantels, Grates Hearths, Tiling, Flagging, etc.
GEO. STROUD.
164 St. Charles street, New Orleans, La.

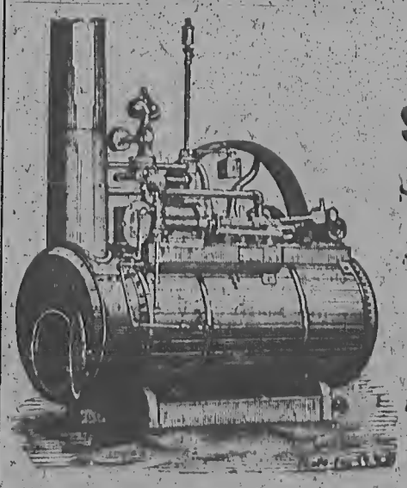
MISCELLANEOUS.

C. W. DUNBAR'S SONS,
3 Tchoupitoulas St., New Orleans,
PRESERVERS AND PACKERS OF
SHRIMP, FRESH OKRA, ARTICHOKES,
IN TINS,
MANUFACTURERS OF
STANDARD FRUIT SIRUPS.
FOR SALE BY WHOLESALE AND RETAIL GROCERS.

FOR THE VERY BEST AND NEVER FADING
PHOTOGRAPHS
GO TO
121 CANAL ST.
Tauro Building.

D. H. HOLMES,
155 Canal Street, - - - 15 Bourbon Street.
Our Stock of Spring Goods is now complete, consisting of the latest novelties in
SILKS, LACES, DRESS GOODS IN WORSTED FABRICS
BLACK GRENADINES IN SILK AND WOOL,
LINEN LAWNS, ORGANDIES, AND PERCALES,
HOSIERY in all Styles and Colors,
A Complete Assortment of MATTINGS
SAMPLES sent free of charge.
D. H. HOLMES
155 CANAL STREET.

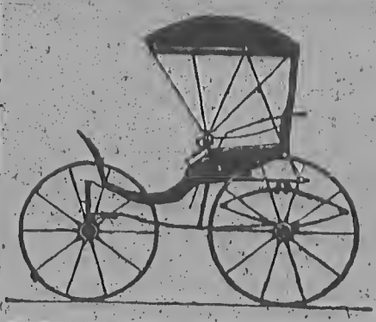
COTTON PRESSES
REYNOLD'S IRON WORKS,
C. W. HOTCHKISS, Superintendent.
Corner South Market and Fulton Streets, New Orleans, La.,
MANUFACTURER OF
Reynold's Revolving Wrought Iron Screw Plantation Cotton Press,
And Reynold's Reversing Gear Power Press,
Over One thousand of these Presses are now in use, and are acknowledged to be the most perfect Plantation Presses in every particular at present known.
Timp's Patent Hand and Power Elevators,
For use in Stores Warehouses, Factories Hotels and Private Dwellings. These Elevators are now in use on the plantations of John S. Wallis, Esq., J. W. Godberry, Esq., Mrs. R. S. Welham, and many others, as well as in numerous stores in New Orleans, and have proved themselves extremely valuable in saving time and labor.
Capt. Jos. Menge's New Improved Dredge-Boat
Which is now in successful operation on the Magnolia Plantation, also operating in St. Mary Parish by the Louisiana Land Reclamation Company of which Columbus H. Allen is President. Parties desiring information respecting the merits etc., of this Superior Dredge can obtain same by addressing as above, or Capt. Jos. Menge, Pointe Michel, Plaquemines parish, La.
Cemetery Tombs, Iron Fronts for Buildings, Columns, Railings, Castings of all kinds, and Iron Work in General.



R. M. & B. J. MONTGOMERY,
FURNITURE EMPORIUM,
MORESQUE BUILDING,
Corner Camp and Poydras Streets,

Owing to the lateness of the season, and not wishing to carry them over the summer months, we have made great reductions in the prices of all our line
BEDROOM AND PARLOR SUITS,
FRENCH PLATE MIRRORS,
FANCY AND ORNAMENTAL FURNITURE.

We also have a complete stock of Medium and Common Furniture; Office, Hall and Library Furniture; Bent Wood Lawn Chairs, Rockers and Settees; Lawn Benches, with Awning Attachments; Invalid Rocking and Wheel Chairs; Spring Beds; Spiral, Woven Wire, Spring, Hair and Moss Mattresses; Feather Pillows and Bolsters; the Patent Filipine Spring Pillow, the best ever invented for a warm climate; Rattan and Perforated Seat Chairs, Rockers and Settees; the "Victor" Folding and Rack Desk, the best school desk extant.

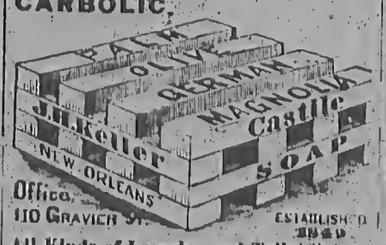


Our stock of FURNITURE and MIRRORS is one of the largest in the country and we can successfully compete with any house North or South; Consignments, merchants' and country orders solicited. All goods delivered free of charge. Give us a call before purchasing.

N. B.—We are prepared to re-upholster Parlor Suits and Chairs in any goods at any notice.

PAYNE'S
PORTABLE
STEAM ENGINES,
5 TO 15 HORSE POWER,
Strong, Simple and Durable,
BEST PLANTATION ENGINE MADE.
Send for Special Price List of this and other styles Engines, Boilers, etc.

B. J. WEST,
SOLE AGENT,
145 and 147 Magazine Street,
NEW ORLEANS.
Iron Fronts, Hardware, Agricultural Implements, Saw Mills, Gins, etc.



ANDERSON, HARRIS & CO.,
Wholesale Manufacturers of
Buggies, Phætons,
CARRIAGES AND VEHICLES
OF EVERY DESCRIPTION,
OFFICE AND FACTORY:
N. E. Cor. Baymiller and Liberty Sts.,
CINCINNATTI.
Sixth Street (Green) Cars pass the door.

ESTABLISHED IN 1838.
LEEDS' FOUNDRY,
Cor. Delord and Foucher Sts.

Established in St. Louis in 1858.
R. L. ROSEBROUGH SONS,
Marble Works,
No. 1421 BROADWAY,
Between O'Fallon and Cass Avenues,
ST. LOUIS, MO.

J. H. KELLER,
MANUFACTURER OF
CARBOLIC,

Office, 110 Gravier St. ESTABLISHED 1849.
All Kinds of Laundry and Toilet Soaps.

MISCELLANEOUS.

PERFORATED
VENEER SEATS AND CHAIRS

For use in Churches, Halls and Lodges, are coming into general use on account of their Comfort, Durability, Cleanliness, and Ornament.

No. 115.

Churches intending to buy Chairs or Settees will do well to correspond with
CARDNER & CO.,
Patentees and Manufacturers,
181 CANAL ST., NEW YORK.

COAL COAL COAL
B. D. WOOD & BROS.,
Corner Camp and Common Streets,
Opposite the City Hotel.
Wholesale and Retail dealers in all kinds of COAL. Pittsburg Coal delivered by the load or less on the coast, and shipped in sacks or in bulk at lowest market rates. Cypress kindling supplied.

ROSES
by mail, J. T. Pugsley & Son, Westchester, Chester Co., Pa.
now

BOOKS ESTABLISHED 20 YEARS
J. W. McINTYRE, St. Louis, Mo.
now

LADY AGENTS WANTED FOR MADAME GRISWOLD'S

PATENT
SKIRT-SUPPORTING
CORSETS,
21 E. 16th St. New York.

BRANCH OFFICE:
No. 11 WINTER ST., BOSTON, MASS.

Any of the above goods sent by mail, postage prepaid, on receipt of the set price. Send for descriptive circular.

CAUTION:
Before purchasing look for Stamp and Trade Mark.

DR. S. C. BRAM,
MANUFACTURER OF THE
SURE CURE TRUSS,
N. W. cor Fifth & Elm sts., Cincinnati, O.
THE BEST TRUSS IN THE WORLD!

Those who have suffered untold agony for years by wearing the Metallic Spring Trusses will find in the SURE CURE Truss all that its name implies—a sure cure for all the distressful open ruptures. It is a Belt Truss—no springs, straps, steels or buckle, vulcanite rubber pads that never blister, never slip, can be worn at night.

Testimonials and references can be seen at the office. No. 1 Elastic Trusses, the best manufactured warranted, at $5 for single $10 for double. Examinations free.

Trusses sent free by mail on receipt of order and money. Send stamp for circular.

MARSDEN'S
PECTORAL BALM,
THE GREAT REMEDY FOR COUGHS, COLDS,
AND
CONSUMPTION.
G. R. FINLAY & CO.,
New Orleans, La., Sole Agts.
FOR SALE BY ALL DRUGGISTS.

DR. S. H. P. LEE'S
LITHONTRIPTIC

CURES STONE AND GRAVEL, GALL STONES, DIABETES, GOUT, ENLARGEMENT OF THE PROSTATE GLAND, and in its incipient stages, BRIGHT'S DISEASE.
TRADE MARK. DISSOLVES
STONE AND GRAVEL
In the Kidneys, Ilver and Bladder. It is now for the first time given to the public, and comes for the most distressing diseases of the urinary organs. Pamphlet to depot of the S. H. L. LEE COMPANY, No. 40 Clinton Place New York city. Sold by druggists.

POOLE & HUNT, BALTIMORE.
MANUFACTURERS OF
THE POOLE & HUNT LEFFEL TURBINE
WATER WHEELS,
MACHINE MOULDED
MILL GEARING,
SHAFTING, PULLEYS AND HANGERS,
STEAM ENGINES AND BOILERS,
MIXERS FOR FERTILIZERS AND CHEMICAL

PRICES CURRENT

IN

THE NEW ORLEANS MARKETS.

REVISED AND CORRECTED WEEKLY.

☞ Correspondents should bear in mind that our quotations represent prices for round lots, and in filling small orders higher rates must be paid.

GROCERIES.

Butter, ₩ lb.:
Western creamery, fancy	20	— —
New York creamery, fancy	18	— —
Coffee, ₩ lb.:
Rio, fair	13¾	13¾
Rio, good	14¾	14¾
Rio, prime	14¾	15
Candles, ₩ lb.:
Star, best brands	11	11½
Corn Meal, ₩ bbl.:
Choice	2 55	— —
Cheese, ₩ lb.:
Factory	5	6
N. Y. cream and English dairy	10	16½
Fish:
Mackerel, extra No. 1, in bbls	— —	18 00
Mackerel, extra No. 1, in kits	— —	2 00
Sardines, quarter boxes	— —	— —
Flour, ₩ bbl.:
Superfine	3 50	4 00
XX	4 50	— —
XXX	4 75	5 00
Choice XXX	5 5	— —
Choice family	5 75	— —
Fruits:
Dried apples, ₩ lb	3	8½
Dried peaches, ₩ lb	2½	— —
Raisins, ₩ quarter box	45	50
Raisins, ₩ half box	— —	1 00
Raisins, ₩ whole box	1 50	— —
Bananas, ₩ bunch	1 00	2 00
Crackers, ₩ lb.:
Soda	5	6
Butter	6	7
Sugar	5	9
Gingernuts	9	12½
Oil:
Coal, in cases, best	20	23
Coal, in barrels, best	15	16
Insurance, in cases	— —	40
Insurance, in barrels	— —	35
Lard, in barrels, best	58	60
Molasses, in barrels:
Common	25	— —
Fair	28	— —
Prime to choice	32	35
Golden and Roquet syrups	— —	— —
Half bbls. 5c. and kegs 10c. more.
Rice, Louisiana, ₩ lb.:
No. 2	4¼	4½
Ordinary	6¼	6¾
Fair	7	— —
Prime to choice	7⅞	8
Soap, ₩ box:
XXX Palm	3 30	— —
Keller's magnolia	2 00	— —
Keller's olive	2 5	— —
Starch, ₩ lb.	2¾	2¾
Salt, in sacks:
Fine	1 4	1 45
Coarse	90	95
Sugar:
Good fair	6¾	— —
Prime	6⅞	— —
Choice	7¼	— —
Yellow clarified	7	7¼
White clarified	— —	— —
Crushed	9¼	— —
Powdered	9	— —
Spices, ₩ lb.:
Allspice	15¾	— —
Pepper	13¾	14
Cloves	45	— —
Cinnamon	— —	— —
Tea, ₩ lb.:
Black Oolong	27½	1 10
Green Imperial	80	90
Tobacco:
Low lugs	2½ @ 3
Medium	3½ @ 4
Good to fine	4¾ @ 4¾
Low leaf	4½ @ 5
Medium	5½ @ 6
Good	7 @ 8
Fine	7 @ 8
Selections	9 @ 10

GRAIN AND FEED.

Corn, ₩ bushel:
Yellow	51	— —
White	51	51
Mixed	50	— —
Oats, ₩ bushel:
St. Louis	39	— —
Texas	— —	— —
Galena	— —	— —
Bran, choice, ₩ 100 lbs	— —	95
Hay, ₩ ton:
Prime	— —	17 00
Ordinary	13 00	— —
Cow Peas:
Whippoorwill	1 00	— —
Mixed	1 15	1 20
Clay	1 25	— —

PROVISIONS.

Bacon, ₩ lb.:
Breakfast	7	— —
Shoulders	4¾	— —
Sides, clear rib	5¾	— —
Sides, clear	6	— —
Hams, sugar-cured	10¾	11
Mess Pork, ₩ bbl.	10 75	11 00
Dry Salted Meat:
Shoulders	4¾	— —
Lard, ₩ lb.:
Choice, in kegs and pails	7¾	8
Choice, in tierces and pan'ls	6¾	6¾

ESCULENTS.

Potatoes, ₩ bbl	3 00	3 50
Onions, ₩ bbl	3 00	3 75
Apples, ₩ bbl.	— —	— —
Cabbages, ₩ 100	6 00	10 00

WOOL.

Entry	10	17
Louisiana, clear	17	20
Lake, clear	18	20½

BALING STUFFS.

Bagging:
Dodia	— —	— —
Jute	10¾	11
Ties, Arrow best; per bundle, 50 lbs and buckles	— —	2 50
Twine, hemp	12	— —

POULTRY AND EGGS.

Poultry, ₩ dozen:
Old chickens	3 75	4 00
Young	1 50	2 00
Ducks	2 25	2 50
Geese	3 50	4 00
Turkeys	10 00	12 00
Eggs, ₩ dozen:
Western	8	10
Louisiana	— —	— —

THE TIDY HOUSEWIFE.

The careful, tidy housewife, when she is giving her house its Spring cleaning, should bear in mind that the dear inmates of her house are more precious than houses, and that their systems need cleansing by purifying the blood, regulating the stomach and bowels to prevent and cure the diseases arising from spring malaria and miasma, and she should know that there is nothing that will do it so perfectly and surely as Hop Bitters, the purest and best of all medicines. See other column.—Adv

In a primary school, not long ago, the teacher undertook to convey to her pupils an idea of the uses of the hyphen. She wrote on the blackboard "Birds nest" and pointing to the hyphen, asked the school, "What is that for?" After a short pause a small Fenian piped out, "Plaze, ma'am, for the burd to roost on."—Boston Globe.

BENSON'S CAPCINE POROUS PLASTER.

A WONDERFUL REMEDY.

There is no comparison between it and the common slow acting porous plaster. It is in every way superior to all other external remedies including liniments and the so-called electrical appliances. It contains new medicinal elements which in combination with rubber, possesses the most extraordinary pain relieving, strengthening and curative properties. Any Physician in your own locality will confirm the above statement. For Kidney Disease, Rheumatism, Female Weakness, Stubborn and Neglected Colds and Coughs diseased Kidneys, Whooping Cough, affections of the heart, and all ills for which porous plasters are used. It is simply the best known remedy. Ask for Benson's Capcine Porous Plaster and take no other. Sold by all Druggists. Price 50 cents. Sent on receipt of price by Seabury & Johnson, 21 Platt street, New York.

COMMERCIAL.

ADVOCATE OFFICE,
NEW ORLEANS, Monday, June 23, 1879.

COTTON.

Nothing has transpired to establish any quotable improvement in prices. The market, however, is manifestly firmer. A high style of good middling sold at 12½c.

The following is the official closing of the Cotton Exchange:

	To-Day.	Saturday
Low ordinary	10¾	10¾
Ordinary	11¼	11¼
Good ordinary	11¾	11¾
Low middling	12	12
Middling	12¼	12¼
Good middling	12½	12½
Middling fair	12¾	12¾

Sales to-day, 600 bales. Market steady.

MOVEMENT AT PORTS.

Receipts at United States ports, week ending Monday, June 23, 1879

	Saturday.	Sunday and Monday.	This week last year.
Galveston	101	286	1,852
New Orleans	138	110	1,500
Mobile	17	112	45
Savannah	342	523	1,013
Charleston	6	8	179
Wilmington	3	....	57
Norfolk	35	46	787
Baltimore	1 0	....	136
New York	3	41	122
Boston	54	....	241
Philadelphia	20	....	333
Various	....	....	147
Total	869	1,126	6,318

FUTURES

The position of the market at New York may be seen by the following:

Middling.	To-day.	Saturday.
January	11 10@11.12	11,14@11.15
February	....	....
March	....	....
April	....	....
May	....	....
June	12 48@12 50	12 55@12.57
July	12.48@12.50	12 56@12.57
August	12.61@12.62	12 65
September	12.45@12.46	12.47
October	12.57@12.58	01 52
November	12.45@12.46	11.18
December	11 07@11.08	11 1@11.12

Sales, 85 000 bales. Market barely steady.

It happened one day that St. Thomas of Aquinas was sitting by Innocent IV. when masses of gold were being carried into the papal treasury. "You see," said the Pope, "the age is past when the church could say, 'Silver and gold have I none.'" "Yes, Holy Father, and the day is past when she could say to the paralytic, 'Take up thy bed and walk.'"—Farrar.

MISCELLANEOUS.

TUTT'S PILLS

INDORSED BY

PHYSICIANS, CLERGYMEN AND THE AFFLICTED EVERYWHERE.

THE GREATEST MEDICAL TRIUMPH OF THE AGE.

TUTTS' PILLS CURE SICK HEADACHE.

TUTT'S PILLS CURE DYSPEPSIA.

TUTT'S PILLS CURE CONSTIPATION.

TUTT'S PILLS CURE PILES

TUTT'S PILLS CURE FEVER AND AGUE.

TUTT'S PILLS CURE BILIOUS COLIC.

TUTT'S PILLS Cure KIDNEY Complaint.

TUTT'S PILLS CURE TORPID LIVER.

TUTT'S PILLS IMPART APPETITE.

DR. TUTT has succeeded in combining in these pills the hereto-fore antagonistic qualities of a STRENGTHING, PURGATIVE, and a PURIFYING TONIC.

Their first apparent effect is to increase the appetite by causing the food to properly assimilate. Thus the system is nourished, and by their tonic action on the digestive organs, regular and healthy evacuations are produced.

The rapidity with which PERSONS TAKE ON FLESH while under the influence of these pills, indicates their adaptability to nourish the body, hence their efficacy in curing nervous debility, melancholy, dyspepsia, wasting of the muscles, sluggishness of the liver, chronic constipation, and impairing health & strength to the system. Sold everywhere.

Price 25 cents.

Office
53 Murray Street,
NEW YORK.

COMPOUND OXYGEN.

A NEW TREATMENT for the cure of chronic diseases by a true process of re-vitalization.

REMARKABLE CURES have been made in Consumption, Asthma, Catarrh, Bronchitis, Dyspepsia, Headache, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, and the large class of ailments which spring from nervous depression.

LOSS OF VITALITY feebleness of constitution, exposure to miasma, the enervating effects of climate, and especially IN SOUTHERN LATITUDES to the slow reaction which attends convalescence, and which dooms so many to permanent invalidism.

STRONGLY ENDORSED by the Hon. JOHN COCHRANEY, T. S. ARTHUR, Hon. MONTGOMERY BLAIR, Ex-Gov. HOFFMAN of West Virginia, and others who have used the New Treatment.

FREE! A Treatise (200 pages) on COMPOUND OXYGEN, with many testimonials to most remarkable cures, sent free. Address

DRS. STARKEY & PALEN, 1109 Girard St., Philada.

NEW RICH BLOOD!

PARSON'S PURGATIVE PILLS make New Rich Blood, and will completely change the blood in the entire system in three months. Any person who will take one each night from one to twelve weeks may be restored to sound health, if such a thing be possible. Sold everywhere or sent by mail for eight letter stamps.

I. S. JOHNSON & CO., Bangor, Me.

DR. F. WILHOFT'S

ANTI-PERIODIC

OR

FEVER AND AGUE TONIC,

Is deservedly the most popular

CHILL AND FEVER TONIC,

Because it is simply a preparation of Peruvian Bark without Quinine or any other dangerous drug, such as Arsenic, etc., and because during a great number of years it has proved itself to be a

SAFE AND PERFECT SPECIFIC

For the cure of

ALL MALARIAL DISEASES,

This remedy is guaranteed in every way by its proprietors.

WHEELOCK, FINLAY & CO.

Religious Notices.

COMMENCEMENT OF PORT GIBSON COLLEGIATE ACADEMY.

Examination of classes, July 1-4.

Commencement sermon, Sunday, July 6, by Rev. W. L. C. Hunnicutt, P. E., Vicksburg district.

Monday, July 7.—Essays and recitations. Meeting of the alumnæ. Address by Rev. H. R. Singleton, 11 A. M.

Annual meeting of Board of Trustees, 3 P. M.

Commencement day, Tuesday, July 8, at 10 A. M.. Essays by graduating class.

Annual address by Rev. C. B. Galloway, of Vicksburg. Festival at 7 P. M. 26

DISTRICT CONFERENCES.

THE District Conference for Union Springs District, Alabama Conference, will be held at Fort Deposit, July 24-27, 1879.

26 O. R. BLUE, P. E.

THERE will be a camp meeting at Enon, Miss., on the Enon circuit, embracing the fourth Sunday in September, and commencing on Thursday before. It will be conducted on the self-sustaining plan. Preachers, traveling and local, are invited to attend.

26 L. CARLEY, P. C.

THERE will be a camp meeting at the Holland camp ground, commencing on Wednesday night before the fifth Sabbath in August. This place is eleven miles southwest of Enterprise, M. and O. railroad. Ministers will be met at Enterprise with conveyance.

26 J. MIS M. GANN.

THERE will be a camp meeting at the Midway camp ground, beginning on Friday, August 22, 1879. Ministers coming by rail to Delhi, will be furnished with transportation to the camp ground, if the undersigned is notified to that effect in time at Floyd, La.

26 T. H. MCCLENDON, P. C.

THE District Conference for Brandon district will be held at Lake camp ground, two miles north of Lake Station, V. and M. railroad, August 28-31.

The opening sermon will be preached by Rev C. McDonald, August 28, at eleven A. M., and the Conference will be organized at one P. M. of same day.

Pastors or recording stewards will please bring the records of their respective Quarterly Conferences with them.

This Conference is to be held in connection with the annual camp meeting.

26 WILL H. LEITH, P. E.

TO THE PREACHERS OF THE VICKSBURG DISTRICT, MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.—Do not forget to urge your Quarterly Conference records to the District Conference commencing at Jackson, July 10.

26 F. M. FEATHERSTUN, P. E

THE District Conference for Mobile district will begin July 2, 1879, at eight P. M., in St. Paul's Church, Mobile. Recording stewards' books of Quarterly Conference records must be brought to the meeting.

25 E. WADSWORTH, P. E.

The District Conference for Columbus District will convene at Crawfordville, July 3-7. Bishop Paine is expected. Recording Stewards, send list of delegates.

JOS. D. NEWSOM.

JACKSON DISTRICT CONFERENCE will be held at Jackson, Mississippi, beginning on Thursday, July 10, at 9 A. M.

24 F. M. FEATHERSTUN, P. E.

THE District Conference of the Meridian district, Mississippi Conference, will meet at Lauderdale station on Friday morning, June 27, at nine o'clock.

24 R. J. JONES.

SEASHORE CAMP GROUND.—The regular annual camp meeting on Seashore Camp Ground, for 1879, will commence on Wednesday, July 16, and continue from eight to ten days.

This camp ground is situated two miles west of Biloxi, Miss., and near midway from New Orleans to Mobile, fronting directly upon the Gulf of Mexico, less than one hundred yards from the sea, and less than five hundred from the New Orleans and Mobile Railroad. Occupying an elevated position, it is dry, clean and healthful, free from fevers, agues and epidemics. Shaded by a grove of rich and various foliage, and looking out upon the "wide, wide waves," it enjoys the cool, refreshing sea breezes of the sea, while the flowing waters of several mineral springs furnish free supplies of pleasant healthgiving drink.

Comfortable wooden tents or cottages of various dimensions, for individuals or families, are for rent on terms considerably reduced from former years.

The necessary but plain furniture for the same can be had at reasonable charge. Comfortable lodgings are furnished at fifty cents per night, and good board at the restaurant at fifty cents each, for breakfast and supper, and seventy-five cents for dinner, or $1 50 per day.

Reduced rates of fare and freight have been secured on the railroads.

On the New Orleans and Mobile Railroad the fare will be the same as last year, $3 20 from New Orleans, and $2 65 from Mobile, for the round trip, and tickets will be on sale at the depots on and after Monday morning, July 7, and will be good to the twenty-eighth inclusive. Freight will be received at the freight depots from the twelfth to the twenty-eighth of July inclusive, and be transported each way at half the usual rates.

The New Orleans, Chicago and St. Louis Railroad will furnish at all points on the road through tickets to the camp ground and return at five cents per mile over their road, with the addition of $3 20 to cover fare on the New Orleans and Mobile road.

On the Morgan, Louisiana and Texas road full fare from Morgan City to New Orleans, and return on same ticket free.

On the Mobile and Montgomery Railroad through tickets will be furnished at all stations on the road at six cents per mile for the round trip.

On the Mobile and Ohio Railroad tickets will be issued from the twelfth to the twentieth inclusive, through to Mobile, for one fare for the round trip, and be good to return until August 1, 1879.

On the "Pharr Line United States Mail Steamers," on the Teche, for one fare for the round trip.

All the above tickets are required to be stamped on the camp ground in order to be good to return on. All persons desiring information in regard to the camp ground are requested to address the undersigned, or any member of the Board of Trustees.

W. H. FOSTER, President.

PHILIP HALLAHAN, Secretary.

NEW ORLEANS, June 9, 1879.

Appointments for Quarterly Meetings.

LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.

ALEXANDRIA DIS.—THIRD ROUND.

Simsport circuit	Aug. 2
Bayou Rouf and Evergreen, at Big Cane	9, 10
Spring Creek, at Science Hill	16, 17
Pineville and Colfax	23, 24
Montgomery, at Sanders	30, 31
Shelly Island	Sept 6, 7
Rapides, at camp meeting	13, 14
Harrisonburg, at Robinson's schoolhouse	19, 20
Centerville	23, 24
Columbia, at Welcome Home	28, 29
Alexandria	Oct 5

25 C. KENNEY, P. E.

NEW ORLEANS DIS.—THIRD ROUND.

Algiers	June 8
Louisiana Avenue	" 22
Morgan Street	July 6
Felicity Street	" 13
Carondelet Street	Aug. 3
Plaquemine and Grosse Tete, at False River	9, 10
St. Charles Avenue	17
Baton Rouge	24
Lafourche	Sept 7

25 LINUS PARKER, P. E.

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

JACKSON DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

Yazoo circuit	July 26, 27
Daner circuit	" 30
Yazoo City station	Aug. 2, 3
Silver Creek	" 6
Tranquill circuit	" 9, 10
Brownsville circuit	" 16, 17
Jackson circuit	" 20
Raymond circuit	" 23, 24
Madison circuit	" 27
Sharoo circuit	" 30, 31
Camden circuit	Sept. 3
Canton station	" 6, 7
Jackson station	" 13, 14

26 F. M. FEATHERSTUN, P. E.

BROOKHAVEN DIS.—THIRD ROUND.

Brookhaven	July 5, 6
Spring Ridge	" 12, 13
Hazlehurst	" 19, 20
Pisgah	" 26, 27
Crystal Springs	Aug. 2, 3
Pleasant Valley	" 9, 10
Mount Pleasant, at Georgetown circuit	" 16, 17
Meadville circuit	" 23, 24
Providence	" 30, 31
Galatia	Sept. 7
Topisaw	" 13, 14
Ebenezer, at Bogue Chitto mission	" 20, 21

District Conference at Crystal Springs, June 26-29. Quarterly Conference Journals required.

Henning on Camp Ground (Crystal Springs) meeting, July 24-30.

Providence Camp Meeting, August 28 to September 3.

The customary invitation to preachers is hereby extended.

Lrs. Linfield, Johnson and West, W. Barnes and I. V. Enochs, Committee of Worship at Crystal Springs Camp Meeting. Dr. Watkins anniversarian.

24 W. E. M. LINFIELD, P. E.

ALABAMA CONFERENCE.

PENSACOLA DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

Powelton circuit	June 28, 29
Millon station	July 5, 6
Pensacola station	" 13
Warrington station	" 19, 20
Gravilla mission	" 23
Georgiana circuit	" 26, 27
Perdido mission	Aug. 2, 3
Stockton circuit	" 16, 17
Evergreen circuit	" 23, 24
Yellow River mission	" 30, 31
Monterey circuit	Sept. 6, 7
Pollard circuit	" 13, 14
Monroeville circuit	" 20, 21
Sepulga circuit	" 27, 28

26 J. M. HOLAND, P. E.

SEASHORE DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

Moss Point, at Moss Point	June 21, 22
Enon, at Garroway	" 28, 29
Ellisville, at Ellisville	July 5, 6
East Pascagoula, at Cross Roads	" 12, 13
West Pascagoula, at Oak Grove	" 26, 27
Pearlington, at Gainsville	Aug. 2, 3
Covington, at Mandeville	" 9, 10
Seashore, at Biloxi	" 16, 17
Mount Carmel	" 23, 24
Westville	" 30, 31
Ebenezer, at Wesley chapel	" 30, 31
China Grove	Sept. 6, 7
Whittington, at Whittington	" 6, 7
Amite City, at Tangipahoa	" 13, 14
Wolf River, at Bird's chapel	" 27, 28

26 JOHN A. ELLIS, P. E.

NORTH ALABAMA CONFERENCE.

DECATUR DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

Decatur	June 14, 15
Trinity, at Trinity	" 21, 22
Courtland, at Ebenezer	" 28, 29
Leighton, at Spring Creek	July 5, 6
Russellville, at Russellville	" 12, 13
Littlesville, at Littlesville	" 19, 20
Mount Hope, at Bethel	" 26, 27
Moulton, at Moulton	Aug. 2, 3
Antioch, at Mount Zion	" 9, 10
Danville, at McKendree	" 16, 17
Harlsell, at Chestnut Grove	" 23, 24
Somerville, at Gandy's Cove	" 30, 31

25 W. R. KIRK.

HUNTSVILLE DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

Huntsville station	June 5
Triana circuit	" 7, 8
Madison circuit	" 19, 20
Petersville circuit	" 21, 22
Paint Rock circuit	" 28, 29
Vienna circuit	July 2, 3
Maysville station	" 5, 6
Madison station	" 13
Athens station	" 15
Limestone circuit	" 19, 20
Larkinsville circuit	" 19, 20
Reputsboro circuit	" 22
Stevenson circuit	" 26, 27
Stevenson and Edgefield station	" 27
Deposit circuit	" 28
New Market circuit	Aug. 2, 3

The District Conference will be held at Madison beginning July 10.

25 M. L. WHITTEN, P. E.

One day a clergyman dined with the family, and Willie asked to be allowed to say grace, which he did, with bowed head and clasped hands in these words:

"I'm a little lady dood
My fa-a-ver is a pwe cher
I do to tool ev'yday,
And always mind my teacher
For Twist's sake. Amen."

"Beautiful! beautiful!" murmured the guest, solemnly raising his head. "I far you did not understand Willie," said his mamma, much annoyed. "I did not," replied the clergyman; "but the angles did."

MISCELLANEOUS.

PRICE REDUCED TO 25 CENTS. The Greatest discovery of the age is DR. TOBIAS' CELEBRATED VENETIAN LINIMENT. Thirty-two years before the public and warranted to cure Diarrhea, Dysentery, Colic and Spasms, internally; and Croup, Chronic Rheumatism, Sore Throat, Cuts, Bruises, Old Sores, and Pains in the Limbs, Back and Chest, externally. It has never failed. No family will ever be without it after once giving it a fair trial. Price as of DR. TOBIAS' VENETIAN HORSE LINIMENT, in Pint Bottles, at 50c., is warranted superior to any other, or NO PAY, for the cure of Colic, Cuts, Bruises, Old Sores, etc. Sold by all druggists. Depot 42 Murray street, New York.

"And the leaves of the tree were for the healing of the nations."—Rev. xxii, 2.

COCA BITTERS,

The Great South American Tonic.

The New Remedy, made from the Leaves of the South American Coca Plant.

An excellent cordial, prepared expressly for popular use, and presenting in an elegant form all the wonderful health giving properties of Erythroxylon Coca.

It is a Sovereign Remedy for Disorders of Digestion, Chills and Fever, Nervous Weakness, Sick Headache, Neuralgia, and other Nervous or Muscular Fatigue.

Convalescents from Fevers should use COCA BITTERS, as it gives IMMEDIATE STRENGTH and HASTENS RECOVERY.

For Sale by all Druggists.

SEND FOR CIRCULAR.

QUICHUA CO A COMPANY,

Manufacturing Chemists,

72 William St., New York.

8n

THE ORIGINAL Superintendent of Dr. Rly and Lewis Lockwood of New Orleans.

A. McDERMOTT,

has returned and established the business of manufacturing Dr. Rly's patent

ARTIFICIAL

Arms and Legs,

and has purchased the sole right for the Southern States. Perfect satisfaction guaranteed in all cases or no pay. Prices greatly reduced.

A. McDERMOTT,
303 Camp Street, N. O.

$5 A DAY AND $10 A YEAR for honest, intelligent men or agents. New business; light work. Address, J. H. CHAPMAN, Madison, Indiana.

MISCELLANEOUS.

YALE & BOWLING,

IMPORTERS AND WHOLESALE DEALERS IN

- DRY GOODS -

NOTIONS AND MILLINERY,

17, 19 and 21 - Magazine Street, - 17, 19 and 21

NEW ORLEANS, LA.

Mme. DEMOREST'S

GRAND OPENING

OF THE

SPRING STYLES,

183 CANAL STREET,

NEW ORLEANS, LA.

These Patterns are in various sizes, and put up in illustrated envelopes, on which are printed full descriptions for making, trimming, quantity of material required, etc., and are so accurately marked that the most inexperienced person can put them together.

New Basques, Polonaises, Princess Dresses, Walking Skirts Trains, etc., for Ladies; and Children's Dresses, also Boy's Clothes, Gentlemen's Underwear, Infant's Patterns, etc., furnishing economy, practical utility, artistic accuracy and fashionable elegance.

Prices From 10c. to 30c.

Send for catalogue, with directions in English, French, German and Spanish, which is furnished free on application.

GRAND OPENING

SPRING STYLES,

OF

Mme. Demorest's Patterns.

Of the Latest Fashions.

NEW BASQUES, POLONAISES, PRINCESS DRESSES WALKING SKIRTS, FRAMES, ETC., FOR LADIES, MISSES' AND CHILDREN'S DRESS.

D. P. PERRY,
8p 183 Canal St reet.

DEPOT IN ROGERS' POWDER

CITRATE OF MAGNESIA

An Agreeable Aperient and Refrigerant.

This well-known preparation is highly recommended for DYSPEPSIA, HEADACHE, Sickness of the Stomach, Heartburn, and all complaints arising from Acidity, Bilious and Malarial Fevers. It cools the blood and regulates the bowels. It is a favorite medicine for children and its acidity and sweet taste makes it cooling and refreshing. Put up in 6-ounce bottles. Prepared by

A. ROGERS' SONS, Chemists, N. Y.

Superior to Mineral Waters, Seidlitz Powders, Etc.

For sale by all New Orleans druggists. 8p

Regular Opelousas Mail Packet.

LEAVES EVERY TUESDAY, AT 5 P. M.

For Washington, Opelousas Port Barre, Simsport, Churchville, all landings on the Coast, Atchafalaya River and Bayou Courtableau—The new and light-draft Steamer

FANCHON,

B. H. BROAD, Master. THEO. JONES, Clerk, will leave as above. For freight or passage apply on board, or to

R. W. ADAMS, 21 Commercial Place.
J. E. CARLIN, 17 Tchoupitoulas St.

REGULAR OPELOUSAS PACKET.

Leaves EVERY TUESDAY at 5 P. M.

For Washington Opelousas, Port Barre, Simsport, Churchville and all landings on the Coast, Atchafalaya River and Bayou Courtableau. The very light draft passenger steamer

YAZOO,

WM. CRAWFORD, Master. J. H. SCHMIT, Clerk Will leave positively as above. For freight or passage apply on board or to

LORD & McPEAKE, Agents, 46 Camp St.
GEO. D. RITE, Agent, 4 Tchoupitoulas St.

P. S. Connects closely with Boats for Bayou Des Glaize and Barges for Bayou Boeuf.

1879. 1879.

EXCURSION ROUTE!

NORTH, EAST AND WEST,

ST. LOUIS & NEW ORLEANS

ANCHOR LINE,

The fine passenger steamers of this line will leave New Orleans on TUESDAYS, THURSDAYS and SATURDAYS, at 5 o'clock P.M., during the season, connecting at St. Louis with the principal railroads and Upper Mississippi river packets for all points North, East and West.

Passengers and baggage transferred from steamers to railroads FREE OF CHARGE.

Through and Excursion tickets for sale on board the boats and at the office of the company.

J. B. WOODS, General Agent.
No 104 Common Street

"CHANGE OF SCHEDULE."

NEW ORLEANS, SPANISH FORT

AND LAKE RAILROAD.

MAY 24, 1879.

Until further notice the trains will leave the corner of Canal and Basin Streets as follows:

Sunday at 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 10 30, 11, 11.30, 12, 12.30, 1, 1.30, and every twenty minutes after. Last train from City 9.30, from the Lake at 10.30.

During the week at 6.30, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 1, 2, 3, and every half hour after. Last train from the city at 8.30, from the Lake, 9.30.

T. S. WILLIAMS,
Superintendent.

"The Washington City Route."

BALTIMORE AND OHIO R. R

THE SHORTEST, QUICKEST AND ONLY DIRECT ROUTE TO

Washington & Baltimore,

With direct connections for Richmond, Lynchburg, Norfolk and the Southward.

Philadelphia, New York, Boston

AND THE EAST.

PULLMAN PALACE CARS,

RUN THROUGH WITHOUT CHANGE

Between the Principal

WESTERN AND EASTERN CITIES.

For Through Tickets, Baggage Checks, Movement of Trains, Sleeping Car Accommodations, etc., apply at Ticket Offices at all Principal Points North, South, East or West.

E. R. DORSEY, Asst. Gen. Ticket Agt.
L. M. COLE, Gen. Ticket Agt.
THOS. F. BARRY, Western Pass. Agent.
THOS. R. SHARP, Master of Transp'n

T. W. BOTHICK,

UNDERTAKER,

OFFICE, 871 CAMP STREET.

STABLES, 873 MAGAZINE STREET.

Embalming and disinterring bodies. Bodies carefully shipped. Carriages for hire.

FUNERALS STRICT ATTENTION. 8n

BUCKEYE BELL FOUNDRY

Bells of Pure Copper and Tin for Churches Schools, Fire Alarms, Farms, etc. FULLY WARRANTED. Catalogue sent Free.

VANDUZEN & TIFT, Cincinnati, O

BEWARE OF

Imitation Machines

Offered by second-hand dealers as

IMPROVED SINGER,

THE GENUINE

SINGER MACHINE,

—MADE BY THE—

Singer Manufacturing Co.

HAS NO EQUAL.

2 500,000 Singers in Daily Use.

Two-thirds of all the machines sold in the United States are those made by

The Singer Company,

Send for Circular and Price List. Address

The Singer Manufacturing Co.,

85 CANAL STREET,

Agent's for Butterick's Patterns.

WM. G. LHOTE. A. SAMUELS

LHOTE & CO,

OLD BASIN

SASH, BLIND, DOOR FACTORY,

AND

Lumber Yard,

Offices, Cor. Toulouse & Franklin and 32 Carondelet Sts.,

P. O. Box 946. NEW ORLEANS.

8p

W. C. SHEPARD & Co.,

49 CAMP STREET,

China, Crockery Glass,

AND HOUSE FURNISHING EMPORIUM,

CHINA, SEMI-CHINA AND IRONSTONE DINNER SETS.

Viz: 12 Dinner, 12 Breakfast, 12 Tea, 12 Fruit, 12 Butter Plates, 12 Tea, 2 After Dinner Cups and Saucers, 1 Soup Tureen, 1 Gravy Boat, 2 Dishes with Tops, 2 Without, 4 Meat Dishes, 1 Salad Dish, 2 Pickle Shells.

Variety Novelties in House-Keeping.

TEA SETS all prices and quality.
GOBLETS, TUMBLERS, BOWLS, CAKE STANDS, BERRY SETS, CASTORS, KNIVES, FORKS, SPOONS, LADLES, WAITERS, CHAMBER SETS White, Band, Fancy—all prices.
TIN CHAMBER SETS, FOOT TUB, WATER CARRIER and SLOP JAR, REFRIGERATORS, ICE CHESTS, WATER COOLERS, CREAM FREEZERS, COAL OIL STOVES, LAMPS, CANS to contain 5 gallons of oil, BRUSHES, WOODWARE, TINWARE, PLATED WARE, FANCY VASES, MOTTO CUPS, MUGS, FLOWER GLASSES, CLOCKS, LOOKING GLASSES, CHANDELIERS.

PINE ISLAND GUANO

FOR SUGAR CANE

—AND—

ALL QUICK-GROWING CROPS.

PINE ISLAND

Ammoniated Phosphate,

FOR COTTON

—AND—

ALL SUMMER AND FALL CROPS,

The Best Fertilizers in use, and prepared with great care for the Southern market.

THE KINNEY & MILLER (Minnesota)

Early Amber Sugar Cane Seed,

CROP 1878,

Fresh from Kenny & Miller Farms.

DISCOUNT TO THE TRADE.

FOR SALE BY

HUGH W. MONTGOMERY,

160 Common St., New Orleans.

Sole Agent for the Southwest.

DISCOVERY By which hair can be forced to grow on the smoothest heads. The papers all over the country contain notices of the remarkable virtues of Mrs. Hyatt's Hair Restorer, and there are scores of living witnesses in St. Louis who take pleasure in testifying to the efficacy of the Restorer. Mrs. Hyatt's principle is the most reasonable, because she proceeds on the well-based supposition that the hair germ never dies while life exists in the person, and that it is only necessary to stimulate the germ to produce a satisfactory growth. Three bottles for $5; $1 to accompany the order and balance to be paid when medicine is delivered.

205 NORTH SIXTH ST., upstairs,
St. Louis, Mo

The Most Refreshing Toilet Article.

CASSEBEER'S

QUININE HAIR TONIC.

(EAU DE QUININE.)

WILL preserve, cultivate, beautify, arrest the fall of and confer a silken softness to the Hair, and will not soil the most delicate fabric. Price, $1.